WARNING

STOP AND READ BEFORE CONTINUINING ANY FARTHER!

This series is named RED FLAGS for a damn good reason.

A little warning before the warning. There is dubious consent in thi They are star-crossed lovers who have followed one another througho to battle against opposing odds. This book is DARK AS FUCK. It I that is twisted and shouldn't be attempted at home. I don't even think it a love story, but rather a precautionary tale. Aderyn isn't a victim been cursed because of something she CHOSE to do. The men in this all cursed because of her choice. There are severed limbs, murreferences to rape, and scenes from the past that depict rape and tor you are uncomfortable with that, please, don't read it. Khaos doesn her or rape her. Aderyn isn't a damsel, and she's done some twist which isn't revealed yet to the reader. This ends with one of then murdered, but they'll be back in part two. DEDICATION

This one is for the girls who decide not to be the damsel but survive ur duress. The ones who refuse to sink when the world weights down at you. The darkest tales are oftentimes read by those who have been bat by flames but refused to be burned as they stepped from the fire. You beautiful, chaotic badass. Do not ever hide your madness or magic, for true magic and uniquely yours.

For those who like things a little darker, a little rougher, and a lot twisted. This series is for the broken ones, the misunderstood ones, at ones who refuse to sink. Life is not lived in the light, for without t darkness, you'd never see the beauty it has to offer you. Like the Not Lights, you shine ever-so-brightly in a dull, dreary world. Never hide to allow anyone else to dull it for anyone else to shine brighter than

CHAPTER ONE

THE PAST

BLOOD COVERED MY WEDDING gown, staining it crimson, wheavy, sharp scent of blood filled the air inside the church. The something soft and squishy in the crease of my breasts—brain matter likely. A violent tremor rushed through me as the muffled screams or the church. It sounded as if my head were beneath water, or they were away than they really were. Movement in front of me forced my eye devil himself, who was watching through the shattered windowpane house of worship's many windows.

A malicious, sinister smile curved his generous lips as he held me prisoner. The bouquet in my fingers shook, and blood dripped from ruined petals as tears slipped down my cheeks. There was a jarring the made me want to flee, but running wouldn't help me now. Nothing The Devil of London wasn't someone you ran from. I'd tried before had ended badly for me.

The sense of impending doom churned through me as the harpsicho crescendo. Admittedly, it offered a haunting backdrop to the morbic unfolding around me. The sickening crunch of bones being severed by

CHAPTER TWO

KHAOS

Merikh held Aderyn's naked body against his frame, and when I'd f pulling her chemise on over her head, I met his cold, emerald-colored didn't need the asshole to tell me I'd gone too far tonight. I knew I l never expected to enter the church and find my wife standing before a declaring to love another man until death.

"Tonight, shouldn't have happened. You should've walked in and reher. It should've been that fucking easy."

"You ever walk in on your wife marrying another man, Merikh?" I the question making my mouth taste sour.

"No, but I watched the love of my fucking existence walk off with I friend, who was one of the few men I've ever respected enough to brother." Ouch, that one stung. "I can't say I wouldn't have done the shit, but this reincarnation of her, it's not the same as the others. Some evil bitch who enjoys murdering humans. This girl isn't some who'd fuck her way to the top. She's soft curves and shy glances. I isn't the same woman we both loved."

"No, she isn't, but it changes nothing. She's the same soul who with the gods and got us all cursed to be denied the one thing we want a fucking incubus who can't fuck the one woman I have loved simmoment I set my sights on her. Yet, if I don't fuck, I'll go mad and sl thousands of humans until the bloodlust wanes."

They had cursed me to never have the one woman I craved. My w soulmate. If I fucked her, she'd end up dying on me. The momer begun to learn one another or get close, the secondary curse came in forcing hatred to burn like poison through our veins.

I wouldn't chance it, no matter how badly I craved to feel the mace eyes. I pleasure her body would give me. So, to prevent the bloodlust from I had. I'd found my release with nameless women who I forgot before my come drip from their cunts. She hated me for it, but she didn't know I hated than she could understand. No one would ever hold a candle to the permoved she'd once given me. "It could be worse, asshole. At least you can me? I can only get off inside your wife." He grunted when I turned eyes on him. "Save it for your enemies. I haven't asked you to let no her again, have I?"

ny best I hated that he'd been cursed to find release only with Aderyn, which call my ignored for the most part.

They cursed Aderyn to be reborn with no memories of our past. Ev he isn't she'd lived had been horrid and filled with pain. "There's a coach outside with a casket within it," I stated as I reached into my cloak which she wore and withdrew the injection. "In it, you'll find plague masks and robes for you to wear. If you are stopped and questioned, you're taking the body of Lady Elizabeth Cameron to the sick house for an autopsy. Tell them you're verifying that it is the plague before reporting your findings to the king."

"And you, Khaos?" Merikh asked.

"Once our people are safely onto the ships, Ryat's going to help me burn London to the ground. Then, I am going to remind those assholes why no one fucks with us or my girl." Staring at her soft features pushed into Merikh's chest, I frowned.

I hated that the moment we'd started bonding, the curses had ignited, and she'd turned against me. No matter how hard I loved her, she pushed away. If I softened against her, everything inside me turned into harsh edges that cut as I pushed her away.

The gods had ensured we'd never love one another again, all because she'd gone mad and flaunted her reach over them. Even before humans roamed this word, I'd promised to find her in every rebirth and work to remove the curses the gods had placed on us. Everything I did moved us closer to that end because, if I failed, we'd end up killing one another as the gods wanted us to do. Either way, Aderyn was the other half of my soul, and I would rather die than live without her. It was as simple, and complicated as that.

CHAPTER SIX

IF I HAD BEEN smarter, I would not have baited the beast. I never of to have common sense, though. My fingers twitched with the need around his magnificent cock, but thoughts of his messages ran through. This sadistic bastard was getting married. His charm, we gentlemanly ways had utterly blinded me again. It had been a cold away when I had realized my mistake.

"Go into the bathroom and clean yourself up, Aderyn. There's b your hair and on your lovely face." Releasing his hold on me, he toward a closet behind the desk. "Now. I do not have all night to w you."

I walked toward the only other doorway in the room, yanking n down. The door led into a spacious bathroom filled with cabinets inside, I covered my mouth with my hands, bent at the waist, and bat need to scream in frustration. Of everything I had expected tonight spanked in front of the Shadow, or to discover Nasir planned to wed had not been on the list. My chin quivered as my hands slid to my st hugging myself tightly. I stayed like that for a long moment before I the air slowly from my lungs and straightened.

I opened the door beneath the sink and glared at the photo of a couple. Vanessa was what every man wanted. Her hair was blonde v occasional dark highlight, and her body was long and lusciously Azure eyes, framed by fake eyelashes, sparkled with laughter as he wh in her ear as they snapped the photo. Pushing it back into the cupl ignored the stack of washcloths and grabbed a roll of toilet pape flicked on the faucet.

Mascara had run down my cheeks. I had smeared my lip gloss, and I to curl was a mess. After removing the hairpins and tie, I shook my hair from the updo. It wasn't great, but it was better than it had been. I ran the it, and paper under the water, then removed my makeup altogether. The door alkening as I was cleaning away the last of the blood, and Khaos stood in the downwallowing up the space. Ignoring him, I moved to clean the tacky reload in from my lashes.

"You look good with mascara smeared all over your gorgeous face,
"Don't call me that," I snapped icily. Khaos squinted at me as h

CHAPTER EIGHT

KHAOS

THE DELICIOUS SCENT OF watermelons, sugar, and lemonade from the woman slumbering in my bed. Aderyn was my drug of choic heroin, she hummed through my veins, filling me with adrenaline, ho ecstasy. She fought me so hard, but it mattered little. The Fates fo together time and time again.

I hated that her dreams were filled with horrors from when I'd faprotect her. We had thought she had perished, as she'd done many before. Both Merikh and I had sat beside her unmoving corpse for a entire month while hunters had fought to steal her from me. Only whad begun decomposing had, we agreed to bury her corpse in a hidder deep within the bayou of Louisiana. I'd been prepared to uproot everythus to whichever continent she'd be born on next.

Whatever the hunters had done to Aderyn when they'd captured her altered her, and when she died that time, she hadn't stayed dead. It w they had forced her into a strange, new stage of existing. She'd awoker that wooden box and clawed her way out of the earthen tomb I'd pla in.

And when she emerged?

She'd changed.

Aderyn hadn't lost her memory, but it had been altered. I had becce enemy once more, which I'd been fine playing. It kept our curse igniting and us seeking to end one another. From what we had learned her broken, disjointed retelling before she'd abandoned us, she'd walk the French Quarter, and there, they'd detained her for hysterics. But had been arrested, I would have known. I'd personally placed eyes of fucking corner of the Quarter to know when the hunters who'd capture drifted slithered out of the shadows.

I'd discovered the hunters' encampment, which had been nothing the Like I'd discovered the hunters' encampment, which had been nothing to skeletal remains. It looked as if a wild animal had torn the hunters to and scattered them throughout the bayou. But I'd scented the cold, must tang of magic drifting on the breeze and in the swamps. ADERYN

THE WEIGHT HOLDING ME down caused a cold sweat to trickle do spine. Prying one eye open, I searched the strange room I'd woken Wallpaper covered the walls in a calming shade of slate gray. Crown n lined the ceiling around the walls, which were covered in portraits o me. In each one, I was in a risqué pose with lace petticoats. Unlike the the club, these didn't shield my face. The artist had captured anoth apparently. Because in each image, I looked smitten by the person ca it.

One in particular was from New Orleans, where I'd brazenly worn at top. I'd finished the look off with underskirts of varying shades rainbow. I had done my hair in an intricate updo, but instead of pins them in place, we'd used thin slices of material to hold the dark lo Damaris had applied kohl to my eyes, and then rogue to my full, plur I'd felt beautiful in the crazy, very risqué outfit. For that time, scandalizing to wear underclothes in sight of anyone else.

My boldness didn't impress Khaos. He'd told me to sit down in a ch then summoned an artist to paint my image. He'd damn near thr canvas at me, and told me how pathetically desperate I'd looked o artist had finished painting my image. I'd taken the portrait and fled the hall, choosing to hide within my chamber for days sulking. But he'd Why? To remind himself how pathetic I'd been back then?

Dismissing the memory, I examined the opulent chandeliers, glittered rainbow prisms all over the room. Thousands of tiny sp crystals dangled from silver bars lining the ceiling. SOMETHING WOKE ME FROM a dead sleep. Pushing up from the I'd faceplanted into earlier, after being unable to put down the newest 'Boneyard Tides' from Amo Jones, I listened for the disturbance. A of thunder sounded overhead, before violet light lit up the blinds cover window inside my room. Dropping back down to the pillow, I groaned flipping onto my back, staring up at the colorful light display fr Turkish lamp on my nightstand.

The last twenty-four hours had sucked, mostly. Admittedly, I'd fe emotions during them than I had in the last decade. It had been nice those I'd come to think of as family, but I couldn't go back. It would the same as it had been before. Plus, I was currently planning to brink Khaos's kingdom.

Thunder clapped loudly, and I kicked off the comforter and stretch on the bed, whispering the spell for the oil burner to ignite as a dispread around the room. Lifting my knees, I felt the cool air drifting to the thinly laced midnight-blue pajama shorts I'd thrown on after shows
