As he stared at her, Philip's tightly clasped hands tightened and loosened, again and again. A while later, he stood up abruptly and shouted at the door, "Jason!"

Jason quickly entered. "Boss."

Philip's sinister eyes stared fixedly at Iris, the corners of his lips curling into a mocking arc. He ordered, "Return to shore!"

Jason was surprised, and he looked at Iris. In the end, he nodded. "Okay."

The cruise ship made a U-turn ahead and went straight back the same way it came.

Philip sat in the room for a long time. He didn't go for a shower.

He merely stared at Iris in astonishment until she opened her eyes and glanced at him. Her tone was a little light and her voice pitifully soft.

Her words were clearly so gentle, yet also so cruel. She said, “Philip, aren’t you doing everything you want because you know that I like you, so I won’t bear to kill you? I can also do the same.”

er

Philip stared at her in shock.

This was the first time in so many years that Iris had said that she liked him.

He was even somewhat crying with joy. His eyes were damp as he stared at her. “Iris, you like me. You admitted it. As I expected, you do like me, right?”

Iris pulled her hand back and turned her head to look away.

Philip continued. “Then let’s be together? Your son has already died, so no one can tie you down anymore. Come with me.”

Iris let out an icy laugh. She looked at him and said, “If you insist on taking me with you, then what you’ll eventually take with you will surely only be my dead body.”

II

11

The room was awfully quiet. One could only hear the waves outside.

Philip looked at the stubborn Iris. He didn’t understand.

“Iris, I like you so much, and you also return my feelings. We are in love with each other. Why can’t we be together?”

Iris replied, “Perhaps... this is what they mean when they say it’s not meant to be.”

Sometimes, love was letting go and fulfilling oneself.

But Philip would never understand the meaning of these words.

He would never ever understand what it meant.

Iris didn't want to discuss this with him anymore. She found it pointless. She just wanted to go home now. She wanted to go back to New York and return to the people who needed her.

Philip looked at her, her cold attitude making him mad as he gritted his teeth. He clenched his fists tightly. After a while, he finally said, "I can let you go back and have a look if that's what you want, but once you've seen them, you must leave with me at once! Iris, I told you, I love you. Even if what I'll take with me is your dead body, no one can separate us!"

After saying that, Philip stood up abruptly. After he went out, Jason followed suit.

Philip looked back at the room. Then, he lowered his eyes and said, "Gather our men at the shore and tell them to wait there. After taking Iris to Justin's grave, we'll bring her back immediately."

Jason immediately asked, "What if King's men are also there?"

Philip narrowed his eyes. "That shouldn't be the case."

He lowered his eyes and said, "No matter what, I still have a bit of status in the Imperial League. Now that Justin is gone, I am the closest to Iris. King likely won't meddle in our affairs anymore."

After he said that, a ruthless look formed in his eyes. "But if he insists on meddling, then he can't blame me for not showing him courtesy anymore!"

Jason was stunned. He felt that his boss must have lost his mind. To think he dared to resist even King now! In the past, he more or less still had some reservations in his actions but there wasn't any left anymore.

But when he saw the bloodthirsty look in his boss' eyes, he could only nod and leave to make the arrangements.

As they had been sailing for a few days, it took two full days for them to return.

Two days later, when Iris saw the coastline in the distance, even her body—which Mrs. Landis was supporting—was trembling slightly.

She was about to go home. How she wished that the news she had heard was fake. Even now, she still felt like she was in a dream, as though none of this had ever happened; that Justin was not dead but was waiting for her to come home.

Switzerland.

In a room somewhere.

The room was large and the lighting was poor.

A low and hoarse voice slowly said, "They're back? That's quick."

Lawrence lowered his head. "Yes, they've already disembarked. They'll be heading to New York soon."

"Well, since they're back, then let's save Mom."

The man opposite him spoke again.

Lawrence nodded. "I've already arranged for our men to be there. However, our men ultimately still have to think twice before they act in the country, so they may not be as liberal as Philip's men. I'm afraid that when the time comes for them to fight it out, accidents may happen."

In the shadows, the man with his back to Lawrence fell silent. A while later, he finally said, "Find a way to notify Nora about this. If she is there, she will help."

Lawrence sighed. “I’m afraid you’re just trying to delay her from coming to Switzerland, right?! But Boss, considering how smart Ms. Smith is, will she really be unable to guess what you’ve done?”

The man didn’t answer his question. He merely stood by the dark window for a long time. A while later, he finally turned around slowly.

At the sight of his current appearance, the startled Lawrence was alarmed. “Boss, you...”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 807 - I'M Here To Pick You Up!

New York City, USA.

Iris stood in front of Justin's grave and stared at the tombstone in shock.

The Hunts were actually supposed to be buried in the family cemetery in California after their deaths. By right, his body should have been returned there, after which all of his assets would be split among the inheritors.

However, Nora had refused to send the body there.

Instead, she wanted him to stay in New York with her until she died, whereupon the family could then move her and Justin's graves to California together.

With those words of hers, Mrs. Hunt had immediately made up her mind to have Justin buried in the cemetery in the outskirts of New York.

After all, people would be lonely without company after death.

Justin and Nora weren't legally married yet, so she was not considered his wife at all. Should Nora meet another man suitable for marriage in the future and remarry, she would not be able to be buried in their family cemetery anymore.

Now that Nora had said that, how could Mrs. Hunt possibly still make life difficult for her?

If she could keep Nora in the family and have her protect Pete's inheritance for him-such that the Smiths and the Hunts would still have a connection to each other-even if she wanted Mrs. Hunt to wait upon her every day, Mrs. Hunt would be willing to do so.

Therefore, it was a very easy decision for her to have Justin buried in New York.

It was just that when Iris looked at the tombstone in front of her and at Justin's photo on it... It was an ID photo of him. In the photo, his expression was stern and serious and he didn't smile. His eyes were cold and there was a beauty mark at the corner of his eye.

Iris still felt that all of this wasn't real.

She shook slightly as she stood there...

After standing there for some time until Iris's legs had turned weak, Philip took a step forward and held her hand. "You have already seen him. Now, let's go!"

However, Iris remained where she was and said, "I want to go home! Nora and the others need me!"

Philip's expression darkened at once. "Iris, you should already count your blessings that I allowed you to come back! Don't push your luck!"

But Iris shook her head and said, "Justin is gone but he left behind three children and Nora. I have to go see them and help them get through this difficult time! I need to be with my family!"

Philip frowned. "I only agreed to let you come back and have a look. I didn't agree to let you stay. Iris, Justin is already gone. Do you think you can still escape?"

After he spoke, he grabbed Iris's wrist!

Iris lowered her eyes and sneered, "Here in New York, do you think that no one will come and save me just because Justin is gone?"

She balled up her fists tightly and suddenly looked around her. At once, seven to eight black-clad bodyguards swarmed out and walked towards them.

Philip lowered his gaze when he saw them. He let out a low laugh and said, “I’ve always known that you are no bimbo and that you would definitely build your own forces. You said things like you didn’t want so many people to disturb your son’s peace, so you only allowed me to come here with you... But do you think these few guys can stop me?”

He clapped.

The bodyguards who were waiting outside rushed in.

Fifteen to sixteen men immediately surrounded the seven to eight bodyguards.

Iris paled.

She’d originally thought that Philip would not go too overboard. Also, she’d only made use of her son just so she could stay and assist Pete, so even if Justin were to know what she had done, he wouldn’t blame her for disturbing his peace.

Unexpectedly, Philip had made a backup plan.

In this regard, she ultimately still couldn’t compare with Philip.

Iris bit her lip and clenched her fists.

After the dozen or so men restrained the seven to eight bodyguards, Philip clasped Iris’s shoulders tightly again and said, “Let’s go. Don’t bother seeking death anymore. If you’re dead, all the more you won’t be able to see your grandchildren anymore.”

Iris wouldn’t seek death in vain, of course!

She was so mad that she couldn’t say anything

At this moment, a young and tender voice reached her.

“Grandma! Little Cherry is here to pick you

up!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 808 - The Big Sister Of The Quinn School Of Martial Arts?

When the voice rang out, Philip frowned and turned to look outside.

He'd initially thought that it must be a large group who had come, but in the end, he only saw Nora walk in leisurely with her three children.

Philip breathed a sigh of relief.

Instead, it was Iris who panicked when she saw them. She shouted, "Nora, why did you bring the children here? This has nothing to do with you guys, hurry and leave this place! I don't want you to accidentally hurt yourselves!"

Nora's gait was slow and lazy as if she had to use a lot of strength even just to walk. As she shuffled, she yawned.

It couldn't be helped.

Philip and Iris had come to the cemetery early in the morning. She was usually still asleep at this hour. Although she'd received news that they would be coming over the day before, she couldn't just go to bed at noon, right?

In the end, she waited until 8 PM before she went to sleep. After that, she'd woken up at 6 AM, resulting in a lack of sleep.

She was terribly sleepy. Pete handed her a piece of tissue and said, "Mommy, wipe your tears."

Nora took the tissue and casually wiped her eyes. Then, another small hand reached towards her. When she looked down, she found that it was Xander's. Seeing her lower her head, he looked at the tissue in her hand and said, "I'll hold it for you."

Only after Nora handed Xander the tissue that she'd wiped her tears with did she look ahead of her.

Just as she was about to say something, she couldn't help but yawn again.

Pete and Xander: "..."

Cherry, who had long been accustomed to her behavior, decided to just speak in her stead.

"Grandma, don't worry! Pete, Xander, and I won't get hurt! If that fierce grandpa dares to hit us, then I will get Mommy to smash his butt into pieces!"

Iris: "..."

Philip: "..."

The corners of Philip's lips spasmed a little and he glanced at Iris. When he saw her staring at him, he said, "You guys can go. I won't do anything to children."

Just like back then, even though Iris had rejected him and chosen to stay in the suburbs of New York because of Justin, he hadn't taken any action against Justin.

Iris breathed a sigh of relief when she heard this. She looked at Nora and said, "Nora, stop this and take the children away. Although Philip has said he won't do anything to the children, it would be terrible if they got hurt."

Nora nodded. She looked down at the three children and said, "You three, stand aside."

"Okie-Dokie!"

"Okay."

"Kay."

After the three children respectively answered in their own ways, they looked at one another. In the end, they ran to a corner at the side where even if a fight broke out, it probably wouldn't reach them.

After they took their positions there, Cherry shouted again, "Grandma, don't be afraid! We're here to take you home!"

Iris: "..."

Philip: "..."

The corners of Philip's lips spasmed again. He looked at Nora and said, "Don't waste your breath. Do you know how many of my men are waiting outside?"

As they were coming to America this time, in order to prevent Iris from playing tricks, as well as to prevent Justin's men from saving Iris, Philip had brought almost a hundred mercenaries with him.

Upon hearing what he said, Nora rubbed her wrists and picked up her cell phone impatiently to check the time.

Then, she said, "Relax, it's almost time."

Philip: "?"

Nora was about to explain when Jason suddenly rushed in and shouted, "Boss, I don't know why, but New York's underworld forces are here! We have been surrounded!"

The underworld forces of New York?

By right, mercenary and the underworld were two different worlds, they shouldn't have anything to do with each other. What were New York's underworld forces doing here?

Even Philip was a little dumbfounded. He looked at Nora in astonishment and asked, "For you to be able to get the underworld forces to do your bidding, how much did you spend?"

At this moment, people from the Quinn School of Martial Arts also walked in. Behind them was a group of thugs, each with a baseball bat in their hands. They looked just like ruffians and they were led by a thick and muscular Jordan.

As it was still early, there wasn't anyone around the area. Coupled with the fact that this was a cemetery, the surroundings were even quieter than usual.

Jason said, "They are all people from the underworld. Although they didn't bring firearms with them-probably to avoid accidentally hurting the children-because Ms. Iris had said that cemeteries are sacred ground and we shouldn't bring firearms here, we didn't bring any with us this time, either... Also, for some reason, they're all skilled martial artists. That man named Jordan Hoffman offed Paul Quinlan, a boss from New York's dark forces, some time ago and is now the new leader of the city's dark forces. It is said that he owns a car racing club, so by right, he shouldn't be short of money..."

Philip took a step forward and asked, "... Mr. Hoffman, I also have some dealings with New York's underworld forces. Is there some kind of misunderstanding between us?"

Jordan didn't want to offend Philip, either, of course.

Although Philip was not from America, he nevertheless had a lot of influence globally.

He coughed and replied, "Sorry, Mr. Coleman, but I have no other choice. I owe the Quinn School of Martial Arts' Big Sister a favor. Now that she has given the word, I can't disobey her."

Philip had no choice but to look at the people from the Quinn School of Martial Arts. He said, "I have no grievances or feuds with the Quinn School of Martial Arts. Why is Big Sister hostile toward me? Is it because the Hunts offered you money? How much did they offer you? I can give you double the amount!"

His gaze landed on Lucas.

Lucas was known to outsiders as the Quinn School of Martial Arts' manager. Philip didn't want to become enemies with the Quinn School of Martial Arts, so he said, "Mr. Lucas, I wonder if that's okay with you?"

Philip said, "We have also worked with each other before. Every time I'm in America, I pay the Quinn School of Martial Arts a visit. We can be said to have some ties with each other, so why become enemies?"

Upon hearing this, Lucas glanced at Nora, coughed, and said, "Um, Big Sister personally gave the order today, so I can't call the shots here. Mr. Coleman, we don't wish to become enemies with you, either. As long as you let Madam Iris go, we can still be friends."

Big Sister again?

The Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts was well-known everywhere, but she was too mysterious and was nowhere to be seen. No one knew who she was.

A curious Philip stepped in front of Iris and asked, "Has Big Sister personally come today? May I know who it is? Can we talk this out properly?" Upon hearing this, Nora yawned again and stepped forward. "What do you want to talk about?"

Chapter 809 - Release Her!!

Nora was simply too sleepy and she kept yawning again and again.

She looked up at Philip and slowly asked, “What do you want to talk about?”

Her voice was a little hoarse and carried a bit of impatience from having just woken up.

Philip: “?”

His brows drew together tightly.

Jason said, “The one we want to talk to is Big Sister. Ms. Smith, you...”

But before he could finish, something suddenly dawned on him and he looked at Nora in disbelief. Then, he turned to Philip. “Boss...”

Philip lowered his gaze, his lips suddenly curling into a smile.

“I see, Ms. Smith is none other than the Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts! No offense, but do you really want to interfere in the affairs between me and Iris?”

His voice was clear and he spoke in an exceptionally relaxed manner. “There are some misunderstandings between Iris and me, so we are in the midst of a petty lovers’ argument right now. Considering how deeply in love Ms. Smith and Justin are, you should understand, right? You won’t want to split up a pair of lovers, right?”

Nora looked at Philip and said, “Women have become independent these days. Whether she wants to continue her relationship with you or not, and whether she wants to leave with you or not, is entirely up to my god-S... Aunt Iris to decide.”

Philip: “?”

Nora raised her eyebrows again. “Release her and I’ll let all of you leave safely. Otherwise, Mr. Coleman, you might as well stay here for the countdown on New Year’s eve.”

Philip broke into a huge frown.

Next to him, Jason said, “Boss, we can let her go right now. We’ll just find a way to take her away again in the future.”

Philip took a deep breath and looked at Iris.

He’d thought that with the Smiths and the Hunts’ capabilities, they would not be able to keep him here in America.

Never had he ever imagined that the Quinn School of Martial Arts and New York’s underworld forces would also get involved. If he met them head-on, his hundred or so men would surely be goners.

Philip was a man who knew how to retreat when he should.

Yet if he were to let Iris go just like that... He didn’t want to!

At the side, the three children stood on their tippy-toes as they watched the show. Xander asked, “Will he let Grandma go?”

Cherry replied, “That fierce grandpa definitely will!”

Pete nodded. “Yeah, he won’t hurt Grandma.”

However, Cherry said, “That’s not necessarily true. But since Mommy is here, there definitely won’t be any problem!”

Pete and Xander: “...”

The three chatted happily. At this moment, a foreign mercenary not far from them suddenly rushed towards them! He stood right in front of the three children, looked at Nora, and threatened, “Let us go! Or else I will kill your children!”

Nora: “?”

Everyone raised their eyebrows and looked at Philip reproachfully.

Iris shouted, “No!”

She looked at Philip and said angrily, “Philip, is this the moral boundary that you claimed to have? Didn’t you say that you wouldn’t do anything to the children?!”

Philip didn’t expect this turn of events, either. He clenched his fists and sneered, “You think I ordered him to do that?”

Iris let out a cold laugh. She wanted to say something but the mercenary at the side had already spoken again.

“Mr. Coleman, this is the only way we can leave safely. Even if you let that lady go, this group of people is still free to do whatever they want to us!”

Even if they handed Iris over, it was still entirely up to Nora whether she wanted to let them go or not.

Philip hated things going out of his control the most. To be honest, the best solution at the moment was to threaten them into letting them go with Iris’ safety, but Philip couldn’t bring himself to do that.

He narrowed his eyes and looked at the three children blocked by the man. He’d thought that the children would be very panicked and flustered, but unexpectedly, all three of them were very calm.

In particular, Cherry even gestured to themselves and then turned to Pete and Xander and said, “I think he may kidnap me! I’m a girl, so I’m the weakest among us!”

Philip lowered his gaze. For some reason, even though Cherry looked somewhat like Nora, he instead saw a semblance of Iris on Cherry’s face.

Even the look in his eyes had softened a little.

The tense atmosphere had calmed down significantly.

Philip expelled a breath of air and slowly said, “Let the...”

But before he could say the words “three of them go”, the mercenary reached out to grab Cherry.

Philip’s brows drew together.

Iris also took a step forward and shouted, “Let go of Cherry!”

Everyone wanted to snatch the child. Nora was the only one who remained where she was, calm and motionless. The next moment, the man who was about to grab Cherry suddenly screamed. He suddenly retracted the arm he’d stretched towards Cherry and took two steps back.

His arm was outstretched straight and there were a few needles stuck into it!

Additionally, a dagger had also been stabbed into it. His arm dripped with blood, forming an unbearable sight!

Pete had stabbed him with the dagger.

After practicing martial arts with Quinn for some time, he’d already picked up some skills.

Justin had custom-made the dagger for him after he and Xander were kidnapped, and it was exceptionally durable.

Xander was the one who had jabbed the man with needles.

Recently, he had been learning from Nora which parts of the body would hurt more when attacked and he remembered the two particular locations on the arm.

Additionally, he’d also specially asked Nora to custom-make a few needles for him. He carried them with him everywhere, euphemistically calling it his form of self-defense.

Cherry looked at Pete, and then at Xander. At last, she pouted and said, “Mommy, you and Daddy are too biased! Why don’t I have any self-defense skills?!”

Nora: “...”

Pete immediately explained, “When Daddy gave me the dagger, he told me that it was for me to protect you.”

Xander also pursed his lips and said, “When Mommy gave me the needles, I also said that I would protect you.”

With straight faces, the two of them said, “So, you don’t need any self-defense skills. The two of us are your self-defense skills.”

Nora: “...”

Those two boys with a sister complex!

After the man was repelled, Lucas, who was the nearest to him, rushed over to subdue him. The three children were also successfully protected.

Nora didn’t look at the three children. Instead, she looked at Philip and said domineeringly, “Let her go.”

Chapter 810 - I'M Going To Look For Justin

Philip didn't look at Iris but stepped aside instead.

When Iris walked out from behind Philip, she was still a little in disbelief. After being trapped by him for half a month, she had become used to it. She didn't expect that she would really be freed.

She took two quick steps forward and came right up to Nora's side.

Nora looked at her.

Iris knew what she meant. She shook her head.

Only then did Nora give a casual wave. With that, the people from the Quinn School of Martial Arts and Jordan's men moved out of the way and allowed Philip to leave.

Philip, however, looked at Iris. "Iris, you can't bear to let us fight, right? I know you are afraid that I would get hurt, so that means I have a place in your heart, right? So why can't we be together?"

Iris lowered her eyes and sighed silently. "Philip, do you know what the biggest regret in my life is?"

Philip immediately answered, "That you didn't leave with me back then!"

However, Iris merely smiled wryly. She really didn't know where the man was getting all that confidence from. Word by word, she said, "My biggest regret is meeting you back then."

Philip stumbled and he stood still. "What?"

Iris slowly said, “I said, my biggest regret is getting to know you. If I didn’t know you, maybe I would have been able to live in peace my whole life, right? I could happily get a divorce if I wanted to, and go wherever I wanted to, instead of being trapped by you in the suburbs of New York City for twenty years!”

Philip couldn’t believe it. “Iris, I don’t believe you. You must be trying to provoke me. Otherwise, why would you make Nora let me go so easily?”

Iris lowered her head. “I just don’t want to have anything to do with you anymore. I hope you can respect yourself and never approach me or disturb my life ever again!”

After saying that, Iris turned and left with Nora while Philip stood where he was.

“Iris! You’re lying! Everything you said is a lie!”

Philip shouted and rushed over to chase after her. However, he was stopped by Lucas and the others.

“Mr. Coleman, don’t force us to take action against you.” After Nora and Iris left, Lucas and the others also left one after another.

Only Philip and his men were left.

A shocked Philip stared in the direction that Iris had left. After standing there for some time, he finally looked at Jason and asked, “Tell me, Jason, have I really made a mistake?”

Jason sighed. “Boss, let’s go home.”

Philip shook his head. “Without her, where would my home be?”

Jason fell silent.

His boss’ love was simply too extreme. Probably no woman, no matter how strong or powerful she was, would be able to stand his love, let alone Iris.

Jason was about to say something when Philip suddenly turned around with a cold look on his face. He looked at the man who had tried to grab Cherry just now and suddenly demanded, “Who asked you to attack the child?”

Philip was not a good man.

But for Iris, he'd wanted to keep the last bit of his moral boundaries in front of her.

Upon being questioned by Philip, the man got a huge shock and he got down on his knees right away. “Boss, I was just trying to save you!”

Philip, however, lowered his eyes, turned, and strode away.

Jason, who was following him, heard him say, “There is no need for a man who can't follow orders to return with us.”

Jason understood at once.

“Yes, sir.”

This meant that he was going to get rid of the man!

Jason followed closely behind Philip. “Boss, you can explain to Ms. Iris that you didn't order the man to do that. This way, maybe she won't blame you anymore.”

Philip chuckled. “Would she believe anything I say?”

Jason was taken aback.

Philip said, “She didn't start getting angry at me because of this incident.”

—

Iris, who had returned home with Nora, was currently looking at the three precious children. With a sorrowful face, she looked at Nora and suddenly said, “Nora, if you have anything you want to do, then just go ahead and do it. I can look after the children.”

Now that Justin was gone, she didn't want to trap Nora with the Hunts.

If Justin was still alive, he probably wouldn't want Nora to be alone for the rest of her life, either.

For her son's sake, Iris had already been miserable all her life. She didn't want Nora to be like her.

Upon hearing this, Nora immediately said, "Yeah, well, it just so happens that I'm about to go and look for Justin too. I'll leave the Hunt Corporation to you for now!"

Iris was stunned by her words. She grabbed Nora's shoulders and said, "... Don't be sad. It has already happened, you have to face reality."

Nora: "?"

She was taken aback for a while. Then, she said, "I'm not sad!"

Iris, however, became nervous. "I understand, you may not be able to accept right away the fact that Justin is gone, but Nora, if you want to cry, then just cry. You don't have to put up pretenses in front of me."

She hugged Nora and continued comforting her. "Justin wouldn't want you to be like this. He loves you so much, he would definitely want you to be happy. Don't waste your own life, life is not just about romance. Besides, you can still find another man if you meet a suitable one in the future... I know it's not appropriate of me to say such things now, but I'm really afraid that you would do something silly... No matter what, you have to stay strong. You still have your father and your children, okay?"

Nora: "??!"

Only then did she realize that she hadn't yet told Iris that Justin wasn't dead!

Chapter 811 - Admiring The Scenery In Justin'S Stead

Nora hurriedly said, "Iris... There's something I have to tell you. Justin is..."

"Let's not talk about him anymore, okay? If you're going to look for him, then I'd rather you forget him. Nora, one's life is what matters the most, remember this."

Iris looked at her, her eyes were full of heartache. "I'd always thought that you're a calm and rational person but it turns out that you are just like everyone else when you encounter something like this. Nora, I didn't expect you to love Justin so much. You really shouldn't do anything silly..."

Nora: "..."

The corners of her lips spasmed. At last, Nora found a break in Iris' speech and interrupted her.

"Justin is not dead."

"I know, I know."

Iris nodded.

Nora was stunned. "You do?"

Iris's eyes became even redder. "Yes, he is not dead. He will always live on in your heart."

Nora: "?"

Iris sighed and held her hand. "You should live on properly with him. Justin was only twenty-six years old when he said goodbye to this world. Take him with you as you look at every place in this world.” Nora: “...”

“He’d want you to become his eyes and admire the Northern Lights and the frozen Antarctic that stretches on for miles. He’d also want to watch the three children grow up and have their own families... Nora, can you promise me that you’ll look at all this for him??”

The corners of Nora’s lips spasmed again. At last, she said, “He’s not dead yet. He has eyes too, he can see all that himself.”

Iris: “?”

She was stunned. “Nora, when you say he’s not dead, you mean...?”

Nora nodded. “It’s exactly what you’re thinking. He’s still alive, so he can look at this world! He’s not dead!”

Iris: “!!”

The room fell silent for a moment.

After a while, Iris finally understood. Nevertheless, she still asked, “Then where did he go? And why did he fake his death?”

Nora recounted what had happened. In the end, she shook her head and said, “I’m not sure about the specifics, either. He’s in Switzerland now. Now that you’re back, I’m going to Switzerland to look for him.”

Iris asked, “He hasn’t contacted you yet?”

Nora nodded, vaguely feeling a little uneasy. Iris frowned. “Surely he didn’t hit his head in the explosion and lose his memory, right?”

Nora: “?”

Iris sighed. “That’s why he hasn’t contacted you all this time—because he has forgotten you. Nora, you should go to him now, but maybe he has already been rescued and is mistaking his rescuer for his lover in his daze. If that’s the case, then Nora, hurry and bring him home!”

Nora: “???”

Did she think this was a TV drama? Or a novel?

How could something that corny possibly happen?!

The corners of Nora’s lips spasmed. “Well, I have to go to Switzerland now, so I will leave the domestic affairs to you. As for the children... I will have to trouble you to take care of them!”

The journey to Switzerland was fraught with unknown dangers and the V16’s whereabouts were still a mystery. Moreover, once she left the States, her days would no longer be this peaceful and crises might happen at any time. Therefore, Nora would never take the children abroad with her.

Iris understood what she meant. “Although I don’t know what you guys are planning, since Justin had to fake his death, it must be very important. This is what the two of you have decided. As for me, I shall be your firm and solid support.

“So, Nora, go ahead. Leave the children to me! There won’t be any problems!”

Nora nodded.

After handing over the company to Iris, Nora went out. By then, it was already noon. She didn’t want to waste even a day, so she got Lily to buy her a plane ticket to Switzerland for the same night.

It was just that... How was she going to tell the three children-especially Cherry—that Mommy would be away for a while?

Cherry was very clingy to Nora. In the past, even when Nora was sleeping, the little girl would stay in the same room as her. Later, after she and Justin acknowledged each other as father and daughter, she was occasionally separated from her, but even so, she would still want to meet her every two or three days.

It could be said that Cherry had never been away from Nora since she was born.

This time, though, Nora would probably be away for a month at the shortest, or three months at the longest before she would be back...

She didn't know how to explain it to Cherry.

While she was troubled over this, Pete and Xander came out of their rooms. The two little boys looked at Nora. "Mommy, are you going to Switzerland?"

Nora nodded.

She looked at Cherry, who was behind the two of them, and coughed. She slowly said, "I can't take the three of you with me this time. Stay at home and take good care of one another, okay?"

Pete and Xander looked at each other. "No problem!"

Sure enough, Cherry pouted. "Mommy, can't you take Cherry with you? I miss Grandaunt!" Nora shook her head. "I have something to do over there this time. I will be back as soon as possible."

Cherry hung her head.

The way she looked was as though she had been abandoned made Nora's heart soften.

Just as she was about to speak, Cherry raised her head. "Then say hi to Grandaunt for me."

"Okay..."

Nora answered.

Cherry turned around sulkily and said, "I won't see you off then, Mommy. I'm afraid it will make me sad."

Nora rubbed her head. “Okay.”

The little fellow really was very clingy, so she must really be very sad today.

Her sons were the boys they were, though. Pete and Xander didn’t react as pretentiously as Cherry did.

Nora then said, “Okay, I’ll go and pack for the trip. You guys can go play!”

“Okay.”

The three children ran off after replying.

After Nora packed her luggage, she went out to say goodbye to them. But when she thought of how Cherry had said that she would be sad, Nora simply got in the car and went straight to the airport instead.

However, as soon as she arrived at the airport, she received a call from Iris. “Nora, the children are missing!!”

Upon hearing this, Nora’s heart tightened.

Chapter 812 - 2 Daddy!!

Nora narrowed her eyes and looked straight ahead of her with a sharp look in them.

The kids were missing?

Philip likely hadn't left the country yet. Did he change his mind and decide to come back?

The thought had only just formed when something suddenly occurred to her, stunning her for a moment. She slowly turned her head and looked at the trunk of the car.

She was silent for a while. Suddenly, she walked over and opened the trunk, upon which she immediately saw the three little fellows hiding inside all curled up.

Cherry, who was at the innermost position, was trying to stretch her legs. "Pete, you're in my space!"

Pete shifted a little. "What about now?"

Xander complained, "You're kicking my butt!"

Nora: "..."

She let out a cough. Only then did the three little fellows raise their heads abruptly and look at Nora. Cherry didn't show any signs of sheepishness from being caught at all. On the contrary, she blinked and said, "Mommy, have we already reached the airport? That was quick-"

Her drawn-out last syllable when she spoke amused Nora.

These three little fellows were too daring!

To think they actually hid in the trunk! It was very dangerous for them to come all the way here like that!

This was especially true when she drove at high speeds. Fortunately, she was on the highway the whole way to the airport, so the roads had been very good. Also, because it was still early and she still had time until boarding, she hadn't been in a hurry and had driven leisurely.

With a displeased look on her face, Nora said, "Who said you guys can do something like this?"

Cherry immediately hugged her arm. "But Mommy, I can't bear to part with you—"

Nora lowered her eyes and took a deep breath. "I know, I can't bear to leave you, either. But there's something very important I need to do in Switzerland, so I can't take you guys with me."

Cherry hurriedly said, "I know, you are looking for medicine to treat Xander's illness, right? If so, then all the more we are going. I can even help Mommy."

Nora spoke very firmly. "No."

Pete said, "But Mommy, we really don't want to be separated from you. We've only just been reunited. Besides, the tyrant is not here anymore. If you leave too, then we..."

He did not finish his sentence.

But there was no doubt that the sensitive Pete must be feeling insecure.

Nora's heart softened a little. But after looking at the children, she nevertheless hardened her heart and said, "You don't have to say any more. I'm getting Uncle Richard to take the three of you home. You three absolutely cannot come with me this time!"

Given how dangerous the situation was, how could she possibly bring them along?

With that in mind, Nora turned to speak to the chauffeur, who had come with her. However, a small hand suddenly grabbed her wrist again.

She lowered her head to see Xander looking up at her. The little fellow was grinning. Whenever he spoke, there was always a somewhat unorthodox temperament around him, his canine teeth were so white that they were gleaming

He slowly said, “Mom, you said today that you’ll be in Switzerland for a month at the shortest and three at the longest, but you will definitely be back after that. But what if you can’t find the V16, have you thought about that? When you return three months later... Would it be to bury me? Just like how I buried Butterscotch in the soil, are you also going to bury me in there?”

His words completely breached Nora’s defenses.

She bent down, lowered her head, and put her arms around Xander. She said, “No, that won’t happen, Xander. Don’t worry, I will find the antidote for sure!”

Xander continued grinning as he said, “But it’s also possible that you won’t find it. If so, then I only have three months left to live.”

In a low whisper, he slowly said, “For these three months, I just want to be with you and the tyrant.”

The stunned Nora was frozen in place.

Indeed.

Her mindset all this time was that Xander had only less than three months left to live, so she had to try her best to find a way out for him. However, she’d neglected something-what if she couldn’t find one?

Then, in the last three months of Xander's life, was she going to be away from the boy's side?

She finally gave in. "Okay, I'll take the three of you with me!"

"Yay!" Cherry stretched out her arms and jumped right into Nora's arms excitedly. She circled her arms around Nora's neck and said, "Mommy is the best! At last, we don't have to be separated anymore!"

Pete was also relieved.

Xander beamed, his smile somewhat relieved and courageous.

Every time the topic of death came up, to be honest, he was terrified.

Come to think of it, though, if he could die in Mommy's arms, then it wouldn't seem that scary anymore.

There were still two hours till boarding time. Nora contacted Lily urgently and bought three first-class tickets for the children. Only then did she get out of the car with them.

The group didn't have much luggage. When they were walking to the airport, a troubled Pete even said, "Is it okay that we didn't bring any luggage? We don't even have a change of clothes..."

"Don't worry, Pete! Grandaunt will definitely get everything ready! I'll tell her right away that we're coming to see her soon! I guarantee that Grandaunt will definitely be there to pick us up when we get off the plane!"

As soon as she said that, Nora stopped her. "Don't tell your Grandaunt."

Cherry was surprised. "Why?" Nora explained, "We are going there secretly this time, it's not good for us to attract attention from too many people. So, we won't be going to your Grandaunt's for the time being."

Nora planned to infiltrate the university and search for the V16 straightaway.

Trueman and the other few experimental subjects must all be watching her, especially the expert fighter... She must keep as low a profile as possible!

Cherry was a little disappointed to hear this. "Oh, I see"

She missed her grandaunt so much!

Nevertheless, she nodded sensibly. "Okie-Dokie!"

Fifteen hours later, the plane landed in Bern, the de facto capital of Switzerland.

Nora had lived there for five years, so she was very familiar with everything about Switzerland.

She dragged the suitcase with Cherry sitting on top. Xander and Pete followed beside the suitcase. The group of four got off the plane.

There were foreigners all around, but since both Cherry and Xander had grown up abroad, they didn't find it unusual.

Although Pete had never been to Switzerland, he had been exposed to many things, so he was also very calm.

When the four of them were about to head to the exit, Nora suddenly stopped-because she saw a familiar figure in front!

Before she could react, Cherry had already slid off the suitcase. She ran over and shouted, "Daddy!"

Chapter 813 - Daddy??

Nora was also a little dumbfounded.

The side profile of the man in front was exactly the same as Justin's, especially the height of his nose bridge. Even the firm curvature of his jawline was the same as Justin's.

She was aware that Justin was in Switzerland, that was why she had come to look for him. However, the four of them had stayed very low-key when they came. In fact, when they were buying plane tickets, they had even gotten help from Morris to hide their identities.

Therefore, no one would know that she had come to Switzerland. So, how come Justin was here?

Moreover, if Justin showed up here, then wouldn't he have died for nothing? Er, she meant faked his death for nothing?

While Nora was thinking about this, Cherry had already rushed over. Just as she was about to touch 'Justin's arm, a few black-clad bodyguards suddenly rushed over and stopped Cherry. "Little girl, no going near, okay-?" Cherry: "?" She blinked and pointed at Justin. "I'm here for Daddy!"

But no matter what she said, the bodyguards simply wouldn't let her pass.

Cherry had no choice but to shout at the man standing beyond the bodyguards. "Daddy! Daddy! I'm Cherry! Don't you know who I am anymore?"

A puzzled Nora also quickly walked over.

Perhaps because he heard the commotion, "Justin' finally turned his head and looked over.

The moment he did, Nora and Cherry were stunned.

The man in front of them had a profile almost identical to Justin's, but when seen from the front, there was only a 30% resemblance. Also, the man was pale and a little sickly, and there was a sense of frailty in his eyes, which looked just like Justin's. His lips were slightly thicker than Justin's and he was wearing makeup. He wore heavy foundation which made him seem a little effeminate. The feeling he gave off was completely different from the cold, inadvertently noble, and sensual one that Justin had.

When he saw Cherry, he was taken aback for a moment. Then, he let out a low scoff. "Are you my fan? Fans these days are really just So... Do they bring their children with them when they go star-chasing now?"

Fans? Star-chasing?

Nora was dumbfounded.

"Ahhh! Kelvin! Look over here!"

While Nora was still in a daze, several female fans around her rushed forward and shouted, "We have been following you since we got to know that you're coming to Switzerland for filming! Kelvin, can you give us an autograph?"

When Kelvin Hart heard this, a touch of a smile flashed across his eyes. He covered his mouth and coughed. Then, he walked over, took the book from the fan, and signed it with a flourish.

Nora especially took a look at his signature his handwriting when he signed his name "Kelvin Hart" was also different from Justin's usual handwriting. She looked at Kelvin at close range again.

The man did indeed resemble Justin very much. However, his makeup was too heavy, so she couldn't tell what he really looked like...

She wanted to observe him some more, but a bodyguard had already walked over and blocked her prying eyes.

After Kelvin gave the fan an autograph, the fan said, “Kelvin, I will always cheer you on! I know you have been overseas for shoots all this time, but wherever you may be, our hearts will always be with you!”

Kelvin’s lips curled into a smile. His voice was calm and emotionless as he said, “Thank you.”

Those two words, however, took Nora and Cherry aback once more.

Cherry couldn’t help but ask, “Are you really not Daddy? But why do you not only look a bit like Daddy but also sound like him?”

Yes, that was right.

Kelvin’s voice was also very similar to Justin’s.

It was just that Justin’s was lower and deeper.

Nora’s gaze at Kelvin became even more scorching

She really wanted to remove his makeup and see what he really looked like!

Her gaze was too intense, causing Kelvin to look over. He ruffled Cherry’s hair, and then said with a chuckle, “Did your mom play videos of me at home every day and tell you that I’m your father? Thereby giving you the wrong impression? Miss... Please be rational as a fan!”

After saying this, Kelvin gave them another amicable smile and then turned to leave.

Nora wanted to chase after him but was stopped by the bodyguards. “Mr. Hart is very tired. Please go back!”

When the fans heard this, they could only leave.

Nora, however, stared at Kelvin from the back as he departed, somewhat contemplative.

Behind her, Pete and Xander also stepped forward. The two little boys also stared in Kelvin's direction.

He walked out of the airport under the protection of the bodyguards. However, at the exit, he suddenly turned his head and looked at the four of them. The corners of his lips hooked upwards into a sneer, and then he got into the car.

Nora was a little taken aback by that smile of his.

Her sixth sense told her that the man knew who she was!

Yet, he really was rather different from Justin...

When she broke into a frown, Pete said, "That's not the tyrant! Daddy has never smiled like that before!"

In her young and cute voice, Cherry asked, "... Then is he Daddy's twin brother?"

But Xander curled his lips disdainfully and said, "He doesn't look like the tyrant, though!"

After the little fellows finished their evaluation, they looked at Nora again.

Nora had already taken out her cell phone. "We can just ask Google."

She didn't pay attention to the entertainment industry, so she didn't know of Kelvin or whatever his name was.

But if Kelvin really was famous, then there would definitely be information about him on the Internet.

With that in mind, she typed in the search term "Kelvin Hart". The next moment, information about Kelvin popped up on her phone...

Chapter 814 - His True Identity!!

There was a lot of information about Kelvin on the Internet. After all, he was a famous Hollywood star with an impressive track record.

Even though he had been filming overseas a lot due to frequent involvement with foreign productions, his status in the American entertainment scene was not low.

The Internet also listed a lot of movies he'd starred in. All of them were big productions, with some even being box office hits. He could be found in all those movies.

Nora usually didn't watch such movies.

The photos on Kelvin's social media accounts were also similar to his appearance from just now. He indeed bore a 30% to 40% resemblance to Justin from the front while in some occasional photos his profile was almost identical to Justin's.

Nora frowned.

One could always hide similarities in appearances from the front with makeup but they wouldn't be able to hide anything with their profile- because a person's skeletal structure was unchangeable!

Therefore, she still wanted to know what Kelvin really looked like under his thick makeup and didn't rule out the possibility that he was Justin.

Nevertheless, Nora still opened up Kelvin's personal schedule.

Famous actors like Kelvin naturally had fans and stans. In fact, some overzealous fans from overseas even immigrated to America just so it would be more convenient for them to follow him everywhere.

Therefore, Kelvin's schedule was publicly listed very clearly. There were even videos as proof.

During the time Justin was with her in America, Kelvin had been filming with a crew... There were pictures to prove it!

At the sight, Nora could only frown.

From the looks of it, Kelvin really was not Justin.

The two men looked so much alike, though. Were they really unrelated to each other?

Nora put down the phone.

Never mind.

It didn't matter what Kelvin's relationship with Justin was. She was here in Switzerland to look for the V16 for Xander, not for a holiday!

Nora put down her cell phone, looked at the children, and said, "Let's find a place to stay first."

Cherry pouted. "But Mommy, if we're not going to Grand aunt's, then where are we staying?"

Nora smiled. "I've already made all the arrangements."

Her grand aunt had a special status in Switzerland, so there would surely be a lot of people paying attention to her. If the four of them went to her, it would be very easy for them to accidentally expose their identities.

Before she found a suitable excuse for them to be in Switzerland, Nora must keep a low profile.

She went straight to the parking lot with the children. Soon, she spotted an old and rundown car parked below. The car wasn't locked, but there was no one inside.

Nora walked over naturally and opened the door. “Get in.”

Obviously, this was part of Nora’s arrangements. The three children sat in the back. Nora started the car and drove out of the airport.

On the way, Cherry watched as the familiar environment around her slowly went past her. She suddenly remarked, “It’s been so long!”

Pete was observing the surroundings.

Xander pouted and asked, “Mommy, where are we staying? Surely not the basement, right?”

Nora smiled. “Of course not. We’ll reach in a sec.”

As she spoke, the car suddenly turned the corner into a residential area.

A bright-eyed Cherry asked, “Mommy, are we staying here?”

“Yup.”

Nora turned a few more corners in the car. Soon, she stopped in front of a villa with a characteristic design. “This is where we’ll be staying.”

The four got out of the car and entered the three-story villa.

The villa was very neat and clean-obviously, someone had cleaned it up.

Nora had lived in Switzerland for five years, so she would certainly have her own connections here.

She took the three children to look at the rooms and allowed them to choose which rooms they wanted. When she was about to take the children out for a bite, someone knocked on the door.

Nora walked over and opened the door to see a man in a black suit outside.

“Hello, Ms. Smith, right? My boss would like to invite you to dinner.”

Nora: “?”

She frowned. “Your boss?”

The man in black nodded. “Yes.”

He shifted to the side and nodded in a certain direction, where Nora saw parked a huge black car. The windows were tinted, so people on the outside would not be able to look inside.

Just as Nora was about to refuse, the van’s window suddenly rolled down a little and the man inside appeared in front of Nora.

His profile was strong and his silhouette well-defined.

He looked so familiar that Nora instantly became a little excited. The next moment, however, the man turned and looked over.

It was not Justin but Kelvin. His lips curled into a smile.

“Wanna know who I am?”

Chapter 815 - 5 Playing With One'S Sister-In-Law

The interior of the limousine was luxuriously decorated.

It was only when Nora sat in it that she found that the car was extremely comfortable. The space in the center was very wide and there was even a tray with expensive red wine and crystal wine glasses on it.

After she got in, the man handed her a glass of wine.

Nora raised her eyebrows and took it from him. Before she could do anything, Kelvin had picked up another wine glass and bumped hers, making a melodious clink with the light touch.

The clink resounded in the van.

Just by this action alone, Nora became sure that the man was not Justin.

Justin wasn't so pretentious.

The corners of her lips spasmed and she put down the glass of wine.

Kelvin said, "Drink, and I'll tell you who I am."

The man had a malicious smile on his face and he was slightly leaning forward, his attitude high and mighty.

With her eyes lowered, Nora looked at him.

The man glanced at the wine glass, much like he was forcing her to drink. "Don't you want to know who I am?"

The inside of the van suddenly became quiet.

Nora and Kelvin looked at each other, both with great momentum.

After a while, Nora suddenly said, “I know who you are.”

Her words took Kelvin aback.

Nora leaned backwards away from him. “A person who looks like Justin must have blood relations with him. Chester and Roger both look a little like him but neither of them resembles him as much as you—someone who bears a 30% resemblance to him. Right, Kelvin? Or should I say, Calvin Hunt?”

Kelvin was just his stage name.

Many changed their names when they entered the entertainment industry. This was a very common practice.

In truth, though, his real name was Calvin Hunt!

When Nora did a Google search and found that Kelvin and Justin were not one and the same, she’d sent a text message to Howard and gotten him to check the genealogy of their generation. Sure enough, he had found the name Calvin Hunt.

The Hunts would never easily reveal their genealogical information to outsiders.

After all, Nora was not married to Justin, so she was technically not a Hunt yet.

Therefore, Howard hadn’t shown her the actual family tree but just a family relationship chart that he had drawn himself.

The Hunts were a century-old family, so they had many branches of lineage.

For example, even Howard and Justin didn’t share the same grandfather. Instead, they had descended from sibling grandfathers. Therefore, Howard’s family, who lived in and looked after the family home, was referred to as the Californian Hunts. Howard's grandfather was the second oldest among his brothers.

As for Calvin, he was a child from the third brother's line of descent.

His grandfather was Howard and Justin's grandfathers' younger brother.

Because Howard was living in the family home, he had a slightly higher position in the family. However, people on the fringes like Calvin would never be noticed by the main branch—in other words, Justin and his immediate family.

Needless to say, Howard was so cooperative because he was at the stage where he was full of admiration towards Nora, the Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts. After all, a single sentence from her had allowed him to become Quinn's disciple!

Through the relationship chart he drew, Nora had also figured out Calvin's identity and status.

Although they were distant cousins, Calvin and Justin's grandfathers were said to resemble each other very much. Therefore, it was unsurprising that Calvin and Justin would bear a 30% resemblance to each other.

Nora had exposed Kelvin's—or rather, Calvin's—identity. Calvin was stunned for a moment. Then, his eyes widened in surprise. “Everyone says that my sister-in-law is both smart and beautiful. It seems that it is indeed so.”

After he spoke, he smiled again. “It's just a shame that you became a widow at a young age.”

There was hostility in his words.

When Nora realized his identity, she'd asked Howard how his relationship with Justin was... Howard's reply to her had been: The two were like oil and water, they were mortal enemies.

Justin was like a big brother at home. He was always high up in the air and he was always the best in everything he did. Children like him were naturally the center of attention ever since a young age.

Under such circumstances, Justin would be faced with two situations:

One where people admired him, like Howard and Chester. Such people saw Justin as an idol. However, the other was with people like Roger and Calvin, who were indignant towards him.

Roger's indignation stemmed from his desire to fight for the Hunts' inheritance.

As for Calvin, he was too far away from the direct line of descendants, so he didn't even have the right to fight for anything. Howard once said that after Calvin grew up, his family had planned to send him to work in the Hunt Corporation. They had also wanted Justin to arrange a good position for him.

But Calvin had his own pride. Without even saying a word to anyone, he'd moved to another city to become an actor.

The Hunts didn't want an actor in the family. After all, just like Katharine Hepburn once said, "Acting is the perfect idiot's profession... and not a very high-class way to earn a living", the Hunts thought very little of acting. Therefore, Calvin had taken on the alias Kelvin Hart in the industry and also told his family not to make use of the Hunts' connections for his career!

Calvin's parents had even approached Justin. They wanted Justin not to help him, in hopes of forcing their son to change his mind.

Therefore, no one knew that Kelvin was a Hunt.

Because of all this, Calvin had become very hostile towards Justin.

Nora couldn't be bothered to speak any further with a rebellious child like him. Calvin looked like he was only 25 or 26 years old. She turned to get off the car.

But at this moment, someone held her shoulder.

Then, Calvin's voice rang out in her ear. "Are you leaving already, Nora? Actually, I called you over to ask you something. Have you heard how some men like playing with their sisters-in-law...?"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 816 - Grand aunt'S Company!!

His tone was ambiguous. When he spoke, his breath almost stuck to Nora's neck.

The hand pressing on Nora's shoulder was not obedient either. It pressed gently and was filled with ambiguity.

Nora's back froze. Just as Calvin's words fell, she suddenly turned back. Immediately, she waved her arm and slapped away his hand on her shoulder!

"Tsk, why? Nora, do you think I don't earn as much money as Justin?"

Calvin leaned closer to her. "But doesn't all the money in the Hunts belong to you now? With the money in your hands and my appearance similar to him... In fact, I don't look any different from him. Everyone says that I'm the most handsome man in the US. Nora, are you not interested in me?"

Nora narrowed her eyes and swept her gaze across his face. She suddenly said, "You're indeed a little handsome."

Calvin narrowed his eyes and looked pleased.

However, the next moment, Nora said, "After all, you look a little like him. Unfortunately, when I see things about you that don't look like him, I'd feel disgusted."

Nora pushed open the car door and got out neatly.

She strode into the villa, leaving Calvin staring angrily at her back in the car!

Calvin was so angry that he gritted his teeth in the car.

What did she say just now? She would feel disgusted by him?

How could this be?!

He was the most handsome man in the Hunts! His facial features were even more iconic than Justin's!

His looks, which were enough to make fans go crazy, were worthless in her eyes?

She was too much!

Too much!!

Calvin was so angry his chest heaved up and down. He glared ruthlessly in the direction Nora had left in and then closed the car door. After the car door was closed, he picked up his phone aggrievedly and made a call. "Hello, Brother. Am I not handsome? Nora is really, really too much!!!"

On the other end of the line was a deep voice. The man paused for a moment and suddenly asked in a low and hoarse voice, "You saw her?"

Calvin said, "Yes, I saw her! She's already in Switzerland. She's quite smart. She knows that staying here won't attract much attention. I even saw Pete. He grew up in the blink of an eye. The last time I saw him, he was still drinking milk..."

After Calvin rambled on, he finally said aggrievedly, "Brother, I don't care. Nora said I'm disgusting. You have to take revenge for me!"

The man opposite him chuckled and said, "Yes, you can come back."

Calvin was stunned. "What for? I still have a shoot tomorrow! One of my scenes is in a university..."

The person on the other end of the line suddenly said, "You don't have to go..."

Calvin: “???”

After Nora returned to the villa, she greeted the neighbor with the three children.

The neighbor was very enthusiastic. “Oh, we’re all Americans. We should help each other. By the way, guess where I come from?”

Nora: “Florida?”

The neighbor was shocked. “How did you know?”

Nora returned a polite and awkward smile before taking the children to visit another house.

The people living here were all Americans. The people on both sides of her were also very kind and safe. Of course, Nora had already arranged a few secret guards around to prevent anyone from hurting the three children when she was not at home.

After visiting the neighbors, Nora walked the three children around the area.

After all, if nothing went wrong, they would be staying here for the next three months.

After walking around for a while, they bumped into an old lady when they returned. She was standing in front of their house. When she saw the four of them, the old lady instantly revealed a look of disdain. After sizing them up, she pursed her lips. “What do you do for work? The people living in our villas are all high-class people. We don’t want any shady neighbors...”

Nora: “?”

She raised her eyebrows and asked, “What do you mean?”

“You have three children at such a young age. Don’t tell me you got pregnant at 17 or 18? Are these three children illegitimate too?”

Cherry immediately placed her hands on her hips and replied, “My daddy and mommy are husband and wife! We’re not illegitimate children!”

Being engaged also meant they were husband and wife!

Hearing that, the old lady pursed her lips. “What about your father?”

Cherry: “?”

Nora lowered her eyes and slowly said, “I’m working outside. I don’t usually go home.”

“Tsk, are you working part-time? How much money can you earn? If you don’t have money, why do you have to go overseas? You just want to stay here when you don’t even have the money to match our standard of living... Let me tell you, my son has a decent job! He’s a director at NTT!”

The old lady raised her chin proudly as she talked.

Nora: “?”

Cherry was stunned. “NTT?”

“Yes, NTT. Have you heard of the company? Let me tell you, my son works there. He’s a really respectable person, understand? He’s not like you guys. You’re working part-time! Can you afford to rent this place? Why do you have to stay here? I advise you to go to the slums!”

Cherry: “!!”

How could she not have heard of it? She had grown up in the NTT headquarters!

NTT was her grandaunt’s company!

Chapter 817 - Approaching The Library

Although she could not expose her grandaunt's identity to avoid being noticed, Cherry was not one to be bullied. She retorted, "Grandma, I thought your son was NTT'S boss. So he's also working for someone else!"

They're all working for others, so why is she looking down on them?

The old lady was instantly furious. "What do you know? There's a difference between working for someone else and working part-time! NTT is the hottest company in Switzerland in recent years. Everyone working at high positions there can get a million-dollar annual salary! Your father worked hard every month, but does he have ten thousand dollars? The rent here isn't cheap. In my opinion, you should live on the streets! How many months can you bear the rent here? You're preventing others from renting a house here. You're a dog in the manger!"

Cherry was about to say something when a plump middle-aged woman jogged over. When she heard the old lady's voice, she immediately placed her hands on her hips and scolded, "Hey, what's wrong with you? You promised to live together peacefully in my house. How can you bully the new tenant?"

When Mrs. Long saw the fat woman, she pursed her lips. "Landlady, you have to understand. Who bullied them? Don't make irresponsible remarks. I'm just telling them the rules of living here. Besides, who knows where this woman came from? Everyone who lives here has a clean background!"

The plump landlady retorted angrily, "She's renting my house. What rules are you talking about? If you don't want to stay, then fine. Can't you just leave? Many people are queuing up to rent my house! Besides, this isn't some random person. She's a foreign student from Staav University!!"

“Okay, okay, I’ll stop talking about it, okay?!” After Mrs. Long said this, she looked at Nora again before turning around. Even though she was far away, she was still nagging softly. “Doesn’t she just have a few stinky houses? What’s she showing off for? My son works in NTT! He’ll be able to afford such a house sooner or later!”

After Mrs. Long walked away cursing, the landlady finally looked at Nora. “Miss Smith, right? Come, there are a few things to take note of in the house. I’ll show you.”

With that, she opened the door but did not enter first. Instead, she waited respectfully at the door.

After Nora brought the three children in, the landlady closed the door and walked in. The next moment, the arrogance on her face disappeared and was replaced with kindness. “Miss Smith, you’re back! Oh, let me see Cherry. Has she gained weight?”

Cherry also smiled and said, “Cindy!”

Cindy was the friend Nora had made when she was overseas. Back then, she was homeless with her husband. It was Nora who took her in and asked her to stay here to collect the rent.

That’s right. This row of houses belonged to her. When she had bought and rented them out back then, the price was not high. It was just to give those Americans who came to Switzerland a resting place.

It was just that... Cherry said, “Cindy, why did such a bad old madam rent Mommy’s house?”

Cindy smiled bitterly and said, “That old lady sounded too pitiful back then, so I let her rent the house. Her son is earning money now and she wants to bring her sister over to live with her, so she asked me to rent her this house you’re staying in. However, Miss Nora asked me to keep it for her, so I didn’t rent it. I said that someone has already booked the house. She didn’t dare to offend me, so she took her anger out on you.” Cherry was stunned. “Why does she have to rent this house?”

Cindy said, “Who doesn’t want to rent our place? It’s cheap and the house is good. Miss Nora has no intention of earning money from this rent, so many people want to stay here now! Besides, she got her sister to rent a house nearby. Don’t worry, their contract will expire next month. When the time comes, I won’t rent it to them again no matter what. A person with such a character doesn’t have the right to receive Miss Nora’s care! Besides, isn’t her son rich? Go out and rent an expensive house! She only knows how to take advantage of others!”

With that, she put down Cherry and looked at Pete. “This is Pete, right? I heard from Miss Nora that she finally found you. I haven’t seen you before! Your small body is stronger than Cherry’s!”

Cindy patted Pete heavily before turning to Xander with a grin. “This little kid must be Xander. Am I right?”

Xander: “...”

He was now as smart as a 14-year-old. He felt so childish when she spoke to him in such a coaxing tone.

The corners of his mouth twitched. He grabbed Cherry and Pete. “Let’s go upstairs and take a look!”

“Okie-Dokie!”

Cherry and Pete did not plan to go to school. These three months would be considered a vacation!

The three children went upstairs inseparable. Only Nora and Cindy were left downstairs.

Cindy said, “Miss Nora, go to Staav University tomorrow without any worry. I’ll help take care of the three children!”

Nora nodded.

She then gave Cindy some instructions regarding Cherry, Pete, and Xander’s hobbies as well as their favorite foods.

The next day, at the entrance of Staav University.

Nora took out her student ID. After handing them to the guard, she entered the school.

She came here as an exchange student from the New York University School of Medicine. Every December, there would be exchange students coming to study.

As a professor at New York University School of Medicine, creating a fake identity and getting a place was a piece of cake.

She needed to report first and then take the opportunity to go to the library to look for files.

After entering the university, Nora was attracted by everything in front of her.

Staav University was indeed one of the top international universities. The environment inside was especially beautiful. As she was admiring it, a voice suddenly came from behind. "Oh my god! Kelvin really came to our university for a shoot!"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 818 - Mr. Hunt Can'T Take It

There were many international students at Staav University. The Europeans, Asians, and African-Americans were all harmonious and without discourse.

This was the center of academic discussions worldwide. There was no hatred between countries and there was no disdain between skin colors. Everyone who entered this place was a student who worked hard for scientific research.

This was the feeling given off at Staav University.

The approaching aura was filled with youth.

Of course, in such a friendly atmosphere, there were also young people who chased after idols. Therefore, when they heard the cry, many people turned their heads in unison to look at the door.

Kelvin?

He was an international superstar!

Be it his singing, dancing, or acting—they were all remarkable in the industry. Furthermore, he had received the title of Best Actor in Hollywood. This man had conquered all the men, women, old, and young in Switzerland.

Therefore, everyone stopped in their tracks.

However, university students were also well-known figures in their respective fields. They had their own pride, so they were not like the usual fans who swarmed around their idols.

After exclaiming in surprise, they stood politely at the side and watched silently as Kelvin and his assistants walked over.

Nora originally did not want to care about Kelvin.

However, the person walking in front of her stopped and blocked her way. She did not want to stand out, so she simply stopped in her tracks and looked over.

Kelvin was still wearing heavy makeup today. His dark circles seemed like he had not slept for the entire night. The smokey makeup was so thick that Nora could not bear to look at him.

She really did not know how this man was so confident that he was more handsome than Justin.

Nora thought about this and pursed her lips.

However, the next moment, Kelvin suddenly stopped in his tracks and looked in Nora's direction. Their eyes met in the air.

Nora's eyes narrowed and a smile appeared on her lips.

This Kelvin was teasing her yesterday, but he still dared to look at her today?

Nora was just thinking about this when she saw that the disgusting eyes of 'Kelvin' in front of her were very deep at this moment. There was an unfathomable light in his dark eyes.

This familiar gaze made her freeze on the spot as if she had been struck by lightning.

However, when she looked closer, she saw that Kelvin's eyes had returned to their usual warm smile. He smiled and greeted the surrounding fans. This made Nora shake her head.

What was wrong with her?

For a moment, she felt that Kelvin and Justin were very similar.

If she had not personally investigated Kelvin's true identity yesterday, she might have followed him again today to get to the bottom of it.

But now, she did not want to waste time.

Kelvin and Justin were not on good terms. If she went over, she would only be inviting humiliation.

When she thought of this, Nora simply took a few steps forward and walked straight to the Department of Biomedicine.

This time, when she came to be an exchange student, the medical academy's staff was already full. It was not appropriate for her to take someone else's seat. On the other hand, the Department of Biomedicine just happened to have a vacant seat. Therefore, Nora came here as a student of the Department of Biomedicine.

It did not matter which school it was, as long as she could get in touch with the archive room!

She came here this time to get a student card and then go to the file room to look for clues about V16!

The few lines her mother had left in the metal box had directed her to the private room 004 in the Staav University archives.

Nora thought about this and went to report to the Department of Biomedicine. She also prepared a student card.

After all the procedures were completed, she asked the counselor who had handled these procedures, "Excuse me, may I ask how to get to the archive room?"

The counselor was stunned for a moment before saying, "The archive room in our school is the library. Do you want to borrow a few books?"

Library...

No wonder she could not find the file room on the map.

It made sense. It had been more than twenty years since her mother had left the note. The archive room must have ceased to exist long ago. It had probably been merged into a library.

Nora smiled. “Yes, I want to borrow a few books related to the curriculum.”

The counselor instantly smiled. “Oh, then you can go to the library. By the way, Lisa, remember to come to class tomorrow. Don’t be late.”

Lisa was a fake name Nora had given herself.

Nora nodded.

After separating from the counselor, Nora simply walked straight to the library.

Although Nora was already 25 years old and would be 26 years old after the new year, because she looked young and had a slender figure, her fake identity was that of a 22-year-old university student.

As she walked to the library, she bumped into a few boys who came to chat with her.

The atmosphere overseas was more open. After rejecting them, Nora simply went around the field and straight to the library.

However, just as she reached the entrance of the library, a basketball suddenly hit her!

The university students on the field instantly shouted, “Move aside, beautiful girl! Move aside!”

At the same time, everyone’s hearts rose. If such a beautiful girl was hit by a basketball, they would feel terrible.

Just as they thought about this, they saw that Nora seemed to have heard the wind. She turned around beautifully and caught the ball. Almost instinctively, she turned the basketball on her wrist and aimed it at the basket, throwing it over gently.

Thud!

The ball entered the hoop.

Everyone was silent. Then, someone suddenly asked in surprise, “Are you from New York?”

Nora nodded.

The person immediately said, “Impressive!”

“Impressive, impressive!”

The others immediately applauded. Nora instantly became the focus of the crowd.

Nora: “...”

She grimaced and continued walking but the boy playing basketball chased after her. “Hi, I’m Jack. May I ask where you’re going?”

Nora: “Library.”

Jack instantly spoke, his teeth white and bright. “Oh, then I’m sorry to tell you that Kelvin’s crew is filming there now. You might not be able to enter... They booked it for two hours.”

Jack looked down at his wristwatch. “You have to wait another hour and a half.”

Nora: “?”

Seeing that the clue to V16 was inside, how could she wait?

She frowned and was in thought. Suddenly, a low male voice came from ahead. “Director, let that girl in. It’ll be too strange if there’s no one in the library. I think she can be an extra with her looks!”

Nora turned around and saw “Kelvin” staring at Jack unhappily.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 819 - 9 This Familiar Narcissism

If Kelvin spoke, the director would definitely agree.

He got someone to let Nora in. Jack instantly raised his hand and shouted, “Hey, director, look here. I want to be an extra too. It’s free! Can I? I can pretend to be a couple with this girl. I...”

“No.”

Before the director could speak, Kelvin rejected him, stunning Jack. He scratched his head in confusion. “Why?”

Nora was also confused.

Jack was already frowning.

Kelvin ignored him and looked at the director. “The scene we’re filming focuses on how hard the students work. Acting romantic in the library is bad for the school’s image.”

Jack instantly understood. “Then I will do something else. Can I read? I can read with this person. Can I?”

Kelvin laughed softly. “No. There are already too many extras.”

In the end, it just couldn’t be done.

Jack was furious, but he could only watch as the bodyguards and the security personnel on the scene made way for Nora to enter the library.

Nora: "..."

The scene they were filming was a classic Hollywood fight scene. It was about the male lead played by Kelvin who had discovered the secret of genes in university.

As a weak little boy, he was bullied until one day he decided to become stronger.

He and his professor developed the spider gene. The professor used him as an experiment and injected him with the spider gene. He wanted to become Spiderman. He succeeded and his physical abilities really improved, but in the end, he was swallowed by the gene and he became a real spider. His humanity was gradually swallowed up as he became stronger and stronger.

He lost his mind and became a killing machine.

The National Security Bureau sent agents to kill him, but he was too strong. He defeated all the agents alone.

While being chased, he was saved by the female protagonist. During the time they spent together, he went from being ignorant to one with his feelings.

The professor had seen him become stronger, so he injected himself with the genes to become a true Spiderman. He wanted the male protagonist to rule the world with him.

The professor used the video of the male protagonist being bullied to anger him and restrain his gradually awakening consciousness again. The male protagonist accompanied the professor to destroy the city.

In the end, his girlfriend appeared and pulled back the male protagonist with love. She made him suppress his genes and he finally was finally able to control his abilities. He then defeated the professor and saved the city.

At the end of the story, he successfully joined the National Security Bureau and began to protect the world.

In short, it was a story of a person who gradually recovered his humanity with the help of love.

Western blockbusters were all about sci-fi.

Now, they were in the early stages of the filming.

The scene Kelvin was filming today was of the male protagonist being bullied again. He hid in the library while the strong students outside whistled and waited for him to come out so that they could beat him up.

The male protagonist was very flustered and stayed in the library until nightfall.

In the end, he discovered the secret of genes in the library. His high intelligence was recognized by the professor. The two of them hit it off and began the development of the spider gene.

Nora did not know the storyline. She just found it fun to watch Kelvin film.

However, she was not here to watch a show.

She had more important things to do.

She pretended to be a passerby and walked around inside, wanting to look for file 004.

There was a corner in the library where files were placed. In order to make it look real, the male protagonist played by Kelvin was in this corner. An abandoned gene file was needed.

Nora searched in the library. After learning that the files were all in the corner where Kelvin was, she slowly moved over.

This continued until...

“Cut!”

The director suddenly shouted and immediately said to Nora, “Student, may I ask what’s wrong with you? Why do you keep walking in front of the camera? Do you want to get my attention? Or do you want to act too?”

After the director finished speaking, he looked Nora up and down. Then, his eyes lit up. “Hey, there are not many girls as beautiful as you. If you want, I can add a role for you!”

Nora: “... There’s no need.”

The director pestered her. “You may be used to rejecting others but you really don’t have to talk to me like that. If you want to act, I can be your guide to enter the entertainment industry.” Nora: “There’s really no need.”

She was not interested in acting at all. She only wanted to complete her mission and go back to sleep!

The director did not believe her. “How could you not want it? If not, then why did you scuttle in front of the camera? I noticed you the moment you entered. You’ve been trying to approach the camera for a while. Although you’re very careful, it’s obvious that you’re doing this for the camera!”

Nora: “?”

She explained calmly, “I’m not doing this for the camera.”

“Then why?”

The director questioned.

Nora: “...”

Of course, it was for file 004!

But could she say that?

No, she couldn’t!

She was a new student, so it was very odd for her to need a file from here!

Nora thought about this and was about to reply to the director when Kelvin's deep voice interrupted. "What else could it be for? It's for me!"

Nora: "??"

The director: "?"

Kelvin walked over and looked at Nora. "I know. You're my fan. You're crazy about me, but this is the production team. Please don't interrupt our shoot."

With that, Kelvin touched his nose and looked at the director. "Director, since she likes me so much, why don't we let her stay beside me? Someone has to come to the archives to make it seem more real."

The director: "...Okay, let's do that!"

Nora: "..."

She looked at Kelvin and was about to speak when Kelvin said, "When the filming starts, don't look at me like that. You have to pretend not to know me, okay? Although it's difficult for you to not like me, bear with it for the shoot."

Nora: "!!"

Bear with it?!

Moreover, why was this confident and narcissistic look so familiar?!

Nora was about to speak when the director shouted and the filming began.

She immediately retracted her thoughts and turned to take out a file on the bookshelf.

The file was labeled 009.

009?

Nora's eyes suddenly lit up! The library's files were regularly needed.

They were all placed in order.

If 009 was here, then 004 must be in this row!

As she thought about this, Nora quickly turned around. She retracted all her thoughts, including how Kelvin had taken advantage of her earlier. She began to look for her file in the row seriously...

004 was the V16 her mother had left behind!!

She had to find it!

Sure enough, beside 009 was 008, followed by 007, 006, and 005. Then, beside 005 was... 004!!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 820 - 004!

Nora took down the file beside 005. At the same time, she felt a little nervous.

V16 concerned Xander's life and Justin had faked his death for this. Furthermore, the bosses of a certain industry were all eyeing this medicine covetously.

Now, this drug was in her hands?

As she was thinking, she looked down and saw that the title of the file in her hand was... Archive 003?

Nora's eyes were slightly stunned.

She took a closer look and saw that it was indeed 003. When she opened it, she realized that it was about the data of a mouse experiment that was once done by the school 50 years ago.

The data was critical, it was indicated that it was because of this set of experimental data that a vaccine was successfully created.

However, it had nothing to do with the gene serum.

Nora put down 003 and flipped forward unwillingly. She found 002 and 001. She continued to flip back. It was 005. This row continued until 035, but there was no 004!

Nora frowned and turned around, wanting to continue looking at the shelf beside her.

Just as she was about to walk over, a loud clap suddenly came from behind.

Nora: "?"

She looked up in a daze and saw the director and the others looking at her. The director praised, “This lady, you’re really too talented in acting! You vividly portrayed the appearance of a genius looking for a certain piece of information! You were so engrossed. It was as if you had completely forgotten the existence of the camera. You’re simply a born actor!”

Nora: “?”

She had indeed forgotten about the camera because she was about to find 004.

The corners of her mouth twitched. The director stepped forward and handed her a card. “If you’re interested in acting, you can contact me!”

III

Nora glanced at the name card silently.

Kelvin beside him also walked over slowly. His tall figure stood beside Nora. The two of them looked very pleasing to the eye. The director looked at them and sighed. “Kelvin, your partner has already been confirmed but how good would it have been to let this lady play your girlfriend? The feeling when you two stand together is too strong! The two of you look like real lovers!”

Nora: “!”

She took a wary step back and leaned to the side.

However, she heard a low laugh. She turned her head and saw “Kelvin” smiling maliciously. He lowered his head and smiled. “Nora, why? Do you really want to act as a couple with me?”

Nora: “...”

Nora rolled her eyes and took two steps to the side to maintain a distance from Kelvin.

The director seemed to want to say something else. Nora interrupted them. “Are you done filming?”

“I’m done filming.”

The director then realized something and looked at Kelvin. “Let’s go film the next scene! Kelvin, we’re going to film the scene where you meet your girlfriend. This part needs to be more romantic.”

Nora ignored them and continued to flip through the files.

She did not see “Kelvin” glance at her and immediately laugh softly. “Director, I’m not in a good condition today. I’ll only film the action scenes! As for the romantic scenes, I’ll film them another time!”

The director: “...Okay, Kelvin. You’re too professional! However, when you were filming earlier, your mood was indeed not right. You did not show the urgency and fear of being chased by bad people...”

“Kelvin” continued to smile. “Yes, tomorrow. I’ll do a re-take.”

“But why tomorrow? Can’t we do it now?”

“...I’ll be better tomorrow. Besides, we rented the library for two hours. Don’t stop others from reading.”

“Alright, then.”

The crew packed their equipment and prepared to leave.

Before leaving, Kelvin turned back and looked at Nora, who was searching through the files seriously. His eyes were filled with deep longing and a smile.

Nora was really cute sometimes!

The production team left and the library became quiet.

Nora searched through the archives once again. In the end, she felt helpless and went to the librarian. She asked, “Hello. May I ask why some serial numbers are missing in the archive room? Are they lost?”

The librarian immediately said, “Oh, no. Some of the files’ contents are too important. They’re protected by us. Only tutors and students who have reached a certain level can apply to check them. Why don’t you tell me which file you want to see? I’ll help you.”

Nora narrowed her eyes. “No, there’s no need. I’m just curious.”

With that, she smiled and glanced at the administrator’s screen before turning to leave the library.

Outside, she found a random chair and sat down. Then, she picked up her phone and hacked into the library system. She searched the files and entered File 004.

50 years ago, computers were not widely used. However, later on, many files were entered into an electronic system.

However, 004 was not recorded.

The system only showed that 004 was an S-rank file. There was only a physical file.

Nora: “...”

She then checked file 048 because she realized that 004 was not the only one missing there. After counting, many serial numbers were not there.

As it turned out, file 048 also only had a physical file.

This meant that if she wanted to see Archive 004, she had to become a professor at Staav University or a student of related research projects!

How... troublesome!

Nora could not wait to break into the archive room at night and steal it.

However, this would not do. It would attract the attention of those looking for the gene serum.

Justin had faked his death to make those people turn their eyes away. If she caused too much of a ruckus, the secret might get out any moment.

When she thought of this, Nora suppressed the urge in her heart and finally decided to think about it carefully!

—

Nora did not gain anything from the library. She left the library and returned home.

The car had just stopped when he saw the old lady from the neighborhood scolding Cherry. “Thief, you’re a thief! You’re so young and yet you don’t learn well. You actually steal!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 821 - Slander?

A lot of people had already surrounded the villa where Nora lived.

Everyone stood outside and pointed at them.

Mrs. Long had her hands on her hips as she cursed, “Like I said, these people haven’t even been here a day and they’ve already started stealing! She’s definitely not a good person. We shouldn’t let such a person stay in a district like ours!”

Someone beside her advised, “Mrs. Long, you’ve been scolding her for so long. The young lady is so cute, she doesn’t look like a thief. Tell me, what did she steal?”

Mrs. Long immediately said, “She stole my scallion pancake!”

As soon as she said this, everyone looked at the scallion pancake in Cherry’s hand. She had already eaten half of the pancake and now she was holding the pancake and looking at Mrs. Long with black grape-like eyes.

Hearing this, Cherry took another bite of scallion pancake. Her mouth was stuffed full, making her look especially cute.

Someone beside her said, “Mrs. Long, isn’t it just a cake? Can you just let it go? We’re all neighbors, and the child is very young. She might just be hungry if she ate your cake!”

Mrs. Long sneered, “What do you know? She’s already so bad at a young age. She’s a crooked stick! Do you know what her father does? He’s a worker! Do you know what her mother does? She’s so young and doesn’t look like a proper mother at all! I think she didn’t even go to school and just fooled around with a man. She gave birth to these three little bastards! She gave birth early but didn’t raise them well. If we let them stay here, they’ll become the stinky bugs in our district sooner or later!”

With that, everyone looked at Cherry in confusion.

However, Cherry took another bite of the pancake. Her clear eyes were staring at Mrs. Long as she stood there and asked, “Grandma, who is a stinky bug?”

Mrs. Long immediately pointed at her. “You are, of course!”

“Oh.” Cherry smiled and began eating again.

The scallion pancake was really delicious!

She took two mouthfuls and the crowd burst into laughter. Before Mrs. Long could understand what was going on, someone beside her laughed. “The little girl is teasing you!”

Mrs. Long: “!”

From where do children nowadays learn to tease like that?

She did not react for a moment.

Cherry shrugged. She had learned this from her mother last time! Although it was an old trick, it was very effective in angering others!

The vicious old woman was so angry that her chest was heaving. Cherry grinned and continued to eat her scallion pancake.

Mrs. Long took a few deep breaths. Her fingers were trembling. “You little girl, you have a sharp tongue. I can tell at a glance that you won’t be a good person when you grow up. I think you’re going to be like your mother. You’re so young, you didn’t learn to be good. You’ll live well with bad men!”

Cherry did not understand her words but her eyes lit up. “Do you think I’ll be like my mommy?”

Mommy was so strong. How good would it be if she was like her?!

Therefore, she grinned. “Thank you!”

Mrs. Long was really furious. “Look, look. Her skin is so thick. I scolded her and she thanked me! What right does a person like her have to stay with us?”

“Alright, alright.” Some people could not stand it anymore and stepped forward. “The little girl looks fine. She doesn’t look like she comes from a bad family at all. Mrs. Long, you must have some misunderstanding. Besides, if she came from a bad family, could she afford to rent a house here?”

Although the houses here were cheap, not everyone could rent them.

Mrs. Long immediately said, “Heh, that’s not right. Today, she stole my family’s scallion pancake. She might steal your watch tomorrow! Do we have to guard against thieves every day if we stay here? Are you willing to do that?”

These words made everyone around shut their mouths.

No matter who it was, they did not want to be neighbors with a thief.

Therefore, everyone looked at Cherry and said, “Young lady, I think you should apologize to Mrs. Long! Isn’t it just a scallion pancake? Your parents will definitely be able to afford it. Apologize well and repent. We won’t pursue the matter with you!”

Mrs. Long sneered as well. “Heh, apologize? You can’t apologize about this. Why don’t we call the police? We have to get the police to teach this little brat a lesson!”

“Don’t call the police!”

“That’s right. It’s just a small matter. We’re all neighbors. Why must you do this?”

“The child is only five years old. What does she know? Mrs. Long, don’t fuss too much...”

When the others heard this, they began trying to persuade her.

Only then did Mrs. Long look at Cherry. “Alright, then let her kneel and apologize to me! Kneel to me as an apology!”

Kneel and apologize...

This was too humiliating.

Although everyone felt that Mrs. Long was being a little too much, they still looked at Cherry. Someone advised, “Young lady, just kneel! Get down on your knees!”

Cherry pursed her lips. “I’m not doing that!”

She had never knelt for anyone before!

Her grandparents could not bear to make her kneel and her mother protected her as well. As for the grandfather and great-grandmother she met when she returned to New York, they all wished they could treat her well. How could they make her kneel?

Cherry said, “I didn’t do anything wrong. I didn’t steal her pancake!”

“You didn’t steal it?” Mrs. Long sneered. “You’re still lying even now? If you didn’t steal my pancake then why is my pancake in your hand?”

Cherry took another bite of scallion pancake. “You gave this to me!”

Everyone was shocked and looked at Mrs. Long

However, Mrs. Long straightened her back and sneered. “I gave it to you? Then I accused you of stealing my family’s pancakes? You’re really funny. Do I have nothing better to do than bullying a child like you? I didn’t plan on fussing about you stealing one of my pancakes, but you’re even lying now. You’re hopeless!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 822 - I Have Evidence!

Nora stood in the crowd and looked at Cherry silently.

She was not anxious because Cherry was so calm. She must have a plan.

Otherwise, Pete and Xander would have rushed out of the house a long time ago. The two had a sister complex. Why would they keep watching as if it was some show?

She looked inside coldly.

Mrs. Long's words were clearly more believable. After all, there was no need for an old lady to target a child. Furthermore, they had just moved in, so there was no dispute.

Therefore, everyone looked at Cherry and advised, "Little kid, you should apologize! Stop being stubborn!"

Of course, there were also people who trusted Cherry, but Mrs. Long was very domineering. Especially because her son worked in NTT, she became even more domineering. They could not offend her, so they advised, "Little kid, stop being stubborn. Apologize!"

Cherry pursed her lips. "You're the one who gave it to me!"

She took another bite of the scallion pancake and chewed.

Mrs. Long looked at the others and sighed heavily. "See? She's so young but she still doesn't admit to her mistakes! Can you tolerate a child like this living here? I won't call the police but I suggest we make them leave! I don't want to be neighbors with such people!"

Cherry blinked. "Bad Grandma, call the police. You're the one who gave me this pancake! I didn't steal it!"

When the person beside her saw that she was still saying that, he immediately said, “Child, stop talking. Where’s your mom? Call her out quickly! You said that Mrs. Long gave it to you. Do you have evidence? If you don’t, Mrs. Long will definitely not let you off. You...”

As the kind person was persuading her, Cherry said, “Who said I don’t have evidence?”

She blinked and took another bite of the scallion pancake. Her other hand reached into her pocket, it looked like she was going to take out her phone.

Nora’s eyes curved slightly.

Little Smarty.

She knew that Cherry would definitely not lose. Mrs. Long had scolded them yesterday and she definitely had ill intentions for coming to give them scallion pancakes today. Although Cherry was more straightforward and not as perceptive as Pete and Xander, she was not so stupid as to fall for the bad guy’s trap.

She definitely had evidence!

As Nora thought about this, she saw Cherry take out her phone and say, “I have...”

Cherry was about to say that she had evidence when a weak voice suddenly sounded.

“I... I-I can prove it...”

Everyone turned around and saw a thin girl in her twenties slowly raising her hand.

Nora, who was about to walk forward, stopped in her tracks.

The girl was very thin and short. She looked very weak and had a timid expression.

Although she looked a little like Mia, Mia was the pampered daughter of the Smiths. She looked small and weak, her figure was so slender that others couldn't help but protect her.

However, this girl seemed like the kind of person who came out to work because of bad family conditions...

This was the first impression she gave to Nora.

Of course, Nora knew who this girl was. Cindy had already given her information on everyone who lived here. She had made sure that there was no danger before daring to let the three children stay there.

The girl's name was Rene. She was an orphan and had been adopted by a couple in Switzerland. However, her adoptive parents did not treat her well. They had beaten and scolded her since she was young. She had only escaped from that house when she was older and was currently living here with her boyfriend.

They were poor, but they were stubborn and had been working hard. Cindy pitied their plight and had reduced their rent. The house they rented was the smallest and in the worst condition.

Rene spoke softly as well. It conveyed the trauma of enduring domestic violence. When she spoke, she did not dare to look at anyone. Her long hair covered one-third of her face. "I can prove that just now, when Mrs. Long... She-she gave the child a scallion pancake. I... I was there... I saw it..." Rene had a pitiful background that everyone knew about. Everyone believed her words.

Therefore, they immediately turned to look at Mrs. Long

"Mrs. Long, what's going on?"

"Yes! How can you bully a child?"

"You're too evil! We're all Americans. We're from the same country. How can you bully one of our own?"

At this moment, Mrs. Long knew she had been exposed. She immediately said unhappily, “Alright, alright. I was just teasing her. What’s wrong? I was just joking! Alright, disperse! What are you looking at?”

Mrs. Long placed her hands on her hips. “My son works in NTT. Do you think I won’t ask him to stand up for me?”

With that, half the people around instantly dispersed.

NTT was now so popular in Switzerland that everyone had bits and pieces of it in their lives. No one wanted to offend NTT executives.

When most of the people had left, Mrs. Long looked at Rene and said fiercely, “Rene, you’re really a busybody! Why? Are you here to prove that you’re impressive? Do you think you’re a messenger of justice? I think you should worry about yourself before you try to mess with others!”

With that, she sneered. “Your boyfriend seems to be working in NTT too!”

She immediately panicked. “Mrs. Long, w-what do you mean?”

“What do I mean? Heh, your boyfriend is just a worker in NTT but my son is a senior executive. You dared to mess with me over a little girl. Fine, I’ll see if your boyfriend can still stay in NTT! Let’s see!”

After saying this, Mrs. Long glared fiercely at Rene and turned to enter her house. However, she suddenly saw Nora standing behind her and was shocked.

However, Mrs. Long quickly recovered and smiled sarcastically. “Say, Miss Smith, I think you should still move away with your three children! Otherwise, if my son finds out that I was bullied today, I really can’t say what he’ll do! Also, if Rene’s boyfriend loses his job, they’ll become homeless. Then, It’ll all be because of you!”

With that, she raised her head arrogantly and entered her house ruthlessly.

She slammed the door shut.

Rene's body trembled in fear when the door was closed. Then, her eyes turned red as her entire body trembled. She must have been frightened.

Would her boyfriend really lose his job?

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 823 - Who Will Be Fired?!

Nora walked over to Rene. She was about to talk to her but, as though she was badly frightened, Rene suddenly turned away and ran into the smallest house at the side.

Nora: "..."

Through the window, she saw Rene pick up her cell phone, her hands shaking as she did. She seemingly made a phone call. The person she called said something, which frightened Rene so badly that her eyes reddened and she started to cry.

Nora frowned.

Rene seemed to have sensed Nora looking at her. She was so scared that she suddenly drew the curtains and curled up in the corner. As for what she was doing, Nora couldn't see.

"Mommy, isn't Auntie Rene a little too timid?"

Nora nodded. After a moment's thought, she told Cherry to go back into the house. She then walked up to Rene's door, raised her hand, and knocked on the door.

Rene's timid voice rang out. "W-who is it?"

Nora replied, "I'm your neighbor, I live next door. Thank you for speaking up for Cherry..."

"Y-you're welcome."

Rene sounded like she was about to cry. "Please, I beg you, don't come to me anymore. I... I don't want him to lose his job..."

Nora hurriedly comforted her. “He won’t lose his job, don’t worry. Can you open the door? I have something to tell you.”

“I-I have nothing to say to you. P-please don’t disturb me, okay?”.

Rene stammered a little when she spoke and she didn’t sound confident of herself.

Nora’s brows knitted together. She wanted to knock on the door again, but the door to Mrs. Long’s house on the opposite side opened at this point. Mrs. Long sneered, “She won’t dare to open the door for you. Considering how much of a coward she is, if she dares to open the door for you, then wouldn’t she offend me? If her boyfriend loses his job, she will have to go back to her family! When that happens, her foster father will beat her to death!”

After saying this, Mrs. Long started ranting again.

“Don’t step forward to speak up for others if you’re not that capable. If you do something, you must be brave enough to own up to it. Heh, your boyfriend must be really unlucky to fall for you. He’s a graduate from a prestigious university—and Staav University at that—so why did he fall in love with someone like you? When my son came home a few days ago, he even mentioned your boyfriend and said that he was planning to promote him. But now...? He can forget about getting promoted! And just wait to be fired instead!”

Se

Mrs. Long was very loud. Rene’s rental house was the most rundown one of the lot, so sound insulation was not very good. Therefore, she heard everything that Mrs. Long said. At once, she huddled up in fear and even started shaking all over.

Nora broke into a frown and she sneered, “It’s not certain who will be the one to get fired yet!”

Mrs. Long curled her lips disdainfully. “Tsk, tsk. Are you still talking big even at this point? Heh, maybe you’re just not aware of the situation here—my son is her boyfriend’s direct superior!!”

Nora wanted to say something, but Rene’s door suddenly opened. Rene, who was thin and skinny just like a sheet of paper, appeared. She looked at Mrs. Long timidly and then, with choked sobs, she said, “I was wrong! Please don’t fire my boyfriend! I was wrong! Please, I’ll even get down on my knees!”

As she spoke, she really got down on her knees with a thud.

Mrs. Long, however, was unmoved.

At this moment, a male voice suddenly reached them.

“Rene, what are you doing? Get up!”

Along with the strong and firm voice, a big and tall figure rushed over. The man looked about 23 or 24 years old and was obviously a fresh college graduate. There was a sense of boyishness from having just entered the working class on his face.

He was wearing a suit and looked like someone from upper-class society, yet his actions and behavior carried a sense of boyishness. He looked very bright and cheerful and was very dashing.

He rushed over and held Rene up.

Rene, whose voice was nasal from crying, said, “Liam, I’m sorry, I’ve caused you trouble. You have a promising future ahead of you, I mustn’t hold you back. Sob...”

Upon hearing this, Liam Martin pulled Rene up even more forcefully. He said loudly and firmly, “Rene, don’t be afraid! I told you that I would protect you! Since I’ve taken you out of that house, I will definitely protect you! Even if I can’t continue with this job, I can still get other jobs! Trust me!”

Rene looked at him timidly. “No, no, it’s my fault. If I get on my knees and beg Mrs. Long, she will forgive you. I can’t mess with your career...”

Liam sighed. “Rene! That’s enough! Alright, I’ll handle this. Go back into the house,

okay?”

Rene wanted to say something but Liam reached out a finger and pressed it against her lips. “Alright, just go in first! I’ll handle this.”

A dazed Rene glanced at him before she finally lowered her head, her long hair covering her face as though this was the only way she could feel safe.

She slowly retreated into the house.

Liam closed the door and then looked at Nora. Nora was about to explain when Liam said, “You don’t need to say anything, Rene has already told me everything that happened. She did the right thing!”

After saying that, he looked at Mrs. Long. “You’re already in your sixties, yet you bullied a five-year-old? Do you think that makes you very impressive? You may scare Rene, but you won’t scare me!”

Mrs. Long sneered, “It seems that you really don’t plan on staying in NTT anymore, right? Okay, I’ll call my son right away!”

She took out her cell phone and made a phone call. In no time, someone answered, upon which her son, Fred Long’s, voice rang out. “What’s up, Mom?”

After Mrs. Long told him what had happened, Fred sneered and said, “I see. Don’t worry, Mom, I’ll make him pay!”

Then, Fred shouted into the phone again.

“Liam, I know you are listening. You can go straight to HR tomorrow to hand in your resignation! NTT does not welcome people like you!”

With that, Fred hung up.

Mrs. Long sneered and glanced at Nora and Liam again. She said, “Ms. Smith, he was fired entirely because of you!”

Nora’s eyes were already narrowed. She said dispassionately, “He won’t be fired.”

When Mrs. Long heard this, she scoffed. “Do you think you’re a supervisor in NTT? You’re saying that he won’t be fired?”

Nora replied, “NTT is well-known in the industry for being fair and just. Liam has not made any mistakes, NTT has no right to fire him!”

Mrs. Long found her words hilarious. “My goodness, you sure are naive! Do you think this is a utopia? Or do you think you’re in a movie? Not only is NTT’s hierarchy very strict, but Liam is also a fresh college graduate. He has no one in NTT who can speak up for him! My son can easily fire him!”

“Really?”

Nora’s lips curled into a smile. “Then let’s see who will be fired tomorrow!”

Chapter 824 - Fire Someone For Me

Nora spoke very lightly, but her words chilled Mrs. Long

She frowned, but she still felt that the woman in front of her was just talking big, so she said, “Okay, then let’s wait and see!”

After she spoke, she even looked at Liam viciously and said, “What are you acting like a knight in shining armor here for? I’ll wait for you to come crying to beg me tomorrow!”

She snorted loudly and entered her house.

After Mrs. Long went in, Liam finally looked at Nora.

Nora immediately said, “You won’t be fired, don’t worry.”

This was a statement.

However, Liam obviously didn’t believe her. He smiled wryly and said, “You don’t have to blame yourself. Don’t worry, I got into NTT with my own capabilities, so even if I’m fired, I can still support Rene and myself. We’re neighbors and even fellow Americans, so let’s watch out for each other in the future.”

He entered the house with an anxious look all over his face. Then, the sound of Liam softly coaxing Rene came from the house.

Nora did not enter her house.

Instead, she stood outside and listened for a while.

Something was very wrong with the state Rene was in. Not only did she wear shabby clothes, but her hair was also dirty and greasy, making her look just like a homeless person on the streets.

Moreover, when she heard Mrs. Long say that her boyfriend would be fired, her reaction had also been highly abnormal, so much so that it even made Nora dubious as to whether Liam was a good boyfriend or not.

After all, Liam was leading a glamorous life outside, so why would Rene look like this at home?

She was worried that Liam was not what he seemed like, so she'd deliberately stayed behind to eavesdrop on them.

When she was surfing the Internet recently, she had learned that a lot of men emotionally manipulate their girlfriends. They would say things like "It's a blessing that an excellent man like me is interested in you" and "No one will want you except me", and use notions like these to completely control a woman's thoughts and make them feel that they couldn't live without them.

The fact that Rene was unemployed and the way she'd looked so scared and horrified at the thought of Liam being fired was very similar to how women under their boyfriends' control would behave.

However, despite her eavesdropping on them outside for a long while, all Nora heard was Liam coaxing Rene in an extremely patient manner. Rene's condition also gradually improved.

Although she kept apologizing, in the end, the two still went off sweetly to prepare dinner.

Liam sincerely treated Rene well.

Nora turned and returned to her villa.

Cindy was preparing dinner for her and the children. When she saw her, she said, "I didn't go out when Mrs. Long came over..."

She was afraid that Mrs. Long would become suspicious of Nora's identity if she saw her.

Nora nodded, indicating that she'd done well. She then asked, "What's up with Rene and Liam from next door?"

Cindy replied, "Liam is really a very good man and he also really loves Rene. Liam graduated from a famous university and he also comes from a very good family. But out of everyone, he simply fell in love with Rene, who has been a victim of domestic violence since she was a child. Doesn't Rene look just like a beggar in front of him? When Liam brought her home, his family disapproved of their relationship, so he decided to simply move out and live by himself with Rene! Sigh! For Rene, Liam is her redemption."

Nora: "..."

Her brows knitted together a little. "What's wrong?" Cindy asked. Nora smiled. "It's nothing."

Then, she added, "I was just thinking that I've never seen love like that between the two of them before."

A handsome and cheerful boy who was high up in the air and had grown up in a well-to-do family, and a filthy girl who was timid, overcautious, and jumpy... No matter how one looked at it, they simply looked like a strange combination.

Nevertheless, in order to give the pair of lovers a happy ending, Nora still picked up her cell phone and made a phone call.

"Yeah, it's me. Make some arrangements for me—I want to fire someone and retain someone else in the company."

Early the next morning.

When Liam woke up, he saw that Rene was already up and was preparing breakfast for him.

Rene's fingernails were a little long and the undersides were also a little grimy. She looked slovenly but Liam knew that it was because she didn't dare to cut her nails.

Since she was a child, cutting her nails had always been a form of torture for her.

Her adoptive parents abused her and had even gone so far as to pluck out her nails before. The pain made her never want to cut her nails for the rest of her life.

Therefore, she never cut her nails unless she absolutely had to. Usually, when they got too long, she would just bite them off.

She put a slice of butter in between bread slices and handed it to Liam.

Without finding it dirty, Liam took the bread from her and took a bite.

After he finished breakfast, he gave Rene a kiss on her forehead. The look in Rene's eyes turned gentle and blissful at once, the way she looked at him was as though he was the only light in her life.

Liam smiled and pinched her cheek. "Why are you so cute, Rene? Don't worry, even if I'm fired, I will still find a way to feed us, so don't be scared."

Rene nodded happily. Then, she said, "Well, y-you may not necessarily be dismissed from the company. Besides... Besides, I-I can also go and find a job. I-I can also contribute a little to this family."

Liam touched her head. "Yeah, my little Rene has grown up."

After saying that, he picked up a folder, put on a suit, and left the house.

But after he stepped out, his expression sank.

He expelled a heavy breath of air.

Fred happened to be his superior. According to NTT's regulations, Fred could decide whether Liam stayed or left all by himself.

Therefore, Liam knew that there was no chance of him lucking out today.

When he was walking out with his head down, he happened to see Mrs. Long standing at the door and looking at him with a big smile like a victor.

“Liam, I will show you today just how wicked and sinister this society is! So what even if you’re a Staav University graduate? If you must blame someone, then you can just blame yourself for having bad taste and falling in love with such a slovenly woman. However, I can still give you a way out-how about you break up with that woman? My niece is an excellent girl, I can introduce you to each other. If the two of you are in a relationship, my son will take care of you...”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 825 - Who Is The Letter Of Dismissal For?

Nora heard what Mrs. Long said the moment she stepped out of her house in the morning.

She frowned, wanting to say something. But when she looked over, she saw Rene hiding at the window of her house. She was staring nervously at Liam, her eyes fixed on him as if she was afraid that he would not want her anymore.

She was so nervous that her hands were tightly wrung, but she didn't have the courage to call out to him, interrupt Mrs. Long, or argue with her.

Her hair was still dirty and greasy because she was unwilling to wash it and the clothes she wore were old and worn out. Her head was constantly down and she looked like she didn't have any confidence at all.

It wouldn't even be surprising if she was mistaken as a beggar when she walked down the streets.

Someone like her certainly seemed out of place next to Liam.

On the other side, Mrs. Long was still talking. "Rene is a piece of trash. Besides, she has been abused by her adoptive parents since she was a child!. Liam, you shouldn't throw away your future because of someone like her!"

Liam sighed. The cheerful man said, "I'm not going to leave Rene."

His firm voice made Rene's eyes overflow with happiness.

Mrs. Long wasn't pleased, though. "How come you can't even distinguish between something good and bad? Your family will never accept a wife like her! Did your parents raise you just to let you marry a good-for-nothing like her?"

Liam sighed. “She’s not a good-for-nothing!”

Liam walked towards the gates. “I’m going to work. I’ll be late if I stay any longer.”

However, Mrs. Long grabbed his sleeve. “Liam, listen to me, my niece…”

“Is your niece so ugly she can’t even find a man by herself?”

Nora’s light words interrupted Mrs. Long’s boasting of her niece. She was stunned for a moment, and then she abruptly turned to look at Nora. “What a busybody! Mind your own business!”

Nora smiled sarcastically.

Mrs. Long retracted her outstretched arm. Having failed to achieve her goal, Mrs. Long was very indignant. She snorted coldly. “Liam, I will give you your options here and now. The first: Stay with that beggar and get fired today!

“Second, break up with that pushover and I will let bygones be bygones. My son will take care of you in NTT, so you will definitely rise through the ranks!”

Nora also looked at Liam.

Liam sighed helplessly and shook his head. “I told you, I will never abandon Rene.”

After saying that, Liam went straight out the door.

Mrs. Long yelled angrily, “Fine, you refuse to choose, right? What an ingrate, you can just wait for my son to fire you!”

Liam ignored her completely and walked away.

Mrs. Long stomped her foot angrily. When she turned and saw the smile on Nora’s lips, she suddenly became annoyed. “What are you laughing at? He’s going to be fired all because of you! He is being chauvinistic now, so he won't blame you for it yet, but what about in the future? When he thinks of how he once had a great future waiting for him yet it was shattered because of you, do you think he won't blame you for it in the future?"

Nora ignored the lunatic.

She had already notified Cindy to evict Mrs. Long and drive them away.

Nora, who couldn't be bothered to talk to her, simply walked out the door without even a side-glance.

Liam walked down the road, his head down.

Although he had comforted Rene and said that he might not lose his job, he knew very well that Fred had always been very domineering and had been suppressing newcomers like him in the company. Since Mrs. Long had complained the day before, Fred definitely wouldn't let him off.

There was a 90% probability that he would be fired when he went to work today.

He sighed.

He took out his cell phone and sent his resume to other companies, hoping that a company would immediately hire him after he was fired.

Otherwise, Rene would really feel guilty.

He called many of his ex-classmates, hoping that they could get him a job through referrals. Unfortunately, all his ex-classmates had only just entered the working society, so none of them were qualified to give referrals.

An ex-classmate even sent him a message: 'Liam, you went to the best company. Why are you changing jobs?'

Liam didn't know how to answer.

He sighed, put down his phone, and got on the bus.

Even though he had gone from being a rich boy to a life where he had to take a bus whenever he was out, Liam did not feel uncomfortable at all.

Before he knew it, the bus had arrived.

Liam alighted from the bus and subconsciously glanced at his watch 8:55.

it was

Oh no, he was going to be late.

Liam hurriedly ran to the company, but as he ran, he suddenly realized that he was going there to be fired. Even if he was late, it didn't really matter, right?

Liam slowed down.

He became downcast and dejected again.

After he reached the company at the last moment, he sat in his seat. The person next to him suddenly leaned over and whispered, "Hey Liam, did you offend Fred or what? Why did he ask for you with a long face the moment he arrived at work today? Also, I saw him calling HR just now and saying that he wants to fire you!"

The last ray of hope in Liam's heart was gone.

He'd originally hoped that Fred wouldn't act based on his emotions but only now did he realize that he was exactly someone like that.

Liam clenched his fists.

Although he had just graduated, his salary here was very high, enough to support him and Rene. He was also used to being a big spender and everything he ate and drank was the best of the lot.

Thus, he didn't have much savings. What was he going to do during his job-hunting period after he gets fired?

While he was thinking about this, Liam's arm was suddenly bumped. He looked up to see Fred standing in front of him.

Liam hurriedly stood up and said, "Mr. Long, about what happened last night, I..."

"There's nothing much to say about it." With a big belly, Fred said, "You will receive your letter of dismissal in a while..."

As he said that, an HR staff member walked in with a letter of dismissal.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 826 - Slap In The Face! You Are Fired!

Liam stared blankly at the HR manager walking in, utterly stunned.

He didn't expect it to come so quickly.

He said in a daze, "How can this be?"

Fred smirked smugly. "I told you, in NTT, a word from me is enough to decide your life and death! Liam, you are simply too insensible. You've really disappointed me!"

Liam: "!"

Fred then lowered his head and suddenly said, "By the way, did you send your resume to other companies? If so, then I'll tell you this

-in the name of NTT senior management, I will be punishing you for dereliction of duty. With this, let's see which company would dare to hire you!"

If he were to shoulder such a penalty, Liam's career would be ruined.

It was useless even if he was a Staav University graduate!

Liam's eyes widened and he clenched his fists tightly.

Seeing how he was obviously livid yet he still had to bear with it, Fred raised his eyebrows, feeling as pleased as punch. He simply loved how fantastic it felt seeing someone dislike him yet unable to do anything to him.

"Pack up your things... Oh, you don't have much to pack anyway. You guys, watch him, don't let him take away anything confidential from the company! You'd best leave obediently, otherwise, I'll call the security!"

Liam, whose fists were balled up, was shaking all over.

The colleagues around him also found Liam very pitiful.

At this moment, the company's HR manager walked up to Fred.

When Fred saw her, he smiled and said, "Lucy, it's just a small employee being fired, why have you come in person? You could've just let your subordinates run the errand and bring the letter of dismissal instead."

In NTT, ordinary HR personnel was enough for the dismissal of low-ranking employees. Only when someone from the senior management was being dismissed would the HR manager be personally involved.

Thus, Fred felt that Lucy was kinda making a mountain out of a molehill today.

Lucy looked at him and opened her mouth. But before she could speak, Fred looked at Liam. "Lucy, a general manager, has personally come to deliver the letter of dismissal! You'd better just leave obediently! It's best that you don't make any trouble or embarrass yourself!"

After saying this, Fred looked at Lucy triumphantly. "Lucy, come on, take out the letter of dismissal! Don't waste everyone's time."

Lucy slowly looked at the dismissal letter in her hand, seemingly thinking about what to say. "How should I say this..."

The way she looked as though she was in a dilemma pleased Fred, who said, "Isn't it just a letter of dismissal? Don't worry, Lucy, the company would definitely have their reasons for dismissing an employee! Besides, no matter who it is, would they dare to sue NTT? After all, NTT has the most powerful team of lawyers in the world!"

After he spoke, he looked at Liam. "I should think that no one would dare to make any trouble in NTT, right?"

Every word of his was warning Liam against making a scene!

It was useless even if he did make a scene, NTT would definitely have a legitimate reason for dismissing him. Even if he took them to court, there was no way he would win. This was the darkness of society!

Fred, who was terribly excited, stared at Liam.

Liam took a deep breath. He didn't want to make a scene, either. He had feelings for NTT. He didn't want to give himself a bad impression of NTT just because of Fred.

He picked up his bag without taking anything else, stood up, and grabbed the letter of dismissal from the HR manager. He looked down at it... The next moment, when he saw the name on the letter of dismissal, his eyes suddenly widened.

There was even a moment when he felt that he must be seeing things.

He rubbed his eyes.

Fred was still saying, "Liam, although you haven't been in NTT long, you should still work hard after you go to other companies. Don't make the same mistakes you made in NTT again..."

Liam turned his head in disbelief and looked at Fred.

Fred was still smiling. "What now? You don't want to leave anymore? It's no use begging me now... Once the dismissal letter is out, it's impossible to keep you in the company anymore..."

The HR manager finally couldn't bear to watch anymore. She sighed heavily and said, "Sorry, Fred, I'm going to announce the company's decision now."

Everyone around them was looking at them, so Fred said, "Oh, yes, of course. This is the company's decision, so of course, it has to be announced. Lucy, you can say it! No matter what, I will always support the company's decision."

Lucy sighed again and glanced at him.

Then, she took the dismissal letter from Liam and stuffed it into Fred's hand.

Fred said, "... Are you telling me to hand the dismissal letter to Liam myself? So that it will look more formal?"

But as soon as the question came out, Lucy said, "Fred, you're fired."

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 827 - You Offended Someone You Shouldn'T Have!

Fred: “?”

Fred frowned, but then immediately smiled. “Lucy, what kind of joke is this?”

After speaking, he lowered his head and looked at the dismissal letter in his hand. “It’s not funny at all.”

But as soon as he spoke, he saw that the name on the letter was indeed Fred Long.

Fred was dumbfounded.

He felt that he must have read it wrong. He rubbed his eyes and looked at it again.

For the first time, Fred felt like he couldn’t quite recognize his name anymore.

How did this... How could this happen?!

Fred raised his head sharply and looked at Lucy. “Did you make a mistake? Why would I be fired? Who gave you the guts to fire me?”

Lucy replied, “It’s Jesse.”

Jesse happened to be Fred’s direct superior. Fred usually shared a good relationship with him. One could say that it was precisely because of Jesse that Fred could do whatever he wanted in the company. Therefore, he didn’t believe it at all. “That’s impossible! What’s the reason? Why would Jesse fire me?!”

Lucy sighed. “The reason for dismissal is written in the letter.”

Fred hurriedly opened the dismissal letter, upon which he saw things he had done recently that violated the company’s principles listed one after another. Everything was clearly listed.

Fred swallowed. He suddenly looked at Lucy. “Where’s Jesse? I want to see him!”

However, Lucy took a step back. “Jesse doesn’t want to see you, so please leave.”

After saying that, she paused and went on. “You said it yourself just now—the company must have their reasons for dismissing an employee! And no matter who is dismissed, would they dare to sue NTT? NTT has the best team of lawyers in the world!

“So, I should think that no one would dare to make any trouble in NTT, right?”

“I’m already showing you a lot of courtesy by personally handing over the dismissal letter. Don’t embarrass yourself anymore.”

Se

“If you don’t leave, I’ll have to call the security. I think you wouldn’t want the security officers to drag you out, right? That would be really unbecoming.”

“Oh, by the way, because you were fired for such major mistakes, we will be declaring all of this on your employment record. This may have a certain impact on your job search in the future, but my dear friend, I believe you can overcome this, right?”

Every sentence she spoke was the same as what Fred had said to Liam just now, which made Fred feel as if someone had just slapped him across the cheek. He couldn’t say anything at all.

He looked at Lucy in shock.

Lucy tilted her head and gestured to the outside. “This way, please.”

As they say, everyone kicked the man when he was down. Everyone had long been dissatisfied with Fred’s behavior, so the moment she said those things, someone said, “By the way, when Liam was being fired just now, he was asked not to take anything from the company. Then what about Mr. Long?”

“Of course, he’s not allowed to, either,” Lucy replied with a straight face. She then looked at Liam. “Liam, since you’re still working with us, why don’t you be responsible for monitoring Fred? Don’t let him take anything related to the company with him when he leaves.”

Liam, who was still dazed and shocked, only recovered after he was spoken to. He hurriedly replied, “Okay!”

After speaking, he looked at Lucy again in shock. “D-does this mean I won’t be fired anymore?”

Lucy nodded. “Yes, the notice to dismiss Fred was issued last night, so strictly speaking, he had already been dismissed by the company this morning. Therefore, the orders he issued are invalid.”

Liam’s eyes lit up and he suddenly became excited. “Okay!”

He looked straight at Fred. “Mr. Long... Oh, no, wait, I mean Fred, can you please leave the company at once?”

Their roles had been instantly reversed. From someone being suppressed, Liam had become the one suppressing others now.

In this instant, Liam felt indescribably fantastic!

He was simply too lucky!

Who would have thought that Fred would make a mistake at this juncture?! Jesse was practically his lifesaver!

“Liam, you’re so lucky!”

“Yeah! You escaped!”

Liam chatted and laughed with the others, totally relieved. He didn't have to leave NTT anymore! He was so happy!

“I'll treat you guys to dinner later. Now, I have something important to do.”

After saying that, Liam took Fred to the latter's office.

Fred's office was separated from the rest. When he entered the office, he was already starting to break down. His eyes were red and swollen.

After entering, he went straight to the phone without hesitation.

Liam hurriedly stepped forward to stop him. “What are you doing?”

“Go away! I'm going to ask Jesse what the hell is going on?”

Fred pushed Liam away. Liam frowned. He wanted to act resolutely and call for the security officers, but the phone call suddenly went through.

Fred shouted, “Jesse, you betrayed me! Why? I just want to know why!”

Liam, who wanted to stop him, paused slightly-he also wanted to know why.

Just as he thought of this, he heard Jesse reply, “Because you've offended someone you shouldn't have!”

He had offended someone he shouldn't have?

Who was it?

While Fred was thinking about it, next to him, Liam stopped abruptly. Could it be that...

Chapter 828 - I Can Understand

Could it be... his neighbor, Ms. Smith?

S-surely not, right...?

Liam shook his head and dismissed the idea. It was impossible.

The previous evening, Ms. Smith had said with certainty that he would be fine...

But if Ms. Smith was that capable, how could she live in an ordinary neighborhood like theirs?

Therefore, it couldn't be her.

But Ms. Smith's confident gaze and tone made him uncertain again...

"Who is it? Who did I offend? Jesse, you have to let me know why this is happening to me!" Fred shouted.

On the other end, Jesse fell silent for a moment before he finally said, "I told you, you offended someone you shouldn't have. That's all I can tell you. Fred, leave. Don't make any trouble, otherwise, things will become even worse for you."

With that, Jesse hung up.

Fred wanted to call him again, but security officers came in at this point.

"Fred, please leave the company..."

Nora reported at Staav University again.

She had come pretending to be an undergraduate exchange student, so she was assigned a solo dormitory room. Of course, Nora had already submitted an application for living outside of the school premises. It had also been approved.

At Staav University, exchange students must have a classmate partner to guide them in their studies. The counselor had assigned her the best student of their major to guide her.

She was a very tall girl and was a little chubby. Blond and blue-eyed, she wore glasses and looked like a pedant very particular about things.

The counselor said, “Oscar, please take care of Lisa for the next three months, okay?”

Oscar nodded. “Yeah, I will take good care of her. I mean, I’ll try my best, but if she can’t keep up with my pace, I won’t slow down my work just for her because I find that a burden. That’s okay, right?”

The counselor nodded. “Of course. Lisa is the best student in the Department of Biology at the New York University School of Medicine. Well, you should be able to show her the difference between Staav University and the NYU School of Medicine, right?”

The New York University School of Medicine’s Department of Biology was not even ranked in the country. They were only able to have an exchange program with an international university like Staav because the New York University School of Medicine’s president had struck a deal with Staav University’s president.

In truth though, all the students in the department looked down on the New York University School of Medicine.

Only upon the counselor’s request did Oscar reluctantly agree to the request. She looked at Nora unwillingly and sized her up. She asked, “No offense, but does your school choose exchange students based on how they look?”

After she said that, afraid that Nora might misunderstand, she shrugged and added, “What I mean is, you’re really pretty.”

This girl looked down on the New York University School of Medicine, so she naturally had a sense of superiority.

Nora could understand, though. The universities were ranked in America too. Would MIT, Stanford, or Harvard students think highly of bottom-feeders?

No matter how great the bottom-feeders' achievements were, star students would always subconsciously have a kind of pride in them.

Oscar didn't deliberately suppress it; instead, she displayed it straightforwardly and openly. Nora didn't dislike her.

She smiled and said, "You are also very pretty."

Oscar shook her head. "But beauty can't replace knowledge. You should know that the courses in our university are relatively extreme and the lecturers here are all impressive people. The lecturer for our class is a famous figure in the field of biology. His name is Epson, you definitely would've heard of him! He is already a top-class figure in the pharmaceutical profession and the drugs he developed have all become the ceiling of the pharmaceutical industry."

Nora: "..."

Her acquaintances were simply everywhere.

How could she possibly not know Epson?

That guy used to send her e-mails frequently because he wanted to research a clinical drug with her. Because of the difficulty and precision of the study, Epson had sent her e-mails for a whole year!

Of course, she hadn't agreed even now.

Yet she was going to go for his classes now?

How interesting.

Nora lowered her head and entered the classroom with Oscar. Oscar had always been a model student, so she wanted to rush straight to the front the moment she entered.

Unfortunately, because the counselor had summoned her over to meet Nora, they came a little late, so the front row was full.

Staav University students really loved studying.

Oscar looked at Nora resentfully. “It seems that we will have to come earlier next time.”

Nora nodded.

She and Oscar could only sit in the corner of the last row.

Even so, many people continued to stream into the classroom after that, some even stood at the back to listen.

Nora was puzzled. Were there not enough seats in a university as big as Staav?

Just as she was wondering about this, Oscar relieved her doubts. “Everyone loves Professor Epson’s classes, so people from other majors always come to listen every time he teaches. Sigh! But they are very self-aware, so they will let us have the seats first.”

Nora: “...”

The academic atmosphere here sure was intense!

Even a lazy person like her found it a bit touching

Yeah, it seemed that she had really been too lazy before and had wasted all her time sleeping. In the future, she must... tell the three children never to learn from her!

The moment she thought of this, Nora yawned.

She had become sleepy again.

Oscar looked at her. “You must be serious in class. If you space out for even a moment, you won’t be able to keep up with Professor Epon’s train of thought. During his previous lecture, my stomach simply hurt too much, so I went out for five minutes. When I came back, I felt like he was speaking Greek.”

“... Aren’t you just exaggerating?”

“No, I’m not.” Oscar continued. “The theoretical knowledge of students from the New York University School of Medicine is very weak, so it’s okay even if you don’t understand the lecture. I can lend you my notes after the class.”

Nora paused for a while. She suddenly asked, “I have a question-how can I obtain the qualifications to access a file from the Department of Biology?”

“Are you talking about File No. 004?”

Oscar glanced at her again. “You don’t have any chance of that. That file is very precious, only a few in the biology department have ever seen it. There are a few requirements you need to fulfill if you want that access. The first requirement is that you must understand Epon’s lessons.”

She then said, “One must be grounded in their learning. Take it slowly, step by step. Don’t be greedy.”

Seeing this, Nora frowned. “What if I can understand Professor Epon’s class?”

“How can that be?” Oscar obviously found what she said a joke. “Even I can’t fully understand it, so how would you possibly understand?”

As Oscar spoke, Professor Epon came in. As soon as he entered, his eyes swept across the whole class and suddenly fell on Nora.

Chapter 829 - Advanced Archives

Epson was a big and tall white man. He was 30 years old and a little fat. There was a trace of hostility in his eyes.

Nora narrowed her eyes.

Did Epson recognize her?

But they had never met before!

While she was wondering, Epson said, “That girl I’ve never seen before, the one in the last row. Yes, you. Tell me your name.”

As Epson’s voice rang out, all the students in the classroom looked at Nora.

Although Nora was weirded out, she answered calmly, “Lisa.” “Lisa?” Epson smiled. “You must be the exchange student from the New York University School of Medicine, right?”

Nora nodded. “Yeah.”

Epson lowered his gaze. “Oh, I heard that the courses there are quite simple. By the way, you are from the Department of Biology, right? The professor that your school externally hired... No, she’s not an external hire anymore but an internal one. Have you attended Professor Anti’s classes before?”

Nora: “??”

She raised her eyebrows, puzzled. “Anti is the director of the Department of Surgery, she’s not from the Department of Biomedicine, so she has never taught classes there.”

“Is that so?”

Epson's voice was full of displeasure when he talked about Anti. "She sure is as arrogant as ever!"

Nora understood now.

Epson had once sent her an email every day for more than 300 days, but she had never replied to him. To Epson, she must be overly arrogant.

Epson must have something against Anti!

Nora did not speak.

Epson continued. "I have to say that it is really regretful that she has never taught you."

Nora: "?!"

The next moment, he went on. "Therefore, you have no way of evaluating our classes, let alone realize that I am actually much better than her."

The corners of Nora's lips spasmed a little. Her eyes narrowed and she couldn't be bothered to pay attention to him anymore.

She simply lowered her head and opened the textbook.

She had already thoroughly studied and researched biomedicine a long time ago. In order to become Silvester's student, not only did she have to be skilled in alternative medicine but she also had to have pharmaceutical knowledge. Biomedicine was an important tool in pharmaceuticals.

When a bored Nora flipped the book from beginning to end, she found that she already knew everything in it, so she simply put the book aside and put her head down on the table.

The hardest part of becoming a student was that, because she had to go to class at eight o'clock, she had to get up at seven in the morning every day, wash up, and then drive over...

She was simply too sleepy!

Oscar, who was sitting next to her, stared at Epson nervously, wishing she could record everything he said so that she could go back and study it carefully.

The girl, who was listening to the class earnestly, turned her head abruptly. When she saw Nora sleeping on the table, she frowned a little and then sighed.

The two periods were over very soon. In the blink of an eye, it was ten o'clock.

As they were juniors, they didn't have that many classes, so there were no more classes for the rest of the day.

The laughter of her classmates around her made Nora slowly wake up. She raised her head with a groggy look in her eyes. Because she had been sleeping on the table, there was a mark on her cheek.

“Hahaha! This girl is so cute!”

“But she actually had the guts to sleep in Professor Epson's class. What a pity, what Professor Epson talked about in this class was simply amazing!”

“Actually, you can't really blame her for that. Without a foundation, she won't be able to understand anything...”

Nora didn't care about what they said at all. She merely stretched and looked at Oscar. “There aren't any more classes today, so see you tomorrow?”

After speaking, she picked up her bag to leave.

Oscar was stunned. “Where are you going?”

Nora replied hesitantly, “Home, of course!”

Oscar held her forehead. “How can you go home? There's a cellular and molecular biology exam tomorrow! Oh my god, I forgot that you probably don't have a timetable yet.”

Oscar then said, “We are already at the end of the term, so exams are just around the corner. Although you are an exchange student, you happened to be in time for it. I really don’t know what your school is thinking, sending an exchange student here at this time. Why didn’t they send you here at the start of the new semester instead?”

It was because she couldn’t afford to wait for the new semester, of course.

But Nora wasn’t going to explain that to Oscar, so she just nodded and said, “Okay, I see.”

Only then did Oscar speak. “Then let’s go to the library to study together! I can teach you some basics. Although last-minute cramming may be useless, we should still try, right?”

“... No, it’s fine. I have something on, so I’ll leave first.”

Without giving Oscar another chance to speak, she walked out with her backpack.

File No. 004 wasn’t even in the library, so why would she still waste time going there?

The place she wanted to go to now was Staav University’s Advanced Archives.

Nora strolled around the school. After asking around, she came to the building where the archives were located.

She looked left and right. When she saw that no one was paying attention to her, she went straight upstairs.

The Advanced Archives was Staav University’s secret base. All the archives in the room were classified SSS-level and held top priority in the school.

A special ID card was required to enter no matter who it was.

Thud!

Nora accidentally bumped into someone coming out of the room.

The man immediately looked at her with a frown and said, "Sorry."

Then, seemingly in a hurry, he ran away in a panic.

After he had gone far away, Nora looked at the ground.

In the end, what she wanted had come to her so effortlessly.

Just like that, an access card for the advanced archives lay quietly on the ground-it had slipped out of the pocket of the man just now.

With the opportunity right in front of her, needless to say, Nora wasn't going to let it slip by.

She bent over and picked up the card. When she looked around and saw that no one was around, she swiped it on the lock at the door right away.

Beep.

The metal door opened. Nora narrowed her eyes and entered right away!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 830 - She Had Never Intended To Hide Her Strength

The advanced archives had a fully metallic interior design.

Although they called it an archive room, it was actually more like a large safe. Nora looked at the room full of technology. The room was more than 5,000 square feet and there were many shelves on the walls. There were small boxes on all the shelves.

Each box was marked with a label.

Nora looked over. From the outside all the way to the inside, there were hundreds almost a thousand-of them.

In the middle was a long table with only paper and pens on it. It was very neat and clean.

The files in the advanced archives were all highly important confidential material that mustn't be leaked. For confidentiality's sake, they had never been digitized, so as to prevent hacking attempts from hackers like Q and Y.

The files here were never loaned out either. One had to read all the files they wanted to check out in the room itself.

Therefore, there were elites from various industries seated at the long table at the moment. Most of them were postgraduate students working on projects with their mentors.

Some lecturers also had to come over to refer to the materials.

Only one or two undergraduates were eligible to access the room.

Nora didn't make much noise when she entered but she was startled when she saw the room full of people.

She certainly hadn't expected it to be so lively in here.

After she entered, a student on duty asked, "Who are you? How did you get in?"

Nora pondered for a moment.

The student on duty seemed to have a very wary look in his eyes. There were only so many people who could come in here to study and refer to the materials, so he would definitely know who had access and who didn't.

Therefore, she probably wouldn't be able to pretend that she had come in to read the books here.

Thus, Nora simply replied, "I came the wrong way."

After speaking, she wanted to leave.

However, she was stopped by the student. "Miss, you can't go. You must explain clearly why you're here, otherwise, we have grounds to suspect that you are here to steal important data from the school."

The advanced archives were Staav University's crucial capital that had allowed it to establish its position and be ranked third among all the universities in the world. Thus, the security here would undoubtedly be very strict.

Nora looked down at the card in her hand.

She was about to explain that she had found a card and came in without knowing what this place was when a low and deep voice suddenly reached them.

"How did you find this place?"

When Nora turned, she immediately saw Kelvin's heavily made-up face.

He had eyeshadow on and his eyeliner was drawn long, which made him look even more bewitching than usual. His complexion was very fair from all the makeup but the thick foundation was surprisingly not cakey.

After not seeing him for two days, the fellow's skin condition seemed to have improved.

Nora didn't understand why a thought like that would pop up in her mind at a critical moment like this. The next moment, though, Kelvin looked at the student on duty and said with a sense of resignation, "She's my fan."

The student sighed at once. "I knew it! Kelvin, we agreed to let you shoot here, but only for half an hour; and you are also not allowed to touch any of our stuff here. But your fans are even breaking in now..."

Kelvin was very tall. He leaned against the wall lazily and said, "Sorry, since she's my fan, I'll deal with her myself."

After speaking, he walked straight toward the door. He grabbed her wrist as he passed by Nora.

Nora was dumbfounded.

She stared blankly at the hand holding her wrist.

His hand... The warmth of his palm was very similar to Justin's yet at the same time, it was also different—because there was a burn scar on the back of his hand.

Kelvin had indeed scalded himself. The incident took place just a week before Justin had faked his death. Therefore, he was not Justin...

After leaving the archives, Nora came back to her senses and shook off Kelvin's hand. She asked, "Why did you help me?"

When "Kelvin" heard this, the look in his eyes turned a little deeper.

Damn it, those eyes were looking a little like Justin's again! Nora frowned. The next moment, she heard him chuckle and say, "Didn't I already tell you? Some men like playing with their... sister-in-law..."

When the man spoke, he bent over slightly and leaned close to her ear.

His breath when he spoke tickled her neck. “What do you think, Nora? Won’t you consider me?”

Nora took a step back and avoided his seduction. Then, she immediately bent her knee to hit him in the crotch. Shocked, Kelvin quickly jumped back a step. Only then did he manage to avoid the woman’s attack.

With a sharp look in her eyes, Nora said sloppily but murderously, “Keep a distance of three feet from me from now on. Otherwise, don’t hold it against me if my arms or legs itch for some action!”

After saying that, she turned and left.

After the woman disappeared into the distance, Kelvin touched his head.

His Nora was still as straightforward and explosive as always! Wasn’t she a little too harsh? He had almost been kneed...

Nora went home. Nothing special happened that night except Liam coming over to give them a cake in the evening.

“Rene made it, I hope you guys like it. By the way, I managed to keep my job. Mrs. Long’s son has been fired. The landlord also approached Mrs. Long today and informed her that she was going to evict them. Mrs. Long has been ranting and swearing all afternoon but the landlord is very powerful and isn’t someone she can afford to offend, so she has agreed to move out in three days.”

Liam looked at Nora tentatively as he spoke.

He wanted to know if she was the person whom Fred had offended but shouldn’t have.

But the woman’s expression was so calm and peaceful that he couldn’t tell anything from it...

Liam could only return disappointed.

Nora didn't care about such things, though. All she wanted at the moment was a good night's sleep.

The next day was the cellular and molecular biology examination.

As soon as Nora entered, Oscar frowned and looked at her, her expression as though she had expected better from Nora. She handed her book to Nora and said, "The exam is starting soon, you'd better take a quick look! Otherwise, you won't pass!"

Nora: "..."

Before she could even decline, the person next to her said, "It's useless even if she looks at it now."

"Yeah, there's no way she'll do well in the exam. All the exchange students that come here every year from the NYU School of Medicine's Department of Biology are really lousy."

"The NYU School of Medicine is too lousy. Even though they are a top medical university in the US, they are still far behind in biomedical engineering."

"Yeah, I think so too."

The group of people expressed their concern for her.

Oscar was also anxious. The girl sat next to Nora and said, "Can you please take a look? If you get an E, it'll embarrass us too!"

Unlike most universities, the grading system here ranged from A to E where:

A represented 'Excellent.'

B represented 'Good.'

C represented a pass.

D represented a fail.

And E represented extremely unsatisfactory performance. When Nora heard this, she raised her eyebrows and pushed the book back to Oscar. Right after, she curled her lips into a smile and said, “Nah, that’s not gonna happen.”

Oscar was stunned. “What? Are you saying you won’t read it or...”

Before she could finish, Nora said, “What I mean is, the NYU School of Medicine won’t score badly.”

After all, she had never intended to hide her strength!

Since only ‘Excellent’ people could openly go to the archives to read the material there, she would become an ‘Excellent’ person!!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 831 - Exam!

But when Oscar heard what Nora said, she thought she was just trying to push herself beyond her abilities.

Oscar hurriedly explained, “It’s not that we look down on the NYU School of Medicine, but for so many years, all the exchange students that come from your school really take last place all the time. They have never produced any respectable grades...”

This was also the reason why no one in the Department of Biomedicine wanted to be an exchange student.

The New York University School of Medicine’s Department of Biomedicine was not ranked in the country nor was the university the best specialist institution in the country. Their best courses were in surgery, medicine, and other specializations to do with medical skills. They were relatively weak in pharmaceuticals.

On the other hand, Staav University was the best school in the world when it came to biomedical engineering. This was also the most difficult course to get into at Staav University every year.

There was undoubtedly a gap between the two.

Although no one knew why the two schools had an exchange program each year, it was indeed a form of torture to have the biomedicine majors study here.

Oscar thought that the students’ comments had hurt Nora’s self-esteem, so she comforted her and said, “Your grade in the exam is what matters the most; nothing else matters. Lisa, you really disappoint me. It’s not bad for one to be poor; what’s worse is when one is poor and still tries to defend their hollow pride. If I were you, I would try my best to absorb knowledge and use my best grades to shut them up instead of giving up on myself like what you’re doing!”

After Oscar finished speaking, she took back her book. “Lisa, do you know why the counselor asked me to guide you? It’s not because my grades are the best; rather, it’s because I’m the most hard-working. The counselor does treat you well. We are all her students, so she doesn’t look down on you. On the contrary, you’re trying to prove yourself everywhere and maintain your pitiful self-esteem. You’re a really sad person.”

After saying that, Oscar didn’t look at her anymore. She had her own form of arrogance too. Although she found Lisa’s standard in the specialized course poor, she was still willing to help her. Oscar never looked down on students who were poor in learning. She only looked down on students who were obviously poor in learning yet still refused to work hard.

Nora wanted to explain, but the lecturer had already entered.

“Let’s start the exam.”

Nora could only shut up.

The exam commenced.

Oscar took her exams even more seriously than studying. Only through exams were her efforts reflected each time. She liked the feeling of taking first place.

The exam questions were not difficult for Oscar, so after she finished the multiple-choice questions at the front, she subconsciously glanced at Nora only to see that she had already turned a page.

Oscar frowned.

Did she not know how to do any of them? So she just randomly picked a few options?

Oscar shook her head.

Was she such a sensitive person?

She lowered her head and continued with the paper.

There was a question in the middle that stumped Oscar a little.

She frowned as she contemplated the question wanting to deduce what the answer was. She had two ideas in mind but she didn't know which one was correct. After thinking about it for a long time, she finally chose one and wrote it down.

Right after she wrote down the answer to the question, she heard footsteps.

Oscar raised her head abruptly to see Nora getting up and submitting her papers.

Oscar: “?”

Her expression turned even more awful and her contempt for Nora grew even stronger.

She liked people who worked hard and disliked people who gave up easily even more.

She still had two pages left to complete but that woman had already submitted her papers. She must have completely given up on the exam, right?!

Not only was she poor at her studies but she didn't even work hard and relied only on guesswork for her exams. On top of that, she even submitted her papers ahead of time. Even her attitude towards her studies wasn't respectable anymore. She had completely given up on herself!

An expression as though she had expected better from Nora came over Oscar's countenance.

She took a deep breath and continued with the exam.

After the exam, when she left the classroom, she happened to see the counselor waiting for her outside. At the sight of her, the counselor asked, “Oscar, where's Lisa?”

A displeased Oscar replied, “She handed in her papers ahead of time, she already left!”

The counselor looked at her. “Did you guys look down on her? Oscar, This is an academic institution. We mustn’t look down on anyone here, okay?”

Oscar said with dissatisfaction, “I didn’t look down on her. I just look down on people who are poor at their studies.”

After speaking, she requested, “Can I stop being her guide? We don’t get along and we’ll never be able to work together.” The counselor frowned. “Oh, have you given up on Lisa, dear? You are the best student in the class. If even you give up on her, then what is she going to do?”

Oscar’s heart softened but after thinking about it carefully, she nonetheless hardened her heart and said, “Ma’am, I didn’t give up on her, she’s the one who gave up on herself. I’m not going to study with such an unmotivated person.”

The counselor immediately said, “What must she do for you to help her? Oscar, I believe you can still give it a try.”

Oscar shook her head. “That’s impossible, I’m not interested in her anymore. Besides, I want to take the postgraduate entrance exam. Ma’am, you know me. If you want me to guide her... well, unless she does better than me in the exam.”

The counselor immediately hung her head. “You know that’s impossible. You are the top student among the juniors and always score the best in exams.”

Oscar shook her head and walked off with her school bag in her arms. “So, there’s no way I’ll ever do that again. I’m going to the library to read, please don’t take up my time anymore.”

Oscar left, leaving only the counselor standing there as she sighed.

What was Lisa supposed to do if Oscar refused to guide her anymore? What a headache.

After thinking about it, the counselor decided to go to the cellular and molecular bioscience professor's office. She asked, "Professor, how did Lisa do in the exam?"

The professor waved dismissively and said, "They've only just finished the exam, so I haven't looked at the papers yet."

The counselor asked, "Can you take out Lisa's test paper and take a look first?"

The counselor only hoped that Lisa wouldn't score too badly in the exam. If Nora could get a C, then she could try talking to Oscar again!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 832 - How Did She Do In The Exam?

When Professor Wilson heard the counselor, he couldn't help but shrug. "The papers have only just been collected. They haven't been given to me yet, so..."

He couldn't see Nora's test paper, either.

The counselor sighed. "Never mind then!"

Professor Wilson asked curiously, "Are her grades very good? I happen to need two undergraduates as assistants in my lab. If her grades are excellent, then I can consider her for the position..."

"Oh, no." The counselor explained, "She's an exchange student from America. Oscar doesn't want to guide her anymore, so I was thinking that if she could at least score a C, then I can try talking to Oscar about it again."

Upon hearing this, Professor Wilson waved and said, "Oh, an exchange student from America? The students from that school are terrible, so I doubt she can score a C. Even in her best condition, the highest she can score is probably just a D. I'll go a little easy on her!"

The counselor nodded.

She thought for a while and suddenly said, "Professor, you said just now that your lab needs assistants from the undergraduates, right? You'll definitely want Oscar, so why don't you take Lisa too? As an exchange student, everyone looks down on her. If you let her help out at the lab, maybe she'll be motivated to do better!"

Professor Wilson thought for a while and shook his head. "I only want Oscar. My experiment requires the assistants to go to the archives to refer to the materials there, so I didn't even pick that many postgraduate students. It is impossible for me to accept someone who doesn't know anything into the team.”

The counselor frowned and said, “But our school treats the exchange students so coldly every year, which reflects really badly on us. This year, the school has ordered me to treat Lisa well. Besides, Lisa is so pretty, she's the prettiest among all the exchange students I have seen. She has an indescribable mysterious feeling about her...”

Before she could finish, Professor Wilson interrupted her. “I see, you want me to accept her so that it looks like our course values the exchange students, right? But there are many professors conducting experiments, it doesn't necessarily have to be me. I can recommend someone.”

The counselor blinked. “You mean...?”

“The university's deserter, of course. Didn't that guy come back this year? The one who takes a salary from the school every month but doesn't do his job? I heard that he plans to set up an experiment lab! Can't you just shove Lisa into his lab?”

The counselor understood at once. “You're referring to Professor Myers? But Professor Myers was the best professor of microbiology in the past. Will he accept an exchange student?”

Wilson smiled. “Wayne Myers is also from America, so who knows? You can try asking him. Besides, you said it yourself—that was all in the past. Do you think he is still the best when more than twenty years have already passed? I heard that his lab hasn't gotten any investors so far and neither have any students applied to be under him.”

When Wayne disappeared more than twenty years ago, everyone had said that he left to go into business. This was because he had kept asking people from the university's School of Economics and Business Management business-related questions.

It was said that his company didn't do very well, so he had returned to campus.

Many looked down on him upon his return. Everyone privately mocked him for living in the past and thinking that he was still the best microbiology professor, which had made him set extremely strict standards for students applying to join his projects.

As a result, he still hadn't established a team for his project. Additionally, no one was investing in his project.

The counselor found Wilson's suggestion perfunctory but when she thought about how Oscar had rejected Lisa, she was afraid that even Lisa would give up on herself if she didn't arrange for Lisa to be assigned to a lab.

She could only say, "I'll try talking to him!"

For Lisa, she had to bite the bullet and give it a go.

After saying this, she turned and saw a cranky figure at the door.

Wayne stared at Wilson.

The two could be said to be old friends. Wilson had competed with him back then but he didn't expect him to have become so despicable.

Didn't he just take care of Idealian Pharmaceuticals for Ms. Yvette for a few years? Yet they were now taking him for a nobody?

ere no

They were too much!

Wayne was a chatterbox from the start and was incredibly naggy. He was so furious that he started ranting.

"Wilson, you piece of garbage, how dare you look down on me like that? You couldn't catch up with me back then, no matter how hard you tried. I was in first place while you were the perennial second. Yet now you're shoving a student you don't want to me? Do you think I will take them? You... # %@..."

Wayne ranted at him for a whole ten minutes without any pause in between, causing both Wilson and the counselor to be dumbfounded.

When Wayne finally stopped, the counselor hurriedly said, “Professor Myers, that’s not the case. Lisa is a good student...”

Before she could finish, Wayne retorted furiously, “Do you think there is something wrong with my brain? Would I accept someone Wilson doesn’t want? I’m not stupid! I... # @%...”

He scolded Wilson for ten minutes without any pause, again.

After he was done, he became thirsty, so he picked up a glass and poured himself a glass of water.

Wilson glanced at the counselor and suddenly said, “Since Myers doesn’t want her either, then let’s just forget it. American students are poor in their studies anyway, so neither of us would want them in our labs, isn’t that right, Myers?”

His provocation angered Wayne instantly. “F*ck you! Who are you looking down on? I’m an American myself! American students are not poor in their studies at all!”

Wilson waved and said, “The facts are right in front of you. I don’t want that American student and neither do you. If American students are really that excellent, then why wouldn’t you want them?”

Wayne, who had been checkmated, was a little at a loss for words. “Just like the ones here, there are good and bad students in America. How can you lump them all together?”

Wilson said, “But Lisa is already the best student there, yet neither you nor I want her, SO... I can only say that American students are simply too lousy in biomedical engineering.”

When Wayne became the best microbiology professor back then, he had made his country proud.

There might not be any borders in science but there were among scientists!

Now that Wilson was driving him into a corner like this, would he be able to bear it?

He immediately said, “Who says I don’t want her? I want her! I just don’t want your rejects, that’s all. Ha, but if you let me pick from all the students in the class, I would definitely pick her. What’s her name again...”

The counselor hurriedly replied, “Lisa.”

Wayne nodded. “Yes, Lisa! She is the most pleasing to the eye among all the students in the class. I’ll take her! Students from America are not inferior in any way at all!”

Wilson smiled. “Myers, you have to think through this. That student’s grades are very poor, you know...”

“Ha, just because she has poor grades doesn’t mean that she’s not talented! Maybe she’s just not good at exams. Wilson, you are being biased by evaluating a student like that! Besides, they’ve only just finished the exam, so their grades aren’t even out yet! How are you so sure that her grades are bad?”

Wayne was puffing himself up at his own cost right now!

No matter what, he had to accept Lisa into his lab team today. He mustn’t let anyone think that American students were totally unwanted here!

At the very worst, he’d just let her mooch off the team.

While he was thinking about it, the test papers from the exam were delivered to the office.

Wilson’s eyes lit up. “The test papers are here. Let’s find Lisa’s and take a look? Didn’t you want to know whether Lisa would get a D or an E just now?”

The counselor: “...”

She didn't want to know anymore!

When the counselor proposed to let Lisa join a lab project, she had really only done it for the student's interests and only wanted to boost her confidence. She didn't expect it to turn into an excuse for Wilson and Wayne to fight.

She was extremely grateful to Wayne for accepting the student, so she didn't want to embarrass him.

But just as she was about to speak, Wilson had already found Lisa's paper from among the stack of test papers. He smiled and said, "Come on, let's see just how 'excellent' this student from America is."

He sounded mocking when he said 'excellent'.

After speaking, he even looked at Wayne and said, "Come on, Myers, let's take a look together."

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 833 - Face-Slapped By The Grades!

Wayne's gaze fell on the test paper and he immediately said, "I have something on, so I'll have to go now."

Then, he turned and started walking to the door.

Wilson called out to him and said with a smile, "Hey Myers, what's the matter? Are you worried that your heart won't be able to handle her exam results? Don't worry, I'm really good at CPR..."

Intense sarcasm oozed from the big and tall man.

Wayne stood at the door with his back to him. Suddenly, he turned his head to the back and said, "Wilson, you are still as superficial as you were back then. A student's quality should never be judged by their exam scores —this is our school's motto, isn't it?"

Wilson's expression changed at once but he nevertheless sneered and said, "Then what are you afraid of?" Wayne coughed and said, "What am I afraid of? I've never been afraid of anything, I'm just really busy. I have an appointment with a potential investor. That's the most important thing at the moment, isn't it?"

After saying that, he ran away.

In some academic aspects, the New York University School of Medicine students were indeed rather weak. If Lisa were an exchange student from Stanford University or Harvard University, it might not have been this bad.

But since he already knew what the outcome would be like, why stay and be humiliated?

Wayne knew all this very clearly, that was why he had run away at once.

Wilson: "..."

The counselor: "..."

An infuriated Wilson broke into a huge rant. "That guy is still as shameless as ever! He always says certain things in a highfalutin manner to highlight how noble he is, when in fact, he is a despicable and shameless villain! Ha, so he's refusing to look at the grades? Then all the more I'm going to look at Lisa's grades! After I mark her papers, please send them to Myers' office! He should at least be aware of his student's level of mastery in the basics, right?"

After saying that, a vicious Wilson lowered his head and looked at the neat and clean test paper.

The answer to the first question was option C. On the paper, Lisa had picked option C. The answers were to be shaded on the answer sheet.

Wilson curled his lips disdainfully.

Well, the first question was really easy. It wasn't surprising that she would get it right.

If she got even the first question wrong, then she would have had no hope for the rest of the exam.

He then looked at the second question, the answer was option B. She had gotten it right again.

Well, this was normal too.

Next came the third question... the sixth... and the twentieth question! She had gotten all the multiple-choice questions right!

Wilson involuntarily straightened his back.

He quickly looked at the fill-in-the-blank questions, which all turned out to be correct again?

He turned the page and looked at it...

As this was the final exam for the semester, the questions were all very difficult. Wilson had been worried that even Oscar wouldn't be able to get them all correct, but from start to finish, Lisa had gotten all the questions right! In particular, the optional bonus question... Its difficulty level was very high and was a topic that could only be studied at the postgraduate level.

But!

She had gotten that right too!

As Wilson went through the paper, he swallowed and looked up at the counselor blankly.

When the counselor caught a glimpse of his expression, she immediately became nervous. "Professor Wilson, is it very bad? Did she get

D?

Wilson smiled wryly and replied, "You really don't know your student at all."

The counselor misunderstood even further. She was so anxious that she was about to cry. "Surely it can't be an E, right?"

If someone got an E for the exam, she would also be held responsible for it.

The counselor wanted the whole class to perform well. No one was to be left behind.

The counselor hurriedly said, "Professor Wilson, this student only transferred in at the end of the semester, so it is normal for her to be unable to keep up. Can you not give her an E? Can we let her take a make-up exam after giving her some time to study?”

“... No, she... got an A! A+!” The counselor: “?”

She was stunned. “What?”

Wilson tossed her test paper aside. “Wait a minute, maybe... maybe there’s something wrong with my test paper? Maybe it’s too easy?”

He felt that he might have miscalculated the difficulty of the paper, so he took out Oscar’s test paper and started to evaluate it.

Oscar got a multiple-choice question and a fill-in-the-blank question wrong. In addition, she didn’t correctly answer the bonus question...

Wilson: “...”

He went limp and leaned back on the chair.

He raised his head blankly and said, “If I say that I want Lisa now, do you think Myers will give her to me?”

Of course not.

Wayne was not to be trifled with.

The counselor and Wilson looked at each other.

Wilson sneered and said, “Hmph, what’s the use of doing well in one test? No matter how much of a star student she is, she is still just an undergraduate. Undergraduates can only be assistants in the lab. She won’t be of any help to our core experiments at all.”

Nora was completely unaware that something like that had taken place in the school, let alone the fact that she was about to bump into Wayne again after she came to Switzerland.

After she handed in her test paper, she wandered around the school trying to find a way to enter the archives.

But in the end, she accidentally spotted Kelvin and his crew filming in the distance again.

Nora: “..”

Staarv University covered an area of 5,000 hectares. It stood to reason that it wouldn't be easy for anyone to run into each other in such a large place. This sure was a small world.

The corners of Nora's lips spasmed a little and she turned to leave. But the moment she turned, she accidentally bumped into someone.

“Sorry.”

The tall man immediately said. Then, when he looked at her, he exclaimed, “Hey, it's you! What a coincidence, we've met again!”

Nora looked at the man in front of her. He had a strong and muscular frame and well-defined facial features, he gave off a very bright and cheerful feeling.

Seeing the blank look on her face, the man laughed and said, “Jack, I'm Jack. I almost hit you when I was playing basketball the other day but you managed to block it...”

Nora, who finally recalled the incident, asked, “Do you need something?” Jack grinned and asked, “Do you have a boyfriend?”

Nora: “??!”

In the distance, Kelvin, who was filming, had already spotted Nora at a glance when she was walking over. The man had to do a lot of work for his filming today-after all, “Kelvin” had been slacking off the last few days.

Therefore, he didn't have any plans to look for his sister-in-law at all. However, he didn't expect a boy to stop her and ask such a question.

Kelvin smirked.

Ha.

Was he trying to court his sister-in-law? He sure thought really highly of himself.

Just as he was thinking about it, he heard Nora reply, “I used to have one but not anymore.”

Kelvin: “???”

Jack was surprised. “Did you guys break up?”.

Nora shook his head. “No, he’s dead.”

Kelvin: “!!!!”

Jack became even more astonished but he quickly recovered and said, “Well, that’s a shame. Can I pursue you?”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 834 - There'S Something Wrong With Him

In universities, students fell in love quickly and were also very straightforward about it.

Nora was surprisingly very calm about his confession. After all, over the years, she had received a lot of confessions. This was true due to her good-looking facial features even when she was fat.

Just as she was about to reject him, a man's voice came from behind her. She turned around to see that Kelvin, who was filming, had come behind her at some point. The man asked sarcastically, "Are Cherry, Pete, and Xander doing well?"

Nora: "?"

Was the man especially keeping a watch on her? Didn't he have work to do?!

Was the crew this nonchalant that he could just stop filming whenever he wanted to?

The corners of Nora's lips spasmed.

Jack was a little surprised. "Who are Cherry, Pete, and Xander?"

Kelvin raised his eyebrows, looked at Nora, and grinned. He was cold and standoffish to others, but when facing Nora, this younger cousin of Justin's was just like a little devil.

There wasn't the familiar feeling she had felt when she talked to him the other time, though.

Nora was already planning to say that she had three lovely children, but Kelvin had interrupted her. Now that Jack was also asking, she replied, “They are my adorable children.”

Jack: “?”

Stunned, Jack looked at Nora incredulously. “Oh my god, you really have three children? Are you even legal yet? You look sixteen at best!”

When Kelvin heard him, he snickered and muttered, “Tsk, this man sure is smooth. Which part of you looks like you’re sixteen when you are already so old?”

Nora: “...”

A puzzled Jack asked, “What did you say? I didn’t catch that.”

Nora replied, “He said you say some really nice things.”

“Really?” Jack was a little embarrassed. “That’s a compliment, right? I’ve always been like this.”

II

11

Nora kept quiet.

Jack looked at Nora again and said, “Your children must be really cute. If there’s time, I would like to meet them. So... Can I pursue

you?”

Kelvin frowned.

She already had three children yet he still wanted to pursue her?

Nora also raised her eyebrows, though, she rejected him again, “No, you don’t have to. I have no plans to date anyone for the time being.”

Upon hearing this, Kelvin breathed a sigh of relief. At least that woman knows what's good for her!

“Aw, alright.” Jack looked a little down, but he quickly looked at her again. “I’ve asked around. You’re an exchange student who just came to our school, right? How about I show you around the campus?”

His suggestion piqued Nora’s interest.

Her eyes narrowed a little.

It was said that there were many mysterious corners in universities that only boys knew about. Perhaps there might be things that Jack found different or extraordinary about the school?

Thus, Nora nodded happily and said, “Sure.”

She followed behind Jack and was about to leave.

Kelvin was dumbfounded.

He grabbed Nora’s arm and said angrily, “How can you go with him? He obviously has designs on you. In a situation like this, shouldn’t you keep your distance from him for Justin’s sake?”

Nora’s brows drew together. She didn’t understand why Kelvin had suddenly become so impetuous.

However, Kelvin was now giving her the same feeling she had gotten from him the first time they had met. As expected, the bit of familiar feeling she had gotten from him, which had reminded her of Justin, was all just an illusion.

She grabbed Kelvin’s hand and made him release her with just a bit of force. Nora then said, “Don’t you get along poorly with Justin? Shouldn’t you be very happy to see this?”

Kelvin: “!!”

After saying that, Nora walked over to Jack. “Let’s go.”

Kelvin practically flipped out after the two walked away. At the side, the director and his assistant came over and said, “Hey Kelvin, it’s time to shoot!”

Kelvin snapped, “Shoot? Go away!”

The assistant was distressed.

For some reason, it was as if Kelvin had become a completely different person the last two days. Although his acting skills were not bad, they didn’t quite fit the role. After being off-form for two days, his condition had finally recovered today, so the director was planning to shoot a little more to make up for the poor performance the past two days. What was Kelvin’s problem this time?

His problem?

Kelvin was in a huge panic.

His sister-in-law was about to be stolen by someone else! How would he possibly be in the mood to shoot?!

Justin was the one here the last two days. By right, he was supposed to be making up for the scenes he shot today...

He picked up his cell phone, walked to the side, and dialed a number. No name was displayed on the screen. As soon as the other side answered, he whispered, “Justin, you’ve been cuckolded!”

The deep male voice paused for a moment before he finally asked, “What’s going on?”

Kelvin repeated parts of the conversation between Nora and Jack. Then, he became indignant and said, “She clearly knows that Jack has designs on her, yet she still went to tour the campus with him. That means she’s neither rejecting nor accepting him, that’s total scumbag behavior! It’s fortunate that you've already separated from her, Justin. You should have a good look at her true colors while the two of you are not married yet!"

The man opposite fell silent for a while before he finally asked, "Did she really go off to tour the campus with Jack?"

"Yes!"

Kelvin was furious. He was about to rant a little more when the other man said, "Something is wrong with Jack. Keep an eye on him."

Kelvin was taken aback for a moment. Then, he became dumbfounded. "Of course there's something wrong with him, he has already started to pursue Nora... No, wait, you mean..."

Justin's low and deep voice slowly reached him. "Nora must have discovered something. That's why she left with him."

III

An indescribable expression came over Kelvin's face. "Why are you still finding excuses for her? Justin, how come I never realized that you're someone who can't think straight once you fall in love?"

"Get lost."

The other man paused for a while before he added, "Don't get in her way."

Was he telling him not to get in the way of her dating other guys?

As expected, Justin was hopeless!

Kelvin took a deep breath and became even more displeased with Nora.

On the other side, Nora walked around the campus casually with Jack, who then asked for her contact information. After the two exchanged numbers, Jack left.

Nora narrowed her eyes as she stared at him from the back.

While she was musing, a voice reached her.

“Lisa?”

Nora turned and saw Oscar approaching. The woman, who was holding a book, followed her gaze and also looked at Jack’s retreating back. She said with dissatisfaction, “You are here to study, not to fall in love! How can you...”

She’d only just said that when the counselor spotted them and came over excitedly. “Oscar, Lisa, you are both here! Nice timing, because I have news for you girls. Professor Wilson has already marked Lisa’s papers, her grades are out!”

Oscar immediately said, “Hurry up and tell us, so that knows where she stands!”

Chapter 835 - A+?!

Oscar was a very conservative girl.

From what she knew, being able to enter Staav University to study was what many people dreamed of. She was not here to date but to learn.

She did not even have enough time to study usually, so how could she date?

Therefore, she despised university students dating.

Especially Lisa.

She was from New York and her results were bad, to begin with. As an exchange student, not only did she not have any self-awareness but she was even being pursued not long after she came?

She handed in the papers so early to go on a date with this person, right?

Oscar's disdain for Nora reached the limit. She even reached the point of never talking to this person again. She was afraid that she would be affected by her laziness.

When the counselor heard Oscar's words, she misunderstood. She smiled. "Yes, I was about to tell you that I want you to continue helping her ..."

"No, I refuse," Oscar said bluntly. "I can't help her with anything."

The counselor instantly misunderstood what she meant and said with a smile, "Do you know her results? Although you can't teach her, you can still help her around the university!"

Every time an exchange student came to the school, the counselor would get a student from the same dormitory to help guide the student.

After all, other than studying, there were many other matters to take care of. Exchange students were not too sure about such things. It was better to have someone guide them.

This was also why Oscar had said last time that if Nora's results surpassed hers, she would help her again.

However, Oscar did not understand what the counselor meant. "I don't need to see it to know her results. I came to this school to study, not to waste time, so I rejected her. I won't be with a person who isn't in the mood to study and thinks too much. She affects my life too much... I only want to be with students who have good grades. You should have heard of the saying: One is marked by the company one keeps. I don't want my results to fall behind..."

She was always straightforward.

She was pretty good to Nora previously. Although her words were not very nice, she still took care of her.

She was not bad at heart but her mouth was unforgiving.

When the counselor heard this, she finally realized that Oscar was acting the same as her. They both had thought that Nora was a bad student. She hurriedly explained, "But Lisa is..."

Before she could finish, Nora interrupted the counselor. "I'm sorry. I've caused you trouble. You don't have to do it anymore in the future."

With that, she looked at the counselor. "I'm already very familiar with the school. I don't need anyone to show me around. Thank you. Is there anything else?"

The counselor's eyes widened and she was stunned. She shook her head in a daze. "No..."

"Okay, I'll get going then." Nora left.

Looking at her calm back, the counselor could not help but think of the paper Professor Wilson had reviewed. It was clean, very clean, and there were no traces of calculation...

What kind of person was this mysterious American girl?

For a moment, the counselor could not understand.

As she was thinking, Oscar pursed her lips and said, "Counselor, I only want to partner with someone with good grades and one who loves to study. Please don't waste my time with such a person next time."

With that, she raised her chin proudly and prepared to leave.

The counselor looked at her and suddenly sighed. She asked, "Do you know what Lisa's grade was this time?"

"I'm not interested in whether she gets a D or an E."

The counselor: "No, she didn't..."

Oscar was stunned for a moment but she quickly came back to her senses. "Is it C? Most of the exchange students from New York University School of Medicine in our school get Ds. It's no wonder she's so arrogant."

"..." The counselor pursed his lips. "She got an A+. She got the only perfect score in the class."

What?

Was she hallucinating?

Chapter 836 - There'S Still Lisa!

She frowned. "Did you see something wrong?"

The counselor sighed. "No, Professor Wilson personally graded the papers. Oh, he even evaluated yours. Congratulations, you're an A too but it's an A-."

Oscar: !

She knew that she could not get full marks this time because the questions were especially difficult.

She was very satisfied with this result.

But why did Lisa get full marks?

She was stunned.

The counselor patted her shoulder. "I know you love to study and you're very hardworking but I keep feeling that you're the type to bury your head in books. When I heard that Lisa scored full marks, do you know what my first reaction was?"

Oscar shook her head.

The counselor sighed. "What you lack is a proper technique for studying. I originally thought that while showing Lisa around, you could start observing how she studies. A person like her is clearly talented. You two could complement each other. You said that you would have to lead her, but actually, I wanted her to lead you."

After all, Lisa was leaving after three months.

No matter how good her results were, she was not a student of their school.

The counselor was also selfish!

But now...

The counselor was momentarily at a loss for words.

Oscar was also stunned. She suddenly turned her head to look into the distance and saw that Nora had just turned a corner in front of her. She had disappeared.

At this moment, she suddenly realized what she had lost...

—

Nora did not care too much about Oscar and the counselor's thoughts. Oscar liked the hardworking type. Yes, Nora was born far from this type.

If she had the time to work hard, she might as well sleep more.

Therefore, since their personalities did not match, it was better for them to separate.

Moreover, she was not really there to learn. Her goal was the V16!

No matter what, she would never forget this!

Nora was about to walk forward when she suddenly saw a few familiar faces walking over.

She stopped in her tracks and suddenly turned around.

The few familiar faces were none other than the senior executives of NTT. The person in the lead was Royce, youngest aunt's second-in-command. He was in charge of the company's investments.

Behind him were a few employees from the investment department in the NTT.

They did not notice Nora, but she was afraid that Royce would recognize her, so she hid her figure.

She could not let her aunt know that she was back. Otherwise... going by her aunt's exaggerated personality, everyone in Staav University would know about her.

She did not want to attract attention right now.

After all, there were five psychopaths like "Trueman" watching her look for the V16!

It was better to keep a low profile.

Nora avoided them but she did not notice that among the staff behind Royce, Liam was looking away in confusion.

Why did he seem to have seen that poor neighbor, the mother of three children, Lisa?

Liam was American and American faces were more recognizable to him.

Especially Nora's bright and beautiful looks. She was stunning at a glance and was difficult to miss. Therefore, he felt that he could not have seen wrongly.

Furthermore, Rene had said that Lisa was studying at Staav University.

Although it was rare for college students to date, have children, and even get married, it was not unheard of. There were one or two such people every year.

Therefore, Liam did not think much of it.

However, why was Lisa avoiding him?

Liam shook his head and looked away in confusion. He entered the office ahead with Royce.

As he walked, the person beside him asked, “This project is clearly not outstanding enough, why did you come here?”

Royce said, “Because I want to give him a chance.”

Wayne was sitting there in the office. When he saw them, he immediately stood up eagerly. After shaking hands with Royce, they sat opposite each other.

“Professor Myers, we’ve already studied the project book you gave us and are very interested in your experiment. Can you explain it to us in detail?”

Royce asked.

Because the CEO was American, he had a particularly good attitude toward this American professor working at Staav University. Although, his proposal was written in a mess that no one could understand.

Everyone said that if he couldn’t even write a project book, there must be something wrong with this professor.

However, Royce felt that if he visited him in person, this professor might be able to explain it more clearly. He did not mind giving this professor a chance.

Wayne did not understand this.

He had always been a research-type player. He was not good at making proposals and he was not good at twisting and turning these things around. Otherwise, with his connections, he would not have kept the company Yvette stayed in so small...

Wayne did not know that his performance was not up to standard. He was even worse at talking about the main points in front of these people. He displayed his long-winded nature. “Mr. Royce, it’s really good that you came. I can tell you that my project is definitely the best. You would have no worries about investing at all...”

Royce: “...”

This professor was clearly not suitable for business.

The corners of his mouth twitched. He looked at the people behind and finally said, “Professor Myers, may I ask where your assistants are?”

He wanted to find a person who could speak concisely and get straight to the point.

However, when Wayne heard this, he choked.

His laboratory... Was empty?!

He smiled awkwardly and explained, “So far, I’m the only one in the laboratory...”

At this point, he suddenly realized that there was another person.

He paused and thought about her name hard before saying, “...With Lisa. Yes, there’s also Lisa. Um, wait a minute. I’ll call her counselor and get her to come over immediately to meet you! Say, this Lisa is really... How can she be late at such an important time?”

As Wayne spoke, he took out his phone and called the counselor.

Chapter 837 - 7 Investment Project

Wayne took his phone and went out to make a call. He was afraid that Royce would leave. When he went out, he even turned back to look at him.

After he went out, someone asked, “Mr. Royce, we don’t think highly of this project, in the first place. Besides, look at this professor. He’s not competent either... When you asked about the members of the laboratory, he said that there were only two of them... Are we really going to invest in such an experiment?”

Royce sighed gently too. He actually knew Wayne. It was very unusual for him to be famous as an American professor in a place like Staav. Therefore, when he saw his project, he thought that as long as it was even a little viable to invest, he would try.

Anyway, the boss had too much money to spend. He would treat it as patriotism and help his fellow countrymen.

However, he did not expect Wayne to be so unreliable.

From the looks of it, he had only recruited one student?

How was he going to do the project?!

Investing in him was no different than throwing away money, right?

Royce touched his forehead. “Forget it.”

He would not invest in this project.

Nora followed Royce over and wanted to see what he was here for.

As soon as she entered the building, before she could go upstairs and enter the elevator, she received a call from the counselor. Nora picked up the call and the counselor said, “Lisa, I forgot to tell you when we met earlier...”

Um, I got you a spot in my laboratory as an assistant. How about this? Your mentor needs you to come over right now. Hmm, can you come to Room 706 in the laboratory first?

Laboratory assistant?

This was really happening! She was just thinking about how to join a laboratory so that she could get access to the archive room!

She said, "Okay, I'll come over now."

After Nora finished speaking, she looked up and realized that this was the laboratory building.

706... was the seventh floor. She pressed the elevator button.

The elevator reached the first floor quickly. She went up and pressed the button for the seventh floor.

Ding!

The elevator arrived.

Nora had just walked out of the elevator when she heard two people talking in the corner.

Wayne was pulling Wilson back angrily. He was very anxious as he said, "Old boy, you definitely have bad intentions for coming here. How can I believe you?! Let me tell you, don't think of entering my laboratory. I'll never let you in!"

Wilson sneered. "I don't understand what you're talking about. I can tell you that I've been good friends with NTT's Mr. Royce for many years. I just don't want him to get cheated. You can cheat others but you can't cheat him."

Wayne was even more anxious now.

He had finally returned to continue his research. He could finally stop being a manager. However, because of the 20 years of absence, the school and the students no longer trusted him.

Social change was fast and the school had developed a lot. When Wayne was mentioned, the new generation of investors would ask in confusion, “Who is this?”

No one would remember that more than twenty years ago, he was influential and successful at Staav University. They would only remember that he was a business loser. He had gone out to start a business and failed.

Therefore, although Wayne had been back for a month, the situation here had not been resolved.

His old friend saw that he was pitiful and recommended him to NTT. He even especially emphasized that he was an American professor, which was why he had received this opportunity.

Wayne definitely could not give up.

If he had no money, then he would have no project. If he had no project, why did he come back?

He pulled Wilson back. “Aren’t you just jealous that I’m getting involved with Royce? Wilson, don’t pretend to be so kind here. Let me tell you, it’s impossible for you to see Wilson speak ill of me! Even if I have to stay out here all day, would I let you in?! Get lost!” Wilson felt that Wayne was simply unreasonable.

He was indeed here to convince Royce not to invest in Wayne. Firstly, he did not want Wayne’s project to be established. What if Wayne succeeded and suppressed him?

Secondly, he planned to tell Royce how unreliable this person was and owe NTT a favor.

He had a good relationship with NTT the past few years. They had invested in a lot of projects.

However, Wilson never expected Wayne to be so shameless. When he saw him coming over, he pulled him into the corridor!

Wilson was furious and said, “Wayne, you’re too much! You and Lisa are the only ones in your laboratory. What kind of project is this? Aren’t you scamming the investors?”

“Why do you care? Only with money will we have everything we need! Without anyone to invest in the project, how can we get good students?” Wayne retorted.

For example, Wilson was a popular professor. Whenever a project was established, many graduate students would immediately register. With people, investors would also come.

However, Wayne was different.

Although everyone thought highly of his projects, no one invested in them. The students were not stupid. He had just arrived this year and did not even have a graduate student under him. How could anyone follow him?

Only when they saw the investment would their classmates choose to follow him.

But why would they invest in a project without enough members?

This was a vicious cycle.

Wilson laughed angrily. “It’s because the field you want to study is wrong. If it really has a future, why didn’t anyone come? If they don’t see any benefits in the short term, no one will follow you. Even if NTT invests in you, it will be a waste of money. I won’t allow this to happen!”

With that, he pushed Wayne away and walked out.

Wayne continued to hold him back. “Don’t even think about it!”

Wilson was really speechless and anxious. He simply said, “It’s fine if I don’t go but if you don’t return to the room for a long time, Royce and the others will leave. Isn’t it the same thing?”

Wayne was anxious. He turned around and suddenly saw a student standing outside the staircase. As he was holding Wilson, he could not turn around and could only shout, “Is that Lisa outside?”

Nora: “...Yes.”

Wayne immediately shouted, “Go in first and stall for time!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 838 - Meeting Old Friends

Nora only said the word yes. Wayne did not hear her voice.

Nora held her forehead.

She did not expect to meet Wayne. This was really fate.

She did not expect Wayne, who had returned to Staav University, to be in such a sorry state.

When Wilson heard this, he was stunned. After a moment, he did not know whether to laugh or cry. “Wayne, you’re simply too shameless! Lisa is only an undergraduate. What can she help you with? She doesn’t even know what project you’re doing. You’re making things difficult for her!”

Wayne blocked the door and refused to let Wilson out. He said, “She’s a student from my laboratory. Why do you care how I treat my students? Hey, Lisa, did you hear me?”

However, Wilson suddenly said, “I regret it. Lisa, you can come to my laboratory. I’ll take you in. How about that?”

Wayne immediately cursed, “Shameless Wilson, didn’t you throw her to me because you thought her results were bad? You’re really unscrupulous! You even want students with poor grades?”

When Wilson heard Wayne say this, he blushed. He knew that the counselor had definitely not told Wayne that Lisa had scored full marks for the exam. He said calmly, “No, Lisa is an excellent student. I’ll definitely want her. Lisa, how about it?”

Wayne could not turn back. He had his back pressed tightly against the door. His head was twisted so much that he could only see an indistinguishable figure in the distance. He could not see the details at all.

He shouted, “Lisa, don’t listen to his nonsense. We’re all Americans. Our eyes are filled with tears when we meet. You can’t betray me!”

Nora: “...”

Her almond-shaped eyes narrowed slightly as she heard their conversation.

It seemed like Professor Wilson thought that her results were bad, so he had pushed her to Wayne.

She smiled and replied calmly, “Oh.”

Wayne instantly became smug. “Did you hear that? I didn’t despise her even when her results were bad. We Americans all have grateful hearts. Wilson, why don’t you remember the time I helped you back then? Why do you have to come and ruin my show today?”

When Wilson heard Lisa say this, he shrugged. “I’m not helping the investors, I’m helping you. Otherwise, if you cheat them and your reputation spreads, no one will invest in you when you start a new project. I can actually give you a few of my projects. You can start them first. It’s better to look for investors after you have a reputation.”

Wayne sneered. “How many do you want to give me? How generous of you to say that. Don’t forget that I was better than you back then! My reputation was greater than yours!”

Wilson smiled. “Is that so? But you also said that it was back then. In today’s Staav University, who still remembers that there was a Professor Wayne in the biomedical faculty? You’ve been doing business for so many years, you’ve long ruined your reputation!”

Wayne’s eyes turned red when he heard this.

He was doing this to fulfill the promise he had made back then.

That woman... had died so tragically, how could he leave her alone?

He shook his head and abandoned the thoughts in his mind. “Anyway, I don’t care. I have to take down this investor. Wilson, I won’t let you meet them!”

He shouted again, “Lisa, hurry up and go into the laboratory to talk to them. There’s my business plan on the table. Take a look and read it for them... Say good things... If they don’t invest all of it, investing a part of it would be good enough...”

As Wayne was explaining, Wilson smiled. “Heh, Royce is a professional investor. Do you think he can’t tell anything from this?”

Wilson reached out his hands. “Alright, Wayne. I’m not going, but do you think Lisa will be of any use to you if she goes into the laboratory? You have no choice because Lisa is just an exchange student. She has no weight in this project.”

Wayne naturally understood this.

However, in order to not let Wilson go out and cause trouble, he had to detain him here.

Currently, there were only him and Lisa on the entire project. If he did not let Lisa go, what else could he do?

Wayne frowned in anger. He turned around and shouted again, “Lisa, hurry up. Don’t let the investors wait too long!”

“...Alright.”

After Nora agreed, she took two steps forward and walked to Laboratory 706 from the door that was revealed.

Wilson looked at Wayne and shook his head.

He spread his hands and pretended to look down on her. He pursed his lips and said, “Wayne, I’m waiting to see a good show.”

Nora stood at the entrance of the laboratory.

She knew that the person in the room was Royce but when she thought of Wayne's current state, she felt that she had to help him.

After all, Wayne had fallen to such a state for Yvette.

Sigh!

She sighed and pushed open the door.

Inside the room.

The investor was looking at the door impatiently.

Someone said, "Hey, Professor Wilson sent me a message. He said that Professor Myer's laboratory only has him and an undergraduate American exchange student. He doesn't have anyone important. How can he have the cheek to work on a project?"

The other person frowned and said, "Just two people? Furthermore, the plan is written in a mess. I can tell at a glance that it was rushed. Don't tell me Professor Myer did this alone?"

"Ah, no wonder Professor Myer hasn't called us over despite being away for so long. He's really rude to leave us here! We shouldn't invest in such a project, right?"

"Wilson just sent a message to suggest that we should invest very carefully. He's our partner and won't lie to us. Since he warned us, he must not be optimistic about this project."

Royce took the project book and flipped through it casually before nodding.

He looked down at the time and stood up. "I still have something on later. Since Professor Myer is so busy, let's go."

"Then about the project... We'll talk about it next time."

With that, he opened the door and saw a tall American girl.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 839 - Investment!

Looking at this familiar figure, Royce was stunned.

He stared at Nora in disbelief, his eyes widened.

Ms. Nora?

Was it Ms. Nora?

Compared to half a year ago, when she was in New York, she seemed to have lost some weight and had become more beautiful. If not for those familiar lazy almond-shaped eyes when Nora walked on the streets, Royce would not have recognized her.

But what was Ms. Nora doing here?

Royce was a little stunned.

As he stood there, the people behind him thought that Nora had blocked the way. Someone immediately asked, “You are?”

Nora glanced at Liam and yawned. She said lazily, “Lisa.”

Lisa?

Royce frowned.

But this was clearly Ms. Nora. Why was she calling herself Lisa?

He looked at Nora in confusion, but he saw the woman giving him a cold warning gaze.

Royce: “...”

He did not quite understand what this gaze meant.

Royce respected Nora a lot. The chairman was not married and did not have children. When he picked Nora up from the countryside back then, he had said that NTT would be handed over to Cherry in the future.

Who was Cherry? She was this woman's daughter!

Moreover, wasn't he handing it to Cherry because Ms. Nora only slept all day and did not want to get involved in the business at all?

The chairman had no choice. He had just said that he would hand the company to Cherry but he was actually giving it to her, in disguise.

As he was thinking about Ms. Nora's intentions, the people behind him misunderstood.

One of them said, "You're Lisa, the person Professor Myer was talking about? Why are you here? Where's Professor Myer?"

Nora looked at the stairs. "He... might be a little busy?"

Everyone: "???"

Everyone felt like they had been played.

wn

They had come to see his project as investors but he was acting like such a big shot? Did he really think he was some well-known professor? They would still give some face to a professor like Wilson. After all, Wilson had done many projects in the past.

However, Wayne was really too unpopular!

Royce's first subordinate said, "Since Professor Myer is so insincere, we'll get going now! We don't want to waste our time here!"

Nora: "?"

She raised her eyebrows and was about to speak when a bright and careful voice was heard. “Well... Since Lisa is here, why don’t we listen to her for a minute?”

Following the voice, Nora then saw that her neighbor, Liam, was in this team too.

“...”

Nora held her forehead.

There were quite a few familiar faces today. However, Liam seemed to have received a promotion. It seemed like she had made him level up.

After Liam finished speaking, everyone looked at Liam. Royce’s subordinate scolded, “You’re just a newcomer to the department. What are you talking about? How can an undergraduate explain a laboratory project? It’s too much!”

Liam was reprimanded and was too afraid to speak.

On the other hand, Royce came back to his senses when Liam was interrupted by the two of them. He stared at Nora and asked, “Let the undergraduate talk about... erm... do you want to talk about it...”

He looked at Nora tentatively.

Nora: “...I don’t know what the project is.”

She would not come to work on a real project. As Anti, she had not done many projects in the past. Furthermore, it took a lot of time to work on a project.

At most, she would just be registering.

When Royce heard this, he immediately understood and said, “Then you don’t have to say anything else!”

When he said this, one of Royce's men misunderstood him. "Yes, there's no need to say anything else. It's useless even if you do. We won't be investing in your project! The project proposal is a mess. There's only the two of you..."

Royce: "..."

He really wanted to shut his subordinate's mouth!

He was usually very good at flattering him. Why couldn't he tell that something was amiss today?

He had finally come back to his senses.

Ms. Nora was hiding her identity by saying that she was Lisa! The warning gaze she had given to him earlier was also to tell him not to speak nonsense. Otherwise, why would she be here if she could just expose her identity?

Royce understood.

Ms. Nora was asking for an investment!

However, she could not expose her identity, so he had to make his investment look fair on the surface!

But his own subordinate had been undermining him here. How could he still invest "fairly"?

As he was thinking about what to do, Liam said again, "Um... Actually, there are only two people involved in the project. This kind of thing is easy to resolve. Professor Myer was very famous in the school back then but he has fallen from grace these past few years. As long as we invest, the number of people would definitely not be a problem."

One of Liam's men sneered and retorted, "Not a problem? I think it's a big problem! Have you been bribed by him? What's the difference between this and a scam? Besides, this project proposal is a complete mess. Is there any need to invest?”

Liam was lectured. He clenched his jaw and looked at Nora again.

Rene had said that it was not easy for Nora to raise the three children alone. It was not easy for her to attend school here. They were all neighbors and he had to help.

Therefore, Liam took a deep breath and continued, “That project... Actually, if you look at it carefully, you can tell that it will be very valuable in the future. Although we won’t be able to get any benefits in the short term, we have to look further ahead...”

Even if Royce was helping Wayne out of friendship, he could not have given him money for no reason.

Wayne’s project was indeed promising for the future.

However, Royce’s subordinate continued to scold him, “This idea of yours is very dangerous! We’re investors, of course we look at the long-term benefits! But you’re a newcomer, what do you know? You still dare to speak nonsense here? Don’t tell me you want to speak up for Lisa because she’s beautiful? Mr. Royce will definitely not agree! Isn’t that so, Mr. Royce?”

Chapter 840 - You'Re Welcome

Royce had been walking at the front just now, so his back was to the people behind him at the moment. As a result, his subordinates couldn't see his expression all this time.

Liam was just a newcomer in the department. After being lectured, he immediately lowered his head.

He indeed had selfish motives when he spoke up for Nora, so he didn't dare to refute the other men.

Inwardly, though, he thought to himself, I'm done for. I've offended Mr. Royce's favorite subordinate. I probably won't have an easy time in the company now.

The promotion he had just received might even be taken away soon.

Despite that, though, he still said, "You misunderstand. Lisa's just someone I know, that's all. She is not an unreliable person, she..."

The man beside Royce was still scolding him. "You don't look at such external factors in a project, but at the project itself! So, Liam, you know Lisa? Then this means you're blind! To think you can't make a distinction between work and private matters! In my opinion, you are not suitable for our department at all!"

Liam: "!!"

As expected, was he really going to be fired?

He wanted to cry. He had only managed to dodge the bullet because of the investigation into Fred. Was he going to face another unemployment crisis now?

While Liam was thinking about this dejectedly, Royce finally turned his head slowly and looked behind him.

He stared at his trusted subordinate, his face totally sullen.

Seeing his sullen expression, Royce's subordinate misunderstood even further. He immediately said, "Mr. Royce, don't be angry. I will make sure to keep an eye on newcomers like him in the future. I..."

Before he could finish, Royce slammed his briefcase against his head and said, "Newcomer? The way I see it, the newcomer has more gumption than you do!"

As soon as he said that, with the exception of Nora, a ton of question marks suddenly appeared above everyone's heads: ???

Liam's head also whipped up and he looked at Royce in disbelief.

Royce snapped, "You must have gotten old, so your eye for things can't keep up with the youngsters anymore! That newcomer is doing very well in my opinion! Hm, yeah, I also think this project is promising! I'm going to invest in this!"

Royce's subordinate was stunned.

Actually, he didn't do anything wrong.

After all, Wayne's project was indeed too unreliable.

It was a good project but Wayne's project proposal was simply too badly written. No one who received the proposal would invest in it.

Nevertheless, the man was quick to back down. "Yes, yes, you are right, Mr. Royce. In that case, how much should we invest?"

"How much I should invest..." Royce looked at Nora again while thinking to himself, Ms. Nora, can you please give me some kind of response?!

But Nora didn't look at him.

Unable to receive any signals from her, Royce could only look at Liam.
“How much do you think we should invest?”

Liam had said just now that he and Ms. Nora knew each other, so maybe he would be able to suggest a suitable amount?

Not expecting Royce to actually ask him for his opinion, Liam was a little taken aback. He said in a daze, “Eight... Eight...”

Before he finished speaking, Royce nodded directly: “Eight million dollars? Okay! I’ll invest that amount! The money will be transferred into the account tomorr... no, tonight. Is that okay?”

Liam: “???”

What he’d wanted to say was, they could try investing eight hundred thousand dollars first...

Seeing that the money was secured, Nora nodded and moved aside. “Okay.”

“What is the bank account number?” Royce asked.

Nora yawned again-she had gotten sleepy. She pointed to the corridor and said, “You can talk to W... Professor Myers about it!”

She turned and walked out. “I’ll get going then.”

Everyone: “!!”

Royce’s subordinate felt that she had snubbed his boss, so he immediately pointed at her and said, “What’s the matter with you? You’re just an undergraduate! You...”

“You what?”

Royce pressed his arm, which was rudely outstretched, down and said, “Shut up! You also know that she’s an undergraduate, right? Undergraduates are just assistants in projects, so of course she wouldn’t know anything! Go and get Wayne Myers here instead!”

Then, he looked at Liam with a big smile and said, “You did great today, Liam! Well, come here, let’s have a chat... How do you and Lisa know each other?”

“You guys rented houses from the same landlord? Where do you live?”

Liam, who felt highly flattered and as though something awesome had fallen into his lap: “???”

When Nora was leaving, she specially glanced at the corridor.

In the corridor, Wayne was still reasoning with Wilson. With a door between them and Nora, the volume of his voice was reduced several times. He droned on and on.

“... Wilson, you are not loyal to your friends at all... I know you want to suppress me so that I won’t be able to catch up with you... Goddamn it, in any case, you can forget about leaving this place today! If I can’t get NTT to invest in my project, then I will starve to death here with you!”

Wilson was practically speechless. “You are so shameless!”

Wayne completely ignored his outburst and continued to nag at him.

Nora: “...”

She knocked on the door and said, “W... Professor Myers, I’m Lisa.”

Wayne immediately cried out, “Lisa? Have they made their decision? I knew it, NTT is not going to invest in us, sigh. I—”.

Before he could finish, though, Nora’s low voice came over. “NTT is asking whether an investment of eight million dollars is enough?”

“... What?”

He suspected that he had misheard. It was not until Nora repeated herself that he suddenly let go of Wilson. The man, who had still been dejected a moment ago, was suddenly revitalized. “Yes, it’s enough! It’s enough!”

When he turned around and looked over, Nora had already strode ahead of her.

When Wayne opened the door and entered the corridor from the stairwell, all he saw was Lisa's back. He wanted to say something but he suddenly heard footsteps coming from the other side. The people from NTT came up to him and said respectfully, "Professor Myers, let's sign the contract..."

Wayne turned around instantly and went off with the people from NTT, leaving behind only an utterly confused Wilson.

He widened his eyes, finding the turn of events absolutely incredible. Had the world gone crazy?

NTT was investing eight million dollars in Wayne?

Good god, was NTT doing charity because they had too much money or what?!

The extent of Wilson's shock was exactly how triumphant Wayne felt. He mocked him extensively for a while, pissing Wilson off so much that even his heart rate was out of whack.

Nora didn't know of all this and neither did she care.

She strolled around the school again. Soon, it was evening. Nora decided to go home, she mustn't leave the three children at home all by themselves for too long.

As soon as she got home, she coincidentally saw that Liam was also at his door.

Nora raised her eyebrows.

Before she could speak, Liam looked up, smiled at her, and said confidently, "You're welcome! We're neighbors, so it's only right that I give you a hand! It's just that I never thought that our company leader would think so highly of me! And even listen to my suggestion..." Nora: "?"

The corners of her lips spasmed and she uttered an “oh” a little speechlessly.

Liam smiled. “It’s not easy for you to take care of three children by yourself, so I will definitely help you if you run into trouble. Now that you’ve clinched the investment deal, your professor will definitely value you! Your education journey will also become very smooth-sailing. You really don’t have to thank me! But if you really want to, then you can do me a favor?”

Nora kept quiet for a while before she asked, “What kind of favor?”

“Can you guys keep Rene company a little? I’m always busy with work, so she’s all alone at home. Plus, with her personality... Just take care of her a little! You can just think of it as thanking me for helping you out today!”

Liam practically felt like he was a messiah.

To be honest, he’d just impulsively blurted it out when he spoke up for Nora earlier. At that time, he had also been terrified and had really thought he was going to be fired.

Unexpectedly, his company leader had spotted his talent!

As expected, he really was a talent when it came to making investments.

Liam looked at Nora again.

Yeah, it really wasn’t easy for Lisa to take care of her children all by herself. He should help wherever he could...

The thought had only just formed in his mind when the sound of a car stopping outside the villa suddenly reached them.

Liam looked behind to see Royce getting out of his Rolls-Royce limousine. Then, he hurried through the gates.

Liam was surprised.

Then, joy came over his face and he strode over. “Mr. Royce, why are you here?”.

Had Royce come to visit and look at his living conditions since he had asked earlier in the day where he lived?

Didn't the leaders of NTT value him a little too much?!

Unexpectedly...

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 841 - Strange Text Messages!

Liam thought that Royce was here to visit him, so he even felt faintly like something fantastic had just fallen into his lap-but he never expected Royce to simply walk past him and stride right up to Nora!

Liam was stunned.

When he turned around, he saw the man, who was high up in the air in the company, ask, “Ms. N... Ms. Lisa, why are you here? Does Ma’am know?”

“???” :Liam

The handsome and cheerful boy was utterly stunned.

He stared at Royce in disbelief.

What did he just say?

He swallowed.

“Ms. Lisa”? “Ma’am”? Why was he speaking so politely as though her position was above his?

The only person whom Royce would address as “Ma’am” was the boss of NTT. Why was he asking Lisa about her?

Liam’s thoughts were in a mess. He couldn’t figure out what was going on at all.

He stared blankly at Royce and then at Nora. For a while, he felt like he was dreaming.

Nora sighed a little the moment she saw Royce.

It seemed that she wouldn't be able to conceal this identity of hers in front of Liam anymore.

She broke into a small frown. She first nodded slightly at Royce, motioning to him to wait a moment. Then, she looked at Liam and said, "Please keep my identity a secret." Liam nodded dumbly.

Then, Nora looked at him again and asked, "So, can you let me have a private word with Royce?"

Liam: "!!"

He looked at Royce.

When Liam first joined the company, he had seen Royce high up in the air. He was surrounded by people when he walked past Liam. He hadn't even spared him a glance.

At that time, Liam had told himself that he must work hard to climb the ladder into the department and become Royce's subordinate! And become someone like Royce!

But the goal he was struggling in life to move towards was instead standing humbly in front of Lisa with a respectful look on his face. In fact, the man, who had never even spared him a glance before, was even giving him a somewhat ingratiating smile right now.

Liam knew that this was all because of Lisa.

In his trance, he nodded and walked into his house.

After closing the door, he couldn't hear what Lisa and Royce were saying anymore. However, at this distance, he could still see Lisa saying something to Royce in a low voice and Royce nodding repeatedly.

This huge reversal of roles made Liam hang his head in disappointment.

He was an honest man, so he wanted to climb higher grounds with his own efforts. Even when Fred was bullying him the other time, he hadn't felt anything and had just thought that this was something that a man should do.

But at this moment, seeing Lisa's sudden transformation from someone who needed his help to someone high up in the air, he couldn't help but sigh. In this world, a person's social status was simply too predisposed to change.

—

“Don't tell my aunt.”

Nora ordered, her voice extremely frosty.

Royce gave her a wry smile. “Ms. Nora, this... If Ma'am finds out, I'm afraid I will be punished.”

Nora said, “It's fine. I'll get Cherry to bail you out when that happens.”

“Okay! Then it's all a-okay. With Ms. Cherry around, there absolutely won't be any problems with Ma'am. What are you doing here though, Ms. Nora?”

Royce had come especially for Nora's promise.

One was his boss while the other was the future successor. He didn't want to offend either.

But if he informed his boss straightaway, Nora would definitely get angry, so it was imperative that he came to ask for instructions and also get a guarantee from her.

Royce was very shrewd. Cherry's significance to his boss was incomparable to everyone else.

At this question, Nora said, “You don't need to bother with my affairs. Just make sure you do your job well and that would do.”

Royce immediately lowered his head slightly in deference. “Okay.”

Then, he gave Nora his promise and said, “I will definitely handle Professor Myers’ project well, I won’t let anyone block his funds. And Liam, too. I will also promote him when the time comes. Ms. Nora, are you planning to set up your own team in the company?”

The successor would surely need a new team, so Royce had misunderstood.

Upon hearing this, Nora glanced to the side.

Liam was standing in front of the window and staring at her with a complicated expression. However, the scorching idolizing look in his eyes was impossible to hide.

That was what a young man who had just graduated from school should look like—full of hope for his career, enveloped in passion, and dying to break out into the world.

Nora thought of how Liam stayed by Rene’s side and had never abandoned her. She also thought of how she had specially done a background check on Liam because she was worried that he had brainwashed Rene and was emotionally manipulating her but found that he had a clean family background.

From kindergarten all the way to university, there were photos from every stage of his life. There was no way anyone could fake that.

Therefore, after a moment’s thought, Nora replied ambiguously, “You can try putting a little more effort into grooming him.”

Liam was kind-hearted and a good person.

He had even dared to speak up for her at the university. From that, one could see that the young man did have the passion to make achievements. People like him were capable, so it would also be beneficial for NTT to train and groom him.

Royce nodded right away. “No problem.”

After the two reached an agreement, Nora instructed Royce not to disturb her if there was nothing important. Only then did Royce leave subserviently.

After Royce left, when Nora was about to enter her house, Liam suddenly opened his door and walked out. He looked at her blankly as he said, “L-Lisa... um...”

He wanted to say something but he didn’t know how to put it into words. In the end, he simply said, “About the incident with Fred the other time... Thanks!”

He had finally understood. It wasn’t because of his luck that something had happened to Fred; rather, it was Nora who had given the company a heads-up!

Nora looked at him. Suddenly, her lips curled into a smile and she replied, “You’re welcome. You can just let Rene keep my children company a little more.” Liam: “...”

He thought back to what he’d said just now about how she didn’t need to thank him and that it would do if they just spent a little more time with Rene. Liam’s face suddenly started to burn. He scratched his head and smiled at her naively.

The naive young man couldn’t help but always think that he was the hero of the world and that it was his good fortune to be appreciated by his boss. It was only now that he realized that his real luck was getting to know Nora.

After Royce left, he got into the car.

Just as he was about to leave, he noticed Fred approaching

Mrs. Long was still living here for the time being. Her son had not only suddenly lost his job but he couldn’t even find a job in the industry anymore. She had no place to go for the time being. Thus, Cindy, the landlord, had given her a few more days to find new accommodation before she moved out.

Nora didn't have much to say about this.

After all, Mrs. Long was busy looking for a job, so she didn't have the time to bully Cherry anymore. It wasn't like Nora would only be satisfied after she drove them into a dead corner.

Fred's job search had also been very difficult. At NTT, he was already a senior executive, so now that he was restarting as a low employee, not many companies were willing to hire him. Even if there were some that were willing, they offered a very low salary. He wanted to go back to NTT but he was told that he had offended someone.

Who on earth had he offended? He only punished Liam recently but he had already investigated the young man's family background a long time ago. There was no way he would have such connections!

When he came back all down and dejected, he suddenly caught a glimpse of Royce's car, which instantly stunned him on the spot.

It was Royce!

He was a company leader who stood above all but one!

Why was he here?

Could it be that...

Fred swallowed and entered the garden. When he did, he happened to see that Nora hadn't gone into her house yet...

During the last two days after he returned home, his mother had pointed at Nora's door and complained to him. She said that the woman, who just moved in, had bullied her. She had told him a lot, such as how she was taking care of three children even though she was all by herself.

Fred had been busy looking for a job, so he hadn't had time to give them trouble yet. He was just so planning to make trouble for them today!

But when he thought of Royce's car, the stunned man blurted, "Was Royce here for you?"

Nora: "??"

She raised her brows.

It didn't matter that Liam had found out about her identity because he would keep the secret for her, but Fred and Mrs. Long were not good people. If they found out, Nora wouldn't be able to keep her identity a secret anymore.

But Royce had just left and she was out in the garden...

Nora glanced to the side. When she saw Liam, she pointed at him calmly and replied, "He was here for him."

Liam: "!!"

Fred was already looking at him.

Faced with his former supervisor's gaze, Liam swallowed. After a while, he nodded and pretended to say calmly, "Yes, he was here for me..."

Fred was utterly stunned. He suddenly thought of how he had been fired just when he was going to punish Liam.

He was even told that he had offended someone he shouldn't have. Wouldn't that precisely mean Liam?

Thus, he reacted very quickly and rushed over. He said, "Liam... no, Mr. Martin, you know what they say about how friends begin as enemies. We just got off on the wrong foot, that's all. I'm sorry for what I did to you in the past. Should I get down on my knees? Spare me! I really can't find a job now and my family will be out of food next month! I have elderly and children in my family..."

Liam: "..."

He looked at Nora in alarm and uncertainty.

Seeing that he was staying quiet and looking at Nora, Fred also looked at her. He thought of what Mrs. Long had done and hurriedly said, "Ms. Lisa, I'm sorry, my mother only bullied you because her younger sister wants to move here. She wanted to rent the house that you're living in, that's why she wanted to drive you away. I'll apologize to you, okay?"

Nora already knew this a long time ago, so she was unmoved.

At this moment, Mrs. Long also came home. With her cell phone in hand, she ranted as she walked.

"If you're not coming, then why send me a message saying that you want to? You asked me to rent a place for you and even said that you want to live with me? I almost drove my neighbors away because of you. Now you're telling me that it wasn't you? That you didn't send me any messages? Ha, how can that be? My chat messages are all right here!"

Fred was dumbfounded. He looked at Mrs. Long and asked, "Mom, did she say she isn't coming anymore?"

Mrs. Long was furious. "Yeah! I thought she was coming today, so I called and asked where she was, but now she says that she never sent me any messages asking me to rent a house for her! Has she become muddleheaded from old age?"

"Mom! How can you get something like this wrong?!" Fred was aghast. In order to rent that house, he'd offended someone he shouldn't have and even lost his job!

"No, Fred, I didn't make a mistake! It's your aunt who's being inexplicable! I'm serious, look! The chat messages are all here!"

Mrs. Long hurriedly took out her cell phone and handed it to Fred.

Just as Fred was about to look at it, a slender hand suddenly reached over.

Nora stared at the chat messages on Mrs. Long's phone. Two days before she arrived, Mrs. Long had received a message on her cell phone asking her to help with renting a house.

After that, the person chatted with her every day and pressed her about the house.

But Nora could tell at a glance that the tone of these chat messages was different from that of the previous messages! Her phone had been hacked!

Nora's eyes narrowed.

She had never been one to think that such things were mere coincidences!

Someone must be up to no good behind the scenes!

But who was it?!

She took Mrs. Long's cell phone and went into her own house.

Mrs. Long shouted anxiously, "Hey, what's the matter with you? Are you stealing my phone?!"

But before she could go on, Fred stopped her.

After Nora entered the house, she took out her own cell phone and easily hacked into Mrs. Long's. Then, through the text messages, she began to track down the other party!

She wanted to know who was plotting against them! And what their objective was!

Chapter 842 - Don'T Laugh

It stood to reason that, for the other party to use Mrs. Long's sister's number to send her messages for so long without her sister ever finding out, meant that they must have hacked into Mrs. Long's sister's cell phone and used it to send the messages.

With that in mind, Nora also went with the flow and hacked into Mrs. Long's sister's cell phone.

There would always be traces left behind whenever a cell phone was hacked into.

She sat on the sofa, her cat-like eyes skimming through the programming codes at high speed. Suddenly, she found something and followed it, planning to find out who that person was!

Unexpectedly, though, the person who had still been online a moment ago suddenly vanished. The device on the other end was also destroyed. With this, Nora could no longer find out anything about the other party.

She broke into a frown.

This showed that the other party was undoubtedly a master hacker. The moment she invaded, they discovered her. Additionally, they could also get out in time when she wanted to pinpoint their location. This indicated that they were even more skilled at hacking than her?

In this world, other than herself, Y was the only other hacker on the same level as her!

But Y was Justin, so it couldn't be him.

If he didn't want her to come to Switzerland, a phone call would have done the trick.

There was no need for him to stoop to such low-level means.

In that case, if it was not Y, then who was it?

When did another top hacker emerge?

When Nora thought of this, something suddenly occurred to her. She picked up her cell phone and called Caleb, who answered in a timely manner.

“Is something wrong?” He asked.

Nora asked, “Among the five children who survived the experiments back then, did any of them pick up hacking?”

Caleb paused for a moment when he heard this. Then, he answered, “Yes.”

Nora’s heart sank.

Caleb sighed. “Now that you’re going to meet them sooner or later, I’ll tell you about the five of us.”

Nora’s expression became grave and solemn. “Go on.”

Caleb said, “You’ve already met ‘Barbarian’, he’s the man in black who attacked you and Justin in America. He was injected with a gene serum that enhances physical fitness, so he’s likely the strongest martial artist in the world at present. He has a pair of brown pupils...”

“Wait,” Nora interrupted him, “I saw blue pupils that night.”

Caleb chuckled. “Cosmetic contact lens technology is so advanced these days, isn’t it a piece of cake to change the color?”

Nora was practically speechless. They could even do something like that?

She had been planning to identify him by his eyes!

Caleb continued. “That guy’s skills have probably already reached the pinnacle of what humanity can achieve. No one can beat him in a fight.”

Nora acknowledged that.

That night, she and Justin were no match for him even when they teamed up. Quinn and Irvin-hers and Justin's teachers—were probably the only ones who were his match!

“His weakness is that he's stupid. Of course, his IQ is that of an ordinary human, but because his offensive abilities are simply too powerful and his body too nimble and agile, we couldn't kill him all these years, either.”

“... Were you guys trying to kill him?”

Caleb coughed and replied, “Like me, he resents the mysterious organization for using us in human experiments, so he has long since defected. Trueman has organized many capture and assassination attempts but none of them have been successful.”

Caleb also resented the mysterious organization. That was why he had betrayed the mysterious organization and become the special department's spy after he contracted lung cancer and had only two months left to live.

Barbarian's offensive abilities were very good.

Nora mentally positioned him. She then asked, “Who else is there?”

Caleb went on. “There's also one whom we call ‘Spacey’ because he likes to space out. He was very unsociable when he was a child... He was injected with the gene serum that improves neural genes, so he is extremely smart. I heard that when he grew up, he started dismantling computers and found that he liked it a lot.”

Nora caught a key word. “Heard?”

Caleb smiled wryly and said, “Yeah, well, the five of us had already separated from one another when we were ten years old. Back then, the mysterious organization told me to stay with Trueman while they sent the other three to other places. At that time, I didn't understand why, but I later realized it was because they knew a long time ago about the deal that the Grays had struck with your mother, so they were using me as bait. Trueman treats me very well though, maybe because we once shared weal and woe!”

Nora nodded. “Go on.”

Caleb continued. “There is also one whom we call ‘Listener’. You should know that the human ear can only detect sounds of a certain frequency, so we cannot hear sounds below or above that range. But after this part of the human DNA was deciphered, he could hear sounds of every frequency in the world. He is also highly sensitive to sound, so he has always disliked us for being too loud.”

Barbarian’s improved genes were related to physical qualities, which was understandable.

Spacey’s were neural genes. She reckoned that like her, some improvement was also made to his IQ genes, so he was smarter than ordinary people.

But wasn’t Listener’s story... a little silly?

The corners of her lips spasmed. “Isn’t a skill like that kinda useless?”

Caleb coughed. “Humans research DNA and decipher the DNA code in order to enhance our abilities. In terms of nimbleness and agility, we can’t compare to leopards; in lifespan, we can’t compare to turtles. Therefore, the DNA research back then was tackled from various aspects. It was just that everyone’s injections were random.”

Nora nodded.

She suddenly became very curious. “What kind of gene serum were you injected with back then?”

As soon as she asked, Caleb fell silent. A while later, he let out a low laugh. He sighed and slowly asked, “Can I keep it a secret?”

Of course.

No one should be forced into such things.

Just as Nora was about to say that, Caleb sighed and said, “Forget it, I’ll tell you. But... you mustn’t laugh.”

Nora: “?”

She mustn’t laugh?

Could it be that Caleb’s improved genes were even more useless than Listener’s?

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 843 - What A Coincidence!

While Nora was wondering about it curiously, Caleb coughed and said, “Forget it, I won’t say it anymore.”

“...”

The corners of Nora’s lips spasmed a little and she suspected that Caleb was playing her for a fool.

Seemingly sensing her displeasure, Caleb chuckled lowly and said, “I really can’t bring myself to say it. If I ever see you again in this lifetime, I will tell you in person.”

Caleb had returned to the mysterious organization this time as the special department’s spy.

He only had two months left to live.

In fact, if his lung cancer worsened, he might not even have two months.

Therefore, he didn’t know when he would be able to return to America and see Nora again.

Nora realized what he meant, so she said, “We will meet for sure.”

“Hopefully.”

Caleb was about to speak again when a shrill voice suddenly came from the far end of the phone. “Who are you calling, hiding here?”

It was Trueman!

Nora frowned, worried about Caleb.

“No one in particular.” Caleb’s voice was calm and he didn’t seem to be nervous at all.

“Oh? Heh, show me!”

The sound of people fighting over the phone came from the other side. Caleb said anxiously, “Give me back the phone!”

Trueman scoffed. “Am I not allowed to know who you’re on the phone with? I’m going to see what you’re doing behind my back!”

After that, Trueman must have looked at the phone and seen her name, because he sneered and said, “My little servant?”

II

11

Nora ignored him but Trueman said with a sneer, “Oh my, I didn’t expect you two to keep in contact even after you’ve separated. Why? Is my little servant interested in my little sidekick? Or...”

His voice suddenly turned frosty. “... has my little sidekick betrayed me? And turned to you guys?”

Nora wanted to make up an excuse but before she could speak, Caleb sighed and said, “She was just asking me a few personal questions.” “What kind of questions?” Trueman was pushy and aggressive. “And personal ones at that? Ha, are the two of you even that close?”

Seeing this, Nora did not speak. Caleb continued speaking in an even-tempered manner. He said, “She was asking me about the five people who survived back then and what they are like. She wants to find Barbarian and avenge Justin.”

His story seemed to have convinced Trueman.

He scoffed and said, “My little servant, you want to seek revenge? I’d advise you not to fantasize about that! It’s impossible for you to contend with Barbarian when you only have a normal person’s strength!” After he spoke, he asked, “Did you tell her what Barbarian’s genetic modification is?”

Caleb replied, “Yeah, I did.”

Trueman uttered an “oh” and then asked, “And Listener and Spacey’s?”

“I told her.”

“Tsk.” Trueman smacked his lips softly and remarked, “You sure tell her everything you know! Do you like her that much?”

Nora was a little taken aback to hear this.

She looked at the phone in astonishment, upon which she heard Caleb’s prompt rejection. “Don’t talk nonsense, she and I are just friends.”

Trueman scoffed. “Just friends? From when we were children all the way till now, I have never seen you care so much about any friend. Caleb, don’t forget who you are! Do you have any right to be in love with someone?”

Nora slowly frowned.

Caleb was in love with her?

How could this be? How few times in total have they met?

She was about to speak when Caleb denied it. “I don’t, I know very well who I am. I just feel guilty towards Ms. Smith, that’s all! After all, the Grays didn’t manage to protect her back then.”

Trueman scoffed again. “You say one thing but mean another. You’re really very dull. You are already about to die yet you still don’t have the courage to express your feelings!”

Caleb had really panicked this time. “Trueman, shut up!”

After saying that, he hurriedly explained, “Nora, don’t listen to his nonsense.”

Nora was a little embarrassed. “... Okay.”

Although she had been confessed to by many others, she really hadn’t expected Caleb to fall for her.

She shook her head, dismissing the idea.

Then she heard Trueman say, “You guys are so boring. Forget it. My little servant, Barbarian’s body has been improved to the greatest extent. He can not only control every muscle with finesse but he can also lift a thousand pounds! Even if you are the Quinn School of Martial Arts’ Big Sister, compared to him, you still have lots more to work on! If you really want to avenge Justin, then there is only one way.”

Nora lowered her eyes. “What is it?”

Trueman suddenly laughed. “Training with me.”

Nora: “?”

Trueman asked, “Do you know which genes of mine were improved?”

Nora shook her head. “No.”

Trueman laughed. “It’s longevity!”

Nora: “?”

Trueman said slowly, “Once humans live for a long enough time, don’t they all pursue longevity? The gene serum I was injected with improves precisely this gene. You and I won’t be able to beat Barbarian in a fight even if we team up but we can wear him down until he dies!”

The joke really was not funny at all.

Trueman, however, suddenly said seriously, “Do you think I’m joking? I’m not. What do you think a person pursues after they have earned enough money? Don’t kings and people with high social status eventually all pursue immortality? Barbarian’s boost in physical strength and Spacey’s boost in intelligence are all nonsense in the face of longevity! Why do you think the mysterious organization studied human genes in the first place? It was precisely for longevity!” Nora: “!”

“My little servant, is the information I told you today enough? Heh, are you considering joining us now? Once we find the V16, we will crack the code of human longevity!”

Nora curled her lip. “I’m not interested in longevity.”

“Tsk.”

Trueman curled her lip and said no more to her. Instead, he said, “Caleb, I’ve found news of Barbarian. Go to him and bring me back the clue to V16, or V16 itself!”

“Where is he?” asked Caleb.

Nora’s ears pricked up too.

However, Trueman hung up the phone at this moment!

Nora: “...”

Trueman had definitely brought up Barbarian’s whereabouts on purpose without telling her the answer.

Nora put aside thoughts of Barbarian for now and began to think about the person who had hacked into Mrs. Long’s cell phone. If she wasn’t wrong, he must be Spacey.

But why would Spacey do that?

Did he just want to use Mrs. Long to give her some painless annoyance?

Was there any point in doing that?

Nora couldn't figure out what Spacey was thinking, so she could only put down the phone.

She was a little curious about Caleb's improved genes and why it was so difficult for him to speak of it.

—

The next day, when Nora went to class, the counselor walked in with a bespectacled man. "Guys, this is our school's newly-hired professor. Please welcome him, everyone."

Nora: "..."

As she looked at Caleb's familiar and gentle face as he stood on the podium, she suddenly curled her lips into a smile.

Caleb did a self-introduction. Then, when his gaze swept across the students, the moment he saw Nora, he paused slightly-obviously, he had no idea that Nora was here!

With this thought, Nora had also confirmed something.

Trueman had ordered Caleb to find Barbarian. Since Caleb had shown up here, this meant that Barbarian was at Staav University.

Besides, now that they had met, she would also be able to know about Caleb's improved genes.

Chapter 844 - Anti'S Reputation Is Unwarranted By Actual Skill?

“That professor is so handsome.”

The students below the podium were all secretly discussing Caleb.

Nora raised her brows.

Caleb was really very handsome. On top of that, the dashing aura around him was elegant and gentle. He wore glasses and always smiled gently before he spoke, which gave people a refreshing feel, like a spring breeze.

Yet at the same time, it didn't give people the feeling that he was easy to get close to. On the contrary, there was a sense of alienation and nobility.

He and Justin both came from wealthy families but the two gave people completely different feelings.

Justin felt like a fierce and ferocious war god. He was terrifying and intimidating.

Caleb, on the other hand, was like a celestial being, making people feel like he was out of one's reach.

Nora lowered her eyes, put her head on the table, and fell asleep.

She attended classes just so she wouldn't attract attention. She had chosen to be an exchange student at this time because there weren't many classes during this period.

Caleb's voice was gentle and hypnotic.

As Nora listened, she slept even more soundly.

On the podium, Caleb chuckled when he saw the girl fall asleep, and he subconsciously lowered his volume. In fact, when someone spoke, he gently reminded them, “Keep your voice down. Don’t disturb your classmates who are sleeping.”

The students: “...”

The class was soon over. After class, Nora stretched and stood up. This time, she didn’t leave but looked at Caleb at the front instead.

Caleb wanted to come to her but was stopped by a student. “Professor Gray, I don’t understand this part here...”

Nora yawned. While she was waiting for him, a voice suddenly came from the side.

“Hey, Lisa.”

She turned her head and saw Oscar standing beside her with an embarrassed look on her face. She said, “I know you may not care, but I still want to apologize.”

Nora knew what she meant. She didn’t mind, though.

She didn’t regard Oscar as a friend, so she didn’t take her prejudice towards her to heart at all. She nodded and said, “It’s okay.”

After speaking, she picked up her bag and went out the door.

Oscar had a complicated look on her face as she looked at Lisa from the back. After hearing what the counselor had said the day before, she had gone to Professor Wilson to check her exam papers.

In the end, she found that the other girl had indeed gotten every question right.

At first, she felt that the girl had deceived her, but she immediately realized the next moment that Lisa had never said that she couldn’t do the questions. In fact, she had even mentioned several times that she didn’t need her help.

It was her own arrogance that had made her think that Nora's grades were bad.

Oscar stared at Lisa from the back. For some reason, she suddenly felt like the girl's image in her mind was getting bigger and bigger.

Nora didn't leave after she exited the classroom but stood at the corner and waited.

After a while, Caleb came over. The man, who was a head taller than her, asked with a smile, "Lisa?"

Nora nodded. "Yeah, Lisa."

Caleb smiled again. He said, "Long time no see."

"Yeah, long time no see."

Nora replied calmly.

Caleb looked straight at her and then asked, "Are you... okay?"

Nora: "?"

Just as she was puzzled over Caleb's question, she heard Caleb speak again. "About Mr. Hunt..."

Alright, Nora had once again forgotten that Justin was "dead"!

She lowered her eyes. In order to hide her emotions, she could only say calmly, "Actually, we weren't that close."

Strictly speaking, she and Justin had only known each other for three months and during those three months, they had not been together every day, either.

When she put it that way, even she herself was puzzled.

She had never had many friends her whole life, so why had she fallen in love with him in such a short period of time? On top of that, it was to the extent of complete trust.

Nora's expression at the moment seemed a little puzzled.

Her statement convinced Caleb, though.

After all, Nora had always been cold and indifferent since she was a child and had never been one to fixate on relationships. To be honest, it would be stranger if she was dramatic about it.

Seeing that she wasn't too hung up over it, a smile formed on Caleb's face and he said, "Yeah, I'm glad you're alright."

He looked at the time and suggested, "Let's have lunch together?" "Sure."

Caleb was the special department's undercover agent. Additionally, when he was in America, he'd helped her a lot. Besides, Nora also wanted to know about Barbarian, so she and Caleb left the school together and went to a private room in a restaurant nearby.

When the food came, Nora sat opposite Caleb and asked about Barbarian first. "Is Barbarian here?"

Caleb nodded. "Trueman found out that Barbarian had appeared in the school, so he wanted me to come over and take a look. Why are you here too?" Right after he spoke, he figured out something and asked directly, "Did you come here because you have a clue about V16?"

Nora knew that she wouldn't be able to give a convincing explanation once she was found here.

Even a fool wouldn't believe her spiel about being an exchange student at this point.

Besides, even though she couldn't fully trust Caleb, some things were still okay to let him know.

She nodded. “Yes.”

Caleb frowned. “Then you have to be careful. If Spacey has his eye on you, then he must know that you are here. Barbarian is also here... Nora, you mustn’t underestimate any of the five of us who survived among thousands of people!” Nora nodded, her expression solemn. “Got it.”

After speaking, she suddenly asked, “So... Which genes of yours were improved?”

Caleb instantly turned red.

He was a little embarrassed.

Nora smiled slightly. “You said that you would tell me if we ever meet again!” Caleb sighed. “Forget it, I’ll tell you.” “...Okay.” Nora’s ears pricked up curiously.

Caleb seemed a little shy. He coughed and then sighed and said, “Well, it’s my heat resistance genes.”

Nora: “??”

Her first reaction was that she didn’t understand!

Caleb sighed. “At the appropriate level of humidity, the average person’s cells start dying at around 113 degrees Fahrenheit. The highest one can endure is 122 degrees but I can survive in an environment of 176 degrees.”

Nora: “...”

So! What was the use of improving genes like that?!

Why would humans study such strange things?

But the next moment, she realized a problem. “Then can’t you undergo high-temperature treatment for your lung cancer? Cancer cells can be killed at just 110 degrees!”

At 110 to 122 degrees Fahrenheit, cancer cells would die after a few hours. However, normal cells would also be killed at the same time, which was why humans couldn't fight cancer with this method.

But Caleb could!

Just as Nora was about to say something, she suddenly realized something. "The cancer cells can also survive at 176 degrees?"

Caleb nodded.

Nora: "..."

If his cancer could be cured so easily, he would have recovered a long time ago. Other doctors must have also thought of this idea before.

She held her forehead.

Caleb looked calm, though. "It's okay, I have already prepared myself for it. In any case, even if my cancer is cured, I won't be able to find the V16 anyway..."

Cancer was difficult to treat.

Nora sighed silently.

She then asked, "What are Spacey's characteristics?"

Caleb shook his head. "I haven't seen him since I was ten and he didn't like to talk much back then... Apart from Spacey, you also have to watch out for Listener. Nora, all five of us who survived, want to live; so they will definitely fight with you for the V16. The key here is time is running out."

Xander didn't have much time left, either.

Nora knew that she had to hurry and find a way to enter the archives and obtain File No. 004!

Since the food was here, the two of them stopped talking and started to eat.

Halfway through the meal, because the chatter was simply too loud in the private room next door, faint voices traveled over.

“Professor Epon, the results of your research are great! You have been trying to invite Anti to do this project with you, right? Except she didn’t respond. If she learns that you have succeeded in your research for the project, she will definitely regret it.”

It was a student paying lip service to Epon.

“Of course!” Epon sneered, “The way I see it, Anti’s reputation is unwarranted by any actual skill. Look at how many patients she has operated on over the years! Two operations a month? I can’t help but wonder if those patients were even really sick?”

Some students next to him also echoed him. “Yeah, who knows, maybe they were just acting with her. If her medical skills are really that great, why would she do that?”

Chapter 845 - First Time?

Epson sneered. “You make it sound so mysterious. Her formalism is too extreme. She only treats two sick patients every month? I don’t believe that she’ll only treat two people a month when her husband, son, and father get sick together. Will she let the other person wait for death? How ridiculous!”

“Hahahaha!”

The others also laughed.

Epson was actually not popular with the students. He deliberately gave convoluted lectures to emphasize that he was different from the others, rendering everyone unable to understand his lectures.

Even Oscar had to listen carefully. If she was even a little distracted, she would not be able to keep up. Therefore, Epson had always had a demon class in school. He was arrogant and proud. The project he applied for could not be completed by himself but he did not want anyone to take a share. Now that someone had finally invested in his project, he finally had some results and had long been promoted.

If he did not know Anti and did not have her contact details, he would have walked to Anti long ago!

What he was about to solve was a difficult problem in the medical world!

It was said that Anti had been researching this difficult problem for a few years. Until now, there had been no results.

Epson now wished he could announce to the world that he was a hundred times better than Anti.

Nora originally did not care about their mockery but when she heard ‘husband, son, and father’, she frowned.

He should not badmouth her family. Shouldn't he be a little considerate when badmouthing others?

She stood up and was about to go over and teach Epsom a lesson when the room door was kicked open.

Epsom and the students exclaimed, "Who are you? Which school are you from?"

Nora was raising her eyebrows when she heard a familiar female voice charmingly say, "Tsk, listen carefully, you can learn from me. Call me 'Mother'. Come, learn from me."

"Mother..."

Epsom and the other students were at first very vigilant against this woman who had suddenly barged in, but when they heard her charming voice, they subconsciously repeated her words.

"Sigh! My stupid sons!"

The woman smiled.

It was only then that Epsom and the other students realized that they had been played. They were instantly furious and shouted, "B*tch!"

Epsom was furious but he was a teacher, after all. Therefore, he asked, "What are you doing? Do you have something against us?"

The woman sneered. "I don't have any grudges with you but the Anti you're talking about is my sister-in-law. Of course, I can't stand you badmouthing her! Now, you better apologize to her or else..."

Thud!

With the sound of a glass bottle shattering, Brenda said domineeringly, "No one will leave here unscathed today!"

—

In the private room next door.

Hearing Brenda's voice, Nora felt that it was unbelievable.

Wasn't Brenda in New York?

Why was she in Switzerland?

She was about to leave the room and reunite with Brenda when her phone rang again.

She picked it up and heard Solo's voice on the other end. "Anti, sigh!"

Nora: "?"

This fellow was always full of energy when he called her. Why was he sighing the moment he called? It seemed like something was wrong. Wasn't Solo in New York?

She frowned. "What's wrong?"

"Do you know where your sister-in-law is?"

Solo's voice was listless. "I suddenly can't contact her. We were fine at first but she suddenly suggested breaking up with me. Now, she's gone."

Solo continued, "I want to ask her in person why she left without saying goodbye. What did she say? She said she has always been a loose woman. She said she was only playing with me for a while but I don't believe it. Who the hell wants to play with me by giving up their first time?"

Nora: "Her first time???"

Brenda liked to mess around and she liked handsome men. She would flirt with any man she saw, so Nora thought that Brenda had done it a long time ago. Was it really her first time?

Solo said, "Yes, I'm sure it was her first time, with me! Why?"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 846 - Killed

Nora felt a little stunned.

Was Brenda's flirtatious behavior all fake?

She thought that Brenda was naturally dissolute... Oh, wait. Justin had said that Brenda was fine when she was young, but she suddenly seemed to have become a different person when she returned home after going overseas.

At that time, Justin had a lot of opinions about foreign countries. He said that Cherry would stay in the country when she grew up, that the culture overseas was too bad, and so on...

While Nora was thinking, Solo continued, "Besides, she disappeared. I can't find her anywhere. Her information is very confidential. Isn't she just a small police officer? Are the identities of all the police officers in New York so difficult to investigate?"

Solo was a hacker. If he wanted to find someone, he could just search on his computer.

He wanted to know where Brenda lived, where she was, and if she had gone out. However, he did not have any clues!

Brenda's identity was kept secret.

Nora: "...It's not that difficult, is it?"

Solo sneered. "Heh, how is it not difficult? Although I'm not as good at hacking as you are and you're Q, you might not be better than me when it comes to finding people! To be honest, I'm doing this for you because you saved me. Why don't you show me your skills as Q?"

Nora: "... There's no need."

Solo agitated her. “I think you’re afraid? If you can’t find her, would you feel embarrassed? If word gets out that Q can’t even find a person!”

Nora: “...”

This provocation was useless against her.

Solo said so much because he wanted to provoke her to help him find someone.

The low voices of Epson and the other students rang out in the private room next door, accompanied by Brenda’s cold smile. “Did you just apologize? I didn’t hear you. Louder!”

Nora: “I know where she is.”

Solo: “??”

“F*ck? Are you that fast? How long has it been? I’ve been searching for hours on the Internet but I haven’t found anything. Only a second has passed, right?”

Solo felt like his worldview had exploded.

They were both computer hackers, so how could the difference be so great?

The corners of Nora’s mouth twitched. She ignored him and did not care about his thoughts. Instead, she said, “I’ll ask if she’s willing to see you.”

Solo: “How can you be like this? Am I your good friend or her?”

Nora: “She’s not my good friend.”

“Then what’s there to consider? You have to support me!”

Nora replied calmly, “But she’s my sister-in-law.”

After hanging up the call, Nora went out.

As soon as she came out, she saw Epson and the other students in a sorry state. Their faces were all bruised. It seemed like Brenda had not been gentle. A few people walked out of the private room in a panic and looked at Brenda. “Wait here. We’ll call the police immediately!”

Brenda laughed softly and waved her fists.

Epson and the students were instantly frightened. They turned around and ran.

Epson even fell down during his escape.

He looked very pathetic.

Brenda seemed to be satisfied. She clapped her hands, and when she turned around, she suddenly saw Nora. She immediately said in surprise, “Nora? Why are you here?!”

Then, she saw Caleb walking out of the private room with Nora. She asked, “You’re eating with a friend?”

“Yes.”

Nora pointed to the private room. “Join us?”

Brenda nodded. Her gaze brushed past Caleb’s face and she asked, “Didn’t you go to Trueman’s place to be a spy?”

Caleb had been captured by the special department before, so Brenda knew him very well.

Caleb said, “Yes, he sent me to complete a mission.”

“I know,” Brenda said. After entering the private room with Nora, as a member of the special department, she first checked the cameras around the private room. After confirming that there were no problems, she said, “You reported to Captain Ford that Barbarian was at Staav University, right? So Captain Ford sent me here! After all, this is my territory!”

As an Interpol officer, Brenda had always been on duty in Switzerland. She was very familiar with the surroundings.

Caleb asked, “You’re here to look for Barbarian?”

“Yes,” Brenda said. “We investigated Barbarian. He’s a serial killer. He’ll definitely take the chance to kill when he comes to Staav University. Besides, someone has already been killed.”

When Brenda said this, it instantly aroused Nora’s interest. “Who?”

Brenda explained, “He was a professor who researched genes at Staav University. He was found dead at home last night. The method of murder was very cruel. We investigated the scene and suspect that it was done by Barbarian. He should be looking for clues about V16.”

Nora instantly frowned.

When Barbarian was in the country, he would hide his murderous intentions before attacking

Actually, be it him, Listener, Spacey, Trueman, or Caleb—these five people were all victims of that gene serum experiment.

But now, in order to find V16, some had already gone crazy.

As Nora was thinking, Caleb sighed. “It’s not his fault. After his body was strengthened, Barbarian’s character changed. He became more and more savage and very violent. Actually, among the children who were strengthened, some of them did not die from their body’s rejection of the gene agent. At that time, those children were killed by Barbarian.”

Chapter 847 - Call The Police!

A group of children had been detained since they were young and had never received an education. They were only given gene serum at fixed intervals. Just the thought of it was cruel.

These children were indeed very pitiful.

Brenda said calmly, “But this doesn’t become a reason for him to kill people. If people start taking revenge on society because of pitiful encounters in their childhood, then what need is there for the law? And what was the professor’s fault in all this, why was he killed?”

Caleb and Nora nodded.

Brenda’s expression was filled with justice at this moment. She was no longer lazy when she spoke.

She slowly said, “However, the meaning of our existence is to protect this relative fairness.”

She looked at Nora and said slowly, “Nora, I don’t know why you’re here, but the future of Staav University will be very chaotic. You’re so thin and weak. Why don’t you leave first? Tell me what you want and I’ll help you.”

“...” The “weak” Nora pursed her lips. “Don’t worry, I can protect myself.”

Brenda did not trust her but she also knew that she would definitely not shrink back from what her sister-in-law wanted to do. Therefore, she said seriously, “Nora, then put my phone number on your speed dial. If you encounter danger, call me. I’ll be there anytime you need. Also, it’s best to keep your identity as Anti a secret to prevent Barbarian from targeting you. Don’t worry, I’ll catch him and kill him personally to avenge my brother!”

Advertisements

Brenda's voice turned cold when she said the last sentence.

"... Okay."

Nora replied silently.

After Brenda finished talking to them, she looked at the time. "A few of us are going to Staav University to investigate. Nora, if there's nothing else, I'll get going."

With that, she looked at Caleb. "And you! You're a spy. I don't think it's good to interact too much with Nora, you should avoid attracting Barbarian's attention. You guys should maintain a distance."

Caleb: "..."

Brenda had always been decisive despite looking like a rich lady; wearing high heels, a short skirt, and a mink coat.

Nora saw that she was about to leave after saying that and hurriedly called out to her. "Brenda."

"What's wrong?" Brenda stopped in her tracks and looked at her. "Is something the matter, Nora?"

Nora said, "Solo wants to know where you are. Should I tell him?"

When Brenda heard the name Solo, she fell into a daze. Then, she sneered and lowered her eyes. She said in a light and cold voice, "There's no need. Tell him not to look for me. He has no chance. I'm already sick of him. If he keeps pestering me, I'll be annoyed. He shouldn't be such a sore loser, right?"

With that, Brenda turned and left.

Nora stared at her back for a while.

Caleb asked, "What's wrong?"

Nora lowered her eyes and replied calmly, “Something’s wrong with her.”
Caleb: ?

Nora noticed that he did not understand but she did not explain it.

There was something wrong with Brenda.

Usually, when she faced other men, she would always take the opportunity to flirt. But now, forget that she did not tease Caleb, she even let it go and went straight to the point. Clearly, she was not interested in other men anymore.

It must be because of Solo that she was so frustrated.

Moreover, when she said that she was sick of him earlier, although her eyes were lowered and covered it, Nora still saw the coldness in them.

Brenda hated Solo.

However, Solo said that when he and Brenda were glued together, Brenda had suddenly turned hostile. Logically speaking, if she suddenly turned hostile, she should be a little sorry for Solo.

It shouldn’t be resentment.

There must be something else between Brenda and Solo.

Nora called Solo. The call was picked up quickly. Solo asked, “Is she willing to see me?”

“No.”

Nora replied, “Solo, what happened between you and Brenda?”

Solo was stunned. “What happened? I really don’t know. Did I not wash my feet in bed?”

Nora: “?”

“Or was it because I touched her head with my right hand when I woke up in the morning? Does she like me touching her with my left hand?”

Nora: “??!”

“Or is my cooking too bad? I told her to order takeout but she insisted on me making it myself. Sigh!”

Nora: “???”

Solo was about to cry. “Anti, tell me, what did I do wrong?! Why is she ignoring me?! I really... I’m almost thirty now. After so many years, I’ve finally fallen for a woman... Help me!”

1111

On the other hand, Brenda left and called her subordinate.

Aaron, her subordinate, said, “Captain Brenda, I’ll gather our men immediately.”

Aaron, who was wearing a police uniform from Switzerland, was a tall white man. He was walking on the street and was about to meet Brenda when four people with bruises on their faces suddenly walked over.

When Epsom and his students saw him from afar, they rushed over as if they had seen their savior. “Officer, someone beat us up!”

Aaron was a person with a strong sense of justice. He asked, “Who is it?”

“An American woman!”

Epsom shouted.

Aaron immediately said, “She beat up the four of you alone?”

Advertisements

When Epsom heard this, he realized that it was very embarrassing. He nodded. "I suspect she's American. She knows boxing! She's very strong! Officer, you should get a few more people over. Otherwise, I'm afraid you won't be her match alone!"

When Aaron heard this, he said, "Don't be afraid! My Captain is nearby! I'll call her over!"

With that, Aaron made a call. "Captain Brenda, there's a situation here!"

"What? You're already nearby? You saw me? Okay!"

After Aaron hung up, Epsom and the students immediately said, "Officer, you have to punish that woman severely. She's really too detestable. She beat us up without any reason!"

Aaron: "Don't worry. Our Captain is a high-ranking inspector who abhors evil. With her around, no one will be afraid! Even if an international mercenary came here, he probably won't be able to beat my Captain!"

Epsom was relieved.

He had just been bullied by a woman, which made him very uncomfortable!

Now, he finally had a chance to take revenge! He had to teach that woman a lesson! He had to send her to jail!

Epsom turned around and saw Brenda walking over. He proudly raised his head...

Chapter 848 - Digging His Own Grave

When Brenda saw these people, she was stunned. She did not expect Aaron to be talking about these people.

She walked over slowly. Wearing high heels, she swayed her hips and waist as she walked. She looked very attractive but her powerful combat skills made Epson and the others unable to have any charming thoughts.

He thought about how the four of them had been beaten up by a woman, especially in front of the students. She had even asked him to apologize to Anti. Epson decided to regain his face.

He suddenly walked forward and said, “Girl, do you see that? The police are here. If I call the police, how many years would you be in jail for beating the four of us?”

Brenda: “?”

She raised her eyebrows and sneered. When Epson saw her like this, he said again, “It’s not too late to beg for mercy now. Perhaps I’ll be soft-hearted and agree to let you go. However, I want you to apologize for your actions earlier and kneel down to lick my shoes. Say a few words about how Anti is inferior to me and this matter will be over. How about that?”

Brenda’s sneer turned to a cold smile. “I think your skin is itching again?”

When Epson heard this, he immediately said, “You’re too arrogant. You dare to threaten me in front of the police! Alright, then don’t regret it. I’ll make your life in prison worse than death! Do you know what kind of life criminals get in jail?”

Brenda touched her chin. “Yes, I really know.”

Advertisements

Epson said fiercely, “It’s good that you know. There are many barbaric people locked up in our prisons. They fight and commit all kinds of crimes. If a delicate woman like you goes in, you’ll probably become their favorite toy. I bet your life there will be very easy! You won’t be alone at night! Hehe!”

With that, he turned around and saw Aaron walking over. He hurriedly shouted, “Officer, it’s her. This woman beat the four of us up!”

Aaron, who came forward excitedly because he saw his captain, was speechless.

He was stunned. He looked at Brenda in disbelief and then at Epson and the others. He asked in surprise, “Are you sure she hit you?”

“Yes!” Epson did not know at all that the show was about to start and shouted, “Please punish her severely. This woman is still so arrogant. She simply doesn’t care about us. Officer, where’s your captain? Quickly get her to come over and arrest this person!”

Brenda pursed her lips and stepped forward.

Epson was instantly frightened and jumped behind Aaron. “Officer, hurry up and arrest her!”

Aaron: “...”

The corners of his lips twitched as he looked at Brenda. “Captain Brenda, what’s going on?”

When Epson heard this, he was stunned.

What did this police officer call her?

Captain Brenda?

Why did the policeman call her Captain Brenda?

As he was thinking, he heard Brenda's deep voice as she smiled charmingly. "Yes, they insulted police officers behind my back. I had to teach them a lesson, of course."

With that, she looked at Aaron and said, "Arrest them and lock them up for 24 hours!"

"Yes!"

Aaron straightened and shouted. He immediately took out four handcuffs and walked to Epsom.

Epsom: "..."

They had thought that they had just escaped a calamity but they did not expect that they would be going to jail!

They would be detained for 24 hours, locked up with those hooligans. They might not have a good time tonight!

Epsom looked at Brenda pleadingly. He was about to speak when he saw the woman reach out a slender hand to her lips and gesture for him to keep quiet. Then, she looked at Aaron and smiled. "Our professors and students love crowds a lot. You have to find them a good cell. Let them have some company tonight."

Aaron nodded. "Yes!"

Epsom: !!

The next day, when Nora went to school again, she heard Oscar say, "Professor Epsom is really awesome. Do you know? He and Professor Anti are both researching the same topic. Anti has not made any progress but Professor Epsom already has an idea. He's about to succeed!"

Nora: "?"

She raised her eyebrows and asked, “What project?”

Although there was some friction between her and Oscar previously, Oscar had always liked the strong. She had no objections to Nora now. On the other hand, Nora had never taken others seriously. Therefore, she did not have any grudges against Oscar, either. Oscar had become the only person in the class who could share info with her.

Oscar said, “The topic he’s researching is about neurosuppression using gene improvement drugs. Anti has also studied this before. Unfortunately, she stopped because she couldn’t succeed. But now, Professor Epsom is about to succeed!”

Then, she lowered her voice and said, “I heard that Professor Epsom has always treated Anti as his imaginary enemy and is secretly competing with her. Now that he has developed this project, he probably wants to slap Anti’s face and let her know that he is also very capable! He has declared war on Professor Anti many times and asked her to come to Staav University for an academic debate. Professor Anti did not ever dare to come.”

Nora: “1

She had not received this invitation at all.

However, there were two reasons.

Firstly, she never read irrelevant junk mail. Maybe Epsom had really written a letter and she hadn’t seen it.

Secondly, Epsom did not dare to issue a challenge at all. These words were just bold statements made for the outside world.

Nora pouted. She did not take this matter to heart.

After all, she had verified in the past if genes could suppress the nerves. It could not be done.

Advertisements

She just had to wait patiently for Epon to fail.

She did not say much. Soon, Epon's class began.

When he walked to the podium, his legs were limp and there were some bruises on his face. He even covered his buttocks with one hand as if he had just undergone hemorrhoid surgery.

When the class saw this, they all suppressed their laughter and did not dare to laugh.

At this moment, Professor Epon suddenly said, "I plan on inviting two students from our class to be my assistants. Who's interested?"

As soon as he said this, the students' attention was diverted. They raised their hands one by one. "Me, me!"

It was like a King choosing his concubine at night. He looked at his classmates and nodded in satisfaction. Suddenly, he said, "Yes, Oscar. You can try. Then, the last person is..."

Amidst the expectations of the entire class, Epon smiled and suddenly looked at the last row. He slowly said, "Lisa."

Nora: "???"

She suddenly looked up and saw Epon say, "As an exchange student from New York University School of Medicine, Lisa must know a little about Professor Anti, right? I heard that she also has her own laboratory and project team, so I'm giving you this chance to come to my laboratory to take a look. Compared to me, New York University School of Medicine is nothing!"

Chapter 849 - I'M Anti!

Nora narrowed her eyes.

This Epon guy was really a troublemaker.

She twitched her mouth and was about to reject him when Oscar said, “Oh my god, that’s awesome, Lisa. This way, we can work in a laboratory together!”

“Professor Epon is awesome. He’s giving an American exchange student a chance to learn. Okay, we’re willing to give this chance to Lisa!”

“Lisa, go! Study hard!”

“Yes, we’re willing to let Lisa enjoy this honor. We also want her to have an unforgettable stay at Staav University.”

The students were very warm-hearted. All of them were very magnanimous, making Nora find it hard to reject them. If she rejected them now, it would seem like she did not know how to appreciate kindness.

Never mind.

Nora nodded. “Sure.”

Advertisements

Epon’s laboratory should also need the archive room to check the files. Then, she would go and see if there was a chance. After all, it would take time for Wayne’s laboratory to get up and running.

The project could not be started immediately.

With the initial funding in place, Wayne still needed to gather sufficient graduate students. Of course, now that NTT had decided to support Wayne, many outstanding graduate students in the school had begun to sign up to participate in his projects. Wayne was flooded with success and was doing his job well!

“Then come with me to the laboratory after class.”

With that, Epton began the class.

His class today was not difficult to understand. The main reason was that he had not slept well last night and was too tired. Therefore, he was not in the mood to make things difficult for the students and showcase his ‘professionalism’.

They were done quickly. Oscar pulled Nora and followed behind Epton.

At this moment, Nora’s phone rang.

She picked it up and glanced at it. It was a message from Brenda. “Nora, that Epton spent last night in a cell. I took extra care of him to take revenge for you!”

Nora: “...”

She looked up again and saw Epton walking in front, limping and holding his waist. She suddenly felt that Epton was so professional! He made her, the culprit, admire him a little.

At this moment, Oscar said, “Professor Epton, are you okay? Do you need to rest today?”

Epton instantly said angrily, “Of course not. My project can be completed in two days. I have to complete finish it quickly and let the entire world see that she’s inferior to me!”

The corners of Nora’s mouth twitched. This person was persistent on his way to slap her!

As she was thinking, Epton suddenly looked at her. “Lisa, you’re from New York University School of Medicine. You’ve seen Anti, right?”

Nora: "...Yes, I've seen her before."

After all, although she could not see herself directly, she saw herself in the mirror every day.

Epson immediately asked, "Is she very arrogant?"

Nora: "?"

Other than being a little lazy, she was not considered arrogant, right?

When she did not speak, Epson sneered. "I know that Anti is the new star of your school. You definitely don't want to speak ill of her, but can she help you find glory? She can't. Only I'm willing to bring you into my laboratory. Therefore, in the future, who will be your mentor? Do you understand?"

"... Yeah, I do."

Oscar also pulled Nora's arm. "I know you won't belittle Professor Anti but Professor Epson likes it when others mock her in front of him. Even if you don't mock her, don't side with Professor Anti. Otherwise, Professor Epson will be angry."

"...Okay."

Nora was helpless and anxious. She only knew about Epson from the email. She had never met him before. Why did this fellow treat her as his imaginary enemy?

"Alright, we're here. Be careful what you say!"

With another warning, the two of them stopped in front of a room in the lab building with Epson. Epson took out his key card and opened the door.

Nora looked inside and saw seven to eight graduate students in white coats busy researching topics.

When they heard the voice, they turned around and saw Professor Epson. Everyone shouted, "Professor Epson, you're more professional than Anti!"

Nora: “??”

Epson smiled. “Hello. We’re on duty tonight. We have to get the project done and send the report as soon as possible! I can’t wait to slap Anti’s face!”

A few people with bruises like his echoed together, “Not only do I want to slap her face, but I also want to hit her nose!”

“I want to hit her in the face! I want her to never speak again! She can only bow down to us.”

“I also want her to beg to join us. I heard that she has children in the country. I want her children to be ashamed of having such a mother!”

Nora: “??????”

So their daily ritual was badmouthing Anti?

How great of a grudge was this?!

The corners of her mouth twitched as she heard Professor Epson say, “Alright, these two are my students. I’ll get them to do the odd jobs. This is Oscar, the forever first in the class.”

Everyone looked at her.

She was at a loss. “Hello, seniors. Let’s slap Anti’s face together!”

Advertisements

Nora: “...”

Epson looked at Nora again and introduced, “This is an exchange student from New York University School of Medicine. She has seen Anti in person.”

Along with this sentence, everyone looked at Nora.

Nora: "..."

Everyone was confused.

Seeing that she was silent for a long time, Oscar poked her arm. "Say it! You'll hit Anti's face!"

Nora: "...I can't say it."

"Why?"

The others also glared at her.

Nora coughed. "Because I'm Anti."

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 850 - Meeting

There was silence in the laboratory.

A few moments later, Oscar coughed. “What did you say? How can you be Anti? You’re Lisa! Oh I know, what you mean is that you and Anti are not only from the same country but also from the same School of Medicine, so you and she are similar, right?”

Nora: “...”

Before she could speak, the others had already opened their mouths.

“That must be the case. If she really was Anti, why would she come over as an exchange student here?”

“Heh, you are so unappreciative. Professor Epton gave you such a great opportunity, yet you don’t know how to cherish it? Is it because you think Anti is great? Then why don’t you work on a project under her instead? Besides, can she even complete the project?”

Upon hearing this, Nora replied, “Because there’s no way this project can be completed.”

Everyone retorted angrily at once.

“How is it impossible? We’re almost done!”

“There are no borders in academics. You should be looking at which professor is better rather than blindly working behind closed doors!”

“Professor Epton, she is so ungrateful, I think you’d better kick her out!”

As Epton listened to everyone around him, he looked at Nora again and sneered, “No, I must keep her here.”

Everyone: “?”

Epson said to Nora, “You think Anti is great, right? Then I will show you that I am better than her! I will also let you verify with your own eyes whether this project will be successfully completed or not. I will show that Anti is nothing! In terms of scientific research, we here at Staav University are the best. Alright, don’t stand around here to talk. Split up and get to work!”

One by one, the rest of the students left the area around Epson. All of them curled their lips disdainfully at Nora and some even gave her the finger to express their contempt.

Oscar also quietly tugged at Nora’s sleeve. “Even if you like Professor Anti, don’t speak up for her anymore, okay?”

Nora: “...”

This was just so... She couldn’t even leave despite wanting to.

She asked, “Is there anything that needs to be checked at the archive?”

She was still thinking about going to the archives to look for File No. 004.

Someone replied, “Yeah, there is. I need you to go to the archives to look up File No. 102...”

But before he could finish, Epson sneered and said, “No, no, she doesn’t have to do anything. She just needs to witness our success.”

As soon as Epson said this, no one dared to assign her work anymore.

The undergraduate who should have been worked to the bone had now become an idler.

Nora fell silent for a while. Then, she simply sat in the rest area at the side.

Just like that, she watched as Oscar busied herself here and there. Under their directions, she printed documents and did things that would never come within a mile of core content.

Soon, it was noon.

At the request of the professor, Oscar went out to buy lunch, but when she brought it back she found that there wasn't any for Nora.

Oscar was very apologetic. "I didn't know that there was one portion fewer. They refuse to give you one..."

Nora wasn't bothered. "Then I'll just go out and eat by myself!"

She stood up. When she was about to go out, Epsom sneered, "You have to be back by 1 PM! Otherwise, I won't give you any credits at all."

Nora ignored him and went out.

She wasn't really an exchange student, so she had no need for credits.

After having lunch at the cafeteria, she was about to go back to the lab when she ran into Jack again. At the sight of her, Jack stepped forward and said with a smile, "Lisa! What a coincidence! We meet again!"

Nora had half a smile on her face. "Yeah, what a coincidence indeed."

Jack scratched his head. "Actually, it's not really a coincidence. I was waiting for you. I circled the cafeteria five times before I finally saw you."

Nora: "?"

He sure was direct...

She lowered her eyes and asked, "Why were you waiting for me?"

Jack said, "I heard that there's a serial killer in the school, so I thought I would protect you. Don't be scared, I can take you home."

II

11

Nora raised her eyebrows, not expecting such an answer.

“How did you know about the serial killer?” She asked.

Jack laughed. “It’s all over the school. Several SWAT cars have entered our campus and there are SWAT officers patrolling all the entrances and exits now.”

SWAT officers?

Did that mean that Brenda was also here?

While she was thinking about it, her cell phone rang. When she lowered her head and answered, she found that it was Solo.

“Hey Anti, I’m at the gates of the school but the management is too strict. They don’t allow anyone without a student ID to enter. Why’s that? Isn’t the Staav University campus free to enter?”

“...I’ll pick you up at the gates.”

“Nah, you don’t have to.” Solo sighed and said, “Just come to the SWAT team’s temporary detention room on campus.” Nora: “?”

“Oh, they didn’t let me in just now even when I insisted on it, so I stole someone’s student ID. They found out about it, so I’ve been brought in.”

Nora’s lip corners spasmed and she suddenly raised her eyebrows. “Well, okay, I’ll come right over.”

She hung up the phone and walked over to the detention room leisurely.

Outside the detention room.

Brenda sneered at her subordinate and said, “Let’s go, I want to see who has the balls to talk so big and say that he’ll make sure we can’t use our network if we don’t let him go.

Ha!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 851 - Brenda'S Troubles

When Nora walked over, she happened to hear Brenda, so all the more she wasn't in a hurry anymore. She even walked over two steps slower, stood outside the door, and peeked inside.

Brenda pushed the door open and entered. Her cold expression froze when she saw Solo.

Solo was ranting at the other SWAT officers.

“... I told you, I'm here to look for someone. How can you arrest me so indiscriminately? Hurry up and let me go! If you don't, I won't let you guys off!”

But when he saw Brenda, Solo's expression instantly changed.

He was so fierce just now, but he suddenly became cautious in an instant.

“Brenny?”

Nora, who was standing outside the door, suddenly felt a wave of disgust.

Brenny?

What a mushy nickname.

The SWAT officers were also stunned. They looked at Solo and then at Brenda. Finally, they asked, “Do you know each other?” “Yes!”

“No!”

Solo and Brenda answered at the same time.

Aaron, the SWAT officer, became even more confused. “Captain Brenda, do you know him or not?”

“No.”

“Yes.”

Solo and Brenda answered at the same time again, except that they had switched answers this time.

Solo thought that perhaps Brenda didn't want to admit in public that he was her boyfriend, so he changed his stance.

But Brenda knew that if she denied knowing him, it would be very difficult for Solo to get out. When the two simultaneously switched stances, Aaron looked at them again in confusion. Suddenly, realization dawned upon him. “Oh, I get it!”

He looked at Solo. “Boyfriend?”

Solo nodded immediately. Just as he was about to say yes, Brenda straight-up denied it. “No.”

With a cold look, she added, “But I know who he is. He's not Barbarian, you can release him!”

Aaron nodded. “Okay.”

After Solo was released, Brenda turned around and walked out.

Solo followed after her and asked, “Brenny, you admitted to knowing me just now. Is it because you were worried that I would be detained? I still have a place in your heart, right?”

Brenda took a deep breath, turned around, and said word by word: “Listen, I would have said the same thing even if it was someone else. Because this is my job. I want to rule all the suspicious people out.”

Her words stunned Solo, and a somewhat lonely expression came over his face. “But I'm not just anyone. Didn't you say that you like me? And that you also like being with me? You even told me to listen to you and do as you say...”

Brenda lowered her eyes, which seemed somewhat chilly. Her lips slowly curled into a sneer and she said, "If you are really willing to do as I say, then you should leave immediately and never appear before me ever again!"

"But why?" Solo, who didn't understand, pressed further.

"I told you," Brenda said word by word, "I'm tired of you."

Solo stepped in front of her and blocked her way. "Brenny, I don't believe what you say at all, you're not someone like that! It was obviously your first time when you were with me..."

"My first time? You must be dreaming. Heh, I've already fooled around with at least ninety men-maybe even a hundred-and you are nothing among them. So, don't pester me anymore!"

After Brenda said that, she took out a blank check. "Or is it money that you want? How much do you want? I can give it to you."

Solo stood where he was, terribly aggrieved. "I'm not doing it for money..."

"Then forget it."

Brenda kept the check back in her pocket. Then, with both hands on the holster at her waist, she strode away.

Brenda had put on the Swiss police uniform for work today. The uniform made her legs look long and her waist thin and slender, she looked cool and alpha in it. The moment she walked out, she attracted the gazes of everyone around her.

Aaron, who was outside, hurriedly followed her when he saw her coming out.

Solo came after her the moment she left the room but before he could catch up with her, he saw Brenda suddenly put an arm around Aaron's shoulder.

She said with a low giggle, “Hey handsome, come to my room tonight. Let’s exchange tips on how to catch criminals!”

Her voice was charming and extraordinarily seductive when she said it.

It was just like that time when she had knocked on Solo’s door and stood outside looking at him.

Solo froze.

Seeing Brenda’s behavior, Aaron immediately smiled and put his arm around her waist. “Sure thing, Captain Brenda. I have long wanted to have an in-depth exchange with you.”

The two went farther and farther and even flirted with each other.

Solo stared at them, unable to speak for the longest time.

After Brenda and Aaron turned a corner, the two suddenly stopped and separated from each other at the same time. Brenda said, “Thanks.”

Aaron grinned. “No problem, Captain Brenda. After working together for so many years, we do have some tacit understanding between us. Was that your boyfriend?”

Brenda’s expression turned sad but her eyes were still cold. “Not anymore.”

Aaron wanted to ask further, but Brenda said, “These are not things you should be asking about.”

Aaron immediately made a gesture of zipping his mouth, indicating that he wouldn’t say any more.

Only then did Brenda begin to give instructions.

“All the labs must be emptied tonight, no one is to stay for experiments. This is to prevent Barbarian from killing anyone at night. Everyone he attacked is involved with biomedicine, so we must focus on protecting those people.”

“Yes, ma’am.”

Aaron straightened his back, answered affirmatively, and left.

After he left, Brenda let out a deep breath. At this moment, Nora suddenly appeared beside her. She fixedly looked at Brenda and asked, “What on earth is going on between you and Solo?”

Brenda pressed her lips together tightly at the question.

She was about to speak when Nora interrupted her. “I saw everything you and Aaron did just now, Brenda. Don’t use lame excuses to dismiss me again.”

Brenda paused.

She looked at Nora. Her eyes suddenly reddened and she chuckled softly. In a soft whisper, she said, “Nora... I’d always thought that the world was very big, but why is it actually so small?”

Upon hearing her emotional sigh, Nora held her shoulders and asked, “What on earth happened?”

Chapter 852 - You Have No Right To Interfere With My Freedom

Brenda narrowed her eyes. “Don’t ask anymore, Nora. I just can’t be with him. Solo found his way here because you gave him the address, right? Don’t do that again.”

After she said that in a low voice, she raised her head again and went back to her usual calm and lazy self. “After all, with him around, I won’t be able to go to other handsome guys anymore! Right?” Seeing how Brenda looked like she didn’t want to say anything, Nora knew that she had probably done something wrong this time.

Perhaps she shouldn’t have told Solo where Brenda was but she had always felt that a lot of issues between people were only caused by misunderstandings.

It was just like Tanya and Joel back then. There had been so many misunderstandings between the two of them. If they didn’t meet or contact each other, how were they ever going to resolve the misunderstandings between them?

That was why she wanted to let Solo and Brenda meet and talk things out.

But judging from Brenda’s behavior just now, it seemed that she had no intentions of explaining anything at all?

Nora paused for a moment before she slowly said, “Brenda, I think it’d be best if there aren’t any misunderstandings between you two. Those corny TV dramas and novels are too exaggerated. We’re all adults here. Moreover, times are moving so fast these days. If there really is some kind of misunderstanding, then it would do everyone good to explain everything clearly.”

Brenda lowered her eyes. “There is no misunderstanding between him and I. Nora, I know very well what I am doing.”

Seeing that she was still unwilling to reveal more, Nora nodded. “Okay, I won’t interfere with you guys.”

“Thanks.”

Brenda and Nora were both straightforward people. After the two talked it out, Brenda said, “I just want to catch Barbarian now. As for Solo, I’ll leave him to you.”

“Yeah, okay.”

Brenda left after saying that.

Nora remained where she was and looked at her from the back.

Brenda was very professional. After she went into the distance, she picked up the walkie-talkie and started to contact the people stationed in every direction. They were required to report every ten minutes to prevent Barbarian from breaking through from any direction.

As for Nora, she went back where she came from and turned the corner to see Solo standing there blankly.

When Nora first met Solo, he had been seriously injured. His lungs had been punctured and he looked like he wouldn’t survive. The guy had only survived because Nora had operated on him.

was

Even when he was seriously injured, the man was never serious. After owing her a favor, every time he had to do something for her, he had always done so very reluctantly.

This was the first time Nora had ever seen him look so lost and dejected.

She walked over and asked, “Are you going back?”

“No.” Solo shook his head. “I don’t believe she would do something like this. I want to stay and find out why she’s doing this. It wasn’t easy for me to finally fall for a woman after all this time. I can’t just give up like that!”

Nora kept quiet for a moment but did not dissuade him.

Solo then looked at her again. “So, can you find me a place to stay?”

Nora: “?”

Was he gonna cling to her now?

She replied, “It’s not like you don’t have any money. Go and get a hotel room for yourself.”

“I can’t stay at a hotel.” Solo followed behind her and said pitifully, “Didn’t I tell you? I broke the law.”

Nora’s lip corners spasmed a little. When she recalled how Solo had told her upon his arrival in America that Interpol was after him in Switzerland. She asked, “What did you do?”

Solo scratched his head. “It’s actually nothing serious. All I did was compete with a white hat and hack into his computer. After that, those petty guys started to come after me.” A white hat referred to a hacker who served the government.

Solo had always been flamboyant in his way of doing things, so Nora didn’t find it strange that he would do something like that. The corners of her lips spasmed a little and she sighed. “Fine.”

Corne

Nora took him to a hotel, booked a room for Solo with her fake ID, and paid for a five-day stay.

“Five days later, if you still haven’t gotten everything settled, you’ll have to find someplace to stay by yourself,” said a heartless Nora.

Solo: "..."

Seeing that Nora was leaving, Solo grabbed her. "What kind of mission is Brenny on here? Isn't she just a nobody policewoman? Why did she come to Switzerland?"

"... To arrest a serial killer."

Solo's expression changed. "Isn't that very dangerous?"

as

Solo had been studying computers all this time, so he was cooped up indoors all year round. Although he was pretty tall, he was skinny and barely had any flesh on him. Nora glanced at his body disdainfully, not sure why Brenda had fallen in love with him.

He wouldn't even last a punch from her or Brenda.

Solo said anxiously, "Then I'm going to protect her tonight!"

Nora curled her lips disdainfully. "You? Forget about it. If you go, she'll be in even more danger."

Because she would have to protect him!

Solo: "..."

Solo's lip corners spasmed and he said nothing

Nora didn't bother with Solo anymore and left the hotel. He was already nearly thirty years old, surely he could take care of himself, right?

Nora kept walking around the campus.

To be honest, she could also just charge into the archives and look for File No. 004. However, with Barbarian nearby, she shouldn't do that. If she did, then she would be outright telling him that the V16 was in the archives.

She couldn't beat Barbarian in a fight, so she mustn't let him take the lead.

She could only outsmart him and use a reasonable excuse to check out File No. 004. It seemed that she could only approach it using Wayne's project.

When she thought of this, Nora started walking towards the laboratory building.

As soon as she entered, she heard quarreling coming from ahead.

Originally, she wasn't intending to pay attention to it, but in the midst of the quarrel, she heard Brenda's voice. She turned around and walked over only to find Epson and Brenda arguing.

Brenda was dressed in professional attire and looked very smart. She had one hand on her hip and the other raised as she checked the time. "You must leave this place by five o'clock at the latest."

Epson replied angrily, "I'm not going to leave! My experimental project is about to be completed! You must be doing this because of Anti, right? You don't want me to finish my experiments quickly, for fear that it'll slap her in the face? Heh, Officer Hunt, you are just a police officer! We have all the permissions to work on our experiments here! You have no right to interfere with my freedom!"

Chapter 853 - Epsom Digs His Own Grave

Behind Brenda was Aaron. When he heard Epsom, he said, “It’s for your own good that we’re telling you guys to leave. Nighttime is the peak period for murders. Also, this particular serial has a strange pattern. Once he starts, he kills a person a day until he has killed enough. His targets this time are people involved in biomedicine, like you. You guys are our key protection targets!”

Epsom sneered. “That’s a nice way of saying it, but why do we have to stop while the lab next door doesn’t?”

Aaron was simply rendered speechless. “I told you, his targets are people involved in biomedicine, especially professors specializing in genetics. The professor next door is not involved with biomedicine, so he will be fine, of course!”

However, Epsom didn’t believe him. “The way I see it, all these murderers and whatnot are all things that you guys made up, right? I haven’t heard of anyone who has died. Besides, everything was very normal in school today. Captain Brenda, I just insulted Anti, that’s all, isn’t it? I know that you and Anti are both Americans and that she may even be your relative, so you don’t want me to continue with my project. Ha, do you think I won’t know what your objective is?”

Brenda: “?”

She was dumbfounded. “What objective do I have? How come I don’t know anything about it?”

Epsom said, “I’ve already asked my friends in America. Professor Anti has been conducting experimental research recently and her research is on genetics. She also hasn’t shown herself for several days. Heh, did she hear about my progress? Is that why she's burying herself into her research and trying to finish her project ahead of me? As for you? You made up a story about some murderer to disturb me and delay my progress. I'm not stupid, I've already seen through your ploy!"

Brenda: "?!?"

Nora, who just came over: "??"

No matter what, she had to provide an explanation as to why she had suddenly disappeared in America. Thus, she had told Lily to say that she was conducting research, and therefore, not seeing guests. She didn't expect Epson to spin such a story in his head, though!

To be honest, before she came to Staav University, she didn't even know who Epson was.

The corners of her lips spasmed. Being seen as an imaginary enemy or whatnot was really irritating.

Brenda replied, "My sister-in-law isn't conducting any research. You've misheard."

"Sister-in-law? Heh, I see, so you and Anti have ties like that! No wonder you're doing so much for her. Do you think I'd believe she isn't doing any research just because you say so? In any case, my lab mustn't halt progress tonight!"

Epson simply refused to listen. Brenda took a deep breath. "I am in charge of campus security now, so everyone should comply with my arrangements! If you refuse to obey orders, don't blame me for taking action against you!"

"And how are you going to do that?"

Epson sneered, "Keep that for the scaredy-cats, I won't be fooled. In any case, you don't have to say any more. My lab will not halt progress tonight!"

After he spoke, he looked at the students. “Whoever wants to leave early, feel free to do so! I won’t stop you!”

As soon as he said that, the students looked at the police, and then at Epson. Then, one by one, they stood beside him.

“I’m not leaving, Professor.”

“Neither am I. I want to quickly finish this for the professor. We are only one step away from success!”

“Yeah, we’ve already worked overtime for half a month. After working so hard for so long, we are just left with two days of work. How can we give up now? We must continue the experiments!”

“We have the freedom to do what we want! You have no right to interfere!”

“Yes, that’s right! If the police force us to comply with orders and prevent us from conducting our experiments, then I will report you to your superiors!”

She looked at the ignorant people in front of her, so mad that she was about to pop a vein or two.

Brenda: “!!”

She looked at the ignorant people in front of her, so mad that she was about to pop a vein or two.

In the end, she looked at Epson, sneered, and said, “Fine, you can stay if you want but please sign this waiver of liability for not obeying our instructions. Otherwise, I have to take full responsibility for any accidents!”

She couldn’t be bothered if some people wanted to court death.

She was a member of Interpol. She was only responsible for arresting Barbarian.

She wasn’t going to pay any more attention to these idiots.

Brenda had never claimed to be a messiah. After solving so many global cases over the years, she'd already seen through a lot of mundane things in life.

Upon hearing what she said, Epson sneered. "Do you think we will be fooled if you use such things to scare us? There are so many professors of biomedicine, I'm just a nobody among them. Even if the murderer or whatever really exists, they won't target me. Besides, you guys are the ones who keep bringing up the serial killer, we have never seen him before. What's the big deal about signing the agreement? I'll sign it for you! I will take responsibility for my own life!"

After speaking, Epson stepped forward and signed the disclaimer that Brenda handed over.

Brenda then looked at the students. "You must also take responsibility for their lives!"

Epson scoffed. "Of course!"

"Okay."

Brenda took back the papers. Out of professional courtesy, she reminded him once more, "We will be patrolling nearby. At any time, if you see anyone suspicious, make sure to yell. We will come over right away."

Epson's response, however, was: "Don't worry, we won't give you the opportunity to enter the lab to search for anything! You can forget about stealing the results of my experiments for Anti!"

Brenda: "???"

Chapter 854 - Competing With Anti???

Brenda felt that there was something wrong with the man's brain, but she was accustomed to people demanding freedom of action and had already learned ways to deal with it.

After bringing her men out of the laboratory, Brenda said to Aaron, "Get a few more people to patrol the laboratory building tonight!"

Out of the professional ethics of an international special forces officer, she ultimately still had her moral responsibilities.

Aaron nodded. "Roger that, Captain Brenda."

After the two spoke, Brenda left and went someplace else to make more arrangements.

In the laboratory building.

After Brenda left, Epson looked at the rest of the group. "Alright, let's continue work, guys!"

After speaking, he suddenly asked, "Lisa, where are you going?"

Nora, who had turned around and was about to leave: "?"

She looked back and raised her eyebrows. "Home."

She had three hungry babies to feed at home! There was no way she would stay here and work overtime with them.

Besides, if Barbarian was going to show up tonight, then it would be the safest to leave this place, both for herself and for everyone else in the school.

However, Epton got mad. “Did I say you can go? You are also a member of the lab, how can you just leave without the consent of your supervisor?”

Nora stood still and asked, “Oh, can I go then?”

Epton: “?”

He was about to refuse when Nora said, “You said it yourself just now- everyone is free to choose whether they want to stay or not. Some people choose to trust you, others choose to trust the police. I also have the right and freedom to choose to go home now, right?”

Her argument shut Epton up.

Nora then looked at Oscar and said, “The SWAT would never make trouble unreasonably. Since she can get the school to give her the authority, that means she is no ordinary person. Why are you people so reluctant to trust them? What are you going to do if you really meet with danger?”

Her words made Oscar waver. She looked at Epton and said, “Professor, I...”

Before she could even finish, Epton became even more furious. “What? Do you believe her nonsense too? If you do, then you can also go with her!”

Oscar heaved a sigh of relief. “Then I’ll go for now. I’ll come over early in the morning tomorrow to bring breakfast for you and the seniors...”

But right after, Epton sneered and said, “Your seniors are all working overtime while the two of you are just here to share the fruits of their labor, yet you can’t even do something like staying up late? In that case, what do I need you for in my lab? You guys can leave, but once you do, you will be seen as having withdrawn from my experiment.”

This made Oscar stop.

She looked at Nora with a wry smile. “Lisa, the professor is indeed giving us credit by having us here. It doesn’t seem appropriate to leave at this time...”

Oscar would never miss any opportunity to climb the ladder and boost her résumé.

Nora was very calm, though. “Yeah, okay. Since that’s the case, then I withdraw.”

Her understatement-like reaction angered Epson.

Epson looked at her, finding the girl a total ingrate. He was giving her such a wonderful project for free, yet she didn’t even want it. Was it because she thought Anti was better than him?

Epson was livid. He pointed at her and snapped, “Fine, fine. If you want to withdraw, then go ahead! To think I originally wanted to give you a chance. I hope you won’t regret this two days later!”

Nora raised her eyebrows. She looked at the rest of the students in the lab and spoke up for Brenda again. “Compared to our lives, no form of glory is worth mentioning.”

After saying that, she turned and left.

Her remark caused unrest among the students.

Someone a little more timid couldn’t help but say, “Professor Epson, why don’t we listen to the police? To be honest, even if the results are delayed by two days, Anti should not be able to make it ahead of us...”

“Yeah, Professor, we...”

However, Epson only looked at them as though he had expected better from them. “All of you are too naive. Do you know how scheming Anti is? She has not shown up in America for several days. This shows that she is putting everything she has into her research right now! She must know that we are mocking her, so she is working overtime. We are fighting a battle against time right now! Whoever successfully develops it first will win!”

Everyone looked at one another.

Finally, someone couldn't help but raise their doubts. "Anti just didn't show herself, that's all. Hasn't she always been mysterious? No one could find her. Maybe she's just sleeping..."

Lily had once publicly stated that Anti didn't have that much time because she needed to sleep twelve to sixteen hours a day. Thus, she really didn't have time to do anything else.

Epson sighed. "Do you actually believe that?"

The person continued to retort. "But what if Anti is not researching this topic at all?"

Epson sneered and puffed out his chest confidently. "How can that be? Although I, Epson, am a nobody at Staav University, I am still a little famous internationally. She definitely knows me and pays attention to me! She also sees me as her rival! She is undoubtedly anxious and competing with me for time right now! Just you wait! Once we finish the project one step ahead of her, she will definitely jump out and say, 'Oh, I am also working on this project, I'm just not as fast as you guys.'"

Epson curled his lips disdainfully. "She sure is arrogant!"

Now that Epson had put it that way, everyone believed him. They all took it seriously and said, "Then we have to be one step ahead of Anti! Let's work overtime! Professor, we are ready! We'll do this for the sake of your honor!"

"Okay, I'm counting on you guys!"

Epson frowned and then said loudly, "It's not just for my sake but also for the honor of Staav University! I thank everyone in advance!"

Even he was awfully moved by himself.

This time, he would definitely be able to suppress Anti! He would make that arrogant woman bow down before him.

As for that murderer or whatever, heh, there's no way he would come to him... right?

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 855 - A Complaint?

Nora, who had been set as an imaginary enemy, didn't give two hoots about whether Epson's experimental project was successful or not. When she returned home, she found the house pretty lively.

When she pushed open the door and entered, she saw an uninvited guest-Rene.

Rene still looked as timid as ever and her head was lowered.

However, she had taken a bath, so her hair was a lot smoother. There wasn't a bad smell on her anymore either. Although her clothes were plain-and even had patches in some places—they were clean.

Cherry was offering her snacks to her. "Rene, try it! Don't be afraid! It's delicious!"

Rene was so frightened that she pushed the snack back to her. "N-no, it's okay. I don't eat them..."

"Have some! It's fine, I can't finish so many snacks anyway, yeah!"

Cherry's large eyes blinked, she smiled and said again.

Rene shook her hands again.

Cherry didn't press any further. The moment she took away the snacks, Nora saw Rene breathe a sigh of relief-obviously, she was scared of socializing.

But since she was so afraid of socializing, why was she here?

While she was thinking about it, when Rene saw her enter, she was so shocked that she immediately stood up. "M-M-Ms. Smith."

“... I’m not M-M-Ms. Smith. My name is Lisa.”

Rene was stunned for a moment.

Nora’s voice was still as low as ever as she said, “Well, just kidding. You don’t have to call me Ms. Smith, you can just call me Lisa.”

A touch of gentleness flashed across Rene’s eyes when she sensed her kindness.

People who lived in a world filled with malice would be grateful for every little bit of kindness that others showed them. That was exactly how Rene looked at the moment, grateful.

She lowered her head and whispered, “I... I’m here to thank you.”

“For?”

While asking, Nora looked at Xander.

There were still two months left, so Xander was in very stable condition at the moment.

Rene continued to speak softly. “Liam got promoted because you helped him, right? Thank you.”

“You’re welcome.” Nora looked at her: “I was the one who dragged him into it, so of course I had to do something.”

Rene breathed a sigh of relief again.

Then, she pointed to the cake on the table and said, “I-I made that myself. Y-you and the children can try it.”

The three little fellows would never touch things their neighbors gave them until she got home. Nora was very satisfied with their manners.

She nodded. “Thank you.”

Rene became self-conscious again, though, she also felt relieved having completed her task. “T-then I’ll go first.”

Nora waited until she left before she walked to the door and looked out. Sure enough, she saw Liam waiting for Rene outside.

Rene’s eyes lit up when she saw him. She walked over and took his arm. She looked very clingy. When she whispered something, Liam nodded.

Obviously, Rene had taken the initiative to visit them because of Liam’s instructions.

Was he trying to please her because he knew that Nora was a high-level executive at NTT?

Nora did not feel much about it, though. After all, this was human nature.

—

Soon, night fell.

At Staav University’s laboratory building.

Epson was actually very scared. After all, everyone else in the building had obediently halted their experiments and gone back.

If there really was a murderer, there would be no one to kill except them. Thus, even though he was very sleepy, he still kept his spirits high and kept an eye outside.

Slowly, bit by bit, the clock moved from nine o’clock to five in the morning.

Seeing that the sky was gradually brightening, Epson slowly relaxed. He even walked over to the students and said jokingly, “See? A whole night has passed, there are no murderers at all! Those people were just trying to scare us. It’s fortunate that we didn’t leave and end up wasting this precious night. I’m going to complain to the university president tomorrow! And tell him that those SWAT officers are simply running too wild in the school, which has seriously affected our lives and work progress!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 856 - Barbarian'S Modus Operandi!

Everyone laughed when Epsilon said that.

It gradually became bright outside. One by one, the Staav University professors reported for work. Students also gradually woke up in the dormitories and went for their classes.

Everyone had believed Brenda when she said with absolute conviction that Barbarian would definitely take action-after all, Interpol had extraordinary status.

Regardless, Epsilon still went to the university president's office and told him that the serial murderers or whatnot didn't exist at all. He even pointed out something angrily and said, "Professor Mayer was probably killed at home by people seeking revenge on him, but that group of people are not only clinging onto this but even carrying this over to a serial killer hypothesis. This is just the police's excuse for their incompetence! There are so many projects to be done at Staav University, are we really going to follow their instructions and leave work on time every day? This is ridiculous!"

Upon hearing Epsilon, the other professors and students rushing their work also approached the president to lodge their complaints.

"Our projects cannot afford any more delays! Since nothing went wrong in Professor Epsilon's lab last night, this means it's okay for us to work after hours too."

"Yeah, we can't halt our progress just because of a murderer who may not even exist."

"If our progress is affected, it will also affect Staav University."

The president couldn't hold up under the pressure of so many people, so he went to Brenda.

“Captain Brenda, I know you guys are from Interpol, but nothing has happened at all last night. The murder pattern of that serial killer ‘Barbarian’ you mentioned, is that once he starts killing, he must kill one person every day before he’ll stop, but no one died last night. The professors and students have begun to raise objections and they are complaining that your regulatory measures are too strict!”

Brenda, who was dressed in a military uniform, straightened her back. She looked at the president and slowly asked, “Are you sure there is nothing wrong with all the professors?”

“Yes, I’m sure!”

The president sighed. “Although we are morally obligated to cooperate with you, nothing of the sort that you mentioned happened yesterday, so I think you must be mistaken. It’s impossible that Barbarian would be in the school. Alternatively, maybe the screening was done well yesterday, so he didn’t have a chance to enter the school at all. I’m afraid we can’t cooperate with you anymore.”

Brenda explained nervously, “Sir, yesterday’s situation was indeed unexpected and non-conforming to Barbarian’s killing pattern, but trust me, I have been tracking him for three years now. There’s no way I would be wrong. He must be the one who killed that professor on the first day! He’s definitely here in Staav University!”

The principal replied, “I believed you when you told me this yesterday. When I asked you if you had any evidence, you told me that you were basing this on intuition. But Captain Brenda, there are times when one’s intuition can go wrong. Do you have any actual evidence? For example, traces of himself that Barbarian leaves behind after he kills someone?”

A stern-faced Brenda explained, “He has always been cautious and doesn’t leave anything but a poker card behind after he murders someone. When Professor Mayer died, there was a poker card in his home.”

The president sighed. “But what if the murderer deliberately did that to mislead you? So that you’ll suspect it’s Barbarian? The school carries out and researches hundreds of projects every year and many of them are pressed for time. They really can’t afford to be delayed! Captain Brenda, do you think...”

Brenda’s expression tensed up and she said, “Sir, do you know who Barbarian is? He has gone on five killing sprees during the past three years, and each time, he killed five people in a row before he stopped. Some of them might have been bad eggs, but some of them were also innocent citizens! In order to kill someone, Barbarian once placed a bomb and killed an entire bus full of people with him! He has no concept of life at all. It’s most dangerous when there are many students in the school. I don’t think you would want murders to take place, either, right?! Once Barbarian shows up, if there are too many people around, there will be countless casualties. Are you sure you really don’t care?”

Brenda’s words made the president’s jaw tense up. After a while, he sighed and said, “Fine, you’ve convinced me again. But if the situation still differs from what you say after tonight, then we may not be able to cooperate with you anymore.”

Brenda nodded. “No problem.”

When she came out, Aaron came forward at once. He said, “Captain Brenda, what on earth is up with Barbarian? He didn’t do anything last night? The professors and students are all calling us good-for-nothings now and some are even telling our men stationed at their positions what to do! Our guys are all feeling really awful!”

Aaron gritted his teeth in fury and added, “That guy named Epsom is especially bad. He brought his students with him and openly called us incompetent.”

Chapter 857 - Found It!!

When Brenda heard this, a sharp look came into her eyes and she lowered her gaze. She said, “Tell our guys not to listen to them. They are just a bunch of ignorant and pedantic students!”

Aaron nodded. But right after, he heaved a deep sigh. “Everyone understands that, it’s just that we are also anxious. Did we really make an error in judgment this time? Is Barbarian not here?”

“He’s here.”

Brenda was very sure.

Firstly, the way Professor Mayer was killed completely matched Barbarian’s modus operandi. Secondly, Caleb was here. Additionally, he also clearly stated that Trueman had only sent him here to look for leads after he got to know of Barbarian’s whereabouts.

Therefore, Barbarian must be in Staav University

But why was it that they simply couldn’t find him?

Aaron couldn’t help but say, “We kept everyone unrelated to the school out of campus yesterday. Was he unable to get in? That’s why he didn’t take any action?”

The professors all had their own living quarters in the staff dormitories, so none of them had gone home the day before. All of them had stayed in the dormitories.

Therefore, the whole school was currently sealed off.

Had Barbarian really been unable to get in as a result?

Brenda found it unlikely, though.

For Barbarian to walk away unscathed every time after he killed so many people, what he relied on was precisely his strong fighting abilities. A door wouldn't be able to shut him out.

Brenda couldn't help looking at Aaron once more. "Get someone to verify once more whether all the professors came for work normally today."

Aaron nodded. "I have already contacted Peter, the director cooperating with our investigation of the professors and students this whole time, just now. He has confirmed that all professors have reported for classes and also that there are no students or professors absent from classes so far."

Brenda frowned. She was very puzzled. While she was thinking, a few people, who looked like students, passed by her. When they saw her, they pointed at her and said, "You see that woman there? That's the woman. She's from Interpol. She must be why the police are so incompetent this time! First of all, women can't compare to men because they tend to become emotional in their way of handling things. Just now, I heard that she determined that we're facing a serial murderer because of her intuition? What kind of times are we living in? Does anyone solve cases with their intuition?"

"Also, she said yesterday that someone would definitely be killed last night, so a lot of policemen were dispatched to handle the situation. But not only was there no news of anyone being killed, the lab that worked overtime last night even turned out fine! I really don't understand why the president is cooperating with them..."

"Sigh, our project was originally supposed to be completed with just two more nights of overtime but it was postponed all because of her. Even the investors have become unhappy about this."

"Ours, too. Epson said that the whole school was very quiet last night and nothing happened at all. He also said that she's doing all this for Anti!"

"Anti? What does it have to do with Anti?"

“The officer said that Anti is her sister-in-law. Anti is currently conducting research in the US on the same topic as Epson, so the two of them are racing against time to see who can clinch the project first. That’s why the officer made up a ridiculous excuse like this to make things difficult for Epson. Unfortunately for her, he was not fooled. Our professor didn’t dare to take responsibility for potential accidents, so he obeyed their instructions, but Epson signed a waiver saying that he would take responsibility if anything happens in his lab!”

The two left while discussing the incident in low voices.

Aaron was furious. He wanted to go up and reason with them but Brenda held him back.

“Ignore them,” she said.

Aaron took a deep breath.

Brenda wanted to say something, but out of the corner of her eye, she suddenly glimpsed a familiar figure in the corner ahead. She cast her eyes down, suddenly took Aaron’s arm, and said, “Alright, Aaron, let’s talk business instead!”

Aaron: “?”

However, he lived up to the name of being long-term partners with Brenda and immediately understood what she meant. Right off the bat, he said, “Sure. Have you had lunch? You must be exhausted after the busy morning. Let’s have lunch first!”

“Okay.”

After Brenda answered, the two walked off intimately.

Only after they went into the distance did Solo come out of the corner. The skinny man clenched his fists tightly, awfully mad. He asked Nora beside him, “How am I inferior to that officer?”

Nora replied, “You are not as tall as him.”

Her one-liner pierced Solo's chest like a knife.

Solo retorted, "Aren't I just a little shorter than him?"

"You're not as strong and muscular as him."

A second knife was plunged into Solo's chest.

Nora looked Solo up and down. "Apart from your face, which is still not too bad, everything else about you seems to be inferior to him?"

Solo: "?"

He felt that a rain of blades had just showered on him!!

Solo heaved a silent sigh and lowered his head. "No matter how much better he is than me, Brenny likes me, not him."

Nora: "?"

"Are you that confident?" She asked.

"Of course." Solo said, "Do you think I'll get into a relationship with someone so casually? I know Brenny was up to no good when she first approached me, but her feelings for me, later on, were genuine. I feel the same way towards her too!"

Sanne

"I just want to know why on earth Brenny is ignoring me? There must be something wrong in here!"

Nora nodded.

She also knew that something was wrong, but if Brenda refused to say anything, then she couldn't do anything either.

Elsewhere.

Brenda and Aaron went to the school cafeteria. As it was lunchtime, there were a lot of people there.

When the pair entered, many students started to gesture at and talk about them.

Of course, public opinion was not overwhelmingly one-sided. There were still quite a fair number of people who spoke up for them.

“The police are just doing this in the name of prudence. It’d be best that the murderer doesn’t exist, but what if it’s true? Projects are important but when compared with our lives, aren’t our lives still more important?”

Aaron paid attention to the ongoings around him as he ate.

“Our lives are indeed important but these rumors are really wrong. Everyone knows that Barbarian has to kill for five consecutive days once he goes on a killing spree. Since nothing happened last night, this means that there is absolutely no problem! It’s not Barbarian...”

The students were extremely concerned about the case, so everyone was discussing it.

Even Aaron couldn’t help but start to doubt himself. He said, “Captain Brenda, are you sure it’s really Barbarian? Peter has confirmed with me again that all the professors have indeed reported for work. This doesn’t match Barbarian’s pattern. Also, if there is no murder case, then I’m afraid the police will really have to withdraw tomorrow...”

Upon hearing this, Brenda suddenly looked up at him. “Just now, you said that the professors have all reported for work, but what about Peter himself?”

Aaron was taken aback. “Peter and I have been contacting each other by cell phone all this time. I haven’t seen him today but he was talking in the group chat early this morning.”

Brenda's movements as she ate became slower and slower and she could no longer hear all the voices around them.

She suddenly asked, "Peter was also a lecturer before he became the director, right? What did he teach?"

Aaron was stunned. He swallowed and answered, "Biomedicine."

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 858 - Capturing The Criminal!

The timing when they came for lunch happened to coincide with Epon.

The students were busy with the experiments but Epon didn't need to do much, so he was free to go out for lunch.

As soon as he entered, he saw the students around him all looking in one direction. He followed everyone's gaze and looked over to see the pair who stood out in the crowd in their uniforms.

Epon curled his lips at once. He sneered and then walked over. "What a coincidence, Captain Brenda, I didn't expect you guys to also come here for lunch. Why do you guys still have the time to eat, though? Didn't you say that the serial killer is in the school? Everyone has stopped their experiments to cooperate with the police, so shouldn't you guys be so busy catching the bad guys that you don't even have time to eat? ..."

Epon spoke sarcastically.

Just as he was speaking, Brenda and Aaron pretty much only thought for two seconds before they jumped onto their feet. They moved so quickly that Epon got a shock.

In particular, Brenda and Aaron had a fierce and savage look in their eyes at the moment, which scared Epon so badly that he took a step back and waved his arms in front of him.

"What are you doing? Captain Brenda, we're on campus now. I won't hold it against you for beating me up the last time, but there are so many students watching us now. If you dare..."

Before he could even finish, Brenda and Aaron sprinted out of the cafeteria at lightning speed.

Epson: “?”

Epson: “...”

He stood where he was in confusion, puzzled about what the pair did just now.

He frowned. At this moment, a student nearby came over and asked, “Professor Epson, what just happened? What’s up with those two?”

Epson thought for a moment and replied, “I reprimanded them just now, so they must have suddenly woken up and come to their senses, I suppose? So they’ve gone to patrol and track down the murderer! I should think that the lockdown will be lifted soon! Besides, I reckon they must have also realized that it was not a serial killer who killed Professor Mayer, so they are too embarrassed to face us!”

Epson convinced even himself with his words.

The students nearby all gave Epson a thumbs up. They said, “Professor, you’re really an educator in both morals and science. Not only do you impart us knowledge but you even taught those two some principles of life.”

“Professor, your project will definitely succeed! You will definitely complete it faster than Anti!”

II

11

After being flattered by the students a little, Epson got ahead of himself and said, “Yeah, I think so too. Uh-huh, you guys don’t have to look at me like that, I just did what I should have...”

Elsewhere, after Brenda and Aaron sprinted out of the cafeteria, they went straight to the staff dormitories where the professors lived.

The professors hadn't been allowed to go home, so Peter was also living there. While they were running, Brenda asked, "When was the last time you saw Peter?"

Aaron replied, "At nine o'clock last night. We separated after we verified together that all the professors, except for Epton, had gone to the staff dormitory."

Brenda broke into a frown. She took a deep breath and slowly said, "Barbarian has a habit of killing between 11 pm and 4 am."

Therefore, it was possible that Peter had really been murdered!

Aaron also became nervous. He picked up the walkie-talkie and spoke into it. He asked, "Jabil, have you seen Professor Peter today?"

"I exchanged a few text messages with him. Just half an hour ago, he was telling me that I can go to the cafeteria to eat."

Aaron interrupted him. "What I'm asking is have you seen him in person?"

The other party paused and then answered, "No."

Aaron took a deep breath and said, "Head to Professor Peter's room in the staff dormitory immediately!"

"Roger!"

After hanging up, Brenda and Aaron sped up even more.

The two were anxious to solve the case but even more eager to save Peter. While running, they didn't notice Solo and Nora coming out of the corner.

At the sight of them, Solo immediately went after them.

Nora also followed closely behind them.

Solo said, "Judging from how they look, they have probably found something related to the suspect. Let's follow them and have a look. If we can help, then let's do so. Serial killers are too dangerous!"

Nora nodded. "Yeah." Brenda resented Barbarian.

After all, to her, Barbarian was the one who had killed Justin, but it wasn't like Nora could tell her the truth, either. Nora was worried that Brenda would take things too hard and end up forcing a fight with Barbarian.

She had witnessed Barbarian's strength before.

He was an extremely tough opponent.

With that in mind, Nora quickened her pace.

When Brenda and Aaron reached the staff dormitories, the two exchanged a look. Then, back to back, they rushed in. Both of them were holding their guns and had them aimed straight ahead.

Brenda walked in front while Aaron followed behind her.

As old partners, the two cooperated seamlessly.

Just like that, they came right up to Peter's door. Brenda knocked on it. Immediately after, she gripped her handgun tightly and said, "Professor Peter, I have something to talk to you about. Please open the door."

Right after she spoke, she heard footsteps coming from the room.

Brenda narrowed her eyes and exchanged a look with Aaron.

Aaron took a deep breath. "The person inside may be the murderer."

Brenda also nodded.

However, despite the movement inside, no one opened the door.

Brenda put her hand on the door handle and tried to open it but couldn't. She looked at the anti-burglary lock on the door.

At Staav University, professors' rooms were likely to contain their research materials, so each door was set up with digital locks. It was difficult to crack the password from the outside.

Brenda did not have the password to Peter's room.

She paused for a moment. Aaron pointed his handgun at the lock, intending to shoot.

However, Brenda stopped him. She said, "Unless you have the password, you won't be able to break the lock even if you shoot at it! On the contrary, we may even alert the enemy."

Aaron was anxious. "But if we delay any longer, the person inside is gonna escape!"

Brenda's brows drew together. While she was thinking, a weak voice came over.

"I... I can open the lock for you."

Upon hearing the voice, Brenda and Aaron turned their heads in unison to see Solo sticking to the wall like a weakling. Seeing the pair look over, he looked at Brenda ingratiatingly and said, "I can open the lock for you guys. Give me ten seconds."

Seco

After speaking, he took out his cell phone and started to tap away.

Seeing this, Brenda's pupils shrank.

She abruptly reached over and grabbed Solo's phone. "I don't need your help!"

Unfortunately, she was a step too late!

When Solo offered to open the door's digital lock, he had already started to attack it. Right after Brenda spoke, the door opened with a clack!

The person inside also appeared in front of everyone at this moment.

Not expecting so many people to come rushing in, he seemed rather flustered. When he heard their voices, he immediately stood up.

“Don’t move!”

“Freeze! Put your hands up!”

Brenda and Aaron shouted at the same time and pointed their guns at him.

Even Barbarian wouldn’t be able to fight back against firearms!

After all, the gene serum had only improved his physical fitness. It couldn’t turn his skin into steel!

“Turn around!”

The tall and sturdy figure slowly turned around. It was a face that Nora was familiar with...

Chapter 859 - Why Is Brenda Ignoring Solo!

“Jack?”

Nora, who was behind the few of them, uttered in surprise.

It was no wonder that she was surprised. After all, Jack’s bright and sunny image was simply too out of line with Barbarian. Moreover, Nora had fought with Barbarian before back in New York, so she knew that he could not possibly be Barbarian...

While she was thinking, Aaron rushed over. Together with Brenda, they cautiously grabbed Jack’s arms, held them behind him, and arrested him!

Jack, who looked rather flustered, exclaimed, “What’s the matter? What happened? Sh*t! You can’t just arrest me without a reason!”

Both Brenda and Aaron also felt that things were going too smoothly and the two looked at each other. While Aaron held Jack down, Brenda cautiously circled the room. However, she did not see Peter at all!

At the sight, Nora took the initiative to question Jack. She asked, “Why are you here,

Jack?”

Jack, who was bent over due to being bound, answered, “Professor Peter wanted me to clean his room. What’s the matter with you guys?”

In university, many postgraduate students working under the professors also doubled as their assistants in their personal life. In fact, a fair number of professors even got their postgraduate students to pick up their children from school for them. Therefore, situations like what Jack was claiming did exist.

However, he had a very flustered look in his eyes, so it was obvious at a glance that he was lying

Aaron immediately held him down even more forcefully, which made Jack feel as if his arm was going to break. He shouted, “You can’t treat me like this! I’m a student of Staav University! What gives you the right to treat me like this?”

Aaron’s expression darkened even further when he said that.

Nora said, “If you don’t tell the truth, I’m afraid we won’t be able to help you, Jack.”

Jack pressed his lips together when he heard her.

Nora nodded to Aaron.

Aaron slowly let go of Jack, but nevertheless continued to point his handgun at him warily.

If Jack was Barbarian, even if all three and a half humans present teamed up-Solo could only be regarded as half a person here—they still wouldn’t be his match.

Therefore, Aaron and Brenda did not dare to let down their guard one bit.

Jack stood up straight and shook his arm, which had become numb from being held down. Only then did the young man, who was close to tears, say, “I was doing Professor Peter’s work for him... He said that he should have been taking care of this by himself, so he didn’t want me to tell anyone about it.”

As soon as he said that, the rest understood.

Why, Jack had been the one handling all the work—including verifying the professors’ attendance-in the group chat since the morning, not Peter!

Aaron broke into a huge frown and asked, “Where’s Peter?”

Jack shrugged. “I don’t know. Why would the director ever tell me where he’s going?”

Aaron looked at Brenda.

Brenda suddenly took a step forward and attacked Jack, which scared him so badly that he immediately retreated. Even so, he did not manage to dodge her attack. There was no sign of an act in his actions.

Brenda said, “He’s not Barbarian.”

Only then did the fierce and menacing look on Aaron’s face ease. The way he looked just now was as if Barbarian had killed his father.

Nevertheless, he was furious. “When did you start handling these affairs for him? And when was the last time you saw him?”

Although Jack was displeased at being punched for some inexplicable reason, he nevertheless answered Aaron’s questions honestly. He replied, “At ten o’clock last night. When I left this place, I told him that I would come over at six this morning to continue helping him with his work.”

Aaron asked, “Didn’t you see him when you came here this morning?”

“No.” Jack replied, “He was already gone when I came. He usually gets up at 5:30 for morning runs and then he takes his breakfast after it. I was also wondering why he isn’t back yet and was just about to call him.”

Aaron noticed something suspicious. “How did you get in if Peter wasn’t here?”

Jack was confused. “I have the password to Professor Peter’s room. I come here every morning to clean up when he goes for his morning run. Is something the matter?”

His explanation was flawless.

There was no problem with Jack's answers.

Nora also frowned.

After circling around the room, Brenda finally took a deep breath and said, "Peter has been murdered."

Both Aaron and Jack looked at her in shock.

Jack blurted out, "How can that be?!"

Brenda took out a poker card. "This is Barbarian's calling card. He leaves a poker card like this behind whenever he appears. Here's the question, though: Where is Peter's body?"

She looked straight at Aaron. "Retrieve the surveillance footage."

Aaron nodded.

The night before, they had spent the whole time keeping a watch on the staff dormitory. There was no way anyone could enter the room without them knowing. There must be something wrong in here.

Soon, Aaron retrieved the surveillance footage and started checking it on his cell phone.

Everything had gone well the night before. Except for a few students, no one had gone to Peter's room. There was no trace of Barbarian having ever entered.

After going through it once, Brenda said, "Barbarian typically kills at night between ten and four. Let's slow down the video and watch the footage for those six hours again."

"Okay."

Aaron replayed the video.

They had sped through the video at twenty times the original speed just now. This time, they slowed it down and watched it carefully.

Nora suddenly noticed something amiss. She was about to speak when Solo suddenly tugged at her sleeve. Nora immediately understood and closed her mouth.

Solo was intending to display his professional expertise.

It was just like how Nora hadn't offered to unlock the door for them just now—because there was Solo.

Sure enough, Solo said, "Look at the part at five minutes past midnight."

Brenda was taken aback.

Aaron's fingers also paused slightly but he still reversed the video to the part at five minutes past midnight.

Solo pointed to the video and said, "The time flow here is not quite right. A hacker has likely covered up something here. Look here..."

A very professional Solo pointed out something odd, "The reflection of the moon outside the window was at this position at 11 pm. It should have changed its direction after midnight but this part here stayed the same the whole time and never changed."

Aaron and Brenda were stunned for a moment and they both looked at Solo.

Solo continued. "This shows that their hacker has masked the part after midnight with the footage from 11 pm, so as to prevent you guys from noticing anything unusual."

Aaron hurriedly asked, "Is there any way to restore the surveillance footage at twelve o'clock?"

Solo shook his head. "That's where they were really brilliant. The surveillance footage after twelve o'clock has been fully masked, which means that the camera was turned off at midnight. Therefore, even if you discover something amiss, you won't be able to find the original video anymore-because it was never recorded.”

If the video was never recorded, then even if they had a master hacker on their side, it would still be impossible for them to recover it.

After all, how was one supposed to recover something that had never existed?

Solo subconsciously said, “The guy is very cautious. It feels like he knows that you have hackers on your side, so he is guarding against that.”

Hackers...

As soon as Solo said that, Brenda suddenly looked at Nora.

Nora also narrowed her eyes.

nou

Between Q and Y, only her identity had been publicly announced, so the other party did not know that Y was Justin. Besides, even Nora couldn't say for sure whether Justin was here or not, let alone the other party?

Therefore, she was the one whom they were guarding against!

In other words, Barbarian was already aware that Nora was here.

Nora frowned.

Once again, she was acutely feeling just how tough the enemy was. Barbarian's overwhelmingly powerful fighting abilities coupled with Spacey, whose hacking skills might be comparable to hers... Could she really beat a combination like that and get the V16?

While Nora was thinking, Brenda had already sorted out her thoughts. She looked straight at Aaron and said slowly, “The most important thing for us now is to find Peter's body as soon as possible, so that we can prove that I am speaking the truth, or else the president is going to kick us out tomorrow! In addition, the students and professors are all intellectuals with minds of their own. They will never let us confine them here for ten days or half a month!"

Aaron nodded but said anxiously, "But where is the body? We don't have any clues at all."

Brenda said, "The whole campus was closed off last night, so they definitely can't transport the body out. The body must still be within school premises!"

Aaron nodded again. "Okay, I'll send someone to look for it right away. Even if we must turn the whole school upside down, we will find the body."

After that, Aaron made a phone call and dispatched his men to look for the body.

But after he hung up the phone, he saw an extremely grave look on Brenda's face.

"What's wrong?" Aaron asked.

A grim-faced Brenda replied, "We have been investigating suspicious people the whole time since yesterday, but even until now, we still haven't found any clues. Barbarian is a living, breathing person. We've also reminded the students to be careful if they spot any strangers. Although the school is big, the student population is dense, yet no one has spotted any strangers even until now. Do you know what this means?"

Aaron shook his head.

Before Brenda could speak, Nora replied on her behalf. She said, "Barbarian is either a student or a teacher in the school."

Her one-liner was akin to a thunderous explosion in their ears.

Everyone looked at her in stunned disbelief.

Brenda nodded. She said, “Yes, Nora is right. I always thought that Barbarian was all brawn and no brains but it’s only now that I’ve realized that he is actually very clever. No wonder he instantly disappeared the moment we found even a tiny lead on him all these years.”

Nora, however, said, “There is another possibility, though.”

Brenda looked at her. “What is it?”

In a low voice, Nora slowly answered, “Someone is helping Barbarian.”

Spacey, the genius with the high IQ.

When Solo said just now that the other party had hackers on their side, she’d immediately thought of Spacey.

If Barbarian wasn’t blindly acting in a reckless and foolhardy manner at the moment, then this meant that the highly intelligent Spacey must be giving him advice and guidance!

Spacey’s IQ genes had been improved, so he must be highly intelligent.

As for Barbarian, his physical fitness had been improved, so he was extremely strong. The two, teaming up, made for an even more terrifying enemy than Barbarian alone.

Brenda nodded solemnly.

After the two spoke, the room suddenly fell into silence.

After a while, Brenda recovered and said, “Alright, Nora, we are going to continue with the case. You guys can go now!”

Solo, however, said, “Brenny, I’m not leaving, I can stay and help you. Look at how much help I was to you just now, you...”

Before he could finish, though, Brenda cut him off. She said, “What can you even help with? Do you think you’ll be of help to us just by mouthing off some nonsense? Hurry up and leave, I don’t want to see you! You’re just a pretty boy who only knows how to freeload. Go away!”

Solo paled when he heard her.

He didn’t expect Brenda to say such things just to drive him away.

He gave her a resigned smile and said, “Brenny, I’m a hacker. I solved the technical problems for you just now. If someone hacks into the system again tonight, at least I’ll be able to find out. Why are you-“.

“Hacker? I don’t know what you’re talking about, you are just a programmer. Please don’t pester me anymore, okay? Go away!”

Brenda pointed at the door and yelled at him.

Solo was stunned again.

He wanted to say something but Nora had already turned around. She said dispassionately, “Let’s go.”

Solo was not afraid of Brenda, but he was afraid of Nora. That big boss wasn’t very even-tempered. Although he still had a lot to say to Brenda, when he glanced at Nora from the back, he chose to follow after Nora. Even after Solo stepped out, he was perplexed. “Does Brenny hate me that much? But why?”

Nora looked behind her at the people in the room. Suddenly, she said, “Leave this place.”

Solo was taken aback. “Anti, are you also not on my side anymore? Do you also think I’m a good-for-nothing? There is obviously a misunderstanding between Brenny and me, we have to resolve it and talk things out properly! We love each other, I’m not willing to just let go of her like that! Besides, you saw just now that I can really be of help to her. Although my computer skills are not as good as yours, I’m still a well-known hacker...”

Nora was about to interrupt him when Aaron suddenly came out of the room.

He stared at Solo and suddenly said, “When you said that your name was Solo, I didn’t think much about it. Are you the hacker Solo?”

“Yes, yes, that’s right!” Solo nodded. “I’m Solo the hacker! I can be of help to you, really! Go and tell Captain Brenda to let me stay!” Solo had completely forgotten that he was currently wanted by Interpol.

As soon as he said that though, Aaron laughed and said, “So, you are Solo! What a coincidence!”

“Yes, what a coincidence, right? There can’t be a bigger coincidence than this! Although I’m not as strong or muscular as you, I’m still useful, right?” Solo vaguely found the value of his existence. “So, you...”

Aaron suddenly stepped forward, grabbed Solo’s arms, and held them behind him!

Solo: “?”

Just as he was at a total loss, Aaron cast his eyes down and said coldly, “We were looking for you all over the world, but to think you present yourself right on our doorstep!”

Solo was taken aback. Then, he shouted nervously, “Hey bro, I didn’t do anything bad. This is just a misunderstanding! A misunderstanding, I say... Brenny, come out and save me!”

Despite his shouts, Brenda didn’t step out of the room. Aaron let out a low scoff and said, “I thought you and Captain Brenda were just having a petty lover’s quarrel, I didn’t expect this at all. I finally understand why she’s ignoring you now...”

Solo was not at all anxious about being arrested anymore. On the contrary, he asked, “What have you understood? Hurry and tell me! I’m at a total loss! Why is she asking to break up when nothing happened? What am I doing wrong?"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 860 - How To Make Up For It

Despite being a well-known hacker, Solo didn't really take the fact that Interpol was after him seriously.

After all, all these years, he had only undertaken private commissions and most of the money he earned was legal. He had only run to America because-first, he wanted to visit Nora, and second, he found being targeted by Interpol very troublesome.

But even if he was caught, he would be released from jail after just two or three months. Moreover, if he took the initiative to cooperate with Interpol, he could even join them, start out on a clean slate, and become a white hat.

The Interpol had even invited Solo to join them before, but he had declined.

Now that he knew that Brenda was an Interpol officer, he started having thoughts of joining them. That was why he had kept displaying his professionalism just now

That was why Solo was not afraid at all, despite Aaron subduing him, and was even asking him what was going on.

Aaron didn't hold back at all, which made Solo's shoulders hurt terribly. However, none of it could compare with his desire to know what on earth was going on with Brenda.

Aaron stared at Solo, the deep hatred in his eyes almost overflowing.

He sneered, "Fine, if Captain Brenda won't tell you the truth, then I'll do it. The two of you will never be together because..."

"Aaron!"

Before Aaron could finish, Brenda's frosty voice came over, preventing him from saying the rest of what he wanted to say.

The woman, who stood tall and straight, came out of the room and her gaze fell on Solo. Her pretty face was tense and frosty as she slowly said, "Don't waste your breath telling him unnecessary things!"

She took a step forward. She clenched her fists tightly, stared at Solo, and said, "You and I have been walking two different paths from the start. I've told you a long time ago to stay away from me but you keep sending yourself up to my doorstep again and again. In that case, I might as well accept this achievement that you're offering me! Aaron!"

Aaron stood up straight. "Present!"

Brenda lowered her eyes and kept quiet for a long while.

Solo was also staring at Brenda, his eyes full of incredulity. However, he quickly reacted and said, "Captain Brenda, I know I may have done some things that violate international law, but I don't think I've done any huge wrongdoings, right? Seeing that I am repentant and have also offered to help you, why don't you consider recruiting me into the team?"

Brenda's fists were shaking a little.

Next to her, Aaron also sneered. His eyes were all red and all his muscles seemed to be bulging as though he would kill Solo with a punch the very next moment.

Before he could speak, Brenda said, "Detain him for now, then get the local police to take over. Our main priority now is to arrest Barbarian!"

"Captain Brenda!" Aaron yelled furiously.

Brenda was shaking all over. "Do as I say! We will do everything according to the system!"

Aaron looked at Solo. The way he was gritting his teeth in fury confused Solo and put him at a loss. Regardless, after a short pause, Aaron replied, "... Yes, ma'am!"

At last, Solo couldn't help but say, "No, you two, I'm asking to join you guys here. Also, aren't I just a tiny little criminal? Do you really need to gnash your teeth so hard? You make it seem like I'm some kind of heinous murderer. I..."

"Shut up!"

Brenda suddenly glared at him and let out a low shout, which shut Solo up.

Only then did Brenda look at Aaron. "Take him to a solitary cell and keep him there."

"Yes, ma'am."

Aaron left with Solo.

Nora, who was standing at the side, glanced at Brenda.

Brenda took a deep breath.

Nora walked up to her and suddenly asked, "Just what exactly is going on?"

Brenda's eyes were all red and there were faint tears in her eyes.

She lowered her eyes and suddenly smiled. "You know something, Nora? Some people with certain abilities may not have done anything wrong, but their abilities are, in themselves, a mistake..."

After leaving behind those words, Brenda turned around abruptly and said, "I'm going to look for Peter's body. If I can't find it today, I'm afraid we'll really be turned away tomorrow. I'll leave for now!"

With that, she left.

Nora's jaw tensed up as she stared at her from the back.

However, she didn't go after Brenda but followed Aaron instead.

Solo was a hacker, so he was physically very weak and posed no threat to her at all. Yet Brenda hadn't escorted Solo in person but gotten Aaron to do it, instead...

This showed that Brenda had actually been covering up for Solo all this time!

She was giving Solo the chance to escape.

After all, for Solo to successfully dodge the pursuit of so many police officers all these years, he must have had his ways too.

It was just that after she walked over, she found that Solo had kept his head down and followed Aaron the whole time, showing no intention of resisting whatsoever.

Halfway, when Aaron passed by the washrooms, he suddenly paused. He looked at Solo and said, "I'm going to the washroom for a while. Stay here and don't run, you hear me?"

Solo looked at him blankly. "Okay."

Aaron glanced at him again before he finally entered the washroom.

Nora hurried over and grabbed Solo's arm. "Let's go."

However, Solo stood still and shook his head. "I'm not leaving."

Nora didn't know whether to laugh or cry. "Aaron left you out here to give you the chance to run!"

"I know."

Solo let out a quiet sigh. As though a confused child, he lowered his head and said, "That's why I can't leave. I want to know why on earth Brenny is ignoring me. Surely I have to find out why, right?!”

Nora: “...”

To be honest, Nora had roughly guessed what the reason might be but she only had a vague idea as to what might have happened, so she would have to investigate to get the specifics. She said, “I’ll check what happened for you.”

“Even so, I’m still not leaving.”

Solo squatted on the ground stubbornly and hugged his knees.

Nora could only bend down as well, her patience close to running out.

“What’s up with you?”

Solo sighed. “If I go, Brenny and I won’t ever have a chance of reconciling. I have to stay!”

It was only when Nora heard this that she suddenly realized what he meant.

Solo wasn’t stupid. Otherwise, he would not have gotten so many things done for her so quickly all these years. He knew and understood everything deep down.

He knew very well that he would become a fugitive if he ran away. Brenda didn’t want to arrest him, but at the same time, Brenda was completely pushing him away.

He looked at Nora blankly. “Even if I’ve really done something wrong, I have to know what it is. Surely I have to find out whether there’s any possibility of making it up to her? I don’t want to give up Brenny just like that.”

Solo’s crimes would only put him in jail for two or three months at most.

Nothing much would really happen to him.

Seeing that he was being so stubborn, Nora sighed quietly and said, “Fine.”

But as soon as she said that, Aaron's voice came from the washroom entrance. "You can never make up for the mistakes you've made!"

Solo hurriedly turned around and looked at Aaron. "What on earth is going on? What did I do wrong? What did I do?"

Aaron clenched his jaw.

He looked at Solo savagely. "What you've done wrong? You owe us a life!"

Solo was stunned but he quickly came back to his senses. "I... I didn't. I've never killed anyone, I've never taken such commissions!

I..."

Before he could finish, Aaron asked, "Do you remember someone named Marcus?"

Solo paused for a while before he suddenly realized who he was talking about. "Yeah, I remember him. Isn't he a hacker? He even provoked me and said that he was a better hacker than me..."

After saying that, Solo asked, "But what does it have to do with him?"

Aaron lowered his eyes. "He was my and Captain Brenda's partner!"

Solo was taken aback.

Aaron continued to speak. "Marcus, Captain Brenda, and I—the three of us were close friends and we always worked together whenever we handled cases. Marcus was in love with Captain Brenda, so he always worked hard to coordinate with her during operations. Marcus was very capable. The higher-ups once talked to him about having him lead a team but Marcus never agreed. Instead, he willingly worked under Captain Brenda—not because he admired her abilities, but because he wanted to protect her!"

Aaron clenched his fists, his whole body shaking. There was hatred and resentment in his eyes as he stared at Solo.

His appearance caused a foreboding feeling to suddenly arise in Solo. “Where is he?”

Aaron lowered his eyes. “He’s dead!”

Solo’s heart sank. “B-but I wasn’t the one who caused his death. What does it have to do with me? I—”

Before he could finish, Aaron suddenly looked at him. “He was not convinced of your hacking skills, so he once publicly clamored that he wanted to pit his skills against yours, right?”

Solo nodded. “Yes, but I ignored him.”

Aaron sneered and lowered his head.

He suddenly asked, “Three months ago, did you take a commission to hack into someone’s cell phone?”

Solo nodded. “Yeah, how did you know?”

Solo had always been taking private commissions from others but he had never done anything terrible like murder. Additionally, the people commissioning him were required to inform him of what they intended to do post-commission.

He didn’t allow them to make use of him to do bad things.

When he thought of that, he suddenly looked at Aaron. “That phone... Was Marcus’?”

Aaron lowered his eyes. “No, it was Captain Brenda’s.”

His reply made Solo’s eyes widen abruptly. He suddenly thought back to three months ago when someone had sent him an email, saying that his girlfriend had betrayed him. She had cheated on him with many people at the same time and was a scumbag. Therefore, he'd offered Solo $3,000 to pinpoint the girl's GPS location.

ame

$3,000 was just peanuts to him, but he hated such women the most, so he'd accepted the simple commission.

He checked the cell phone number given by the other party, whereupon he found that the girl was indeed an unfaithful woman and a player—because the cell phone's GPS location was often in places like nightclubs.

After Solo sent the GPS coordinates to his client, his client had replied, “She's too much! How dare she be a town bike! She cuckolded me for so many years but I didn't even realize! Man, I'm pissed!”

With the mentality of someone watching a show, Solo had replied, “Just break up. She's not worth it.”

But his client then sent a message begging him for help. “Can you help me hack into my girlfriend's cell phone for ten minutes? I want to lock her in the toilet and scare her a little as punishment.”

For Solo, a small request like that was not even worth mentioning.

He agreed immediately. In fact, he'd even felt that he was punishing evil and promoting good.

But he didn't understand how could she have been Brenda?

While he was in a daze, Aaron sneered and spoke again. “That day, after much difficulty, Captain Brenda, Marcus, and I finally managed to get hold of Barbarian's whereabouts. In order not to alert the enemy, Captain Brenda went in to scout the place first. We agreed that she would give us a signal in five minutes but we suddenly lost contact with her! Marcus was worried about Captain Brenda, so he rushed in at once... He thought that the signal source he had set up was inadequate, causing Captain Brenda to be unable to send us the signal... But we had never thought that the reason why she hadn't come out was just because of a hacker's little prank!! Marcus, in order to save Captain Brenda, was brutally killed by Barbarian.”

At this point, Aaron suddenly raised his fist and slammed it in Solo's face!

Nora didn't do anything. Instead, she watched the two fixedly.

Solo didn't duck either. It seemed like he had never imagined that things could have turned out like that...

He'd only hacked into someone's phone for ten minutes and prevented them from using it. How did it involve someone's death?

On top of that, out of everyone it could have been, that person was Brenda!

He even remembered that he had had a few conversations with the owner of the cell phone back then.

Using an unknown number, he had sent the other party text messages and scolded her, saying that she should repent and that her boyfriend was still waiting for her.

The girl had replied: 'Are you nuts?'

At that time, he'd harassed the girl by sending her a ton of text messages because he wanted her to change her mind and return to her boyfriend.

In fact...

After hacking her cell phone for ten minutes, when he returned control of the phone to the girl, he had even left a message on the screen: 'Hahaha! You must have been scared silly, right? You deserved it!'

Solo staggered a couple of steps backward.

He thought of how those big mocking words would have suddenly appeared on the phone as Brenda came out dragging the body of her comrade who had died tragically. When he thought of how he was the one who had sent that message to her...

Solo suddenly clutched his chest.

No wonder... no wonder Brenda had said that there was no misunderstanding between them.

Yeah, there certainly wasn't any misunderstanding.

There was only hatred and a feud between them!

That was why Interpol, who had always ignored him, had started to come after him when the charges were not even serious. Even if he was caught, he would only serve two or three months in prison.

Solo's nose was broken, warm liquid slowly trickled down.

He suddenly didn't know what to do anymore.

Aaron pointed to the outside. "Leave! We investigated after the incident and found out that it was just a hacker's prank and that you indeed don't have anything to do with Barbarian..."

"Yes, you are innocent and you were deceived, but no matter how many excuses I make up for you, it can't erase the fact that you caused Marcus' death! So, you get it now, right? Captain Brenda will never forgive you because the moment she sees you, she thinks of the text message, those short ten minutes, and Marcus' tragic death! Get lost! I'm not interested in detaining you. Stay away from us in the future!"

Aaron really wanted to beat up Solo and kill him, but of all people, Captain Brenda had fallen in love with him.

Marcus' only wish when he had been alive was for Captain Brenda to find someone she loved... Now that she had, Aaron couldn't really kill Solo to avenge him.

Solo, however, remained where he was. He murmured to himself, "W-what can I do to make up for it?"

“Make up for it?” Aaron sneered, “Only if you can bring Marcus back to life!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 861 - Smoking The Enemy Out

How could the dead possibly come back to life, though?

Solo remained where he was, stunned to the spot.

He didn't know how he should explain himself, let alone what he should do... All of this was thanks to his stupidity and self-righteousness!

Regardless, he couldn't reconcile himself with it. He still wanted to grasp something, so he asked, "What can I do now?"

Aaron lowered his eyes. "The only thing you can do now is to leave Captain Brenda. When Marcus died, she was out of it for whole 6 months. It's also for the sake of taking revenge for Marcus that we are so focused on arresting Barbarian now, but your existence will only keep reminding Captain Brenda how tragic Marcus' death was! You being with her will only bring her pain!"

After saying that, Aaron looked down and checked the time. Then, he walked past him and said, "I won't arrest you—because you don't deserve to go to prison for reformation."

With that, Aaron left, leaving behind only Nora and Solo.

Nora looked at Solo. For a while there, she didn't quite know how she should comfort him.

She suddenly understood Brenda's feelings very well. From her perspective, Solo might not be the murderer-in fact, he had even been deceived—but how could Brenda possibly bring herself to face him with peace of mind?

During the past few months, Brenda probably didn't just hate Barbarian, but also the person who had hacked her cell phone, right?

If Solo hadn't hacked her phone at that time, they wouldn't have lost contact and Marcus wouldn't have rushed in to save her...

So, how could Brenda possibly bring herself to be with Solo?

Solo didn't do anything wrong.

His only mistake was that he had trusted the wrong person.

Brenda also didn't do anything wrong.

She couldn't let down Marcus. She couldn't get into a relationship with the person who had indirectly caused his death. She couldn't cross that hurdle in her heart.

Therefore, when Nora asked Brenda what was going on, Brenda had told her that there was no misunderstanding. All this time, there had never been any misunderstanding between her and Solo.

Yeah, there certainly wasn't any.

All there was between the two of them was a dead knot!

Marcus' death was like a thorn forever stuck between the two. Even if Brenda chose to be with him, she would probably live in guilt for the rest of her life.

Nora sighed. She patted Solo's shoulder and said, "Why don't you leave the school for now?"

"... Okay."

With his head down, a wilted Solo followed behind Nora and left the school.

Nora personally walked Solo out of the school gates. She watched Solo enter the hotel outside the school. After he packed his modest luggage—which was just a backpack—he got into a cab and left.

Only then did Nora turn around. As soon as she did, though, she saw a flash of Brenda not far away.

Nora smiled wryly.

Actually, Brenda couldn't get over Solo either, right?

She walked over slowly and came up to Brenda. She said, "He's gone. Don't look anymore."

"Yeah, okay."

Brenda turned around. On the face of the stubborn woman was a strong and resilient expression.

Nora asked, "Can't bear to part with him?"

Brenda's lips curled into a wry smile. "Yeah, I can't."

She paused for a while and then said, "It wasn't easy for me to finally fall for a man, yet I'm letting him go just like that. But don't worry, Nora, I'm not someone who can't think straight once I fall in love. I don't have time to mope around now. My priority now is to catch Barbarian! And avenge Marcus!"

Nora was a little surprised to hear this. "Avenge Marcus?"

"Yeah." Brenda seemed to have lost the frivolity that was usually around her. She said straightforwardly, "I know Justin isn't dead."

Nora was taken aback. "When did you realize?"

Brenda looked at her. "I thought of it when I saw you here at Staav University."

Brenda looked ahead of her. "Justin's death came out of nowhere. He is the Big Brother of the Irvin School of Martial Arts. He may not be able to beat Barbarian in terms of pure strength but the Irvin School of Martial Arts is the most skilled at scheming and playing tricks, so Justin should be great at escaping. Later, when I saw that you weren't very sad, I initially thought it was because you and Justin didn't love each other that much. However, the three children were also smiling happily every day. To outsiders, the children are still young, so they must not know what death really means, but I know what Pete is like. Although he is young, his IQ is equivalent to that of a fifteen-year-old, so it's impossible that he wouldn't understand. Then, when I saw you here, I knew right away that there must be something up with you and Justin."

Brenda was a police officer great at noticing details. It was not surprising that she would detect such things.

Now that things had come to this, Nora didn't want to hide it from her anymore, either. Thus, she nodded and said, "Yeah, he didn't die."

Brenda heaved a sigh of relief. "I won't ask what the two of you are doing, but if you ever deal with Barbarian again, you can count me in. There's an irreconcilable feud between us!"

"Okay."

The two chatted while searching for Peter's body in the school.

The rest of the policemen had already searched everywhere but it was as though Peter had disappeared into thin air, and they simply couldn't find any clues. In fact, for some reason, some students even said that they had seen Peter buying breakfast in the cafeteria in the morning.

Brenda found this puzzling. "That's impossible. Are they sure that the person they saw was Peter?"

Aaron was even more incredulous. "Yes, they are sure that the person they saw was Peter. After I asked them about it carefully, they told me that Peter always wears a baseball cap and carries a towel with him when he goes running every morning. After that, while covered in sweat, he goes to the cafeteria to buy breakfast and brings it back to his dorm room. I've checked the surveillance cameras in the cafeteria-‘Peter’ had his back to the cameras the whole time and he didn’t show his face at all. He only created an illusion to make everyone think that Peter had gone for breakfast, when in fact, the person buying breakfast at that time was the murderer!”

Brenda’s brows drew together tightly. “Barbarian’s modus operandi is very strange this time. He used to kill in a direct and brutal manner all the time but he’s simply being too strange right now. Not only did he kill Peter and leave us without any clues, but he even pretended to be Peter after that... What on earth is he trying to do?”

While Brenda was thinking, Aaron also remarked, “If it weren’t for the poker cards in the room, I would have thought that Barbarian really isn’t the one behind it all this time! How could someone like him, who has always been simple-minded and straightforward, possibly come up with such a complex plan? What the hell is he planning?”

Nora, who was next to him, suddenly said, “I know what he’s planning now.”

Aaron was taken aback. “What is it?”

Nora looked out the window. “There you go, his objective has come...”

Following what she said, someone pushed open the door to the office they were in.

A few professors and students walked in. As soon as they did, they began to accuse and criticize Brenda and Aaron.

“Officer, what on earth is the matter with you guys? Do you have any idea how urgent our projects are? We agreed to your request when you wanted us to cooperate with you yesterday. There’s absolutely no way we’re doing that again tonight!”

“Yeah, we’re staff and students here at Staav University, not prisoners! We can choose to disobey your orders! We demand freedom!”

“We are all students and professors. Instead of investigating Professor Mayer’s death and going after his murderer, you’re staying here and doing so many meaningless things... On top of that, you’re even claiming that Professor Peter has been killed? How can that be? If Professor Peter has really been killed, then produce some evidence for it!”

“Is it okay to lie just to prove that your judgment is correct? Professor Peter just posted on Instagram, yet you’re saying that he’s dead? This is ridiculous!”

“Yeah, do you think Staav University’s staff and students are pushovers? We have a School of Law here! I’m a law student myself. Officer, I’d like to talk to you about human rights and freedom now...”

“Officer, you have no right to imprison so many of us. We have our right to freedom. You can’t lock up nearly ten thousand teachers and students in the school with you just because of a murderer! I’m going out now... I have something on at home!”

“I’m going out too! I’ve run out of tissues, I need to go to the supermarket!”

“I’m going out too, I’m going out too...”

The people’s voices got louder and louder.

Seeing their behavior, Nora lowered her eyes and said slowly, “You see that? Now, this is exactly what he’s after.”

She looked at Brenda. “Barbarian came here to look for something and he’s not leaving until he finds it, but your presence here has seriously affected his ability to judge the situation and his objective. That’s why he’s doing this—he wants to incite the students and professors into driving you guys away.”

Aaron: “!”

He clenched his fists furiously. “Damn! That son of a bitch!”

Brenda was much calmer. She lowered her eyes and looked at Epson, who was leading the crowd. She said, “The president and I have already agreed that I will leave tomorrow if there’s still no murder tonight. However, in the meantime, all of you must still obey our orders! We represent the school’s decision!”

Epson scoffed and asked, “You represent the school’s decision? Therefore, we should just waste another night here? Captain Brenda, if no murder happens by tomorrow and the police leaves, then what happens to our lost time tonight? Who is going to compensate us for it? Who is going to take responsibility for our lost time?!”

Brenda took a deep breath. “I will!”

Epson demanded aggressively, “And how are you going to take responsibility for it?” Brenda sneered, “If nothing happens by tomorrow morning, then I am willing to be punished! I will take off this uniform I’m wearing!”

“Okay! Don’t forget what you said!” Having achieved his goal, Epson said cheerfully, “I hope you won’t break your promise tomorrow!”

“Don’t worry, I never go back on my word!”

Brenda retorted stubbornly.

Epson scoffed, “Then we’ll wait until tomorrow!”

After Epson left with the students, Aaron couldn’t help but ask anxiously, “What do we do if we still don’t find Peter’s body by tomorrow? Captain Brenda, are you really going to hold yourself responsible for this?”

Captain Brenda had once said that she would never take off her uniform until she caught Barbarian and took her revenge!

Upon hearing what he said, Brenda looked at Nora.

Nora nodded slightly.

Brenda lowered her eyes and said, “We may not be able to find Peter, but isn’t Barbarian going to continue killing tonight anyway?”

With Nora-in other words, Q-here, no hacker would be able to breach her firewall and infiltrate the staff dormitories!

And if the staff dormitories were unsafe, Barbarian wouldn’t be able to attack them anymore. With that, he could only set his sights on the laboratory!

Barbarian was a highly psychotic murderer. Once he started a killing spree, he must kill five people before he stopped. This was his principle and dedication.

With that in mind, Brenda looked coldly at Epson’s back in the distance. It seemed that she would have to smoke the enemy out tonight!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 862 - You Shall Witness A Historic Moment

That night, a curfew was imposed on the staff dormitories. Brenda also requested that the professors remain in their rooms and not go out after 8 pm.

The professors had a lot to gripe about it.

They all looked at Brenda.

“Are you treating us as prisoners? This is too much!”

“We are your targets of protection, not your targets of surveillance! The police are too much!”

“What makes you think you can stop us from going out after eight o’clock? Never mind that you’re stopping us from carrying out our experiments at night, but you’re even starting to dictate what we can and cannot do tonight? This is too much!”

The professors protested but the iron-fisted Brenda still forced them to stay in their rooms. When the professors were asked to return to their rooms, they dished out tough talk. “Just you wait! I’m definitely going to report you tomorrow! You people shouldn’t be here at all!”

Brenda had already become immune to such words by now. She replied, “Okay, if nothing goes wrong tonight as well, I’ll get out of here by myself tomorrow.”

Her reply shut up all the professors.

Seeing that they weren’t talking anymore, Brenda left.

More than a dozen SWAT officers were protecting the staff dormitories.

Aaron said, “With this, even a housefly can forget about getting in there, right?”

Brenda stroked her chin. “Yeah, under such circumstances, it is impossible for Barbarian to head there again! Aaron, get our men to follow me to the laboratory building!”

Aaron followed behind her. He looked at Nora curiously and asked, “Captain Brenda, are that student’s skills good enough? Barbarian has a hacker with him, so surely we can’t rely on a student here, right...?”

Brenda: “...”

She said to Aaron, “Don’t worry.”

Aaron then asked, “By the way, Captain Brenda, didn’t you work with Anti when you went to the US? I remember Anti once revealed that she’s Q, and Marcus also used to admire the hackers Q and Y the most. Is Q really that amazing?”

II

11

Nora listened to their conversation and followed behind the two with a smile as they walked to the laboratory building together.

She had already encrypted the surveillance camera system at the staff dormitories. No hacker-including even Y-would be able to breach it.

Thus, Nora wanted to go with Brenda to arrest Barbarian.

Brenda was worried about her, though. “Are you really going to the lab?”

Nora nodded. “Yeah.”

Brenda was still very worried. “You’re weak and powerless, so you have to keep yourself well-hidden, okay? Don’t let Barbarian catch you!”

Nora wanted to laugh when she heard the words “weak and powerless.”

She said quietly, “Don’t worry, no matter what, I’m still capable of protecting myself.”

Although she couldn’t beat Barbarian in a fight, she wasn’t someone to be trifled with, either.

While Nora was on the way to the laboratory, Brenda, who was ultimately still worried about her, handed her a small button and said in a low voice, “Nora, if anything goes wrong, press this button immediately. We will rush in right away!”

“Okay.”

Nora placed the button in her pocket and went to the upper floors. When she entered Epton’s laboratory, she happened to run into Oscar, who’d just had dinner and come over to work. Upon seeing her, Oscar grabbed her wrist and asked, “Why are you here?”

Nora: “?”

Oscar looked around. “The SWAT team has surrounded the area. Judging from how they look, they are dead certain that Barbarian will attack us tonight. Why did you come today when you weren’t here yesterday? Aren’t you just throwing yourself into danger?”

Nora: “?!?”

Since when did she become so close with Oscar?

Oscar, however, looked around and stuffed a pepper spray into Nora’s hands. “Take this, I bought it at the supermarket today. If a bad guy really comes, we can at least use this for self-defense!”

Nora: "..."

The pepper spray was probably useless on Barbarian but she thanked Oscar anyway. Then, she entered the lab with her.

Epson happened to spot the two of them. He walked over at once and began to mock Nora. "What are you doing here? Didn't you quit this project? Did you come to grovel because you heard that we are completing the project tonight?"

Nora was surprised. "The project will be completed tonight?"

Epson said smugly, "Yes, we'll be able to complete the project tonight! We're left with just the last step now!"

Nora: "..."

She really wished she could tell him that it was exactly at the end, when she collated all the experimental data, that she found out that the project would never succeed. However, going by how confident Epson looked, even if she were to tell him that, he probably wouldn't believe her.

Thus, Nora simply shut up.

On the contrary, it was Oscar standing next to her who said, "Professor Epson, Lisa knows that she was wrong. In order to demonstrate your magnanimity, and also to give her the chance to tell Anti that she once witnessed a great experiment, you should keep her here, right?"

Her words convinced Epson. "You're right. In that case, follow me, Lisa. I will let you see with your own eyes that I am greater than Anti!"

"... Okay."

She followed behind Epson and walked into a deeper part of the laboratory.

The postgraduate students passed all of their experimental data to Epson.

Epson stood where he was and stared solemnly at the numerical values on the computer screen. “You see this? This is our experiment that will be successfully completed very soon! Lisa, you are about to witness a historic moment! Oh, I forgot, you’re just an undergraduate student, so you probably don’t understand my data, right? It’s okay, once the data finishes compiling, you should at least be able to recognize the word “Success”, right? I hope you can remember how you feel then, so that you can report it to Anti...”

Amidst Epson’s loud and excited talking, all the data was uploaded.

He looked behind him. Even his expression had become somewhat abnormally excited as he said, “Do you see that? Once I give this button here a push, all the data will start collating! I am only one step away from success!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 863 - What Anti Looks Like

Nora stared at his data.

Although she only caught a flash of the data that had just been uploaded, she still got a clear look at it—Epson’s experiment was the same as the one she had done in the past. Its final outcome would only be a failure.

She lowered her eyes and kept quiet.

Many of Epson’s students swarmed toward them.

Everyone had painstakingly worked day and night for a month and now it was finally time to get the fruit of their labor. This was the moment that mattered the most to them.

Epson pressed the data consolidation button.

Epson’s students said, “Lisa, you have never seen an experiment like this back in America, right? You’ll bear witness to a miracle today!”

“Yeah, you are so lucky! Even though you didn’t do anything, you still gained Professor Epson’s trust. It’s really a blessing for you to be able to take part in an experiment like this!”

“Yeah! I bet even Professor Anti wasn’t this nice to you, right? Moreover, Staav University is much better than the NYU School of Medicine! At the very least, Anti is the only internationally well-known doctor there, whereas Staav University has many! Professor Epson is just one of the many professors here! You should have a better understanding of how great Staav University is by now, right?”

Amidst their sarcastic, envious, or admonishing remarks, Nora didn’t utter even a word.

“Look, it’ll be done real soon!”

Distracted, everyone stopped focusing on Nora.

At this point, someone tugged on Nora’s arm.

Nora turned her head to see that Oscar had come up beside her. She lowered her voice and said, “Why don’t you apologize to Professor Epsom later for showing disrespect towards him? Professor Epsom may make himself out to be magnanimous and say that he will forgive you but he’s actually very petty. Once the project succeeds, he will definitely go around saying that he’s better than Professor Anti, and you are going to be the evidence that he’ll use. Be careful not to let him make use of you.”

After speaking, Oscar sighed. “You are ultimately just an exchange student, so you have to go back sooner or later. If you offend Anti, your studies won’t go smoothly in the future.”

Nora: “...”

Oscar had given her so many kind warnings that she didn’t quite know what to do anymore.

Oscar explained, “Actually, I secretly really like Professor Anti because she’s so cool, but I can’t say that out loud. Even if Professor Epsom succeeds in his experiment, I’m still not going to think that he’s really better than Professor Anti. It would be nice if I could meet Professor Anti even just once in this lifetime.”

Then, Oscar sighed and added, “Unfortunately, there is probably no hope for that anymore because Professor Anti only took one postgraduate student under her wing. I really wonder who it is that’s so lucky...” Nora: “...”

“You’ll meet her for sure,” she said.

After all, they had already met.

However, Oscar lowered her voice again and asked, “By the way, you must have already told Professor Anti that Professor Epsom is carrying out this experiment, right?”

“... Yeah, she knows about it.”

Oscar then asked, “T-then can you pass a message to Professor Anti for me?”

“Sure.”

Oscar sighed. “Actually, I admire her very much. A one-time failure doesn’t mean anything-after all, Professor Anti doesn’t specialize in pharmaceuticals; her forte is her surgical skill.”

Now, Nora couldn’t concur with that. She coughed and said, “Anti... Professor Anti is actually even more skilled in her pharmaceutical knowledge than her surgical skills.”

“Really?”

Oscar was a little surprised. Although she did not quite understand why Nora would suddenly say something like that, she nevertheless said, “Well, that doesn’t matter. Even if Professor Anti is more skilled in pharmaceutical knowledge, I still believe this is just a one-time failure for her. I heard that many of the pills that Professor Anti created have already spread to Switzerland... She is still very awesome, no matter what. Now that Epon has beat her in something for once, he will definitely spread talk about how incompetent Professor Anti is. Do tell Professor Anti not to take it to heart...”

“He won’t have the chance,” Nora replied.

Her reply took Oscar by surprise. “What do you mean?”

Nora’s lip corners curled into a smile. “I’m saying that Professor Epon won’t have the chance to do that.”

Immediately after she spoke, one of the students at the computer with the experiment data exclaimed, “It has stopped! It reached 100%! The result... The result will be out in a moment!”

“It’s out!”

The next moment following their shouts, however, everyone suddenly fell silent.

Oscar hurriedly tugged on Nora’s arm. “For the sake of the credits for Professor Epon’s class, just congratulate him...”

Before she could finish, though, she heard someone exclaim in shock, “How... how can this be?”

“Yeah, why did it fail?”

Oscar: “??”

“No, this is impossible!” Epon let out a low bark. He hurriedly looked at the computer and said furiously, “Something must have gone wrong! Yes, that must be it! There’s no way it would fail! Re-upload it! Re-upload all data!”

“Roger!”

All the students nodded and re-uploaded all the data.

Epon then clicked the Consolidate button.

But five minutes later, the lab was still filled with silence, indicating that it was still unsuccessful!

Epon still refused to believe it. He said, “Someone among you must have made a mistake in the data! Go and get it checked again, pronto! And upload it again within half an hour!”

“Roger!”

Following Professor Epon’s order, all the students once again threw themselves into the intense experiment.

Only Nora and Oscar stood in the corner by the side, one looking like she was waiting for some kind of result and the other looking a little lost-after all, at Oscar's current level of knowledge, she couldn't fully understand the experiment yet.

Another hour passed.

They uploaded the data once more but it still failed!

Epson stared at his computer in disbelief. The students started to talk among themselves at this point.

“What's going on?”

“Yeah, it's so weird. What's going on?”

“... It suddenly occurred to me that someone had once said that Anti has tried this idea before, but it unfortunately failed. Therefore, this particular hypothesis doesn't work... We were too confident and got careless!”

As soon as the student said that, though, Epson looked at her furiously. “How can that be? This is the only possible way! How can it fail? This doesn't make sense, something must have gone wrong somewhere! But where? Where does the problem lie?”

“This... Every line of data is extremely accurate, we have already confirmed it a dozen times and there really isn't any problem. How could this have happened? What should we do?”

“Yeah, the data is too strange!”

While everyone was deep in thought, a low voice reached them.

“It's the third set, it can't be integrated with the rest of the data. This problem is unsolvable.”

Everyone was contemplating the issue seriously, so when they heard this, they all looked at the computer.

Sure enough, everyone discovered the problem.

“How did it turn out like that?!”

“It really is impossible to integrate this part into the rest of the data. In other words, our hypothesis was wrong from the beginning!”

“Have we been doing pointless work this whole month?”

“Professor Anti once said that this method will never work, but we simply refused to believe it and insisted on wasting a month to verify it...”

Amid everyone kicking themselves over their actions, Epson held his head. “How can this happen? How?! This is impossible... I’m definitely better than Anti...”

Seeing his reaction, the students hurriedly comforted him. “Professor Epson, y-you have done your best.”

“Go away! Even if I’ve done my best, I still can’t accept this! This is a matter of academic dignity!”

Epson’s eyes were fixed on the screen.

No one realized that Nora was the one who had pointed out the problem just now.

Oscar, who was standing beside Nora all this time, stared at her in shock. It wasn’t until then that she finally recovered and asked in astonishment, “How did you know that there is a problem with the third set of data?”

“... Well, I have experienced this failure before,” replied Nora.

Oscar was stunned. A moment later, though, she suddenly realized something and said, “I see! Did you also participate in Anti’s experiment back at the NYU School of Medicine? That’s why you knew from the start that this experiment would never succeed!”

“... You can say that,” Nora said.

She had indeed been involved in her own experiment from the very beginning.

But the moment she said that, a besotted look instead came over Oscar's countenance. "Professor Anti is simply too amazing! As soon as she started the experiment, she noticed the problem and ended it. Gosh, I really wish I could meet her!"

After speaking, she lowered her head and took out her cell phone. "What are you doing?" Nora asked.

Oscar replied, "I'm going to search for photos of Anti... I want to see what she looks like!"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 864 - The Murderer Is Here!!

Nora: "..."

When she saw Oscar really opening up her Internet browser and keying in the search term, she asked in surprise, "Haven't you seen one before?"

There were indeed news reports about her in the States, but she and Justin had deleted them from the Internet after each incident after all, she didn't want to reveal her face. If one checked the news in time, they might still be able to catch a photo of her, but now...

"Why aren't there any pictures?"

Oscar was surprised. "I heard that she trended on social media and was even in a tormented relationship with the richest man in America! I also heard that Anti has two children but I don't know if it's true or not."

Nora: "..."

While they were chatting, Epson had completely forgotten the crisis that would come that night. Dejected and dispirited, he waved off the students around him and said, "Let's all just go back for now!"

The time...

Nora checked the time it was exactly one o'clock in the morning.

She stopped everyone and said, "We are in a time of crisis right now. If we split up at this time, we'll be in even more danger. I think it's better that we stay in the lab. This way, if something happens, at least we can work together..."

Barbarian might be powerful but surely even he couldn't attack all thirty-odd students in the lab, right?!

SOnn

But as soon as she said that, Epon took his anger out on her. He snapped, "Murderer? What murderer?! The SWAT team is just trying to scare us! I told you, there is no murderer at all! You just want to stay here to laugh at me, right?"

Nora: "?"

His reaction frightened Oscar and she hid by the side. The rest of the students looked at Nora.

Nora lowered her eyes. "Professor Epon, have you heard of a medical condition known as persecutory delusion? You seem to be suffering from it. Do you need me to contact a doctor for you?"

Epon: "!"

That woman didn't even need to use swear words when she insulted someone!

He pointed at Nora furiously and continued ranting. "Do you think I've lost to Anti just because my experiment was unsuccessful? If nothing else, she didn't even try! When you look at it that way, I'm still better than her!"

Nora: "..."

She ignored the lunatic and looked at the students instead. She said, "It's very cold outside right now and the police have already closed entry to the dorms a long time ago. Even if you leave, there's nowhere for you to go. On the contrary, it's safer here and the police have also stepped up security measures around the laboratory building. In my opinion, everyone should stay here until daybreak! But of course, all of you have the freedom to choose what you want to do." Nora's voice was filled with sarcasm when she mentioned "freedom".

Everyone looked at one another. In the end, Oscar took the lead and walked over to Nora. She said, "I... I'm staying."

The rest were divided into two factions at once. Some approved of staying there for the time being but gave very grandiose reasons for their decision, of course.

"Professor, our dorm has already closed, so we can't go in now anyway. I don't want to disturb the dorm supervisor, so I'll just stay! I'll just go back at five o'clock."

"Yeah, that's right. I live relatively far away, Professor, so I won't be going back, either."

There were also some who wanted to leave.

"Hah, you are all cowards who allowed that woman to scare you! Professor Epton, I'll go. I'm going back to the dorm now. Isn't it more comfortable to go back and sleep on a comfy bed instead?"

III

Everyone quickly split into two factions. However, only two male students left with Professor Epton in the end.

Epton looked at his favorite students and then at the rest. He snorted and said, "What a bunch of cowards! How are people like you going to create miracles for the pharmaceutical industry? You don't even have the courage to go back to your rooms! You're not suitable for carrying out research with me at all!"

After scolding them, Epton sneered. "Let's go!"

"Okay."

The two students followed Epton. One even said, "Professor, we'll walk you back to the staff dormitory before we go back!"

“Good going!” After the three men’s voices gradually faded into the distance, Nora and the rest of the students each found a comfortable spot in the laboratory, planning to leave once dawn broke.

—

Epson and the two students entered the elevator.

Because of the failed experiment, Epson was pulling a long face and had a very serious expression. He stared straight ahead of him, his eyes behind his glasses full of anger and embarrassment.

The two students standing behind him echoed his opinion and comforted him. They said, “Professor Epson, you don’t have to care about them! They are all cowards!”

“Professor Epson, you don’t have to worry about the experiment’s failure... This method may not have worked, but at least we ruled out the possibility, which is also a kind of proof of the theory. We have still made a contribution to the pharmaceutical industry!”

“Professor Epson, although Anti had already proposed a year ago that this direction doesn’t really work, she did not carry out the experiment. Instead, we reached the final step and proved that this direction indeed doesn’t work. Academics should have the spirit of getting to the bottom of things. From this point alone, you are much better than Professor Anti! At the very least, when she discovered obstacles, she did not overcome them but chose to give up instead. She is too lacking in the spirit of scientific research!”

Each of the two was more eloquent than the other and their coaxing gradually made the awful look on Epson’s face turn for the better.

However, they completely didn’t realize the fallacy in their words.

If one already knew that the path led to a dead-end, then why waste time researching

it?

However, they weren't going to bring that up at this time.

Instead, they began to ridicule the others.

“The Americans are so timid, they don't have the courage or spirit to forge new ground at all. It's just like how Lisa believed the SWAT'S claims. Besides, even if a murderer really comes, will the three of us men be unable to beat him in a fight when he's all alone? Hah, but they simply insist on getting through those four hours in the lab instead. They are so stupid!”

Epson even scoffed sarcastically and said, “What murderer? I think he's probably just a burglar or a robber. Professor Mayer was probably just killed because he was too thin and weak. Not only do I exercise every day, but the two of you are also so strong and well-built. If we run into a murderer, let's just catch them and throw them in the SWAT's face! This way, we can even put an awful look on their faces!”

The two students nodded in agreement again.

By then, the trio had reached the ground floor.

They walked out of the elevator with big smiles, ready to exit the laboratory building. None of them noticed the man in black standing in a corner in the dark.

He had nearly blended with the night.

Only a pair of eyes glowed red in the dark.

—

Upstairs.

After Epson and the two students left, everyone found a corner suitable for themselves and got ready to rest.

At this time, someone suddenly asked, “Will Professor Epson hold a grudge against us and refuse to give us credits for this subject because we chose to stay?”

“Surely not...?”

“Actually, when you think about it, it doesn’t really seem that scary. The murderer they were talking about did not appear at all. Maybe all this really is a joke like what Epon said!”

“People will only mock us and call us cowards if we stay here. That exchange student is too timid. The moment there’s any sign of trouble, she immediately tells us to stay and not go out... Just how much does she cherish her life?!”

“I also think that we have been misled by Lisa. I suddenly regret staying, I should have left with Professor Epon just now...”

Of course, apart from these people with 20/20 hindsight, there were also those who defended Nora.

“Why didn’t you say that back then? What does this have to do with Lisa? You made your own choice, so don’t blame it on others!”

“Exactly. Besides, the police have been making a ruckus in school. That officer was so absolute when she said that she would leave if nothing happens by tomorrow, which means that something is definitely wrong! What’s the big deal about us staying here? It’s just four hours, is it so hard to get through that? I didn’t see you guys complaining this much when we were doing experiments overnight!” When the person who blamed the situation on Nora heard the people defending her, he got up and retorted, “What’s wrong with me griping a little? Why are you being so protective of her? Is it because she’s pretty? Is that why you developed protective feelings for her? Heh, if you have the time to have tender, protective feelings for the fairer sex, then why don’t you think about how to appease Professor Epon’s anger instead?!”

The few who defended Nora happened to be male. It wasn’t that they had developed tender, protective feelings for the fairer sex, rather, there were only a pitifully small number of girls in the laboratory. Including Oscar and Nora, there were only four.

The other two had kept quiet, that's all.

Seeing that they were going overboard with their words, Oscar immediately said, "That's enough, you guys! Lisa is an exchange student, you know. Are you planning to have her tell everyone after she returns to the US that this is how we treat exchange students at Staav University? Where is your mettle as a student of Staav University? Have you forgotten the school motto?"

Oscar's words calmed both parties down.

The boy who had blamed Nora said, "Fine, I was wrong, but I really shouldn't have offended Professor Epon. He is famous for being petty. It's clear that we stayed behind because we were afraid that something would go wrong, but actually, with so many of us here, even if a murderer does show up, what's there to be afraid of?"

As soon as he said this, the rest nodded. "Yeah, what's there to be afraid of? Come on, let's go. If we hurry and catch up with Professor Epon, we may still be able to salvage a bit of our image. We can go back to our respective dorms later..."

Two-thirds of the remaining students got up in an instant. "Yeah, sounds good. Let's go back to the dorms. This place gets really cold in the middle of the night, even with the heater on! The laboratory building is old after all, it was freezing the last two days."

"Yeah, let's go together. Even if we run into the murderer, I reckon our numbers will scare him sh*tless. We're no wimps... Besides, the murderer may not even exist!"

Everyone headed to the exit as they spoke.

However, it was at this moment that someone opened the door from the outside!

Immediately after, one of the students who had left with Professor Epon just now appeared at the entrance.

The student who had criticized Nora just now immediately said, “Why are you back? We were just planning to go after you guys...”

But before he could finish, the student slumped right onto the floor!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 865 - Barbarian Is Here!!

Thud!

The student fell straight to the floor, causing everyone to take a step back in shock.

It was also at this time that they realized that he was bleeding at the back of his head. Then, a strong and well-built man dressed fully in black, wearing a baseball cap and a black face mask, walked in.

He was not strong and muscular in the traditional sense, where one had bulging muscles and was big, tall, and mighty. Rather, he had a tall and slender figure but every muscle on his body seemed to be just right.

Although one couldn't see what he looked like, there was ferocity and savagery in his eyes.

Nora was certain that he was Barbarian pretty much right off the bat!

She had met him in the room with the safe-deposit boxes in the Bank of New York back then.

Nora held her breath and clenched her fists.

IA

Barbarian had someone in his grip. With a light push, he pushed Epon into the laboratory. Epon looked in horror at the student's dead body on the floor and swallowed hard.

The rest of the students screamed and retreated in panic.

The four girls hid at the back. In fact, the other two were already hiding under the testbed. They huddled under the table as they shook in fear.

While Nora was observing Barbarian, Oscar pulled her by the arm and she hid under the table together with Oscar.

Oscar was shaking all over, her fearful and horror-stricken eyes big and wide. She gestured to Nora to keep quiet.

She actually remembered to pull her to safety at a critical moment like this...

Nora formed a bit of a good impression of Oscar.

Oscar took out her cell phone, typed on it, and showed the screen to Nora: "Don't make a sound. Don't be afraid, the police are nearby. They will definitely come to save us!"

Nora: "..."

When she looked up, she saw that even though Oscar was clearly terrified, she still nodded affirmatively at her as though she was trying to give her confidence.

She cast her eyes down and looked out through the gap under the table.

Epson's arms were raised and he swallowed. The door to the laboratory had already been shut by then. Barbarian stood at the door, his eyes quietly observing everything in the room. He stared straight at Epson and said slowly, "The gene serum."

His voice was very low and deep. Additionally, the man spoke very briefly and concisely. It seemed like he was a very reticent man.

Epson was taken aback. He said, "What gene serum? I... I don't know..."

Barbarian stepped forward abruptly and grabbed his wrist. To outsiders, it seemed like he had only exerted a little force, but Epson immediately cried out in pain. By the time Barbarian let go, his hand had already slumped down loosely, his wrist obviously broken.

Epson fell to the floor and rolled around in pain. None of the students beside him dared to step forward.

Barbarian spoke again. "Tell me everything about the gene serum."

He spoke very slowly, just like how he had back in the States.

Epson waved and hurriedly explained, "I really don't know anything about a gene serum or whatnot. Can you be reasonable? I am just an unimportant little professor, how would I possibly know about such big things?!"

Barbarian frowned.

His red eyes were filled with suspicion.

Nora noticed that Barbarian didn't seem to know what to say but he suddenly turned his head as though he was listening to a voice in his earphone.

Thereupon, Barbarian suddenly understood something. He walked over immediately and asked, "Which file in the archives is related to the gene serum?"

Epson wanted to cry. He replied, "I really don't know. The files in the archives are all accessible. If you want to know, I can check them out for you... But I've never heard of the gene serum or whatever you're talking about..."

"You're lying!"

Barbarian was very hot-tempered. Just like in the US back then, he got violent the moment he didn't get the answer he wanted. He kicked Epson, sending him flying. It wasn't until he crashed into a chair that he finally came to a stop.

The kick made Epson cough up a mouthful of blood.

"Ahh!"

The girl squatting at the table nearby screamed in fright, attracting Barbarian's attention.

Barbarian turned his head and looked over.

The rest of the students gathered. A boy suddenly said, "A-are you the serial killer? Do you know that there are thirty of us here?! You can't beat us alone! You..."

Before he could finish, Barbarian suddenly fished out a silver pistol from his pocket and shot his knee.

Bang!

The boy fell to his knees.

With that, the others finally realized just how strong he was. Putting aside his physical strength that could send one flying with a single kick, just his gun alone already meant that none of them was a match for him.

Just as they were in a panic, Barbarian suddenly looked at Epson again. "Are you sure... you don't know anything about the gene serum?"

Epson was curled up on the floor in pain. When he heard the question, he nodded hurriedly. "I really don't know anything, I..."

Bang!

Another gunshot rang out.

Barbarian shot another student.

The man, whose eyes were blood-red, said, "If you really can't remember, then I can get them to jog your memory a little."

Epson: "!"

His eyes widened and he shouted furiously, "They are students! They don't know anything! C-come at me if you want something! Don't go after them!”

Barbarian narrowed his eyes a little. He turned his head sideways again, likely listening to Spacey’s instructions. The next moment, he held up the pistol and pointed it at another student. “Will you talk or not?”

Nora, who was hiding under the table, was already clenching her fists.

She was not Barbarian’s match... nor was she a police officer. However, when she saw Epson, someone who was usually awfully bad-tempered, protecting his students, for some reason, an impetuous feeling suddenly surged up in her.

She cast her eyes down and lightly expelled a breath of air.

She was no saint.

She had waited here for Barbarian so that she could find out what his intentions were, and also to get a clear look at his movements, so as to prepare for the retrieval of File No. 004 later on.

Now that she had discovered that Barbarian only knew that the gene serum was in Staav University but didn’t know anything else, she was relieved.

She really shouldn’t be going out there at this time.

Firstly, Barbarian was armed. Not only was she not his match in the first place, but she would probably even be shot in the head the moment she showed herself.

Secondly, there were more than thirty students present. If Barbarian beat up or killed them one by one, she reckoned that the police would probably break in before it was even her turn. With that, she could also leave the laboratory safely.

In fact, if she didn’t show herself, Barbarian might not even know that she was here... let alone fight with her for File No. 004. She could quietly leave with the antidote.

Either way, no matter how one looked at it, this was the best course of action.

But when she saw Barbarian pointing his gun at a student again, Nora narrowed her eyes.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 866 - You Have Been Surrounded!

To be honest, Nora didn't feel much of a sense of belonging to the people here.

Moreover, they had even disregarded her kind intentions and refused to heed her advice. One could say that they had only themselves to blame for their predicament.

If Epson and the two students hadn't left, the door to the lab would have been locked. Even someone like Barbarian would have had to put in some work to get in and they would definitely have held out until the police came.

Nora narrowed her eyes and looked at Barbarian coldly.

Just as Barbarian was about to pull the trigger again, Epson suddenly said, "Fine, I'll talk! I'll talk! Don't shoot!"

Nora stopped what she was about to do and shrank back. She looked at Epson in surprise.

Did Epson have clues to the gene serum?

How could that be?!

She broke into a huge frown. The next moment, she saw Barbarian, whose eyes had also lit up, look at Epson.

A pathetic-looking Epson got up from the floor. He was terrified to the extreme by then and his voice trembled as he said, "I know where the thing you are looking for is!"

Barbarian stepped forward abruptly and grabbed his collar. "Where is it?"

Epson took a deep breath and slowly said, “I know what you are looking for and I can tell you what you want, but you must promise not to hurt these students! They are innocent!”

Barbarian sneered. “I don’t care about those worthless people.”

Epson swallowed.

He looked at Barbarian and spoke again. “I hope you keep your word. But in order to ensure the students’ safety, I will only tell you what you want to know after they have all left!”

Barbarian: “?”

He subconsciously wanted to agree to the request, but a low voice came from his earphone at this point and Barbarian kept quiet. A moment later, he sneered and said, “You are in no position to negotiate with me. Tell me what I want to know immediately!”

Epson frowned. “I...”

Bang!

Barbarian shot another student’s thigh!

The bullet struck the student’s femoral artery and he fell to the floor at once, his blood spreading all over it!

“Okay, I’ll talk!”

Epson didn’t dare to delay any longer. He said, “What you want is in the archives! File No. 004!”

Barbarian sneered, “Why should I believe you?”

Epson took a deep breath and replied, “File No. 004 is a top-secret document and even I can’t access it. The gene serum you mention can only be this document! That's all I know!"

After he spoke, for fear that Barbarian would shoot again, he said, "The archives are built from the sturdiest material invented by the school. Without my pupils to unlock the door, you won't be able to get in, so don't kill these students! Otherwise, I won't help you!"

At the critical moment, Epson exhibited the demeanor he should have as a teacher.

Barbarian glanced at him and then at the terrified students in the room. He sneered and said in a low voice, "A bunch of cowards! Absolutely boring!"

Then, he grabbed Epson and ordered, "Come to the archives with me!"

Epson breathed a sigh of relief. "Okay, I'll go with you!"

After speaking, he looked back at the students in the laboratory. He hurt everywhere from being beaten up just now and he was shaking all over in fear. However, he still said in a trembling voice, "S-stay here and don't move around, all of you. Get a doctor to treat their injuries immediately..."

love

After leaving instructions, he took step after step to the door while Barbarian pulled him.

He was limping a little from being beaten up.

Maybe because Barbarian found him too slow, he grabbed his collar and half-dragged him to the door. However, Epson didn't put up any resistance.

The students couldn't help but call out, "Professor..."

Epson stopped

He turned back slowly.

The students looked at him.

There was usually fear in the students' eyes when they worked under him for his experiments. Most of them were with him just for credits and to successfully complete their degree.

He relied on such things to control the students and make them show him a great deal of respect.

But at this moment, Epson found that the look in the students' eyes had changed.

Their eyes were filled with sentiment, much like cubs looking at their mother who had to leave in order to protect them...

Epson knew that he was most likely going to be out of luck once he left. He suddenly said, "I may have lost to Anti in my experiment, but as a teacher, I didn't lose to her, right?"

Nora, who was still hiding behind the desk, was taken aback.

The students' eyes instantly reddened.

Oscar was also stunned and she couldn't recover for a long while.

For a while, none of the students in the room spoke.

Barbarian would never give Epson time to talk nonsense, so without waiting for the students' replies, he dragged Epson out of the lab.

After they left, the students in the lab instantly relaxed.

At this time, the sound of the police confronting Barbarian outside also reached them. One could vaguely hear Barbarian holding Epson hostage and moving toward the archives.

Some police officers also rushed into the laboratory and administered first aid to the students who were shot...

The students were in a mess.

Some were so scared that they burst into tears while some huddled together as they trembled. Everyone seemed to be in shock...

It was at this moment that someone suddenly said, "Professor Epon..."

As soon as the person spoke, choked sobs echoed in the room.

Oscar also murmured to herself blankly, "I always thought of Professor Epon as a bad teacher. He is mean, his credits are hard to earn, he has awfully high expectations of students, and he is extremely arrogant and keeps harping about being rivals with Anti.. But actually, Professor Epon is a good teacher..."

A lot of them shared Oscar's sentiments...

Nora, however, took a deep breath and darted out of the door while the students were in turmoil!

Epon had told Barbarian about File No. 004 and they had gone to look for clues.

If she went over a step too slow, it was highly likely that the clues would be taken away by Barbarian!

The thought made Nora speed up her movements even further.

As soon as she approached the archives, she saw that the police were already in formation outside. Brenda was shouting into the archives, "Barbarian! You have been surrounded! Put down your weapons and come out at once!"

However, inside the room, Barbarian turned a deaf ear to the noise outside.

His eyes were on the wall filled with files.

The door was closed and the police would not be coming in for a while.

He threw Epon aside. After confirming that he couldn't walk, he walked up to the wall in the archives and counted them in order.

The files on biogenetics were on the left.

He strode over, whereupon he immediately spotted File No. 004 sitting there quietly!

Barbarian's hands were shaking. He gently opened the door...

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 867 - Her V16!!

A vigilant Barbarian kept his eyes peeled.

Back in the US, he had opened the safe only to find a bomb inside.

He had nearly died in the US.

Instead of rushing up to it recklessly, this time, he opened it gently and looked at the filing cabinet warily.

The filing cabinet was even more complex and secure than the bank's interior, which went to show just how rich and solid Staav University's history and foundation were. Their level of protection towards these unpublished intellectual properties was at the peak!

There were no bombs or hidden weapons inside, probably to prevent injuring students if they accidentally opened it.

However, this made Barbarian feel that everything had come too easily.

At this time, Nora had already gone around the laboratory to a window. The windows here were made of bulletproof glass and it wasn't easy to open them.

They were just there to let light into the room. One couldn't get in by tampering with the windows.

Nora squatted down quietly.

The glass was originally meant to be a means of protection for the archives but it had instead become a barrier. She could only look in, in hopes of verifying File No. 004's authenticity.

She saw Barbarian cautiously take out a box from the filing cabinet. When he opened it and glanced inside, his eyes lit up.

He carefully put the box into a pouch. Then, he took out bandages and tied them around himself to prevent the contents from falling out when he charged out of the archives later.

He wrapped the bandages around nearly a dozen times before he threw the tape aside.

Then, he looked at Epsilon coldly.

Epsilon was hurting all over. He had been beaten up, and while they were walking over, he was so terrified that he had gone limp all over. He couldn't even stand.

Seeing that he had found what he was after, Epsilon asked, "You have what you want now. C-can I go?"

Barbarian, however, lowered his eyes and sneered contemptuously. The man seemed like someone who rarely spoke and his voice was as cold and ruthless as ever as he replied, "How am I supposed to get away without a hostage?"

One could only enter and leave the archives through the door; everywhere else was securely sealed. It was indeed true that he would only be able to leave through the door...

After Barbarian had what he wanted, he grabbed Epsilon and headed out.

When they reached the door, Barbarian put his pistol against Epsilon's temple and made him stand in front of him. Only then did he open the door and walk out.

As soon as he did, he saw Brenda leading a group of SWAT officers nearby. She looked at him warily and said, "Barbarian, you'd best put down your weapon and surrender. Do you really think you can break through all of us here?"

Upon hearing this, Barbarian narrowed his eyes and hoisted Epsilon slightly again. "If you want him dead, then come and catch me!"

His words made Brenda's brows draw together.

Epson looked at Brenda. By then, his face was already covered with tears.

Next to Brenda, Aaron gritted his teeth and said, "Captain Brenda, who cares about his hostage? We had already told that guy that it was dangerous, yet he still insisted on carrying out his experiments. Anyway, he has already signed the liability waiver agreement, so even if he dies, it has nothing to do with us. Let's go!"

Aaron had been holding back his desire to avenge his comrade-in-arms for a long time now!

Barbarian's whereabouts were simply too hard to get hold of.

Even now, despite the two parties being in such close proximity, Barbarian was still neatly dressed and his body fully covered. Even at this point, they still didn't even know what he really looked like!

Now that they had finally found leads on Barbarian after tracking him for so long, how could he give up?!

Upon hearing what Aaron said, Epson was full of regrets. Tears streamed down his face as he sobbed. "I was wrong, I really was. Captain Brenda, I should have trusted you guys... I'm the one who caused this whole situation today, it's all my fault..."

Immediately after he spoke, Epson suddenly lowered his head and bit down hard on Barbarian's hand!

He knew that the SWAT officers did not care whether he lived or died!

There was no use complaining about them either. The only thing he could do now was to seek a way out himself.

Sure enough, the instant he suddenly lowered his head, the pain made Barbarian push him away.

As the two were standing at the door to the archives, Barbarian's push sent Epson back into the archives. Epson, who had finally regained freedom of movement, was so terrified that he ran straight into the archives. As he did, he even searched for cover.

“Go!”

Brenda's eyes lit up at once when she saw that Epson was temporarily out of danger. She shouted, “Charge!!”

Then, she paused for merely a second before she added, “Take him down, dead or alive!”

Sometimes, in order to catch the fugitive alive, the police would act with scruples, but in Barbarian's case... they had long since wanted him dead!

The very instant she said that, everyone raised their submachine guns and started spraying bullets at Barbarian!

This was what entered Nora's sight after she went around the archives and came over.

The ground floor was nearly surrounded by the SWAT team and they had even prepared large-caliber guns. There was probably no way out for Barbarian this time!

However, she was afraid that the V16 in Barbarian's possession would end up damaged.

She wanted to rush forward and stop Brenda's barrage of gunfire but it seemed that Barbarian had expected all this.

Since he had already decided to come to the school to steal the V16 and even put the SWAT team on alert long ago, how would he possibly come straight over so stupidly? He was obviously prepared. When Epson fled, he hadn't immediately tried to shoot him. Instead, he took out a smoke bomb and hurled it onto the floor.

As a result, there was a cloud of smoke in front of the SWAT team when Brenda gave her orders. Without a target, everyone could only recklessly rake the area with bullets.

“Charge!”

Brenda took the lead and rushed over, but then she suddenly heard Epsom scream.

She didn't spare Epsom even a glance. After weaving through the smoke, she caught a flash of Barbarian darting into the fire escape at the side!

Brenda picked up her walkie-talkie at once. “Close off the emergency exits on all floors and launch a carpet search!”

As long as Barbarian was still in the building, he would never be able to escape!

Brenda was not anxious. She mustn't disperse her forces and spread herself thin, so she would keep her men with her and go after him step by step!

When Nora saw Barbarian rushing into the corridor and Brenda also charging in with a group of SWAT officers, without any hesitation, she ran to the elevator nearby and immediately pressed the button for the top floor.

Brenda and company chased after Barbarian upwards from the bottom.

Also, while she was running to the elevator, she picked up her cell phone and activated the building's security system, instantly locking all the emergency exits leading in and out of the fire escape!

By making use of Staav University's security system, she saved Brenda and the other SWAT officers a whole lot of trouble.

With this, Barbarian could only go up and down the fire escape. He couldn't enter the main building through the fire escape's emergency exits.

Because... she had locked all of them.

Nora then entered the elevator and pressed the button for the top floor.

As the elevator door slowly closed, she saw that the archives were on fire. However, with the police helping to put it out, Epson would only suffer burns at most. His life wouldn't be in danger.

She slowly lowered her gaze and waited to welcome her V16.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 868 - She Has Gotten The V16!!!

The elevator went up quickly to the top floor.

As the archives building had been sealed off and no one was allowed to enter that night, the elevator didn't make any stops the whole way and it went up extremely quickly. No matter how fast Barbarian was, he wasn't going to be faster than the elevator.

Therefore, when Nora came out of the elevator, Barbarian had only just reached the halfway mark at best.

She looked down.

At Staav University, the building with the archives was the tallest and it had as many as fifty floors. It stood out among all the buildings in the schools and was the hallmark of Staav University.

This particular high-rise building had brought Staav University its success, so all the important things were kept here.

At the top of the building, the wind whistled loudly. It was as if one would be blown away the moment they looked away.

Nora's gaze swept across the ground floor. Nearly all the police forces in the entire school had congregated downstairs and surrounded the building. With this, unless Barbarian could fly, there was no way he could escape.

And obviously, flying was impossible.

No matter how much human genes were improved, they would never be able to reach that point.

Therefore, it was inevitable that Barbarian would be arrested today.

Nora withdrew her gaze, took a deep breath, and walked to the stairs at the side. She opened the door and headed down the stairs to wait for Barbarian.

She stopped after only going down two to three floors. She stood there and listened to the sounds gradually traveling up from below.

Barbarian was physically very fit, so it was good to have him climb the stairs for a few more floors and burn some of his stamina.

Nora stood where she was with her cat-like eyes lowered and held her breath.

About two minutes later, she finally heard heavy footsteps.

She leaned against the wall and looked down quietly. The lights in the stairwell were all motion-sensitive, so the lights on each floor came on one by one as Barbarian rushed to the top.

Nora lurked in the dark quietly and watched as the lights below slowly came further and further up. At last, Barbarian reached the floor right below her!

After such a hike, even though the SWAT officers led by Brenda were all physically very fit, they ultimately couldn't catch up with Barbarian, whose genes had been improved. They were about five floors away from him.

The sound of gunfire downstairs traveled upwards constantly. Bullets hit the walls, causing dust to fall.

When she heard Barbarian's footsteps coming from below, Nora pressed her back even closer to the wall. The instant Barbarian finally turned around and was about to rush up...!

Nora got up abruptly, propped her hand against the handrail of the stairs, and propelled herself forward. She shot forward like a leopard, her leg kicking towards Barbarian!

The whole way up, Barbarian had only been on guard against the gunfire from below. He never expected someone to attack from above, so he was stunned.

lea

However, his genetically-improved body had long since reached the limits of the human body.

His brain might not have reacted yet, but his body, with its keen senses, responded instinctively. He suddenly balled up his fists, held his arms up in front of him in self-defense, and received the kick that Nora had delivered with all her strength!

Thud!

The sound of bodies making contact resounded. Nora's full-powered kick ultimately still forced Barbarian to take a couple of steps backward and he came to a stop at once.

The lights came on.

When Barbarian got a good look at Nora, his red eyes immediately revealed bloodthirsty murderous intent. He sneered and said, "After Justin Hunt played those tricks on me in America, you also came here to ambush me. The two of you husband and wife are really two of a kind and incredibly insidious!"

"Thanks for the compliment."

Nora steadily stood where she was with a calm expression on her face. She saw that Brenda and her men were about to rush upstairs toward them, so she immediately said, "Hand it over, and I'll let you through to the top."

Barbarian sneered at her mockingly. "Your husband may have a chance of stopping me for a moment, but you? You actually dare to threaten me?"

His gaze fell on Nora's leg. "If I'm not wrong, your leg must be numb by now."

Nora's leg was indeed numb.

Out of everything she had seen so far, Barbarian's physical constitution was truly one of a kind!

Even if she trained hard, she probably still wouldn't be able to achieve a physical condition like his.

Humans repeatedly trained and stimulated their muscles precisely to get closer and closer to the limits of what was humanly possible. However, Barbarian had undergone genetic modifications since he was a child; his body was the limit of human potential itself!

Despite that, Nora still looked relaxed. "I know you are very strong, but no matter how powerful you are, you are still human. In the face of an all-out firearms assault, your body is not worth even a mention!"

The firearms invented by human beings could instantly kill even an elephant, let alone Barbarian?

In order to catch Barbarian, Brenda had deployed a lot of firepower this time!

Even if Barbarian was wearing a bulletproof vest, there was no way he could withstand so many attacks.

Barbarian narrowed his eyes. As he listened to the approaching footsteps from below, he let out a low bark. "You must be sick of living!"

He rushed forward mercilessly at once. Instead of trying to break through with brute force, this time, he brandished a pistol. Just as he was about to shoot Nora, his arm suddenly went numb!

Barbarian lowered his head abruptly to see a silver needle stuck into his arm.

He raised his head sharply again. Nora was still standing where she was as though she hadn't moved. A silver glint, however, flashed across her fingertips-obviously, she was the one who had shot the needle at him.

Barbarian frowned and sneered again. “Do you think a mere needle can take me down? Even if it can penetrate my bulletproof vest, what can it do to me? You are just an ant trying to do things beyond your power!”

As he spoke, he tried to raise his arm once more-only to find that it had become completely numb. His fingers were also not as nimble anymore...

Seeing this, Nora finally took a deep breath. She continued to stay far away from him as she slowly said, “Yes, a needle isn’t much but what if it’s coated with tranquilizers?”

On top of that, it was a dose capable of knocking out an elephant.

Nora had never dared to underestimate her opponent. Back in the States, she’d already had a taste of how powerful Barbarian was. Even when she and Justin had joined forces, they were unable to force Barbarian back in the slightest!

Therefore, back when Brenda confirmed that Barbarian was here, she had already made full preparations.

Otherwise, why would she come up here all by herself to intercept him? She wasn’t stupid.

Wouldn’t she be tempting fate for nothing if she did?

Barbarian tried his best to move his fingers again but found that they had indeed become a lot stiffer. In fact, with his movements, the numbness had spread to his entire arm...

If this went on, the tranquilizer would soon spread throughout his entire body as blood circulated through his arteries.

The sound of Brenda and the others chasing after him traveled up from below again at this time—they had already caught up!

Barbarian, who didn’t have time to fire at Nora anymore, wanted to rush up the stairs right away.

“I’d advise you not to move.”

Nora said impassively, “The more intense your actions, the faster your blood flows and the quicker the tranquilizer will take effect...”

Barbarian: “!”

His senses were very keen. He could already feel the numbness starting to spread from his arm to the rest of his limbs... He couldn’t move anymore!

As soon as Barbarian discovered this, he heard the thin woman standing above say coldly and lazily, “Oh, wait, you’ve already had intense exercise when you were climbing the stairs just now, so blood was already circulating through your arteries more quickly than usual. Therefore, you probably can’t move anymore by now, right?”

Barbarian: “!”

No matter how slow Barbarian might be, at this moment, he finally understood-he had been fooled!

When the woman was advising him against moving and whatnot just now, she had merely been stalling for time.

He glared at Nora furiously.

Nora, however, waited for another two seconds. She couldn’t afford to wait for Brenda and the others to reach because their firepower would turn Barbarian into swiss cheese and end up destroying the V16!

Therefore, after calculating the time, she came up to Barbarian from upstairs. With her needle as a blade, she made a quick slash, cutting through the bandages that Barbarian had tied firmly around himself, and took the black box!!

Chapter 869 - It'S In The Bag Now!

Bang! Bang! Bang! Thud! Thud! Thud! Thud!

The sound of gunfire and footsteps rushed all the way up. Brenda showed up below them, only a flight of stairs away.

After Nora got the V16, she quickly backed away...

As for Barbarian, who had killed so many people, even if he was reduced to pulp by Brenda and company's firepower, it had nothing to do with Nora.

Nora wasn't going to be a saint and think of Barbarian as a pitiful soul who had been forced into this.

It might be true that he had become what he was today because he had been used as an experimental subject when he was a child, but no matter the reason, it was no excuse for him to take other people's lives at will!

Therefore, after Nora got the black box, she immediately stepped back to put distance between herself and Barbarian. However, it was right at this moment that Barbarian moved!

This didn't make sense though, because Nora had been planning for today for a long time. The silver needle might seem tiny but the amount of tranquilizer on it was absolutely capable of knocking out even an elephant!

However, Barbarian hadn't been knocked out.

All of that just now was just an act. No... Perhaps he had indeed been paralyzed for an instant-or perhaps he had been paralyzed all the way until this moment—but regardless, just as Brenda rushed up and Nora took the V16 from him, Barbarian attacked!

His pistol had dropped onto the floor because of the paralysis.

Without a gun, he lunged at Nora's wrist at lightning-fast speed and sneered. "As it happens, I don't have a hostage with me at the moment!"

In other words, he was going to take Nora hostage!

This way, even if Brenda and the others rushed up there, they could no longer bombard him with firepower.

Barbarian moved very quickly. Moreover, having successfully paralyzed him just now, anyone would be caught off-guard, no matter who they were. Once he succeeded, the V16 would still be his, and on top of that, he would even gain a hostage to save his life with!

Barbarian had it all planned out but all he grabbed was air.

Nora, who should have been nearby, was already two steps away from him at this moment, which happened to be just enough for her to escape his clutches!

Nora couldn't beat Barbarian in a fight.

She had known that a long time ago. In fact, when she was in the States, she had even suffered at his hands because of it. Even when she and Justin had joined forces, they were still no match for Barbarian.

Therefore!

Even if she had already prepared the needle and the tranquilizer, Nora would never make the mistake of underestimating the enemy again.

Thus, whether Barbarian was really paralyzed or just pretending, Nora was ready to flee the moment she got the V16.

Even so, despite having prepared for it in advance, Barbarian had nearly caught her.

Nora was greatly alarmed.

No wonder Brenda and the others couldn't catch Barbarian even after so many years. That man was simply too strong.

If it weren't for the fact that the tranquilizer had indeed taken some effect and slowed Barbarian's movements a little, she would still have been caught! It didn't matter that she had made so many preparations and how vigilant she had been.

She was simply too lucky to even have gotten away by the skin of her teeth.

Nora thought to herself while she fled up the stairs quickly.

She didn't dare to let her imagination run wild anymore-because Barbarian was already chasing after her madly after missing once.

Nora ran up with all her might. Once she reached the top floor where the field of vision was wide, she would only need to persevere for a minute... no, in just ten seconds or so, Brenda and the others would be able to hurry over and bombard him with firepower!

However, she was still a little uneasy because Barbarian's movements were simply too fast. The man had climbed more than 50 floors without a pause and had even been hit with tranquilizers, yet he was maintaining a speed equal to hers!

The two kept running with three steps between them the whole time...

Nora went upstairs quickly, not daring to waste any time at all. Just as she was about to sprint over to a safe position she had in her sight, she suddenly heard a voice.

"This way!"

The sudden voice on the top floor startled Nora.

She turned her head sharply. In the split second that this took, Barbarian caught up with Nora and threw a punch at the back of her head!

After going up the last two floors, the tranquilizer in Barbarian's body seemed to have dissipated. He had overcome it quickly. His powerful physical constitution left Nora flabbergasted!

No matter how well-prepared she was, in the face of Barbarian, strength was what gave one the last say!

And he had never been one to be reasonable!

Nora could feel the punch coming toward the back of her head but her body seemed locked in place. Just when she could no longer break free...

Someone suddenly lunged toward her from the side!

Bam!

The man blocked the blow for Nora with his body, which sent him flying and he fell heavily on the floor.

With the V16 in her hand, Nora didn't dare to do anything. She only did a tuck-and-roll and put some distance between herself and Barbarian. Then she looked at the man eagerly.

She thought that Justin had finally come.

After all, it had been a long time since that scumbag last appeared. On top of that, he hadn't even contacted her.

However, she knew that Justin must be nearby and constantly paying attention to the V16!

But when she took a good look, the man who couldn't get back up anymore after Barbarian knocked him to the ground with a punch was actually...
Caleb?

"It's you?"

Barbarian, who was also clearly taken aback, uttered in surprise.

Caleb, who had collapsed on the floor, spat out a mouthful of blood.

The man, who had cancer, didn't have long to live, in the first place. The punch seemed to have hit his lungs, causing him to cough violently. Nevertheless, he still tried his best to speak. "Barbarian... cough... Long time... cough... no see... Cough, cough... It's not too late... to repent... cough, cough..."

"To hell with repenting!"

Barbarian seemed a little bemused. "You and I are in the same boat. You should be hating people like them who didn't take our lives seriously. Yet you are defending her?!"

Caleb suppressed the metallic taste of blood in his mouth and replied, "She is also in the same boat as us. Her mother had experimented on her too!" "How is it the same?"

Barbarian was furious. "The injection her mother gave her was safe. It's a gene serum with an antidote, she's fine! But how many of us have died?"

Upon hearing this, Caleb started to cough again. He said, "But she's only after the V16 to save her son, he has also been used as an experimental subject. Isn't that enough?"

"No, it's not!" Barbarian stared at Caleb. "How can that make up for those 1,000 children who died in the lab back then?"

At this point, Barbarian suddenly lowered his eyes and sneered. "Besides, what right do you have to judge me? Caleb, we have always been enemies, haven't we? All five of us are enemies because we all need the V16! We all want to live!

"So... Since I've run into you today, once I've dealt with her, I don't mind getting rid of you, Trueman's lackey, either! Besides, you are here to help Trueman get rid of me, right?"

After speaking, Barbarian raised his fist again and charged toward Nora.

But as soon as he moved, someone grabbed his leg. Barbarian looked down to see Caleb clinging onto his leg and shouting to Nora, “Hurry up and go!”

Nora: “!!!”

She looked at the two, her gaze falling on Caleb’s face.

come

There was blood on the corner of the man’s lip and he was as pale as a sheet. However, those deep and bottomless eyes of his showed determination at this moment.

“You must have a death wish!”

Upon seeing what he was doing, Barbarian kicked him again.

Despite that, even though Caleb had already curled up in pain, he simply refused to let go!

Bam!

Barbarian kicked him again.

Caleb threw up another mouthful of blood.

Bam!

Barbarian didn’t hold back and kicked him again, every kick landing on Caleb’s abdomen. Nora wasn’t near them, but as a top surgeon, she knew that Caleb’s internal organs might already have shifted from the kicks.

She clenched her fists tightly.

Bam!

Barbarian finally kicked Caleb away again, he slammed into the wall at the side and fainted.

Only then did Barbarian turn around and look at Nora.

The instant he was about to attack... “Freeze!”

“Fire! Suppress him!”

Brenda and the others had finally arrived!!!

There was no way for Barbarian to fight back anymore!!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 870 - 0 Medical License

Bang! Bang! Bang! Ratatatata... Gunshots rang out incessantly, hitting the area where Barbarian was. He rolled and dodged a wave of bullets, then tried to charge toward Nora again.

But before he could, another burst of concentrated gunfire came at him, rendering him unable to run toward Nora.

Barbarian looked at Nora with his crimson eyes.

Nora breathed a sigh of relief.

As more and more people came up, the gunfire also became more and more concentrated. While Barbarian could still rely on his body's flexibility and nimbleness to dodge at this point, he wasn't going to be able to do the same in a while!

He had pushed himself into a corner this time.

Under the cover of the gunfire, Nora dashed straight toward Brenda, the metal box containing the V16 clutched tightly in her hands! Her eyes, however, remained fixed on Barbarian.

As Brenda directed the men behind her, she shouted, "Barbarian, you have been surrounded! Put down your weapon and surrender!"

As soon as she said that, the corners of Barbarian's lips curled up slightly into a touch of a sneer. Immediately after, he sprinted toward the edge. Continuous gunfire came from behind him but the bullets all landed at his feet!

Barbarian's speed and reflexes were simply too fast.

Regardless, it was useless—because there was no way forward! If he ran any further, what awaited him would only be death!

But contrary to everyone's expectations, Barbarian did not slow down even when he reached the edge. Brenda frowned, took out a pistol, and continued to shoot at him.

Barbarian, however, leaped off the fifty-story high-rise building!

Had he lost the will to live because he knew that he had been surrounded?

Barbarian's move stunned everyone for a moment. Nora suddenly thought of something and hurried to the edge of the building.

There, she saw Barbarian, who had already plummeted from the building, floating in the air with his wingsuit open. He looked just like a bird as he glided away.

He accelerated extremely quickly, so he had already glided out of Brenda's range. All the police officers on the ground floor could only raise their pistols and aim at the sky.

However, Barbarian was too high up in the sky, so he was out of their range as well.

Everyone could only watch as Barbarian glided away...

"Shit!!"

Aaron swore anxiously.

They had deployed so much manpower and resources this time, yet they had still allowed him to get away?

Wingsuiting was an extreme sport with only a few hundred people doing it in the whole country, though. Who would have thought that Barbarian would be a master of extreme sports?

Brenda also broke into a frown.

After spending so much time setting up everything, they could be said to have come the closest to Barbarian this time, yet he had still gotten away.

They felt so helpless!

Nora was not as furious as Aaron and Brenda, though. Although she found it somewhat a pity, Barbarian was, after all, the first person to have his body genetically modified in physical fitness. He was someone Nora and Justin couldn't beat in a fight even when they joined forces.

He wouldn't be Barbarian anymore if they could catch someone like him so easily!

Besides, from the start, her target was not Barbarian but the V16.

Nora lowered her head, looked at the object in her hand, and finally breathed a sigh of relief.

What came next was sending the seriously injured and comatose Caleb to the hospital, as well as dealing with the affairs in school.

In the hospital, Nora unexpectedly ran into Epon.

He was being supported by someone as he walked out of a room after a checkup. He bragged to his student, "I told you, I'm fine, but you guys simply insist on me doing a full-body checkup because you're worried. Did you hear the doctor? I'm fine!"

His student replied, "It's because you were trapped in the washroom when the archives caught fire. The temperature in the archives was very high when the fire was put out, it was very easy for you to burn yourself!"

Epon curled his lips disdainfully. "I told you, I wet a towel and blocked my mouth and nose with it!"

The student nodded. "Yeah, you're really lucky this time to not have suffered any burns at all, Professor Epon... Even we suffered burns to some extent when we went in to save

you..."

Epson was very stuck-up. He said, “That’s because you guys weren’t careful! Who do you think I am? Even Anti would have suffered burns in that situation, but not me! I’ve at least beaten her again in this!”

The students around him: “...”

Nora: “...”

Epson leaving with Barbarian for the sake of the students had certainly moved her a little but this feeling lasted no more than three seconds.

What was wrong with Epson, really?

Couldn’t he stop comparing himself to her?

She had never given a damn about Epson before, okay?

The corners of Nora’s lips spasmed. She ignored them and walked straight ahead to check on Caleb.

She had just taken a couple of steps when she ran into Oscar.

Oscar’s arm was exposed. There was a large burn on it and blisters had formed all over it, making her grimace in pain. When she saw Nora, she asked, “Where were you just now? Did you go to save Professor Epson too?”

Nora: “?”

“Too?”

“Yeah, Professor Epson only left with Barbarian because he wanted to save us, so we all went to save him. You have no idea how dangerous the situation was. That serial killer is too vicious, he even set fire to the archives to burn Professor Epson to death. Fortunately, we arrived in time to put out the fire... But even so, because we weren’t wearing protective clothing when we rushed in to save Professor Epson, all of us were scalded by the flames.”

Nora: "..."

She was about to give her some kind of explanation when the door to the operating room Caleb was in suddenly opened. Someone shouted, "He's dying! The patient is dying! One of his ribs has punctured his lungs, none of our doctors can handle the operation! What do we do?"

Nora's eyes narrowed at once. "What?"

Wasn't Barbarian a little too strong? Was Caleb really going to croak in advance because he suffered all those kicks?

The doctor said, "This is beyond my ability. Given his condition, there's likely only hope of saving him if Dr. Anti comes in person! Even so, putting aside the fact that we can't get in contact with Dr. Anti, even if we do get in contact with her, there's no way she can hurry over to the hospital within half an hour! But the patient doesn't have much time left!

Sigh!"

When Oscar, who was following Nora at the back, heard the doctor, a regretful look came over her face. She said, "How did Professor Gray show up on the top floor? What a huge shame, the murderer didn't manage to kill Epton but he killed Professor Gray instead? I feel so sorry for Professor Gray! If only Anti were here..."

She had only just spoken when she saw Nora suddenly reach upwards and tie up her hair. Immediately after, she walked straight to the operating room and said, "Take me to him!" Oscar was stunned. She followed after her and asked, "What are you going there for? Are you a doctor?" Even the doctor wanted to stop her but it was at this moment that Nora took out her medical license. The name on it was...

Chapter 871 - It'S The V16!!

The nurse was about to stop Nora, but before she could speak, Nora took out her medical license and tossed it at her. Immediately after, she picked up a surgical gown from the side and entered the operating room.

The nurse looked down. When she saw the name on the medical license, she was stunned on the spot.

Seeing this, Oscar hurried over anxiously. Her gaze fell on the license in the nurse's hand, only to see a name written on it: "Anti".

Oscar: "..."

Stunned, her head whipped up and she looked at Nora in disbelief.

Caleb's operation was indeed difficult. He needed someone with high precision to perform the surgery.

Three hours later, after Nora finished stitching him up, she finally stretched and loosened her muscles. The people supporting her in the operation all looked at her with eyes full of worship.

Nora didn't pay any attention to that.

She had obtained the V16, so she no longer needed to hide her identity...

Therefore, she nodded openly at the people around her and then left the operating room. As soon as she went out, she saw a group of people waiting outside.

All of them looked up when they heard the door open. However, when they saw her, they all turned their gazes behind her.

"Where's Anti?"

“Where’s Anti?”

“I heard that Dr. Anti came in-person to operate on a patient, so I specially waited here!”

The hospital they were in was affiliated with Staav University and most of the patients here tonight were Staav University students. Thus, when they heard that Anti was here, all of them had gathered around to see what she was like.

Nora: “...”

Seeing the crowd outside, she suddenly felt that she’d better not reveal her identity, after all. Thus, she said to the nearest person walking over, “She’s at the back. I’m just here to help.”

After speaking, she took off her gloves and surgical gown and cut through the crowd.

One by one, everyone who heard her looked behind her... Nora took the opportunity to leave, but unfortunately, she’d only just turned around when she saw Oscar.

Oscar was looking at her with a complicated look in her eyes.

Nora: “...”

She raised her eyebrows and walked over. “What’s wrong?”

Oscar swallowed. “I... I’d like to apply to be a postgraduate student under you. I hope you won’t disqualify me because of my rudeness to you before.”

Students like Oscar were very common. Moreover, she was hardworking enough, so Nora still had a rather good opinion of her. It was just that maybe their personalities didn’t get along, so they couldn’t be friends.

However, that didn’t mean that she had to dislike the other party.

Nora nodded. “Sure, if I ever recruit postgraduate students again.”

Oscar took a deep breath, not daring to speak any further, she nodded instead.

When the two were walking ahead, they happened to see Epsom hurrying over.

The student behind him said, “Slow down, slow down...”

Epsom, however, was in a big hurry. He said, “If I go any slower, I won’t be able to see her anymore! To think Anti is at Staav University! She must be here to steal my experiment results! Otherwise, why would she be here? So, my experiment still caught her attention, didn’t it?”

Nora: “...”

The corners of her lips spasmed and she shook her head a little. Then, she moved away to let Epsom and the students pass first. Just as they were walking past her, they suddenly stopped.

Epsom looked at her and asked, “Have you seen Anti?”

Nora shook her head.

Epsom continued with his questions. “Is she a fatty?”

Nora: “?”

Epsom sneered and said, “The news I received says that she’s a fatty who weighs nearly 200 pounds. She is also a lazy bum, so she’ll never lose any weight for sure!”

Five years ago, when Nora first came to Switzerland, she had indeed been fat. Moreover, she had even publicly shown her face back then. However, later on, after she became famous, she never revealed her face or any information about herself anymore.

She didn’t expect that people still thought of her as the fatty from before...

As the corners of her lips spasmed, Epton said, “Never mind, given your status, how could you possibly meet Anti? I’d better hurry and go, it’d be awful if I end up wasting time because of you.”

Nora: “...”

Oscar: “...”

With a complicated look on her face, Oscar watched as Epton ran past them in a hurry. She let out a soft sigh and said, “Professor Epton is still wearing his burned trousers and didn’t even have time to change, just so he could hurry here to look for you. What a shame that he doesn’t know that the very same student he looks down on is the goal that he has been pursuing all his life.”

Nora: “...”

Why was she detecting a bit of sarcasm in Oscar’s words?

She shook her head and went out the door.

Brenda and the others were waiting for her. The SWAT team was all armed with heavy firearms. Brenda was in the midst of lecturing the men. She said, “If Barbarian comes again, we must kill him. Do you hear me?”

“Yes, ma’am!”

As soon as Nora came out, Brenda came over. She lowered her voice and said, “Nora, we will protect you.”

Before Nora could speak, Brenda explained, “Nora, now is not the time to put on an affected act. You have what Barbarian is looking for, right...?”

Nora wanted to speak, but Brenda stopped her. She said, “I didn’t see anything nor do I want to report anything, so what you’ve taken has nothing to do with me, Nora. My task is just to catch Barbarian and since what he’s desperately after is with you, he will definitely come to you! So, we must stay by your side!” After speaking, Brenda held up her gun. Nora nodded. “Okay.”

With the V16 in her possession, she wasn't going to be so foolish as to act alone.

Although she could hire bodyguards for protection, she was indeed impressed with Brenda's professional abilities.

No one was going to be better than Brenda.

She asked in a low voice, "Is the school safe now?"

"Yes, it's safe."

Brenda took a deep breath. "We weren't sure who he was before, so it wasn't safe, but now that he has escaped... We did a headcount and found that he had been hiding among the students. Now that we have dug out the identity he was using, it'll be hard for him to get back into the school."

Only then did Nora breathe a sigh of relief.

She looked somewhere and suddenly said, "Keep watch for me for a while."

Brenda nodded. "Okay."

Only then did Nora go to a corner in a blind spot where Brenda stood.

This was the safest place.

Nora finally took out the metal box from her bosom and opened it.

Before getting the V16, Nora had been constantly wondering what her mother had hidden in here. Was it the V16's formula? Or was it something else?

It wasn't until now that she finally solved the mystery.

It wasn't a formula but the actual V16 itself.

Chapter 872 - Two Potions

Two vacuum bottles lay silently in the box.

Two...

These were perhaps the only two in the world.

However, there were five survivors...

Nora frowned.

Five people... Including Xander, there were six people fighting over two potions. No wonder Barbarian was fighting so hard.

She did not have time to think too much about it and closed the box.

She picked up the instruction manual beside her.

The manual pointed out that this drug could not be injected directly into the body and required purification. However, the purification method was not given.

Still, this could not stump Nora...

She only thought about it for a while and roughly knew what machines were needed to purify it.

Long nights meant more thinking.

Nora decided to purify it at Staav University. After purifying the V16 drug, she would inject it into Xander.

The others might hate them but once Xander got the injection, in two months, those people would all be gone...

When she thought of this, Nora seemed to see the light.

She put away her things and said to Brenda, “Take me to the laboratory. I’ll look for Wayne. There happens to be some equipment for purification in his laboratory.”

Brenda did not ask what it was and just said, “Okay.”

The two of them... No, it could be said that a SWAT team escorted Nora to the laboratory.

On the way, not far away, someone passed her and sighed softly. “Did you hear? The great pianist Love died this morning.”

“Sigh, she’s the top pianist in the world. Some people say that her attainments had surpassed everyone else’s. It’s as if she was born for the piano.”

“Yes, I’ve even attended her concert. Her perfect pitch really is the most impressive I’ve ever heard of. No matter what sound you make, she could still tell... I heard that back then, there were some people who deliberately played randomly in front of her, but she accurately identified what instrument it was. Furthermore, at the same time, she had identified another sound. Everyone first thought that she had failed, but in the end, it turned out that there really was a bird flying past the window. The bird had even cried!”

“What a pity. She’s only 30 years old...”

“Isn’t that so? A pianist like her might have been able to make some stunning piano pieces in the future. Sigh!”

Everyone discussed and left.

Nora stopped in her tracks.

The pianist Love...

As she was thinking, her phone suddenly rang.

She picked up the call and Trueman's sharp voice came from the other end. "Love is dead! Do you know who Love is?"

Nora paused for a moment and suddenly thought of something. She immediately asked, "She's Listener?"

"That's right!" Trueman seemed to be a little angry. "That fool went to learn piano after leaving the mysterious organization. She never thought of searching for the V16. Hehe, I didn't expect her to be the first person to die among us!"

When this was said, Nora fell silent.

The remaining five children back then were not all bad people. For example, Listener relied on her genetic modification to work in the music industry.

It was admirable that such a person was not afraid of death.

However, Trueman clearly did not think that way. "She's dead! Do you know what this means?"

Nora pursed her lips. "It means that the last injection of the gene serum isn't very stable."

"Yes, it's unstable. Time is unstable! We clearly only have two months left. Listener had taken the V15 with me... Therefore, you have to find the V16 as soon as possible!"

Nora did not bother about him anymore and hung up the phone.

There were two V16s now. There was no doubt that she would give one of them to Xander, but the other one... she wanted to give it to Caleb.

With this in mind, she arrived outside Wayne's laboratory. Just as she was about to push the door open and enter, she heard the counselor's voice. "Lisa!"

Nora turned around and saw the counselor walking over quickly. She grabbed her hand and said, “I heard that Epson’s experiment failed; but it’s okay, there’s still Professor Myers. You can still get good grades if you follow Professor Myers, so don’t be discouraged.”

Nora: “...”

She nodded and was about to continue when the counselor said, “Oh, right. Professor Myers is a little strange. You have to talk nicely. You haven’t met him yet, right? Then I’ll take you to see him and let him take care of you.”

With that, the counselor pushed the door open and entered.

As soon as she entered, she said to Wayne, who had his back to the door, “Professor Myers, Lisa is here. Although you’ve already recruited graduate students as your assistants, Lisa has also contributed to this project. Please don’t make things difficult for her...”

Wayne pursed his lips. “Don’t worry. I’m not that kind of a person. Isn’t it just a student who wants to come in and earn some credit? I’ll still give you this bit of face. But as an undergraduate, she has to be diligent and must have good eyesight. She can’t drag us down, okay?”

“Of course, Lisa is an American exchange student, very diligent. I’m sure you’ll have a lot to talk about!”

The counselor smiled and pushed Nora. “Lisa, greet Professor Myers quickly.” When Nora heard this, her lips curled up.

Chapter 873 - Little... Lisa?

Wayne had been a little arrogant lately.

After the NTT company decided to invest in him, there were suddenly many people coming to interview him. He chose many excellent students from them and most of them were graduate students.

In comparison, Lisa seemed a little inferior.

Therefore, Wayne had never taken Lisa seriously.

Furthermore, ever since Lisa joined this laboratory, Wayne had been asking Lisa to come over and help. However, even being an exchange student, she did not come on time and stood him up. This made Wayne very angry.

Therefore, he decided to teach her a lesson.

Hearing the counselor's words, Wayne finally turned his head and looked at Lisa in front of him. "Lisa? Do you know what I want to do with this laboratory now? Do you know who has invested in it? You..."

Before he could finish, he froze when he saw the person in front of him.

When the counselor saw Professor Myers staring at Nora and not saying anything, she became a little flustered.

Was Professor Myers really angry and not giving Lisa a chance?

Just as the counselor was worried, she suddenly saw Professor Myers's eyes light up. His high and mighty expression instantly became one of bootlicking, as if he was one of those mask-changing performers.

Wayne rushed to Nora and lowered his head to say, "Ms..." Ms. Nora?

Before he could finish speaking, he saw Nora shaking her head slightly. This meant that she did not want to be acknowledged... Therefore, Wayne's next words changed into: "...Miss Lisa?"

The counselor: "?"

Miss Lisa?

What the heck was this?

Why did she feel a sense of respect behind Professor Myers' words?

And why did he call her 'Miss'?

Although Lisa did look young, why was he addressing her so affectionately?

Nora did not care about the counselor's thoughts. She walked forward and said to Wayne, "Yes, Professor Myers. I hope you can take care of me."

Her voice was low and magnetic.

Wayne felt a little embarrassed to be called Professor Myers by her.

Ms. Nora's pharmaceutical skills were better than his? How was he qualified to be called a professor by Ms. Nora?

The counselor felt that the atmosphere between the two of them was strange, but she did not understand. Therefore, she could only smile and say to Wayne, "Professor Myers, I'll leave Lisa with you. You have to take good care of her."

"...Definitely!"

The counselor looked at Nora again. "You have to learn well from Professor Myers. You can't lose your temper, understand? Professor Myers is an esteemed professor. Furthermore, he has the support of the NTT company. Their projects are very meaningful to the school. You have to be obedient.

Professor Myers' laboratory has many rules. You have to follow them, understand?"

Wayne was speechless.

Can you shut up, counselor?

Nora smiled and looked at Wayne with a faint smile. "Okay, counselor. Don't worry."

III

After the counselor left, Nora then looked at Wayne. "Rules?"

Wayne: "...Ms. Lisa, you're the one making the rules."

In the beginning, Wayne did not know why NTT had invested in him. Now, he understood everything!

No wonder "Lisa" was suddenly very happy after meeting the person in charge of NTT last time. It turned out to be like this! Ms. Nora was the heir to NTT!

Nora: "..."

She did not want to fight with Wayne anymore and said, "I'll borrow your laboratory."

She wanted to purify the V16 as soon as possible and then bring it home for Xander.

Chapter 874 - Purification Of The V16

Because Wayne had received an investment from NTT, he was valued by the school. The laboratory arranged for him was also the largest in the school.

The equipment inside was all top of the line.

The graduate students who came to interview with Wayne were also the top students of Staav University.

In just a few days, Wayne's project was fully established. Today was the official start of the project.

If Nora wanted to borrow the laboratory, Wayne would definitely not object.

He even immediately took out his phone and informed everyone that the project's establishment would be delayed for a day to prevent everyone from coming over and disturbing Nora.

"What's the reason?" NTT asked when Wayne called to inform them.

He glanced at Nora and saw her waving her hand.

Wayne immediately said, "Oh, there's no reason. I'm just not feeling well today."

"Yes, my stomach hurts... Who hasn't had a few days of tummy pain every few months... No, I'm not a woman, how can I have cramps!"

"Yes, I just have diarrhea. It's nothing serious. What? You want to see me? No need, really no need... Huh? You're already on the way? Then... Okay."

After hanging up, Wayne touched his forehead. “Ms. Nora, who is the person in charge at NTT? Isn’t he too responsible?”

Nora also raised her eyebrows and smiled. “Forget it. They have always done their best.”

It was because of their professionalism that NTT could reach where they were today.

They had said that they would start the project today, so they would definitely send someone over.

But...

Nora looked at Wayne and suddenly smiled. “Your stomach hurts? Is it really painful, or is it fake?”

Wayne: “?”

He understood. In order to deal with the company’s follow-up, he definitely had to act more like it. After all, Nora was going to use the laboratory and he did not want to make a huge commotion.

Wayne’s eyes darted around and he said, “The people from the company do a very strict investigation. Furthermore, the people they send over definitely won’t know you. In order to avoid trouble and to let you continue hiding your identity, I’ve decided to sacrifice myself!”

After saying this, Wayne took out the laxatives. Without waiting for Nora to speak, he gulped a bunch. “Ms. Nora, do you see that? I’m loyal to you! For you, even if I collapse today, I won’t say a word! You don’t have to praise me. I’m such a serious person. I’ve always been chivalrous and bold... blah, blah...”

Nora pursed her lips. This actor.

She ignored him and looked into the room. She walked to the laboratory and began to purify V16.

Nora was worried at first. The V16 was not like wine, where the older the wine, the richer it was. After all, medicine had a shelf life. Furthermore, the box that was wrapped around the V16 looked like an ordinary one. She could not be sure of it. Could the V16 expire?

However, after testing with microscopes and various instruments, she realized that the V16 had not expired!

Some of the microorganisms inside were still alive. The serum was so fresh that it seemed to have been made this month.

She was even more impressed with her mother's medical skills now.

It was said that medical standards were getting more and more advanced. Her mother's era was more than twenty years ago but her medical standards at that time were simply too awesome.

Nora sighed in her heart and began to purify the V16.

Through her research on gene serum, Nora had her own views on this. The entire purification process took approximately four hours.

After talking to Wayne, he had let her work in peace.

When the people from NTT arrived, Wayne would help deal with it.

Nora nodded.

Actually, if she knew the person from the company, it would not be so troublesome. She was just afraid that she would not know the person to come. If she caused a misunderstanding, it would be troublesome.

However, soon, Nora realized that she was thinking too much.

The people sent by the company were actually Liam and one other employee she did not know. Although Wayne's project seemed to have taken eight million dollars, to the company, this money was just a splash. It was nothing to them.

It couldn't be someone at Royce's level.

When Royce realized that Liam and Nora knew each other, he naturally handed over the project to Liam. Therefore, the person who had been in contact with Wayne these past few days was Liam.

The moment Liam entered, Wayne held his buttocks. His stomach hurt so much that his face was pale. Sweat broke out on his forehead and anyone could tell that it was not an act.

Liam said, "Professor Myers, what are you doing?"

Wayne had a bitter expression on his face as he sighed. "Sigh, I originally thought that if it was just a small discomfort, I would be able to bear with it. But look, I'm really... Pfft!"

When Wayne said this, a fart came out. He said, "I, I can't take it anymore. I'll go to the bathroom first."

After saying that, he looked at Nora and instructed Liam, "Oh, right, this is my student. Um... I called her over to help tidy up the laboratory. Yes... please don't disturb her..."

With that, he ran to the bathroom.

Nora: "..."

Wayne had taken the laxative for nothing.

If she had known it was Liam, she would have said something to settle it.

However, it was obvious that Liam was unaware that Wayne knew of Nora's relationship with NTT; and Wayne was unaware that Liam knew that she was related to the company.

Therefore, the two of them were trying their best to hide her identity.

Liam did not even walk towards Nora. Instead, he waited for Wayne to come out of the bathroom before saying, "Professor Myers, your illness is very serious. In my opinion, why don't we delay the project by two days?"

Wayne: "...Okay, okay!"

It was said that the people from NTT were all as cunning as foxes. Furthermore, their sharp eyes could see through any problems. They hated changing their schedule the most. But today, it seemed like they were very easy to talk to. What was going on?

Three hours later.

Nora finally completed the purification.

She prepared two test tubes and placed them in a special small container before draining the air.

This was something she had specially searched for when she came to Switzerland. It could preserve freshness and ensure that the interior was completely vacuum-packed. Furthermore, it was small and convenient.

She had just closed the V16 container when her phone suddenly rang.

She subconsciously picked up the call. Barbarian's voice came from the other end. "Have you completed the purification?"

Hearing this, Nora's eyes narrowed. She suddenly raised her head and looked around.

How could Barbarian have called at the exact moment she was done? It was as if he had seen it with his own eyes!

Nora clenched her jaw. Her intuition told her that this was not over!

Chapter 875 - Spacey!!

Nora looked around vigilantly.

Outside the laboratory, Brenda led a few special officers to patrol. In the laboratory Liam, Wayne, and an unknown employee from NTT were chatting.

Could it be that Barbarian had someone among these people?

Did he bribe some people?

Nora looked at everyone suspiciously.

Brenda and Wayne had to be excluded. These two people were definitely not on Barbarian's side. As for the others...

She frowned and said calmly into the phone, "What does it have to do with you?"

"It's indeed none of my business, but I think it's related to your three children, right?"

When this was said, Nora suddenly narrowed her eyes. "What do you mean?"

"Do you think you've hidden the children well? I already know their exact location. What do you think I should do?"

When Nora heard this, she could not help but laugh. "What are you trying to do?"

When she wanted to stay at Staav University and fight with Barbarian, she had already arranged for the children at home to be safe. How could she be threatened like that?

As she was thinking, Barbarian said, “I understand. You found a very professional person to watch over them and ensure their safety. You can guarantee that I won’t charge in to look for them, but can you stop a bomb?”

Nora’s eyes narrowed. “What?”

Barbarian lowered his eyes and slowly said, “I know. You’ve already moved the three children to Horgen District. I’m not sure which building it is, but what if I can raze the entire district to the ground?”

Nora: “!!”

Barbarian lowered his eyes. “I have such a bomb in my hand. As long as I throw it gently, the entire district will be destroyed. I don’t even need to find out where your three children and bodyguards are...”

When Barbarian said this, his tone was filled with disdain.

Nora clenched her fists. “So?”

“Hand over the serum in your hand obediently.”

Barbarian’s voice was very cold. “Otherwise, I’ll drop the bomb in three hours!”

Nora lowered her voice. “You’re a lunatic!”

In the current technological society, such bombs were rare, but they were indeed not difficult to procure.

Nora believed that Barbarian had the ability to get such a bomb, but she could not help but say, “There are so many people in the district. How can you?!”

Horgen was a safe district nearby. There were a few villas inside and the people living there were all people of high status.

But Barbarian wanted to bomb these people just like that?

Barbarian sneered. “I don’t know them. Are they related to me?”

Nora: “...”

He was insane.

This person was completely crazy.

For a gene serum, he was completely treating humans as trash!

Nora lowered her eyes and suddenly said, “Okay, how do I hand the serum to you? Where should I go?”

Barbarian: “There’s no need to trouble yourself. I know you’re very skilled with medicine. It won’t be good if you change the serum midway. Now, hand the gene serum in your hand to Liam.”

Liam...

Nora looked at the door suddenly and saw that Liam had changed from his previous timidness. He pushed the door open and came in front of her calmly. “Ms. Smith, give it to me.”

Nora stared at Liam.

She clenched her fists tightly. After a moment, she said, “So you’re the one who exposed my children’s location. Liam... Or should I say, Mr. Spacey?”

Chapter 876 - This Is Switzerland!

After Nora came to Switzerland, there were many things she could not understand.

For example, at the place she lived, she was targeted by her neighbor, the old lady. The old lady's phone was clearly hacked. She had said that her sister was coming and wanted her to rent a room for her. That was why her neighbor, Mrs. Long, had scolded Nora fervently.

This kind of small trick was nothing to Nora.

But that was what Spacey had done.

At that time, Nora did not understand why he had done it. However, at this moment, she suddenly understood.

Liam wanted Rene and him to become friends with them successfully!

Liam had requested her to go to Nora's house more often to play. He said that he wanted the three children to accompany her. Liam's true goal was not to let Rene have some company but to obtain more information about Nora and the three children.

Rene's background was pitiful, so it was very easy to have people drop their guards around her.

Furthermore, Nora had investigated Rene.

As an orphan of American descent, her life in Switzerland was not good. No one adopted her for a long time until she was finally taken in by a family. In the end, her adoptive parents turned out to be bad people.

Her adoptive father wanted to take advantage of her but was discovered by her adoptive mother. Her adoptive mother beat and scolded her at every turn. There were even a few times when Rene had to go to the hospital for treatment.

Rene had finally escaped hell. How could anyone doubt her pitiful background?

To be honest, when Nora first came to Switzerland, she thought that everyone was from the mysterious organization. She even suspected Liam, but she never suspected Rene...

Rene could enter and leave their house freely. Even if she had sent the three children away, Rene could still easily find out which district they had gone to...

Hearing Nora call him 'Spacey', Liam laughed. "Most people sympathize with the weak. If I just appeared in front of you, you would definitely have suspected me. That's why I chose Rene. I learned about you guys without anyone noticing."

Nora frowned and suddenly smiled. "So, there's really no true 'love at first sight.'"

She knew it!

Rene was timid and dirty like a beggar.

On the other hand, Liam looked bright and handsome. Why would he like Rene?

was

In the beginning, she even suspected that he was emotionally manipulating Rene. However, after an investigation, she realized that Liam was really good to her.

There was even a time when she felt that this might be true love.

It turned out that Liam was just making use of Rene.

Liam did not deny this. He just held out his hand. “Give it to me.”

Nora took a deep breath and lowered her head to look at the V16 serum in her hand. She suddenly smiled and reached out to hand the two bottles to Liam.

Liam was relieved that she handed it over so easily.

He carefully placed the serum in his pocket and turned to walk out. He said, “Ms. Smith, I think you know very well that if you dare to act rashly, we won’t guarantee your children’s safety! So you better be obedient. Of course, I know you’re very skilled.”

When Nora was extracting the medicine, although he was bickering and joking with Wayne, Liam had been paying attention to Nora. When Trueman called her, she did not even have the time to change the medicine.

Therefore, this V16 must be the real deal.

Liam rushed out the door excitedly.

Barbarian’s voice came from his earpiece. “Have you got it?”

“I got it!”

Liam spoke calmly before getting into the car. “I’ll come to you now.”

Barbarian nodded. “Okay.”

Liam suddenly said, “I keep feeling that things are going too smooth.”

Barbarian had always been simple-minded. He said, “It didn’t go smoothly though, right? It’s only because of me. I could go to the school to investigate and escape unscathed. But what if it was someone else? I only came out of the dark to verify the authenticity of the serum. I’m a little far away now, come over quickly and meet us. We’ll leave after getting the serum. Trueman and the others are still watching us!”

Liam took a deep breath. “Are you sure it’s okay?”

Barbarian smiled. “Of course. What are you afraid of? After I get the V16 and inject it, I can break through the limits of my body again. After that, no one will be able to catch me!”

As Liam drove, he glanced back. “I’m just worried that Nora will catch up. I’m not you. I don’t have such good skills.”

“She won’t dare to. The bomb is right there. If she dares to chase after you, I’ll pull the trigger!”

Liam suddenly asked, “Are you sure they can’t find the bomb and defuse it?”

Barbarian sneered. “Justin’s strength in New York is okay but they don’t have much power overseas. You have to know that this is Switzerland!”

—

In the laboratory.

Nora was opening her mouth to explain. “Queenie, are you sure you can find the bombs? And dismantle them?”

A lazy voice came from the other end. “Of course, I’m sure. Can you have some confidence in me?”

Nora sighed. “When I returned to New York back then, you told me that you were not very powerful.”

“...What I was saying is, be honest with Justin. I’m no longer afraid of others! Also, you didn’t contact me after you came back. Have you grown wings? Heh, now Cherry is being threatened. You’re really weak! Don’t worry. To transport a bomb like that, they would have had to dismantle it and then move it without alerting anyone. They can’t dare to make too much of a fuss. No matter how good a job they do, there will always be evidence! Give me half an hour and I’ll help you take care of the bomb!”

“Half an hour?”

Nora lowered her head and looked at the time. “Is that enough?”

When the other party heard this, she suddenly sneered and said domineeringly, “Nora, don’t worry. Don’t forget that this is Switzerland! It’s my territory!! Wait for my good news! My NTT is not to be trifled with!”

“However, you have to promise me that after the bomb is removed, you’ll bring the little guys to stay at home with me! I miss Cherry so much. Besides, I don’t believe that anyone in Switzerland will dare to come here and court death!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 877 - Counterattack!!

In the vicinity of Horgen District, Switzerland.

Since Barbarian wanted to blow up Horgen District, that meant that the bomb must be installed somewhere close. However, Horgen District, which was considered a residential complex for the wealthy, was enormous and even contained a park. It wasn't going to be easy to find the bomb that Barbarian had buried.

However, on this day, everyone in the vicinity of Horgen District went into action.

The couriers first investigated the list of items that had been delivered to the district during the past ten days.

The courier company's network of people covered nearly the whole area and there were one or two employees who knew everyone in the district. However, nobody knew that all the courier deliveries in the vicinity were already under the monopoly of a company named Send Express, let alone know that Send Express was a subsidiary of NTT.

At the command of NTT's boss, aka Queenie Schmidt, a secret showdown was quietly taking place out of sight.

In addition to the courier company, all the street sweepers also went into the district to clean the place. Based on the information sent by the couriers, they conducted a search in the district.

Added to this the fact that the officers on patrol were employees of a security company, the inconspicuous group came together to form a formidable force even greater than security cameras. In just the span of thirty minutes, they found the bomb.

The group immediately made a police report.

Nora, who was sitting in the laboratory, was rather speechless when she received the phone call.

“Why did you call the police instead of just dismantling it?” She asked.

Queenie scoffed. “I’m a good, law-abiding citizen, you know. They should be the ones doing this, in the first place. Why should I take care of it for them?”

Nora fell silent.

Queenie had professional bomb disposal experts in her team, yet she had to insist on making a police report instead.

The corners of her lips spasmed in speechlessness, upon which she heard another laugh from Queenie, who then added, “Besides, it’s not like Cherry is even there, so why should I waste my time and effort doing it? I’ve already made a great contribution by finding the bomb!”

That’s right.

The three children had left Horgen District a long time ago.

Given that Nora had not only wanted to send the children elsewhere but was also aware that her whereabouts were already exposed to Spacey, how would she possibly stop at something as simple as just driving them to another place?

She had sent her children to Horgen District by car the day before, but unbeknownst to outsiders, the houses in the district had underground passages through them that connected straight to the villas next door.

Cindy had been living in the villa next door all along. She drove the car out every day, so it hadn’t raised Liam’s suspicions at all when she sneaked the three children out.

After all, Nora had only just sent them to the district. Who would have thought that she would immediately transfer them elsewhere?

She had wanted the bomb to be defused because it was too powerful. Should it go off, it would bring harm to the people in the vicinity.

Queenie spoke again. “Tsk, the bomb has been defused. How are things on your end?”

Nora’s lips curled into a smile. “They still haven’t realized that they have been fooled. Don’t worry.”

Queenie chuckled softly and remarked dryly, “You wily little fox.”

Before she hung up, she said, “Cherry and the others are here with me. They are very safe, so you can put your mind at ease! You sure are fertile, though. To think you gave birth to three babies, are you actually a sow?”

Nora: “!”

The corners of her lips spasmed and she hung up on her.

The things that her aunt said simply sounded too awful.

Wasn’t it all because her mother had injected her with the serum that she’d had a multiple pregnancy and given birth to three children?

She rolled her eyes and opened the laboratory door.

When Liam took the serums and left just, he had threatened her against pursuing him. On top of that, he had even switched on the security cameras in the laboratory to monitor her. For the lives of those in Horgen District, Nora had refrained from taking any rash actions.

But now...

It was time to counterattack!

She might not be able to beat Barbarian in a fight but Spacey would most certainly be a breeze!

On the highway.

Liam was driving at high speed. He stared ahead of him with a savage smile, but it was at this moment that he received a phone call from Barbarian.

“The bomb has been defused!”

His words took Liam by surprise. “What?”

Barbarian’s voice was also full of shock and horror. He said, “It’s true! I couldn’t locate the bomb just now, so I checked the surveillance cameras. That’s when I found that the police have already surrounded it. I pressed the remote control after that but the bomb had already been defused!”

Liam hammered the steering wheel.

“It’s only been half an hour! Didn’t we agree that you would buy me three hours? Half an hour is not enough for me to get away at all!”

Barbarian said grudgingly, “Never mind, with the V16 in your hands, they won’t dare to do anything to you! Besides, no one went after you when you fled. It’ll be too late even if they start chasing after you now! There are no traffic jams here, after all!”

Liam felt enlightened when he heard him. He said, “You’re right. Putting aside whether or not they can catch up to me, just the fact that the V16 is in my possession is already as though I have a hostage with me. If they dare so much as to capture me, I will destroy the V16! Everyone can forget about living then!”

After hanging up the phone, Liam looked behind him.

Half an hour had passed and he was already a great distance from Staav University. Unless the other party was a godlike car racer, they could forget about ever catching up to him...

Liam breathed a sigh of relief when he thought of this.

Nevertheless, he did not dare to slack off and continued forward.

Ten minutes later, Liam suddenly sensed something amiss.

He turned his head sharply to the side to see a big black jeep driving side by side with him on the road.

The moment he looked over, the jeep's window slowly rolled down, revealing Nora's cool and beautiful visage.

Liam: “!!”

His pupils shrank abruptly and he slammed down on the gas pedal.

However, the next moment, the jeep caught up once more.

No matter how hard he tried, he simply couldn't shake off the jeep. On top of that, he was obviously driving very fast and there were several bends on the highway. It was as if one would be thrown right out of the car if they didn't slow down...

Yet!

He spun the steering wheel frantically before he finally managed to turn a corner, but when he looked over at Nora—the woman had one hand on the steering wheel while she slowly stretched out the other.

Suddenly, she made a finger gun, pointed it at him, and uttered, “Bang.”

At that moment, Liam felt like he had just encountered the Devil himself.

Chapter 878 - Threat! Splitting The Loot

The sports car droned, its engine running at high speed.

But no matter how much Liam sped up or overtook the other party, he simply couldn't shake off Nora.

Gradually, he began to panic.

His hands around the steering wheel were perspiring and cold sweat trickled down his forehead...

He looked over at Nora again-only to see that the woman was still following him leisurely at the side. She was obviously overtaking him at times and could easily block his way by drifting horizontally, yet she deliberately slowed down and fell behind him.

She was just like a cat that clearly could catch the mouse but chose to tease its prey by deliberately letting it escape and then catching it again.

The look in the woman's eyes when she looked at him also carried a sense of determination to get what she wanted.

Liam felt even worse. He looked ahead of him again and swallowed nervously.

His physical fitness had always been poor and he started to fumble about somewhat frantically despite only having driven for such a short period of time. His legs had even become a little weak from consecutively overtaking cars at high speed on the highway.

Screech!

He slammed on the brakes and nearly collided with the car in front while the car behind also nearly collided with him. The driver behind was so mad that he swore at him loudly when he drove past.

However, Liam didn't have the leisure to care about that. Instead, he looked at the big black jeep speeding past him.

He originally thought that the jeep would race off into the distance and would not be in time to brake, but unexpectedly, it instead steadily came to a stop once more with a screech at only 300 feet away. The woman was even in the mood to turn on the blinkers and stop the car at the shoulder.

Her calm and collected attitude made Liam feel humiliated.

He clenched his fists.

Liam suddenly dove back into the car to start it up again. However, by then, Nora had already gotten out of the jeep and placed one hand on the door. She stood there quietly like a great mountain suppressing Liam. He simply couldn't step on the gas pedal for the longest time.

Liam, who was shaking all over, broke down mentally. Before Nora could even speak, he yelled, "The V16 is with me! Let me go and stop coming after me! Or else I will destroy it!!

Nora raised her eyebrows.

Seeing that she wasn't saying anything, Liam finally started the car. His car had only traveled 600 feet when the jeep caught up with him from the back again.

Liam panicked. He rolled down the window furiously and shouted to Nora, "I told you, don't come after me! Or I will destroy the V16!"

However, Nora ignored him and continued to follow him.

Barbarian's voice also reached Liam through his earphone.

“What’s going on? Is she out of her mind? She’s really not threatened by you?!” Liam snapped, “Who the f*ck knows what’s going on?! Barbarian, where did you glide to? Can you come over and provide reinforcements?!”

Barbarian fell silent. He replied, “I won’t be able to make it there in time. As a precaution, I glided a few hundred miles away. You’re too far away, even if I do get to you, it will take me two or three hours... You have to calm down and keep yourself together...”

“I can’t!” Liam hammered the steering wheel furiously. “It’s driving me nuts!”

Barbarian: “...”

Suddenly, Liam said, “I’ve made up my mind, I’ll return her one of the V16s. This way, she won’t keep haunting me anymore!”

His words instantly enraged Barbarian. He said, “Which of us are you going to use it on if you bring back only one?!”

Liam yelled, “I don’t have the goddamn time to care about you anymore! I just want to get away asap!”

Nearly right after he said that, Liam suddenly took off the Bluetooth earphone on his ear and flung it out the window.

The cars on the highway moved too quickly, the earphone was instantly crushed by the car behind the moment it fell to the ground.

Barbarian’s voice faded into the wireless network..

Liam looked ahead—there was a bridge.

He suddenly drove the car toward it. Then, he parked it and stood on the edge of the bridge.

In a mere span of about ten seconds, Nora’s car stopped beside him. She stood a short distance away and looked at him quietly.

Liam, however, took out two serums and opened the lids. He pointed them at the bridge deck and said, “Don’t come over, Nora! Let’s make a deal! You let me go and we each take one of these two serums. But if you refuse to give me a way out, then I will empty them both into the river!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 879 - Where Did That Scumbag Go?

Once Nora retrieved the serums, she would only need one for Xander.

Caleb was the only one with some bare connections to Nora. However, his cancer was already at an advanced stage and he didn't have long to live. Besides, he'd never thought of fighting for the serum, either.

Therefore, it was true that she only needed one.

It was better for Nora to agree to Liam's offer. By having the two of them take one each, the spoils would be evenly divided. Moreover, the current situation seemed to have reached an impasse.

Liam was very sure that Nora would agree, yet she merely cast her eyes down and continued forward.

"Don't move! If you come any nearer, I really will empty the serums into the river!"

Liam shouted nervously.

However, Nora did not stop.

She continued to walk forward with a faint smile on her lips.

"Well, It's purified water anyway, so it doesn't matter even if you empty them into the river."

Her words stunned Liam. "What did you say?"

Nora looked at him. "As I said, we stayed in the school because we wanted to catch Barbarian, and for that end, we had made full preparations. So why would I head to the lab to refine the gene serum so carelessly after getting my hands on it?”

She looked at Liam and went on. “I didn’t expect you to be the backup plan in Barbarian’s plans, but the moment you entered the lab, I figured it out. In that case, why would I still refine the V16 and give it to you?”

She stared at the reagent bottles in Liam’s hand and said, “Feel free to toss it.”

There was only distilled water in there anyway—Nora had poured the real gene serum into an inconspicuous test tube in Wayne’s laboratory instead.

It was only after Liam took the two bottles of “gene serum” and left that she had slowly, and leisurely, stored the real V16 in a special container.

Liam: “!!”

He stared at the bottles in his hand in disbelief. Suddenly, he opened the lids and tossed one straight into the river.

But even when he did that, Nora didn’t react in the slightest.

This showed that everything she said was true!

Liam realized at once that he had been fooled!

He threw the other bottle of purified water into the river too and immediately got into his car. Before Nora could catch up, he started the car violently, causing it to zoom straight ahead!

Given Nora’s driving skills, he knew that she would definitely be able to catch up with him, but by then, fleeing had already become something instinctive for him.

Seeing that panic had seized him again, Nora cast her eyes down and sneered. She got into her car, moving very slowly as she did. By the time she got into the car, Liam's car was already 600 feet away.

But just as she was about to speed up to catch up to Liam...

Bang! Boom!

Liam's car suddenly exploded violently!!

The entire car was instantly submerged in a sea of flames, which in turn caused a few passing cars nearby to also explode!

Nora could feel her car also shaking. Sound waves and the residual impact of the explosion assailed her from the front, the impact even cracked the windshield.

—

Half an hour later.

In the hospital.

Nora finished having her wounds dressed.

Fortunately, the windshield of the car she was driving had been modified into bulletproof glass, so it was relatively safe. But even so, parts of the windshield had still shattered and stabbed into her arm.

However, the other four or five cars around them were not as lucky.

Some of the people in the cars suffered burns that covered more than 70% of their skin while others were killed on the spot. There was even a family of three in one of the cars. Both parents had died and only the child in the back seat had survived. Even so, he had also suffered burns.

Before he was administered anesthesia, he kept calling out for his parents... The doctors could only comfort him and tell him that his parents would be back soon.

The scene was simply too devastating and Nora couldn't help clenching her fists as she watched.

She really didn't expect that Spacey would plant a bomb on his own car. In addition, his mental resilience had also been much worse than she'd imagined.

To think he would start running about in a panic like a headless chicken...

She clenched her jaw. After her arm was bandaged, her cell phone rang.

It was an unregistered number.

She answered the call, whereupon Barbarian's voice came from the other end: "Is the scene in front of you to your liking?"

Nora's pupils shrank abruptly at his words and she suddenly realized something. She asked, "You're the one who planted the bomb in his car?"

"That's right," Barbarian sneered, "Not only is he stupid and daft, but he's also a coward who values his life very much. When someone like him encounters a problem, there's no way they would have the guts to risk an act of desperation. If he didn't die, it would have destroyed our plan! He knew too much! So, if he couldn't retrieve the V16, then he must die!"

Barbarian's cold-heartedness made Nora clench her jaw.

As Nora watched the bodies of the parents from the family of three being pushed out of the operating room, she suddenly couldn't help but question him. "Have you ever thought about how many innocent people have been hurt by your actions? How many innocent families have been destroyed?"

Barbarian sneered. "What do they have to do with me? Besides, from the moment I was born, has the world ever shown me any kindness? If not, then why should I show them any kindness? Don't take the moral high ground and condemn me. You haven't suffered the way I have, how can you possibly understand how I feel?"

He spoke coldly and indifferently. There was no anger in his voice-in fact, there wasn't even any emotion, just like how a human wouldn't be full of guilt just because they crushed an ant.

His attitude convinced Nora that the man might really have bombed the whole Horgen District, had her aunt not helped her deal with the bomb there.

If one were to say that Nora had felt that Barbarian and the others only became what they were today because of the cruel things that the mysterious organization had done to them, then she no longer held any sympathy for Barbarian at this point.

Life should be respected, not toyed with as though it was worth nothing!

Barbarian must exist only to take revenge on society, right?

Nora did not say anything else.

Barbarian, on the other hand, suddenly said, "The two gene serums are with you, right? But I'm telling you this: do not attempt to inject your son with the gene serum!"

Nora was a little taken aback. "Why?"

"Heh, when I was a child, I lived with four other children. Do you know how the four of them died? When they were injected with the seventh and eighth doses, the interval between those two doses was shorter than half the interval between the previous ones..."

Nora suddenly realized something. She asked, "Are you saying that one would also die if they are injected with the V16 too early?" "Of course. Otherwise, why would we suddenly only start searching frantically for you during the last two years?"

Barbarian sneered and said, "It's because all of us have only less than three months left, yet the drug cannot be injected in advance. You've only just injected your son with the V15, right? Then you'll have to wait at least two months before you can inject him with the V16."

Nora didn't believe Barbarian, but she didn't dare to disregard his words either.

She was afraid that something would go wrong.

Barbarian would never tell her all this out of the kindness of his heart, though. Sure enough, the next moment, he said, "If you don't believe me, then feel free to ask Caleb Gray about it. Of course, I'm not telling you all this out of kindness; rather, it's because I can't get back in time. I'm afraid that you would be in a hurry and inject your son with the serum first."

Nora: "..."

Well, that made sense.

She hung up on Barbarian and went to Caleb.

Caleb's operation had just ended. With his rib broken, he would have to be bedridden and rest for a while, no matter what. She asked Caleb about the authenticity of Barbarian's claims and he told her that what he said was true.

"It seems that I'll have to find a place to store the serum and wait for a month to pass before I can inject Xander with it?"

Nora felt uneasy.

She had finally obtained the serum after much difficulty but she was now being told that she had to wait another month.

Who knew what other unforeseen events might occur during this one month's time?!

Caleb also felt awfully helpless. He sighed and said, "Yes, that's right. Also, since Trueman is watching Barbarian, he must also know that the serums are with you. While Barbarian is also a fearsome existence, Trueman is not to be trifled with either. I'd suggest that you stay cautious during this one month's time."

A resigned Nora nodded.

A safe place...

She hardly knew of any safe places.

What was she going to do about this?

She wondered if Justin had any?

At the thought of Justin, though, Nora couldn't help but gnash her teeth.

Where had that scumbag gone while she was slaving away here?! Nora inwardly gave the man a piece of her mind in secret. With the school on lockdown and even the explosion on the bridge, she didn't believe that Justin wasn't aware of their situation.

Since he wasn't contacting them, it meant that he might be doing something more important.

Nora had only just thought of this when her cell phone rang.

When she answered, her aunt's voice came from the opposite end: "Cherry and the others are here with me. When are you coming over?"

Nora heaved a silent sigh and replied, "Now, I guess."

It had been a very long time since she had last seen her aunt.

Chapter 880 - Queenie Schmidt

Nora drove to the castle where Queenie lived.

Over the years, NTT had become the largest company in Switzerland after it was founded by Queenie. Moreover, she loved living a luxurious lifestyle, so she had built a castle in the country.

The castle was an impregnable fortress. Even if Barbarian knew that they were here, unless he dropped a nuclear bomb on the castle, it was impossible for him to blow up the place.

All the architecture she saw along the way as she drove was European-style, the castle was gorgeous.

As soon as Nora's car arrived at the entrance of the castle, the huge iron gates opened automatically. There, John, the butler, greeted her in person. When he saw Nora, he said with a smile, "Good day, Ms. Nora."

Nora nodded at John. However, she did not get out of the car but continued driving further into the castle.

It took more than ten minutes to drive from the entrance to the place where Queenie lived, which went to show just how expansive the castle grounds were.

At last, the car stopped in front of a villa. Nora had only just parked the car when Cherry, Pete, and Xander came running out of the villa.

Cherry hugged Nora and said, "Mommy, I miss you so much! It's only been a day but it feels like forever since I last saw you!"

Pete also grabbed her hand and looked up at her fondly.

Nora took the opportunity to squat down and give Cherry a kiss. She also pecked Pete on the cheek. Pete's cheeks were all red and he was very content.

Xander adopted a cocky act and snorted derisively when he saw the two children's behavior. He commented, "You two haven't weaned off your mom's milk yet, have you?"

But Nora grabbed him and kissed him on the cheek too.

Xander immediately put on a disgusted expression. As he wiped off the non-existent saliva on his cheek, he said, "Yuck, don't you find that filthy?"

His eyes, however, were sparkling.

At a young age, he had already learned to say one thing when he really meant another.

Nora ruffled his hair and then led the three children into the villa.

Nora felt exceptionally relaxed, both physically and mentally, here.

Back then, after her aunt took her away, she'd lived here for five years. This place was like her real home and was also the first place to have given her a sense of security.

Upon entering the living room, she looked at the woman sitting on the sofa.

The woman was in her forties, yet she looked like she was only in her early thirties. When she stood next to Nora, one would believe it even if they were told that the two of them were sisters.

She gave off a different feeling from Iris.

Iris was like a celestial maiden, ethereal with an otherworldly beauty.

Queenie, however, was arrogant and flamboyant. Clad in a red silk nightdress, her nails were painted scarlet and she held a glass of red wine in her hand as she leaned against the sofa. Her eyes were bright and teasing as she looked at Nora. "Wow, you actually remembered to come home?"

Nora smiled and sat beside her. She took her arm and said, “Hi, Aunt Queenie.”

Queenie snorted and said, “And here I thought you’ve already forgotten that you still have an aunt in me. You’re really something now, aren’t you? To think you didn’t come to me after you came to Switzerland, ha!”

Nora: “. ”

S

Cherry ran over and hugged Queenie’s arm. She said, “Don’t be mad at Mommy, Grand aunt Queenie! Mommy really misses you very much, it’s just that she has a bit of work to do. She was afraid that you won’t let her work if she came back, that’s why she stayed elsewhere instead! Although we didn’t come back, we still thought of you every day~”

Queenie immediately put her arms around Cherry and pecked her on the cheek. “Oh, my precious little baby. Why is your tongue so sweet?”

Cherry burst into giggles.

Nora also breathed a sigh of relief.

Her aunt had a bad temper, and when she got mad, it scared even her.

Back then, when she gave birth in the States and almost died, her aunt had returned to the country and then taken her abroad without a word. But after that, she had ignored her for half a year.

Nora and her aunt had been in contact since she was a child. Her aunt had even wanted to take her abroad when she unexpectedly became pregnant, but Nora had refused.

At that time, she had felt that staying in the country would be more comfortable since there was no one bothering her.

This led to her nearly having a lethal complication that year.

After being mad at her for half a year, her aunt finally broke the silence and spoke to her only because Cherry was simply too adorable.

Pete and Xander stood at the side and looked at the grandaunt whom they didn't know. After Queenie had her fill of kissing Cherry, who was in her arms, she finally asked, "By the way, where's your Mr. Hunt? How come he's not worried about leaving you here alone?"

Nora heaved a silent sigh and answered, "I don't know where he's gone."

Queenie snorted coldly and said, "All these men! None of them are reliable! On top of fighting with Barbarian, they even tried to rob you of your things, yet he didn't even show up! What's the use of having a man like him? If you ask me, you should just come to me with the children, instead!"

Nora smiled and replied, "That's exactly what I have in mind. You gotta keep your word, okay?"

Queenie choked. A moment later, she curled her lips and said, "Forget it, your Mr. Hunt is not someone to be trifled with."

Her reply, however, made Nora frown. She suddenly asked, "Aunt Queenie, you seem to know Justin? Who on earth is he? How come even someone like you are in awe of him?"

"Awe? What nonsense! C'mon, can you hold a conversation or not?! I'm reluctant to go against him only because things will become very troublesome if I mess with him! Do you think I'm afraid of him?"

Queenie raised her glass of red wine and took a sip. Then, she gave her a wink and said, "But if you want to know, I can let you in on a secret..."

Queenie raised her chin at Nora.

Nora leaned over and brought her ear closer. Then, she said, "Aunt Queenie, compared to Justin, I'm actually more interested in your secrets. Who... on earth are you?"

Chapter 881 - Do You Want To Go In?

Ever since she was born, Nora had known that she had an Aunt Queenie.

Even Henry knew of her. Her aunt would also come back to the country to visit her once a year.

Henry thought that Queenie lived a very difficult life abroad, so he had never shown her much civility. However, Queenie treated Nora very kindly. She told her that she was her mother's god-sister and that her mother had once saved her life. Nora hadn't thought much about it back then.

Later, Queenie continued to treat her very well.

Five years ago, when she brought her from the United States to Switzerland, one could say that she had saved her life. After all, a woman was actually at her weakest and frailest during labor.

Moreover, she had even been pregnant with twins... no, triplets. To make matters worse, it had never occurred to her that she might go into labor in advance, so she hadn't been prepared.

It couldn't have been easier for someone to take her life at that time if they had wanted to.

It was her aunt who had nursed her back to health. Later, she even gave in to all of Cherry's demands, which gradually made Nora lower her guard towards her.

But Nora was still very curious—who on earth was her aunt?

She had founded and raised NTT from the ground up... Nora had checked NTT's success story before and one could say that it was totally a savage one. She had first resold counterfeit goods in Southeast Asia, where she made a lot of money amid a hail of gunfire. After that, she came to Switzerland and started a money laundering business.

This continued until she founded NTT and established it into a world-renowned enterprise.

The woman had taken only twenty-odd years to develop NTT to the flourishing business it was today!

However, there was nothing about the first twenty years of the life of someone like her.

Given how much of a talented and intelligent woman she was, how could she possibly have led a dull and uneventful life during the first twenty years of her life?

Just like Yvette, it was impossible for one to conceal their talent. Despite not having a dramatic personality, Yvette's name had still become known to others in New York back in that era.

Outstanding people—especially those who reached the apex in an industry—would always shine, no matter how low-key they stayed.

But this wasn't the case for Queenie.

The first twenty years of her life were too ordinary. She was a girl who had grown up in a normal family and then suddenly emerged dazzling when she turned twenty years old... This was simply too unusual.

Upon hearing Nora's words, the corners of Queenie's lips couldn't help but curl into a smile. She said, "What's the matter? You don't trust me?"

Nora stared into Queenie's eyes with her own almond-shaped ones.

Queenie had very attractive eyes. They were slightly upturned and looked very charming. When her lips curled up into a faint smile, she formed a particularly bewitching sight.

Nora sighed. "Why wouldn't I?"

If she didn't trust her, would she have sent the three children here?

One could say that Nora trusted Queenie the most in this world-even if she knew next to nothing about her.

Even Justin would have to take a backseat...

Queenie scoffed. "Don't bother thinking any further about it. You will know who I am, and everything else you should know, when it's time for you to find out. Do you want to know Justin Hunt's secret or not?"

"No."

Nora waved Queenie off and said, "I'd rather have him tell me himself."

Queenie stared at her speechlessly for a while. In the end, she snorted and said, "I didn't expect you to fall for a man."

Nora knew what Queenie meant.

Back when she was living abroad, Queenie had introduced several men to her, but she had rejected them all. It was true that she hadn't had any plans for romance at that time.

Besides, she felt that being in love would affect her sleep time too much! Therefore, she had once declared that she would never fall in love with anyone in her whole life, nor would she ever get married.

Who would have thought that she would meet Justin after that...

Nora was about to speak when Xander, who was next to her, blinked with his big eyes and interrupted them. He asked, "Is Mommy supposed to fall in love with a woman then?"

Queenie: "???"

Nora: "???"

Pete and Cherry: "???"

All four of them turned and looked at Xander in unison, making the little fellow shrink back. “W-what?”

III

His interjection stopped Nora and Queenie from conversing further, though. Instead, Queenie stood and said, “Alright, kiddos, how about coming upstairs with me and having a look at your room?” “Okay!”

Pete and Xander got up.

Cherry took their hands and said, “Come on, let’s go! I’ll show you guys around our home! My room is really, really big, so we can sleep together, yeah!”

Hearing Cherry calling the place “our home” brought a smile to Queenie’s eyes.

Nora also stood up. She was about to head upstairs with them when her cell phone suddenly rang. When she answered, the voice of Cindy, who was helping her take care of the houses, came from the other end: “Boss, there is something wrong with Rene...” “What’s wrong?”

Nora’s eyes turned a little chilly.

Cindy replied, “She hasn’t left her house since yesterday. I found it strange, so I went in to take a look just now, and that’s when I found her on the bed with her hands and feet bound. Later, I found out that it was Liam who had tied her up... He had sent Rene to get close to us, but now that she isn’t of use anymore, he abandoned her here.”

“... And then?” Nora prompted.

It stood to reason that Cindy should be more than capable of handling these people smoothly, so why was she still calling her for instructions?

Cindy sighed and said, “I untied Rene and told her to leave—after all, I know you probably won’t hold it against her—but she refused to. She says that

Liam was just pranking her and would definitely come back for her. She simply refuses to leave the house no matter what...

“Also, there’s something mentally wrong with her. She has stayed curled up in a corner all this time, neither eating nor drinking. She just huddles up with her arms around her knees. She looks kinda pitiful, so I’m wondering if it’s okay if we take her in for a few days?”

After speaking, Cindy also became sure that she was being soft-hearted this time, so she hurriedly added, “I won’t let her come into contact with you guys ever again.”

Nora sighed silently.

Rene was a pitiable person.

Being adopted by abusive parents at a very young age, she had left one hellhole with much difficulty only to be brought into another by Liam.

Liam had treated Rene really well—so well that Rene must have even begun to believe in love, right?

But in the end, he had only been making use of her.

How could so many instances of love between people of unequal statuses possibly exist in this world?

Nora thought for a moment and then said, “Mm, just let her live there if she doesn’t want to leave. We are not short of that bit of rent anyway.”

“Okay.”

Nora hung up the phone and went upstairs.

As soon as she arrived on the third floor, she heard Cherry pointing to a room and explaining to Pete and Xander, “That room is full of Grandaunt Queenie’s secrets, so we can’t go in there, okay~? No matter the circumstances, we are not allowed to go in, okay?”

Nora's eyes fell on the door.

Ever since she came to Switzerland five years ago, she had been told all this time that she was forbidden from entering Queenie's room.

Nora had never once pried into Queenie's privacy or secrets, either.

However, it would be a lie to say that she wasn't curious.

In fact, there were so many times she had wanted to push the door open, only to restrain herself in the end...

It was at this moment that Queenie suddenly stood in front of her and asked with a smile, "Wanna go in?"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 882 - She'S Playing Herself?

Chapter 882 She's Playing Herself?

When Nora heard this, she pursed her lips.

Of course, she wanted to.

But could she enter?

Queenie had asked her countless times in the past five years but she would never really let her in.

She pursed her lips and was about to speak when Queenie smiled. "Don't worry. The things inside will be yours sooner or later, but not now."

A hint of sadness flashed across her eyes every time she heard this.

When Nora heard this, she could not help but retort. "Since it will be mine sooner or later, why can't it be now?"

"Because it's noon."

Nora: "..."

Again.

Queenie, this indecent woman, always liked to tease her like this.

She grimaced. "Forget it if you don't want to let me in."

With that, she took the three little ones to their room.

When she learned that Nora had three children, Queenie got someone to renovate the house. The three children were still young and liked to live together. Therefore, Queenie burst open the room beside Cherry's and made one big room.

The three children lived together.

In a room more than a hundred square meters, there were only three beds. In the big room beside it was a children's amusement park with everything they could ask for.

There were childish games, Legos, and some smart games. Even Pete and Xander, two highly intelligent children, liked them very much.

Cherry was the only one playing with childish skateboards and stuff.

She was not stupid, but she was too lazy to think.

She even said forcefully, "A five-year-old should do what a five-year-old does. Brothers, if you have already learned everything, what will you learn when you grow up?"

Pete and Xander nodded in unison. "Sister is right!"

The corners of Nora's mouth twitched. These two kids and their sister complex... If she did not know that Cherry was a good-natured child, Nora would be worried that her family had raised a devil incarnate.

She walked the three children around the room and played with them the entire afternoon.

At night, after the three little ones went to sleep, Nora went to Queenie's room. She took out the V16 serum and handed it to Queenie. "Aunt, keep this safe for a month for me."

She had already asked Caleb. She would be able to Xander with the gene serum in a month.

Queenie casually took the thing in her hand and looked at it a few times. “This is what that group of people is fighting with you for, right?”

Nora nodded.

Queenie looked at her. “Do you trust me that much? Aren’t you afraid I could have gotten close to you just for this?”

Nora said seriously, “Aunt, there are two bottles here. If you got close to me for this, you can take one bottle and leave the other for Xander.”

Queenie was slightly stunned.

After a moment, she suddenly smiled. “You’re quite generous.”

She did not admit that she also wanted the serum. She did not deny it, either. However, it made Nora even more confused.

However, Nora did not probe further.

She had never probed too much about Queenie.

It was just like Justin. If Queenie was willing to tell her, she would do so. Nora would wait until that day.

At night, Nora slept her first good sleep since coming to Switzerland.

Ever since she brought the three little ones overseas, she had been guarding against Barbarian and Spacey.

She had expected that she would be exposed to Spacey’s vision the moment she stepped overseas. Although she could not guess how, she had nevertheless taken precautions.

Nora never underestimated any opponent.

In the end, she got both bottles.

The result of her scheming was that she had not slept well for a few days.

Therefore, she slept from eight the previous night to two the next afternoon for a total of 18 hours.

When she woke up, all her fatigue was gone.

Nora stretched before picking up her phone. She realized that there were a few missed calls on her phone. They were all from Tanya.

Tanya was living very happily with Joel in New York. Why would she suddenly call her?

Nora raised her eyebrows and called Tanya.

Tanya picked up quickly. “Nora, my father has something he wants to trouble you with. However, if his matter is very dangerous, you don’t have to promise him anything. I’ve already told him...”

Her father...

Nora had just woken up, so she took a while before reacting. Tanya’s father was... Karl Moore?

Why was he looking for her?

Could something be wrong with the Assassin Alliance?

Nora said, “Okay, I’ll contact him.”

After Karl’s identity as a police informant was exposed in the country, he chose not to stay.

After being in the underworld his entire life, he was already used to the underground life in Switzerland. Although he was reluctant to leave the country, he did not want to stay.

Therefore, he chose to go overseas. Nora understood why Tanya had called her. After all, he was Tanya’s father. If his life was in danger, she should help him.

However, what Tanya did not know was that Nora and Karl were also good friends. After all, she was the number one assassin in the Assassin Alliance, Black Cat.

Nora called Karl. He picked up quickly. “Hello, niece. Can you do me a favor?”

Nora: “... What favor?”

Karl seemed to find it a little difficult to explain. He suddenly asked, “By the way, have you watched the new movie, ‘Assassin Not Calm’?”

Nora: “???”

What the heck was this?

What did his need for a favor have to do with the movie?

Then, she heard Karl say, “That movie is about an actor acting as an assassin. Coincidentally, I encountered some trouble here and needed our Black Cat to make an appearance. However, I can’t contact Black Cat at all. Someone recommended that movie to me, so I came looking for you.”

Nora: “??”

Karl continued, “Do you know who Black Cat is? She’s the number one assassin in our Assassin Alliance, a world-famous personality. Um, we recently received a job to protect the Queen of the UK during an event. However, the other party specifically asked Black Cat to come personally... Black Cat is busy in New York, so she can’t come. Can you help me to put on a show?”

Nora: “?????”

Karl continued, “I originally wanted to call Tanya over, but she’s too hot-tempered. She doesn’t have the temperament of Black Cat at all. Then, I thought of you. You’re cold enough and cool enough. You’re very similar to Black Cat, so can you help me with this? By the way, this isn't dangerous. You just have to keep a straight face and not speak. You can even sleep."

The corners of Nora's lips spasmed.

Was Karl asking her to act as herself? Was he high...

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 883 - The Temperament Of Black Cat

Seeing that Nora was silent, Karl was afraid that she would disagree, so he explained further. “Don’t worry, we’ll protect you. We have many experts here. Actually, it would have been fine if Black Cat wasn’t around. However, Queenie heard about Black Cat’s reputation, so she specially requested Black Cat... You don’t have to do anything at all. Besides, the Queen is coming to Switzerland for a meeting this time. It doesn’t have to be too long. I’ll just delay you for three days...”

Nora: “...Since that’s the case, just explain the situation.”

Karl scratched his head. “Damn, I’ll tell you the truth. You might not know this but there’s an organization called the Hitman League in our industry. We’re rivals. All these years, because of Black Cat, the Hitman League has been suppressed by us. This time, besides her own guards, the Queen of the UK also invited some of us and some people from the Hitman League to guard her. The people from the Hitman League suggested your name. They even mockingly said, “Isn’t the Queen worth the appearance of Black Cat?” They’ve put us on fire. We can’t disrespect the Queen...”

Nora thought about the Queen’s character. She indeed wanted the best in everything. Since the Hitman League mentioned Black Cat, the queen must want Black Cat.

As a member of the Assassin Alliance, Nora had to consider matters for the Assassin Alliance, so after thinking for a moment, she said, “Alright.”

Karl was overjoyed. “Then I’ll send someone to pick you up? I’ll tell you about the habits and characteristics of Black Cat so that you won’t expose yourself in front of others. Besides, you’re the Big Sister of Quinn School of Martial Arts... You shouldn’t be afraid of anything in terms of martial arts...”

Nora nodded without much care. “Okay.”

Spacey was dead and Barbarian had fled outside.

Indeed, she had nothing to do now.

After hanging up, Karl was afraid that she would regret it and immediately sent someone to pick her up. Therefore, two hours later, Nora arrived at the headquarters of the Assassin Alliance.

SON

This was a basement. The light was dim.

Nora, as Black Cat, had been here before. At that time, she had asked Karl why he chose this place. The reason Karl gave was: the atmosphere here was strong.

For a killer association, black was the best color!

Nora was speechless about this but she respected Karl’s choice.

At this moment, she looked at Karl standing opposite to her and saw that he had already taken out a black cat face mask and handed it to her. “Hehe, Black Cat always wears a mask for the outside world. The only time she doesn’t wear a mask is when she assassinates someone. Therefore, everyone who knows what she looks like is dead. This also means that no one knows what Black Cat looks like. Therefore, it’s perfect for you to pretend to be her.”

He said with anticipation, “This is the mask that Black Cat left here. Put it on and see if the size is suitable... Oh, right, I’ll tell you about her habits. Black Cat keeps her hands in her pockets so that she can take out her concealed weapons at any time. And her back is always straight. As for her temperament...”

Karl scratched his head. “Her temperament is very mysterious. I can’t say for sure. Sigh, I can’t ask for your acting to be exactly similar... Put on the mask first. Let’s see...”

Along with this sentence, he saw Nora smile and put the mask on her face.

At that moment, Karl's eyes widened...

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 884 - The Little Princess Is Here Too

“You look like her! You look so much like her!”

Karl circled around Nora. “If I didn’t know who you were, I’d have been convinced that you were Black Cat.”

Nora: “...”

Actually, it wouldn’t hurt even if she told him the truth, but she was currently in the open while Barbarian and the rest were hidden in the dark. She didn’t want them to find out too many of her different identities.

Thus, she didn’t say anything.

After circling around her twice, Karl said to Black Panther, the assassin ranked second in the Assassin Alliance, standing next to him, “If anything happens, you are to handle it. Don’t let Ms. Smith do it, lest it expose her identity.”

Black Panther glanced up and down at Nora, curled his lips, and said, “Fine.”

Karl then smiled again. “But there’s no fear even if she has to fight. Ms. Smith is no delicate, sheltered young lady. She’s the Big Sister of Quinn School of Martial Arts in the States... Her moves are not any worse than Black Cat’s!”

Black Panther was not happy to hear that, though. He sneered and said, “Now, I don’t like the sound of that, Boss. How are her moves on par with Black Cat’s? Even if the two are more or less equals in their fighting abilities, Black Cat is still an assassin. She is an existence that people can’t even begin to guard against. If Black Cat and Ms. Smith have to face each other in a fight, Ms. Smith would probably be killed before she even realizes what's going on!"

"What nonsense are you saying?"

Karl gave Black Panther a push and then looked at Nora and apologized. "Don't take what he says to heart, Nora! Black Panther is a diehard fan of Black Cat and is a huge supporter of her. Don't hold it against him..."

Nora would never hold it against Black Panther, of course.

Because of her, Black Panther had even changed his codename as an assassin, saying that he wanted to be part of the same series as her. He even made a big hoo-ha about this in the Assassin Alliance, such that the codenames of all the members of the Assassin Alliance were now things like "Black Bear", "Black Ram", "Black Hound", and so on. The place had pretty much become a zoo of large black animals.

Nora nodded.

Only then did Karl breathe a sigh of relief.

Then, he spoke again. "Nora, don't mind me if I talk a bit more, okay? Uh, don't tell Tanya what I do outside of the States, all right...? She's a delicate and proper young lady raised in a well-to-do family. Let's just let her stay at home and try for a second child with peace of mind. Don't let her know what we men are doing outside, lest it worry her..."

Nora was surprised. "... She wants a second child?"

"Yeah!" Karl said, "When I was on a video call with her, she said that you have already given birth to three children while she has only one, so she must hurry to catch up with you and strive to have three children too!"

II

Nora's lip corners spasmed. Tanya probably wanted more children only because her relationship with Joel was really good!

But she kinda understood how she felt.

Neither Tanya nor Joel had many whom they truly considered their kin, so they must feel especially lonely.

She could still remember what Tanya had once said. She actually had a dream when she was a child: to have many children and treat them especially well.

Since she didn't have a mother who treated her kindly, she would give her children a good mother, instead.

At that time, Tanya and Joel had already broken up and she was living abroad.

Her only child had also gone missing.

Nora had asked her why she wasn't having children right away-after all, with another child, her guilt towards her missing child would lessen and she would also be able to start a new lease of life.

Tanya's answer at that time was that she hadn't yet met the person whom she was willing to bear children for.

Now that she had met Joel, Tanya must be planning to kick off her grand baby-making plans, right?

While she was thinking, Karl asked secretively, "By the way, you're a doctor, right? Do you have any way of helping Tanya have a multiple pregnancy?"

Nora: "?"

Karl sighed. "She's my only daughter; I don't have any descendants apart from her. In the past, I gave all the money I made to the people of the United States, only to find out in the end that Johnson had withheld all of it without authorization. All of it was recovered later, though, and Captain Ford of the special department has also returned it all to me. You can say that I am now a person with substantial financial assets, in which case I would need someone to inherit them, right? If Tanya can give birth to a few more children and let me pick one of them to take over my business, that alone would make me content!”

Nora’s lip corners spasmed. “How many are you planning for Tanya to have?”

“Two at the very least, I suppose. Mia is definitely not going to be suitable to take over my business. Besides, judging from the crazy extent of how much Joel dotes on and spoils her, he’s definitely going to want another child so that they can inherit the Smiths’ business and work to support Mia. In that case, Tanya would have to give birth to at least two more! Three would also do, but four is the most ideal!”

Nora: “!!”

Did that guy think Tanya was a sow?

And think that she could produce four in a litter?

The corners of her lips spasmed and she rolled her eyes, wondering to herself how come Karl had become so unreliable these days...

She didn’t entertain the topic any further but asked, “What is the route like for the security assignment this time?”

The Assassin Alliance’s front was actually a security agency, so they took on security management gigs for some events.

Upon Nora’s words, Karl finally came back to his senses. He explained, “I’ll give you a quick explanation about the job. We are protecting the Queen of the UK this time, but it’s not the Queen herself who engaged our services, It’s the Swiss authorities.”

Nora raised her brows.

Karl went on. “Her Majesty will be bringing her own guards while we are responsible for the security of the outer boundaries. By the way, I heard that Her Majesty brought a little princess with her. Her name seems to be Lucy? Didn’t she visit your home previously?”

Nora: “?”

Wasn’t she Cherry’s little buddy?

She was here too?

While Nora was thinking, Karl went on. “The Swiss authorities have not only hired us to protect Her Majesty but also approached the Hitman League. The workload is actually not a lot, but it’s a good opportunity for our company to do some publicity...”.

After going abroad this time, Karl had gradually cleaned up the company’s act.

Taking on assassination missions all the time would make the organization shadier and shadier. Now that he had a daughter, he wanted to make the organization a clean and aboveboard one.

This way, at least he wouldn’t be registered as a person banned from entering the country when he wanted to return to the United States to visit his daughter.

Of course...

Even if he used to be the local police’s informant, he was ultimately still an underground overlord now, so he would have to undergo strict checks when entering the country.

In other words, if Morris didn’t give the relevant authorities a heads-up, someone like Karl would not be allowed entry into the country at all.

American soldiers were all men of firm and unyielding character. They didn’t fear the Assassin Alliance at all.

Therefore, the organization would indeed have to take on security jobs from now on.

All the members of the organization were on board with it. Karl had also sent a message to Black Cat to notify her of it, and she had agreed to it as well. Therefore, everyone would be going into the light from now on.

After saying this, Karl took out a few photos. “By the way, this is a photo of the captain of the Queen’s personal bodyguards. Here, have a look. I heard he’s extremely formidable and mysterious, so let’s try our best not to get into a clash with him.”

Nora took the photo from Karl. She had only taken a glance when she froze.

She broke into a frown.

She had never imagined that this guy could turn out to be the captain of the Queen’s personal bodyguards?

Chapter 885 - King?

The captain of the guards was slender and the muscles on his body evenly-proportioned, making him look like someone not to be trifled with. His looks were finally revealed this time.

Likely of mixed descent, the man was very good-looking. It was just that he had red eyes, and it was exactly through those eyes that Nora had recognized him—he was Barbarian!!

Never could she have ever imagined that Barbarian would turn out to be the captain of the Queen's Royal Guards!

She broke into a frown, suddenly feeling like there seemed to be more to it than met the eye.

But when she thought about it, it made sense. For Barbarian to survive unharmed until now after he left the mysterious organization and became enemies with Trueman, he must have some kind of power backing him up.

But if the Queen of the UK was the said power, then it wouldn't be as surprising anymore.

Did Her Majesty know of Barbarian's true identity, though?

Did she know that he was a serial killer?!

Nora frowned as she thought of the Queen's personality and temperament...

Cherry and Princess Lucy had become close friends because Queenie had brought the former over and introduced her to Lucy. Additionally, the Queen also treated her extremely courteously.

Firstly, it was because she wanted Queenie to also establish a company like NTT in the UK -after all, one should not underestimate the power of capitalism in foreign countries. Secondly, it seemed that it was because she also wanted something from her.

What she wanted, though, was something Nora wouldn't know. All she knew was that there were a lot of connections between NTT and the British Royal Family.

When she thought about it that way, Nora couldn't help feeling like things had become complicated.

Just then, her cell phone rang.

Cherry's voice reached her from the other end when she answered.

“Mommy, Princess Lucy is in Switzerland. She said that she is here to attend a meeting between country leaders and that she also wants to visit Grand aunt Queenie. Do I let her know that I'm also here?”

Everyone already knew that they were in Switzerland by now, so there was no need for them to hide it anymore.

Besides...

Nora lowered her eyes.

She had only just entrusted the V16 to Queenie whose castle was an impregnable fortress. No matter how strong Barbarian was, he was still human with the limitations of a human's body. There was no way he could ever get in!

Yet at precisely a critical moment like this, the Queen of the UK had come with the little princess. On top of that, the princess even wanted to visit...

It was impossible not to read too much into it.

But since they were already here, then she would just take things as they came!

Nora replied, “Yeah, sure.”

“Okie-Dokie! I haven’t seen Lucy for the longest time too! I love you, Mommy-“

Cherry kissed her phone before she hung up excitedly, likely off to reply to Princess Lucy’s text messages.

Nora’s lips curled into a smile.

At this moment, Black Panther standing next to her suddenly spoke. “By the way, have you met Her Majesty before? Don’t you act like a bumpkin when you meet Her Majesty! You have to stay calm, you hear? You’re representing Black Cat now, you know! You mustn’t bring shame to her name!”

Nora: “!!!”

However, she ignored Black Panther and looked at Karl instead. She suddenly asked, “What is the Queen of the UK here in Switzerland for?”

Karl thought for a moment and then looked around before he got Black Panther to lead the others out of the room. Only then did he walk over to the door and glanced outside.

After seeing that no one was paying any attention to them, he even closed the windows and so on before he finally lowered his voice and said, “I asked around and found out some information, but you mustn’t spread it to outsiders, okay...?”

Nora nodded.

Karl said, “I heard that it’s because some people in Switzerland want to get acquainted with Mr. King, so they asked Her Majesty to introduce them to one another.”

His words made Nora’s eyes widen abruptly. “What?”

King was coming?

That very same... King from the Imperial League?!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 886 - Who'S The Eldest?

At the mention of King, Nora thought of how Old Maddy, before he left the United States, had once told her that she would not have any way of contending with the mysterious organization at all unless she had King's support.

She had privately sent text messages to King afterward, but because she was too lazy to foster a connection with him, it eventually went nowhere. Little did she expect that King would be coming to Switzerland?

Wouldn't she be seeing the legendary King soon too then?!

While thinking about it, Nora headed home. The Queen would only be here the next day. Karl originally wanted her to stay the night at the Assassin Alliance, but Nora had declined.

After all, she had three kids at home waiting for her!

She went straight home.

The three little fellows were playing together at home.

Cherry, who didn't have to attend school now, was gaming all she wanted.

Pete looked at her helplessly. He wanted to persuade her to study, but unfortunately for him, Cherry was paying him no attention whatsoever. As for Xander, he seemed to be playing with his cell phone indifferently as though he was trying to study and learn something on it.

When Nora got home, she saw the three little fellows playing separately on their own.

The moment she entered the room, Cherry looked up at her and immediately tossed her cell phone aside. She ran over, hugged her leg, and said, "Mommy, you're back? I missed you! Did you miss me?" Nora: "..."

W

Just like that, the scolding Nora was about to give upon seeing Cherry playing on her cell phone again was suppressed.

The little fellow knew how to deal with her simply too well.

Nora heaved a soundless sigh and ruffled her hair.

Cherry blinked with her dark grape-like eyes, and with great self-awareness, said, “Mommy, I’d only just started my first round when you came. I wasn’t playing at all till now! Really! You can ask Pete and Xander about it if you don’t believe me!”

Cherry blinked her eyes a couple of times at Pete and Xander after she spoke.

“... Yeah, she wasn’t playing,” said Xander.

Pete looked at Nora. The upright little guy didn’t want to lie to his mother, so he felt a little troubled and his face scrunched up.

When Queenie, who was next to him, caught a glimpse of his expression, she burst out laughing, which sort of rescued Pete from his dilemma. She remarked, “Your children have such distinct personalities.”

She pointed at Cherry and commented, “She’s a quick-witted little imp.”

Then, she pointed to Pete and commented, “This boy is already so calm and steady at his young age. He’s got a very strong sense of awareness of being the eldest.”

But as soon as she said that, Xander retorted indignantly, “I’m the eldest here!”

Pete looked at Xander and sighed. “Okay, okay, you’re the eldest. Don’t kick up a fuss with Grandaunt Queenie.”

Xander: “?”

What's up with that indulgent tone?

He sounded just like an elder brother tolerating his younger brother's tantrums!

Xander was about to erupt. "I'm telling the truth! I'm the eldest!"

"Mm-hmm, mm-hmm, everything you say is right," said Pete.

Xander: "..."

The little guy had always been sharp-tongued and eloquent with others, but why was he feeling like he was at a huge disadvantage when he was up against Pete's "good-natured and modest" personality?

It was as if he was the one being unreasonable and kicking up a fuss.

The corners of Xander's lips spasmed. He sneered and said, "Fine, whoever has the higher IQ between the two of us would be the eldest. How does that sound?"

Pete replied, "Okay."

Xander looked straight at the book in his hand and said, "Then let's compete using Mathematical Olympiad problems?"

Pete replied, "Sure, I'm okay with them all. It's also okay if we don't compete."

Xander: "!!!"

Seeing that Xander was already all bent out of shape, Pete blinked a couple of times with his dark eyes.

Chapter 887 - We Had Already Met A Long Time Ago!

Earlier, he had been having a dispute with Xander over who was elder between the two, but later, his mommy had said that whoever was calmer, steadier, and more tolerant of their younger siblings would be the elder brother. It was at that time that Pete had suddenly understood the true meaning of being an elder brother.

And wasn't that so? Look at how he had shut up Xander who was smart-mouthed and liked insulting others.

Seeing how calm and unperturbed he was, Xander looked at Cherry. The little girl had already taken advantage of the quarrel between the two boys to pick up her cell phone and had started another fierce and exciting team battle.

Xander asked, "Cherry, who is the elder brother here?"

Cherry didn't even look up. "You are both my elder brothers!"

"No," Xander said, "You have to say who your eldest brother is!"

Nora was a little troubled by the dispute between the two boys.

The problem was, even as their mother, she couldn't even give an answer, either.

Upon being pressed for an answer by Xander, Cherry blinked and looked up. "Actually, Pete has always been the eldest to me~"

As soon as she said that, Xander's eyes turned red. "How can you say that?!"

Compared to Xander, Pete was calmer and steadier. On top of that, he gave in to her all the time and even planned everything out for her, so Cherry had long since considered Pete the eldest among them.

As for Xander, because of the environment he was brought up in, he had a very extreme personality, and the way he behaved and handled things seemed a little frivolous. Although Cherry regarded him as her elder brother too, she still found Pete more like the elder brother between the two.

Could she say that, though?

Most certainly not.

Thus, Cherry blinked and sighed. “It’s because Pete and I met each other first, Xander. That’s why I think he’s the elder brother between the two of you!”

Since she couldn’t say it was a personality issue, Cherry simply diverted the topic to whom she had met first.

As soon as she said that, Xander became worked up and he shouted, “But we clearly knew each other first!”

Cherry was taken aback. “Huh? How did we know each other first?”

Xander was livid. “Have you forgotten? I already had you on Facebook Messenger a long time ago!”

Then, to prove that he had known Cherry before Pete, Xander took out his cell phone, opened up Messenger, and showed it to Cherry. He asked, “Do you remember now?”

Cherry: “!!”

She blinked and looked at Xander again. “Oh, I see, so you’re that friend I made online!”

Upon the sudden realization, Cherry remarked, “No wonder I found you so annoying the first time I met you! So that’s why!”

Xander: "..."

But right after she spoke, Cherry held her hands over her mouth. Why did she blurt out the truth in a moment of agitation? She was too much! That must have seriously hurt Xander's self-esteem.

In an attempt to make amends, Cherry added, "From the looks of it, it seems that we are really meant to be! You can be the eldest, then!"

Cherry then turned to Pete and asked, "Pete, you won't mind, right?"

Pete continued to wave magnanimously and replied, "Nah, I don't. It's fine, we'll just go with whatever you guys say."

Xander: "!!!"

Nora, who was at the side: "..."

Xander was about to die of aggravation from that pair of siblings.

Come to think of it, though, Pete and Cherry had gone through more together. Take, for example, how the two had to worry over their respective parent's issues when they had only just met. In addition to that, the two of them had also deceived her and Justin for a really long time...

It was perfectly normal for the two of them to share a close relationship with each other.

It was just that...

Afraid that Xander would become too mad, Nora changed the subject and asked curiously, "How did the two of you meet?"

Chapter 888 - The Mysterious Organization'S Headquarters

Nora was asking purely to divert Xander's attention from the conflict.

Little Xander was already close to snapping, no thanks to the pair of siblings' attitudes.

Cherry was worthy of her title as the thoughtful and understanding little baby, indeed. She instantly understood what Nora was trying to do and immediately said, "He showed up as a friend suggestion from 'nearby search' on my phone! Mommy, do you remember when Grandaunt Queenie took me to visit the British royal family? I had just gotten my cell phone and installed a messenger app back then and I really wanted to add some friends to it. So I looked at the list of friend suggestions from 'nearby search' and added Xander! This is such a fateful meeting!"

After speaking, Cherry walked up to Xander and grabbed his hand. "As it turns out, we had already met each other so long ago, Xander!"

Sure enough, Xander was appeased. He snorted and said, "Yeah, I knew there was no way I could have been so kind to a snotty little kid for no reason. So, I guess you can say that this is predestined!"

Cherry nodded repeatedly. "So, can I continue with my game now?"

The team battle had already started. If she kept dallying further, her teammates would be chewing her out real soon!

Xander: "...."

The three little guys reconciled and continued to play in peace. Nora sat beside Queenie and watched them.

As she did, she thought of what Cherry had said just now, connected it with the environment in which Xander had been brought up, and all of a sudden, she jumped onto her feet.

Her brows drew together and she looked at Xander in astonishment and asked, “Xander, Cherry. Are you guys sure that Cherry only added Xander as a friend when she was visiting the British royal family and looking at the list of suggested friends nearby?”

Xander shook his head. “How would I know where she had added me?”

He had grown up in a basement and had never gone out before, so he didn’t know where that place was at all.

Cherry nodded. “Yes, I remember it really clearly. When I was playing games that time, Chesty had told me to get a Facebook account so that it would be easier for him to get in touch with me. That was why I had registered for a Facebook account. But I didn’t have any friends in it, so I added someone from the list of nearby people at that time... I was with Princess Lucy then!”

Nora: “!!!”

She looked at the two of them. Suddenly, she turned around, left the living room, and went up the stairs into her room.

Then, she picked up her cell phone and made a call to Morris. Morris answered very quickly. “Is something up?”

Nora kept quiet for a while before she suddenly asked, “Didn’t you say that you have been looking for the mysterious organization’s location? Have you found any leads?”

Morris’s low and deep voice traveled through the cell phone to Nora. He replied, “No, our opponents are too powerful. We can’t find any clues at all.”

After staying quiet for a while, Nora finally asked, “Could it be the British royal family’s residence?”

Her words stunned Morris for a moment, but immediately after, he said, “No wonder, then!”

Security at the royal palace was strict. There was no way the Americans would be able to infiltrate the place.

If the mysterious organization really was hiding underground beneath the royal palace, then it would indeed be impossible for the United States to sniff out their base.

Morris frowned. “I’ll get my men to look into it.”

“Okay.”

After hanging up the phone, Nora frowned and wondered. If the mysterious organization really turned out to be located beneath the Royal Palace, then is the Queen involved or not?

She had a vague feeling that the whole thing would be coming to an end soon.

At this moment, her cell phone suddenly rang. When she answered, Karl’s voice traveled over.

“Dammit, there’s a traitor in the Assassin Alliance. They told the Hitman League that this Black Cat is a fake! What are we going to do now?”

Karl was furious. “The Hitman League will definitely make things difficult for you. Also, if the news spreads that you are a copycat, it will deal a terrible blow to the Assassin Alliance’s reputation. How about this: why don’t you sit it out this time? We’ll also give up the security gig this time!”

Toward the end, Karl’s voice had even died down and he became rather depressed.

The job this time was not only a great opportunity for the Assassin Alliance to officially make their existence public but it was also the best time for Karl to partner with the government and let the company start over with a clean slate. Who knew when their next opportunity would be if they let it slip by them this time...

However, he couldn't put Nora in danger.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 889 - Blowing Her Own Cover: I Am Black Cat

No matter how highly Karl valued the opportunity, he simply couldn't let Nora take such a risk.

Even though he and Ian always bickered the moment they saw each other, deep down, they still greatly admired and respected each other. Putting aside the fact that he and Ian both held each other in high esteem, just the relationship between Tanya and Nora alone was already...

Karl thought of how Tanya had reacted when he called to ask her to get in touch with Nora for him. His daughter had kept asking things like: "Is it dangerous?", "Are you sure it won't be dangerous?", "Is there no danger at all?", and so on. Karl had guaranteed that he would never let Nora get even a scratch in the incident.

Now that things had turned out like this, who knew what the Hitman League might do to them?

If Nora got hurt, how was he going to answer to his daughter?

Therefore, after weighing the pros and cons, Karl decided that he'd rather miss the opportunity to clean up the company's act and go into the light than risk having anything happen to Nora.

But unexpectedly, when he was about to hang up the phone, Nora instead said, "No, it's fine. The mission will continue as planned!"

Karl was surprised. "What?"

"All right, that settles it. See you tomorrow."

After hanging up the phone, Nora played with the three little fellows for a while and then went to bed early at eight o'clock in the evening.

Cherry and Pete had long since become accustomed to her going to bed early, but Xander felt that his mommy wasn't spending enough time with him and he still wanted to play some more with Nora.

Even if Nora didn't say anything but just patted his head, he still felt especially happy.

But the woman was now lying there motionless and had gone into a deep sleep after just a mere two minutes. He curled his lips unhappily and muttered with discontent, "How come she sleeps so much?"

Cherry continued gaming without even raising her head as she replied, "Geniuses need a lot of sleep!"

The moment she said that, Pete nodded in agreement.

In the game, Chester was also very approving of the statement. He said, "Yeah, come to think of it, Justin always slept more than others since he was a child. He needed nine hours of sleep a day. Later, when my father scolded me for being such a bum and told me to learn from Justin, I also started to sleep nine hours a day."

Cherry was surprised. "And then?"

Chester replied, "He slept for nine hours a day, so I also slept for nine hours a day. Justin didn't fold the quilt, so I also didn't fold the quilt. After he woke up, he started to study, so I watched him study. He was terrifying once he started studying; sometimes, he could even study for a whole day! I was also very impressive-I could watch him for a whole day! And now I can also play games an entire day!"

The three little ones: "..."

Chester grinned and said, "But it's fine. I'm just an ordinary person, so it's not really an issue. Look at how busy Justin was... Besides, smart people have to shoulder a lot of responsibilities. He took over the family business when he was only 18, unlike me, who can still afford to be here and play games, even though I'm already 22 years old. Right?"

Pete: "..."

Xander: "..."

The two had no way of refuting him.

As for Cherry, her eyes widened and a longing look appeared on her face. She said, "Wow! I'm so envious, Chesty! I will also work hard like you in the future!"

"If my brothers sleep for ten hours a day, then I will also try my best to sleep ten hours a day! If they work hard to eat, then I will also eat lots of meat and grow up quickly! Pete and Xander, the two of you gotta study hard, okay? I will also work hard to play my games!"

After speaking, she turned to look at Pete and Xander and held up her little fists at them. "I'm cheering for you, Pete and Xander~"

Pete: "..."

Xander: "..."

Chester finally understood how dire the consequences of his words were.

If Justin found out that he had led his little niece astray, he would probably jump out of his grave and beat him up, right?

At the thought of Justin, Chester's heart sank.

Chester's father was Justin's fourth uncle and the youngest son in the family. He grew up with a lifestyle of eating, drinking, and making merry. His mother hated how his father was always just mucking around like that, so she had put high hopes on him after she gave birth to him.

The elderly Mrs. Hunt treated all the kids in the family equally. Roger, who was the son of Mrs. Hunt's second son, graduated from a prestigious university and later joined the company. He was certainly capable, but unfortunately, his heart wasn't in the right place. Moreover, he even sabotaged them in all sorts of ways, which ended up in him being completely kicked out of the picture by Justin. Regardless, Roger was indeed talented.

Brenda, the daughter of Mrs. Hunt's third son, didn't even need any elaboration. A graduate of a prestigious university, she was not only part of the Interpol but had even risen up the ranks to take the position of captain. Her ability was evident. The hard work that Brenda had put in since she was a child was also obvious to all.

He was the only one who liked gaming. However, neither Mrs. Hunt nor his mother had been approving of it.

In the end, it was thanks to Justin, who took care of him, that he could be this carefree, playing games every day and doing what he liked while receiving dividends from the family business.

When he thought of this, Chester got into a bad mood.

Why did someone like Justin have to die?

Moreover, Justin had disliked him playing games with Cherry the most when he was alive. Thus, Chester immediately said, "You mustn't learn from me, you hear?!"

"Why?" asked Cherry.

It would do as long as her two brothers worked hard. Wasn't it good for her to just grow up happily?

Even though Pete would also try to persuade her to study, Cherry still thought that it was more fun to enjoy herself and have fun instead –

Xander was very easygoing about it-after all, his personality was half-orthodox and half-heretical, in the first place. In order to coax Cherry into agreeing that he was the elder brother of the two, he patted his little chest and said, "Well, don't worry. Only your big brother here needs to work hard. You can just be one happy little sister!"

Just as Cherry was about to break into a smile, Chester heaved a quiet sigh and said, “But if you do that, in the future, everyone will definitely say that Nora is a failure.”

The three children were very protective of their mommy. Upon hearing what he said, Cherry and Xander immediately asked:

“Why?”

“Why?”

The two looked at Pete in unison after they spoke, only to see him frowning, obviously aware of the reason. He answered, “Because you’re the only one who grew up by Mommy’s side after we were born. If both Xander and I make a name for ourselves in the future, whereas all you know is having fun, they won’t say that it’s because the two of us are pampering you. They will only say, ‘See? As expected, the child that Mommy brought up is no good, after all!’”

As soon as he said that, the room fell silent.

On the phone, Chester also said, “It’s exactly as Pete says. You should also know that there are a ton of busybodies whose tongues love to waggle here in New York City. They simply love making a show out of other people’s lives! In the future, when Pete and Xander have both become successful and they become so envious that they are filled with jealousy, they aren’t going to talk about how impressive your brothers are but only about how inferior you are! And then, they will blame it all on Nora!”

Cherry tilted her head. It was evident from her big dark eyes that she was thinking about something

After a while, she sighed and said, “Okay, I get it~!”

Suddenly, she felt like her game wasn’t that fun anymore.

She put down her cell phone and said, “Chesty, I’m not playing anymore. I’m going to study!”

Chester: “?”

He hurriedly shouted, “Hey, at least finish this round before you go!”

Cherry shook her head. “Nah, I’m not playing anymore. I have to make sure I do what I say! Before I become accomplished, I’m never playing games again!”

Chester: “!!”

Had he known, he would have said those things after the round, instead!

Early next morning, Nora felt like things were a little strange at home.

She went down the stairs. It was only when she was observing the room while she ate that she realized that her daughter, whose cell phone was never out of her hands, was currently reading a book about Mathematical Olympiad problems. She asked, “Pete, what is this question talking about?”

Pete was about to answer when Xander, who was next to them, squeezed his way in and said, “Here, I’ll teach you.”

“Okie-Dokie.”

Pete: “...”

Nora: “??”

She rubbed her eyes, wondering if she had gotten out of bed the wrong way today.

Why were things so strange?! Her daughter had previously shown some symptoms of ADHD because of her high IQ, but with her two sons teaching her, she was actually faring much better.

As such, Nora did not overly interfere.

Justin and their two sons all pampered Cherry and thought that it was fine as long as she grew up happily. However, Nora didn't agree. Being a woman herself, compared to that, she would rather her daughter be strong with a passion for life.

After all, she wasn't going to live with her brothers her entire life. The only person one could rely on was themselves.

Therefore, no matter the reason for her daughter's sudden diligence, she was very glad.

After breakfast, she exchanged hugs with the three little ones and kissed each of them on the forehead. Only then did she leave and head to the Assassin Alliance.

But when she entered the basement, she found that no one there showed any indication of moving out.

Nora raised her eyebrows. When she reached Karl's room, she saw the mafia boss sitting on a chair with a troubled look on his face.

Nora frowned and asked, "Why haven't you set off yet?"

Karl sighed. "I've thought about it all night. Let's not go anymore. You are more important than all of this. Tanya and Old Ian will probably give me a real thrashing if you lose even a strand of hair."

Nora: "..."

She said with certainty, "It will be fine."

"How can that be? I know you're the Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts and that you're very skilled at fighting, but assassination is different from open and aboveboard martial arts factions like yours. In particular, the Quinn School of Martial Arts' moves are all candid and forthright, they don't understand tricks and conspiracies at all. Although the Hitman League won't dare to go too far, they will definitely try to sound us out. Unless Black Cat is there personally, no one can guarantee your safety.”

Seeing that Karl was staying so stubborn, Nora knew that he was worried about her safety.

She sighed. Now that things had come to this, she didn't want to hide it from him anymore either, so she simply blew her own cover and said, “I'm Black Cat.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 890 - She'S Fake!

The man opposite her fell silent at once. A while later, Karl finally coughed and spoke again. “Actually, what you say makes sense too. Um, are you sure you want to go?”

Nora was a little surprised to see that the man wasn't actually that agitated. However, Karl was a worldly man after all, so Nora thought that he must have already guessed a thing or two long ago. Thus, she said, “Yeah, let's go.”

“Whew!” Karl stood and patted her on the shoulder. “Okay then. Uncle Karl owes you one, Nora! If we can get away with it, I'll give you a big gift. If not, we'll pull out halfway through, no matter what happens. Remember, nothing is more important than your safety, okay?” Nora: “?”

Why did she feel like she didn't quite understand what Karl was saying?

While she was contemplating, Karl said, “But you sure are a dedicated one, Nora. It's a shame that you're not in the acting industry. It's right for you to start getting into it right away, though. It's only when we all firmly believe that you're Black Cat that they won't be able to spot any flaws! After all, no one has ever seen what Black Cat really looks like!”

Nora: “!”

So, despite her already blowing her cover, Karl still didn't believe her?

Nora's lip corners spasmed. “I really am Black Cat.”

“I know, I know! From this moment on, you are Black Cat!”

Karl had “I understand” written all over him.

Nora: “...”

Forget it, she had already told him the truth anyway. The man could believe what he liked.

She was tired of explaining!

Karl didn't give her the time to explain any further, either. He called someone in and instructed, "Have the men get ready, and then we can set off!"

Black Panther, who had just entered, glanced at Nora and asked, "It's okay for us to move out again now?"

With a stern look, Karl said, "Watch the way you talk! You'd better show some respect to Black Cat! Also, tell all the men in the know that Ms. Smith is Black Cat!"

Black Panther nodded. "Yes, sir."

Then, he went out. A short while later, all twenty of them were ready to move. They were responsible this time for picking up the Queen at the airport and then escorting her to the hotel where she would be staying. After that, they were to protect the Queen and ensure her safety for the next three days.

Of course, the Queen's personal guards would be the ones protecting her in close proximity; they were only responsible for the security of the periphery.

With the Queen visiting, the Swiss president would have to meet with her. The two would also be shaking hands and discussing matters. During this period, they would be responsible for part of the security work. The specifics were wholly arranged by Switzerland's Federal Department of Defence, Civil Protection, and Sport; commonly abbreviated DDPS.

After the twenty of them were ready, Karl stepped forward and said to Nora, "Black Cat is the strongest member of our organization, so you'll undoubtedly be the leader when we head out for missions. Do you have any experience with the security industry?"

But after he asked the question, without even waiting for Nora to answer, he hurriedly comforted her and said, “Don’t be scared, you don’t have to panic. You’re just the leader on the surface. I will get Black Panther to secretly assist you, so you’ll only be the commander on the surface. In reality, all orders will be issued by Black Panther.”

SE

Just like that, the words “Yes, I have” on the tip of Nora’s tongue became stuck.

The corners of her lips spasmed and she said, “... Okay.”

The group set off with mighty momentum.

Out of the twenty of them, fifteen rode in black cars. With each five sharing a car, a total of three cars were deployed. As for the remaining five, they rode motorcycles.

As the commander, Nora would most certainly have to ride a motorcycle. After all, motorcycles were more convenient and they also allowed one to have a better understanding of the surroundings, which would help her in making appropriate judgments.

Black Panther also rode a motorcycle.

The five of them put on identical black uniforms. Then, Nora put on her mask while Black Panther took out his sunglasses and put them on. He looked at Nora contemptuously and said, “Can you ride a motorcycle? If not, you can ride one of the cars. You’re a girl anyway, so it would make sense even if you’re in the car.”

But as soon as he spoke, he saw that Nora was not paying him any attention at all. Instead, she put on her mask and got onto the motorcycle skillfully. Her slender leg struck and pushed the kickstand up. Then, her hand wrapped in a black glove twisted the handlebar and the motorcycle’s engine roared to life.

“Let’s move out!”

Following her order, the motorcycle sped out with a whoosh, leaving behind only a cloud of dust for Black Panther.

Black Panther: “...”

Black Panther hurriedly got on his own motorcycle and went after her.

Five motorcycles and three black cars headed to the airport with great momentum. Sometime during the journey, Black Panther accelerated and caught up with Nora.

When he was about to say something, Nora suddenly accelerated and overtook him. Black Panther: “??”

Why did he feel like he had been rejected?

Nora certainly was rejecting his presence—he talked too much! Moreover, Black Panther had a habit of chewing gum when he was on a mission and the sight of his mouth constantly moving got on her nerves.

The group arrived at the DDPS and reported for duty.

The DDPS staff members began to check their identities.

Nora didn’t have to worry about that, though, because Karl had already prepared an ID card for her.

The Minister heading the DDPS picked up her ID card and glanced at it. Just as he was about to let her pass, a voice reached them.

“Mr. Clifford, are you sure she is Black Cat?”

Clifford was a little taken aback by the question.

Nora looked behind to see a group of ten people dressed the same as them walking over.

At the sight of them, Black Panther explained softly, “They are members of the Hitman League. The one in the lead is their captain for this operation, his name is Abbott. He likes talking trash and his looks make one feel like beating him up.”

Nora: “...”

Actually, she felt that Black Panther’s way of speech kinda made one want to beat him up too, but she didn’t say anything.

When Clifford heard Abbott, he asked bemusedly, “What are you trying to say?”

Abbott smiled and came up to Nora. He circled around her twice and then said, “Mr. Clifford, we are here to protect the Queen, you know. Are you sure you want to let her wear a mask here? Aren’t you afraid that she may be a copycat?”

Clifford smiled and replied, “Black Cat is very well-known in both the world of assassins and the DDPS. Besides, how would someone from the Assassin Alliance possibly be a copycat?”

Abbott laughed and said, “Then I’ll show you how she’s a copycat!”

Practically right after he spoke, Abbott went for Nora’s face.

He had already received reliable information that Karl had found a copycat to impersonate Black Cat. Since she was just pretending, her fighting skills must not be much.

If he took off her mask in front of Clifford, he would be able to show him Black Cat’s fighting skills, or lack thereof. With that, her identity as a copycat would be exposed.

“Look out!”

Black Panther cried out but it was still too late.

Who would have thought that the man would suddenly attack when they had only just met?

Abbott's hand was already around Nora's mask. The moment he applied a bit of force, he would be able to remove it. With a smile, he asked, "Are Black Cat's moves this lousy?"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 891 - Are You Sure You Want To See It?

At the sight of the situation, Black Panther was filled with chagrin.

Never would he have thought that Abbott would have the guts to launch an attack right in front of Clifford!

Neither did he expect Abbott to move so fast, either. It seemed that the Hitman League had been hiding their true strength when the two were up against each other in the past.

The Hitman League was a gang with a long history, after all, it was founded earlier than the Assassin League. It was no wonder that they had a more robust foundation, as well as more powerful hitmen unknown to others.

It was also no wonder that they would have the guts to challenge and provoke Black Cat.

Even so...

Black Panther couldn't help but look at Nora. Didn't they say that she was the Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts? Why had she been restrained so easily? If it was Black Cat, there definitely wouldn't have been any problems!

As Black Panther thought about it, faint anger came over his face, and he said furiously, "You are so shameless, Abbott! You attacked your own allies?!"

Black Panther then turned to Clifford and said, "Mr. Clifford, are you going to condone Abbott's actions? Black Cat came here overnight from the United States on our request, you know. She hasn't slept a wink since last night. Isn't it understandable that her reaction would be a little slow today?"

Besides, who would have thought that he would launch a sneak attack right in front of you?”

Clifford also broke into a frown and looked at Abbott. “What are you doing, Abbott? The two of you are allies in this operation! Why did you attack Black Cat as soon as you came over? You’re being very antagonistic.”

Abbott replied, “Mr. Clifford, I was just wondering if we should let someone else take over the command for this operation? The Hitman League’s momentum may not have been as strong as Black Cat’s from the Assassin Alliance during the past two years, but you’ve already witnessed my abilities today.

“Besides, considering how ‘Black Cat’ here was restrained so easily, even if she really is Black Cat, can you trust her abilities? In this industry, the strong have the final say.”

Clifford’s brows drew together at once.

He looked at Nora again, a touch of doubt also coming over his face.

After all, while it was certainly true that Abbott had launched a sneak attack just now, in their industry, who could say for sure that no one among their peers had been bought by the enemy?

Because of that, there were extremely demanding requirements on one’s abilities as an individual.

Moreover, the government had only deployed 30 people from the two organizations for this operation because they simply did not have enough manpower, and all 30 of them had already agreed that Black Cat would be the one in charge of their deployment.

After all, Black Cat’s status in the hitmen world was among the highest.

However, for her to be restrained by another party at such close range, was Black Cat really as strong as the stories claimed? Or was it really like what Abbott had claimed—the person in front of him was not Black Cat?

Hesitance came over Clifford's countenance.

Black Panther said firmly, "Heh, even tigers doze off at times, let alone humans? Abbott, don't you go too far now!"

Abbott smirked and said, "I don't care, I will only bow down to the strong. So, tell me, Black Panther: is it Black Cat who is lacking in vigilance? Or is this person here not Black Cat at all?"

Black Panther: "!!"

As an assassin, it was simply humiliating to be labeled as lacking in vigilance!

Yet, if he were to answer that Nora was not Black Cat, it would mean that the Assassin Alliance was deceiving the DDPS. If that happened, it would become even harder for them to obtain good resources in Switzerland's security industry in the future.

Black Panther glared at Abbott furiously. Just as he was about to speak, Nora, who had stayed silent all this time, suddenly said, "Who are you calling an assassin lacking in vigilance?"

As soon as she spoke, Abbott smirked and answered, "You, of course. It's rumored that those who have seen your face are all dead. I'm already about to take off your mask, yet you still haven't noticed at all. Is this not proof that you're lacking in vigilance? Besides, the way I see it, all that talk about how everyone who has seen your face is dead must all just be rumors, right? The Assassin Alliance sure knows how to generate buzz for themselves. They make it sound so real that it's as though it's legit..."

He had only just said that when he suddenly heard a low chuckle.

Abbott was taken aback. The next moment, the masked woman said icily in a low voice, "Oh? Then try taking off my mask."

Her words made Abbott dumbfounded.

He broke into a frown and said, “Heh, are you still talking big even at this point, Black Cat? Well, since you’ve given me the permission to take off your mask, then I will do just that and show everyone what a stunner Black Cat really is!”

Immediately after he spoke, he gripped the mask to rip it off.

But the next moment, he found that he couldn’t exert any force in his hand at all!

Stunned, he lowered his head. It was only then that he discovered that stuck into the underside of his wrist, outside of his sight, was a silver needle gleaming with subtle light.

It was exactly this needle that had prevented Abbott’s hand from exerting even the slightest bit of force.

Abbott was stunned.

Seeing that Abbott wasn’t doing anything despite his big talk, the rest all looked at him

-only to see him standing where he was, beads of cold sweat forming on his forehead, yet his hand showed no further signs of moving

Only then did they follow his line of sight and finally spot the needle.

Additionally, they also noticed that Nora’s other hand was on Abbott’s chest.

At first glance, they thought that she had recovered and was intending to push him away.

But if one looked closer, they would see that there was another barely discernible needle in between the fingers of Nora’s fist, and it was pointed right at Abbott’s heart.

With just a little force, the needle would quietly pierce his heart without anyone even realizing it.

e even

Nora's icy voice resounded in everyone's ears.

"I told you, everyone who has seen my face is dead. So, do you still want to see it?"

For no reason whatsoever, her words carried a sense of ferocity and domineeringness!

It shocked and awed everyone present.

Abbott didn't dare to move.

When Clifford, who was next to him, saw this, he breathed a sigh of relief.

He had finally witnessed Black Cat's ability to take someone's life without making a sound.

Moreover, with just a mere silver needle, she could take someone's life without them even realizing it. This was simply too horrifying!

Clifford's attitude toward Black Cat underwent a huge change at once. He said, "Please don't be mad. Abbott just likes to trash-talk. We have to work together to protect the Queen in this operation. Everyone here wants to serve the country, so let's not fuss over these things anymore. Black Cat, can you forgive Abbott this once?"

Nora didn't really take Abbott seriously.

The man could somewhat be considered a chivalrous hitman.

The assassination missions he took on all targeted bad guys... So he was quite famous in the hitmen community.

Of course, this was also the reason why the Swiss authorities were willing to accept them.

Neither of the hitmen organizations was made up of heinous miscreants. Now that they wanted to clean up their act, the government was more than happy to see this through. Which was why they had given them this opportunity.

Thus, upon hearing what Clifford said, with a flip of Nora's slender fingers, the silver needle disappeared.

Then, she took a step back and put some distance between Abbott and herself.

With her intimidating murderous intent gone, Abbott finally breathed a sigh of relief.

He stared at the masked woman in front of him and said, "Just you wait. I will definitely find proof that you are not Black Cat!"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 892 - Security Work

Nora didn't pay any more attention to Abbott. After the identity check, she went to the specified assembly point with Black Panther and the others.

They were planning to head to the airport in a while to pick up the Queen.

After leaving Abbott, Black Panther came up to her and said, "Ahem. You unexpectedly have some pretty good moves."

Nora raised her brows. But before she could speak, Black Panther spoke again. "Don't get ahead of yourself, though. Black Cat is definitely better than you. All that would be no big deal for Black Cat. Also, keep quiet when they start talking about troop deployment, formations, and all that. I will give the directions, instead."

"... Oh, okay," Nora said.

Soon, the ten people on Abbott's side finished the identity checks. The 30 of them then followed the Swiss troops, and with great momentum, got ready to set off for the airport.

Before they set off, Clifford said, "Please turn off your cell phones and turn them in."

One was not allowed to carry their cell phone on missions. This was a rule.

Nora understood.

Thus, she didn't plan on asking for special privileges, and she took out her cell phone. However, when she was about to turn it in, it started ringing.

She gestured to Clifford.

Clifford immediately nodded and permitted her to answer the call. Had it been anyone else, he would definitely have been much stricter, but she was Black Cat, after all. On top of that, she had even displayed a bit of her skill just now, so Clifford was quite afraid of her at the moment.

Nora picked up the phone call—it was Cindy, the lady helping her look after her houses in the residential district.

“Ms. Nora, something’s come up. Just thought I’d inform you about it.”

Nora raised her brows. “What happened?”

Cindy replied, “It’s all Liam’s fault!”

Liam? In other words, Spacey?

Wasn’t he already dead?

While Nora was wondering about it, Cindy said huffily, “That Liam is such an as*hole! Do you know? He gave Rene’s address to her family before he set off! And her family found their way here yesterday! They were crazily fierce and forcibly took Rene away...”

Nora lowered her eyes.

She remembered looking into Rene before. She was an orphan taken in by her adoptive parents. However, her adoptive father had abused and even raped her. When her adoptive mother saw what had happened, not only did she not hold her adoptive father responsible but she had even given Rene a beating. That was how Rene had become the way she was.

After leaving them and living with Liam recently, Rene’s condition had improved.

It was just that Liam was simply too nasty. After making use of her, he pushed her right back in there?

However, Rene was just a stranger to her.

Nora was not a saint. Without saying anything else, she prompted, “Uh-huh, and then?”

Rene was mentally ill, so in the eyes of the law, she was deemed legally incapacitated and was required to have a guardian. Her adoptive parents were her legal guardians.

Therefore, legally, there was no problem with them taking Rene away.

Cindy said angrily, “I didn’t stop them because I thought they were legally allowed to take her, but I didn’t expect things to go so wrong today! They live relatively far away, so they didn’t go home immediately after they took her yesterday; they instead went to a hotel nearby. That night, when her adoptive father was about to violate her again, her adoptive mother found out and they got into a fight. The man killed her adoptive mother and was about to kill her too, but he was arrested by the police in time. Poor Rene, there were injuries all over her. She has been sent to the hospital, but because she has no other relatives, the police contacted me when they found out that she is my tenant. Boss, I’d like to bring her back.”

Cindy had always been a kind woman.

Back when she was in a desperate situation, Nora had helped her out. Because of this, she also tried to help her fellow Americans as much as she could.

In the past, Cindy would never have reported something like this to her, but because it involved Liam, she had brought it up.

Nora answered indifferently, “You can do as you wish.”

And then, she hung up.

After that, the group set off for the airport.

Nora rode a motorcycle this time too.

She vaguely heard Abbott instructing his subordinates next to him, “Be alert and smart about things. That’s the Queen, you know. If our performance satisfies the Queen, things will go very smoothly for us when we go to the UK in the future. In fact, if we work harder, we can even become members of the Queen's personal guard."

His subordinates replied, "Yes, sir."

Nora glanced at Abbott.

Black Panther curled his lips. Through the walkie-talkie, he asked Nora, "Do you think the Queen will think highly of him?"

To be honest, it went without saying that all of them hoped to excel and stand out in this security operation.

Nora answered with great certainty, "No, she won't."

"I didn't think so, either. Even if someone does impress her, it will likely be someone from the Assassin Alliance. After all, we have the trump card- Black Cat!"

For once, Black Panther didn't diss her. Nevertheless, he still asked, "Why do you think that's the case?"

"... Because he is ugly," Nora answered.

Abbott was not a good-looking man.

But the Queen of the UK... Heh, she was someone who liked good-looking people.

Unattractive people would never catch her fancy.

At the thought of the Queen, Nora couldn't help but curl her lips disdainfully.

Queenie's business was often involved with the British Royal Family. The Queen was acquainted with her, and on top of that, she had been trying to invite her to expand her business into the UK all this time. If she could get NTT to expand operations into the UK, it would bring a huge fortune to the country.

Thus, the Queen often invited Queenie to various banquets.

Nora had attended a few of them.

But her personality clashed with the Queen's.

The two didn't like each other.

If it weren't because Cherry got along relatively well with Princess Lucy, and her daughter only had that one friend, Nora wouldn't even want to meet the Queen at all.

Later, it was Queenie who took Cherry to the UK instead of her, and she never went there ever again.

Black Panther: "..."

The corners of his lips spasmed and he commented, "Women sure look at things from a strange perspective."

Soon, the group arrived at the airport with mighty momentum.

Clifford arranged for all of them to stay at the periphery of the airport.

Abbott craned his neck and glanced at the exit from time to time. He asked, "Say, will the Queen notice us? What can we do to get her attention?"

"That's the Queen, you know! She's royal blood!"

"Yeah, we're already very lucky to be able to act as her guards even once..."

While the few were conversing, they noticed movement from the other side.

The people conversing instantly shut up. Hoping to show their best to the Queen, everyone stood up straight and kept quiet like the police officers inside.

Then, like the moon surrounded by a myriad of stars, the Queen came out of the exit. She kept her eyes in front of her and walked toward the car in front.

But just as she passed by Abbott, Nora, and their men, the Queen suddenly turned her head and looked over.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 893 - Take Off The Mask

Everyone there was stunned by the Queen suddenly turning her head and looking over.

Everyone tensed up even further.

Nora's sharp ears caught Abbott muttering, "Did Her Majesty notice me? She must be looking at me! I'm sure of it! Look at me, look at me..."

Nora: ".."

The corners of her lips spasmed.

Just how much did that guy want a connection with the Queen?

The Swiss president would never receive the Queen in person, of course. Therefore, the one here to receive her was someone from the Swiss Federal Department of Foreign Affairs (FDFA). Next, they had to escort the Queen to the prearranged location where she would be having a meeting with the Swiss president.

Seeing the Queen suddenly stop, the minister heading the FDFA couldn't help but ask, "Your Majesty, may I ask what you are looking at?"

At the question, the Queen withdrew her gaze and her lips curled into a smile. "I didn't expect to see a woman among the guards, that's all."

"Yes." The minister followed her line of sight and saw Nora, upon which he immediately explained, "That is Black Cat."

"Black Cat?"

The Queen's interest was mildly piqued. She asked, "That world-renowned assassin?"

The minister nodded and replied, “Yes, Ma’am. In order to receive you into the country, we have brought in third-party security personnel from the Assassin Alliance and the Hitman League, both of which are very well-known globally. I am sure you must have heard of them before!”

The Queen nodded.

Of course she had, but... She couldn’t help but cast another glance at Black Cat. Then, she shook her head.

Seeing this, the minister couldn’t help but ask, “May I know if something is the matter, Ma’am?” “No, it’s nothing.” The Queen replied, lowering her gaze and hiding the emotion in her light blue eyes.

She merely felt that the woman looked a bit like a person she disliked, that’s all.

That person’s name was Nora Smith, she was Queenie Schmidt’s niece.

Queenie, who had no children of her own, was said to cherish that niece of hers very much, so the Queen had once hosted a banquet to entertain them a few years ago.

She’d originally planned to foster a good relationship with Nora.

After all, Queenie had already gotten on in age, so even though she wanted to please Queenie, she had nothing in common to talk to her about.

But little did she expect that woman to be just as difficult as her godmother.

Yes, that’s right. Even though the Queen had found out through her investigations that Nora’s mother and Queenie were sworn sisters, what Queenie told outsiders was that Nora was her goddaughter.

With that, she was announcing Nora’s identity to the public.

The Queen thought back to that banquet. While she was talking to Nora, Nora had fallen asleep...

Yes, that's right, she had fallen asleep.

Was it because the things she was saying were too boring? The Queen had been awfully embarrassed at that time. Even though Queenie subsequently explained that Nora had a weak constitution and needed a lot of sleep, the Queen hadn't believed her.

That reason was simply too perfunctory.

Besides, the wild and untamed aura around Nora had already put her, someone in a position of power, off from the start.

Of course, these were all things that the Queen could tolerate.

The one thing that she couldn't, however, was that... she had married Justin Hunt!

Out of the many men the Queen had seen, she was only impossibly infatuated with Justin. But due to her status, a relationship was impossible between her and Justin.

Even so, she had hoped that Justin would never be close to any woman. After all, he was such an outstanding man. There were only a few in this world who would be worthy of him.

Yet the woman living abroad just had to receive news that Nora had married Justin.

To make matters worse, the most hateful thing was that the articulate Cheryl Smith had turned out to be Justin's daughter!

Justin must have accepted her only for the sake of the child!

After all, Nora didn't have any talents. All she had accomplished was finding a good godmother!

When she thought of this, the Queen suddenly wasn't angry anymore.

Yes, what was there to be so calculative about with a useless woman who thought only of sleeping?

Besides, how could a capable person like Black Cat possibly be Nora? It wasn't like she was short of money, she must be sleeping at home at the moment!

When she thought of this, the Queen revealed a touch of a graceful smile and said, "I'm very curious about Black Cat. Let her protect me at close proximity!"

She nodded to the person behind her.

The bodyguard beside her immediately said, "Yes, Your Majesty. Then let's have her join your motorcycle fleet!"

"Okay."

The Queen agreed to the suggestion. The bodyguard, however, looked at the Swiss personnel and said, "Have her remove her mask before she joins us."

Chapter 894 - We Don'T Know Each Other Very Well

The Swiss minister in charge of receiving the Queen had long since heard about Black Cat from Clifford, so he was rather in a spot. He said, “But Black Cat once said that everyone who has seen what she looks like is dead... She had also requested to wear a mask when she took on this assignment, so...”

The bodyguard said arrogantly, “Perhaps you can go over and ask. I don't think anyone would refuse the Queen's request.” The main issue here was: how ridiculous would it be if someone wearing a mask was among the Queen's personal bodyguards?

It would look really awful, which would greatly affect their public image.

The Queen had also heard their conversation, but she ignored them.

She had always been high up in the air. In her world, it was only right that these people obeyed her orders. In fact, they should even be proud of being able to protect her. The Queen continued toward the exit of the airport.

“Are you sure you want to give up the opportunity? You guys best think carefully what your purpose is for coming to escort and protect the Queen,” said Clifford to Black Panther.

Black Panther replied, “But before we came, we had already agreed that Black Cat would be wearing a mask.”

It was most certainly their greatest honor to be selected by the Queen to be her personal guard. If word of it spread in the future, it would bring them a lot of fame.

With that, the Assassin Alliance would be able to openly, and uprightly, transform into the Assassin Security Agency.

When Nora first heard the new company name, she had been speechless.

Since they were a security agency, couldn't they remove the word "assassin"?! The name made it sound as if they were guarding assassins instead.

Clifford sighed and said, "You guys also said that Black Cat wouldn't be able to come, but isn't she still here in the end?"

It's not the same.

Black Panther silently grumbled inwardly. Could Black Cat even take off her mask?

She was a copycat! There was no way she could remove it.

Although losing an opportunity like that was a huge pity, Black Panther simply couldn't allow Black Cat's face to be shown in public, for Black Cat's sake, as well as for Ms. Smith's.

Black Panther refused the offer. "We really can't."

When Abbott, who was next to him, first saw Clifford approaching, he'd thought that the Queen had really taken notice of him, but unexpectedly, it turned out to be the fake Black Cat instead?

Thus, when he heard Black Panther refusing the offer, he scoffed, looked at Nora, and said, "Of course they wouldn't dare to-because she's fake!"

Black Panther looked at him frostily. "It is our organization's responsibility to protect Black Cat's identity."

"... Never mind, then. What a shame, though," said Clifford.

After speaking, Clifford left and went after the Queen's bodyguard. After saying a few words to him, the bodyguard cast another glance at them.

Then, he went to report to the Queen.

When the Queen heard of this, a look of surprise came over her face. However, she didn't spare them even a glance but instead said, "Nevermind, then."

The person next to the Queen couldn't help but comment, "How shameless and unappreciative."

Nora wasn't aware of what was happening there.

Instead, her eyes were completely fixed on the big and tall figure following the Queen.

The man's muscles were well-proportioned and every step he took was regular and rhythmic as though every muscle on his body was just right.

Nora had only ever seen a good figure like this on Barbarian.

Every human's muscles developed differently post-training because the way everyone exerted force in training was different.

But this was not the case for Barbarian. He was naturally endowed with perfect muscles because he had been injected with the gene serum.

As bodyguards were not allowed to wear masks because they represented the British Royal Family, Nora finally managed to get a clear look at Barbarian's face.

He looked to be of mixed descent and had chiseled facial features. His scarlet eyes struck fear into one's heart. Barbarian, who was 6'3", was wearing the bodyguard uniform, which made him look just like a soldier.

Perhaps sensing Nora's scrutiny, he suddenly turned his head and looked over.

Nora looked away at once.

The man's sixth sense was simply too sharp. To think he could even sense the malicious gazes of others!

“Let’s go.”

Black Panther’s command sounded in their earphones.

Everyone turned around and went out in a line.

As soon as they got out, they saw that the Queen had already gotten into the car.

A mighty motorcycle fleet and several black sedans led the way ahead while the Queen’s car and her personal bodyguards drove in the middle.

Nora and the others got on their motorcycles. Just as they were about to follow, Clifford suddenly came over. With his face full of embarrassment, he said, “Um, the captain of the Queen’s guards has ordered for you guys to bring up the rear.”

The group fell silent.

Everyone looked at Black Cat and Abbott.

Nora did not speak.

Abbott, however, asked, “Why? We didn’t come just to bring up the rear for them!”

The Assassin Alliance and the Hitman League were both globally-renowned assassination organizations and everyone present was a skilled and well-known hitman.

Therefore, before they came, even though Clifford had not tasked them with protecting the Queen at close proximity, they were still meant to follow the Queen closely at the back.

This was a form of trust and recognition toward them.

Yet they were suddenly being told to bring up the rear now? This was downright humiliation.

Clifford also sighed. He said, “The Swiss will show you goodwill, but obviously, the Queen doesn’t quite trust your abilities.”

Abbott was furious. “Then we quit!”

IV

Clifford kept quiet for a while. Then, he said, “When you joined us, the contract we signed stated that you will obey our orders, or else the Swiss government will never work with you again in the future.”

They were here to be security officers, not big bosses.

All of them understood this. Besides, it went without saying that cooperating with and following the Swiss authorities’ orders would also be a clause written into the contract.

Abbott was so furious that he felt like he was getting a toothache.

As for Black Panther, he frowned and said, “Let’s go.”

Their only option was to go along with it now. What else could they do? If they breached the contract, it wouldn’t be their commission from the job that they would be losing but their chances of working with the Swiss government and the British Royal Family!

Abbott also understood this, so all of them set off dejectedly.

Nora rode her motorcycle and led the group at the forefront.

Abbott sped up and came up to her.

This time, Nora couldn’t speed up and overtake him-after all, the Queen’s motorcade was in front. She couldn’t overtake them.

As a result, she could only put up with Abbott’s noise. He said, “Never mind that you are a copycat, but so what even if the real Black Cat was here? We worked hard all our lives, and even after becoming top-notch hitmen, we are still nothing in front of the Royal Family. We aren’t even qualified to lead the way and can only follow behind the motorcade... Also, did you see, those bodyguards were even looking at us with disdain in their eyes! They clearly look down on us! What are they so arrogant about?”

Nora: “...”

Abbott went on. “Hey, say something. Are you dumb? Or is Black Panther actually the one in charge of you guys? Are you guys just gonna put up with it when you have been bullied?”

Nora stayed silent for a while before she finally said, “We don’t know each other very well.”

Abbott: “...”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 895 - King!

Nora simply had the ability to end a conversation in one second flat.

Her reply made Abbott choke, it was only a while later that he finally spluttered, “Hmph, it’s because you don’t dare to offend them, isn’t it? Are you still trying to get into their good books? Come on, they are completely looking down on you! No, wait, I just remembered something: you’re a copycat! If the real Black Cat was here, she would never allow them to look down on all of us!”

After all, Black Cat was the crowned head of the assassin community!

Seeing that Nora was staying silent as though she couldn’t care less, Abbott became all the more convinced.

Real assassins all took great pride in themselves.

He immediately lost interest in chatting with Nora, and he went to chat with Black Panther instead, to which Black Panther thought, ... The two of us don’t know each other that well, either, do we?

The Queen’s visit did not have any influence on anything, so there wasn’t really anyone who attempted to assassinate her, and they safely and smoothly reached the hotel where she would be staying.

The Swiss government had specially made arrangements at the hotel for the Queen’s reception. For that purpose, they had cleared out everyone in the hotel, keeping only some of the hotel service staff.

Nora and her party were at the back of the entourage, so by the time they arrived at the hotel, the Queen had already checked in.

After they parked the cars in the parking lot, they went to the hotel lobby and waited for further instructions.

The Queen would be in Switzerland for three days, so the security assignment would also span three days.

In the hotel, the Queen's personal bodyguards were allocated rooms on the same floor as the Queen herself, while the Swiss authorities' internal personnel was allocated rooms on the two floors below them.

Needless to say, they were not allowed to stay in the hotel rooms all day. They were to change over guard duty every two hours and take turns to rest.

However, when it was Nora and her party's turn to be allocated rooms, the captain of the Queen's personal bodyguards suddenly said, "My apologies, but there aren't any rooms left. You will have to look for a place to rest by yourselves."

Abbott and Black Panther were outraged at once.

Abbott immediately retorted, "How can there be no rooms left when there are so many here?"

The entire hotel had been vacated and it wasn't like the guards on the mission had filled up all the rooms.

The captain of the bodyguards calmly replied, "Her Majesty is terribly averse to noise, so the two floors above and below the one she is staying on have been left empty. Everyone else occupies one room each. Of course, there are still three vacant rooms left, but there are thirty of you in total, so I'm afraid it won't be easy for you to make appropriate arrangements there, right?" Even if they arranged for two people to share a room each and took turns resting inside, they would still need at least seven and a half rooms.

The captain's decision was logically sound. After all, it was guaranteed that the Queen's personal bodyguards and the Swiss personnel were trustworthy, but one couldn't say the same for them.

Therefore, it was normal that their welfare would be overlooked and their living arrangements prioritized at the lowest. Abbott was about to say that they had only ten people among them and, therefore, could have the rooms allocated to them when the captain added, “To avoid causing infighting among you, let’s just leave those three rooms empty, lest you go against the rules and get into a dispute over a few rooms.”

Abbott: “...”

The captain regarded them with total contempt, so immediately after he said that, he turned around and left.

The people behind Abbott spoke up right away. “What the hell? We have to stay here for three days, you know. Are we really gonna forgo sleep for the next three days? They are too much!”

The rest of the group also looked at Black Panther. “Black Panther, what should we do?”

Abbott broke into a frown.

Black Panther thought for a while and then said, “The shift changes every two hours. Go to the cars and nap for a while after someone takes over your shift. We have stayed in environments harsher than this when we were out on missions in the past; this is nothing to us. Once we push through the next three days, we will be starting over with a clean slate. Think about it-in the future, all of us will be able to openly go on the streets and we won’t need to sneak about anymore. So, let’s just put up with it for these three days!”

Black Panther’s words were very impactful, everyone nodded after hearing him.

After thinking about it for a while, Abbott’s men also came to the conclusion that this was their only option.

They would just grin and bear with it!

With that, the two groups split themselves into teams and half of them went to the cars in the parking lot to rest.

Black Panther glanced at Nora and then walked over and said, “Get some rest! You don’t have to report for duty unless necessary.”

Abbott sneered, “Why should she be exempted from duty? Is Black Cat unable to endure hardships like this?”

Black Panther gave Abbott a warning look. “Because she is a woman!”

Had it been anyone else, perhaps they might have retorted, ‘So what even if she’s a woman?’ However, Abbott wasn’t that shameless, so Black Panther’s words shut him up immediately.

Black Panther was in charge of the operation and Nora had never contested him for the right to command all this time. Therefore, when she heard him, she merely nodded and went to the parking lot to look for a car to rest in.

When she found their cars, she got into one and sat in the passenger seat. Then, she leaned back and closed her eyes.

While she was resting, some people walked by. One of them said, “... Have you heard? A special guest will be coming tonight! And they’ll be right in this hotel! For the Queen of the UK and the Swiss president to give them so much importance, I wonder who the guest is?”

“Give them so much importance...”

Nora’s first thought upon hearing them was “King is coming!” Her eyes flew open suddenly.

In that case, she couldn’t slack off like this anymore. After all, in addition to completing the three-day-long assignment, she was also here to meet King and foster a good relationship with him.

Almost immediately after the idea formed in her mind, Clifford walked out from the side. The man, who was in the midst of a phone call, said, “I will definitely send the most professional bodyguard to protect the distinguished guest! I will also take care of all the commuting arrangements for them. Don’t worry about it! I’ll go select someone right away!”

Chapter 896 - Tonight Is Her Chance!

In the hotel room where the Queen was, the captain of the bodyguards stood before her.

The Queen took off her coat. She was wearing a long gilded dress underneath, she looked so elegant and noble that the captain dared not even gaze upon her directly. Yet when he turned his head to the side, he saw the Queen's close protection bodyguard, who was in the room with them, staring straight at her with his red eyes fierce and vicious. The captain of the guards glared fiercely at him at once.

That was the Queen! How could he be so ill-mannered?!

Yet the Queen didn't say anything even after noticing him. She merely waved and dismissed them from her presence.

When Barbarian saw the gesture, he even spaced out for a moment as though he didn't understand it. It wasn't until someone pulled his arm that he finally went out with them.

After they left, the captain remarked with dissatisfaction, "Your Majesty, that man is still as ill-mannered as ever. Why do you bring him with you all the time?"

With a smile, the Queen replied, "Because he is very strong." The captain was rendered speechless. However, he quickly recovered and asked, "Are you sure you want to transfer him over for the meeting tonight? Is that man named King really so important? Besides, he must have his own bodyguards as well, so he may not necessarily need him!"

Hearing the name King, a kind and affable smile formed on the Queen's countenance and her eyes lit up a little. She replied, "Well, he may have his own guards, but I'd still like to show him my sincerity by sending the dedicated bodyguard I keep by my side, who is sworn upon his life to protect me, to protect him."

Barbarian was the Queen's most trusted bodyguard, sworn upon his life to protect her.

The captain immediately said with dissatisfaction, "But if he leaves your side, you will be in great danger!"

The Queen waved dismissively and replied, "There's no need to worry. Why would anyone plot against me in Switzerland? Alright, that's enough. Just send him there."

The captain frowned and asked, "Now?"

"Yes. Go to the airport, wait for King's arrival, and then pick him up. You must ensure his safety."

The captain couldn't help but ask, "But what if you really meet with danger? If you..."

"Alright, no more 'buts'. The hotel is very safe. Even if he's not around, you're still here, aren't you? Not to mention the rest of the bodyguards. If it really comes down to it, there are also all the Swiss guards and even the Assassin Alliance!"

Speaking of which, the Queen suddenly thought of something and suddenly said, "If you really can't put your mind at ease, then transfer Black Cat over and have her protect me."

As soon as she said that, the captain curled his lips disdainfully and said, "Those people are too ill-mannered and undisciplined. They will never amount to much, especially that defiant and rebellious Black Cat. Don't worry, we won't need her. I will definitely ensure your safety, Ma'am."

"Alright, I trust you."

The Queen was indifferent.

In her opinion, having these personal bodyguards by her side was already enough.

The captain of the guards went out and sent Barbarian to the airport to wait for and protect King. Then, he double-checked the shift duty schedule and patrol route map. After verifying everything, he stood outside the Queen's door.

Through the window, he saw the masked Black Cat downstairs getting out of the car and slowly looking up.

The captain of the guards immediately curled his lips in contempt. From the looks of it, the woman still had intentions of currying favor with the Queen. Unfortunately, all she had was fame but no actual skills...

Besides, how could those sloppy and undisciplined people possibly compare to people like themselves who had received formal training?

—

Downstairs.

Nora raised her head and looked upstairs.

She had an electronic device in her hand and was intending to survey the surroundings to prevent unforeseen situations from breaking out. She also incidentally wanted to use the opportunity to perform well, in hopes of being selected and sent to protect King.

Nobody could say if it was just sheer dumb luck or what, but she actually discovered a hint of abnormality-nearby the hotel was a teeny-weeny, barely discernible signal... She locked on to it instantly and found that it was a communication signal.

She hacked into someone's phone at once, upon which she heard someone speaking in a low voice:

“The close protection bodyguard by the Queen's side has left!”

“What about the rest?”

“Don’t worry, the rest of the personal bodyguards are all trash. They can’t compare to our troops!”

“Okay, we’ll get the men ready. We must make sure the Queen dies here! Tonight is our chance!”

Chance?

Nora’s eyes lit up.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 897 - Untitled

Nora didn't have any intentions of saving the Queen.

After all, Barbarian was her personal bodyguard, and from the looks of it, he seemed like the one she trusted the most. The information she'd gotten from Karl had also stated that the Queen was on very close terms with Barbarian.

Therefore, it was yet unknown whether the Queen was a friend or a foe. Besides, the two didn't get along. Nora would have to be so bored that she has nothing better to do before she would even think of saving her.

However, she still felt that tonight was her chance!

She had already become suspicious of the Queen when she first found out that Xander had grown up in a basement in the royal palace. Coupled with how close a relationship the Queen and Barbarian shared, Nora now suspected that the Queen was related to the mysterious organization. In fact, she might even be the leader of the mysterious organization.

Trueman was just the young master after all. His father could be called the real leader, but what if his father was actually serving the Queen?

After all, the Queen did have the power!

She was the sovereign of a state, after all!

Thus, Nora wanted to sneak into her room to find out the truth.

But with Barbarian around, she couldn't sneak in at all. With a powerful guard like him around, the chances of her being discovered were simply too high. Although Black Cat was nimble and agile, and there was almost no place in the world she couldn't get into, wouldn't it be safer if Barbarian was not there?

Therefore, tonight was her chance!

Nora hung up the phone. Then, she yawned and walked over to the lobby.

Black Panther and the others were walking around the lobby on guard duty. The benefit of being away from the Queen's floor was that they could be relatively more relaxed. At the sight of her, Black Panther hurried over and asked, "What's the matter?"

Nora replied, "Since you don't need me around tonight, I'm going back."

Black Panther: "?"

He was dumbfounded. "What are you going back for?"

As if it was right and justified, Nora answered, "To sleep."

Black Panther became even more flabbergasted. "Can't you sleep in the car?"

"It's uncomfortable in there," replied Nora.

Black Panther: "!!"

Goddammit, he felt like swearing!

What did she think a mission was? Did she think it was okay to be so casual about it?

He wanted to speak but Nora left without giving him a chance to.

Black Panther: "??"

As he stared after Nora, Black Panther couldn't even bring himself to swear anymore. He could only fume indignantly to himself-If Black Cat was here, she definitely wouldn't be like this!

That woman was simply too unprofessional.

At the sight of his reaction, Abbott, who was next to him, seized the opportunity to mock him. He said, “Women are nothing but trouble, if you ask me. Look at Black Cat, is this the attitude she should be taking toward a mission as an assassin? Just because it’s uncomfortable in the car... she’s going home to sleep?”

Black Panther was awfully frustrated and aggrieved.

He knew that Abbott was saying that while being fully aware that this “Black Cat” was fake... in other words, he was deliberately besmirching Black Cat’s name.

After all, it wasn’t like Black Panther could change his tune and say that Nora wasn’t Black Cat but just the young lady of a wealthy family...

He could only swallow his frustration...

Nora, however, didn’t pay any attention to the two men’s dispute. After she left the hotel, she took off her mask, fished out from an inconspicuous part of the hotel a set of dark clothes that she had hidden in advance, and put them on.

Before coming, she had already scouted out the place.

After all, even if Barbarian was around, she still wanted to check it out, just in case.

If the Queen turned out to have anything to do with the mysterious organization and the transnational biological gene serum case, then Nora would definitely teach her a good lesson!

Of the more than 1,000 children who had been experimented on, only five remained...

This had nothing to do with her, but Xander had been locked up by them for whole five years!

Even though she had been very calm and impassive on the surface after she found her son, the moment she thought of how her son had lived in a place like that for five years, a surge of anger welled up in her.

She would definitely take revenge for him.

She walked straight to the back of the hotel building. Immediately after, she took advantage of the moment when the guards were changing shifts to put on a pair of non-slip gloves and climb up the wall!

Her movements were as agile and nimble as a cat's as she pressed herself flat against the building. Coupled with how it was dusk, so it was getting dark out but the street lights hadn't yet turned on, no one would notice that there was someone there unless they looked closely.

Nora climbed straight to the floor where the Queen was and looked in through the window to observe the situation. When she reached the Queen's room, she hung off the wall with one hand and took out a small thin wire with the other. Then, she poked it in, fiddled with it a couple of times, and the window opened at once. Before anyone could react, she slipped in in a flash.

Her movements were smooth and fluidic, and she did not attract the guards' attention at all.

The Queen's suite was huge. Nora quickly found a closet and slipped in. The Queen happened to come out of the study at that point with a document in her hand.

The royal aide following the Queen by her side was giving her a report on some of the UK's affairs. Nora was not interested in the talk until the subordinate suddenly asked, "Your Majesty, you have been making mention of King all this time, but... who on earth is he?"

At the question, the Queen said a name.

Chapter 898 - Justin Hunt Is King!!

Justin Hunt.

The two words resounded in the room.

The Queen was speaking in Welsh.

This particular aide was the subordinate the Queen trusted the most.

Although it was forbidden to speak of the name to outsiders, after holding back for so long, the Queen finally couldn't help but say it out loud today. The aide was astonished but also enlightened. She remarked, "No wonder you treat him differently."

It didn't stop at just "differently", though!

If it weren't because the man couldn't marry into the royal family, the Queen would have died to marry him!

Unfortunately, the royal family had a literal throne to inherit and her own marital matters were not something she had a say in. Despite that, the Queen had never forgotten Justin all these years.

Just as the aide wanted to speak, her cell phone rang.

She answered the call and then said to the Queen, "It's Princess Lucy."

The Queen took the cell phone, sat on the sofa, and took over the phone call.

In the closet, Nora quietly stood where she was. It was unknown whether she had heard them when they spoke that name just now.

On the sofa, Princess Lucy's adorable voice came over through the phone. "Mommy, where are you? I miss you so much--"

The Queen replied, "I'm at the hotel. Do you want to take a look around?"

"Okay!"

After Lucy spoke, the Queen childishly held up her cell phone and went around the room. Lucy smiled and said, "How I wish I could be there with you! But I'll only reach the day after tomorrow, sigh!"

The Queen couldn't help laughing. "It's just two days."

"But these two days feel like forever to me. I miss you so much."

The Queen snorted and replied, "You mean you miss Cherry, right?"

Lucy giggled and said, "Of course I miss you more, Mommy. By the way, have you prepared the gift I asked you to?"

The Queen's expression immediately turned sullen. She said, "That's my favorite figurine but you're taking it just to give it to Cherry! Lucy, you've come a long way, haven't you?!"

Lucy wheedled, "Mommy, you're an adult. How can you fight over something with a child? Besides, didn't we already agree on this long ago? My most esteemed royal Mommy?"

Although the Queen was dissatisfied and wore a huffy expression, she nevertheless said, "Fine, fine!"

"Also! Mommy, remember to help me prepare a gift for Cherry's mother too--".

The Queen's face darkened immediately. "I refuse."

"Come on, Mommy. My royal Mommy, my most favorite and the most beautiful Mommy in the world, I know you don't like her only because you're jealous that she's prettier than you-“

The Queen’s face darkened even further. “Lucy!”

The sight of the Queen, who was frosty and all-powerful in public, behaving like this when interacting with her daughter in private made Nora see her in a new light a little.

Lucy hung up.

The Queen’s aide asked, “Shall I prepare a gift for Ms. Nora Smith?”

The Queen snorted and replied, “Yes, do it. She’s Cheryl Smith’s mother, after all!”

“Yes, ma’am.”

The aide then asked, “Are you really going to give that figurine to her?”

The Queen’s heart started to bleed at the thought.

The figurine in question was no ordinary figurine; it was a limited edition one that was specially made for her because they knew that she liked it! As it was made of pure gold, it had caused a great stir in the Royal Family back then, with all of them saying that she was being too extravagant.

After all, the Royal Family had to be mindful of its public image. Although they led a luxurious lifestyle, they should still remain approachable to commoners.

At the time, the Queen had declared that she would never ask for a second one. Therefore, once she gave it away, it would be gone for good.

The aide comforted her and said, “Why don’t I switch it with an ordinary figurine instead? Princess Lucy is not interested in such things, so she’ll never realize.”

The Queen hesitated for a moment. In the end, she sighed and said, “Forget it, just give it to her! What am I fighting with a child for?”

It was unknown whether the “child” she spoke of referred to Lucy or Cherry.

When the two were about to start chatting, all of a sudden, chaos broke out on the lower floors.

Outside the door, the captain of the bodyguards suddenly said, “Your Majesty, a fire has broken out downstairs! The fire is spreading too wildly. Let’s hurry and shift someplace else!”

As he spoke, the fire immediately spread to the upper floor with a great boom like a serpent of flames!

There was obviously something wrong with these flames. It was clear that someone had doused the place with flammable materials.

They were trying to burn the Queen to death!

Nora frowned.

Who would harbor such an intense grudge against the Queen?

While she was wondering about it, the aide answered her question.

“The mysterious organization is so horrible! How can they do this to you?! They are so persistent, coming after you from abroad all the way to Switzerland! Your Majesty, let’s hurry and leave!”

Nora was stunned when she heard her.

The mysterious organization was after the Queen’s life?

Did this mean that... the Queen and the mysterious organization were enemies?

The cogs in Nora’s mind turned at high speed.

According to Trueman, Barbarian had betrayed the mysterious organization. However, the Queen was backing up Barbarian. It might seem like Barbarian was protecting the Queen, but in truth, wasn't he also under the Queen's protection?

Otherwise, the mysterious organization would already have found him in all these years.

The fire was fierce, and to make matters worse, they were on the higher floors. Nora pushed open the closet door and walked over to the window to check on the situation outside.

On the first floor, Black Panther and Abbott had discovered the fire upstairs and were running up frantically with their men.

Since they had taken the remuneration, they must do their job.

This was a rule in the Assassin Alliance.

Just as she was about to jump out the window, gunshots suddenly rang out from beyond the door!

The door was pushed open once more; the aide and the captain of the bodyguards protected the Queen as they entered. The captain said, "Their firepower is too intense out there! We can only hide here for now!"

The aide retorted furiously, "But the fire will reach us soon! Are we supposed to just let ourselves turn into roast pigs by staying here?"

Even at a moment like this, the Queen reprimanded her angrily and said, "Please mind your words! You're the only pig!"

The aide: "..."

The aide looked at the captain and yelled furiously, "What do we do now? Think of something! If Barbarian was here, he'd definitely be able to take the Queen out of here!"

The captain frowned and said, “I didn’t expect the mysterious organization to be so powerful that they could even infiltrate the Swiss government... Don’t worry, everyone will rush upstairs once they hear the gunshots. There aren’t many of them, so they will be subdued very soon!”

The aide, however, yelled, “There may not be many of them, but all of them are fighters ready to lay down their lives! They are risking their lives precisely to stop the people downstairs from saving us!”

Fighters ready to lay down their lives for their missions did not fear death.

Moreover, the corridor was narrow. By staying there, they were preventing the Queen from going out and stopping people from coming in just so they could burn the Queen alive.

Now, the captain could either charge out there and fight those people outside to death, or they could stay there and wait for their deaths.

The captain was certainly willing to risk his life. But the problem was that once he charged out there, should he die, there would really be no one left to protect the Queen! Until the assailants barged into the room, the captain’s duty was to stay by the Queen’s side and protect her. At the window, Nora found herself for words as she listened to their conversation.

She was originally planning to jump down by herself, but for some reason, she suddenly thought of the Queen’s facial expression when she said that she would give the figurine to Cherry.

The Queen was arrogant, but it seemed that she wasn’t entirely useless either.

When she thought of this, Nora suddenly put on Black Cat’s mask and walked over abruptly. The moment she moved, the captain noticed her presence, and he immediately pointed his gun at her.

Nora couldn’t be bothered to waste her breath on him, so she cast a silver needle at the muzzle, pushing it away from her. Then, she went up to the Queen and grabbed her arm. Immediately after, she rushed to the window and leaped out!

“Ahhh!”

The Queen thought that she would be smashed into pulp, but unexpectedly, the speed at which she was plunging suddenly dropped to zero. Only then did she realize that Nora was clutching a rope with her other hand.

It was unknown what kind of material the rope was made of, but it was resistant to fire.

However, because Nora had only one hand to grip the rope with, her hand ended up rubbing tightly against the rope. Moreover, she was even carrying another person’s weight. This led to the glove becoming damaged from the friction, which caused her palm to bleed.

Bam!

Nora landed on the ground.

As for the Queen, she fell onto the ground.

At this point...

A screech of tires rang out-Barbarian was back from picking up the guest. He jumped out of the car and ran toward the Queen. “Your Majesty, are you all right?” Barbarian helped the Queen up.

The Queen got up. The woman, who had experienced many assassination attempts in her life, was calm and collected. She replied, “I’m fine. Where’s King?”

“I’ve brought him here.”

Following Barbarian’s reply, the door of the car opened and a tall familiar-looking figure got out of the car.

Chapter 899 - She Doesn'T Speak Welsh?

King wore a black, patternless mask covering his entire face in the darkness. He also wore a black trench coat that fully wrapped around him.

Apart from his height, one couldn't tell anything of his appearance at first glance.

King was like the ruler of the night. Just him standing there, a chilling aura enveloped the surroundings, such that no one around them dared take him lightly.

At the sight of him, the Queen neatened her hair and smoothed her skirt. Then, with a smile, she started to walk over to King.

Barbarian, however, said, "Why don't you see a doctor before going over? King is not in a hurry."

The Queen had long since regained her usual poise and grace. She placed her hands at her abdomen and kept her back straight as she, in strict accordance with court etiquette, walked over to King. As she did, she said, "Mr. King is already here. If I choose to go to the doctor now, wouldn't I be snubbing him?"

Barbarian hesitated for a while and then tried to dissuade her again. "There's been an assassination attempt on your life, hasn't it? It's fine even if you make him wait a bit."

Although there had been an assassination attempt on her life, and the Queen had been awfully flustered when she was upstairs just now, she maintained her pride at this moment and deliberately said within earshot of King, "This little hiccup is nothing. I've seen worse."

"... But our bodyguards are all still upstairs," said Barbarian.

“Why do you have so many excuses?” The Queen interrupted him and said reproachfully, “As my first bodyguard, you should learn to stay calm.”

The Queen spoke very gracefully and took the opportunity to educate him. Then, she added, “Besides, didn’t a lot of people from the Assassin Alliance and the Hitmen League also come over? It is their honor to protect me!”

After speaking, she looked at Nora with a gentle and elegant smile and said, “There are so many talented people around. Black Cat here can even mount the eaves and walk the walls!”

Nora glanced at her, hesitant to speak and also at a loss for words.

While the Queen was speaking, she had already come up to King. She bowed gracefully and said, “Long time no see, Mr. King.”

The Queen had practiced the action numerous times in front of the mirror.

King was not someone one could meet all the time.

The last time the two of them met had been three years ago.

The Queen maintained her pride and self-esteem in front of the person she liked, wishing to show him only her best.

King hesitated for a moment. His dark eyes first glanced behind her, seemingly passing over Black Cat quickly before he returned a bow of his own and said, “Long time no see, Your Majesty.”

King spoke in Welsh, his voice deep and pleasant.

The Queen’s eyes lit up, and she continued in Welsh and said, “Mr. King is as charming as ever.”

King, however, looked around and didn’t answer.

Seeing this, the Queen suddenly realized something. She suddenly looked at Nora and asked in English, “Black Cat, do you speak Welsh?”

Nora shook her head without hesitation.

Only then did the Queen put her mind at ease.

King probably had some things that he couldn't quite mention in public, so the two would need to have a private chat. Besides... Black Cat had been upstairs just now, who knew when she had reached there? The things that she and her aide had said in Welsh weren't suitable for outsiders' ears. However, now that she knew Black Cat didn't speak Welsh, she could rest assured.

Only then did the Queen look at King.

For some reason, she felt that King seemed relieved too.

Although he still sounded distant, his words were more or less still pleasant. He said, “Your Majesty is as radiant as ever.”

The Queen covered her mouth and laughed. She said, “Really? I thought I'd aged since we last met three years ago.”

King: “...”

He gave the Queen a complicated glance and then replied, “Not at all. It seems that time doesn't move for you, Ma'am.”

The Queen lowered her eyes and said, “I heard that you now have a daughter too. As it happens, she and my daughter are good friends. Your fiancée, Nora Smith, and I are also old friends. She was round and plump back then, but I heard that she has lost weight and become much prettier? I wonder who is more beautiful, me or her?”

... Hah, I have now witnessed for myself our farce of a friendship, Nora thought to herself.

At the mention of Nora, King glanced at Black Cat again. Something flashed across his dark eyes as though he was weighing something. At last, he said in Welsh, “You have a grander presence, Ma’am.”

The Queen bit her lip.

King hadn’t said that she was more beautiful but only that she had a grander presence. Although it sounded perfunctory, it was already very rare for him to say that.

As a businessman, King rarely participated in power struggles. Although he maintained good relations with the authorities of various countries, he never curried favors with them.

For every country, in addition to the military, their economy was also of utmost importance.

Therefore, no matter where he went, King was always welcomed, and he was also the object of everyone’s favor. Besides, King had said it straight to her face that she was ugly.

After a separation of three years, the man had surprisingly become less mean.

The Queen’s face glowed even more radiantly than before.

She smiled and asked, “Then, shall we have dinner tonight? Will Mr. King grace me with his presence?”

King answered, “It’d be an honor to.”

After speaking, he glanced at Nora again and then deliberately said in English, “It’s a custom in the UK to conduct business over a meal anyway, so it’s not a problem.”

The Queen didn’t understand why he had added that in English, but she didn’t press the matter.

Upstairs, the two assailants had been shot dead and the fire was extinguished, but the hotel had still suffered a lot of damage. Fortunately, the restaurant next to it was still open, and there was also accommodation available in that building.

Thus, the group moved over to the other building with great momentum.

The Queen said to King, “Why don’t you head to the restaurant first? I’ll go back and get a change of clothes.”

“Sure,” replied King.

Only then did the Queen head to the upper floors with her aide, who had been rescued, holding her arm. While she was heading upstairs, something seemed to occur to the Queen and she said to Nora, “Black Cat, you will stay close to me and protect me.”

Nora followed behind her without a word. Even after she walked far into the distance, she could still sense King’s gaze on her.

On the way there, the Queen and her aide continued speaking to each other in Welsh.

The aide smiled and said, “Mr. King is surprisingly polite today. He doesn’t seem entirely disinterested in you.”

The Queen, however, sneered, “Do you really think that is true? It’s only because he has something to ask of me! Otherwise, he would never go along with me like that!”

The Queen had dealt with King many times before, so she knew very well what he was like.

For him to suddenly go along with her, he must have something to ask of her.

However, the Queen changed the subject again and said, “Regardless, I held myself very well just now, right? I must have been very elegant, right?”

That's exactly it; I want him to see how elegant I have become so that he will be filled with regret!"

The aide looked at her hesitantly.

The two entered the room that had been prepared for them. The queen held her skirt up and walked gracefully into the dressing room. And then...

"Ahhh!"

The Queen pointed to the woman with the dark, sooty cheeks in the mirror. "I-Is that how I looked just now?"

At the thought of how she had deliberately feigned elegance and gracefulness when she looked like such an ugly mess, the Queen had a mental breakdown.

The aide: "..."

"Barbarian! Why didn't you tell me?!"

Barbarian, who was standing outside the door: "..."

He had been trying very hard to, but if the Queen refused to listen, there was nothing he could do!

Chapter 900 - She Speaks Welsh

The Queen felt like she had just experienced social death.

Because of the fire, not only was there soot on her face, but even her hair had frizzled from the fire and was draped on her head in a mess. Yet she had gone to meet King with her face in this exact state and even asked him, “Who is more beautiful, me or Nora Smith?”

The moment she thought about it, she felt so embarrassed that she wished she could bury herself in a hole...

The Queen quickly changed into another set of clothes. By the time she stepped out, she had regained her composure. The aide observed the Queen’s expression warily and asked, “Your Majesty, are you alright?”

Although the Queen felt terribly embarrassed deep down, she remained calm on the outside.

She answered, “It seems King has quite a big request for me this time.”

Otherwise, given that ridiculous appearance of hers, would King be able to bring himself to compliment her?

The aide also found it puzzling. She asked, “What could he possibly have to ask of you? After all, he is...”

She swallowed the rest of her words, however. The Queen glanced at Barbarian and Black Cat and then gave the aide a look.

It was forbidden to reveal King’s identity to outsiders. Even after so many years, the aide was the only one the Queen had told the truth. Although Barbarian was her trusted bodyguard, it was still better to keep some things secret if possible.

The aide shut up.

Nora, who was following them at the back, was observing Barbarian at the moment.

The man had shed his fierce and savage aura. He was as docile as a wolfhound when he was by the Queen's side, which felt rather novel to her.

With each of them harboring their own thoughts, the four entered the restaurant.

King was already seated on the sofa.

The Queen put on a dignified smile and walked over as though she hadn't just made a fool of herself. With a smile, she said in English, "I've kept you waiting."

King paused and glanced at Black Cat before he replied in Welsh, "It's my honor to wait for you."

All these things King was saying were all just a gentlemanly way of speech in the UK.

Not a single word was suggestive or ambiguous.

But because King had always been stern with women, the chivalry he was displaying at the moment shocked and flattered the Queen.

She just didn't know why King had switched to Welsh again. Wasn't it alright even if they communicated in English?

The Queen smiled and sat opposite King. While ordering food, King went along with her food preferences the whole time. Additionally, he also spoke in Welsh the whole time.

After ordering food, the Queen started to discuss work matters with King. She said, "Alright, you've been very courteous to me the whole evening. Tell me, what exactly do you want to ask of me?"

King didn't beat about the bush; after all, it was better if he could leave after finishing his business here. He hated wasting time the most.

He said unhurriedly, “I will be going to the UK sometime in the near future.”

The Queen: “?”

Her eyes lit up. “We have guest residences in the palace. You are welcome to stay there any time.”

King coughed and said, “I intend to bring a few friends.”

The Queen smiled. “These are all trivial matters, there is no problem at all. When have I ever rejected you during all your past visits?”

King thought to himself, ... I’ve never stayed at the palace before!... Even though the Queen invites me over with great enthusiasm each time... Besides, I’ve only been to the UK thrice! She makes it sound like I go there all the time!

Fortunately, a certain somebody did not understand Welsh.

King breathed a sigh of relief and didn’t refute her. He coughed and said, “There will be... quite a few people coming this time.” The Queen laughed again. “Other people’s homes may not be able to house too many guests, but what’s ‘quite a few’ people to the palace? How many people will you be bringing? I’ll get things ready for you in advance.”

“Not that many, actually. Just a hundred or so, I suppose,” replied King. The Queen: “?”

Even her smile had frozen a little.

One hundred outsiders in Buckingham Palace? Should they be up to no good, with that number, they could stage a revolution in there!

It was no problem at all if King was just bringing four or five people there, but a hundred was too many.

No wonder he was being so amicable today!

The Queen was a little displeased. She asked, “What are you bringing so many people with you for? Surely it can’t be because you’re getting married, right?”

“No, that’s not the plan,” replied King.

The Queen then asked, “Is your fiancée coming?”

King raised his brows.

The Queen said meaningfully, “You know, the mother of your children.”

King’s identity was not to be revealed to the public, so the Queen would never directly mention Nora’s name.

King answered, “No, she won’t be coming.”

Only then did the Queen breathe a sigh of relief, but she soon said with a smile, “Speaking of her, your fiancée and I have met a few times before. I’ve also personally received her before when she visited the palace in the past.”

King nodded but didn’t pay much attention to what she said. Just then, the food was served. After he took a couple of bites from his salad, he suddenly realized that something wasn’t right. He looked up abruptly and asked, “Did you say that she has been to the palace?”

The Queen nodded. “Yes, that’s right.”

A foreboding feeling suddenly welled up in King’s heart. He asked, “Did the two of you communicate in English?”

The Queen replied, “Of course not. She speaks fluent Welsh.”

King: “!!!”

Chills suddenly ran down his spine.

Didn’t someone say that they didn’t speak Welsh?!

OceanofPDF.com

Volume 10

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 901 - 1 Will King Refuse?

King subconsciously looked at Nora, who was standing at the side and seemingly guarding them. In truth, though, she was leaning against the wall with her head tilted to the side and napping.

The Queen continued. “By the way, what are you coming to the UK for?”

King lowered his gaze and answered, “Mm, I have some business meetings to attend.”

“What kind of business meetings require you to bring 100 people with you?” King lifted his head and looked at the Queen intently. “Are you forbidding me from coming over?”

The Queen choked.

For some reason, she felt like the man’s attitude had turned a little cold, and the perfunctory amiability from just now was gone.

The Queen wasn’t afraid of him, of course.

It was just that, because she had a crush on him, she was automatically relegated to a disadvantageous position.

She explained patiently, “I’m not forbidding you from coming, but every visitor to Buckingham Palace is subject to strict scrutiny. After all, you should know that not just anybody is allowed to enter. You can only bring a maximum of 20 people with you into the palace!”

King bargained, “70.”

The Queen sighed. “30 at most. No more than that!”

“60.”

The Queen: “?”

The Queen gritted her teeth and said, “35! No more!”

“55.”

The Queen: “!!”

Did he think he was negotiating a business deal with her? Did he know the consequences of giving 55 of them the go-ahead into Buckingham Palace?!

The Queen couldn't help but ask, “What on earth are you planning to do there?”

“Business meetings.”

Well, with that, she couldn't continue the topic with him any further.

Nora, whose eyes were narrowed into slits, seemed asleep, but in reality, she had been listening to them with her ears pricked up.

What kind of business meeting was he having? Was that the way to make a request to the Queen?

Just as she was secretly dissing him, the Queen heaved another helpless sigh, surprisingly showing him exceptional patience. She said, “I really take my hat off to you. You refuse to tell me anything, yet you insist that I give you clearance. 40 people this is my limit.”

“Deal.”

King immediately replied with just a single word.

Only then did the Queen say, “What have you been up to lately? You...”

Before she could even finish, King suddenly stood up and said, “I suddenly recalled that I have something to attend to, so I'll leave first.”

The Queen: “??!”

She stared at King, stunned.

Was he kicking her to the curb now that she had outlived her usefulness?
And casting her aside as soon as she had served her purpose?

This man was so...

She was practically at a total loss for words. She asked resignedly, “You only want to bring 40 people with you into the palace, right?”

King countered with a question of his own and asked, “Can I bring more?”

“... No, you can't! But you can't just cast me aside after making use of me, either. Can't you at least finish the meal with me?”

“Then let me bring another ten people with me.”

III

The Queen really took her hat off to him. She stamped her foot angrily in a rare show of girliness in front of outsiders and said, “Go, go! Your time sure costs a lot!”

King nodded.

Just as he turned to leave, the Queen looked at Barbarian and said, “Go with him. You are responsible for protecting him during these three days he's in Switzerland.”

However, Barbarian said in Welsh with displeasure, “But what are you going to do if I'm gone? You'll be in great danger if you encounter another attack like the one just now.”

The Queen raised her chin proudly and said, “I was the one who contacted him and asked him over to Switzerland. If it's so dangerous here, then all the more I have to ensure his safety. Besides, aren't there a lot of people here anyway? Didn't Black Cat risk her life to protect me precisely because she wants to become my close protection bodyguard?"

After speaking, afraid that Barbarian would still be worried, the Queen looked at Nora and said, "Black Cat, seeing that you saved me, I allow you to stay by my side and protect me."

After saying this, she raised her head proudly.

As the Queen of the UK, she had always been the subject of adulation. Take, for example, the two major organizations, the Assassin Alliance and the Hitman League. In order to please her, both had given their all in the rescue operation just now.

Abbott from the Hitman League had even suffered burns from the fire.

Now that she was giving Black Cat an opportunity like this, she would undoubtedly be incredibly grateful to her.

Unexpectedly, though, as soon as she spoke, Black Cat walked over. The woman's voice was icy as she replied impassively, "No, it's okay."

Her reply stunned the Queen, and she asked, "Didn't you risk your life to come upstairs and save me just so you could stay by my side and protect me?"

"No."

Nora looked at King intently and said, "I did it so that I could protect him." With King visiting Switzerland, Clifford, the Swiss minister, would have to arrange for people to protect him. Just a moment ago, a team of people had already assembled outside, ready to set off. When the Queen heard her, she inexplicably felt like she had just been stabbed in the heart.

She looked at Black Cat and then at King, feeling a little embarrassed. She said, "King has never allowed women to come near him, so I'm afraid this won't be possible."

Nora raised her eyebrows and looked at King. She replied, “Really? Why don’t you ask him?”

King was, after all, the VIP this time. Clifford would definitely prioritize pleasing him over other people.

The Queen was rather annoyed, so she asked King in Welsh, “This is Black Cat from the Assassin Alliance. She’s a woman. She says that she wants to be your bodyguard, but I don’t think you would agree, right?”

As the Queen spoke, she glanced at Black Cat. No one was allowed to refuse her!

Especially if it’s a woman.

King had always practiced abstinence. If she hadn’t known that he had a son, she would have thought that he liked men instead.

Apart from that woman named Nora Smith, King would never allow other women to come near him.

Therefore, King would reject Black Cat for sure.

Once King rejected her, she would also reject her! She would see what Black Cat would do then!

She would be the one embarrassed!

King: “...”

He was about to answer when he saw Black Cat turn to look at him. For some reason, he felt like Black Cat had seen through his mask.

Chapter 902 - In The Same Car

King kept quiet for a while. He actually didn't want her to come with him; after all, what he was about to do was too dangerous.

However, he could see the persistence in her eyes at this moment.

If he didn't agree, then she would go to the UK with the Queen.

That's right, when King realized that she understood Welsh, he had immediately known that she had seen through his plan.

He heaved a quiet sigh and said, "It's my honor to have Ms. Black Cat protecting me."

The Queen who was waiting to laugh at Black Cat: "?"

Her eyes widened in surprise, and she looked at King and Black Cat in disbelief, her gaze shifting between the two again and again. At last, with a frown, she asked, "Are you sure?"

King nodded. "Yeah."

The Queen bit her lip. "Won't your fiancée mind?"

She deliberately spoke in English so that Black Cat understood what she was saying.

She had to let Black Cat know that King had a fiancée! And on top of that...!

The Queen smiled and added, "And your children, too?"

King raised his brows and immediately replied, "They would probably be thrilled."

The Queen: "..."

She'd had enough!

Even so, all she could do was maintain a graceful smile. She looked at Black Cat and said, "Since Mr. King has chosen you, you will be responsible for keeping him safe these three days."

Nora nodded and followed King out.

As the Queen watched Black Cat, who was about to step out, she suddenly thought back to the moment she had rescued her earlier in the evening.

When the fire was surrounding her in the high-rise building, despite being confident and determined, the Queen had nevertheless thought for a moment that she might die in there.

m

Over the years, after experiencing so many assassination attempts, she had long since become accustomed to such situations.

But in the dark night, as the flames spread, when Black Cat held her waist and leaped off the tall building with her, she had taken notice of Black Cat's hand that was gripping the rope.

At this moment, as Black Cat walked toward the exit, even though the wound on her palm had been dressed, the white bandages around it still made her narrow her eyes a little.

The Queen's authority was not to be challenged.

Therefore, when Black Cat rejected becoming her bodyguard to be King's instead, she had indeed gotten angry and had wanted to see her make a fool out of herself. But when she saw the bandages around Black Cat's palm as she followed King out the door, the Queen's eyes suddenly flickered.

"Wait a minute," The Queen suddenly said.

Both King and Black Cat stopped in their tracks.

The Queen walked up to Black Cat and said arrogantly, “Come over here. I have some instructions for you.”

Nora: “?”

After speaking, the Queen raised her chin and walked to the side. Nora followed her over.

Initially, she’d thought that she would be subjected to ridicule and mockery from the Queen, but unexpectedly, the Queen instead said awkwardly and fiercely, “I just want to warn you that Mr. King’s fiancée is not to be trifled with!”

When she thought of Nora and how she always looked so nonplussed at everything, the Queen gritted her teeth angrily. Then, she said, “Two days later, we’ll be going to his fiancée’s turf. If she hears that a female bodyguard like you is by King’s side, that shrew will definitely become jealous!”

Nora: “?”

The Queen went on and said fiercely, “If you run into that fat and fierce shrew, remember to take a step back. Don’t worry, seeing that you saved my life, I will take you in. I won’t let them mock you.”

“... Okay.”

Nora looked at the blond and blue-eyed woman, who was always putting on airs, in front of her. For some reason, she now found her a little cute.

Seeing how indifferent Black Cat was, the Queen became even angrier, feeling like her kindness had gone unappreciated. She immediately waved her off and said, “Alright, alright. You can go!”

Nora turned around. However, before she left, she said softly, “Thanks.”

Her voice was cool and low, but it made the Queen feel a little better.

Nora followed King out the door. Clifford, who was standing outside and waiting in person, looked at King respectfully and said, “Mr. King, these are the bodyguards that I’ve picked for you. They will be responsible for your safety while you are in Switzerland.”

King nodded indifferently.

He understood very well that while those bodyguards were, on the surface, protecting him, in actuality, they might be secretly monitoring him instead.

Moreover, most of them were internal personnel of the Swiss government.

King had his own bodyguards with him, so the bodyguards deployed by the Swiss could only stand guard at the outer boundaries. King walked to his vehicle.

Clifford continued. “Mr. King, are you sure you don’t want to stay in the hotel we prepared for you? After all, our arrangements will be safer...”

But as soon as he said that, King glanced at the hotel that was still emitting smoke, and he asked, “Is that so?”

Clifford: “...”

He suddenly lost all his confidence!

He gave him an embarrassed smile and said, “In that case... See you tomorrow.”

The queen had an appointment with the Swiss president and King the next day.

King nodded and turned to get into the car.

Nora followed behind him. When she arrived where his car was, she saw two familiar faces: Sean and Lawrence.

The two men had left the country at some point in time and were by his side.

Well-done.

He had the time to contact them, but not the time to give her a phone call.

Ha.

While thinking about it, Nora saw King get into one of the cars. Immediately, she tried to get into the same car but was stopped by Lawrence.

“You, take the car at the very back.”

Lawrence ordered.

He looked at the woman in front of him and curled his lips disdainfully. Where did this female bodyguard even pop up from? To think she wanted to take the same car as his boss. Ha, no way.

He had to watch over his boss for Ms. Smith, after all.

However, without even saying a word, Nora merely bent over, went around Lawrence nimbly, and got into the car.

King, who had just gotten in the car: “...”

For some reason, he suddenly felt chills running down his spine.

Chapter 903 - Missing Her Uncontrollably

Outside the car, Lawrence immediately panicked at the sight and stepped forward. He said, “Hey, you can’t...”

Bam!

Nora closed the car door, shutting out Lawrence’s noisy yammering.

Lawrence: “?”

Lawrence became even more fired up. He reached out to knock on the car window but Sean grabbed his arm at this point. He pushed his glasses up slightly and said frostily, “Don’t knock anymore.”

“What do you mean ‘Don’t knock’?!” Lawrence retorted furiously, “Didn’t you see how stupid that woman is? Is this car one she can get into? It’s my duty to block out unwanted propositions for Boss!”

After speaking, he wanted to knock again, but Sean’s voice came over once more. He said, “Do you think any random person could get into Boss’ car?”

As soon as he said that, something clicked in Lawrence’s mind.

Indeed, others might not know, but he did. His boss was the Big Brother of the Irvin School of Martial Arts and was highly skilled in martial arts. It was true that not just anyone could get near him.

Yet his boss had allowed that female bodyguard to enter the car. Could it be that...?

Lawrence glared at Sean. “Boss has fallen for someone else? Or is he planning to see someone else behind Ms. Smith’s back? Sean, you mustn’t go along with Boss in things like this; we must stand on the side of justice.

Although Ms. Smith isn't very reliable, she did bear three children for Boss!
..."

Sean: "..."

Sean couldn't be bothered to speak any further, he dragged him over to the car behind.

After everyone got into their cars, Sean ignored the noise by his ear and ordered, "Let's go."

All the cars immediately started and drove out one after another.

Inside the black car in the middle.

King sat upright, glancing to the side out of the corner of his eye every now and then.

Nora had followed him into the car. She must be thinking that "Revenge is a dish best served cold", right?

But since getting in the car, she had stayed silent the whole time, leaning against the seat with her arms folded. The aura around her was frigid and she seemed to be waiting for him to speak first.

King didn't know what to say.

Had she discovered his identity yet or not?

A long while later, seeing that Nora was still staying quiet despite so much time passing, King finally couldn't stand it anymore. He asked slowly, "Are you mad?"

"..." She didn't respond.

She must really be mad at him, right?

King turned his head. The nervous man wanted to explain, but when he leaned in, he suddenly heard even breathing coming from the woman.

King was stunned for a moment. Then, he gently removed her mask, upon which he saw that the woman's eyes were closed and her lips slightly parted. As expected, she had indeed fallen asleep.

II

11

King gazed intently at her for a while.

It seemed that he simply couldn't get enough of that face.

After waiting for a short while, he slowly took off his black mask, revealing the visage that took even time's breath away. Above his fair cheeks were deep-set eyes filled with love and affection. Even the beauty mark at the corner of his eye seemed to be glowing softly in this instant.

The chauffeur looked through the mirror at the two people in the backseat.

In his earphone was Lawrence's voice.

"Keep an eye on them, Hubert. Don't let that woman take advantage of Boss. Also, if Boss loses control of himself, you must remind him that he has three children at home, so he can't fool around outside. That woman, Nora Smith, is not to be trifled with. If she finds out that Boss had the audacity to philander, she will definitely walk out on him with the three kids!"

Just like that, the chauffeur watched helplessly as his boss took off the woman's mask. As he couldn't get a full view from the mirror, he couldn't see the woman's face. Nevertheless, he still saw his boss slowly leaning toward her...

Just as the chauffeur was about to see what his boss wanted to do, a screen was suddenly lowered with a loud swoosh, blocking their line of sight.

The partition not only blocked the chauffeur's line of sight but also blocked out sound. As a result, he couldn't tell what was going on inside anymore.

The chauffeur: “!!”

“How is it? Hubert, is it convenient for you to talk?”

Hubert became nervous. “Yeah, I can talk now, Lawrence.”

Lawrence asked, “Then speak. How is that woman? Is she behaving?”

Hubert replied, “I can’t see anything anymore. Boss has pulled down the screen!”

Lawrence: “!!!”

Two seconds later, Lawrence panicked. He cried out, “It’s over! It’s all over! Sean, this is all your fault for blindly pleasing Boss all the time! Don’t you know that times like these are when he needs subordinates like us the most? Now that Boss has made such a mistake, tell me, what is he going to do?! One is Ms. Smith while the other is that female bodyguard. Surely Boss won’t succumb to seduction and abandon his wife and children, right?!”

“... Can you shut up?” asked Sean.

“No, I can’t! I’m in a huge panic!”

Lawrence was just like a cat on a hot tin roof at the moment.

Sean decided to ignore him.

In the backseat, Justin had absolutely no idea what his subordinates were currently picturing in their minds. He merely leaned in closer and closer... Then, his lips slowly pressed against her soft lips.

He didn’t dare to exert any force, for fear of waking her up.

However, his longing for her that he had kept restrained all this time was infinitely amplified at this moment, consuming him all of a sudden.

He gazed at the visage right before his eyes.

The girl was so pale that her skin was practically see-through. Seemingly exhausted, she slept relatively soundly. Her small and delicate nose was pert and her usually indifferent almond-shaped eyes were tightly shut at the moment. She looked so docile and well-behaved that it made one want to ravish her.

He tried hard to restrain his desire. Even his breathing had become messed up causing the man, who had always been sharp, to fail to notice that the woman's breathing had also become messed up.

He merely gazed at her in such close proximity. It was a while later that he finally struggled to slowly raise his head. The moment the soft sensation at his lips disappeared, he felt an emptiness in the depths of his heart.

As he touched his lips, he couldn't help but look at the woman again-only to see that in the dimly lit car, the woman had, at some point in time, opened her eyes and was looking straight at him.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 904 - Come On, Let'S Get Straight To Business

Justin sat up abruptly. The man, who had just done something bad, had such a guilty conscience that he didn't dare to look at her.

The man, who had always been able to dominate the space he was in, tensed up. In his mind, his thoughts were also warring with one another: When had she woken up? She didn't feel that just now, did she? Should he continue kissing her?

While he was having an internal struggle, the woman abruptly grabbed his collar and pulled him over hard. Justin, a man who could dodge all the gunfire in a rain of bullets, was yanked toward her like a weakling, and he bumped into her.

“Come on, let's...”

Upon hearing this, Justin kissed her hard again.

The kiss this time was extremely passionate.

Justin felt as if the woman was about to claim every part of him, right down to his bones, and the lust in his eyes gradually grew stronger. But when he was about to reach into her clothes, the woman grabbed him.

Justin slowly looked at her. In a husky voice, he asked, “Not doing it anymore?” Nora replied, “Let's...” She'd only uttered a word when the man moved again, seemingly dying to devour her in the car. Nora hurriedly held his hands down again.

It was only then that she felt that the man actually had a lot of physical strength. He must have intentionally lost to her in all their fights in the past, right?

Sensing her displeasure, the man stopped.

His breathing was ragged and fine beads of perspiration had formed on his forehead in the small vehicle. His voice had become even hoarser than before as he asked, “Didn’t you say ‘Let’s?’”

“... I meant let’s talk!” retorted Nora.

Justin froze, only realizing then that he had misunderstood. But now that his desire had been aroused, how would he possibly have the leisure to care about that? He leaned forward to kiss her again and said, “Let’s talk after our business here is done.”

Nora held his head away from her, the look in her eyes chilly as she said, “Mr. King, our business here is to have a good talk.”

“Mr. King”...

That one line of hers made Justin suddenly realize something: the woman was angry!

He coughed and hurriedly sat up straight, all the nonsensical thoughts thrown out of his mind. He looked at Nora and said, “Nora, listen, let me explain.”

“Okay. Go on, I’m listening.”

Nora folded her arms and looked at him indifferently with her cat-like eyes.

How could Nora possibly not be mad?

She had already told Justin that she wanted to look for King and curry favor with him but little did she think that the man would keep the fact that he was King from her!

Although the man had worn a mask, he was someone whom she loved deeply. No matter how hard he tried to hide his identity, even if it was by pure intuition, she would still be able to recognize him immediately once they met.

Even if that guy turned into ashes, he still wouldn't be able to escape her notice. Did he think he was that successful in hiding his identity?

Even so long after they got in the car, he still didn't explain himself like he should have done. Instead, she even had to ask him about it.

Moreover, ever since the Barbarian incident, the guy had disappeared into thin air. He had the time to contact Sean and Lawrence but didn't have the time to give her even a phone call?

Ha.

There were serious consequences to be had when Nora got mad!

Seeing the cold look in the woman's eyes, Justin immediately understood how important this matter was. He lowered his eyes and heaved a silent sigh. He said, "It's not that I didn't want to tell you, or that I didn't want to contact you. I... was injured."

Injured? Nora's eyelashes quivered a little and she glanced at him out of the corner of her eye.

Who was he trying to kid?! Going by how enthusiastic he had been while he was chatting with the Queen earlier, no matter how one looked at it, he didn't seem to be hurt at all.

This guy was too insidious. He must be deliberately acting weak in front of her, right?

She didn't move, nor did she speak. Instead, she continued waiting for him to explain.

Justin didn't seem to be waiting for her to speak either. He merely touched his chest subconsciously.

Upon noticing what he did, Nora frowned and said, "Take off your clothes."

Ahead of them was a traffic light.

Thus, the car had stopped temporarily.

Hubert, the chauffeur, pressed his ear against the screen, hoping to hear what exactly was going on behind him. But the moment he did, he heard the four sensational words: “Take off your clothes”.

Hubert: “”!!”

In his earphone, Lawrence was still pressing him for details.

“How is it? Did you hear anything?”

“Y-yes, I did.”

“What are they doing? What are they saying?”

Hubert stared straight ahead of him in a daze as he replied, “Take off your clothes’.” “What?!”

Lawrence was dumbfounded. “It’s over, it’s all over. Boss has really been bewitched by that vixen! Ms. Smith is going to be abandoned!”

In the backseat.

Justin was also stunned for a second by Nora’s directness. Then, he broke into a smile, his eyes creasing, which seemed to even brighten the dim light in the car a little.

He remarked unhurriedly, “Mm? Are you that direct?”

However, he didn’t move.

Nora knew that the man was doing it on purpose this time to change the subject. Without saying another word, she reached out forcefully, grabbed Justin’s blazer, and took it off.

on aw

As soon as she removed the blazer, she saw that the color of the black shirt he was wearing was a little darker on his chest.

Nora's pupils shrank, her keen senses detecting that those were bloodstains.

She yanked hard. With a loud rip, the silk shirt was torn open, revealing the white bandages wrapped around Justin.

The bandages were soaked with blood. It was apparent that it was either an old wound that had opened, or it was a fresh one.

She frowned and asked, "What happened?"

"It's nothing." Justin said impassively, "It's just a small injury."

Nora had already unraveled the dressing, upon which she saw an incision near where his heart was. Judging from its size, it was likely made in order to remove a bullet from within...

In other words, a bullet had scarcely grazed his heart.

Although she knew very well that the man survived, the mere thought that he might have died if the bullet had even so much as deviated by the scantest of lengths made the look in Nora's eyes turn cold. Murderous intent abruptly burst forth from all around her, and she slowly asked, "What on earth happened?"

Her voice was trembling a little, the fearless woman found herself somewhat shaken at the moment.

Her children had indeed almost lost their father at one point.

Justin patted her on the head as if he was smoothing the fur of a cat close to becoming riled up. His voice was mellow and powerful as he replied, "It's really nothing. It was just a little skirmish with the enemy."

A little skirmish?

That so-called “little skirmish” had almost won him an appointment with Hades!

Seeing that Justin was about to speak again, Nora’s voice turned stern and she said, “I want the truth.”

She had never been a fragile flower who needed to be protected by a man.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 905 - He Was By Her Side All Along

Seeing her resolute eyes, a short silence later, Justin finally told her the truth. “A few days ago, the mysterious organization sent their men here.”

Nora’s eyes narrowed at once.

Right.

The mysterious organization had always been said to be extremely powerful. Even back in the United States, when Nora and Justin wanted to catch them, they’d been as slippery as eels and had withdrawn all their men there.

Nora only had a taste of how strong Barbarian was; she hadn’t yet come into direct contact with the mysterious organization’s armed forces.

Back when Barbarian came to steal the V16 at Staav University, Brenda’s men had surrounded the school. Despite that, Trueman had still sent just a weakling like Caleb.

Though Caleb had indeed given her a hand at the last moment, the truth was that throughout the fight for the gene serum, the mysterious organization’s armed forces had never once showed up!

She had been wondering why things had gone so smoothly. As it turned out, Justin had fended off the mysterious organization’s attacks for her.

She gazed at the man in front of her.

Back in the United States, he single-handedly held Barbarian back, tossed the clue to the gene serum to her, and then faked his death to direct all the conflicts to Barbarian.

This had made Barbarian everyone's target.

After that, while everyone kept their eyes on Barbarian, thinking that he'd gotten his hands on the gene serum, she had sneaked into the university and retrieved the real gene serum.

He hadn't made an appearance then either.

Later, Queenie had even griped about him pulling a disappearing act and leaving her and the children in the lurch.

She'd thought that he was either busy or injured, but as it turned out, he'd gone to eliminate all the remaining obstacles for her!

The man was no weaker than her, and he even had two assistants, Lawrence and Sean, by his side. As King, she believed that he even had his own armed forces. Yet, in spite of all that, he'd still nearly taken a shot to the heart from the mysterious organization.

Nora didn't even need to probe him for details to imagine how dangerous it must have been!

Seeing that she had fallen silent, Justin said, "Um... Actually, I..."

"You don't need to say any more." Nora interrupted him. She checked the wound and found that the operation had been very successful. Even if she was the one performing the operation, all she'd have accomplished would just be a nicer suture and nothing else. She started to rummage through her bag.

As Black Cat, she had been carrying a backpack on her back the whole time.

Justin watched as the girl nearly poked her head all the way into the backpack as she rummaged through it with both hands. The edges of the backpack pushed her hair back, causing a few strands of hair to stand messily, which made her look rather adorable.

The warmth in his eyes deepened.

Since he became King, it had become a given that he'd have to go through perilous situations again and again.

Injuries were also commonplace. In the past, whenever he got hurt, he'd always feel lost and wonder what he was doing all this for. But now, it seemed that he had found his purpose in life.

He knew that she was no fragile flower, of course. That was why, back in the United States, he'd dared to fake his death and slip away so decisively. He had also left the Hunts to her with peace of mind without even so much as a word to her.

Sure enough, she lived up to his expectations and helped him protect the family.

Outside of the United States, he'd led his men to fight off the mysterious organization's attacks, but in truth, how could he possibly be unaware of the danger she would be putting herself in at the university?

Despite that, he did not regard her as someone who needed protection; rather, he saw her as his comrade-in-arms and the other half in his life.

They joined forces to protect their three children, and watching over them as they grew up seemed to have given meaning to his life.

While he was thinking, Nora found the medicine he needed.

As Nora had to lead the team in the security assignment, she'd specially brought some medical supplies with her, so that it would be more convenient if she needed to treat any wounds. In the hotel, a fire had broken out on the upper floors. When the men at the lower floors besieged the two assailants, they hadn't suffered any injuries, so the supplies had been left untouched.

She cleaned Justin's wound with saline solution and then checked his sutures. After applying a salve on the wound, she gently dressed his wound once more.

As his wound was on his chest, her head was lowered as her hands went around Justin's torso again and again.

Justin could see the top of the girl's head. A few strands of her hair brushed across his skin, tickling him. He wanted to reach out and neaten her hair for her, and help her smooth out the two silly locks of hair standing upright atop her head.

But the moment he moved even a little, the girl would say fiercely, "Don't move."

He could only maintain the same posture.

By this time, the car had arrived at Justin's residence. When the car stopped, Lawrence quickly hurried over. Though the car windows were covered with black films that prevented people on the outside from looking in, when Lawrence leaned in close, he could still spy two vague silhouettes.

That was when he saw the female silhouette pressed right against the male silhouette's chest. Not only was she bobbing up and down, but she even ordered coldly, "Don't move."

Lawrence: "!!!"

Was that female bodyguard into such thrilling stuff?!

No wonder his boss was overwhelmed! It was over, all over! Ms. Smith had been utterly defeated!

He was going to see just who on earth that woman seducing his boss was!

Chapter 906 - Jealousy

Lawrence stood right outside the car door and waited quietly for it to open.

At last, the people inside stopped what they were doing, and it quietened down.

A while later, the car door finally opened and the female bodyguard got out. However, she'd put on Black Cat's mask again, rendering it impossible for anyone to see what she looked like.

Lawrence glared at her fiercely and then looked at the man in the car. However, even after a while, the man inside didn't move. He couldn't help but call out hesitantly, "Boss?"

Only then did the man in the car move. He put on his blazer and got out with his mask on.

However, everyone could see that underneath Mr. King's blazer, his shirt had been ripped apart!

On top of that, his blazer was also crumpled and it was obvious at first glance that he had been ravished. Everyone lowered their heads at once and pretended not to have seen anything

The men sent by Clifford looked at one another and immediately informed Clifford of the news.

Unable to wait any longer, the eager Mr. King had done this and that to Black Cat right in the car. Moreover, judging from how Black Cat's clothes were barely rumpled while Mr. King's were in a mess... As it turned out, Mr. King didn't stay away from women; he just had no interest in ordinary people and liked the wild ones like Black Cat, that's all!

He preferred being at the bottom!

Even Lawrence couldn't bear to look anymore. However, his eyes, as he looked at Nora, became even more filled with grievance.

He couldn't help but look at Justin. With his voice lowered, he asked, "Boss, how... how can you let her tear your clothes apart like this? Didn't you put up any resistance?"

"... I did," Justin replied.

"Then how did she still..." Lawrence couldn't bring himself to say the rest. Since he'd still been ravished despite putting up resistance, needless to say, his attempt at resistance must have failed!

Gosh, was that female assassin known as Black Cat really that ferocious?!

Just as the thought formed in his mind, he saw the person walking in front suddenly stop and look behind. The moment she looked over, Lawrence hid behind Sean in a flash, too scared to stand up for Nora any further.

Even Boss was no match for her. Ms. Smith, I can only offer you my condolences!

ca

Nora looked around the place and found that it was a private mansion, likely King's property in Switzerland. Though not as big as Queenie's castle, when she looked around casually just now, she realized that the security measures here were excellent. The armed forces stationed here were also immensely strong.

ca

It would be impossible for anyone to successfully invade unless they had thousands of people.

She glanced at Justin, upon which the man strode over and came up to her. He asked, "What would you like for dinner?"

"Beef Wellington."

Justin: “?”

For some reason, he suddenly recalled that the Queen had been eating Beef Wellington earlier in the evening. This... should be... seemed to be... and probably was... a coincidence, right?

He coughed, and then he said with a nod, “Alright, I’ll get them to prepare it right away. It takes a while to cook, though, so you’ll have to wait a little.”

Nora remained where she was. Behind her mask, her cat-like eyes looked at him in a seemingly amused manner, and she seemed to raise her brows as she replied, “Uh-huh, it’s my honor to wait for you.”

Justin: “?”

He didn’t realize anything for a while there.

The two entered the living room. Nora went straight to the sofa and took a seat while Justin went to the bedroom and changed into loungewear. But when he came back out, he saw Nora staring at him, so he asked, “What’s the matter?”

Nora replied, “Nothing much. I’m just looking at how you still look as radiant as ever and how time doesn’t move for you at all.”

Thinking that she missed him, joy welled up in Justin. But the next moment, he suddenly realized something: why did those words of hers sound kinda familiar?

He suddenly recalled his exchange with the Queen when he had met her earlier in the day:

“Mr. King is as charming as ever.”

“Your Majesty is also as radiant as ever.”

“Really? I thought I’d aged since we last met three years ago.”

“Not at all. It seems that time doesn’t move for you, Ma’am.”

“... I wonder who is more beautiful, me or your fiancée?”

“You have a grander presence, Ma’am.”

...

The corners of his lips spasmed a little. “That’s... Nora, I was just being polite with her. Don’t take it seriously. I...’

“I understand. You saw that the Queen has a grander presence, so you needed to be polite with her, of course.”

Justin: “!!”

At that time, he’d really believed that she didn’t understand Welsh. That was why he had tried to flatter the Queen so that it would be easier for him to convince her to allow him to take more men with him into the palace.

Justin and the Queen had actually spent three months in school together. He knew the Queen very well. She was a proud woman who liked being lauded and praised.

And sure enough, wasn’t it because he had lauded the Queen with enough praise that she allowed him to take a groundbreaking total of 40 men with him into the palace?

But who knew that Nora could understand what he had said? It was all over! The backyard was on fire!

Justin panicked. He wanted to explain, but he didn’t know how to. Just then, he saw the girl seated on the sofa blinking, and then, she suddenly burst into laughter.

Realizing that she was just joking and wasn’t really mad at him, Justin heaved a sigh of relief.

Why would Nora ever mind something like that?

She'd never been one to care about superficial things. She just wanted to... tease him.

After all, leverage on him didn't come easy...

But after she spoke, she straightened her expression and said, "Come on, tell me, what are you going to the Royal Palace for?"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 907 - The True Mastermind Behind The Scenes!

Now that things had come to this, there was no point in hiding anything from her anymore.

Justin kept quiet for a while before he replied, "I can confirm that the mysterious organization is in Buckingham Palace."

Nora nodded.

She had already informed Morris of this.

She had learned about it from Xander. One could say that the two children had unwittingly solved a longstanding mystery. However, she hadn't been in contact with Justin during this period at all. Therefore, Justin had derived this entirely by himself.

From the looks of it, King indeed held great power. At the very least, he had more sources of information than Morris.

She asked, "Is the Queen connected to this?"

"No."

Justin answered with certainty.

Nora's lip corners curled upward, and a seemingly amused look entered her eyes.

"Oh? You trust her that much?"

Justin promptly answered, "No, it's not that. She is simple-minded, and she isn't that cunning. If the mysterious organization was hers, she would have shown it off long ago."

Nora: "..."

The man sure had a strong survival instinct. She couldn't tease him even if she wanted to. How uninteresting...

Regardless, she asked, "If it wasn't authorized by the Queen, then who else could it be? For such a large organization to stay hidden in Buckingham Palace, who else can achieve it besides her? Moreover, Barbarian is by her side."

Cherry and Princess Lucy were very good friends. As such, Nora was obligated to rescue the Queen from the fire, but she hadn't planned to do so at all at that time precisely because her impression of the Queen had plummeted after learning that the mysterious organization was in Buckingham Palace.

It was through the chat between the Queen and her aide that she later vaguely sensed that the Queen had nothing to do with the matter. Coupled with how she'd witnessed the Queen's love for her daughter, that was why she had saved her.

There was still a lot of time before the Beef Wellington would be ready, so Justin sat next to Nora and filled her in on the Queen's situation.

"During this recent period of time, I've figured out the mysterious organization's situation on the inside. Those 1,000 children selected by the mysterious organization had gone through extraordinarily inhumane torture in their childhood. The five who ultimately survived greatly resent the mysterious organization.

"The five of them are Trueman Yale, Caleb Gray, Listener, Spacey, and Barbarian.

"In Trueman's case, he has no choice. As the young master, the mysterious organization is his home. For Caleb, he is on relatively good terms with Trueman because the latter saved him several times. That's why he works for the mysterious organization.

“But the other three can be said to have irreconcilable differences with the mysterious organization.

“The pianist who died some time ago was Listener. After undergoing genetic modifications, she became extremely perceptive to sounds, but this characteristic was not of any particular use to the mysterious organization. Moreover, she was obsessed with the arts. Whether genuine or just an act, she didn’t hold any substantial impact on the mysterious organization. After Trueman took over, he spared her life. Unfortunately, Listener ultimately still died from the backlash brought upon by the lack of the V16...”

At this point, Nora interrupted him and asked, “They were all injected with the gene serum at the same time, so why did Listener die two months earlier than the rest?”

Justin explained, “I was also puzzled by this. After sending someone to investigate, I found out that Listener was older than the rest of the children.”

Nora was taken aback.

Justin said, “The 1,000 children that the mysterious organization experimented on had ranged from newborns to ten-year-olds. Of the five who survived, the other four are of similar age, with all of them being about two or three years old back then. Children too young cannot withstand the gene serum’s effects; while those too old find the transformation too painful to endure and their bodies are also unable to adapt to the effects. Listener was already ten years old at that time. She was also the only one who survived among the ten-year-olds. Going by their ages, Trueman, Caleb, and the others are about 28 or 29 years old now, but Listener was already 36 years old.”

Nora nodded, a contemplative look coming over her face.

Caleb had given her a crash course on the five survivors’ abilities, but it was not as detailed as Justin’s investigation results.

Justin went on. “As for Spacey, he’s a hacker, and he comes and goes like a ghost. He is also very smart and has stayed in hiding all this time, so the mysterious organization can neither find him nor do anything about him.”

Upon hearing this, Nora thought of the dead Liam, and her eyes darkened a little. Her slender fingers tapped against the armrest of the sofa, and her expression turned somewhat contemplative.

At the sight, Justin asked, “What’s wrong?”

“Oh,” Nora’s fingers paused and she said, “It’s nothing. Go on.”

II

11

As King, no one had ever dared to speak to him in a commanding tone. However, the girl in front of him didn’t make Justin feel affronted in the least. He merely gave her an affectionate smile and went on.

“The last one is Barbarian. His genetic modifications can be said to be the most useful. After escaping from the lab back then, he passed out on the road and was picked up by the Queen. Later, the Queen found out that he was a martial arts prodigy, so she trained and groomed him until he became the Queen’s close protection bodyguard. With the Queen protecting him, the mysterious organization doesn’t dare to do anything to him, for fear of alerting her to their existence. I found out that it’s also because of this that Barbarian is very loyal to the Queen.”

Nora asked, “Does the Queen know of his identity?”

Justin shook his head. “Who knows...”

Did Justin mean that the Queen was unaware of Barbarian’s identity, or did he mean that even he didn’t know whether the Queen knew or not? The meaning behind the two clearly differed completely.

Yet Nora understood Justin’s concise answer. She laughed and remarked, “Then the Queen isn’t as simple-minded as you claim she is, is she?”

Despite not knowing the man inside-out, she didn't fear using him. The Queen had guts.

Moreover, even Justin couldn't tell whether she knew of Barbarian's identity or not. This alone demonstrated her shrewdness.

Justin smiled and said, "A woman who can ride out overlapping power struggles to eventually sit on the throne would never be that simple. Regardless, I know the extent of her capabilities. Besides, her age doesn't match. The mysterious organization was founded during your mother's time, but the Queen is only thirty this year."

Nora nodded. "In that case, apart from the Queen, who else is capable of keeping such a large organization-or rather, a lab-in Buckingham Palace basements?"

The thought alone instilled fear in one.

Beneath the palace that one had lived in for numerous years was a secret inhumane laboratory conducting biological experiments.

Justin smiled and replied, "I've thought of someone."

"Who is it?"

Chapter 908 - The Shrewish Fiancée

Justin leaned over right up to Nora and whispered, “The Queen Mother.”

Nora raised her brows. What? Was the Queen Mother still alive?

Justin nodded.

Nora was puzzled. “Then why was the throne ceded to the Queen?”

Justin replied, “The Queen Mother abdicated over ten years ago and has retreated behind the scenes. She’s gotten on in her years and must be already at least 70 years old now. The Queen is her youngest daughter.”

Everything clicked in Nora’s head now. That made sense. Only members of the royal family would be able to build an enormous laboratory in Buckingham Palace basement.

“This is just my theory, and I don’t have any direct evidence yet, but I should think that one’s greatest wish after they age would probably be longevity. Moreover, Trueman’s modified genes do indeed have to do with his lifespan. If he manages to get the V16 administered, he would live to at least 200 years old.”

Nora sighed. “There are numerous tales of sovereigns seeking the elixir of life in ancient times, and now we have all these things happening too... One’s lifespan is predetermined, so why bother going to such lengths?”

Justin put his arm around her shoulder. “You’re right. But now that I have you and the children, I’d probably feel that my lifespan is not long enough!”

Nora thought about it and then replied, “Well, that’s true.”

Justin leaned in closer to her. “Yeah, so I plan to march straight to Buckingham Palace to attack and destroy their base. This way, once the mysterious organization is left with only a few people, it won’t pose a threat anymore.”

“Got it.”

Justin drew even closer to her. “Nora, I...”

But before he could finish, Nora pushed him away and got onto her feet.

“Food’s ready,” she said.

A servant brought the Beef Wellington in and placed it on the table.

Justin: “...”

The resigned man got up and followed Nora over. After the two sat at the dining table, Nora suddenly asked, “You don’t intend to take me with you?”

Justin was a little taken aback when he heard this.

After a moment of silence, he finally replied, “I wasn’t planning to. The children are still too young; if something untoward happens to me, I thought at least you’d still be there to take care of them...”

After speaking, he looked at Nora.

He knew that the woman didn’t appreciate him trying to protect her, so he didn’t know if she would agree to it.

Nora, however, rested her chin on her palm and kept quiet without answering as to whether she was going along or not. She merely looked at him suddenly and asked, “You’re not hiding anything else from me, are you?”

“Not at all!” Justin’s eyes flickered and he answered firmly, “Really!”

“Okay.”

Nora replied indifferently.

Justin: “?”

So, did she agree to it or not?

He didn't dare to ask her about it. He would just make preparations with the assumption that she wasn't going.

After the two finished their dinner, Justin asked her how the children were doing. When he heard that the children were all safe and sound, he breathed a sigh of relief.

Soon, it was bedtime. Justin looked at her with a smoldering look in his eyes and suggested, “Let's sleep together?”

“No, that won't do.”

Nora had already put on Black Cat's mask after dinner. She said, “I'm your bodyguard, you know.”

Justin also put on his mask.

After all, they were in Switzerland. Should anyone learn of his true identity, he would be in for a whole lot of trouble in the future.

He chuckled and corrected her. “My close protection bodyguard, you mean.”

Nora: “...”

The two ultimately didn't share the same bed—they had a bunch of the Swiss breathing down their necks, after all. Thus, Nora left the house after dinner. As soon as she exited, she spotted Lawrence sneakily keeping an eye on them not far away. At the sight of her coming out, he seemed to breathe a sigh of relief.

The next day, the three parties met for a chat.

As his bodyguard, Nora followed behind Justin and entered the meeting room with him. The Swiss president very graciously invited King to make investments in the country and also offered to give the go-ahead for various policies.

Justin agreed to it, and the discussion between the two parties went very smoothly.

It was just that...

Nora watched the service staff coming in and going out.

Her impression was that people who could get a job as service staff here to serve water and whatnot were mostly tall, slender, attractive, and pleasing to the eye. So why was every single one of them the strong and buff type? One of the waitresses even deliberately revealed her arm muscles and lifted her arm a couple of times when she walked up to Justin.

Nora and Justin were speechless.

Neither of them knew that when the waitresses went out, Clifford immediately stopped them and asked, "Did Mr. King take extra notice of any of you?"

The info he'd received the day before had said that King liked being at the bottom!

However, the waitresses shook their heads in unison.

Clifford was perplexed. Was the information wrong? He couldn't help but reprimand his subordinate.

"Can't you find a few with the same physique as Black Cat instead?"

His subordinate was close to tears. "Among those who are as slim as her, how many of them have the same incredible physical strength and muscles as powerful as hers?"

Clifford: "..."

King had always been a highly efficient man, and the meeting concluded successfully in no time. After leaving the meeting room, Justin rejected the warm invitations from the Queen and the Swiss president.

Seeing how firm he was, the Queen could only say helplessly, "I'll see you at the Schmidts tomorrow, then. I heard that your fiancée is also here. It's been a long while since I last saw her. I miss her a little too!"

After speaking, the Queen glanced at Black Cat, who was standing behind Justin.

Did you hear me, woman? His shrew of a fiancée will be there too!

However, Black Cat didn't seem to understand.

As such, the Queen could only beckon to her once more and say, "Black Cat, your mission ends tomorrow, right? In that case, you don't have to follow him there."

Nora: "??"

She looked at the Queen and kept quiet.

At this point, a waitress came over and passed by Nora at the back. All of a sudden, she seemed to lose her balance as she lurched straight toward Nora. At the same time, her hand grabbed Nora's mask to rip it off!!

For a moment there, everyone looked over in unison!

Chapter 909 - Queenie'S True Identity!

The waitress was rather displeased.

Clifford had brought the group of them here, hoping that King would take a fancy to them, upon which he would gift the chosen ones to him. If they could catch King's eye, they would shoot up to success straightaway for sure.

Unexpectedly, though, be they sweet and pretty, a dominatrix, or pure and innocent, King couldn't be bothered to spare them even a glance. This filled the waitress with absolute indignation.

Not only was she the prettiest among the group, but her muscles were also the most beautiful among them. How was she any inferior to Black Cat? Thus, she couldn't help but want to remove Black Cat's mask and let everyone compare the two of them.

She had clearly succeeded, her hand had clearly reached Black Cat's mask, and yet, the next moment...

Bam!

She was kicked away with great force, which sent her flying out.

Everyone there was stunned.

What shocked them, though, was not the waitress being kicked away, but that it was Mr. King, the man himself, who had kicked her away!

He had grabbed Black Cat's shoulder with one hand and then stood in front of her, blocking her completely from the attack and keeping her protected behind him. Everyone who saw this was dumbfounded.

Even Lawrence couldn't help holding his forehead.

Boss, have you been totally bewitched by that woman?

Have you forgotten that she's your bodyguard and not the other way around?

Lawrence was close to bewailing this development, he felt terribly aggrieved on Nora's behalf. No, this wouldn't do. He was an upright man. He mustn't allow Ms. Smith to be kept in the dark.

He thought of how they would be visiting the Schmidts the next day. From what he'd heard, Ms. Smith and the three children were also at the Schmidts. Once they went over, he must warn her about this.

Clifford hadn't expected this to happen, either. Furious, he got someone to take the kicked waitress out of the place, and then, he said grimly, "Rest assured that I will give you a proper explanation for this, Mr. King!"

Justin gave Clifford a long look and said, "Good. Please liaise with my secretary regarding the disciplinary action to be taken against her."

This meant that he was going to pursue the matter to the bitter end.

Realizing what he meant, Clifford heaved a sigh inwardly and gave a heavy nod.

Only then did Justin leave with Nora.

The Queen was a little unhappy when she saw how protective he'd been of Black Cat just now. However, in front of outsiders, the Queen had always held herself with absolute grace and poise, so she didn't say anything.

The few of them came to the parking lot.

While King and the Queen were politely bidding each other goodbye, Nora felt someone tugging at her sleeve. She turned her head to the side to see Black Panther behind her. She immediately took a few steps back and asked softly, "What is it?"

Black Panther said, “Abbott plans to expose you. Be careful when you’re with King, and don’t expose yourself.”

“Got it.”

Nora answered with ease.

However, this made Black Panther very anxious. He said, “Don’t take this lightly or let your guard down. I know you’re skilled, but as assassins, apart from our fighting abilities, there are a lot of other things we can use to prove our identity...”

Black Panther wasn’t finished, but King had already gotten in the car and was calling for Nora. Thus, Nora grunted a couple of times perfunctorily and then turned and left, which made Black Panther panic.

Never mind if she was exposed, but it would be terrible if it ended up affecting Black Cat’s name!

Regardless, there was no use even if he panicked. Nora had already got into King’s car and left.

This action of Nora’s made the Queen narrow her eyes again, but right after, she let out a soft snort. She had initially been a little jealous, but when she suddenly thought of Nora, who was at Queenie’s, her jealousy suddenly vanished.

Black Cat had saved her life, so she wouldn’t want to make things difficult for Black Cat for sure.

In that case, she would let King’s feelings for Black Cat grow even further then. This way, wouldn’t Nora fall out of favor?

Now that she was looking at things from another perspective, she suddenly felt liberated!

The Queen happily started humming a tune. She would be pleased as long as it made Nora unhappy!

Thinking about it that way, Black Cat sure was her lucky star.

Tsk, tsk. She would go to the Schmidts the next day and check out how awful Nora's expression would be!

With each of them harboring their own thoughts, they respectively returned to their places of accommodation.

After arriving at Justin's place, Nora confirmed with him that he wouldn't be heading out anymore that day and that he would be calling on the Schmidts the next day. After thinking about it, she decided to leave.

Lawrence wasn't happy about it. He said, "As a bodyguard, how can you step away so casually?"

Nora replied, "Oh, I'm on leave."

Lawrence: "?"

She was only on bodyguard duty for three freaking days, yet she could still apply for leave?

Also, how come her phone was back with her?

Was there anyone permitted to carry their cell phone with them when they were on duty to protect their employer?

However, Lawrence didn't dare to bring it up. Seeing that even his boss had been ravished by her in the car and that his resistance had been futile, he'd better not offer up his feeble little body for abuse.

Nora left and went to the villa she had been staying at when she first arrived in Switzerland.

She wanted to ask Cindy about something.

Unexpectedly, though, the moment she arrived, she saw Cindy standing at the door to the villa. In front of her squatted a grimy girl.

The girl's hair was clumped in locks—it was obvious that her hair was filthy.

The white dress she was wearing was so dirty that one couldn't even tell its original color anymore.

Cindy was trying to persuade her into going in. She said, "... Why don't you go in? There's no use staying here. Come on, Rene, go in."

But the girl shook her head stubbornly and said, "No, I won't..."

Cindy broke into a frown. Just as she wanted to reply, she heard the car. When she looked over, she saw Nora getting out of the car, and she came over at once. "Ms. Nora, why are you here?"

"What's going on?"

Nora gestured to Rene with her chin.

Cindy sighed. "See, her adoptive parents were killed, right? She doesn't have anywhere to go anymore, so I took her in. But she refuses to go in and insists on staying here, saying that she's waiting... for Liam."

Almost as soon as she finished, Rene also caught sight of Nora. The timid girl's eyes lit up, and she scrambled off the ground and rushed over. She said, "M-Ms. Smith, can... can you tell me where Liam is? Did he go to work? Why isn't he back yet?"

The girl looked at Nora hopefully as if she was her last hope of salvation in the world. She said, "I... I know you are a good person. Liam told me before to trust you and be with you... And where's Cherry? I can make her some yummy food!"

As the girl spoke, tears rolled down her cheeks. "Can you guys not throw me aside, please?"

The look in her eyes was as timid as ever. The girl, who had always been quiet and reticent, was speaking so much that a pitying look came over Cindy's countenance.

She looked at Nora and asked, “Miss, what should we do?”

Nora, however, lowered her eyes and gazed fixedly at Rene. Just as she was about to speak, her cell phone suddenly rang.

When she answered, Trueman’s voice came from the opposite end.

“Hello, my little servant. Do you want to know Queenie Schmidt’s secret?”

Nora’s pupils shrank.

Trueman laughed. Even his voice sounded wicked as he said, “I accidentally discovered her true identity. It was really surprising. This is so exciting. Try guessing who she is?”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 910 - She'S Not A Good Person

Unexpectedly, it was too exciting?

Nora frowned. "Who is it?"

Trueman grinned like a little demon. "Call me Master and I'll tell you."

Nora was silent for a moment before suddenly saying, "Master."

Trueman: "???" "Done. Now, tell me."

Trueman: "!!"

Why did this person suddenly become so shameless after going overseas? Didn't she refuse to call him 'Master' in the past?

Nora's actions were suddenly defying logic, which made Trueman choke. "It's not so simple as just calling me 'Master'. I want you to listen to me. From now on, I'll be your real master!"

"Oh, okay," Nora said. "Tell me and I'll listen to you."

"...I, I won't say anything! Unless you send the V16 over now!"

Trueman was furious.

Nora: "..."

She knew he would not say it.

Queenie actually had a lot of secrets.

It was not an easy feat creating NTT alone and turning it into such a big company.

Her mother had only mentioned Queenie in passing. However, at that time, she had said that if she was ever in grave danger, she should look for Queenie. However, If there was nothing important, she shouldn't go looking for her. That was why Nora had lived with the Smiths for so many years.

In the end, she became weak when she gave birth and someone had taken advantage of her.

Queenie had suddenly rushed back from overseas and taken her away forcefully.

To be honest, Queenie was more like a way out for her. If she had not encountered any life-threatening situations in the country, perhaps she would always have had this kind of impression of Queenie.

Her relationship with Queenie had nurtured over those five years in the past.

Over the five years, she always sensed that Queenie was not really happy. As such, she was often drunk and alcohol would not leave her hand.

Only Cherry could make her feel happy.

Nora wanted to know why, but she had never thought of learning it from an outsider. It was like Justin's secret. She had been waiting for that man to tell her himself.

She knew that Queenie would tell her about it herself when the time came.

Therefore, even if she could know by hearing it from Trueman, she was not disappointed that she could not. In the end, she only nodded calmly.

It was impossible for her to give him the V16.

Trueman: "...Hmph."

Nora saw that he did not hang up. “Is there something else?”

“...” Trueman was really furious. “I know you have two V16s. You will use one for your son, leaving one more. Who are you going to give it to?”

Nora had not considered this problem.

This was because both of the serums were prepared for Xander. After all, it had been so long since the serum was made. Who knew if it would fail? Or if it would be insufficient?

She did not speak. Trueman continued, “Why don’t you give me the other V16? That way, we can work together. According to you, you and I are in cahoots. I’ll help you. That way, we’ll be stronger.”

“...” Nora pursed her lips. That’s not how it was!

This fellow had not improved in his expression at all?

Trueman still felt that he was clear. He continued proudly, “Otherwise, aren’t you afraid that Barbarian will snatch it from you? Let me remind you that Barbarian is invincible. No one can beat him. Furthermore, this person is very unreasonable. Is he as easy to talk to as our mysterious organization?”

Nora lowered her eyes.

Ignoring the fact that the mysterious organization had committed countless sins, just the fact that they had pushed her mother to death made it impossible for her to reconcile with them.

Did Trueman really not understand, or was he pretending not to understand?

Trueman seemed to have heard her heart. He was very puzzled. “Don’t tell me, the reason you don’t cooperate with me is because of your mother? That’s a grievance between our generations. They only gave us lives, they haven't raised us for a day. Are your feelings for her that strong? Let me tell you, feelings and blood ties are useless. Only benefits matter in the end..."

Nora hung up straightaway.

Even if her mother had never raised her, she had thrown her life away for her daughter. Wasn't this love enough?

Trueman's words made her expression turn cold.

"Miss?"

Cindy's voice woke Nora up. She realized that Rene was frightened by the coldness on her body. Her eyes were filled with fear as she looked at her. She took two steps back and did not pester her so much.

Nora then restrained the anger on her body.

Sensing that she was not that scary anymore, Rene slowly took two steps toward her. When Nora looked at her, she stopped in her tracks and lowered her head. It was as if she could not sense her approaching herself without seeing her move.

II

11

Nora entered the living room, and Rene followed.

When Cindy saw this, she immediately said happily, "Ms. Nora, I see that Rene trusts you more. When you entered, she followed you in... You don't know, she stayed outside the entire night yesterday. The weather is still very cold, but she refused to listen to my advice."

Nora came over to take something. When she heard this, she looked at Rene.

She narrowed her eyes and suddenly said, "I have something to take care of. Send her to the Sonnets."

Rene immediately shook her head. She was about to speak when Nora said, “Cherry is there.”

She instantly shut her mouth and nodded obediently.

Cindy: “...”

e

After settling Rene’s matters, Nora walked out. When she got into the car, her phone rang again. She picked it up and Caleb’s weak voice came from the other end. “Ms. Smith, Trueman asked me to call you...”

Nora’s eyes turned a little chilly.

Caleb sighed. “He has no concept of familial ties. Do you know why he’s the young master of the mysterious organization?”

“Why?”

“That’s because his old master had ten sons and eight daughters. He threw all of them into the experiment. Other than Ruth, he was the only one who survived.”

Nora’s pupils constricted.

Caleb continued, “He has lived a very miserable life. He did not distinguish between good and evil. No one taught him to be good to others when he was young. He grew up in such an abnormal place that even his thoughts became abnormal. That’s why he feels that blood ties are the most useless thing in the world. Don’t lower yourself to his level. He was still very puzzled when you hung up on him. He asked me to persuade you to cooperate with him.”

Nora nodded. Caleb coughed. “I also took the opportunity to ask about Queenie, of course.”

Caleb was silent for a moment as if he was organizing his words. “Trueman said that she’s not a good person... She approached you with a goal. He asked you to be careful.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 911 - What Did You Find?

When Nora heard this, she lowered her eyes.

Caleb spoke again, “He has never trusted me completely, so I didn’t find out her identity. However, since he said that, I think you should be careful.”

“Actually, you don’t have to trust anyone, even if it’s me.”

At this point, Caleb coughed again. “Although I don’t have a long life, who knows if I’ll want the gene serum again someday?”

Nora asked, “How is your health?”

“I won’t die for a month, at least.”

Caleb replied with a smile as if he was not sensitive to this topic at all.

Nora was silent for a long time before saying, “Rest well.”

“... Okay.”

Nora wanted to hang up the phone, but seeing that he was a little hesitant, she asked, “Why?”

“Yes?”

“Is there nothing else?”

“...” Caleb was silent for a moment before he coughed and said, “You... nothing. I’m hanging up.”

“Okay.”

After hanging up, Nora felt that Caleb still had some things to say. She frowned and decided to drive to the hospital.

Caleb had helped her block Barbarian's attack last time. Bones in his entire body had cracked, and he was still recuperating.

In the VIP ward.

When Nora arrived, Caleb was already asleep.

When the nurse saw her, she said softly, "Mr. Gray's injuries are recovering very quickly, but his wounds still hurt. Besides, he was given general anesthesia during the surgery. He can't be given any more sedatives now, so it hurts every time we change the dressing."

Hearing this, Nora frowned. "Then, he endured it?"

"Not really." The caregiver smiled. "Whenever this happens, Mr. Gray takes out his earphones and wears them. Hearing the music makes his body feel relaxed. He was also very cooperative when changing the dressing. The doctor asked him what music he was listening to that was so effective, but Mr. Gray did not say anything. We just joked that it was his anesthesia."

IS SO

Listening to music to relieve pain?

This was also a solution.

Nora did not take it seriously. She put on her scrubs and entered the intensive care unit. After checking Caleb's various indicators, she then looked at the person on the bed.

Caleb lay there with a faint smile on his lips.

He still had the Bluetooth earpiece in his ear. One of them fell down and landed beside the infusion tube.

Nora was worried that he would move in his sleep and accidentally press on his earpiece, so she took it out for him. Just as she was about to place it on the table, her ear twitched. When the nurse said that listening to music could relieve the pain, Nora was very curious.

After all, this was a medical study. If it was really so effective, she could forget about using anesthesia for mild pain in the future.

She did not plan to invade someone else's privacy herself.

After all, the things he heard most likely belonged to him and could comfort him.

However, she really did not eavesdrop. She was blaming her good hearing!

The moment she held the earpiece, the voice from inside reached her ears.

When Nora heard that voice, she was stunned.

She looked at the bed again. Caleb was still sleeping

Nora felt that she might have heard wrongly.

Otherwise, why would she hear her voice through his earpiece?

She frowned and brought the earpiece closer to her ear.

Her cold and deep voice was clearly heard from inside.

“... That is why I have no desire. I observe its wonders and its frequent desires.

These two come from the same source and have different names. The same title is profound, mysterious beyond belief, and the door to all wonders...”

Now, she was certain that it was indeed her voice reading the sacred text of morals. Nora: “...”

She frowned and looked at Caleb.

Seeing that the man was still sleeping, she quietly put the earpiece back.

After leaving, she was still frowning.

The nurse said, “Ms. Smith, why don’t you wake Mr. Gray up? He has been looking forward to you visiting him. You finally came, but he fell asleep. When he wakes up, he’ll definitely be angry.”

After saying that, the nurse could not help but look at Nora and advise something beyond her responsibilities as a nurse, “No matter how busy you are, you should come and see him more.”

The first thing Caleb asked when he woke up every day was, “Has Ms. Smith been here?”

Every time she said no, Caleb would be very disappointed.

His eyelids would droop and his lips would be pursed tightly, making the nurse’s heart ache.

A weak, good-looking man gave others a protective instinct.

The nurse felt that it was all Ms. Smith’s fault for not coming often.

Nora did not understand the nurse’s feelings and only glanced at her calmly. This glance immediately made the nurse realize that she had said too much. She immediately lowered her head. “I’m sorry, Ms. Smith. I was too talkative.”

Nora retracted her gaze and did not argue with her.

The nurse explained carefully, “I poured some soup for Mr. Gray today. He asked if you had come over. When I said no, he got distracted and even got scalded from the hot soup, so I just... I shouldn’t have said so much.”

Nora looked into the ward again and was in deep thought.

She instructed, “Take good care of him. Contact me if anything happens.”

Caleb's family was not here. Moreover, Caleb was injured because of her. Nora could not possibly leave him behind.

The nurse nodded, "Okay."

After Nora left, Caleb's ears in the ward slowly turned red. He opened his eyes. When the nurse saw him, she pushed the door open and entered. "Mr. Gray, you're awake? What a coincidence. Ms. Smith just left!"

Caleb stared at the ceiling and nodded.

The nurse poured him a cup of water. "Your girlfriend is really beautiful. She must be very busy too, right?"

Girlfriend...

Caleb's gaze softened. He took a sip of water and lowered his long eyelashes, not denying it.

The nurse continued to ramble. "She must be very busy. Otherwise, why wouldn't she come to see you for so long... But you must like her a lot..."

—

Nora wore a mask and returned to King's place.

She entered the living room and sat on the sofa. When he heard that she was back, Justin put down the document in his hand and went downstairs to see her.

Because there were many more people from Switzerland in the villa, the two of them were wearing masks very carefully.

They sat opposite each other. The scene was very strange, but it was inexplicably harmonious.

Seeing that Nora remained silent, Justin asked, "What are you thinking about?"

Nora: "Caleb."

The man sitting opposite her had a dark expression on his face. "Huh?"

Nora told him about her voice reading in Caleb's earpiece.

Justin's tone was instantly filled with jealousy. He pursed his lips and suddenly asked, "Didn't you notice anything?"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 912 - Mother-In-Law

Looking At Her Son-In-Law

Nora's expression was serious. "I understand."

Justin was delighted. He was about to say that she should stay away from Caleb when he saw the woman sit up straight and slowly say, "I didn't expect my voice to have such an ability."

Justin: "?"

Nora looked at him. "I always felt that my voice was not good."

The girl's voice was crisp and pleasant, but low and cold. As she often slept, it was a little hoarse. It was not considered pleasant in the orthodox sense.

However, her voice gave people a sense of security.

When she spoke in a low voice, she would make others feel that she is especially gentle.

Justin watched as she smiled. "So it can actually be used for hypnosis. Cherry usually doesn't sleep well. It looks like I'll have to read some stories to her every night."

Justin, "?????"

Was that the point?

Didn't Caleb like her?

However, since Nora did not notice, he might as well not say anything. He coughed and was about to say something when Nora spoke again,

“However, he used my voice without my permission. This isn’t good, right?”

Justin nodded. “It’s indeed not good. It’s a little...”

Before he could say the word perverted, he saw Nora nod. “He has to pay my copyright fee.”

Why didn’t he realize in the past that she was a little money-grubber?!

The corners of Justin’s mouth twitched. He saw that Nora had already forgotten about this matter. She looked at Justin and told him what Trueman had said about Queenie.

Justin frowned. “What are you thinking?”

Nora said, “The gene serum is with Queenie now. Since he said that, I suspect that they’re trying to drive a wedge between us. They want me to take out the gene serum... so that it’ll be easier for them to rob us.”

In all of Switzerland, the only person Nora trusted was Queenie.

It was also the safest to leave the gene serum there.

Ignoring the existence of Barbarian’s heaven-defying martial strength, just based on the ability of the mysterious organization Justin had mentioned, once V16 was taken out, it would probably not be safe anywhere.

Trueman was unable to invade Queenie’s villa. Was he using this method to make her bring the serum out herself?

Justin laughed softly. “Yes, then now...”

“I believe in Queenie.”

Nora lowered her eyes and said calmly, “It’s like how I trust you. I trust her too.”

She looked up again, her eyes hardening. “So, whoever she is, I trust her.”

At night.

After Nora fell asleep, Sean entered Justin's room.

Justin said, "Investigate Queenie."

Sean was stunned. The Imperial League had always accepted this new power of the financial group. Only with more and more enterprises and wealthy people would the Imperial League keep a low profile.

Queenie was the CEO of the fastest-growing company in recent years.

The Imperial League had previously investigated the internal structure of their company. It would never accept any company that was involved with drugs. Over the past two years, Queenie had been sending applications to the Imperial League, and they were prepared to accept her. Why was he suddenly investigating her? Sean was confused, so he asked cautiously, "To what extent?"

Justin, "Everything."

Although Sean was shocked, he still lowered his head respectfully. "Yes."

After Sean left, Justin leaned back in his chair and stared at the pictures of Queenie's face on the desk.

He hoped that she deserved all of Nora's trust.

The next day, everyone woke up very early.

It was because they had an appointment with the Queen at the Schmidt villa.

When Queenie heard that King would be coming, she welcomed the idea very much.

Justin also had his own agenda. He wanted to understand this aunt from all sides and see what kind of mysterious person she was.

A group of people arrived at the Schmidt's.

Lawrence looked at Nora following beside Justin and only felt an indescribable feeling. Boss was too brazen. He dared to bring his mistress to see his wife...

Was it because she was wearing a mask that Ms. Smith would not recognize her?

In order to not be recognized, Lawrence and Sean, Justin's right-hand men, would also wear masks at events.

And thus, four masked people entered the Schmidt Villa.

Because the Queen had recommended them, Justin and the Queen first gathered at the entrance before entering together.

The gate of the villa opened. The place was enormous, enough for them to park more than a hundred cars.

As they were guests, the Queen and King could not bring too many bodyguards in. As such, they each chose ten people to follow them in when they were outside the door. The others waited outside.

King and the Queen got out of the car and naturally walked in front.

Queenie came personally to welcome them. On the way, the Queen explained to King, "Mdm. Schmidt is a little arrogant. Don't take offense."

King was very strange, and so was Mdm. Schmidt.

The Queen was really worried that Mars would hit the Earth when the two of them met.

However, it was obvious that the Queen was overthinking

As soon as they met, Queenie's gaze avoided the Queen and landed on King. "This is Mr. King, right?"

Her eyes were sizing him up and she was getting more and more satisfied.

Yes, her son-in-law's figure looked good. Nora was lucky!

King narrowed his eyes and said politely, "Hello, Mdm. Schmidt."

This was Nora's aunt. She was also his elder.

Of course, he had to retract his arrogance.

Their eyes met and the atmosphere was filled with joy.

The Queen: "?"

Why did she feel that the atmosphere between the two of them was a little off?

What was wrong with her gaze as she looked at her son-in-law?!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 913 - You've Been Cuckolded

The Queen was only momentarily surprised before she realized King's thoughts.

After all, she was Nora's aunt. Furthermore, Queenie's attitude toward Nora was completely nurtured as if she was her daughter. She had already said that the company's future belonged to Nora. She completely treated Nora as her biological daughter.

Therefore, King was more polite to her because he knew this.

At the thought of this, the Queen felt a little sour. Did he really like Nora that way? When she thought of that arrogant woman, the Queen instantly felt angry. Why were all the outstanding men in the world so blind to have taken a liking to her?

The Queen looked behind Queenie and asked, "Where's Ms. Smith?"

Queenie smiled. "She's not up yet. You know that my Nora is a sleeping god."

Nora, who was following Justin and had just yawned: "??"

The Queen pursed her lips again.

See, she had to sleep at such an important time. Did she not even care about King? But perhaps she knew King's identity. The Queen secretly swore that she would definitely ignore her today. She did not beg Queenie anymore, so she could showcase her nobility. She could not act like she was in a hurry to build a relationship with them. As soon as the Queen thought of this, the little one behind her rushed over like an arrow.

Before she could stop her, she heard Princess Lucy say to Cherry, who was following behind Queenie, “Cherry, I’m here to meet you again! Do you welcome me?” Cherry: “Very...”

Before the word “much” could leave her mouth, Xander pursed his lips. “Tsk, why are you here again? How long are you planning to stay at our house this time?”

The last time Lucy went to New York, she stayed at the Hunts’ house for a whole week. In the end, it was the nanny who carried her and took her away despite the little princess’s cries. Xander felt that she was too noisy. The Queen: “!!”

Her expression darkened. Her daughter was a noble princess no matter where she went, but this brat was despising her? Lucy had to have a backbone.

However, the next moment, she saw her daughter lean closer to Xander. “Xander, I brought Cherry her favorite gift! Can I stay here for five days?”

Xander stuck out a finger. “One day at most.”

Her daughter shook Xander. “Then, then four days!”

“No, one day.”

“But I want to stay at your house. If you don’t let me, I’ll-I’ll...”

The Queen thought that her daughter had finally flipped out.

Yes, that’s right!

Bring out your dignity as a royal princess! Say, if you’re not allowed to stay, you’ll send troops and capture them!

Anyway, as the Queen, she could not say such things. She would leave the unruly and willful things to her daughter! Then, she would come forward and make peace...

Just as the Queen thought of this, she heard her daughter shout, “I’ll cry!”

The Queen: ...!!!

Little princess, couldn’t she be a little more ambitious?!

Xander was clearly stunned by her words. “Don’t cry. I hate it when girls cry.”

“Then, I won’t cry.”

The little princess immediately wiped her tears and asked quietly, “Then can I stay for three... two days?”

The Queen: “...”

In the past, her daughter had been Cherry’s lapdog. Why was she now being Xander’s lapdog?

The Queen was furious. She could not gain anything from Nora. Why could her child not gain anything from Nora’s child, either?

Even as royalty, why were they so lowly?!!! “Are you not feeling well? You don’t look too good.”

Queenie’s calm words immediately made the Queen put away her gritted teeth and become elegant again. She smiled and said, “No, I just think the children get along quite well.”

Queenie ignored the Queen’s thoughts and only glanced at Black Cat standing behind King. She raised her eyebrows.

The Queen immediately moved closer to Black Cat without a trace and blocked Queenie’s vision. “Mdm. Schmidt, shall we take a look at your castle first?”

Black Cat was Nora’s love rival!

She could not let Queenie hurt her.

Queenie nodded. “It just so happens that Nora is sleeping. It’s not convenient for us to disturb her. I’ll show you around first.”

With that, she glanced at Black Cat meaningfully.

The guards could not follow her the entire time. This was to let Nora hurry back to her room and change her clothes to receive the guests. After all, the two people who came today were also old friends of Nora.

Nora nodded and fell two steps behind. Just as she was about to slip away, her arm was suddenly grabbed.

She looked up and saw the Queen looking at her. She lowered her voice and said, “This is the Schmidt’s territory. Don’t go anywhere. If the Schmidts find out that King is looking at you in a different light, that tigress will definitely not forgive you! Follow behind me, I’ll protect you.”

Nora: “...”

She grimaced. “I need to use the bathroom.”

The Queen glanced ahead and gritted her teeth. “Alright, I’ll accompany you.”

Nora: “??”

That was not what she meant!

Barbarian, who was standing behind the Queen, looked at her deeply with caution in his eyes. The security guards were very responsible. Nora lowered her eyes. “No need. I don’t like to go to the toilet with other people.” The Queen: “?”

After finally shaking off the Queen, Nora skillfully walked through the manor and quickly returned to her room. She changed into a set of daily clothes and took off her mask before walking out of the room.

Up ahead, Queenie had already learned that Nora was “awake.” Therefore, she brought the group of people back to the living room.

Nora pretended to have just come downstairs and greeted them one by one.

The Queen looked at Nora and then at King. She did not know if Nora really did not recognize King or if she was pretending not to know him. Anyway, she pretended to be seeing him for the first time.

She raised her eyebrows and subconsciously looked behind her.

Why wasn't Black Cat out of the toilet?

Was she... having diarrhea?

At this moment, King began taking out the gifts he had prepared.

Lawrence had prepared all the gifts. The gifts for Cherry and the others in front were all normal. Cherry, who had received a Barbie doll, tilted her head and sized up King carefully. Her dark eyes were shining, but she did not speak.

Justin knew that the little fellow had recognized him.

However, the little fellow was very smart. Seeing that Nora did not acknowledge him, she did not say anything, either. Pete and Xander also looked at each other and blinked.

Finally, it was Nora's turn.

Justin smiled. “I also prepared a gift for Ms. Smith. I wonder if you'd like it.”

After saying that, he waved his hand. Lawrence, who was wearing a mask, instantly stepped forward and handed a box with a bird print on it to Nora.

Justin: “?”

“?? :Sean

Nora did not think too much about it and only reached out to receive it.

When the Queen saw this from the side, she pursed her lips and suddenly smiled. “This bird print suits Ms. Smith very well.”

Hearing this, Lawrence felt a chill run down his spine. However, he insisted on not bending over. He was different from Boss. He could not encourage Boss to cheat. Ms. Smith!

This was the only hint he could give her!

He hoped that she could understand!

She had been cuckolded! There were a bunch of cuckolds all above her head!!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 914 - A Close Female Friend

Nora: “?”

What was up with the meaningful looks in the eyes of these people in front of her?

Even Queenie, who was standing at the side, broke into a frown.

Wrapping paper with a bird print on it?

What was wrong with Justin’s subordinate? Was he cursing Nora to the fate of being cuckolded?

Regardless, Nora still took the gift from him. She was about to hand it to someone beside her when the Queen, who was all smiles, said, “Aren’t you going to open it and have a look, Ms. Smith? Mr. King must have put a lot of thought into picking out a gift for you.”

The Queen was hoping for some drama.

Nora glanced at her. “At the Schmidts, we prefer to open our gifts in private.”

The Queen glanced at King. “I don’t think Mr. King would mind, Ms. Smith. Why don’t you let me have a look?”

Now that King had a close female friend, he definitely wouldn’t put that much effort into his gift for her.

The Queen was waiting to laugh at Nora.

Upon hearing what she said, Nora glanced at Justin. Seeing that he wasn’t objecting, she also became a little curious. She opened the box, revealing a piece of jade inside.

A piece of white jade lay quietly in the box. She hadn't even picked it up yet, but she felt as if she could already feel the warmth coming from it.

Nora's hypersomnia was due to anemia, and her hands and feet were often cold. Jade was said to possess healing properties, so carrying some on herself was a great idea.

Moreover, the piece of jade also looked to be of extremely high quality...

At the side, Lawrence explained, "Boss spent millions on the raw gemstone, He even cut and polished it himself. He kept it on himself the entire time after that."

So, after he bought the raw gemstone, he'd personally cut and polished it himself, and even brought it about with him everywhere...

Although it wasn't really a well-known piece of jewelry, it was the thought that counted-and he'd certainly put a lot of effort into it.

Nora's lips curled into a smile. She slipped the jade pendant onto a chain and put it around her neck. "I love it, thank you."

"You're welcome." Justin's deep voice was also tinged with joy. The two looked at each other.

The people around them: "?"

Why were they suddenly feeling stuffed to the brim when they hadn't even eaten yet?

The Queen was so mad that she couldn't even keep her face straight. She looked at Justin sarcastically and scoffed, "Mr. King sure is thoughtful, although, I can't help but wonder how many jade pendants you could have made with one raw gemstone? After all, don't forget that you have another female friend elsewhere whom you're close to, Mr. King!"

Lawrence looked at Nora eagerly when he heard her.

She hadn't caught the hint from the gift box's bird-print wrapping paper. As his boss' loyal simp... ah, ptooeey, loyal subordinate, he couldn't possibly betray his boss either, so it wasn't appropriate for him to be so explicit about it. Now that the Queen had said it, Lawrence mentally shouted eagerly, "Ms. Smith, do you get it now? Do something about Boss quickly!"

Unexpectedly...

Nora stood where she was and merely looked at King with a smile. "Oh? You have a female friend you're close to?"

King chuckled and replied, "Well, I suppose you can say that. I fell in love with her at first sight."

The Queen: "?" Wait a minute, is it really okay for you to be so direct, King?!

Isn't the person in front of you your fiancée?! Yet when she looked back at Nora, she saw a small smile on her usually cold face??

The pair's actions left the Queen and Lawrence utterly dumbfounded.

After much analysis of the situation, the two finally came to a conclusion: Nora didn't know who King was at all!

That must be it.

There was no other explanation!

No wonder King had brought Black Cat to the Schmidts' so openly. He was practically bullying Nora.

Suddenly, the Queen didn't feel so hostile toward Nora anymore. In fact, she even found her a little pitiful.

So what even if she'd bore the man three children? He had still abandoned her so soon all the same and even played her like a fool.

The Queen's eyes suddenly turned kindly, and she even looked at Nora with a slightly pitying look in her eyes. At the sight, a baffled look came over Nora's face.

But she had never been one to think too deeply into such things.

The group then changed the subject and started talking about the current world economic situation and its future trends.

With regard to such topics, the people in front of Justin at the moment were all business partners, so he spoke freely.

As King, he had a very clear idea of future trends-in fact, he could even single-handedly steer things in any direction... His suggestions and ideas were of infinite help to an enterprise's development.

The Queen became engrossed in what he was saying.

The British Royal Family also had its own little treasury, alright? She also wanted to make money. On the other hand, Queenie was a little absent-minded and didn't show much interest.

Justin's eyes darkened as he spoke.

For Queenie to lead NTT and turn it into the powerful enterprise that it currently was in Switzerland, she must have been highly perceptive to changes in the economy in the past. So, why did it feel like she wasn't very motivated anymore? Were those NTT policies really made by her?

At the side, Nora was also falling asleep.

The Queen kept feeling like something was missing, but King usually wouldn't give her a crash course. One could say that the one he was giving today was all thanks to Queenie.

King was obviously trying to give Queenie a hand so that she could join the Imperial League after her business reached greater heights. The Queen tried her best to memorize the few development trends that, according to King, were the most likely to make money in the future. How she wished that she could take out a small notebook and write it all down. Though she kept feeling like something was missing and not quite right, Justin simply spoke so well that she couldn't help but be utterly engrossed in what he was saying.

This continued until Justin finally stopped. Even then, the Queen still hadn't had enough, and she gazed at him with admiration in her eyes. The worship of someone was the foundation of love.

The Queen had fallen for Justin precisely because of his keen insight into the economy. Many years ago, after hearing just a few words from him, the Queen had established a small company and made millions of dollars!

Noon gradually approached.

Nora suggested, "Let's have lunch?"

After speaking, she said to the butler, "Uncle John, why don't you go and prepare a sumptuous lunch for the bodyguards too?"

John, the butler, looked at Barbarian and the others at once. He said, "Please come with me, everyone."

Barbarian stood still.

The captain of the bodyguards looked at the Queen.

The Queen waved and said, "Go ahead. We're at the Schmidts; no one would dare to harm me here."

One could say that she was showing courtesy to Queenie by saying that.

Only then did the captain of the bodyguards leave.

However, Barbarian continued to stand still.

Nora looked at him. "Isn't he going to eat?"

The Queen smiled and replied, “He’s a stubborn one. Since he has committed to protecting me, he won’t stop until I return to the hotel.”

After speaking, she looked at Barbarian and said, “You can go ahead too! There are so many skilled people here today, you don’t have to be here.”

Had it been before, Barbarian definitely wouldn’t leave.

After all, the incident with the fire had only just taken place. But today... He glanced at Nora and then bowed respectfully to the Queen. Then, he turned and followed after the guards.

Nora and Justin exchanged a look.

The V16 was right here at the Schmidts’. They’d asked the Queen to bring Barbarian here just so they could set up a trap to catch him!

If Barbarian didn’t leave but stayed here to watch over the Queen instead, how was he going to steal the V16?

Now that he was gone, Nora turned around and led the few of them to the dining room.

However, as the Queen looked at Barbarian and the bodyguards from the back, she finally realized what she had overlooked. She suddenly looked at Queenie and asked, “Mdm. Schmidt, how many bathrooms do you have here?”

“... Is something the matter?” asked Queenie. “I have a bodyguard named Black Cat. She said she was going to the bathroom, but why isn’t she back yet? Surely she didn’t fall into the potty, did she? I’ll go and look for her.” The Queen made a move to head out after she spoke. Black Cat hadn’t been assassinated, had she? Otherwise, why was she in the bathroom for over an hour?

Nora’s legs went limp and she almost stumbled.

Nora: “???”

No, really, why was the Queen constantly paying attention to a tiny little bodyguard? This didn't make sense.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 915 - Two Sister-Doting Maniacs

Nora frowned and said, “You probably don’t have to look for her.”

The Queen was puzzled. “Why?”

“... I’ll ask the butler to look for her, you don’t have to go yourself,” replied Nora.

The Queen thought for a moment. It was indeed lunchtime, so it wasn’t a good time to leave and search for someone. She nodded and said, “Alright. That bodyguard is a little bad at finding her way around, so you have to get the butler to bring her to me.”

“... Okay.”

At last, the Queen breathed a sigh of relief and the few of them went to the dining room with the children.

Queenie, as the hostess, took the head seat.

Nora sat to her left. By right, the three little ones should be sitting with her while the guests—Justin, the Queen, and Princess Lucysat opposite to them. The Queen glanced at Nora and said with a smile, “Mr. King, Lucy is rather naughty, so let’s have her sit at the side instead.”

With the three of them sitting together, if Lucy sat at the side, then the Queen would end up sitting next to Justin.

The mere thought of sitting side by side with King in front of Nora secretly thrilled her.

Was she cuckolding Nora by doing this?

Well, it was that woman's fault for always adopting such a cocky attitude and ignoring everybody-including even the royalty's authority-anyway...

With that in mind, the Queen pulled out the chair. She was about to sit when Cherry blinked and suddenly said, "Princess Lucy, I wanna sit with you!" The Queen: "?" She immediately looked at Lucy, hoping to stop her daughter from replying. Unfortunately, without even a second thought, Lucy immediately shouted excitedly, "I wanna sit with you too!"

Cherry immediately jumped off her chair, went around the five-meter-long dining table, and ran up to King, who was seated on the other side. The little fellow looked up at him and, in her young and tender voice, said, "Handsome... uncle, can we switch seats? I wanna sit next to Lucy, yeah!"

Justin looked at his daughter whom he hadn't seen for a month and then stretched out his hand and ruffled her hair.

His daughter's hair was as fine, soft, and delicate as ever, which stirred his heart. In particular, the little fellow's sly appearance as she blinked with her big dark eyes made him chuckle out loud.

Justin asked softly, "Don't you want to sit with... me?"

Cherry pouted when she heard him.

Of course she wanted to sit with her handsome daddy.

Little Cherry loved her handsome daddy the most, alright?

But when compared with Mommy, she'd better give her handsome father to Mommy instead!

Thus, even though Cherry was in a huge dilemma, she nevertheless nodded and replied, "... I wanna sit with Lucy even more!"

At once, the five-year-old Princess Lucy waved her little paws excitedly and automatically switched positions with the Queen. This way, she would be next to Cherry!

In a lively and adorable manner, she also said, “I also want to sit with Cherry!”

Justin stood up and walked around the dining table to the seat that originally belonged to Cherry—in other words, the seat beside Nora. He turned his head sideways to Nora and asked, “Ms. Smith, you don’t mind if I sit here, right?”

The man’s voice was low and deep, and his voice carried a bit of mirth when he spoke, making it sound extraordinarily seductive.

Nora nodded. “I don’t.”

“Okay.”

However, the man didn’t take the seat. Instead, he pulled out the chair for Nora in a very gentlemanly manner first.

An unceremonious Nora immediately sat down.

The Queen: “!!!”

As she looked at the sumptuous spread laid out all over the table, she suddenly felt like she had lost her appetite!

Is it really okay for you guys to show off how deeply in love you guys are in front of me?

She walked to the edge huffily and pushed away the servant who was about to pull the chair out for her. Instead, she pulled the chair out by herself and planted her bottom on it.

To be honest, the Queen’s admiration for Justin was only in her heart. She had been madly in love with him in the past, but due to her status and her duty as the Queen, there was no way she could abandon her people and elope with Justin. Of course, Justin had never returned her feelings, either.

Thus, she had suppressed her love for him at the bottom of her heart all these years. She was fine as long as Justin didn’t have a wife, but who knew that he would find himself one so soon? And on top of that, it was even Nora Smith, the person she detested the most?

But when it came down to it, there wasn't any great feud or enmity between the Queen and Nora, though.

The two of them were husband and wife... So what made her think she had the right to be jealous of them?

The Queen took a vicious bite from her steak.

Mm, the steak was grilled just right. It melted in her mouth and was delicious.

Next to her, Lucy was delighted. She kept wanting to talk to Cherry, but the girl looked like she was close to tears as she looked at her father, mother, and two elder brothers seated opposite her.

Boohoo.

She really wanted to sit on the opposite side instead...

Right at this point...

"Cherry, I'll switch places with you."

"Come over here. Let's switch places."

Pete and Xander, the two sister-doting maniacs, spoke in unison.

An excited Cherry immediately jumped off her chair again and ran to the two of them.

Pete and Xander looked at her.

Cherry ran over and stopped in between the two. However, when she took a step toward Pete, she suddenly felt a chilling breeze coming from the other side.

After a short internal struggle, the little fellow gave Pete an ingratiating smile and then took a step toward Xander. But when she did that, she felt a chilling breeze coming from Pete's side.

Cherry: “??!”

She didn't even know where to put her little foot-which was still off the ground anymore!

In a dilemma, she pressed her chubby little hands together and lowered her head.

She'd wished for a brother when she didn't have one in the past, but why did she suddenly have two now?

Or how about the two brothers talk it out between themselves? Please stop making things difficult for a poor little girl like her!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 916 - Taking Action!

But make it quick, alright? She wasn't going to be able to keep the one-legged pose for much longer!

Thus, Pete and Xander locked gazes with each other, sparks flying from both boys' eyes.

At this moment, a weak but life-saving voice reached them.

"I'd like to sit with Cherry, so if her two brothers want to sit over here instead, then how about we both switch?"

Cherry's eyes lit up at once, and she looked excitedly at Lucy opposite her. Her little foot in the air stepped onto her other foot that she was standing on, and she even scratched the top of her foot with it.

Wow!

The little princess was practically her savior today!

In the end, Cherry and Princess Lucy sat next to Justin, with Cherry sitting close to Justin with an excited look on her face. Seeing how happy she was, the silly Princess Lucy also smiled cheerfully along with her, though she didn't understand at all why she was so happy. Xander and Pete were the only ones sitting beside the Queen with sullen looks on their little faces. The Queen: "..."

Excuse me, just how unpopular was she?!

Was it simply that unbearable to sit on the same side as her?!

Also! How come even her own daughter had abandoned her and gone looking for Cherry instead?!

She suddenly felt like taking back her gift!

The Queen viciously devoured another piece of steak.

The meal went on with each of them harboring their own thoughts.

Although Justin and Nora didn't speak, the two seemed to have a tacit understanding that no one else could intrude on. For example, at the start of the meal, Justin immediately passed Nora the salt shaker while she passed him the pepper shaker.

After passing the condiment shakers, the two looked at each other and exchanged a smile. Then, they both lowered their heads and added some condiments to their food with the shaker the other had passed to them.

The Queen: "Burp."

Was she already full after only two pieces of steak?

The corners of her lips spasmed and she couldn't help but start musing. Nora must have recognized King and realized that he was Justin, right? Well, that made sense. After all, because of her own strong feelings for Justin, even she had found King very familiar the first time she met him. Later on, she tried to confirm again and again whether the two were one and the same.

Nora was, at the very least, Justin's fiancée after all, so how could she possibly fail to recognize him?

So, that whole act just now where she pretended that she didn't know him was really just a farce!

She was the only one silly enough to be kept in the dark.

The Queen huffily speared another piece of steak.

One could say that both the host and the guests had thoroughly enjoyed the meal—with the exception of the Queen, who was pulling a long face.

After dinner, the few of them returned to the living room for some tea and conversation. The Queen, however, looked to the outside: why wasn't Black Cat back yet?

While the few of them were having lunch, the people outside didn't stay idle either. While Barbarian and the Queen's guards were enjoying their specially-prepared lunch outside, John, the butler, happened to run into the servant in charge of housekeeping in the castle when he was cheerfully stepping out of the door.

The butler asked, "Have you finished cleaning?"

"Yes, apart from Ma'am's study, I've already cleaned all the other rooms."

Following the servant's response, John smiled and replied, "Well done. No one is allowed to enter Ma'am's study."

The servant also smiled and said, "Oh, by the way, the refrigerator in Ma'am's bedroom is new. I saw that she has put some facial masks and drinks inside. I cleaned that too just now."

John then said, "I appreciate the efforts. We still have guests, though. After they leave, in the living room and in the lobby..."

The conversation between the two went farther and farther away and their voices gradually became inaudible.

Barbarian's eyes were lowered.

Soon, he finished his meal. He raised his head and looked around. "Black Cat hasn't come back yet?"

The captain of the guards replied, "No, not yet. Maybe she's lost her way. Don't bother with her."

The guard next to him also said, "Yeah, she stole Her Majesty's attention the moment she came. Last night, Her Majesty even sang her praises several times and subtly complained that we aren't capable enough... So, just let her be! She won't starve to death anyway."

However, Barbarian said, "I'll look for her."

The captain of the guards sneered, “Barbarian, I’d advise you not to be a busybody.” But Barbarian, with a warning in his voice, said, “Her Majesty is very concerned about her.”

After he spoke, he went straight out the door.

After he left, the captain of the guards let out a contemptuous laugh. The guard next to him also curled his lips and remarked, “He’s just a bodyguard who isn’t even on the official payroll. Pleasing Her Majesty is about the only thing he can do!”

As the strongest bodyguard among them, Barbarian wasn’t part of the Queen’s royal guards.

However, he had always followed the Queen’s orders to a tee and conducted himself according to her preferences.

Therefore, since the Queen valued Black Cat, it was completely normal for him to go and look for her. It did not arouse the captain and the other guards’ suspicion at all.

When Barbarian stepped out, he found that while the Schmidt castle’s defenses against external threats might be on point, and the entire manor was no different from a solid fortress that didn’t allow even a fly into the premises, the supervision inside was comparably a little lax.

Instead of looking for Black Cat, he took the opportunity while no one was looking to grab the wall with both hands and quickly climb to the second floor.

He didn’t go to the study.

Everything stored in the study was confidential, and there would be safes and so on in there.

Most people would think that the study was the best place to hide the V16, but he went straight to Queenie’s bedroom instead.

The V16 needed to be refrigerated for it to be kept fresh.

If a refrigerator was suddenly placed in the study, it would stick out like a sore thumb and come across as very strange. But if one was placed in the bedroom instead, they could put facial masks and drinks inside, which would not seem at all obtrusive.

After all, many types of facial masks did require refrigeration.

Queenie's move was pretty good and was also very misleading

But Barbarian was no longer the person, who only had brute force and not an ounce of intelligence, he used to be!!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 917 - The Queen Is In Danger

Barbarian cautiously avoided wave after wave of the Schmidts' security guards.

Due to the V16, the Schmidts had hired a lot more security guards and ramped up the security in the castle even further. Barbarian even spotted some mercenary groups in there. Those people were some of the most nefarious and vicious people around. For Queenie to hire them as security personnel to protect Nora and the others, one could say that she had certainly invested a lot.

It was just a shame that Barbarian was unrivaled when it came to physical fitness and acuity.

In addition, compared to the exterior castle grounds, they did not patrol the inner premises as carefully.

He bypassed all of them and went straight to the door to the bedroom.

Then, he pushed open the door.

But right at this moment, a sharp ring of an alarm suddenly sounded in the earphone Barbarian was wearing on his right ear.

It was the alarm that the Queen was to activate when she met with danger.

The Queen was calling for him.

Barbarian stopped in his tracks.

He broke into a frown and turned to leave. But a cold and steady voice then came from his left earphone.

“Where are you going?”

Barbarian replied, “Her Majesty is in danger.” With that, Barbarian left the master bedroom. Without the slightest bit of hesitation, he rushed to the stairs and got ready to go down.

But the cold and steady voice in the earphone said, “Are you out of your mind? The V16 is right in front of you!”

However, Barbarian’s response was still the same: “Her Majesty is in danger.”

As he rushed down the stairs swiftly, he said, “A refrigerator has indeed been added to Queenie Schmidt’s bedroom. You can go over there first. Once you get the V16, inject it into yourself immediately. Once Her Majesty is safe, I will come and save you.”

After saying that, Barbarian left without hesitation.

Barbarian couldn’t just leave the Queen in danger. Because the Queen was the only source of warmth in his life.

our

He could still remember the time when he’d first escaped from the basement ten years ago. Exhausted, he didn’t know where he was, and he’d ended up running around aimlessly in the palace.

The teenage boy had just wanted to find a way out at that time.

And then, he tripped and fell.

Behind him, members of the mysterious organization rushed over. When they were about to catch him, a lovely voice reached them. “Who are you?”

The Queen had still been a princess then.

She was the new heir to the throne. She had a large number of security officers around her, but even when the people chasing after Barbarian saw the princess's guards, they still came over calmly, regardless. A group of royal guards had already subdued Barbarian, who was out of strength after fighting his way out of the basement. Someone said, "Your Highness, it's obvious at a glance that this isn't a good man. Her Majesty had warned that there could be hitmen in the palace. He is highly likely a hitman. We should kill him to avoid potential trouble!"

Barbarian did not refute him.

Because he had seen the speaker before.

He was a low-ranking leader in the mysterious organization. His purpose in saying what he did was to guide public opinion.

Barbarian had always been ineloquent and simple-minded. He couldn't think of a way to explain himself, so he simply closed his eyes in resignation.

He was frustrated.

He didn't want to die just like that.

After he finally forced open the door to the basement with much difficulty, all five surviving children inside had escaped and fled in all directions. He didn't know where the others had gone.

But he wanted to see what the world outside was like.

Was he going to die here now?

He hadn't been administered the V16 yet, though. So, he would still die the day he turned thirty years old.

While Barbarian's imagination was running wild, he heard the princess' voice. "He doesn't look like a bad person to me."

"Your Highness, bad guys won't write the words "I'm a bad guy" on their faces. He has a murderous aura all around him, and there is even blood on him. He must be a hitman"

“Hold your tongue!” The woman spoke arrogantly and willfully. She said, “If I don’t think he is a bad person, then he is not one. Alright, the few of you, help him up. I will take him away to seek medical treatment, and then I will personally ask him what’s going on!”

Barbarian was taken to the princess’ quarters.

After that, the princess summoned a doctor to give him a medical examination. His wounds were healing quickly, and his strength was also recovering rapidly.

The people from the mysterious organization stood guard outside the door.

When Barbarian slowly opened his eyes, he saw the blue-eyed young girl with a head of curly blond hair behind her walking toward him.

Before he could speak, the princess shushed him and put her finger on his lips. Then, she whispered, “Did you offend Father? Is that why they want to kill you? Don’t worry, with me around, no one will kill you!”

ess was v

The princess was wearing a white fluffy dress while he was covered in blood. It had been a few days since he last took a bath and his body was covered with dirt, stains, and even blood. It was a hot summer day, and even he thought that he reeked.

Yet it was as if the princess didn’t feel it at all.

Her pure eyes and clean temperament made Barbarian understand for the first time after he left the basement what it meant to be ashamed of oneself, and he shrank away from her.

In the basement, he had been the most powerful person there. In order to obtain the follow-up gene serums, he had even been let out by the organization to kill for them before.

His gene improvements were on his physical body, but at this moment, he felt a sense of inferiority that came from his very soul.

How he wished he could stuff himself into the sea and soak in there for seven days and seven nights to wash away all his sins.

Before Barbarian could think too deeply into these things, he had already rushed over from the upper floor to the main hall. It stood to reason that everyone in the Schmidts' castle was very cautious. Moreover, the Queen had always trusted the Schmidts; that was why she'd dared to dismiss all the people around her during the meal.

Barbarian could not think of anyone who might harm the Queen.

Could it be that the people who'd set fire to the hotel the other time had come to the Schmidts' too?

While Barbarian was thinking about it, he saw the Queen standing where she was, well and intact. She was glaring at Nora furiously.

Barbarian: “??”

He walked over with a bewildered look on his face, upon which he saw the Queen with her hands on her hips. The Queen often did this in private, but when in front of others, she'd always paid attention to her manners.

Despite that, she said angrily to Barbarian, “Barbarian, beat her up!”

Barbarian: “??”

After lunch, Queenie wanted to take an afternoon nap, so she left the first floor to the three youngsters and the children. Justin made an excuse and said that he would take the four children to play in the garden at the back, but in truth, he went to the master bedroom on the upper floor to catch Barbarian. Nora and the Queen were the only ones left in the hall.

Nora wanted to head to the upper floor, so she didn't want to be stuck here because of the Queen. As a result, the two had had a little dispute just now.

It went like this:

The Queen asked, “Have your butlers found Black Cat or not?”

Nora: “?”

She frowned and said, “I’ll go personally and look for her, okay?”

She got up to leave, but the Queen grabbed her arm and said, “You can’t! I get it now, Nora. You already know who King is, right? Then you must also know that King has special feelings for Black Cat. Is Black Cat still not showing up because you’ve done something to her?! Black Cat saved my life. Hand her over to me!”

Nora: “??!”

The corners of her lips spasmed. Someone had told her just now that Barbarian had made his move, so she was in a hurry to head upstairs and meet up with Justin to catch him. Because of this, she couldn’t be bothered to explain and she threatened, “If you still don’t let go, I’m going to hit you.”

The Queen got mad. She said, “Don’t you dare think that I’ll be afraid of you just because you can fight a little. I may not know martial arts, but the people around me do!”

Thus, she’d pressed the emergency call button. After Barbarian ran over, she looked at Nora and shouted, “Barbarian, beat her up!”

Nora: “??!”

She looked at Barbarian, stunned.

Barbarian, aren’t you supposed to be stealing the V16 from the master bedroom upstairs right now?

Why are you here?

While she was thinking about it, a siren suddenly started wailing in the master bedroom upstairs!!

Nora’s pupils shrank! The V16 had been stolen! But if Barbarian was here, who was the one stealing the V16 upstairs?!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 918 - The Real Spacey!

The Queen was also stunned when the siren went off. She looked at Nora immediately and asked, "What's going on?"

Nora didn't bother with her. She merely glanced at Barbarian, hesitated a little, and then ran upstairs.

Barbarian followed behind the Queen with a hint of baffled surprise in his red eyes.

He hadn't stolen anything, so why did the siren go off upstairs?

He wanted to go and take a look, but he then thought of how dangerous the Schmidts' castle was at the moment. He had to protect the Queen. As soon as the thought formed, he stopped in his tracks.

However, the Queen said, "Let's go up and have a look too!"

Surely Black Cat hadn't mistakenly trespassed into someplace, right?

She had to save her!

She mustn't let Black Cat fall into Nora's clutches. Only then did Barbarian follow them upstairs.

Nora was already at the door to the master bedroom. The door had been opened and inside was a complete mess. Obviously, a round of attacks had been launched here just now.

A figure stood there with her hands raised and her back to them, not daring to move.

Because!

The room had been installed with a motion-sensor attack system, infrared sensors, thermal sensors, and more. The moment she moved even a little, the machine guns would turn her into swiss cheese.

All of this had been prepared for Barbarian.

Barbarian had a lot of physical strength, and neither Nora nor Justin could beat him in a fight. But no matter how strong he was, he was still human.

Firearms would surely be capable of killing him, one way or another.

Therefore, Nora had set up all these things in the room. The moment someone took the V16, the mechanisms would activate and the intruder would become trapped within.

Barbarian hadn't fallen for it, but it had trapped a person inside at the moment.

At this moment, Justin, Queenie, and the others also hurried over. They stood outside the door and looked in. The room was surrounded by steel plates that had sealed off the interior of the room.

The surrounding machine guns were all ready and waiting to fire.

A row of bullets had already left behind their traces on the wall. They were supposed to intimidate Barbarian after he obtained the V16, so that he either stayed in the room quietly or waited to be shot dead if he dared to move!

“Turn around!”

In Nora's hand was a controller with which she could manually operate the machine guns.

The woman trapped inside was visibly shaking. When she heard Nora's voice, she cried and said, “I... I don't dare to...”

That voice...!

It was Rene!

Nora's pupils shrank and she asked, "Why are you here?"

Fear filled Rene's voice even further. She was shaking so hard that it was as if she couldn't even stand anymore. She stammered, "I... I saw someone coming up, so I followed after them... T-the man opened Ma'am's fridge, so I shouted that there was a thief. He ran away after that... I wanted to chase after him, but as soon as I entered the room, I triggered the sensors..."

Rene started sobbing out loud.

In a low voice, she said, "M-Ms. Smith, I... I'm scared... What's going on?" As she spoke, everyone looked at the refrigerator. Its door had been opened...

Nora narrowed her eyes. She was about to speak when the Queen said, "Is there a thief? What's the matter with all of you? No, wait. Ms. Smith, what are you doing with all these mechanisms in the master bedroom? Doesn't it scare you when you sleep here?"

III

The Queen didn't know about the V16, so she was very puzzled. "Hurry up and put away those guns. Look at how you've trapped one of your babysitters inside..."

Yes, that was right. Rene had been working as Cherry's babysitter at the Schmidts' ever since she was brought there.

She was also wearing the uniform that the Schmidts' servants wore. Everything seemed to make sense...

Nora glanced at Barbarian again. However, she saw that his eyes were narrowed and he was starting to emanate a murderous aura. He looked just like a wolf about to go on a rampage.

Had Barbarian been inside, she wouldn't be afraid of anything at all, of course.

But now that Barbarian was outside... This meant that Nora couldn't release Rene, because...

She slowly said, "You can drop the act, Spacey."

As soon as she spoke, Rene jolted again. Her head turned around in astonishment and she looked at Nora in disbelief. Confused, she asked, "M-Ms. Smith, wh... what are you talking about?"

Nora did not enter the room. Anyone who entered the room at this point would die.

She stood at the door and said calmly and slowly, "How much longer are you going to keep up that pretense?"

However, Rene still looked as timid as before. She said, "I, I'm not putting up any sort of pretense, Ms. Smith. Are you suspecting that I stole something? I didn't... I came here only to take care of Cherry... No, that's not right. I came here to look for Liam. Ms. Smith, is Liam here? Can you give him back to me?" "So that he can continue being your puppet and do things for you?" Rene bit her lip, but when she saw the firm look in Nora's eyes, she suddenly dropped the pretense. "When did you find out?" "When Liam died."

Nora went on. "Many have told me that Spacey from the mysterious organization is very smart, but Liam's actions at that time were obviously too rash."

Back then, she'd entered the laboratory to refine the V16 immediately after obtaining it. Liam had then gone straight to the laboratory and snatched it from her... All of this seemed to make a lot of sense. After all, if she hadn't already been on guard long ago, Liam would have taken away the real V16 at that time! However, Liam had appeared too impetuous that time.

In particular, his death had been due to a bomb that Barbarian had installed.

In the past, Barbarian had always forced his way through situations with brute force. It was only after he started working with Spacey that he began to develop his own thoughts and ideas when handling things. In that case, there was no way he would give up Spacey so easily!

Rene was now a completely different person from her usual timid self. Her head was still lowered and her grimy hair was straggled all over her, but the look in her eyes changed from an innocent and timid one to a sinister and baleful one in an instant.

She was just like someone who had climbed all the way up from hell. She looked at Nora ominously and said, “That’s it? We may be in Switzerland, but the Schmidts can’t pass a sentence on to others so casually!”

“Of course not.”

Nora spoke again. She sneered and said, “At that time, I was only suspicious of you. Then, your adoptive parents came and forcibly took you away. You instantly became one of the weak, the most pitiful person around. This undoubtedly diminished your suspiciousness ... After all, no one would suspect the weak! But... Are you really? Or should I ask: is your family background really that pitiful? Is it really true that your adoptive parents killed each other in a fight?”

“Of course not!”

As soon as Nora finished speaking, Brenda came over. The moment she came up to Nora, she threw a stack of documents to her. “Nora, I’ve looked into the case that you asked me to. Her adoptive parents did kill each other, but based on traces left behind at the crime scene, I’ve found evidence proving that the two did not resent each other; rather, they were forced to kill each other! And it was you, Rene, who forced them to do it!”

Rene immediately retorted angrily, “Didn’t they deserve that? Should I have stopped myself from fighting back and gotten violated by my adoptive father instead? I just want to lead my life properly. Is there anything wrong with that?!”

“There’s nothing wrong with wanting to lead a good life and protecting yourself.” Brenda’s flaming red lips were extraordinarily alluring, but her back, as she stood there, was straight and upright as she asked, “But is that really what you’re doing?”

Rene bit her lip. “What do you mean by that?!”

Brenda cast her eyes down. “I’ve already checked your background. During the last ten years, you haven’t only been adopted by one family but three. However, without exception, all of those couples have died!”

Her words shocked everyone there.

Three families?

Even Nora raised her eyebrows.

However, Brenda did not elaborate. She only said, “Of course, since your offenses were committed in Switzerland, the Swiss authorities will naturally be the ones to handle your case. As an Interpol officer, I am only arresting you because you are involved in an international biogenetic drug case! But no matter which case it is, you won’t be able to escape the death sentence!”

The death sentence...

Upon hearing what she said, Rene suddenly burst into laughter. She said furiously, “You can’t kill me! Because I have already injected myself with both of the V16 serums! Your only option is to distill out the V16 from my blood now. You can only keep me alive and have me become your gene blood bank! Kill me, and you will lose everything!”

With both the V16s in her, an overdose would result in an excess of the serum in her blood.

However, they couldn’t draw out all her blood at once either, because part of it must have already been absorbed into her body!

If they wanted to extract a single dosage of the V16, they would have to wait for the unabsorbed serum in her body to slowly penetrate her blood along with the regeneration of her blood. This would take at least several months, or maybe even years!

Barbarian's pupils shrank and he looked at Spacey in disbelief. She had injected all of the two serums into herself?!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 919 - The Boy And The Princess

Barbarian was infuriated.

He and Spacey had already agreed that they would each take one gene serum after they got their hands on them!

He demanded furiously, “How can you be so selfish?”

As soon as he spoke, the Queen, who was watching the show at the side, was stunned.

The Queen looked at him in surprise. “Barbarian, what are you saying?”

Wasn’t this just a case of a babysitter of the Schmidts stealing from her employer? How did it become related to Barbarian?

The moment the Queen spoke, Barbarian looked at her, though he didn’t speak right away.

The trapped Rene... no, Spacey sneered, “Selfish? You’re the selfish one! If you hadn’t left just now, we would each have had one gene serum! Without you, I definitely wouldn’t have been able to escape, so of course I had to give myself a Plan B!”

Barbarian’s brows drew together. “You said that the two of us are in this together! That we would never abandon or give up on each other no matter what!”

“Ha!” Spacey, who was completely different from her timid demeanor before, raised her head and laughed. “You abandoned me first! For the sake of your Queen, you abandoned me! But look at what happened? Your Queen didn’t need you at all! She’s standing there well and intact while I’m trapped here!”

Spacey stared at Barbarian angrily. “The Queen has always been the only one in your heart! You never cared about me!”

Barbarian was taken aback. “What nonsense are you saying?”

“Am I wrong?!” Spacey stared at Barbarian resentfully. “We had already agreed that we would come to the Schmidts today to steal the V16, but for your Queen’s sake, you gave up on our plan. You forced me into this!”

Barbarian was rendered speechless in an instant.

However, the Queen, who was standing next to Barbarian, was stunned. She slowly turned her head to Barbarian and asked, “Barbarian, what is she talking about? The two of you are in this together? Are you short of money? Why are you stealing from others with her?”

The Queen knew nothing about Barbarian’s past.

All she knew was that after she saved him back then, she had discovered that Barbarian showed immense talent in martial arts. Thus, she had found someone to teach him martial arts and trained him into her strongest personal protection officer and bodyguard.

Barbarian had also asked for leave and gone out mid-way before. Sometimes, when she stayed in the country and didn’t leave the palace, such that she was absolutely safe, he would ask for half a month’s leave. The Queen had always just thought that Barbarian was going out to handle his personal affairs. In fact, the Queen had even once teased Barbarian by asking him if he’d found a girlfriend and was going out on dates with her...

Never would she have ever thought that Barbarian would steal from the Schmidts with that babysitter!

Faced with the Queen’s “naive” question, Barbarian found himself at a loss for words.

The Queen looked at Spacey again. She pointed at her and asked Barbarian, “Is she the girlfriend you’ve found outside? Barbarian, why is your girlfriend forcing you to steal? Is the salary I pay you not enough? I've given you a house before too. If you need anything else, you can just tell me. There is no need for you to steal..."

The Queen rambled endlessly, but her actions were the only source of warmth at this moment.

Faced with the Queen like that, Barbarian didn't know how to explain what he had done...

He didn't speak, but Brenda spoke for him. She said, "Your Majesty, you may have misunderstood something. Do you know that this man next to you is an international serial killer?!"

As soon as she spoke, the Queen frowned. "Who are you? Why are you slandering Barbarian? He was just stealing something. How does that make him a murderer?!"

She stood in front of Barbarian and protected him. She looked straight at Nora and Queenie and lifted her chin arrogantly. "Mdm. Schmidt, Ms. Smith. We do have some ties between us, right? I know you're unhappy that they stole from you, so how about this, how much does it cost? The British Royal Family will provide full compensation! But don't you dare accuse my subject of being a murderer and whatnot!"

Her bad-ass manner of protecting her own put everyone present at a loss for words for a while.

Barbarian also clenched his fists tightly. Once again, he felt ashamed of himself.

Nora was a woman of few words, but Queenie didn't wish for conflict with the British Royal Family.

After all, the Queen represented an entire country. Be it the Schmidts or the Imperial League, neither of them would want to become enemies with a country just because of a misunderstanding.

Queenie explained, “Your Majesty, have you heard of the mysterious organization?”

The Queen’s pupils shrank. “Yes, I have. What about it?”

The people after the Queen’s life at the hotel the other time were from that exact organization!

The Queen had always known that.

Queenie pointed at Barbarian. “He used to be a member of the mysterious organization.”

The Queen was shocked. “What did you say?”

Queenie went on. “Also, you should know what the mysterious organization does, right?”

The Queen’s brows drew together. “No, I actually don’t.”

A resigned Queenie could only explain to the Queen the purpose of the mysterious organization’s existence, as well as their cruel practices.

Two minutes later, when Queenie was done, the Queen frowned and said, “If that’s the case, then Barbarian is also a victim! He shouldn’t be arrested! Besides, he has already betrayed the mysterious organization!”

“But he is an international murderer!” Nora said coldly.

“A murderer? Do you have any evidence? If so, you can get in touch with the UK government and request our cooperation in handing over Barbarian instead of arresting him here! Without evidence, I will never hand over Barbarian!”

The Queen was rather attached to Barbarian.

It was a very fascinating emotion.

It was much like a fondness for something that had been around for a long time. After more than ten years, she had long since become accustomed to Barbarian protecting and watching out for her. She stepped in front of Barbarian and shielded him, just like what Barbarian had done for her every time she met with danger. She even felt that all of this was a conspiracy that the others had devised.

After all...

The Queen looked at Nora. “The V16 or whatever it’s called is with you, right? Are you trying to use this as an excuse to get rid of Barbarian? This way, no one would fight with you for it anymore! But for you to spin lies like this, you’re too much!”

At this point, the masked Justin said solemnly, “Your Majesty, they are not spinning lies.”

His words made the Queen suddenly look at him.

In this instant, she suddenly realized that Justin was also aware of all this. Therefore, it wasn’t just Nora who had set up this trap for her; it was also Justin!

The Queen felt betrayed.

She was here at the Schmidts just for a visit as a guest, but the group of them had all been plotting against her.

The smile on her face disappeared completely, and she revealed a cold and resolute side of herself. She said, “So, you’re also part of this, King? Hah. Do you really think that we, the British, are that easy to bully, though? I’ve already said it: Barbarian is mine. If you don’t have any conclusive evidence, then you can forget about taking him away from me! Since I’ve brought him to the Schmidts, then I will walk out of this place with him safe and well! This stands true even if... I must become enemies with the Schmidts and the Imperial League! We, the British, are not afraid!”

She had pride.

As a Queen, she had never been afraid of anyone.

Justin sighed. “He is not a good man.”

Despite that, the Queen still said firmly, “He’s not a good man? Barbarian has always been very kind when he protects me. He never kills the innocent indiscriminately, and he has never come to me with even a bit of blood on him! He doesn’t like to talk, but I know that he is a kind person!”

A kind person...

Her words stunned Barbarian, whom she was protecting behind herself.

To be honest, the reason why he cleaned himself thoroughly every time he killed someone was exactly the Queen’s trust in him.

The Queen had blue eyes as pure as clear water.

Though the Queen was arrogant and always behaved like she was high up in the air, she had the purest heart despite her noble status. Therefore, Barbarian was most afraid of the Queen finding out about his activities...

Thus, he had never left any traces outside that pointed to him being the Queen’s bodyguard, fearing that the matter would be brought to the Queen’s attention.

But as he looked at the Queen, who was standing in front of him and leaving her back exposed to him with confidence, he suddenly felt that he was not worthy.

He was not worthy of being shielded by such a good Queen.

He was not worthy of having the Queen become enemies with the Schmidts and the Imperial League because of him!

Just as Barbarian was about to speak, Brenda curled her lips and said, “You’re the Queen, right? Why are you so muddleheaded? Fortunately, my sister-in-law knows what you’re like, so she told me to bring all the evidence here!”

After she spoke, Brenda fished out a stack of paper evidence from her bag and stretched out her hand to hand them to the Queen. She said, “These are all the people Barbarian has killed over the years! He-“.

Before she could finish, though, Barbarian suddenly moved! He charged out from behind the Queen at high speed and threw a punch at Brenda.

Brenda took two steps back abruptly and the documents in her hands fell and scattered all over the floor.

The Queen looked at the floor...

At the side, both Nora and Justin thought that Barbarian was planning to take Brenda hostage because he was at his wits' end, so they subconsciously stood in front of Brenda to protect her and waited for Barbarian to attack.

Unexpectedly, Barbarian did not rush over. Instead, he stopped in front of the Queen.

He stood on the so-called evidence and blocked the Queen's line of sight. “Don't look!”

His voice was filled with panic, just like a child begging for help. He was afraid of the Queen seeing the evidence, he was afraid of seeing disappointment in the Queen's eyes...

His tone made the Queen's heart wrench, and she withdrew her gaze. “Okay, I won't look...”

Barbarian breathed a sigh of relief.

But right after he let out the sigh of relief, the Queen asked, “Then tell me, are they telling the truth? Did you... really kill a lot of people?”

Barbarian clenched his jaw.

The Queen looked at him fixedly. “You have never lied to me. So, tell me that none of this is true. Don't worry, I will protect you.” Barbarian's expression blanked out for a moment.

He suddenly thought of their first meeting more than ten years ago.

“You can live here with peace of mind! I will protect you!”

The young princess said to the boy who had just escaped from confinement with injuries all over him. The boy curled up and tried his best to shrink himself so that his dirty body wouldn't touch the princess' pure and clean dress. He was afraid of soiling the angel.

The princess, however, sat beside him, not caring in the least. Her skirt pressed against his bare feet, and it became stained. Her big blue eyes looked at him as she said, “Oh, but you have to promise me that you'll never lie to me.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 920 - One Down

Barbarian looked at the Queen.

Time flew. More than ten years had passed.

The Queen had aged and she now had fine lines at the corners of her eyes. However, those blue eyes of hers had never changed.

Barbarian swallowed.

The Queen spoke again. “Barbarian, say something. I will believe everything you say.”

But Barbarian couldn't.

He had gone through so much since he was a child. He had been in the basement since he was born and was injected with gene serums every once in a while...

The body modification gene serum had really hurt like hell... He didn't remember the pain he felt when he was a baby, but he remembered all the pain he felt after he turned five years old.

Each gene serum injection had felt as if it was melting his flesh and reconstructing it. No one could understand what that bone-splintering pain felt like.

At that time, Barbarian didn't understand.

Because that was how life was until the day when he was taken out to kill for the first time when he was ten years old. His powerful body and physical abilities had astonished the others.

It was also only then that Barbarian found out that people outside were living such blissful and happy lives.

A ten-year-old child attended school, acted like a spoiled child in the arms of their parents, and was lovingly doted on by their parents.

Hatred had slowly built up in Barbarian's heart at that time.

All Barbarian held toward the world was malice. All the beauty in the world had never once been part of his life, so what did it matter even if he destroyed the world?

Therefore, he had never once shown any mercy when he killed. In fact, he only felt happy when he was killing; when he saw his victims shaking like leaves and begging for mercy on their knees.

See? So what even if he had never attended school? So what even if he had suffered abuse as a child?

The way people were so terrified in front of him and the way they soiled themselves in their last moments looked even more unseemly than he had been back then!

Inside this sick mindset of his, the only person who still allowed him to retain a trace of reason within was his princess. Whenever he took leave to go out to kill, the princess never asked him what he was planning to do. She would always happily let him leave. And every time he came back after killing someone, the princess would look at him with a teasing look in her eyes.

The princess had said that it was time he found a girlfriend.

But he didn't know what kind of person he should look for as a girlfriend.

It was at this time that Spacey had contacted him.

He and Spacey were the same.

They had both grown up in the basement. Thus, he'd thought at that time that Spacey must be his girlfriend. The two then teamed up and started to fight for the V16 together.

Barbarian never once felt that he'd done anything wrong.

Yet he realized that he couldn't say even a word at this moment, as he faced the Queen's questioning.

Because he didn't want to see disappointment in the Queen's eyes. He only liked how the Queen sang his praises whenever she saw his progress in combat training.

Thus, even though he'd opened his mouth, he didn't know how to answer her.

However, the Queen figured it out through his reaction, and the look in her eyes gradually turned solemn...

She looked at Barbarian and suddenly cast her eyes down. She asked, "Have you... ever killed a citizen of the UK?"

She was not someone with overflowing compassion. In her eyes, only the people of the UK were her subjects. She left the responsibility of managing the people in the rest of the countries to the international authorities; they weren't part of her responsibilities.

But if Barbarian had killed citizens of the UK... then the Queen couldn't let him off!!

When Barbarian heard her, he opened his mouth again, though, he didn't know what to say...

He had.

Once, after going on a killing spree outside, he happened to run into a royal guard who saw him covered in blood while he was on his way back to the palace. In order to cover up his misdeeds, he had killed him.

Seeing his silence, the light in the Queen's eyes dimmed even further—she understood his answer.

She slowly cast her eyes down...

At this point, Spacey's voice suddenly came from the room. "You see that, Barbarian? The Queen's kindness toward you is not unconditional either! Once you cross her boundaries, she would still kill you all the same! I am the only one in this world who's like you! So, hurry and kill them and save me! I can synthesize the other V16 from my blood for you!"

Spacey was doing all this because she was worried that Barbarian would defect at the last moment, so she was trying to build a Plan B for herself!

But Barbarian didn't seem to have heard her at all. He stared at the Queen in dumbfounded silence. Only one thought was running through his head: "She's become disappointed in me." He felt like his world was about to collapse around him!

At the sight, Spacey bit her lip-she knew that she couldn't count on Barbarian anymore. She looked straight at Nora again and said, "It still goes back to the same thing-even if you arrest me, you still have to feed me well and keep me in a good mood! Or else I'll kill myself! If I die, you can forget about ever getting the V16 again!"

But even after she spoke, she didn't see any reaction from Nora and the others.

Nora, in particular, was extraordinarily calm. Spacey wanted to speak again, but intense drowsiness suddenly came over her. She shook her head, suddenly finding herself unsteady on her feet.

She stumbled a little, whereupon she heard an impassive Nora say, "Oh, I forgot to tell you something. The substance inside those bottles isn't the V16 but two doses of sleeping pills."

Spacey: "?"

Her eyes suddenly widened. It was then that she finally realized something.

She was right. So many traps and mechanisms had been set up in this place. It was obvious that they had set this up in order to catch Barbarian, so how could the real V16 possibly be here?

As soon as the thought formed, Spacey's eyes closed and she passed out. She fell to the ground with a thud.

But no one looked at her. Instead, they turned to look at Barbarian.

Barbarian had killed Brenda's best friend... Seeing him in a daze, Brenda couldn't hold herself back anymore. She suddenly brandished her pistol and fired right at Barbarian!

Bang!

The moment that the gunshot rang out, Barbarian's sixth sense allowed his body to react faster than his brain. He did a tuck-and-roll on the spot and dodged the bullet from Brenda.

The next moment, Barbarian smashed through the glass window, fleeing through it!

Gunshots from the Interpol officers lying in wait on the ground floor rang out. Brenda also went out in pursuit of him.

Nora and Justin exchanged a look. The couple went down the stairs in unison but saw that Barbarian had already escaped. Brenda, who was stamping her foot in frustration, cursed, "Shit!"

Up against a skilled expert like him, unless they carried out a large-scale bombardment of the Schmidts' property, they were going to have a really hard time catching him. The traps had originally been prepared for Barbarian... But unfortunately, they hadn't come into play. Instead, they only captured a weak, though relatively intelligent, Spacey.

In the end, all Brenda could do was detain Spacey.

As Nora watched the officers bring the unconscious Spacey into the police car, she asked, "What will happen to her?"

Brenda answered, "The death sentence."

Nora was taken aback.

Brenda sighed. She said, “We’ve already looked into it. She’s different from Barbarian. Barbarian may have been brainwashed into killing but she, on the other hand, was born wicked. Her evolution involves brain improvements. No one ever taught her to kill, yet after she escaped from the basement and was adopted by her first adoptive family, she deliberately seduced her adoptive father, causing a conflict between her adoptive parents. In the end, the two couldn’t resolve their conflict, and they even hurt her physically. She then set up a trap to kill the two of them. Unfortunately, after she killed her mother, her father regained his senses. He wanted to shoot her dead to avenge his wife, but the police broke into the scene at this point —their security guard had reported the father for raping her. When everyone went in, they saw that her clothes were disheveled in a mess and that the man was trying to shoot and kill her. The police tried to dissuade him, but it was to no avail, so they could only shoot and kill him...”

Nora was stunned by the story.

The Queen was also fascinated by the story. She remarked in surprise, “That woman’s thoughts are so unfathomable!” Brenda nodded. “At that time, everyone believed her account to be the truth and they erased the traces that she had once been adopted. Later, she was adopted by another family. But in the end, her adoptive parents both died within half a year again. Everyone lamented her bad luck and some even said things like she is too pretty and that she has all grown up, so it was no wonder that her adoptive fathers would take a fancy to her, and so on. Thus, after the second incident, she deliberately made herself dirty and unkempt, knowing that everyone thought that she had suffered trauma during the first two incidents. It was only after the third time she killed her adoptive parents... that it finally caught our attention! You can say that we now have both witnesses and material evidence. Not only has she killed six people in a row, but she’s also involved in a major case like the transnational biogenetic experiment. She won’t be able to escape the death penalty.”

Everyone nodded.

After Brenda left with Spacey, the despondent Queen also left with Princess Lucy.

Barbarian's betrayal... made her feel terrible.

Only Nora, Justin, and the rest remained at the Schmidts'.

As she watched the Queen's car leave, Nora suddenly asked, "Isn't she in love with you? Why does it seem like she's in love with Barbarian instead?"

Justin, who suddenly felt impending doom, thought for a moment and answered cautiously, "...I don't know."

Nora didn't press further either. Instead, she changed the topic and asked, "How is it with Barbarian?"

Justin breathed a sigh of relief and answered, "They are still tailing him."

When Barbarian escaped, in addition to the police, the Schmidts' security officers had also gone after him. In spite of that, he had still escaped, though he ultimately did still take a gunshot.

Justin's men were also going after him.

Nora nodded.

Justin said, "Don't worry, I will never allow Barbarian to fight with Xander for the gene serum!"

They weren't saints.

There were only two gene serums. They couldn't give them to just anyone.

Nora nodded.

"Daddy!"

Now that there weren't any outsiders around, Cherry let out an excited yell and ran over.

Justin bent over and picked her up. With his voice gentle and low, he asked, “Miss me?” “Of course! Cherry thinks of Daddy every day!” Pete and Xander also came over.

The family of five gathered happily.

In the distance, as Queenie watched them, a hint of a happy smile appeared on the corner of her lips.

At the side, John suggested, “Why don’t you join them, Ma’am?”

But Queenie shook her head and replied, “I’m tired. I’ll just let the family of five reunite instead! An old woman like me shouldn’t bother them.”

John looked at her hesitantly before he finally said in a small voice, “You’re only in your thirties...”

As soon as he spoke, Queenie’s chilly gaze suddenly swept over him.

John shut his mouth immediately. “I’ve spoken out of turn, Ma’am.”

Queenie lowered her eyes and entered the living room. She casually picked up a glass of red wine from the table and went up the stairs swirling the wine in the glass. This time, though, she did not enter the bedroom but looked at the room that had been sealed for a long time.

She cast her eyes down. Suddenly, she stepped forward and opened the door.

Chapter 921 - Queenie'S Secret

In the room were some shelves, on which were placed some boxes containing all sorts of treasures.

On the innermost wall hung an enshrined black and white photo.

In the photo was a woman in her twenties. She had a bright smile on her face, but everyone knew that this woman had been dead for many years.

Queenie walked forward. As she did, her hips swayed from side to side, as did the red wine glass in her hand.

She went up to the photo, and then, poured the red wine onto the ground.

“Daddy, have you not been watching my live-streams lately? You haven’t been tipping me at all! Sponsor Grandpa has become the No. 1 patron now.”

Cherry stretched out her chubby fingers and showed off while speaking coquettishly in her young and tender voice, “Grandpa and I make video calls every day! But you disappeared for a month and didn’t look for me even once! Cherry is mad!”

After speaking, she placed her hands on her hips and turned her back to Justin. Her big dark eyes, though, were darting left and right erratically. Justin rubbed his daughter’s head and said, “I’ve been busy with something really important. What can I do to appease Cherry?” Cherry blinked and then grinned at him. “Help me get my game account back! If you make it one without a time limit, I won’t be mad at you anymore! Otherwise, Cherry will be really sad because she’s thinking of you every day but doesn’t have games to kill time with!”

Cherry had ADHD in the past, so Nora had allowed her to play games.

But Nora had recently noticed that Cherry’s two elder brothers’ presence had helped her overcome the disorder, so Nora had disabled her unlimited access game account.

It wasn't advisable for minors to play games for too many hours a day.

But because Cherry liked the game, she had pestered Justin to remove the time limit on the account, which Nora changed back later.

As a result, Cherry could only play for an hour a day.

Upon hearing what Cherry said, a pampering look filled Justin's eyes and he said, "You not only say that you're mad at me but also that you miss me a lot, but in the end, it's all just for the game account, isn't it?"

Cherry turned around and wheedled cutely, "But I'm really bored. After playing for an hour, I spend the remaining 23 hours missing you!"

"What nonsense."

Next to her, Pete exposed her lie straightaway. "You still have to sleep for ten hours a day!"

Cherry: "?"

She raised her chin. "I miss Daddy in my dreams when I sleep!"

Pete went on and said dryly, "But what you said in your sleep was: 'Team battle time! Go! Wipe! Wipe!'"

"...Even so, there are still thirteen hours left for me to miss Daddy!" retorted Cherry.

From the side, Xander also said, "You always take your sweet time when you eat, so you take at least four hours to finish all three meals a day."

Cherry: "?"

"I-I think about Daddy when I eat!" Xander said, "But what you said was: 'Now that I don't have games to play, even the food doesn't taste good anymore. Why isn't the day over yet? I wanna play games...'"

“Oh, you also spend four hours watching other people’s live-streams...”

“You also spend time savoring every detail of the team battle and ramble at me for two hours, and then at Xander for another two...”

“You also spend time regretting that you didn’t diss others in a wittier manner when you were playing...”

“You also spend time pestering Mommy to release the child restrictions for you...”

“You also...”

Her two elder brothers thoroughly exposed her.

Cherry’s eyes were damp with tears. “Pete! Xander! You two are horrible!”

Pete said, “Stop playing games and do some Mathematical Olympiad practice instead!”

Xander said, “Or come and study dissection with me? Human anatomy is very interesting...”

Justin couldn’t bear to see his precious daughter being bullied. He picked up Cherry and said, “Is that how the two of you should be treating your younger sister? Alright, hush, Cherry...” “Can Daddy remove the child restrictions for me then?”

“I’ll have to ask your mom about that...”

Nora stood at the side. As she listened to the four of them chit-chat, she raised her head and looked at the upper floor.

That mysterious room had been opened, and her aunt was inside.

No one knew what she was looking at. As Nora thought back to what Trueman had said, she heaved a silent sigh.

Her aunt always said that she would let Nora see the things in that room when the time was right, and when that happened, her aunt's identity would also be revealed. But when would it ever be the time?

While Nora was musing, her cell phone suddenly rang. When she answered, Ian's voice came from the other end.

"Nora, I think I know who your aunt is!"

Nora's pupils shrank. "Who is she?"

"I'm about to board my flight. I'll tell you when I get there."

When he got here?

Ian was flying over? For Ian to become so excited that he would come over in person, just who on earth was Queenie??

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 922 - Queenie'S Character

Nora didn't hang up but asked, "Who is she?" Ian kept quiet for a while. "I can't say it over the phone."

This was because he feared that someone could be monitoring their cell phones. Even if Nora was Q, the top hacker in the world, there was no guarantee that no one would be monitoring them. Moreover, even if Nora could guarantee that her cell phone wouldn't be hacked, could they guarantee the same for Ian?

Not only was she in another country, but the phone call was also an international long-distance one. Could she guarantee that the international communications signal would not be hacked?

Nora could only nod and say, "Alright, I'll pick you up in eight hours."

"Okay."

After hanging up the phone, Nora sank into contemplation for a long while.

At this point, Queenie came down the stairs drunkenly and asked, "How are things with Barbarian?"

Brenda had wholly taken over the task of arresting Barbarian. The Queen was still unable to accept the fact that he was a murderer, so she had chosen to remain silent on the matter.

Nora sighed. "Barbarian indeed lives up to his name of being the embodiment of the human limits. Despite the intensive attempts to catch him, he still managed to escape... He's nowhere to be found now."

Queenie nodded. Suddenly, she asked, "Was that Ian Smith calling just now?"

Nora nodded, surprised by her perceptivity. In order to avoid people eavesdropping on her phone calls, her cell phone's volume was set very low. Even so, she'd still heard them?

Seemingly noticing her puzzled look, Queenie smiled and said, "You called him 'Dad'."

"... Really?"

Nora became doubtful instead.

As it easily exposed the other party's identity, she rarely greeted someone by name immediately after answering the phone, unless she was in a very safe place and the other party's identity was not a sensitive one.

Queenie didn't plan on speaking any further, though. Instead, she swirled the wine in her glass. Her delicate face was ruddy, and her cheeks were already red.

She said, "In that case, I'll go upstairs to rest for now..."

She had only taken a couple of steps when Cherry grabbed her. She said, "Grandaunt Queenie, are you going to drink again? Don't drink anymore. Come and play with Cherry instead! It's been really long since we last played together." Queenie raised her eyebrows. "Do you actually remember your grandaunt's existence when your father, whom you've been thinking of this whole time, is already here?" Cherry grinned and pushed Justin toward Nora. "But I can't hog Daddy. He ought to spend more time with Mommy too. Besides, they may have a lot to talk about!" After all, Pete had said that they should let their parents bond with each other so that they wouldn't separate in the future. This way, the triplets would be together forever!

Therefore, even though she really loved her father, she'd better still leave him to her mother instead!

Displeasure filled Queenie's expression. "Are you only looking for me because your dad is not around? I'm not going to be your backup plan...”

Though she said that, she followed Cherry to the side.

Justin walked over to Nora and the two sat on the sofa.

Justin looked at Queenie, who was holding Cherry’s hand. One was elegant and noble while the other was charming and adorable. The two looked extremely harmonious together.

Justin remarked, “Aunt Queenie seems to really like Cherry, huh?”

“... ‘Aunt Queenie’?”

A puzzled Nora asked when she heard the guy suddenly addressing her aunt in a different manner.

Justin smiled and replied, “Since she’s your aunt, then that makes her my aunt too, right?”

The guy sure was flirting with her every moment of the day.

Nora raised her eyebrows and said, “Yeah, Aunt Queenie treats Cherry very well.”

“Tell me more?”

Justin prompted.

Because if he didn’t, Nora would never say any more than that.

Nora smiled. “Sure.”

Back then, when she lost a lot of blood during childbirth and her life was on the line, her aunt had saved her and then taken her abroad. Later, she also outright declared Nora the heir to NTT.

During the announcement, her demeanor had been icy-cold, and she also treated her and Cherry coldly. But if the servants in the family ever slighted them even a little, Queenie would immediately and resolutely mete out punishment to them.

She remembered that when Cherry was three or four months old, because of her frail constitution, the baby caught a roseola infection and had a high fever, which needed to be cooled physically. At that time, when she called the doctor over in the middle of the night because of the fever, he'd said that it would be best to avoid taking medicine and cool the baby's temperature physically instead.

Her aunt had immediately complained, "Children are so troublesome."

At that time, Nora didn't know her very well.

So, Nora told her to go back and rest while she took turns taking care of Cherry with the? nanny.

Though Cherry was already more than three months old, Nora was still weak due to blood loss during childbirth. Unable to stay awake, she fell asleep in the middle of the night.

But when she was half-asleep, she saw Queenie changing the cold towel on Cherry's forehead...

She had always been someone with a cold exterior but a warm heart. Moreover, Queenie was a resolute person with a can-do attitude. She was elegant and attractive, and many men courted her, but she rejected them all.

She said that she didn't like men and had never thought of getting married.

Thus, everything in NTT was hers and Cherry's.

Chapter 923 - Getting Into Intense Competition To Pamper Their Younger Sister

Nora took a sip of water and said, "I've never thought of taking anything from her. Seeing that I seemed to have made up my mind, she decided to give NTT to Cherry."

Realization dawned on Justin.

No wonder Cherry had never cared about the Hunts' assets. As it turned out, it was because she already had NTT.

The Hunts' assets were indeed comparable with NTT.

He lowered his eyes and held Nora's hand. "Yeah. We'll talk about it again when the time comes."

Nora nodded.

The two chatted for quite a while. When they suddenly fell silent and were about to rest, they noticed Pete and Xander whispering to each other nearby.

Nora had sharp ears, so she heard the two little fellows' private conversation.

Pete asked worriedly, "Will Cherry be mad because we exposed her like that?"

Xander, who adopted an arrogant and fearless stance, raised his chin and said, "So what even if she does? We're doing this for her own good. Playing games every day is not good for her health!"

Pete nodded. Suddenly, he suggested, “Why don’t we have a good talk with her?”

Xander pouted. “What’s there to talk about? Just let her...”

Before he could finish, though, Pete suddenly sighed and said, “You’re the eldest among us, so you should act like one. Considering how unreliable Daddy is—he’s either faking his death or keeping quiet and ignoring us all the time-Cherry and I will have to depend on you in the future.”

Xander’s expression turned smug at once. “Heh, so you admit that I’m the eldest now?”

Pete replied, “Yes. I will do as you say from now on, Xander.”

His admission made Xander get ahead of himself. He patted his little chest and said, “Don’t worry, I will look after you and Cherry. I won’t let the two of you go down the wrong path.”

Pete asked, “Should we talk to Cherry?”

“Of course!” Xander insisted on acting like the eldest sibling and said, “I’ll ask her to come over right away. We’ll talk to her together.”

“Okay, Xander.”

Pete’s submissive attitude made Xander walk toward Cherry with his chin raised. He said, “Cherry, as your elder brothers, Pete and I have something to tell you.” Cherry was utterly puzzled.

She said to Queenie, “Brush Flora’s hair for me, Grandaunt Queenie. I’ll be back in a jiffy.”

“This is obviously your doll, yet you insist on making me do it... Alright, go on.” Queenie complained as she took the doll from Cherry, who skipped over to Pete and Xander.

The three little ones got together.

Nora rested her chin on her palm and watched curiously as the two brothers educated their younger sister who had been led astray.

Xander coughed and started the lecture. He said, “Cherry, after thinking about it for a long while, I don’t think it’s right that you keep on playing games like this every day. Do you want to grow up into an adult who doesn’t know anything but playing games??”

Cherry looked crushed at once. She lowered her head, twiddled her thumbs, and said sadly, “But I really wanna play games. Are you also going to tell me what to do when Mommy is already doing so?” Xander nodded. “Yes. As the eldest among us, this is my responsibility. Moreover, we both feel that you are not doing the right thing.” “Really?”

Cherry looked at Pete. “Do you think so too, Pete?”

Xander also looked at Pete.

However, after pondering for a while, Pete looked at Xander and said, “Why don’t we relax our supervision on Cherry, Xander? As elder brothers, we can support her for a lifetime anyway.”

Cherry’s eyes lit up at once and she said, “Pete is the best!”

Xander: “???”

Cherry then glared at him and said, “I don’t like you anymore!”

Xander: “!!!!”

After Cherry spoke, she hugged Pete and said, “Pete, let’s go play together!”

Pete was very reserved. He said reluctantly, “... I don’t like playing with dolls, but for your sake... Sigh, alright.”

The two walked toward Queenie hand in hand.

Xander: “...”

Xander stood on the spot, dumbfounded.

Only then did he realize that he had been tricked!

At the side, Nora's lip corners spasmed.

Was there such intense competition between boys with sister complexes these days?!

Do they have to start a battle of wits and courage just to win their younger sister's favor now?

Justin, who was next to her, also found the sight unbearable to watch.

Pete was too devious! The family had fun all afternoon. This continued until the Queen called in the evening. With a listless look on her face, she asked, "Has Black Cat returned or not?"

Nora: "?"

No, really, so much time had already passed. Why was she still hung up over Black Cat?!

She replied, "She's gone back." "Okay." The Queen hung up on her right away.

Nora was rendered a little speechless by the Queen. After the children fell asleep at night, she took a look at the clock-it was time to pick up Ian at the airport.

Chapter 924 - Black Cat, You'Re So Much Nicer Than Nora Smith!

Both Nora and Justin's identities had already been exposed in front of each other, so they headed to the airport together.

However, Justin kept wearing a black mask and moved about as King.

Justin drove while Nora sat in the passenger seat.

After a while, her cell phone suddenly rang.

This was Black Cat's phone.

When she answered, a woman's familiar voice came from the other end. "Black Cat, have you gone back?"

Nora: "?????"

No, really, what was the Queen doing?!

She had just called her to ask if Black Cat had returned, and now she was calling Black Cat to ask if she had returned!

It wasn't like she would go missing, right?

The corners of her lips spasmed and she replied, "Yes, I'm back."

"Oh, that's great."

After saying that, the Queen suddenly heaved a sigh. "I was worried that you might have been caught and detained by Nora Smith. Her eyes are really sharp. You'd better keep your distance from King... By the way, I forgot to tell you that King and Nora Smith are in a relationship, so you'd better not mess with them. You didn't see how infuriating Nora was... She actually made use of me to catch someone! I'm so mad! If she wanted me to cooperate, couldn't she just say so? I'm not an unreasonable person. I think she is deliberately making things difficult for me! Of all people, why was my strongest bodyguard the murderer?"

Nora: "..."

The Queen rambled on. "Am I annoying you by saying so much?"

Nora was about to answer "Yes" when the Queen went on.

"You agree with me, right? Nora is too pretentious. The way she acts like she's so high up in the air is as if she doesn't take anyone seriously... Forget it, I won't complain about her anymore. I used to love complaining about her the most, but I find that even complaining about her is boring these days. Alas!"

The corners of Nora's lips spasmed. If it was that boring, why was she still talking so much?

The thought had only just formed when she suddenly heard the Queen speak again.

"Apart from making sure that you're safe, I'm also calling because I'd like to confide in you. I'm actually a little sad."

Nora: "?"

They weren't that close that they could confide in each other, right?

Despite finding it a nuisance, she asked, "What are you feeling sad about?"

Nora definitely wasn't one to utter such a sentence...

The Queen said, "Barbarian, my bodyguard... You know who he is, right? I've always regarded him as my younger brother. Watching him grow up, and watching him become my strongest bodyguard made me really happy. But unexpectedly, he turned out to be a serial killer.

“Do you know? I looked into it just now. I was thinking that if he had never killed anyone from the UK, then I’d just turn a blind eye. But do you know how many people he has killed? “He has killed almost a hundred people... with more than a dozen of them from the UK... He’s my younger brother, but those people are also my subjects. As an elder sister, I can cover up for my younger brother, but as a Queen, I cannot allow the murderer to go unpunished, such that those who have died cannot even rest in peace. “The two roles, an elder sister and a Queen, keep switching back and forth in me... Do you know? This is the first time I’m finding something a bit tricky to handle. I don’t know what to do.

“I have dealt with ministers who betrayed me, but I never thought he would betray me too... He has never betrayed me before. No, that’s not right. Killing my people is no different than a betrayal...”

The Queen rambled on and on, making Nora dizzy.

At last, the Queen asked, “Do you think I’m right?”

Nora replied, “... Yes, yes, you are.”

“Sigh, you understand that I’m really being put in a spot too, right? I knew you would understand. You are so much better than Nora. She is a heartless woman. This one time, I confided in her some of my worries, but she actually fell asleep just listening to me. Hah, does she think of my worries as a lullaby?”

Nora, who was falling asleep: “??”

“Alright, I have to go. Thank you for listening, Black Cat.”

After she finished, she hung up at once, not giving Nora a chance to interrupt her at all.

“We’ve reached the airport,” said Justin warmly as he looked at her twitching face.

Chapter 925 - Queenie Schmidt'S True Identity???

Nora got out of the car and went to the airport exit to wait for Ian.

As Justin was wearing a mask, it would be too eye-catching if he came out, so Nora made him stay in the car.

She did not wait long at the exit before she saw that the flight had arrived. Ian walked out with the crowd.

Ian was in the business class, so he came out first.

He raised his walking stick as a stewardess supported him.

When Ian had just recovered, he was weak, so he was in a wheelchair. Now, he could walk with a walking stick. Even if he walked slowly, his back was straight. He was wearing a suit, and no one dared to underestimate him.

Nora quickly entered the blockade. She came to Ian and held his arm.

A staff member was about to come over and say that she could not enter so casually, but when he saw this scene, he could not urge her anymore.

The father and daughter slowly walked out. Nora looked back and asked, "Where's the luggage?" Ian: "I don't have one."

Nora was a little stunned.

The Smiths had a private plane, but to fly overseas, they had to apply for a transit pass. This required time and Ian clearly could not wait. Therefore, he took the earliest flight he could find.

He did not even bring his clothes or luggage. It was obvious how anxious he was about the news.

Nora did not dare to ask too much and walked him straight to the exit.

The two of them left the airport and arrived outside the car.

As Justin was here to pick Ian up, he especially drove a spacious car to make it easier for Ian, who had been on the plane for eight hours, to have a good rest.

However, Ian pulled Nora's hand. "Sit in the back with me."

"Okay."

Nora accompanied Ian into the car.

Justin slowly started the car.

Ian glanced at Justin. When he saw that he was still wearing a mask, he frowned and asked, "Is he reliable?"

Nora: "?"

She coughed. "Yes."

"If he's reliable, why is he still wearing a mask?"

Nora was about to explain that this was Justin when she saw Ian wave his hand. "Forget it, I won't ask anymore. You're being so mysterious all the time. I don't care what you're doing either... If you say he's reliable, I'll continue. Turn off all your phones and all the communication equipment in the car." Seeing Ian's serious expression, Nora took out her phone and switched it off cooperatively.

She didn't say anything about being safe in her car.

Because Ian was completely frightened now. She had to give him the safest environment to make him say it.

When Justin saw this, he simply stopped the car on an empty road.

There was nothing around them.

In fact, Nora even got out of the car and walked around. After confirming that no one could eavesdrop on their conversation, she got back into the car and asked, “Dad, what’s wrong?”

Nora rarely called Ian ‘Dad’. Now that she had called him that, Ian’s heart calmed down.

He sighed and suddenly said, “I just... Back then, the Smiths were so powerful. Your mother had to escape to protect me, so it’s always good to be careful.”

There had to be a reason the mysterious organization could make Yvette wary.

Nora nodded.

Ian asked, “Is Queenie at the villa?”

“Yes.”

Ian swallowed. “I want to see her.”

“No, I can’t see her...”

Ian’s words were incoherent. Obviously, even after sitting on the plane for eight hours, he still could not calm his agitated mood.

Nora frowned. “What’s wrong?”

Ian said, “I’m afraid that if I see her recklessly like this, I’ll bring her danger... Forget it, I’ll tell you the truth! I recently found out that when Yvette was overseas, she once tried to get into business. She used an alias when she was doing business... That alias was Queenie Schmidt,” he looked at Nora steadily and said word by word. This sentence made Nora frown.

Why was Ian so nervous and being so mysterious? Was it because he felt that her aunt, Queenie Schmidt, was her mother, Yvette?

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 926 - Nervous!

Nora looked at Ian and did not know what to say.

However, Ian seemed to have confirmed his suspicions. He slowly said, “When your mother died back then, you were still young, so you didn’t see her dead body, right? So think about it. Why is your aunt so good to you? Furthermore, she handed over to you the company that she worked so hard to establish... Also, the birthday gift she gave to Cherry last time was something I had given to your mother! Nora...”

Seeing that he still wanted to say more, Nora sighed and slowly said, “They look completely different.”

As soon as she said this, Ian replied, “Her looks could have been adjusted later. Your plastic surgery skills are so good now, it wouldn’t have been a hard thing for her to change her face.”

Nora was silent again. “Mother is already dead...”

“I didn’t see a dead body, and you didn’t see a dead body, either. I only heard the news from other people. Your mother was so smart, she could definitely find a way out. Nora, I don’t dare to go to the Schmidt’s directly now. I’m afraid that someone might suspect her if they see me there. Can you help me contact her and get her to come out secretly so that we can meet?”

Ian’s eyes were filled with light.

Nora had never seen Ian like this.

He was in high spirits as if he had found a reason to live again.

He had never been so excited, even when he found out that she was his biological daughter.

He must have loved Yvette so much.

Nora suddenly felt a little sad.

She did not want to cruelly crush Ian's only hope. She said, "I'll call her now."

"Okay."

Ian smiled.

This smile was like the sun shining into a car, making everything brighter.

Ian was indeed extremely good-looking.

Nora took out her phone and turned it on. She called Queenie.

However, no one picked up for a long time.

Nora frowned and picked up her phone again. She called the butler. John picked up quickly. "Ms. Nora, what's the matter?" "Where's Queenie?"

"She just drove out. She didn't say where she was going," John replied.

Nora frowned. "Then who did she take with her?"

John said, "No one."

Nora: "?"

She asked, "She didn't take anyone along?"

"No... I persuaded Madam to take two bodyguards with her, but she seemed to be in a hurry. She only said that there was no need and left."

"Okay."

Nora hung up the phone. She thought about it and called the NTT.

Royce picked up quickly. “Ms. Nora, what’s the matter?”

“Did Queenie come to the company?”

“No.”

After Royce replied, Nora was about to hang up when she heard Royce say, “But Madam called me just now and told me something.”

Nora: “?”

She frowned and asked, “What is it?”

Royce said, “She wants us to listen to you from now on.”

Nora: “??”

She frowned. “When was this?”

Royce sighed. “Just now, and... Madam is hiding something.” Nora was stunned. “What is it?”

However, Royce said, “How about this? I’ll tell you in person at the Schmidt’s.”

Nora nodded. “Sure.”

After hanging up, she said to Justin, “We have to go to the Schmidt’s. Hurry!”

When she was on the phone, Justin had sensed that something was wrong, so after she finished speaking, he started the car and rushed to the Schmidt’s.

Ian asked nervously, “What’s wrong with her? Did something happen to her? Or does she know that I’m here and is hiding from me on purpose?”

Nora frowned. She took out her phone and sent a message as she said, “No, she’s missing! I’ll get someone to look for her now.”

“Missing?”

Ian’s eyes widened. “How could that be?!”

Why did she leave in such a hurry?

The few of them went straight to Schmidt’s. John was waiting at the door. When he saw Nora, he said, “When Madam left, she said that you can now enter that room.”

That room... That room with Queenie’s secret, she could enter now?

So now was the time Queenie had mentioned before?!

Nora’s heart felt worse and uneasier. She asked, “Did she take anything with her when she went out?”

John thought about it and nodded. “Yes. I think she took an insulated box.”

Confidential documents could be placed in a password box.

Why did she have to use an insulated box?

As soon as the thought appeared, Nora immediately realized it. It was the V16!

Only medicine needed to be kept cold!!

Chapter 927 - Queenie'S True Identity!!

Screech!

The car stopped at the bottom of the villa. Nora helped Ian out of the car. The few of them had just gotten out when they saw Cherry and the other two running out eagerly. When they saw Ian, the three of them shouted in surprise, "Grandpa!"

Cherry pounced forward and hugged Ian before beginning to speak sweetly. Pete and Xander stood by the side with the corners of their mouths twitching.

However, Nora was not in the mood to listen to them. She entered the villa.

Justin followed closely behind her.

The two of them went straight to the third floor but realized that the door to the mysterious room had already been opened. Nora's footsteps instantly stopped. She and Justin looked at each other.

Then, he heard Ian's walking stick.

He walked around Cherry and came to the two of them. When he saw their faces, he asked, "What is it?"

Nora looked at that room. "There is a secret about my aunt's identity in this room."

Ian immediately looked at the door eagerly and walked in.

Nora followed behind him.

When the two of them entered, they were first attracted to the black and white photo on the wall.

In the photo was Yvette's young and arrogant face. She was smiling arrogantly as she looked straight at them. In front of the photo were some offerings. It was obvious that someone had been here all year to commemorate her. "This..."

When Ian saw the photo, the final hope in his heart suddenly shattered.

No one would secretly commemorate themselves.

Although he had a strong feeling after finding out that Yvette had once used the name Queenie, he really wanted Queenie to be Yvette.

However, he knew in his heart... How could the mysterious organization, which could push Yvette to a dead end, believe that she was dead without seeing her corpse?

But he forced himself not to think about it. It seemed that as long as he did not think about it, Queenie could still be Yvette...

He knew that if he thought about it, this fantasy of his would be shattered.

The walking stick in his hand trembled slightly.

He tried hard to stand up straight and walked forward trembling. His fingers slowly touched the portrait on the wall before he began to size up the items on the surrounding shelves.

"This..."

He picked up a small golden locket and was stunned. "This is Yvette's..."

In the middle of the golden locket was a piece of jade. This jade pendant had been broken, and there was a crack in the middle.

He looked at the rest of the shelves and realized that most of the things on them were left behind by Yvette. He picked them up one by one, trembling... It was as if he had returned to the good days he had spent with Yvette.

Nora did not have much feeling for this. After all, she hadn't seen her mother since a very young age. Her feelings for her mother were not very strong.

She was just looking for something that belonged to Queenie here.

Since Queenie had said that the secret to her identity was in this room, then there must be something that belonged to her!

Nora looked around and suddenly saw a small box.

She was stunned. After walking over, she picked up the box and slowly opened it.

The first thing that came into view was a business card.

On the card was a little girl who looked to be in her teens. She had a ponytail and was facing the camera with a wide smile. The name on the card had been smeared.

The name of the company on the card was: Philip Biotechnology Laboratory.

"This is the official name of the mysterious organization," Justin suddenly said. He looked at the girl on the card again. He seemed to have realized something, but he still asked, "Who... is this?"

Nora clenched her fists and slowly said, "Queenie." When Queenie was only eleven or twelve years old, she was a member of the mysterious organization!

This was an outcome Nora had not expected!!!

She and Justin suddenly looked at each other. Nora put down the box in her hand and rushed to Queenie's bedroom!

The V16 was supposed to be in her bedroom!

However, when she entered the bedroom, she saw that the fridge door was open and the V16 inside was indeed gone...

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 928 - She'S Queenie!

Nora was stunned on the spot.

Justin reached out and placed his hand on her shoulder, comforting her. "It's okay..."

There were two gene serums. Even if Queenie really handed both serums to the mysterious organization, he could still talk to Trueman as King and get one back for Xander.

There was still time!

However, he knew that Nora was not worried about the serum right now. She was just confused and hesitant upon being betrayed.

Nora really did not expect it to be like this...

Queenie was from the mysterious organization. She had thought about this a long time ago. However, in the past five years, Queenie's affection for her was not fake, and her feelings for Cherry were not fake, either.

She had even told her aunt that she could give her one of the two serums.

Then why did she snatch both of them away?

If she had left one for Xander, Nora would not have been so sad.

Nora took a deep breath. When she turned back, she saw the three children looking at them in confusion.

Cherry asked, "Mommy, what's wrong?"

Pete and Xander looked at her worriedly.

Nora lowered her eyes. "It's nothing. I've just lost something of mine."

Cherry said again, “What did you lose? It’s okay. When Grandma comes back, I’ll get her to help you find it! Grandma is so powerful, she’ll definitely be able to find it!”

Looking at her innocent appearance, Nora touched her head and did not say anything. She walked past her and entered the room that had never been opened for her before.

She wanted to see Queenie’s life.

Justin stood behind her and looked at her departing back. He had never seen her like this. No matter what, she was calm, rational, and powerful.

However, sometimes, what broke a person’s heart was not physical abuse but psychological betrayal.

He followed behind Nora and entered the room with her.

Nora took the box and flipped through it. Only then did she see an identity card.

The ID card was very old. It looked more than twenty years old as the photo was still in black and white. The name on the ID card was Queenie, but the photo was of Yvette.

This should be the identity Yvette had forged back then.

Below the card was a transfer of shares agreement.

It meant that once she passed away, all that belonged to the NTT company she had founded would be inherited by her daughter, Nora.

Nora took a deep breath.

20 years ago, the Internet wasn’t as prevalent and most of the records were kept offline. It was not as convenient as it is now. After Yvette disguised herself as Queenie, one could easily change the photo.

Nora had seen Queenie’s identity card.

She had secretly replaced her mother's identity back then...

Nora only felt a little stifled in her chest. It was very uncomfortable. Was this the feeling of sadness?

She looked down again and realized that there was nothing left.

Although she knew that Queenie was from the mysterious organization, she still did not know anything about her real identity.

At this moment, a car arrived at the door. NTT's Royce walked in. When she saw him, Nora instantly narrowed her eyes and asked, "You've always known that she isn't Queenie, right?"

Royce was a veteran from when NTT was first established. He must have seen his mother!

Royce nodded. "Yes. I came here this time to explain it to you..."

He pointed to the sofa. After letting Nora sit down, he said, "I remember it was 26 years ago. Your mother suddenly brought her here one day and said that she would be in charge of everything related to NTT. I asked her what her name was. Your mother said... Her name was Queenie. Your mother emphasized that she would be Queenie from now on."

Nora was taken aback.

Royce handed her another document. "Look at this first."

She lowered her head and opened it. After taking a look, her eyes narrowed.

Chapter 929 - Queenie, Where Are You Going?

Nora stared at the document intently. After a while, she looked at Royce and asked, “When did you find out? Why didn’t you tell me earlier?”

Royce sighed. “I only found out recently. I realized that something was wrong with her, so I went to investigate.”

With that, Royce frowned. “Madam has never had a change of heart all these years. I even suspected her when your mother brought her here, but your mother had said that I could trust her. I couldn’t have expected this to be the truth.”

Nora nodded.

Nora walked over and handed the document in her hand to Justin.

It was a cancer diagnosis.

Justin pursed his lips tightly. “... This doesn’t make any sense. If she doesn’t have long to live, why is she still working for the mysterious organization? Could it be... that they have something on her? Or could it be that she has relatives who are being threatened?”

This was the only explanation. Nora instantly pursed her lips tightly. She looked at the diagnosis intently and suddenly lowered her eyes. Her lips curled up into a bitter smile.

But then, she suddenly picked up her phone and sent a message to Karl of the Assassin Alliance. “Do me a favor.”

On a highway, a low-key black car was parked by the roadside.

Queenie sat in the driver’s seat and looked forward with blurry eyes.

She opened the glove compartment in the car and took out a tall cup and a bottle of red wine.

She picked up the bottle of red wine. The year written on it was 1995.

This was the year she had come from the mysterious organization.

She remembered that before she left, her master had said, “I want you to go with her and work as a spy.” She had agreed.

Then, Yvette took her out of the mysterious organization.

She did not bring her back to the country. Instead, she went to a company called NTT.

There, she handed her to Royce and said, “This is my sister. From now on, she will be Queenie. Queenie will only be her.”

She was stunned and looked at Yvette in disbelief.

But Yvette only smiled at her. Even after more than twenty years, that woman’s smile still seemed to be in front of her.

It was the first time in her life that she had received kindness.

Later, Yvette took her to start a company and planned the company’s future development together. She even took her on a trip and the two of them had gone to a winery.

Yvette had stayed with her for a month in that winery.

That big sister-like figure taught her how to make wine by hand, how to ride a horse, and even played with her. When she could not do it well, Yvette would scold her like she was her own sister...

Slowly, she forgot her original mission.

She really thought she was Yvette’s sister.

Until she received a call from the organization.

She looked at the bottle of wine in her hand again.

She had made this with Yvette back then. They had made a total of ten bottles. At the time, Yvette had smiled and said, “When I’m old... No, when we’re old, the two of us will drink together.”

At the thought of this, she took out a bottle opener and opened the bottle of wine. She slowly poured it into the cup and swirled it gently.

Then she tasted it carefully.

The wine that was not fermented enough still had an astringent smell, but it was too old. It was mellow and rich, and it lingered in her mouth.

She smiled.

At this moment, a car suddenly drove by the roadside and stopped beside her car. After the window was opened, the person in the driver’s seat said, “Customer 9815, right? We’re your bodyguards.”

Queenie nodded at him.

This was the most influential mercenary organization in the world. She had paid a high price to hire such a team to protect her. After all, the way to the mysterious organization from here would not be smooth.

At the thought of this, Queenie said, “Come over. Drive for me.”

With that, she got out of the car and walked to the front passenger seat.

As soon as she sat down, the back door of the car beside her was pushed open. Immediately, a masked person in a camouflage outfit got into the driver’s seat.

Queenie said, “Let’s go.”

However, even after a while, the person in the driver's seat did not start the car.

She turned around in confusion and saw the person taking off the black cat mask.

Nora looked at her with a complicated gaze and asked slowly, "Queenie, where are you going?"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 930 - Explanation

Nora's hair was tied neatly at the back of her head.

Her face was covered in gray camouflage paint, and the camouflage-print outfit she wore looked smart and well-fitted. Together with her army boots, she was a smart and dashing sight.

At the sight of Nora, Queenie's pupils shrank. Stunned, she asked, "You... Why are you here?"

Nora cast her eyes down. "You may have underestimated Black Cat's status in the industry."

Black Cat was the top assassin in the world. Every organization, no matter which, would show her respect. When Nora realized that Queenie had left by herself, she was absolutely confident that she would hire security services for sure.

Bodyguards hired at the last minute were unprofessional and unreliable. Their combat skills weren't as reliable as that of professional hitmen and mercenaries. Moreover, mercenaries only did what they were paid to do and would never betray their employers.

Thus, Nora had used Black Cat's identity to immediately contact all the organizations.

In the end, Queenie chose a mercenary group affiliated with the Hitman League.

The Hitman League and the Assassin Alliance were rivals and competitors. Queenie might have chosen them because of this, in order to prevent Nora from getting a hold of her location through the Assassin Alliance.

But unexpectedly...

The Hitman League showed Black Cat that much respect?

Queenie frowned. “Isn’t the Hitman League on hostile terms with you guys?”

“We’re not on hostile terms; we’re just competitors. Also, I did them a small favor in the past.”

Nora answered impassively and then looked straight ahead. Many years ago, the Hitman League had received a difficult job. They dispatched several assassins for the job, but they all came back unsuccessful. Had the news spread, the Hitman League would have ended up utterly embarrassed.

Their old boss then got a brainwave and decided to engage the services of Black Cat, who was from the Assassin Alliance, for the job.

To be honest, he had just been making a last-ditch effort. He never imagined that Black Cat would actually take it up.

At that time, they thought that Black Cat just wanted money and hadn’t recognized them. But when Black Cat took only two hours to complete the job that they had failed to complete even after two weeks, and also successfully found their identity, their old boss decided to offer extra money so that Black Cat wouldn’t reveal the truth about the job to others.

At that time, competition between the two organizations was fierce, and every time either of them received a difficult job, they would secretly show off within the industry.

But unexpectedly, Black Cat refused the extra money.

She even said that the job was only worth the price initially agreed upon.

Thinking that this was the Assassin Alliance’s conspiracy, the old boss was convinced at that time that they were done for. With Black Cat easily resolving the problem that they couldn’t, she had pretty much become a walking advertisement!

Unexpectedly, though, the outcome he was worried about did not come to pass.

Black Cat never told anyone that she had taken on such a job.

Because of this, everyone in the Hitman League

– including Abbott, who had carried out the mission with Nora the other time—had a lot of respect for Black Cat, even though they disliked Nora.

Therefore, when Nora used Black Cat’s account to ask them for help, the members of the Hitman League immediately reported to her the moment Queenie approached them.

Abbott even sent several messages to Nora:

‘Hey Black Cat, do you know that the Assassin Alliance took advantage of your fame and found someone to impersonate you and act as a bodyguard for the Queen for three days?! They are too much! The Hitman League’s doors are always open for you.’

Nora: “...”

She ignored Abbott completely. In fact, she didn’t even look at the text messages he sent after that. Instead, she immediately rushed over after receiving the news about Queenie.

After hearing Nora’s reply, Queenie fell silent for a while. In the end, she hung her head and asked, “Are you here to catch me and take me back?”

“No,”

Nora looked straight ahead of her. Suddenly, her eyes reddened and she said, “I’m just... here to accompany you on this journey.”

This journey that might possibly be her last.

Queenie was stunned. Then, she sighed and asked, “You’ve found out?”

“Yeah.”

Nora’s voice was still low, but her voice was firm. She said, “Aunt Queenie, I trust you. You must have your reasons for doing this. Now, I’d like to hear your explanation.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 931 - 1 Taking Her Home

Her explanation?

Queenie fell silent for a while.

She suddenly turned her head and looked out the window. “You know what? I’ve actually long forgotten what my name really is. Ever since my teens when people started calling me Queenie Schmidt, I thought that I had become the real Queenie.”

She lowered her head, a self-mocking smile on her lips.

“Ivy Lyons. That’s my real name.”

After speaking, she took a sip of red wine and said, “For so many years, the mysterious organization never contacted me, and I naively thought that I had really broken free from them. But unexpectedly, right after you obtained the V16, I received their summons. And now, I must hand over the V16 to them.”

“Why?” Nora looked at her intently.

Why would a woman who was close to death go against her own will and let herself suffer coercion from others?

“Because of my family.”

Queenie... Nora still preferred to call her Queenie, whether because the name was her mother’s pseudonym or any other reason. To her, her aunt was Queenie Schmidt, and in the same way, Queenie Schmidt was her aunt.

“Because my family has always been under their control.”

Queenie spoke indifferently as if the matter had nothing to do with her.

Nora fell silent.

Queenie looked at her. “If they threatened Cherry or Justin’s life and demanded that you hand over the V16, would you do it?”

Yes.

Almost without thinking, Nora came to an answer.

She sighed silently and stared at the steering wheel in front of her.

So, Aunt Queenie had no other choice either, right?

She turned her head to look at Queenie again, her gaze falling on her.

Queenie had always dressed sexily. Even when she was home, she wore a red silk nightgown most of the time. She had a good figure. But Queenie was wearing a large, baggy black coat now instead.

There was sorrow in her eyes. Seemingly from her betrayal of someone whom she once saw as her sister, yet also carrying some other meaning. It was hard to tell what it really was.

Queenie looked at her again. “So, do you hate me?”

“Most likely not.”

Nora answered slowly. She took a while to word what she wanted to say, so that she could express her feelings more clearly. She said, “I was really sad when I found out that you took the V16. But now that I know you had no other choice, I suddenly find myself forgiving you.”

Queenie was taken aback.

Suddenly, she smiled wryly and said, “After so many years, I have ultimately still let Yvette down.”

However, Nora shook her head. “I think Mom expected this to happen. That’s why she chose to trust you unconditionally and gave you warmth, despite knowing full well that she didn't know anything about your identity or background.”

Queenie laughed when she heard her. “What are your plans now?”

“Nothing much.” Nora slowly replied, “I told you, I'm only here to accompany you on your last journey.”

Queenie was surprised.

She suddenly reached out her hand and touched her head. “This journey's not going to be a peaceful one. Barbarian is still watching us, and the mysterious organization will also send their men to pick me up... Why... are you doing this?”

She knew very well that she was her enemy, yet she still came to accompany her without hesitation.

Nora smiled. “Because you're my aunt.”

She lowered her head. “Besides, I owe you my life.”

Five years ago... more like six now. After giving birth, her body had become extremely weak as she lay on the delivery bed. Since she was little, Nora had lived in a family without love. It was impossible for her to say that she didn't envy her younger sister. When she watched her fake father raise her sister into the air, and when she watched her stepmother reprimand her sister, deep down, she had been envious of her.

Later, she began to study medicine under Silvester and practiced martial arts under Quinn. The two elderly men treated her well, but they were ultimately still men. All they did was reprimand her and tell her to grow up.

Queenie was the only one who had shown her a ray of warmth in her life.

She still remembered that she was so weak back then that she couldn't even get off the delivery bed. After she gave birth to Cherry, she could only watch helplessly as Henry came over to snatch the baby from her, yet she couldn't even lift a finger...

At that point, someone had suddenly kicked the door open. Queenie, dressed in red, had then walked in, upon which she immediately noticed her lying on the delivery bed. Her warm fingers closed around her hand and she told her, “Don’t be scared, Nora. I’m here now.”

Then, she had ordered her bodyguard to snatch the baby back. She stood in front of her assertively and faced Henry.

Henry had yelled, “What are you doing here?!”.

With her voice calm and steady, the woman replied, “I’m here to take her home.”

At that time, Nora was already losing consciousness.

Before she passed out, she heard her say, “Since you can’t take care of her well, then from now on, I will be the one taking care of her. She will be my daughter from now on!”

Queenie had taken her home then.

Now, she would bring Queenie home.

Chapter 932 - Something'S Wrong

“I don't need you to protect me.”

Upon hearing what Nora said, Queenie suddenly turned her head to the side and added, “Besides, there's really no need for you to do this. Treating you well was one of my missions. The mysterious organization wanted me to treat you well; otherwise, how would I gain your trust?”

Nora did not speak.

Suddenly, Queenie opened the thermal insulation case she had brought with her, took out one of the bottles inside, and handed it to her. “Take this bottle of V16. With this, we don't owe each other anything anymore. Leave!”

However, Nora didn't take it. Instead, she started the car.

Queenie frowned. “Didn't you hear me?”

Nora merely replied coldly, “Put the V16 back in the case. If it's kept in the open for too long, it'll lose its efficacy.”

Seeing that she wasn't taking the V16 from her, Queenie hesitated for a moment before she finally placed it back in the case. She sneered, “You weren't such a saint in the past.”

Since she was little, Nora had never had normal familial relationships. On top of that, the few teachers she had were all elderly people with high statuses in their professional fields and were very imposing. As a result, she had always positioned herself as an extreme egoist.

Even during the five years she was abroad, she had been extremely cold and indifferent to people and didn't really care much for the people around her. That was why the Queen detested Nora.

Because she was always so cold and unreceptive toward others, no matter how well they treated her.

During her time abroad, she had made only one friend and that was Tanya.

And even so, the only reason she'd accepted Tanya was that both of them were looking for their missing child... In Tanya, she had found someone whom she could commiserate with.

Nora ignored Queenie's remark again and continued to drive forward. While she was at it, she asked, "Where do you want to go?"

Queenie: "..."

She had said all that just now to rile the woman up, but she had clearly already made up her mind.

Queenie knew her well.

Knowing that Nora had always been someone who knew what she was doing, she took a deep breath and suddenly said, "Nora, not only do we have to be wary of Barbarian attacking us along the way, but we also have to be on guard against the mysterious organization. Do you know that the mysterious organization has never trusted me? They want me to give them the serums in exchange for my family, but the truth is that they are going to try snatching them from me the whole way there! I know that you'll have to face the mysterious organization sooner or later, but there's really no need for you to do this for my sake."

She looked away and added, "I'm not worth it."

"You're not the one who decides whether you're worth it or not. I'm the one who does."

Nora couldn't bear hearing her say such things. Her eyes were fixed in front of her as she said, "Aunt Queenie, I told you, I'm taking you home-safely."

As she spoke, she put Black Cat's mask back on with one hand and then added, "I know you're worried that they will think of this as a trap if I'm with you, but you don't have to worry, because it is not Nora Smith who is here with you now but just plain old Black Cat."

After saying that, Nora snatched the wine glass out of Queenie's hand and put it aside. "That's enough drinking. Don't drink anymore."

Queenie: "..."

She was about to speak when she saw a smiling Nora say, "You haven't slept properly since you left home yesterday, right? Have a good rest. Don't worry, I'm here."

As Queenie looked at the stubborn woman, she glanced at the wine glass the other woman had put away and then broke into a frown. She was about to snatch it back when she heard Nora speak again. "If you don't do as I say, I will throw your wine out the window."

Queenie shut her mouth and closed her eyes huffily.

The car quietened at last.

When Queenie's eyes suddenly opened, she spied a tiny smile flash across Nora's lips.

Queenie asked huffily, "What are you laughing at?"

"Nothing much." As she drove, Nora reached over, took a quilt from the backseat, and tossed it to her. "Here, use this."

Queenie: "?"

Surprised, she asked, "Where did you get the quilt from?"

"I put it in the back when I first got in the car."

What else had that woman brought into the car while she wasn't looking?! Queenie closed her eyes huffily. She slept very peacefully. Five hours later, it was already noon. When Queenie slowly opened her eyes, she found that the car had arrived at a toll booth.

Ahead of them, someone was checking the people in the car in front.

Sunlight streamed in through the window, shining on Queenie and warming her up.

Queenie was somewhat dazed, to the extent that for a while, she even forgot where she was and what she was doing. How long had it been since she'd slept so well? While she was staring blankly ahead of her, Nora suddenly whispered into the Bluetooth headset she was wearing, "Alert!"

Queenie's mind cleared instantly.

She looked ahead abruptly, upon which she saw the people in the toll booth walking toward them with savage looks in their eyes.

Something was wrong with those people.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 933 - On A Rampage

Nora looked ahead.

As a hitman, she naturally had a sixth sense.

Those people were mercenaries.

As she observed what was happening in front, she turned her head to see Queenie, who wasn't much of a fighter at all, narrowing her eyes warily. She clenched her fingers nervously and held them at her waist.

This was a person's natural reaction when they encountered danger.

Nora withdrew her gaze, a dull glint flashing across her almond-shaped eyes.

“Get out of the car! This is a checkpoint!”

The people outside knocked on the window and shouted fiercely.

Nora made an “OK” hand gesture. She pretended to roll down the window, but the next moment, she suddenly started the car and stepped on the gas pedal!

Vroom!

As the revving of the car starting rang out, the car lunged forward.

It knocked away the trio standing in front and blocking their way.

“Damn it, go after them! Don't let them get away!”

The people behind them immediately whipped out their pistols. Just as they were about to fire at their tires, with a loud screech, the car suddenly stopped at the front. It even made a turn and stopped horizontally at the expressway exit in front.

With one hand on the steering wheel, Nora looked at them with a smile and remarked, “Tsk, there is no escape now.”

It was only when she heard her remark that Queenie realized that the expressway they were on was very narrow and that the assailants’ cars were nearby at the other end of the toll station. If they wanted to get in their cars and escape, they would have to break through the toll gate. However, Nora had blocked the way with the car!

So, when Nora suddenly started the car and knocked away the trio just now, she hadn’t been trying to escape? Rather, she was trying to prevent these people from... escaping?

Queenie’s lip corners spasmed.

The little fellow sure was brazen.

Including the four in the car behind, they had only five people on their side at best; she, Queenie, was a delicate woman who couldn’t do anything rough.

The other party had more than twenty people on their side, though!

Just as Queenie was thinking about it, she saw Nora open the door on the driver’s side. She kicked the military boots she was wearing against the ground and then rolled up her sleeves. In an indifferent voice, she declared, “You have been surrounded. Surrender your weapons and your lives will be spared. Thank you.”

Queenie: “???”

That annoying and exasperating little appearance of hers was simply too much!

The other party: “???”

The other party was stunned when they heard her.

They looked behind them, where they confirmed that only four people had gotten off the second car.

As for their car, only one person had gotten out.

So, the four people at the back and one person in front had “surrounded” more than 20 of them?!

What a joke!

Their leader quickly recovered. He ordered, “Go! Except for Queenie, leave no one else alive!”

After he spoke, ten people walked toward the car behind while the other dozen or so approached where Queenie was.

The dozen or so people walking over took aim at Nora. Just as they were about to shoot, Nora did a tuck-and-roll on the spot and avoided their attack!

With just the tuck-and-roll, she came right up to them.

Then, she immediately threw a punch at the leader of the pack!

Bang!

The man’s jaw was dislocated at once and he was thrown backward.

At the sight, the person next to him hurriedly lifted his gun.

Bang!

With a sideways turn from Nora, the bullet bypassed her, hitting the hitman behind her in between his eyebrows.

Seeing this, their boss, who had been knocked away, hastily shouted, “No, don’t use your guns! B-beat up that woman inshtead!” He couldn’t even speak clearly anymore. In close combat, guns were a burden.

However, Nora was not only nimble but also physically strong. She gave everyone a kick each as they fought at close range. Before they could even put away their guns and take out their daggers, she had already taken them out one by one.

The four people at the back wanted to help Nora out after they finished taking out the ten opponents who had charged over, but when they looked over, they instead saw all of them collapsed on the ground all bruised and battered, kneeling and begging for mercy.

Black Cat had obviously gone on a rampage.

Nora, whose physique was thin and frail, had a black cat mask on her face. The woman dressed in a camouflage outfit held a submachine gun that she had confiscated from the enemy, pointed the muzzle at the people on the ground, and asked sassily, “Tell me, who sent you??”

Chapter 934 - A Man

The people on the ground kept quiet.

All of them were professional mercenaries, so they definitely weren't allowed to reveal their employer. Besides, they had only taken the job for money; to be honest, they might not even know their employer's true identity themselves.

Nora pressed the muzzle against the leader's chin and jabbed him with it. She said, "You'd best think this through. Will you talk or not?"

The leader looked at the woman in front of him.

He sneered and said, "I will never say anything even if you kill me! We are all people with professional ethics!" "Is that so?"

Nora countered. She grabbed the leader by the collar and brought him straight into the lounge next to the toll booth.

As soon as they entered, Nora saw the staff members, who were originally working there, all tied up and left by themselves inside.

Nora quickly untied them and asked, "Can I borrow this room for a while?"

Everyone: "..."

Yes, of course! The mercenaries who had tied them up were awfully fierce, yet that man didn't even dare to make a peep in front of the woman right now. How would the staff members possibly dare to refuse her request? As a result, everyone went out the door obediently.

Thud!

The door closed.

The staff then heard Nora's low voice coming from the room. "Will you talk?"

"No..."

Bam!

Thud!

Clang!

Thump!

Boom!

After a series of thumps came from the room, the leader wept weakly and said, "I'll talk, boohoo..."

The woman was simply terrifying. Her torture methods were so cruel that they were inhumane!

Was there anything these mercenaries hadn't seen? Yet he had been browbeaten into talking!

The sniveling leader said, "I-it's an organization that calls themselves the 'mysterious organization'. They gave me money! They wanted me to kidnap that woman named Queenie and take her to them!"

The mysterious organization...

Nora clapped her hands together. "Mm, I thought so." ... Then why are you still asking me about it? The leader thought to himself.

As Nora exited the lounge, she saw Queenie with a frown on her face. She walked over and found that Queenie's cell phone was ringing. Queenie looked at it-it was a string of numbers.

Though Queenie didn't recognize the string of numbers, Nora found it familiar. Something occurred to her and she raised her brows. "Answer it,

Aunt Queenie.”

Queenie picked up the call, upon which Trueman’s voice came from the other end. “Heh, I know that you’ve taken out the people I sent. I’m going to give you an address now. Go there with the V16. I will send someone to pick you up.”

Then, Trueman added, “You are not allowed to contact Nora, or else I won’t mind sending you a gift while I wait. For example, how does your sister’s hand sound? If I’m not wrong, she has beautiful hands...”

Queenie balled up her fists. “I will do as you say. Don’t do anything rash.”

“No problem.” After Trueman gave her an address, he hung up.

Nora was about to get in the car when her cell phone suddenly rang. When she took it out and looked at it, she found that it was Trueman, who had just been on the phone with Queenie, calling.

Nora: “?”

She glanced at Queenie and then answered the phone. At once, she heard Trueman’s deep laughter as he said, “How do you feel now? I told you to watch out for Queenie, didn’t I? So, both V16s are gone now, right? Do you still want to save Xander? My offer still stands: if you accept me as your master, I’ll consider giving you one of the V16s.”

Nora: “...”

The corners of her lips spasmed and she hung up.

Then, she looked at the mercenaries’ leader and ordered, “You, tie them up.”

As a result...

When Brenda led the SWAT team over half an hour later, they saw the staff members standing outside, shaking like leaves.

All the mercenaries had been securely tied up and they were all squatted on the floor in the room. When Brenda arrived, the group of them felt like they had just seen their savior.

Brenda found their leader and immediately asked, “Tell me, what’s going on?”

The leader, who was in tears, replied, “We just accepted a job to pick up Queenie Schmidt but a woman wearing a black mask beat us up and then trapped us here. A man also came after her and beat us up again. Boohoo...”

He had even lost quite a few teeth!

was

Brenda was surprised by what he said. She asked, “Are you saying that in addition to Queenie Schmidt’s bodyguards, another man had come? Who was he?”

The leader continued to cry as he replied, “I-I don’t know either. He only asked me where Queenie Schmidt and the others had gone... I didn’t know where they went, so he beat me up...”

The leader felt terribly aggrieved!

Because he really didn’t know the answer!

Brenda broke into a frown.

She was aware that Queenie had stolen the V16 and absconded with it because the incident had caused a huge uproar in the underworld. Of course, the people in the underworld didn’t know that it was the V16 that she’d stolen; they only knew that it was something valuable.

However, Brenda was perceptive enough to realize that she must have stolen the V16. In that case, since she had sought mercenaries on the black market to protect and escort her, Barbarian would definitely catch wind of it.

Barbarian would definitely come for her.

Thus, Brenda had immediately led her men on a search for Queenie in the city.

Initially, they didn't have any information, but someone had made a police report about an armed conflict involving multiple parties at the expressway toll gate. When she received the news, she immediately realized what was going on and hurried over.

But the problem was: who was the man who had shown up after Queenie and her party left, and interrogated the mercenaries' leader?

Was it Barbarian?

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 935 - A Male Stranger

Chapter 935 A Male Stranger

At the thought of this, Brenda took her elite troops and chased after him.

The leader was stunned. “Y-You’re not taking us with you?”

The leader really did not want to be tortured anymore. If someone came over, they might get tortured again. It was the same for the second person and for Brenda. When she saw him earlier, she had beaten him up without a word before letting him speak. Why didn’t she ask him if he would confess first?

At this moment, being captured and imprisoned was better than being here!

“Oh, you’re not under our jurisdiction. Someone will come and arrest you later.”

The leader: ...

The group of people was left tied and gagged as Brenda left with her team. They squatted in the small room and waited for an entire hour before the local police arrived.

When the police officer saw them, he punched and kicked them again. “Behave!”

The leader: ... We are very obedient, okay?!

On the other side, Nora was not driving fast. Queenie did not urge her, either. The two of them drove leisurely on the highway and looked at the scenery on both sides.

Queenie’s alcoholism kicked in again. She took out a wine glass and was about to secretly pour some when Nora reached out and snatched it back.

“Stop drinking.”

Queenie looked at the wine bottle eagerly and smacked her lips. “So what if I drink some? You didn’t nag me so much in the past. Why now? After finding out that I’m a traitor, you’re starting to torture me?”

Nora said helplessly, “You didn’t have cancer in the past, either.” Queenie was taken aback.

She smiled again. “Don’t tell me you’re planning to treat me? I don’t know of any medicine that can treat cancer. Don’t waste your energy...” “If I don’t try, how would I know?” Nora replied. She placed the bottle on her side and out of Queenie’s reach. She grabbed the steering wheel again and looked ahead.

She suddenly asked, “Aunt Queenie, what do you want to eat?”

Queenie: “... Aren’t you changing the topic too quickly? I want to eat pasta.”

“Okay, let’s go eat.”

Nora stopped the car at the next rest area on the highway. The two of them entered a restaurant.

After Nora entered, she looked at the menu on the wall first.

This was Switzerland, and it was really rare to see such a restaurant in the resting area. However, the dishes overseas had also improved. Most of them were pastries and so on, and there were even some exotic condiments available.

Looking at those dishes, Nora lost her appetite.

She did not like desserts.

As she was thinking, she saw Queenie suddenly taking out a thick stack of money and throwing it at the boss. “Lend me your kitchen.”

The boss: “?”

The boss looked at the stack of money and his eyes lit up. “Okay, okay. You can go in!”

Nora followed behind Queenie and entered the kitchen.

Queenie rolled up her sleeves and found some flour. A little while later, they had two bowls of handmade pasta. Nora’s eyes lit up when she saw the steaming hot pasta.

Ever since coming to Switzerland a while ago, she had rarely eaten pasta. She picked up a spoon and was about to eat...

However, her hand was hit by Queenie. “What’s the hurry? You need a fork!” Nora: “... There are no forks here!” As soon as she finished speaking, she saw Queenie rummage through her small bag again. She found two forks and handed one to her.

Nora took the fork and was about to eat when she was stopped.

Nora: “... What is it now?”

“You have to add some pepper flakes and parsley to the pasta.”

Nora looked around. “Where are they?”

Queenie lowered her head again and rummaged through her small bag. She took out a small bottle of pepper flakes and found some chopped parsley nearby.

Nora: “...”

SO.

Queenie slowly shook her hand and added some into both bowls. The smell of fresh garnish made her taste buds bloom.

Nora did not touch her fork but looked at Queenie. “Can I eat now?”

Queenie: “Yes.”

Nora: “...”

Queenie took a bite first. It tasted very good. She looked up and saw Nora putting down her fork.

Queenie asked hesitantly, “What’s wrong?”

However, Nora said calmly, “Later, I have to deal with someone first.”

With that, she walked to the corner of the restaurant. There, a man was sitting with his back to them. The man was wearing ordinary clothes and a cap.

Nora came directly behind him and said, “You’ve followed us all the way. Do you want to get a bowl of handmade pasta too?”

As soon as she said this, she pressed down on his shoulder.

Was this person sent by the mysterious organization?

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 936 - Death Is A Relief

Sometimes

The man's body froze up as soon as Nora pressed down on his shoulders.

After hearing her words, he could only slowly turn around and smile. "Hi, Anti. Long time no see!"

The man's familiar face was still white. His thin figure was wearing a black shirt and looked clean. He was Solo, whom she had not seen in a long time.

Nora smiled. "Yes, long time no see."

Seeing her like this, Solo asked, "When, when did you realize I was following you?"

"From the moment you caught up with us."

Solo: "..."

Nora said in disdain again, "But you were driving too slow. You're so stupid."

She had to drive slowly too. Otherwise, she was really afraid that he would lose her.

Solo: "..."

He knew it. Nora had always been very fierce when driving, but she drove slowly just now and even admired the scenery. So that's how it was.

Solo scratched his head. Nora simply turned around and returned to the table, beside Queenie.

Solo hurried over. "Anti, can you do me a favor?"

Nora picked up her fork again and took a bite. Then, she looked at Queenie. “Delicious.”

Queenie was already eating. She nodded and said, “Your mother taught me this.”

Nora was taken aback.

After taking two bites, she realized that there was an egg under the pasta.

She took another bite and heard Queenie say, “I grew up in the mysterious organization. No one had ever taught me how to cook. Your mother taught me for two days back then, saying that I should cook for her children in the future.”

She lowered her eyes. “But after your mother’s death, I never made it again. Fortunately, this pasta tastes okay. By the way, your mother had asked me to pass you a message.” “What is it?” Nora asked.

She looked at Nora. “Remember the taste of this bowl of pasta. This is Mom’s smell.”

Her mother’s smell...

Nora lowered her head and looked at the pasta on the plate. She suddenly felt that the overly bland pasta smelled much better.

Solo was a little anxious as he watched the two of them eat. “Anti, did you hear me? Can you do me a favor?”

Nora still ignored him and just focused on finishing the bowl.

Then, she looked up at him. “No.”

Solo was instantly anxious. “I haven’t said anything yet, and you’re already saying no. Do you know what I want you to help me with?”

Nora: “In short, I can’t.”

With that, she looked at the time. “Brenda and the others have almost caught up. Wait for them here!”

She and Queenie stood up.

The two of them walked out. When they reached the door, Solo asked, “Anti, can you really bear to see Brenny and I love each other but not be able to get together?”

Nora paused.

Solo lowered his head, looking like an abandoned child with a wronged look. “I’ve been thinking about it for a long time. Back then, I caused the death of Brenny’s comrade. Although I’m not the mastermind, the only way they can forgive me is if I catch or kill Barbarian myself! I’ll avenge her comrade!”

He rushed to Nora. “So, take me along! I know that Barbarian will definitely come back to look for you.”

Nora glanced at him a few times and sighed silently. “You’re too weak.”

“I know. I know I can’t compare to you in martial arts and I can’t compare to you in terms of hacking. But take me with you. Who knows what use I might have?”

His eyes turned red. “At the very least, I’m not afraid of death. I can risk my life.”

This was why Nora would not bring him along.

Solo was determined to take revenge. If he was with Brenda, he would definitely act recklessly if he really saw Barbarian. If Nora could not beat him, she could still grab Queenie and run...

However, if she brought Solo too, he would lose his life in vain.

Nora shook her head. She was about to speak when Queenie suddenly said, “Bring him along.”

These words stunned Nora.

Queenie sighed. “There are too many lovers in this world separated by life and death. Sometimes, death is more of a relief than being apart.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 937 - First Love

Chapter 937 First Love

Nora broke into a frown. She disagreed with her statement.

Life should matter more than anything else.

Even if Solo came along with them to capture Barbarian, someone like him wouldn't be of any use at all. If she brought him along, he would really just be throwing his life away.

Nora retorted, "As if you've ever been in love."

The next moment, Queenie gave her a smack on the head.

Nora was taken aback.

Queenie hadn't put a lot of force into the smack. Also, Nora clearly could have dodged it, but she didn't.

As for Queenie, she looked at her hand and suddenly broke into a grin. She said, "This is for your mom. Your mom once asked, 'Is there any child who has never been disciplined by their parents?', and told me to smack you once on her behalf. Now that I have, even if I drop dead, I'll have something to say when I meet your mother."

Nora: "..."

She felt that Queenie was doing it on purpose, deliberately using her mother's identity to take advantage of her, but she didn't have any proof.

Queenie then asked, "Who says I've never been in love?"

Nora asked curiously, "You have? With whom?"

“Heh, who says being in love must always involve another person?”

When Solo saw that Nora did not refuse his request, he started following behind the two of them obediently. When he heard Queenie’s response, he immediately remarked in surprise, “I didn’t expect you to be so narcissistic, Mdm. Schmidt. Are you actually in love with yourself?”

Queenie: “...”

The corners of Nora’s lips spasmed.

The trio got into the car and returned to the highway. Nora asked, “Who were you secretly in love with? Does he know?”

If she wasn’t dating someone, then there was only one explanation-it was unrequited love.

Nora was really curious about Queenie’s romantic history.

Queenie smiled. “He doesn’t, but there’s also a chance that he does.”

By then, Solo had also realized what she meant. He asked, “Didn’t you confess?”

“No, I didn’t.”

Queenie said, “If I do, I’m afraid that we won’t even be friends anymore.”

Solo: “?”

He immediately realized something. “The person you’re in love with must be your best friend’s husband, right?”

Queenie raised her eyebrows but did not deny it.

Solo said with great respect, “There are so many women who steal their best friends’ husbands, but for your best friend’s sake, you actually suppressed your feelings. That's really admirable of you!"

Nora's mind, though, was already starting to wander.

Queenie was a loner.

She made friends everywhere when she was doing business, but Nora had been with her all this time during the past five years. She hadn't seen any friend of hers that could be considered close.

In the midst of Nora's curiosity, Queenie said, "Someone is coming after us again."

Her words interrupted the trio's conversation.

Solo hurriedly pressed himself against the backseat window and looked behind him. "Where are they?"

Nora also looked over through the rearview mirror.

The people in the car following them at the back were allies; there were about four mercenaries in there.

Behind them were a few other cars that all seemed normal.

There was only one car behaving abnormally. It moved at a moderate speed and followed after the few of them.

When Nora deliberately sped up, their allies' vehicle followed suit and caught up to them. So did the other car.

When Nora slowed down, their allies' vehicle followed suit again and slowed down while the black car also reduced its speed. The signs that it was tailing them were too telltale.

The strange thing about them, though, was that even when Nora slowed down, they still showed no intention to overtake or stop them. "Black Cat, we have confirmed that there is only one person in the car tailing us." One of Nora's subordinates conveyed the message to her through her Bluetooth headset.

Nora frowned.

Why was there someone following them again?

When Solo was tailing them, she had deliberately stopped for a meal to catch him. So, who was this guy?

If it were Barbarian, he would definitely find a way to intercept them for the V16. After all, by the time they reach the agreed-upon meeting spot, the mysterious organization would have people lying in ambush there, so it wouldn't be convenient for Barbarian to rob them of the V16.

But if it was the mysterious organization, they definitely wouldn't send just one person.

By sending only one person to fight against the five of them, were they courting death?

Nora took a deep breath.

Screech!

She suddenly stopped the car in the emergency lane and spoke into the headset. "You guys keep going."

Their car didn't stop, slowing down and moving ahead of them, instead.

The car following the two cars braked instantly and stopped on the road a short distance away. As the stop was too sudden, the car behind it almost ran into it.

The driver hurriedly turned the steering wheel and went around the other car from the next lane. Then, he rolled down the window and broke into a rant, after which he flipped the other driver the middle finger, expressing his extreme rage.

Nora: "..."

She could clearly feel the person inside the car hesitating. In the end, they drove over in resignation.

The door opened, and a familiar figure stepped out...

The man hadn't fully recovered from his injuries yet, and even the bruises on his face hadn't yet faded. He limped a little when he walked, but this didn't affect his elegant demeanor.

He gave the glasses he was wearing a push. Then, with a bit of a wary look on his face, he slowly said, "You've discovered me." The man turned out to be... Caleb Gray!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 938 - Barbarian Is Here!!!

Chapter 938 Barbarian Is Here!!!

Nora frowned and subconsciously took two steps back to stand behind Queenie. Her identity as Black Cat hadn't yet been publicly revealed. Though Caleb was an ally, one fewer person being aware would still mean a lower risk of exposure.

Queenie, who understood her intention, immediately asked, "Who are you?"

At the question, Caleb stayed silent for a long while. A moment later, he sighed and replied, "I'm Caleb. I wonder if Nora has ever mentioned my name to you?"

He deliberately brought up Nora to create a sense of familiarity between the two.

Queenie subconsciously glanced at Nora.

After all, Nora had never mentioned the man before.

However, she quickly realized that her gaze wasn't right, so she hurriedly retracted it. She lowered her gaze and replied dispassionately, "Yeah, she has."

"Really?"

Caleb's eyes lit up, and a touch of a smile appeared on his mild countenance. He asked, "What did she say about me?" "...". The corners of Queenie's spasmed a little, and she thought to herself, This is clearly someone who has fallen prey to Nora's charms. She changed the subject and asked, "What are you doing here?"

At the question, a troubled look appeared on Caleb's face. After a moment of hesitation, he nevertheless said, "I am from the mysterious organization. Aren't you handing over the V16 to the mysterious organization today? Trueman told me to follow you till you go through with it."

Queenie narrowed her eyes. She didn't like anyone from the mysterious organization. She let out a scornful laugh and said, "So, your feelings for Nora must also be fake?"

"No, it's not. I didn't, I..." Caleb wanted to explain, but he didn't know how to. In the end, he heaved a small sigh and instead said, "Never mind. Let's just go."

After speaking, he returned to his car.

Queenie looked at Nora.

Nora stood where she was in contemplation.

A minute later, the cell phone in her pocket beeped.

She lowered her head and picked it up. When she glanced at it, she found that it was a message from Morris in the United States: 'Caleb just tipped us off about the location of Queenie's deal with the mysterious organization. We have already deployed people to intercept them!'

Although Caleb worked for Trueman, Morris from the special department had convinced him to defect a long time ago.

He was currently their spy in the mysterious organization.

Trueman trusted him, so he'd gotten him to carry out the deal.

Informing Morris about it meant that Caleb was still performing his duty as their spy.

To be honest, neither Morris nor Brenda trusted him very much.

After all, Caleb had worked for Trueman for so many years. If he hadn't been arrested the other time, he probably wouldn't have betrayed Trueman. One could consider this incident a test of his loyalty.

Nora put away her cell phone and then nodded to Queenie to indicate that he was credible enough. Only then did Nora return to the car.

Just as she was about to drive off, someone knocked on the rear window.

The trio in the car turned their heads to see Caleb standing at the side. He said, "Let me ride along with you! I have something to say to Mdm. Schmidt."

When Nora glanced at the side, she found that the man had parked his car in the emergency lane.

Moreover, he limped when he walked, indicating that his injuries hadn't completely healed yet. It was very dangerous for him to drive in this condition.

Nora pressed the car lock button. Caleb opened the rear door and sat in the backseat.

Solo shifted inwards a little.

The two had never met, so they didn't know each other. However, Caleb assumed he was Queenie's bodyguard, so he didn't say much to him.

The group resumed their journey. Soon, they caught up with the car of bodyguards that was driving slowly ahead waiting for them. The two cars drove side by side, protecting each other.

Nora was in a constant state of vigilance about their surroundings.

News of Queenie stealing the V16s to hand them over to the mysterious organization had already been out for a very long time. There was no doubt that Barbarian had caught wind of the news. In that case, he would definitely come after them.

While they were moving along, Caleb suddenly said, “Mdm. Schmidt, you have always treated Nora very well. Aren’t you afraid that she would be saddened by your betrayal?” Queenie: “?”

She glanced at Nora and then withdrew her gaze. In an impassive and somewhat chilly voice, she replied, “I was a member of the mysterious organization from the start. I was just hiding by her side, that’s all. There is nothing to be sad about.”

Caleb frowned. “Nobody’s a saint; how can anyone possibly be that heartless?! Even a cold hard stone would be warmed after five years in one’s bosom. Besides, I’ve heard Nora mention before that she admires you very much. Deep down, she sees you as her mother.”

When Queenie heard this, she didn’t look at anyone around her.

In fact, she even turned her head away slightly and looked out the window as she asked, “Really? Then she sure has misjudged me. What about you, though? Does she know that you’re a member of the mysterious organization?”

Caleb fell silent at once. “She knows. I’ve never lied to her. Mdm. Schmidt, are you really going to hand over the V16? Why won’t you leave one for Xander? You should know that he needs the serum very much! If you leave him one, Nora might not hate you as much.”

Nora listened to their conversation as she drove.

Was Caleb planning to persuade her aunt for her?

It was probably going to be a waste of time, though.

Sure enough, Queenie kept her gaze fixed in the distance. She said, “My master’s message to me is that he wants both the serums. Why would I bring only one?”.

She sneered and looked back at Caleb. “Do you believe me when I say that if you continue any further, I’ll relay our conversation to my master?”

Caleb shut up. But after a moment of silence, he spoke again. “You are wary of me, but you didn’t relay the conversation to them immediately. This shows that you do have feelings for Nora. In that case, why bother doing this?”

Queenie sneered and said, “I don’t know who you are, nor do I know whose side you are on, but I’m going to tell you this: don’t waste your breath. I’m not going to betray the mysterious organization. My family is still in their hands...”

Caleb became anxious when he heard this. He said, “I can help you rescue your family, I—”

But before he could finish, Queenie scoffed and said, “You? Who do you think you are? Are you Trueman? Or are you very powerful? If you could rescue my family, why would you be the mysterious organization’s lackey? I told you, if you spout any more nonsense, I will tell my master what you said. You should know very well what your outcome would be when that happens!” Caleb fell silent.

After a while, he sighed.

It was at this moment that Queenie’s cell phone suddenly rang. She glanced at it and then answered the call, putting the phone on speaker. “Hello.”

“Hah, you should have met my subordinate by now, right?”

Queenie glanced at Caleb and replied, “Yes.”

“Okay. Hand the V16 to Caleb now! He will guard the V16 the whole way there!”

As soon as he said that, Queenie’s pupils shrank.

Nora frowned.

Through the rearview mirror, she looked at Caleb, who was sitting in the backseat. His eyes were widened and he also seemed awfully surprised, but a brief moment later, he thought of something and heaved a silent sigh.

Trueman trusted Caleb very much all along. This must also put Caleb under a lot of pressure, right?

After all, he had betrayed his best friend, who was also someone he had grown up with.

Nora did not say anything.

Caleb, however, suddenly thought of something. He clenched his fists and suddenly said, "Give me the V16!"

Queenie didn't want to. She said, "Why should I? What if the mysterious organization doesn't free my parents and sister after you take the V16?"

On the phone, Trueman sneered and said, "Do you believe me when I say that I will kill your parents and younger sister immediately if you don't give it to him?"

Queenie instantly fell silent.

As for Caleb, he picked up his cell phone and secretly sent a text message to someone.

Nora's phone vibrated. With her back to Caleb, she secretly took out her cell phone, where she saw that Caleb had sent the message to her.

It read: 'I am with Queenie right now. Black Cat is protecting her along with a few other bodyguards at the moment. Black Cat is very strong, but I am trying to get my hands on the V16. If I can trick Queenie, I will find a way to get out of the car after I get the V16. You must be chasing after Queenie right now, right? When the time comes, coordinate with me and take the V16 away.'

Nora: "..."

She knew it was odd that Caleb would take the initiative to demand the V16. As it turned out, it was for her sake.

She put one hand on the steering wheel and used her other hand to secretly reply to the text message: 'I am following you guys nearby. It'd be too obvious if you give me the V16 after getting it. Aren't you afraid that Trueman would see through you?'

Caleb then replied: 'I don't have long to live anymore. If the V16 falls into Trueman's hands, it will be very difficult for you to get it back for Xander. We'll just go with this. I will find a way to get the V16.'

Solo's voice suddenly rang out in the car. "Hey, who are you texting? Is it Trueman?"

Hearing this, Caleb put his cell phone aside and replied, "No."

After speaking, he looked at Queenie. When he was about to speak, Queenie sneered and said, "If you kill my parents and sister, I will have the car turn around and take the V16 back immediately."

Trueman: "..."

With that, it became a deadlock.

Trueman kept quiet for a long while. In the end, he hung up the phone.

At the back, Caleb sighed and said, "Now that you've made him mad, your family is definitely going to be in for some suffering."

Queenie didn't say anything.

Caleb then said, "Or how about you give me one of the V16s and we guard them separately? I can contact Trueman immediately and put in a good word for you to ease the tension between you two."

But when he said that, Queenie instead sneered and said, "No, that's not necessary. Suffering a little is still better than dying."

Then, she stared straight ahead of her and said, "Your master must have told you to pick me up because he is right there in front, right? After all, it's already time for his injection. To avoid giving rise to potential problems, he must have come in person.” Caleb sighed. “I don’t know.”

He had only just spoken when there was a sudden turn of events!

The car stopped abruptly, and the few talking in the car lurched forward. Solo’s head even rammed into the seat in front of him.

Queenie fared a little better since she had her seat belt fastened.

Caleb reacted very quickly, propping his hands against the seat in front of him to stabilize himself.

The three of them looked at Nora in unison.

Solo opened his mouth to complain. “Do you know how to dri...”

Before the word “drive” could fully leave his mouth, he noticed the other three all looking ahead of them.

Thus, Solo also looked over.

Only then did he realize that a huge rock was obstructing their way. It occupied both lanes, preventing the car from going forward!

On top of the huge rock stood a man.

The man was tall and well-built. He wore bulletproof clothing that protected the vital parts of his body, and his whole body brimmed with strength.

It was Barbarian!

The moment he saw him, Solo’s eyes turned red.

Chapter 939 - Barbarian Must Die!

Both cars stopped.

Nora narrowed her eyes and opened the car door to get out.

She looked ahead.

Barbarian did not wear a mask or a hat this time. It seemed like after his identity was exposed, he no longer felt any need to hide. He had only covered his face in the past because he was afraid that the Queen would see him, right? Nora was in deep thought when she heard Queenie's voice. "Barbarian, the Queen has been looking for you. Does she know you've come here to stop me today? If she does, guess how she would feel?"

These words made Barbarian clench his fists.

His gaze became sharp, his eyes filled with hostility and anger. He said slowly, "I've thought about it a lot these past two days."

It was inconvenient for Nora to speak. She was afraid that she would be recognized.

It was not that she was afraid of Barbarian recognizing her, but that if the people from the mysterious organization recognized her, Trueman would no longer come to the agreed location. They would be unable to capture Trueman, and it would affect Queenie's plan.

Therefore, she remained silent. Queenie leaned against the car and asked, "Oh? Please enlighten me."

Barbarian said calmly, "I've killed people for so long, but she never knew about it. This time, she found out only because I was at your house."

Barbarian's eyes gradually turned red. The muscles in his entire body seemed to swell with his anger. "So, all of this is because of you!”

“Queenie, if not for what happened with the Queen, I might have only snatched V16 away and let you live. But now, you... have to die!”

He had been moving around the Queen for the past two days, wanting to get closer to her. When no one was beside the Queen, he darted into her room. He had wanted to explain things to the Queen, although he did not know what he wanted to explain.

However, when he entered the room, the Queen suddenly took out a gun from under the pillow and aimed it at him.

The Queen’s eyes were very cold.

It was as if she was looking at an enemy.

Barbarian was stunned. He explained, “It’s me!”

He felt that it must be because the Queen could not see him in the dark.

However, the Queen said coldly, “I know. I’ve been waiting for you.”

Barbarian was silent for a long time. “You can’t hit me.”

His agile body could dodge any bullet.

“I know,” the Queen continued. “But this is my decision. I can not reconcile with a murderer like you! If you’re here to kill me, I won’t give up easily!” Barbarian was stunned. He did not expect the Queen to think that he was going to kill her. How could he kill her?

He would use his life to protect her! But at that moment, the Queen’s words hit him harder than a bullet, they directly hit his heart.

It made his heart wrinkle and ache until it felt stuffy.

It was also at that moment that he realized that he and the Queen could never go back.

The queen was no longer his princess.

When he thought of this, Barbarian felt so painful that he thought there really was no point in living. However, he still wanted the V16 because he wanted to live. Even if he could not protect the Queen openly, he wanted to stay by her side for the rest of his life.

The Queen did not shoot that night.

Barbarian left her room silently.

He and the Queen had reached this stage because of Queenie! It was all because Nora had exposed him!

Therefore, he wanted to kill everyone!

With the V16, he would become even more powerful. He could kill these people to take revenge! A strand of killing intent emanated from his body.

Queenie frowned and took a step back to hide behind the car.

When Solo saw Barbarian, his body had already trembled beyond recognition. He suppressed the anger and fear in his heart and pushed open the car door. He took out the gun hidden at his waist. His hand was still trembling, but his voice was filled with excitement. "You came at the right time. I'm going to kill you!"

As soon as he finished speaking, he took the initiative to attack Barbarian!

Bang! A gunshot rang out, opening the curtains to the battle!

The moment Nora saw Solo attack, she waved her hand and the people around her surrounded them.

Today, Barbarian had to die!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 940 - Let Them Fight!

How could Solo's bullet hit Barbarian?

He slithered like a snake and avoided all the bullets coming at him. He rushed to a few mercenaries at an extremely fast speed and neatly put them down!

Then, he looked at Queenie. "Heh, is this all your people can do? If it were Nora and Justin, they could still take a few moves from me, but these people... are too weak! Queenie, die!"

With that, he walked towards Queenie.

Nora walked out from behind Queenie and stood in front of her.

Queenie grabbed her sleeve. "You're not his match. Move aside."

Nora shook her head.

Queenie gritted her teeth and shouted at the surroundings, "Aren't you coming out yet? If you don't come out, I'll give the V16 to Barbarian!"

Nora: "?"

She frowned and looked at Queenie.

Queenie did not look at her and continued to stare at her surroundings as she shouted, "I know you're worried about me, so you would definitely get someone to follow me! You won't come to the agreed place, right?"

Through these words, Nora suddenly realized that Queenie was calling someone from the mysterious organization!

In other words, she was shouting at Trueman?!

Nora stopped in her tracks silently and stood beside Queenie.

When Barbarian heard Queenie shout, he sneered. “Even if you call fifty or a hundred people over, so what?”

With his current physique, was he afraid of a mere hundred people?

Taking the general’s head among thousands of troops was a simple task for the current Barbarian!

However, at this moment, the buzzing of a few cars suddenly came from afar.

Immediately, four to five black Land Rovers buzzed as they drove over from all directions.

There were dirt roads on both sides of the highway.

These off-road vehicles drove valiantly on the dirt roads, stirring up waves of dust. However, they did not care. They rushed straight for Queenie and Barbarian.

Screech!

The cars stopped and surrounded the group of people. Immediately, five to six strong men in black jumped out of each car.

At the end, a minivan quietly drove over.

The car door opened and a man in a suit got out.

The man was tall and slender. He was wearing a pair of sunglasses and a top hat, looking a little European. He came to the few of them and smiled sharply. “Queenie, long time no see.”

This voice...

It was Trueman?!

Nora's eyes widened suddenly and she looked at the man.

This was because he was wearing a hat and sunglasses. One could not see his looks, but they could see that he was tall and slender. His lips were tilted and curled up slightly, giving him a sinister stature.

She had known Trueman for so long and he was the most familiar stranger.

Although they were familiar with each other, the two of them had fought for many rounds.

However, they were still strangers.

Because Nora had never seen Trueman.

Now, Trueman had finally appeared?

She was even a little excited.

Currently, there were only two people threatening her for snatching the V16. One was Barbarian, and the other was Trueman!

If she could capture Barbarian and Trueman here in one fell swoop... Then Xander would be safe in the future!

Queenie stared at the man and hesitated for a moment before asking, "Trueman?"

The man smiled. "Yes, it's me."

Queenie sized him up.

Trueman continued, his strange tone making one's heart turn cold. "After being separated for more than twenty years, I thought you had forgotten me and your family!"

Queenie lowered her eyes. "I don't dare to forget for a moment."

Trueman chuckled again. "Very good."

His gaze landed on the metal box in Queenie's hand. "This is the V16? Give me the gene serum and I'll get them to let your family go." Queenie did not move and looked at Barbarian. "Before you ask for the serum, shouldn't you help me get rid of this person first?"

Nora's eyes narrowed at once.

Was she asking them to fight amongst themselves?

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 941 - Troublesome! Cooperation!

Queenie's idea was not bad.

Barbarian was very difficult to fight.

However, the dozens of guards brought by Trueman were definitely not simple. If they dealt with Barbarian, both sides would be injured at the least. Nora and the others could then easily detain all these people when Brenda and her team arrive on the scene!

Nora looked at Queenie with shining eyes.

Trueman was wearing sunglasses, so the change in his eyes could not be seen. However, the smile on his lips became even more brilliant. He turned to look at Barbarian.

Barbarian took a step back warily. After running from the mysterious organization for so many years, Barbarian hated and feared the mysterious organization from the bottom of his heart.

It was like the shadow of his childhood. Even if he had become stronger, he would always be a little afraid. Barbarian raised his fists in Trueman's direction. Just as he was being vigilant, Trueman suddenly said, "I don't have any ill intentions toward you."

With that, he smiled. "Back then, only five people survived the gene changing experiments. You're one-fifth of that entire populace, how could I really kill you? Your existence is the meaning of the mysterious organization's existence! At the very least, your existence can let humans see how powerful genetic modification can be! You're the spokesperson for the mysterious organization's external image."

When Trueman said this, their expressions changed drastically.

Yes, that was right.

Until now, even though she knew that the mysterious organization was very powerful and not to be trifled with, Nora was still most wary of Barbarian.

After all, the power of the mysterious organization was general. It was not substantial. However, Nora had faced Barbarian's power first-hand! Barbarian's genetic modification was more apparent than any intelligence or longevity gene modification!

Barbarian was like a tall mountain standing in front of her domineeringly. It made her truly realize how imperfect human genes were, and how powerful human bodies could become with perfect human genes!

No one could compare to Barbarian's strength.

Even if she and Justin worked together, they could not fight equally with him... After all, she and Justin were just normal people in this aspect, but Barbarian had already become extraordinary.

It could be said that Barbarian's genetic improvement was the most obvious and apparent.

When Trueman said this, Queenie immediately looked at him. "What do you mean?"

Trueman smiled. "Why do you think I asked you for two gene serums?"

Queenie looked at Barbarian in surprise. "You want to give it to him?"

"Yes."

Trueman said slowly, "The mysterious organization has been buried for so long and has silently contributed so much to human society. It has to be made public. We can't hide underground forever and be hated by everyone, right?"

Queenie clenched her fists. "But you don't have the V16!"

Trueman said casually, “It’s enough to condense all the excitement of life into 30 years. Why do you want to live so long?” Queenie found it ridiculous. “You’re improving your lifespan genes!” “Of course. The mysterious organization has to have a witness. I want to see my mysterious organization become the largest organization in the world. Of course, I have to live well. As for Barbarian, he can be my right-hand man! He will also be the spokesperson of the mysterious organization. Otherwise, won’t I be lonely for the rest of my life?”.

After improving his genes, his lifespan would naturally increase.

Although he did not know how long Barbarian could live, Trueman had drawn a huge picture for him!

Barbarian was simple-minded. When he heard this, his guard against Trueman indeed dropped a little. There was even excitement in his eyes.

If...

If the mysterious organization was really made public and was accepted, could the people he had killed in the past be ignored?

Could he... return to the Queen again?

When he thought of this, Barbarian said, “Okay, I’ll cooperate with you!” As long as he could return to the Queen’s side and protect her... So what if he has to work with the organization that he used to hate? He was willing to do so!

Chapter 942 - Nora Was Not To Be Trifled With Either!

Chapter 942 Nora Was Not to Be Trifled with Either!

After the two sides reached an agreement, the threat to Queenie and Nora instantly became greater.

At least at this moment, Queenie's eyes became sharp.

She looked ahead silently.

Trueman said, "Since I've already reached an agreement with Barbarian and now have his support, Queenie, the deal will be held here!"

He reached out to Queenie. "Tell your people to stand down and give the serum to me. Then, your mission will be completed!"

Queenie stared at him silently.

Nora narrowed her eyes.

At this moment, the phone in her pocket vibrated. She looked down and saw that it was a message from Trueman.

Nora frowned and glanced at Trueman before looking at her phone.

She saw the content: "I've got two gene serums, little servant. I plan to give the other one to Barbarian. Are you sure you don't want to fight for it?"

"If you call me master now and promise to listen to me in the future, I might be able to help you keep one."

Nora: "..."

This meant that Trueman did not know that she was there at all! The cold mask on her face covered her mocking lips and eyes.

Trueman was playing around. From this message, it was obvious that Trueman did not plan to give the other gene serum to Barbarian at all. He was clearly using Barbarian!

Just as Nora thought of this, Queenie sneered. “I can give this to you, but let go of my family first.”

Trueman sneered, but he did not flare-up. His voice was very calm, and it was sharp and arrogant. “... Queenie, you really don’t understand the situation. You’re the one begging me now! I’m not the one begging you! Hand over the serum and I’ll give your family a chance to live...”

Queenie took a deep breath. “You...!” She looked directly at Barbarian. “Barbarian, do you see that? Trueman has never been one to keep his word! Do you really believe him when he says he will help you?!”

When Barbarian heard this, he looked at Trueman hesitantly. Trueman smiled and said slowly, “Barbarian, she’s clearly trying to drive a wedge between us.”

“Is that so?” Queenie asked. “The three of us are bad people. There’s animosity between us. In that case, Barbarian, do you believe him so easily? You helped him get the V16. Are you sure he’ll give you the other V16?”

Barbarian was simple-minded and could not think of much logic.

On the other hand, Trueman sneered. “Queenie, you’re really refusing a toast only to drink a forfeit. In that case, don’t blame me for being rude!”

With that, he waved his hand and the people behind him immediately rushed forward.

Nora kept blocking in front of Queenie. Just as Trueman was about to rush over, the masked mercenaries who had come with Nora also jumped forward!

Dozens of people fought four, but the four of them were not at a disadvantage.

One especially stood out among them. He was wearing a black mask and had extremely strong arms. He hit Trueman so hard that he could not get up for a moment.

Trueman looked at Barbarian. “Barbarian! If we don’t deal with this person, none of us will get the V16!”

When Barbarian heard this, he jumped into the ring as well.

The addition of Barbarian instantly placed pressure on the four of them, and they quickly fell into a disadvantageous position!!

Nora frowned and was a little anxious.

Of course, she had chosen the four of them. She had called over all her fellow disciples in the country. However, even when they combined their strength, they were as powerless as children in front of Barbarian.

Thud!

One of them quickly fell to the ground and his mask was sent flying. It was none other than Quinn School of Martial Arts’ senior disciple, Lucas.

After he fell to the ground, the other three seemed to be unable to withstand it.

Nora observed them.

It had only been a month since they last met, but Barbarian’s skills were now stronger than what she had seen in New York!

However, since she had guessed that she would encounter Barbarian here, how could she not come prepared?!

Although Barbarian was powerful, Nora was not someone to be trifled with, either!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 943 - I'M Sorry, Nora

Nora lowered her eyes and slowly walked out from behind Queenie.

She reached toward her waist with both hands, pulled out a pair of daggers, and swiftly joined the battle.

With her joining in, Barbarian didn't have it that easy anymore, especially when Nora had so much physical strength. She struck at Barbarian with all her might.

Barbarian ducked, but Solo rushed up from behind him and shot at him indiscriminately.

Barbarian: “!”

Though Solo didn't pose much of a threat, his chaotic gunshots surprisingly stopped Barbarian from advancing for a while.

Solo was holding a submachine gun. He fired away desperately as he went forward.

Nora was also moving forward. Soon, she reached Barbarian again.

Solo bombarded the area in front of him, making rows and rows of bullet trails in the ground and swirling dust all about...

Nora took the opportunity to sneak behind Barbarian and plunged one of her daggers at his heart.

Though Barbarian dodged the attack nimbly, he was still stabbed in the arm by Nora.

His expression instantly turned savage and his movements became even more ruthless.

Nora was about to attack him when she suddenly heard Queenie cry out in shock.

Nora's head whipped behind her to see that someone from the mysterious organization had bypassed them to come up to Queenie, who was dodging the attacks quickly.

But how would Queenie possibly be a match for a killer when she wasn't trained in martial arts?

Nora hurriedly pulled back, came right up to Queenie, and kicked the man away!

However, because she had stabbed Barbarian, it brought out the beast in him as he flew into a rage. Seeing her dashing toward Queenie, he charged right over and threw a punch at Nora's head before she could react.

“Look out!”

When Queenie was crying out, Nora's sixth sense had already detected the approaching danger. She turned her head and evaded Barbarian's punch.

However!

She was still too slow!

Barbarian's fist struck her mask.

Thud!

The mask fell.

Her visage appeared in front of everyone.

Both Barbarian and Trueman were a little taken aback to see her.

Even Caleb, who was beside the few of them, was stunned.

No one had expected Queenie's bodyguard to be Nora!

Everyone looked at her in astonishment.

Barbarian was the first to react. “It’s you? I’m going to kill you!”

If it wasn’t for Nora, the Queen wouldn’t have found out about the things he had done! Originally, Queenie was the only one he could kill, but now that Nora had brought herself right to his doorstep, Barbarian’s killing intent soared! Caleb was the second to recover. There was neither sadness nor joy on his face. He merely frowned and said, “Why are you here?! It’s dangerous, so hurry and get back here!” Nora smiled at Caleb, but the next moment, she got into a brawl with Barbarian!

Trueman glared at Queenie. “You actually betrayed us? Have you abandoned your family?”

Queenie didn’t say anything.

The other three people came toward them at this point, encircling Barbarian with Nora and attacking him together. This finally eased the pressure on Nora a little.

“Kill Queenie Schmidt!”

Trueman shouted angrily.

Another person rushed over to attack Queenie.

Nora could only leave Barbarian to the other three and turn back to protect Queenie behind her.

When she was about to move, she suddenly felt a sharp pain in her back.

Nora’s pupils shrank. She wanted to look behind her, but she found herself unable to move.

Queenie slowly came up to her side and murmured, “I’m sorry, Nora.”

Chapter 944 - Reversal!!

Chapter 944 Reversal!!

Queenie tossed the syringe in her hand onto the ground. “This is a muscle relaxer. It will immobilize you for five minutes. Everything will be fine in five minutes.”

After speaking, she walked forward.

Nora suddenly called out to her. “Aunt Queenie.”

Queenie paused.

Nora didn’t move, but she said, “Cherry misses you very much.”

Queenie was taken aback.

She hadn’t expected Nora to say something like that at a time like this.

She clenched her fists.

After a while, she smiled bitterly and said, “Tell her to take it that I’m already dead.”

After speaking, she strode forward and raised her hands. “Everybody, stop!”

The three people that Nora had brought with her would definitely obey Nora’s instructions, so when they heard Queenie, they looked at Nora again. Seeing that she wasn’t moving, they also stopped. Barbarian and Trueman’s men also slowly came to a stop.

Trueman looked at Queenie. “Have you come round to the idea?”

Queenie sneered. “Rather than having you take the V16 from me and still failing to save my family, I might as well just give it to you now. I’ll take a gamble on whether your character is credible or not. Also, I want to explain that Nora and I are not in this together. I was also threatened by her!”

When Trueman heard this, he glanced at Nora and suddenly grinned. “Nora, you didn’t expect to be betrayed by the person closest to you, did you? Hahaha!”

Then, he looked at Queenie and said with a smile, “At least you know what’s good for you!”

Queenie picked up the V16 and walked toward Trueman slowly. “Don’t blame me for hesitating. After all, our agreement has always only been a verbal one. You have never given me any way to guarantee that I won’t lose out.”

Trueman nodded and picked up his cell phone. “I can give my men a call and tell them to let your family go right away.” Queenie lowered her head and sneered, “Do you think I’m stupid? Even if you let them go, the moment something doesn’t go your way, you will capture them again to threaten me. After all, hasn’t my family been living under your surveillance all these years? What’s the difference between their current state and captivity? They will never be free!” Trueman raised his eyebrows. “Then what do you want?”

Queenie looked at him fixedly. “I want freedom — real freedom, and to not be your puppet. I want my family freed from your surveillance in the future...”

At this point, Queenie’s voice died down to a whisper. “But I’m too weak. Even if you do make me such a promise now, what can I do?”

An amused Trueman replied, “Yes, so what’s the point of you saying all these things? Are the weak qualified enough to negotiate with me?”

Queenie sighed silently.

She took a few steps toward Trueman again. By then, she was very close to Trueman. And she was a great distance away from Nora...

She took off the V16 case that had been hanging across her shoulder the whole time. She looked at it and suddenly smiled mockingly. “Will you really give the other V16 to Barbarian?” As soon as she said that, Trueman’s expression suddenly changed greatly. He finally understood now!

Queenie was only saying all that useless nonsense just now to let Barbarian realize that he was not qualified to negotiate with him!

Once the V16 fell into his hands, it would be very tough for Barbarian to take it from him.

Therefore, he must act now!

Trueman abruptly turned his head to see that, sure enough, Barbarian kicked away the people next to him and came straight for the two of them.

Trueman’s pupils shrank abruptly and he subconsciously took hold of the V16 case!

Just as he grabbed the case, as expected of someone with genetic modifications, Barbarian quickly caught up to them and grabbed the other end of the case.

Barbarian yanked hard at it but did not manage to pull it over.

It seemed that he hadn’t expected Trueman to have so much physical strength.

Barbarian narrowed his eyes. “Are you really going to go back on your word?”

Trueman narrowed his eyes. “No, I’ve never thought of going back on it. Let go...”

“No, give me one of the serums now!”

While the two were arguing, neither noticed Queenie suddenly taking off the black overcoat she was wearing. She shouted, “Neither of you is going to take it with you!”

As soon as she spoke, Trueman and Barbarian both turned their heads and looked over in unison to see that Queenie had planted several mini bombs all over herself!!!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 945 - Queenie'S True Objective!

Queenie had been wearing a black overcoat the whole time. No one could have thought that there would be rows of bombs under her clothes!

When she took off her coat, Trueman and Barbarian's expressions changed greatly.

Both wanted to get away from her immediately...

But the V16 was right here. They couldn't bear to throw the V16 away at all!

Trueman shouted, "Let go!"

But Barbarian said, "You let go! I can dodge the bombs!"

Because of the conflict, they missed their chance to escape immediately.

"I'd advise you not to move!" Queenie yelled angrily, drowning out the two men's voices. "These are bombs that go off instantly! Once I press the switch, the bombs will explode immediately! No matter how fast you are, you won't be able to escape!"

As soon as she said that, people around her started to rush toward her!

"Don't move! If you dare take another step forward, I will detonate the bombs immediately!"

Queenie shouted. A panicked Trueman immediately shouted, "Stay away!"

None of the bodyguards dared to take another step forward.

Trueman looked at Queenie. "Are you sick of living?"

Queenie sneered, “I’ve never thought of surviving. Besides, I was always supposed to die in your plan anyway, isn’t that right?”

The smile at the corners of Trueman’s lips disappeared and he roared, “Are you going to abandon your family too?”

“My family?”

Queenie scoffed again. “They are just the ones who gave birth to me. They have never cared about me. Are they worthy of being called my family?”

Back then, she had escaped from the mysterious organization and returned home.

But in the end, she was sent back by her family!

All just because her family did not dare to offend the mysterious organization!

She had been in the mysterious organization since the day she was born... She had long been abandoned by her so-called family!

Trueman was stunned. “Didn’t you work for the mysterious organization all these years because of your family?” “Is that so?”

Queenie was still smiling. “If I didn’t make you think that way, do you think I would have been able to live such a peaceful and stable life? Family... There’s only one person I consider family, and that is Yvette!”

At this point, Caleb finally realized something. “So, you weren’t under the mysterious organization’s threat at all? The reason why you pretended to be was just to kill two birds with one stone?!” Queenie didn’t answer him, but neither did she turn her head to the back to look at Nora.

Nora stood where she was.

She looked at Queenie with her eyes a little red and called out, “Aunt Queenie...”

She knew that Queenie would never betray her.

She had always known that!!

She clenched her fists, trying to break free of the shackles that the tranquilizer had cast on her, but so long as time wasn't up, she couldn't move...

She could only call out, "Aunt Queenie."

"Don't call me by that name." Queenie turned her back to her. "I don't deserve it. I was born as someone shrouded in darkness; it was your mother who brought me into the light. I've just been living on behalf of your mother all these years, that's all!

"Nora, I have already lived enough."

Queenie slowly said, "You must have already seen my medical report. I don't have long to live anymore. But before I die, if I can take away these two major threats for you, such that you are safe for the rest of your life, then that's enough for me." Trueman yelled furiously, "Queenie Schmidt, you traitor! Traitor!"

After shouting, he said to Barbarian again, "Let go!"

But Barbarian stubbornly held on to the thermal insulation case tightly.

Running away at this point would mean death, whereas there was still a chance of survival if he didn't! He would never let go!

Barbarian, who wanted to take the V16, frowned. He even thought of attacking Trueman...

However, Caleb, who was next to them, suddenly thought of something. He shouted, "You mustn't press the switch! If you blow them up, the V16 will be gone! Without the V16, Xander will die!"

But after he shouted that, he suddenly understood something...

He had a sudden realization. "The V16 is fake!"

As soon as he spoke, Trueman and Barbarian also realized the same thing. The two released their grip on the case at the same time to escape.

However...

"It's too late... Hahahaha! Having these two come with me, such that Nora won't have anything to worry about anymore, is the only thing that I can do for you as your younger sister, Yvette!"

Queenie shouted. Before Trueman and Barbarian could escape, she quickly pressed the switch!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 946 - Trump Card!!

Chapter 946 Trump Card!!

Queenie had a tragic and heroic look on her face.

She had led a turbulent life, and life in the mysterious organization had been no better than death.

If she hadn't been taken away by Yvette, she would still be struggling in that hellhole.

She thought back to how Yvette had introduced her to everyone in NTT after freeing her from the mysterious organization. How she had given her a new identity and treated her so well.

She had brought her along to brew wine and to cook...

Yvette had even once laughed and said, "In the future, you can make this pasta dish for my daughter and tell her that this is what Mom's love tastes like."

She had been cracking a joke at the time.

Queenie retorted, "Can't you do it yourself?"

"I would still be recovering after giving birth. How am I supposed to cook?"

Yvette rebutted confidently.

Yvette was like the sun, always having a positive influence on the people around her and putting everyone at ease.

But such a Yvette gradually unsettled Queenie.

After all, she was a spy for the mysterious organization!

Yvette had clearly brought her out from the mysterious organization. She wasn't supposed to treat her this well.

The young girl felt terribly uneasy for a long time. At last, she couldn't help but go to her and confess her identity.

What Queenie had thought at that time was: "When she realizes that I am not a good person, would she drive me away?"

She mentally prepared herself to be driven back to the mysterious organization.

But unexpectedly, Yvette smiled and replied, "I'm aware of that!"

Queenie was stunned.

Yvette patted her head. "I've known for a long time. What are you thinking so much about it for, though? It wasn't easy for you to escape from that place. Just do whatever makes you happy."

Queenie asked in surprise, "Aren't you afraid that I will betray you? Even now, I still don't know what mission the mysterious organization has planned for me. All I know is that they want me to stay by your side."

Yvette laughed even more heartily. "That's why I say that the mysterious organization doesn't understand anything. People develop feelings for one another by spending time. Besides, if you weren't threatened by them, would you have been able to escape? It's fine; if there does come a day when you choose to betray me, at least our many years of friendship would still be real."

It was just a shame that, at the time, Yvette had thought that she still had many years to spend with her.

Until one day, a troubled Yvette suddenly approached her to bid farewell. "I wanted to spend another few years with you so that we could come even closer, but that's not possible anymore. I'm going back to the States." At the time, Queenie had replied without hesitation, “I’ll go back to the States with you.”

“No, you stay here. NTT needs you more.”

Yvette smiled and added, “It’s too dangerous in the States.”

At that time, she didn’t know that Yvette was returning to the States to hide from the mysterious organization... It was only if Yvette returned to the States, successfully set up everything, and prevented the mysterious organization from getting what they wanted that Queenie and Nora would have a chance of survival.

Only then would it give NTT the chance to grow and develop.

And only then would they be able to grow up safely.

Yvette had used her life to save everyone.

Queenie had only been with her for half a year.

A year later, she finally received a call from Yvette. “Hey kid, I have given birth to a daughter.”

Queenie was stunned.

Yvette then said, “I told her that she has an aunt living abroad. You have to help me take care of her, okay?”

Yvette had spoken in a very relaxed tone, so it hadn’t occurred to Queenie at all that she might be dying soon. She merely smiled sweetly and said, “Sure, Yvette. When are you coming back?”

“Coming back?”

Yvette chuckled softly and said, “Kiddo, I can’t come back anymore.

“I’m leaving my child to you.”

Queenie had been stunned then. At last, she understood that Yvette was calling to entrust her soon-to-be-orphaned child to her. She shouted, “Get back here, Yvette! Get back here at once! We can face everything together! If you... if you dare let anything happen to you, I will hand over your daughter to the mysterious organization!”

“So, you’ve learned to threaten people, huh? It’s a pity that you won’t be able to threaten me anymore. Kiddo, I’ve never regretted knowing you. Go down your own path from now on.”

After saying that, before she hung up the phone, Yvette added softly, “Be happy!” She had led a very happy life. Every single day she had spent alive during the last twenty-odd years had been a bonus.

She should have died in the mysterious organization long ago... It was Yvette who had pointed at her when they were in the mysterious organization back then and said, “I like this kid a lot. She’s very much to my taste. Give her to me, I’ll make her my younger sister.”

Only then had the mysterious organization let her go. So, how could she possibly betray Yvette?

Yvette, I’m coming to you soon.

Queenie said to herself inwardly. She closed her eyes and quietly waited for the bomb to explode. But...

There was complete silence in the air.

One could only hear the sound of Barbarian and Trueman throwing themselves onto the ground after they both fled. Queenie was confused.

She suddenly opened her eyes to see that everybody around her had dispersed and fled in all directions. Some even threw themselves onto the ground and held their heads.

But... the bombs on her didn’t go off.

Queenie: “???”

Everyone: “!!!”

Time seemed to have stopped at this moment. No one knew what was going on, and they all looked at Queenie.

Queenie touched the bombs on her body again.

She frowned. Why didn't they go off?

Were they duds?

Surely she wasn't that unlucky, right?!

She had even bought the most advanced bombs on the market, so how could they possibly be duds?!

Queenie hesitated for a moment. Suddenly, she recalled that when she took Nora to the pasta restaurant earlier that day, Nora had kept circling around her while she was making the pasta.

She had said that she was helping her with the cooking, but in fact, she had done nothing.

Queenie suddenly turned back to look at Nora. Her voice quivered as she asked, “I-it's you?”

“Yeah.”

Five minutes had passed.

Nora was able to move again. She moved her numb arms and legs and then looked at Queenie. Her eyes were a little red as she said, “I dismantled all the bombs.”

Queenie: “...”

No wonder!

No wonder she had come after her and said that she wanted to accompany her on the final leg of her life even after knowing that she had betrayed her!

As it turned out, she had seen through her plans!

She asked, “When did you realize?”

Nora replied, “You’ve always been vain and fond of wearing red. When I saw you wearing a fully black outfit this time, I immediately found it strange. Since you were about to die, you would definitely dress yourself up beautifully. Also, you seemed to have... gained weight.”

Queenie: “?”

She had been wearing loose red clothing the whole time previously just to prevent people from seeing what her figure was like. She had also only drunk a bit of wine each day and skipped her meals just to shave another few inches off her waist.

This time, with the bombs tied to her body and the black clothes, her figure had been highlighted even further. Not only did she not look swollen, but her figure even looked just right!

Nora only suspected that she had planted bombs on herself because she felt that she had gained weight?

Queenie’s lip corners spasmed.

Nora was about to speak again when Trueman and Barbarian at the side realized that they had been tricked. The two immediately got up furiously.

Trueman pointed at them. “Nora Smith, the two of you must have a death wish!” “A death wish?” Nora quickly walked up to Queenie to prevent the people around her, who had thrown themselves onto the ground, from rushing over to beat her up. She looked at Trueman. “Is this all you had for a trump card?”

Trueman was taken aback. “What?” Nora lowered her eyes, the corners of her lips curling upward slightly. Her smile was arrogant and brazen as she declared, “Since you have shown me your trump card, it’s time that I show you mine too. None of you are getting away today!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 947 - Cornered!

Chapter 947 Cornered!

After speaking, Nora pressed her hand against her ear and whispered to the person on the other end of the communications channel, “Come on out.”

As soon as she spoke, clouds of dust suddenly appeared around the highway and several off-road vehicles started racing toward them.

The sight of dozens of cars coming from all directions was simply spectacular. It was as if there were thousands and thousands of troops all around, raising fear in people.

Everyone present looked at them in shock.

Screech!

The cars stopped nearby and surrounded Trueman and Barbarian.

One of the car doors opened before the car had even stopped. It was an old man with a gray beard dressed in a white training outfit. His clothes were thin, yet despite how the weather was still transitioning to spring, the old man was not cold at all. On the contrary, he was in a thundering rage as he complained, “The car went too fast! Nora, don’t ever make me ride in that car again in the future!”

If someone from the United States was here, they would recognize him right away—he was Quinn!! A grandmaster of martial arts was here! As soon as Quinn spoke, another car door opened and an elegant and refined elderly man got out of it. The elderly man’s hair was black and well-groomed. If not for his wrinkles and his calm eyes, it would be impossible for one to tell his age.

The moment he got out of the car, he smiled and said, “Quinn, you still haven’t done anything about your motion sickness even after so many years? The dignified and powerful grandmaster of the Quinn School of Martial Arts with an extraordinary physical constitution is prone to motion sickness... I doubt anyone would believe it if they heard of it, no?"

As soon as Quinn heard him, he straightened his body immediately and retorted, "You devious old scumbag, how dare you laugh at me? What's wrong with having motion sickness? Who made it a rule that the physically fit are not allowed to have motion sickness? My disciple has told me that motion sickness has something to do with the ear. It's too complicated, so I can't really explain it either. I bet a devious old scumbag like you doesn't understand either, right?"

That's right, the person talking to Quinn was none other than the grandmaster of the Irvin School of Martial Arts, Irvin himself! He was also the one who had taught martial arts to Justin!

The Quinn and Irvin duo made up the most powerful martial arts force in the current world.

In order to take out Barbarian and Trueman, Nora and Justin, who were determined to take them out in one blow today, had exhausted nearly all their manpower and resources this time!

SOU

At the sight of the duo, Trueman knew at once that he wouldn't be able to escape. His pupils shrank and he shouted, "Nora, you actually managed to get those two here... You sure have invested a lot into this! But so what even if you have? Do you know who the one backing up the mysterious organization is? I'll tell you this: even those two won't be able to do anything to me!"

Nora narrowed her eyes. "Oh? So, who exactly did the mysterious organization rely on to get to where they are? The British royal family? But the Queen has never once supported you!"

“The royal family is just a cover!” Trueman stared hard at Nora. “Do you really think you can fight against the mysterious organization by yourself? The mysterious organization is King’s! Do you know who King is? He’s part of the Imperial League! If you dare to do anything to me, King will definitely hunt you down!”

King?

Nora was taken aback.

While she was thinking, a calm and steady voice reached them. “How come I’m not aware that Imperial League is the one backing up the mysterious organization?” Following these words, a big and tall man wearing an iconic black mask walked out slowly from behind the crowd.

The moment he appeared, the whole place fell silent!

King!

He was the real King!

He was actually here!

It seemed that Trueman hadn’t expected Nora to gain King’s support either. He widened his eyes and looked at King in disbelief. He shouted, “T-this is impossible... Mr. King, why would you cooperate with her? Don’t you want the gene serum anymore? But you have been investing in the mysterious organization all this time! Oh, I get it now... You’ve become attracted to that woman’s looks too, right? I don’t get it. Why are all of you in love with her? She already has three children! And her fiancé is even dead because of her. Oh, by the way, her fiancé was Justin Hunt!”

Chapter 948 - Fight!

Chapter 948 Fight!

The moment Trueman said that, Nora raised her eyebrows.

She looked at Justin.

There were a lot of people here today. Though they were all their own men, Justin likely still wouldn't want to expose his identity as King. Therefore, he wouldn't take off his mask to slap Trueman in the face.

But... When Trueman mentioned "Justin Hunt", wasn't he exactly referring to him? So, why was he suddenly clenching his fists? Even the veins on the back of his hands were bulging!

Just as Nora was puzzled, she heard Justin grit his teeth and ask, "Too'? 'All of you'? Who else is in love with her?"

Nora: "???"

Was this really the time to be pursuing such matters?

Why was that man missing the point? Shouldn't they hurry up, catch all of them, and then clean up the mess so that she could go back home to sleep?!

The corners of Nora's lips spasmed a little. Then, she noticed that Trueman had immediately shut up and stopped talking.

She gave a wave and ordered, "Go!"

At her command, the people around them immediately swarmed forward and attacked Trueman and Barbarian.

Trueman had brought dozens of men from the mysterious organization. Though all of them had consumed the gene serum, they were not comparable to Barbarian, who was already at the V15 stage. Although they were skilled fighters, they were still no match for the Quinn School of Martial Arts and Irvin School of Martial Arts disciples who had been practicing martial arts since they were children.

Moreover, in order to ensure that they would catch them, Nora had summoned a lot of people this time!

As a result, Trueman and his cronies quickly found themselves at a disadvantage.

Seeing that his subordinates were being taken out one by one, Trueman retreated to where Barbarian was and said, "Go! Get me out of here and I'll help you get the V16!"

Although the two had just fought for the V16, they hadn't fallen out with each other.

Besides, if he took Trueman out with him, Barbarian would also gain his assistance and wouldn't be as isolated and helpless as he currently was.

Thus, Barbarian agreed at once. He stepped forward and immediately took out the few people walking toward Trueman. Not only did Barbarian have immense physical strength, but his movements were also nimble. He disrupted the attack from Nora's men with sheer brute force.

Along the way, he even made an opening in the encirclement so that he could escape with Trueman.

Barbarian charged forward while Trueman followed right behind him.

Nora frowned. However, before she could say anything, the two grandmasters of the martial arts circle, Quinn and Irvin, were already standing in Barbarian's way. They said to the nearby disciples who were planning to rush forward again, "Stand back. Let me see what he's made of."

As a result, the battlefield was split into two areas.

One was where Trueman's men were being crushed by Nora's men. The other was where Quinn, Irvin, Nora, and Justin's showdown with Barbarian was about to take place.

Despite facing the four standing at the apex of martial arts, Barbarian was fearless. He looked straight at them and spat. Then, he asked, "Which one of you will go first? Or are you going to come at me all at once instead?"

If Nora and Justin teamed up, they could fend off either Quinn or Irvin, but the duo simply couldn't beat Barbarian.

But in Nora's opinion, the four of them were already the best in the range of an ordinary person's martial arts capability. If they still couldn't beat Barbarian, then one could only say that Barbarian was fated to survive.

These were all the trump cards she had.

While she was thinking, Quinn took a step forward. "I will go first."

After he spoke, Quinn drew a line across the ground with his foot. The Quinn School of Martial Arts focused on physical strength, his foot had left a deep mark on the ground. Then, Quinn immediately threw a punch at Barbarian!

Chapter 949 - His Defeat Is Set In Stone!

Chapter 949 His Defeat Is Set In Stone!

Quinn's punch was fierce and incredibly forceful!

If the punch struck an ordinary person, their bones would definitely break and they would probably die.

Nora had once taken a full blow from him, and even she had been pushed back several steps.

Quinn had been studying martial arts all his life. He poured all of his efforts into learning how to increase his strength, and how to unleash all of his power in an instant.

Yet in the face of such a punch, Barbarian neither ducked nor evaded it. In fact, he even stretched out his fist and met Quinn's fist with his own!

Thud!

Their fists collided. Even the air could not escape the impact of their colliding fists, instead fully condensing in place. This was what an exchange of blows between experts was like—a single move was enough to determine the outcome!

A muffled thump from the collision rang out, and then Quinn and Barbarian both took a couple of steps backward.

Barbarian felt a little pain between his forefinger and his thumb.

On the other hand, Quinn was a little pale. He sighed and said, "Martial arts are the same as a person's genes. The apex of martial arts is nothing more than the attempt to push the human body's potential to its limit. In a one-on-one fight, I am not as strong as him.”

Irvin finally took a step forward at this time. “Then let me go next, and see for myself whether this newly broken through human limit is stronger than the original.”

After speaking, just as he was about to step forward, Quinn spat and said, “You devious old scumbag, you were just making me test that man's skill before you attack him yourself, right? You're so insidious!”

Irvin replied, “The Irvin School of Martial Arts pursues agility and does not use clumsy parameters like physical strength to compete with another.”

After speaking, without waiting for Quinn to fly into a rage, he moved forward with his arms held up.

Irvin's movements were very quick and he was very flexible. Barbarian's fist approached, but before he could even touch Irvin's clothes, Irvin had already ducked under his arm to go behind him, where he immediately kicked him behind the knee.

Barbarian's knees were hardy and strong. The blow didn't bother him at all.

Moreover, as Irvin's martial arts focused on agility, he wasn't going to be able to exert too much force in the first place. This led to Barbarian feeling like he was taking blows all over his body. Though there wasn't much force in the blows, they were terribly annoying!

He let out a shout and clenched both his fists. When Irvin struck him again, Barbarian clamped down on Irvin's leg with his muscles, rendering him unable to break free. Irvin: “...”

The sight made Quinn, who was watching from the sidelines, burst out laughing. “You devious old scumbag, I knew it, you're the most underhanded person ever. See, it's all over now, isn't it? You're such an embarrassment.” Irvin replied, “At least I managed to exchange a dozen moves with him, Quinn, unlike you who was defeated in just one.”

Barbarian sneered, “Those dozen moves were nothing more than tickles to me!”

Quinn shouted, “You hear that? You devious old scumbag, you can’t compare to me at all!”

Irvin replied, “It’s not that I can’t compare to you, Quinn. Rather, it’s...”

Just like that, the two elderly men began to quarrel, which annoyed the heck out of Barbarian. He shouted furiously, “That’s enough!”

It was almost at this exact same moment that Quinn suddenly bent over and swiftly approached him.

Irvin grabbed Quinn’s arm, allowing Quinn to use him as leverage to spin quickly in the air and deliver a merciless kick to Barbarian’s knee!

Quinn didn’t back off after delivering the kick. On the contrary, with the help of Irvin, he also gave Barbarian’s other knee another ruthless kick!

He and Irvin cooperated with each other flawlessly.

One was in charge of strength while the other was in charge of agility...

Soon, Barbarian felt like he had been struck seven to eight times.

By the time he recovered, both Quinn and Irvin had already retreated and put a distance of ten steps between themselves and him.

“... Is that all you have even after teaming up?” Barbarian scoffed.

He had only just spoken when his knees suddenly gave way. With a loud thud, Barbarian fell to his knees.

At the same time, he suddenly also lost all the strength in his elbow joints. His shoulders also seemed dislocated... His eyes widened in shock. “N-no way!”

Irvin stroked his beard. “With enough willpower, one can achieve even the impossible. Even if your body has already reached the limit of human potential, Quinn and I have spent all our lives trying to break the limit. If we can’t break it alone, then we just have to team up.”

In this world, no one would ever be at the top forever.

If someone were to be, then it could only be the Quinn and Irvin duo.

Barbarian’s defeat was set in stone!!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 950 - He'S Doomed

Chapter 950 He's Doomed

Barbarian collapsed onto the ground. Irvin said with a smile, "As expected, you and I are truly invincible when we team up, Quinn."

Quinn replied disdainfully, "Ha, don't say that, you old devious scumbag. Nothing good ever happens any time you pay me a compliment. I will never team up with you ever again!"

Irvin replied, "Well, we won't need to team up in the future anyway. The future of the Quinn School of Martial Arts and the Irvin School of Martial Arts now lies on the shoulders of the next generation! They are husband and wife, so they can team up."

Quinn immediately curled his lips, but when he glanced at Nora and Justin next to him, he ultimately couldn't say anything.

Nora looked at Barbarian and said, "Take him away." Upon hearing her, someone took a step forward. He was about to tie up Barbarian, who was slumped on the ground, when he suddenly let out a low growl. Then, his dislocated joints suddenly returned to their original positions!

Both Quinn and Irvin's expressions changed when they heard the commotion. Irvin frowned and said, "He took a drug!"

As Irvin spoke, Barbarian also stood up slowly. His shoulders shifted slightly and his joints popped back to their original positions, scaring the few people walking toward him so much that they stopped in their tracks.

Nora frowned. "What kind of drug is it?"

Irvin had a look of disdain all over his countenance. "A drug that's banned in martial arts competitions. The stimulant allows you to push your limits even further within a short period of time, but using it gives rise to endless problems and greatly damages one's health. The use of this drug has become prohibited in martial arts tournaments during the past few years."

Nora frowned upon hearing him.

She sneered and looked at Barbarian. "Barbarian, even if you've gotten back up, do you think you can escape when the two martial arts masters are here?"

Barbarian stared at her, his left shoulder making clacking sounds as it suddenly popped back in.

Dislocating joints and popping them back in was an extremely painful experience. Barbarian was clearly in so much pain that beads of perspiration had formed on his forehead, yet his eyes were still sharp and even more ruthless than before.

Barbarian replied, "How would I know if I don't try?"

After saying this, Barbarian suddenly launched an attack!

"Go!"

Justin, Quinn, and Irvin rushed forward together and surrounded Barbarian. None of them dared to underestimate the enemy.

Because Quinn had said, "Since he has taken the banned drug, his body will definitely break through its limit again, making him so strong that it's as if he has taken the V16. He's not to be underestimated!"

Sure enough, Quinn and Irvin had gotten Barbarian down on his knees just now only because they had suddenly launched a surprise attack.

But now, with the four of them joining forces... Even though Barbarian didn't have the upper hand, the four of them couldn't take him down quickly either.

In terms of strength, he didn't lose out to Quinn.

In terms of speed and agility, he was not inferior to Irvin.

For a while, the four of them and Barbarian entered a deadlock!

At this moment, Nora suddenly heard an exclamation. "Lucas!"

She turned her head sharply to see that on the other side—where Trueman and the others were surrounded—Trueman's men had been subdued one by one, leaving only Trueman. Lucas originally planned to take him down, but he did not expect the thin and seemingly weak Trueman to also be rather skilled. He slashed Lucas with a dagger and then ran straight to the car at the side!

Nora's pupils shrank and she subconsciously said to Justin, "Go after him!"

Justin nodded and then turned around and went after him. Soon, he entered a scuffle with Trueman and gained the upper hand. The situation on Justin's side was now resolved, but with one fewer person in the four-man siege, there was now an opening in the encirclement. Barbarian was indeed the strongest man in the world; he seized the opportunity that the tiny opening presented and immediately broke out of the three-man siege!

He pushed Nora away in one blow. When Nora was retreating, she fished out a needle and stabbed it into him. However, Barbarian ignored it completely and raced toward a motorcycle at the side. Before Nora, Quinn, and Irvin could catch up to him, he had already started the motorcycle and sped off!

Quinn wanted to go after him, but Nora stopped him and said, "There's no need to go after him anymore."

That silver needle was enough to kill him.

In order to take down Barbarian, she had made full preparations.

Then, she finally looked at Trueman, whom Justin had captured.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 951 - I Don'T Have To Lie To You Ever Again

Chapter 951 I Don't Have To Lie To You Ever Again

Barbarian sped along the road on the motorcycle.

His palms were all sweaty.

His vision was also gradually becoming blurry. Before he came, he had considered the possibility that he might fail, so he had brought the prohibited drug with him. Once he consumed the drug, he would truly no longer be far from death.

For ordinary people, the banned drug would only cause a little irreversible damage to the body and reduce their lifespan, but someone like him would lose even more.

He originally had over a month's time left to administer the V16, but because of the stimulation from the banned drug, he only had a few days left now.

If he couldn't get the V16 within the next few days, he would die!

When Barbarian thought of this, he gave the throttle a forceful twist. However, sudden pain in his joints instantly wracked his body with convulsions, and he suddenly fell off the motorcycle.

Only then did he realize that the sharp pain at his waist was slowly spreading throughout his body.

With trembling hands, he touched his waist to find that there was a silver needle stuck there.

He pulled out the needle.

But when his fingers touched the needle, the skin there turned black.

Barbarian stared blankly at his darkened skin for a while. Although he was not the brightest bulb in the box, even he understood that he was close to dying.

Since that insidious woman had set up an ambush for him here, how could she not have come prepared?

There was no doubt that the poison she had made was incurable and took effect extremely quickly.

Barbarian knew his body very well. Just by feeling the changes in his body, he could sense that his heart was pounding abnormally fast.

So, the poison on the needle targeted the heart?

He suddenly started to gasp for breath.

He struggled to get up to walk over and pick up the motorcycle on the ground, but he stumbled and fell again.

At this point, a car passed by on the highway. Upon seeing him, a man got out of his car and asked, "Are you alright? Do you need help?"

The next moment, Barbarian took out a dagger and held it against the man's neck. "Take me to...."

An hour later.

The car stopped in front of the largest hotel in Switzerland.

Barbarian pushed open the car door and got out of the car in a suit.

The man in the car was already dead. He was slumped against the steering wheel with a long bloody gash across his neck. Barbarian nimbly avoided the security guards, entered the hotel, and went straight upstairs.

Upstairs, the Queen was discussing future state policies with other people. At this moment, a siren went off downstairs. When her guards heard the report through their earpieces, one of them shouted, “Alert! A car with a dead body inside has been discovered downstairs! It is highly likely that the murderer is in this building!”

After the captain of the guards spoke, the door was suddenly pushed open. Then, Barbarian appeared there against the light.

The Queen stared at Barbarian.

She stood up abruptly.

She couldn't see Barbarian's face clearly, so she merely shouted, “Barbarian, what are you doing?”

The captain of the guards charged toward Barbarian.

Barbarian kicked him away and the man fell immediately.

Then, Barbarian said, “You are too weak.”

How could he possibly entrust the Queen to a pig-head of a captain like him?!

He couldn't rest assured doing so!

He suddenly took out a serum from his waist.

The captain of the guards panicked and yelled, “W-what are you doing?!”

The Queen also suddenly pulled out a pistol and pointed it at Barbarian. “Stop, Barbarian! Or else I'll shoot!”

Barbarian looked up and grinned at her. His pearly white teeth made him look a little less gloomy and sullen than he usually was, and also gave him an air of innocence.

He didn't obey the Queen, but ruthlessly injected the gene modification serum into the captain instead!!

Since you are so weak, I will give you a hand...

“Stop! Barbarian! Stop!” The Queen shouted.

But Barbarian didn't. After injecting the gene serum into the captain of the guards, he grabbed the deputy... He was going to inject the gene serum into all of them one by one. After all, not everybody could endure the gene serum's side effects.

In the event that the captain couldn't endure it and died, there was still the deputy. If the deputy also died, there were still many other guards... He had to leave a strong and powerful bodyguard to protect the Queen on his behalf.

Everyone around them raised their guns and pointed them at Barbarian.

But without the Queen's order, no one dared to shoot. After all, to the Queen, Barbarian was special.

The Queen's hands trembled.

She knew Barbarian very well-in fact, she even knew why Barbarian was doing all this! But she didn't need it! She didn't need genetically modified guards to aid her, much less use gene serums to control them.

People were created equal!!

Her eyes reddened. When Barbarian injected the gene serum into the deputy, her hands suddenly stopped shaking. Her aide's eyes also reddened and he shouted, “Your Majesty, they are all your subjects!!”

Yes, they were all her subjects.

As the Queen, she was bound to her duty of protecting her subjects.

Bang!

She fired, squeezing her eyes shut as she did. When she opened them again, she realized that the gunshot had struck Barbarian in the heart.

Barbarian froze, and he slowly turned his head to look at her.

He exhausted the last bit of strength he had to inject the gene serum into the deputy. Then, he fell to the ground with a thud.

His eyes were still open, and he was still looking at the Queen.

The Queen came over with her eyes all red and squatted in front of Barbarian.

Barbarian was shaking a little, and he was on the brink of death. He could feel his body getting colder and colder, blood was trickling out of his mouth.

But his eyes were stubbornly fixed on the Queen.

Only two people had been injected with the gene serum. If neither of them could endure its effects and failed to pull through, who would protect the Queen?

Barbarian was filled with indignation. While he was thinking about it, the Queen suddenly reached her hand out to him.

Her hand was still as warm as it was ten years ago.

The Queen's face also seemed to return to how she had looked when she was still a princess.

The Queen's voice was a little choked and it trembled as she said warmly, "Don't be scared, don't be scared. Don't be scared, Barbarian. It doesn't hurt, don't be scared. I... I'll take you home... I told you, I'm going to keep you safe."

Barbarian slowly closed his eyes, and a smile appeared at the corners of his lips.

This was wonderful.

Your Highness, I don't have to lie to you ever again.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 952 - Aunt's Identity And The Truth

Chapter 952 Aunt's Identity and the Truth

Although no one had yet heard about Barbarian's death, Nora was certain that he would definitely die.

Barbarian had killed too many people. Furthermore, he had almost killed Justin in the past. He had already become a serial killer. If he was left alive, he would only kill more people.

Even if... Nora was touched by Barbarian's feelings for the Queen.

However, he was only gentle to the Queen and extremely cruel to others. Such a person did not deserve to live.

Even if he was caught by Brenda, he could not have escaped the death sentence.

Nora had never been one to follow the rules and regulations, and she had never been soft-hearted. If she could just poison him and get rid of a lot of unnecessary trouble, then why not?

Therefore, she did not feel any guilt about poisoning the silver needle.

Not long after Barbarian fled, another group of people rushed over quickly from the surroundings. The person in the lead was Brenda!

She quickly came to Nora and asked in surprise, "Nora, why are you here?"

She had received the news from Caleb and gone to the trading center to wait for Trueman and Queenie. However, nothing happened. It was only when a large-scale chaotic battle broke out that she realized and rushed over.

Nora did not answer. Brenda frowned and looked around. “Where’s Barbarian?”

“He escaped.”

Brenda said angrily, “He escaped again!”

With that, she turned around and chased in the direction Nora had pointed out.

Nora did not stop her.

Barbarian would probably die on the way. It was just nice for Brenda and the others to collect his corpse.

However, when Brenda and the others walked away, Nora turned around and looked at Solo, who was hiding behind an off-road car after Brenda appeared. “Why are you hiding?”

Solo said, “I...”

Before he could finish, Solo’s legs suddenly went limp and he fell to the ground.

Nora quickly took a step forward and checked his body. Only then did she realize that a dagger had pierced through his waist! That dagger belonged to Barbarian!

Nora frowned.

In the chaotic battle earlier, many people were injured, but she did not expect Solo to be so seriously injured.

She asked, “Why didn’t you tell me earlier?” Solo pressed the wound on his waist, the dagger still in place. The wound stopped bleeding. He chuckled. “I didn’t want her to worry.”

That’s why he waited for Brenda to leave before saying anything...

Nora really did not know what to say to him. She examined Solo's injuries and frowned.

Solo asked nervously, "I didn't cut anything it shouldn't have, right?"

Nora: "..."

Solo's injuries were very serious, and there was no operating room here. Nora could only call a few people and send Solo to the hospital first.

The medical standards in Switzerland could be trusted. Nora got Lily to contact the doctors in the hospital. It was completely fine to let them perform surgery on him.

Nora did not follow over because Solo's injuries would not endanger his life.

She stayed and looked at Trueman.

Trueman, who had been captured, was calm and did not look flustered at all. He even glared at Queenie. "Nora, do you really trust the people around you so much? Do you know that Queenie did this for a reason?!"

Nora narrowed her eyes.

Queenie said, "Shut up!"

Trueman sneered. "Why should I shut up? Why can't I reveal your true identity? What's wrong? Nora, you still don't know who Queenie is, right?"

Nora was about to speak when Trueman smiled. "How long are you going to pretend, Listener?"

Queenie clenched her fists in anger.

Nora looked at Queenie and saw that her eyes had suddenly become flustered.

Trueman smiled. “The reason she helped you was to obtain the gene serum in your hand. Do you really think she’s that kind? Ha, don’t be naive! Can she give up her life for a sister she had known for just a few months? Yvette loved her so much that she found that pianist and told everyone that she was Listener to deceive them...”

“Shut up!”

Queenie roared again and rushed to Trueman anxiously. She reached out and was about to slap him, but the next moment, she suddenly covered her chest.

She turned around and spat out a mouthful of blood!

“Queenie!”

Nora stepped forward and held Queenie in her arms. She was very weak. She grabbed Nora’s hand and slowly said, “I... You shouldn’t have saved me. I’m going to die... I have cancer...”

She said slowly, “Nora, I’m not as good as you think. I’m afraid of death, but I was sick. I had cancer, which was why I thought of this plan. I got rid of these two for you. You don’t have to be too touched... I have my own selfish motives. I hate the mysterious organization too. I hate Trueman...”

Her face, which had been normal a moment ago, was turning pale at a visible pace.

Nora looked at her, her eyes turning red.

At this moment, Trueman suddenly smiled. “Ha, cancer? You can’t lie to me! What cancer? It’s just your physical condition before you get the V16! As long as you inject the V16, you’ll live! From the sound of it, Queenie, you’re really full of lies!”

Trueman’s words made Queenie even more furious. She glared at Trueman, but her body was too weak. She had only lasted until now because of her belief.

She spat out another mouthful of blood. She was about to say something when Nora held her hand. “Queenie, I know everything. I understand everything.”

Nora’s eyes turned even redder. Low and clear tears rolled down from the corners of her eyes. “You just don’t want to use the V16. You feel guilty for me and you think that you shouldn’t be alive, right? That’s why you want to die like this. You even hid your cancer from me to keep me from being sad...”

As she spoke, her voice became a little choked, but she suppressed all her emotions.

Queenie was taken aback.

She did not expect Nora to be so understanding. She smiled bitterly and touched the tears on Nora’s face. “Nora, I’m not worth your tears.”

She sighed. “You’re... too smart. I just want to leave without feeling so much pain. I don’t want to leave any pain for you... I’m going to look for my sister... Nora, don’t be sad.”

Trueman roared with laughter. “Hahaha, Listener, you really deserved it! You deserved it! You should have died in the first place! If you died, Xander and I could take the remaining two serums! Hahaha, who asked you to lie to me? You didn’t bring the real V16. If you had, you wouldn’t have ended up like this!”

Even if she rushed back to the manor to get the V16, it was too late!!

Chapter 953 - Live!

Chapter 953 Live!

This was what Queenie had planned.

She grabbed Nora's hand. "On the dressing table in my room, there's a button under my skincare products. It'll open a secret closet in the room when you press it. The real V16 is in there. Nora, I'm sorry. I even lied to you..."

Nora stared at her. "Why? Queenie, why? When I got the V16, I clearly told you that one of those two serums belonged to you!"

Queenie's identity was a mystery. Over the years, Nora had been guessing who she was.

Later on, she stopped guessing and decided to let nature take its course.

In fact, when she got the V16 her mother had left behind and realized that there were two bottles, she heaved a sigh of relief. She handed the gene serum to Queenie, hoping that if she was really one of the five people from back then, she would take one for herself.

Nora believed that, with Queenie's intelligence, she must have guessed her intentions.

But why didn't she save herself?

She clearly knew that these two days would be her last!

Queenie sighed. "I told you, I don't deserve to live. It was Yvette who saved my life. I should have accompanied her when she died, but she had asked me to take care of you. Now that you're older, you don't need my care anymore..."

Nora suddenly said, “Then, what if my mother wants you to stay alive?”

S were

Queenie was stunned. Her eyes were a little hazy. “What did you say?”

The pain gradually came from her body, making her a little stunned.

Nora took a deep breath and took out a letter to hand to Queenie. “I found this in your secret room.”

With that, she handed a letter to Queenie.

Queenie looked over and realized that it was the last letter Yvette had written to her before she died.

She had almost memorized everything written in the letter. It was just a confession, nothing else. As she was thinking, she saw Nora open the envelope.

Inside the envelope was a line of words:

“Queenie, the reason I entrusted my child to you was to give you a reason to live. The moment you walked out of the mysterious organization, you had already received a new life. You have to live well.”

Queenie was stunned.

Nora took a deep breath. “Mother has never given me much help. She only asked her teachers to teach me martial arts and medical skills, but she didn’t feel any need to find someone to protect me. She had always hoped that I could become very strong myself, so I never understood why Mother gave you the mission to protect me until I saw this letter in your room. Queenie, Mother wanted you to live, that’s why she gave you this mission. She wanted you to forget your pain with time and to really love this world!”

The thousand children who had been used as test subjects were all innocent.

However, the children who had been tortured to death were not the most pitiful. The most pitiful were the five who had survived.

The pain they suffered was dozens, maybe even hundreds of times more than the other children. These kids were being tested by all kinds of cold equipment in dark laboratories. This was a kind of torture in itself.

Their hearts were twisted.

After Barbarian escaped, he killed people crazily to take revenge on this society.

Barbarian was pitiful.

As for Trueman, his character was very strange. If these people wanted to live, they had to have a belief.

Barbarian's belief was the Queen.

Trueman's belief might be eternal life.

After Spacey found her freedom, she tortured her adoptive parents and drove a wedge between them which led to them murdering each other. This was also a way to vent.

Their personalities were dark and gloomy.

It was like a poisonous herb that had never seen light before. It wanted to slaughter everyone to take revenge.

Only Queenie did not do anything. This was Yvette guiding her. Her sister was saving her... Having nothing to live for could've become a weakness for Queenie.

She probably would have committed suicide. Yvette might have sensed this long ago, so after freeing her from the organization and giving her a new identity, she did not leave immediately. Instead, she taught her how to live a blissful life, wanting to save her from the darkness.

Queenie stared at the letter in her hand as her tears suddenly started rolling down her cheeks.

Nora said, “Queenie, think about it carefully. Can you really bear to leave? Can you bear to let go of Cherry? Can you bear to let go of Royce? Even John is so loyal to you! Can you really bear to let go?”

Could she bear to?

At this moment, an impulse suddenly arose in the heart of the disheartened Queenie.

She wanted to live! She wanted to see the smiles of the people around her, wanted to see Nora’s wedding. She wanted to see Cherry grow up and meet the love of her life...

Her eyes slowly lit up.

Yet!

It was too late!

The light that had just risen in Queenie’s eyes gradually extinguished again. “Hahahaha!” Trueman laughed out loud. “Nora, you gave her a desire to live and then let her die. This is simply too cruel! You’re too cruel!”

Queenie also sighed. “Nora, it’s too late.”

“No.”

Nora knew that Queenie finally had the will to live. Her lips slowly curled up. “Queenie, I brought the V16.”

When she said this, Trueman’s laughter instantly stopped!

He looked at Nora in shock. “What did you say?”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 954 - I Can'T Use This Serum

Nora took out a bottle of V16 from her pocket. She opened the lid and took out the serum in a syringe.

In the sunlight, her movements looked exceptionally professional and graceful.

Queenie watched her. For some reason, she suddenly felt glad and relieved.

Yvette, as you had wished, your child has grown into a very strong person.

At the side, Trueman widened his eyes and looked at her in disbelief. If Barbarian had known that Nora had the real V16 with her, he would probably have risked his life to take it from her, right?

Given Barbarian's skills, it was more likely than not that he would be able to get it.

Once he obtained the V16 and injected it into himself, Barbarian would have been able to break through his limit again and defeat any number of people! With that, he wouldn't have had to die.

So, what on earth gave Nora the guts to still bring the real V16 with her when she knew very well that they would be here? Trueman stared straight at her. As he watched Nora lift the syringe, he couldn't help but say, "W-wait!"

Nora didn't listen to him.

Trueman shouted, "Nora, there are only two doses of that gene serum in the world! Are you really going to give one to her? She's obviously already seeking death! How can you still give it to her?! Stop what you're doing immediately! Stop! Otherwise, you will regret it!” Trueman wanted to stop her.

However, Trueman had already been subdued, so he couldn't put up a fight at all.

Nora remained indifferent to his verbal abuse.

Just as she was about to insert the needle into Queenie's arm, a hand suddenly grabbed her wrist.

Nora's line of sight followed the hand, and she looked up to see Caleb standing in front of her. He frowned as he said, “Think twice about what you're doing, Nora!”

Nora narrowed her eyes. “What do you mean, Mr. Gray?”

“Mr. Gray” ...

Nora's form of address for him immediately became a lot more alienated.

Caleb stared at her. “There are only two gene serums in this world. You have to understand that there may be more important people who might need you to save them. Do you really want to give her one of the serums?”

Although NTT, the company that Queenie had founded, might seem very powerful in comparison with the Hunt Corporation and the Smith Corporation, be it in King's eyes or the mysterious organization's, it was insignificant.

Queenie was just Listener, one of the five children from back then.

Among those five children, Trueman was the young master of the mysterious organization!

In terms of status, Trueman indeed seemed superior to the others, and on top of that, Caleb was also on good terms with him. Caleb had never tried to take the V16 for himself, yet he was stopping her at a time like this.

Nora looked at Caleb and sneered. “Mr. Gray, I have never cared about status and whatnot. The only people I hold in my heart are my family.”

After speaking, she shook off Caleb’s hand.

But just when she was about to inject the gene serum into Queenie, Caleb shouted again, “But you haven’t caught Trueman yet! Aren’t you afraid that he will fight Xander for the other gene serum after Queenie uses this one?!”

Nora looked at him suddenly. “What did you say?”

Caleb heaved a silent sigh. He suddenly walked up to Trueman, who was being held down, grabbed his suit jacket, and took out a voice changer from around his neck!

The moment he took out the voice changer, “Trueman” panicked. His voice instantly changed as he said, “Caleb, what are you doing? Are you going to betray Mr. Yale?”

“Betray Mr. Yale”..

Nora narrowed her eyes. She suddenly realized something. “You’re not Trueman?!”

This whole time, she’d had a nagging feeling that the trap she had set up this time had worked too smoothly. How come she had managed to capture both Barbarian and Trueman so easily?

As it turned out, this man was not Trueman!

The fake Trueman immediately sneered and said, “Of course, I am not Mr. Yale. There’s no way Mr. Yale would put himself in such a dangerous situation! But I didn’t expect you to actually betray Mr. Yale, Caleb!”

Caleb ignored him. Instead, he looked at Nora and said, “Trueman is not to be trifled with, Nora. Now that there are only two V16s left in the world, your best bet is to give one to Trueman and maintain friendly relations with the mysterious organization. If you give this gene serum to Queenie, what is your son going to do if Trueman takes the other one from you?”

Nora clenched her jaw. “I won’t let him!”

But Caleb took a deep breath and said, “Are you sure? Trueman is not as simple as you think. Think about it, despite having so many clashes with him thus far, has he really suffered any losses? His power is beyond your imagination!”

As soon as he said that, Queenie also pushed Nora’s hand away. “Nora, he is right. Although I wasn’t in the mysterious organization all these years, I have also heard that the mysterious organization’s new young master is a ruthless man who is even stronger than the previous leader. I can’t use this serum. Save it for Xander instead!”

Chapter 955 - Angering Trueman!

Chapter 955 Angering Trueman!

Nora looked at Queenie with certainty. “So, this is the true reason why you decided to sacrifice yourself, right?”

Queenie was taken aback.

After a while, she sighed silently. “You’ve figured it out again.”

Previously, Yvette had hidden the truth from Queenie and helped her survive in the beginning. After the last twenty years or so, she actually didn’t seek death that much anymore.

While she did mean all the things she did and said previously, and was also going along with what Nora wanted, in truth, it was Trueman whom Queenie was really worried about.

Barbarian might be powerful, but he was ultimately still just a fighter who lacked intelligence.

Trueman was the real threat!

The mysterious organization was in possession of all the gene serums from V1 to V15-in other words, it was just a matter of time before the mysterious organization created a second Barbarian!

Therefore, when Nora obtained two doses of the gene serum but could not use it on Xander immediately, Queenie didn’t dare to have designs on the other one anymore.

She wanted to leave the second one to Xander, in case of an emergency.

By bringing fake serums with her this time, firstly, she was leaving herself no way out. Secondly, she was afraid that she would not be able to outwit

Trueman. Should she really end up being caught by the other party, if Nora had the serum that Trueman needed, then she could at least still negotiate with him.

The best solution that Queenie could think of was blowing up both Trueman and Barbarian with herself.

If it failed, then at least there would still be two doses of the gene serum- one for Trueman, and one for Xander. It was not that she didn't want to live; rather, she couldn't! She dared not!

She didn't dare to risk provoking Trueman by using the gene serum, thereby leading to him taking the remaining one. If so, there wouldn't be any left for Xander anymore! When Queenie saw how sharp and perceptive Nora was to realize her true intentions so quickly, she sighed and pushed her hand away. She said, "Nora, since you already know everything, then you should act with even more caution. I can't use the serum. I..."

Queenie was about to continue speaking when she suddenly felt a burst of pain, causing her to curl into a fetal position-it was the backlash from the last gene serum she had received, the V15.

She was close to dying!

Even so, with her other hand, Queenie held on tightly to Nora's hand that was about to inject the serum into her. "I... won't... take... it... Let... me... die..."

Everyone present stared nervously at Nora.

Caleb said, "Think about it carefully, Nora!"

But the masked Justin, who was standing behind Nora, suddenly said, "Don't be afraid, Nora. I am here."

After speaking, he reached out and patted Nora on the shoulder.

His palm was very warm and calming, as though he could resolve anything, no matter how huge a problem Nora caused. Nora's heart settled.

She lowered her eyes and heaved a quiet sigh. “Okay, I won’t use it on you.” Queenie breathed a sigh of relief.

Caleb also breathed a sigh of relief.

Even the fake Trueman was relieved.

But the next moment, the very instant Queenie let go of Nora’s hand, Nora abruptly inserted the needle into her arm and quickly pushed down on the syringe!

Queenie was in so much pain already that she merely felt as if an ant had bitten her shoulder, so she hadn’t realized anything yet... It was Caleb who recovered first. He stepped forward abruptly to stop Nora. “Nora!”

But a big and tall figure blocked his way.

Caleb looked up at the masked King and stared at him. “You...”

“Don’t bother her.”

Justin’s voice was very calm and steady. His eyes swept across everyone present, making them shudder.

It only took a few moments to finish the injection.

During the brief interruption, the V16 was fully injected into Queenie.

Her pain gradually began to subside, and she also seemed to undergo some changes.

no

Queenie’s facial features looked even younger now. Despite looking very sick just now, she was positively glowing with radiance now. Even the pain from the backlash had disappeared in an instant, easing the frown on her countenance.

She squatted on the ground in a daze as she sensed the changes in her body in disbelief.

Seeing her like this, Nora stretched out her hand to check her pulse. “Aunt Queenie, I would never let Xander take the serum until I confirm its efficacy. You don’t have to feel any psychological burden. I’m only giving you the serum as an experiment.”

Despite her saying that, Queenie was no fool.

She naturally understood that Nora was just saying that because she didn’t want her to feel guilty, especially because... once Trueman realized that she had taken the gene serum and that there was only one dose left in the world, the repercussions from Trueman would definitely be humongous.

Nora checked Queenie’s pulse cautiously. She found that the pulse of the woman, who was so weak just a moment ago that her pulse was nearly non-existent, had regained its strength.

She asked, “How do you feel, Aunt Queenie?”

Queenie took in the sensations in her body and slowly replied, “I’ve become even more sensitive to sounds, and it seems like I can hear sounds of an even wider range of frequencies now. My body feels very relaxed and comfortable...”

Queenie’s physical condition was completely normal!!

This showed that there was no problem with the V16s that her mother had left.

Nora breathed a sigh of relief for Queenie and Xander.

After all, the V16s were more than twenty years old. Who could guarantee their efficacy?

Nora helped Queenie up and looked at her intently. “Let’s get in the car.”

Queenie nodded.

Barbarian was already dead. Though this “Trueman” was fake, Nora nevertheless still handed over the mysterious organization members to Brenda. Then, together with Justin, she took Queenie home. Caleb sighed silently and said nothing. The limping man left them and went back to the hospital for medical treatment.

Before the fake Trueman was taken away, he shouted, “Just you wait, Nora Smith! Mr. Yale will never let you off! Wait for it! He will come for you very soon!”

Of course Nora knew that Trueman would never give up. It was just that she didn’t think Trueman’s retaliation would come so quickly or directly.

On the way home, she received a call from Trueman. Trueman’s voice was harsh and arrogant as he clamored. “Seems like you want to do this the hard way huh, Nora! Do you think that all your problems are solved because you now have King on your side? You are wrong! Who do you think could be behind an entity as powerful as the mysterious organization? The previous King of the UK? Is he so powerful that all countries in the world would fear him? To think you’re colluding with King! Heh, you sure are penny-wise and pound-foolish! I don’t mind telling you the truth: the mysterious organization is none other than the Imperial League! Why do you think King is getting close to you? Ha! You’re so naive, it’s unbelievable!”

Nora glanced at Justin. “Oh? Then tell me, what is King’s objective in getting close to me?”

Chapter 956 - The Truth About The Imperial League!!

Chapter 956 The Truth About The Imperial League!!

Trueman sneered and said, “For the V16, of course! The mysterious organization was founded by the Imperial League. The mysterious organization’s ultimate objective is to decipher the human DNA and achieve eternal youth and immortality!” Nora didn’t believe him. “You don’t need to sow discord between us.”

But Trueman said, “Then how do you think the mysterious organization got their funds for the experiments when it has never involved itself in commerce? Did the money fall from the sky?”

The mysterious organization’s experiments were simply too big and expansive. Moreover, they hired so many professionals from various fields. Their daily expenses were huge. It was true that there was no way for them to support such huge expenses without strong financial resources.

Nora frowned.

Seeing that she was keeping quiet, Trueman slowly said, “Heh, I don’t mind telling you the truth-the mysterious organization was created by the Imperial League itself! Do you think King is a young man? He has already aged! He wants to live forever! He doesn’t want to die! He has also taken all those gene serums that were injected into me! They are just waiting for the V16 now!”

Aged?

Nora glanced at Justin again.

Justin stretched out his finger and put it against his lips, motioning to Nora not to reveal his identity.

Although Nora didn't understand what was going on, she continued to listen to Trueman.

“You don't believe me? Then I'll tell you this my father is none other than King! He fathered dozens of children back then to experiment with. I was the only one who survived. He also injected himself with the gene serums, so he's waiting for the V16 to save his own life! He is even scarier than me, yet you would rather trust him over me?” Nora: “??”

Justin was even more confused than she was.

When did he father a son who was already this old?

As the two looked at each other, Trueman sneered and said, “But... Heh, under my leadership, the mysterious organization has long since broken away from his control. Even if I get the V16, I won't give it to him! Because he is the devil! The devil himself! He's scum!”

Trueman became rather agitated. Toward the end, Trueman even said, “I'm not going to give him the V16 anymore. The 'King' with you now is definitely fake. I know the real King all too well. You'd best be careful and not let him fool

you!”

Then, Trueman grinned and added, “You're welcome.”

As soon as he said that, Trueman hung up.

After he hung up the phone, Nora finally looked at Justin and asked, “What's going on?” Justin took off his mask.

Everyone in the car at the moment was one of their own. Queenie had also found out Justin's true identity and was also looking at him curiously at the moment.

Justin sighed silently and replied, “The old King he mentioned is my maternal grandfather.”

Nora: “?”

Maternal grandfather?

Come to think of it, she had never met Iris’s family before.

But wasn’t Iris from an ordinary family? Nora remembered that her family had forced her to marry Justin’s father by threatening her with her sick mother...

When she thought of that, Nora suddenly thought of her own situation, and she suddenly realized something. She looked at Justin, upon which Justin, as expected, said, “My mom’s father was not an Evans. I only found out about this when I was fifteen years old. The Imperial League had suddenly approached me at that time.”

Justin would never forget that day.

At the age of fifteen, he hadn’t yet taken over the Hunt Corporation and was being suppressed by his uncle Raymond. He remembered everything very clearly.

That day, Raymond mocked him for being a penniless lad and ridiculed him by saying that without his parents, he didn’t have anything to his name at all. He had told him that, without the Hunts’ support, he was nothing but trash that didn’t have even a single cent.

At that time, the Hunt Corporation was being restructured. Raymond had used his connections to thwart his attempts at taking out loans from the bank. Without any start-up capital, he couldn’t do any of the projects he wanted to do.

He indeed couldn’t borrow even a single cent from the bank. He had left the house furiously at the time. But the next moment, King’s servant found him. The servant took him straight to the elderly King. King was indeed very old, he looked about eighty or ninety years old. He stared at Justin for a long time before he finally cast his eyes down and said, “Alright, you’re the one then.”

Justin didn't understand what he was talking about, but the servant said, "Sir said that you will inherit the mantle of King in the Imperial League."

Justin: "?"

After speaking, the servant took out a bank card and handed it to him. "This is your pocket money. Give it some thought, Master Hunt."

When Justin checked the balance on the bank card after the two had left, he found that there were several million dollars inside.

He was astounded.

No matter how rich the Hunts were, they weren't going to give a child millions of dollars as pocket money so casually. A few million dollars were enough to act as the company's entire working capital!

It was not until later when he took over the Imperial League that he realized just how rich this mysterious family was. A few million dollars were nothing more than just a drop in the bucket.

As Queenie listened to Justin's explanation, she asked curiously, "Was your mother unaware of this all this time?"

Justin nodded. "Yeah. Grandpa had passed away a long time ago, so I didn't tell Mom about it. She has always thought that she is a child of the Evanses. She has already cut off ties with her family for my sake, so the Evanses have also been behaving themselves all these years."

A curious Nora asked, "Why did the old King choose you?"

The mantle of 'King' was reserved for the leader of the Imperial League since its inception.

The code names in the alliance did not change. Some of them had already been around for hundreds of years. In the past, when cell phones didn't yet exist, they had used letters to transmit information to one another.

As such, the code names were passed down from generation to generation.

At the question, Justin stayed silent for a while before he finally said, “I was also very curious about it at that time. Moreover, everything went by in a flash after he chose me. The second time I saw that servant was when my grandfather passed away. He came to me with all of the Imperial League’s confidential documents and told me to take over the Imperial League.”

At that time, Justin was only 18 years old!

It was only when he later investigated the matter that he found that the old King did not have many children left in the world. Iris was his only surviving daughter.

Justin was also his one and only blood relative left in the world.

Because of this, Justin had even secretly reached out to his maternal grandmother, in other words, Iris’s mother.

His grandmother was already in poor health at that time, and she told him the truth on her deathbed.

As it turned out, his grandmother had been kidnapped in her youth. She, together with a group of beautiful women, had been imprisoned in a room, and a king-like man had kept them in captivity.

His grandmother found out that every time one of these women gave birth to a child, the child would be taken away never to be returned.

Thus, she looked for an opportunity to escape.

The pregnant women then married into the Evanses and gave birth to Iris...

“At that time, I even wondered, ‘Since the old King is so perverted and likes fathering children so much, how could he possibly not have more children?’ Where exactly did all those children go? But now, I finally know the answer.”

Justin said solemnly, “All of them had been sent away as experimental subjects for the genetic experiments.”

Nora frowned.

They were already conducting experiments during Iris’s generation?

It seemed that the gene serum’s research and development had started even earlier than she had anticipated!

Justin frowned and then said, “No wonder the old butler has been keeping one of the Imperial League’s ledgers from me all this time. Now that I think about it, the amount in that ledger must have gone to supporting the mysterious organization.”

He was puzzled. “It’s just that... I thought all of his sons were dead, but if Trueman is still alive, why did he choose me as his heir?”

Nora said slowly, “I may know the reason for that.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 957 - The Neglected Truth

Chapter 957 The Neglected Truth

Justin looked at her.

Nora was silent for a moment before sighing silently. “It should be because you’re a normal person.”

How ironic.

The old man had been pursuing immortality his entire life and had created the mysterious organization to develop the gene serum. However, the research could not be completed successfully in the end. He did not dare to hand such a big empire like the Imperial League to his only son, Trueman.

All his children had died in the gene serum experiments, so he did not have absolute trust in Trueman.

Instead, Justin became his last heir.

Justin also understood this logic.

If he had handed the Imperial League to Trueman, would that old man really have been at ease? No...

At this moment, he finally understood something. “I’ve been investigating who had schemed against us back then. You and I are not people who can be easily schemed against. What went wrong... If Trueman is Old King’s son and the mysterious organization is a part of the Imperial League, then everything makes sense!”

When Nora had become pregnant, the surveillance cameras in the house showed nothing out of the ordinary.

Nora had been drugged and neglected. After all, she had been in the Smiths for so many years. As a fatty, she had never thought that anyone would covet her body...

Justin was also not someone who could be easily schemed against!

Especially at that time, he had already taken over the Imperial League and the Hunt Corporation. He was powerful, but what if the people in the Imperial League were in cahoots with Trueman?

No, that doesn't add up...

After all, Trueman did not know that Justin had taken over the Imperial League. It should be said that it was Old King's old butler who had schemed with Trueman! That old butler was the one who had approached Justin.

Justin planned to investigate the details carefully when he returned.

Someone like this, who had been left behind by Old King and was not loyal to Justin, should be eliminated!

A hint of ruthlessness appeared in Justin's eyes.

Fortunately, Nora was the one chosen for Justin back then. Otherwise, if it were someone else, having a child with a woman he did not like... Justin was not sure if he could accept it!

When Justin thought of this, he did not say anything else.

Nora did not probe further about the pregnancy back then. When Justin investigated everything, he would definitely tell her the truth.

The three of them returned to Queenie's manor.

When John and Royce from the NTT saw Queenie, the two of them revealed happy expressions.

The two old men past their primes stood up at the same time and said to Queenie, “Queenie, welcome home.”

Home...

Queenie knew that from that day onwards, this would really be her home.

The three of them entered together. Queenie suddenly looked at Nora and asked, “When did you realize that I was Listener?”

Nora smiled. “When I was talking with Ian on the phone, you correctly guessed that he was the one on the call. I already had my suspicions at that time. Later on, I got someone to investigate the pianist and realized that she was just a cover for you.”

Queenie nodded. “I also wanted to get rid of this identity. With a pianist in front of the public, no one would think of looking toward me.”

Nora then said, “You guys are really... Spacey also made a fake identity to confuse others. You’re the same, but you went a step further and even got a fake cancer report. You scared Royce quite badly. You almost fooled me too.”

With that, Queenie stopped in her tracks.

After a while, she said, not knowing whether to laugh or cry, “Do you really think I faked the cancer report?” Nora: “?”

She was slightly stunned.

Queenie shook her head and said, “After injecting V15, if we don’t get the V16 in time, the cells start mutation. Some of these cells start devouring the body. These cells look very similar to cancer cells under the microscope, which is why it was diagnosed as cancer by the doctor.”

Nora was stunned. “In that case, you’re fine?”

“Yes, after injecting V16, those cells will slowly disappear. In the future, other than some changes in my genes, my body will be no different than that of a normal person!”

Nora nodded.

Something suddenly flashed across her mind...

She felt that she had neglected something important, but she could not remember it immediately.

Queenie looked at her and asked, “What’s wrong?” Nora shook her head. “It’s nothing. It’s just that I realized I have neglected something. I suddenly thought of it...”

As soon as she finished speaking, Nora stood still and thought about her conversation with Queenie from the beginning to the end. Her eyes widened suddenly.

The neglected truth suddenly surfaced!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 958 - Trueman'S Bottom Line

Chapter 958 Trueman's Bottom Line

Nora looked at Justin and was about to say something when Cherry and Pete ran out of the room.

The two of them came out and saw Queenie first. They rushed forward and hugged Queenie's leg. Cherry's small voice was filled with tears. "Where have you been? Don't you want me anymore? They said that something had happened to you. I was so worried!"

After experiencing such deadly events, when Queenie returned to the house and saw Royce and John, she felt a sense of closeness. However, when she saw Cherry, whom she had cared for since she was young, an indescribable fear suddenly surged in her heart.

If she really died, she would never see Cherry again.

Queenie hugged her and her eyes instantly turned red. "Don't worry. I won't leave you again!"

Cherry nodded and grabbed her hand tightly. "You have to keep your word!"

"Okay."

Pete and Queenie did not have a deep relationship, but after being together the past two days, the little guy was also very worried about Queenie. He sized her up carefully from top to bottom and only nodded when he saw that she was safe and sound.

When Nora saw the two children, she looked back in confusion. "Where's Xander?"

“He said he’s tired. He’s sleeping!”

Cherry did not think too much about it. “Xander has been sleeping a lot these past few days!”

Pete was really worried. “Mommy, go see him. Is he sick again?”

Last time, when Xander fainted after being injected with the V15, Pete realized that something was wrong with Xander’s health. Although he did not know the entire story, he was still worried about his health.

Although he and Xander were competitors and were working hard to obtain Cherry’s love, Pete would not fuss about it with Xander!

Hearing Pete’s words, Nora nodded. She exited the room and walked upstairs. She pushed open Xander’s door and saw a small lump on the bed. She walked over and coughed. “Xander, I came to see you.”

Xander was different from the other two children. Xander had a sensitive character, and he was a boy. Therefore, whenever Nora approached him, she would notify him in advance.

However, Xander did not sit up as usual. Instead, he continued to lie there. Nora’s heart sank. Could it be that Xander was really very sick?

She quickly walked to the bed and lifted the blanket. However, she realized that there was no one on the bed at all. The blanket was only empty. Xander was not here at all!

Nora was taken aback.

Then, her phone suddenly rang. She picked it up and Trueman’s voice came from the other end. “Why do you think I raised Xander? Do you think the relationship between Xander and me over the past five years was just an act?” “Nora, Barbarian and the mysterious organization were not my greatest trump cards. My greatest trump card is Xander.” Nora suddenly clenched her fists. “Xander won’t betray me!”

After being with the child for so long, Nora knew Xander's character very well.

Although he looked awkward and shouted about fighting and killing, he was actually very kind. Otherwise, he would not have tried to save all those small animals.

Xander had true feelings for her and Justin!

Trueman smiled. "Yes, he has always been a child with love. Over the years, I haven't made him heartless. So what would he do when he hears that only V16 can treat his father's illness?"

What...

Nora suddenly realized something. She rushed to Queenie's bedroom and saw that the box with the V16 was empty. The V16 inside was gone!!!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 959 - Don'T Bring Anyone!

Chapter 959 Don't Bring Anyone!

“What’s wrong?”

Queenie and Justin were playing with Cherry and Pete when they saw Nora walking out of Xander’s room in a panic and rushing over to Queenie’s bedroom, so they hurriedly ran over and asked.

Queenie immediately noticed that the refrigerator with the V16, which was supposed to be hidden in a secret place, was gone. Suddenly realizing something, she frowned and asked, “Where’s the other V16?”

In order to safe-keep the two V16s with them, Queenie had placed both of them there.

In the end, Nora, who had set up everything, had taken one and left the other behind. However, the one that had been left behind was now missing!

Queenie suddenly realized something and she immediately shouted, “There is a thief among us! John! Check who entered my bedroom today...”

“There’s no need to check.”

Nora stretched out her arm and stopped Queenie. A hint of remorse flashed in her eyes as she said, “It’s Xander.”

Queenie was shocked. “Xander?”

Nora nodded.

Guilt filled Nora.

Ever since Xander returned to them, knowing that the child hadn't had his parents with him since birth and, as a result, was very sensitive, she hadn't dared to bring up Trueman much in front of him.

As Xander had grown up under Trueman's care, a large part of his mindset and moral compass was misguided.

Even though he had a good heart, it was inevitable that he would still be affected to some extent. However, neither Nora nor Justin had been in a hurry to do something about it; after all, these things weren't something that could be corrected so quickly.

They had to be more patient with Xander.

But following that, Justin had faked his death and escaped to secretly investigate the mysterious organization while Nora had been busy facing Trueman and Barbarian. Looking back at it carefully, since Xander's return, she and Justin had not fulfilled their duty as his parents at all.

For the sake of obtaining the V16, and for the sake of saving his life, they had overlooked the most crucial thing they should have done: spending time with him.

Her eyes reddened.

It was at this moment that Trueman's voice came from the phone again.

"Nora, have you won?"

Won?

Nora had set up an elaborate plan, defeated Barbarian, and caught Spacey; but in the end, she was still tricked by Trueman. She hadn't thought that Trueman would use Xander like this!

She took a deep breath. Trueman's voice suddenly became sharp as he said, "I told you not to give the V16 to Queenie, yet you simply had to! Now that there is only one V16 left, what are you going to do?"

What was she going to do... Nora clenched her fists. “What do you want?”

Trueman had already obtained the V16. In fact, Xander was even in his hands at the moment. He could have just injected himself with the V16 immediately instead of calling her and provoking her over and over again.

Trueman must want something.

When she was thinking about it, Trueman said, “I want you—and you alone—to do as I say now. My little servant, you’re going to meet us very soon. I should think that Xander would also be very happy to hear this, no?”

As soon as he said that, Xander’s voice rang out. “Mommy, don’t come! Daddy won’t hurt me!”

But he had only just spoken halfway when Trueman covered his mouth. “Mm...!” Nora hurriedly said, “Okay, I will do everything you say!”

“Get in the car outside your house now.”

The car outside her house...

Nora turned around abruptly and started walking to the door without hesitation. She had only taken two steps when she sensed someone following her at the back. Before Nora could even say anything, Trueman laughed and said, “I definitely won’t give you the V16, but if you don’t want anything to happen to Xander, then I hope you can refrain from bringing anyone with you. Anyone at all, do you understand?”

Chapter 960 - Husband And Wife Join Forces!

Chapter 960 Husband And Wife Join Forces!

Upon hearing this, Nora stopped and looked behind her at Justin, who was following after her. She said very solemnly, “Don’t follow me. I have to go alone. None of you are to follow me!”

She couldn’t risk putting Xander’s life in danger at a time like this!

Besides, she was Black Cat... There was probably nobody in this world who was better at escaping than her. Even if she was caught by Trueman, she would not be in mortal danger.

Justin looked into the woman’s eyes.

Her docile and obedient almond-shaped eyes which should have looked charming and timid were filled with determination in this instant.

Justin knew that the woman he loved was no fragile flower who could only depend on men.

He nodded.

Nora looked at him intently. After a while, she finally said, “Don’t worry, I will bring Xander back safely.”

After saying that, Nora strode off resolutely.

Justin stayed where he was.

His lips parted slightly as he murmured, “Okay, I’ll wait for the two of you to return.”

Seeing Nora leave, Cherry and Pete finally realized that something was wrong, especially since Pete was so sharp and keen. He looked straight at Justin and asked, “Daddy, what’s wrong? Is Xander in danger? Where is Mommy going?”

Justin squatted down and held the children with one arm each. His voice was steady as he said, “Everything’s fine. Mommy is going to pick up Xander and bring him home.” Cherry and Pete, who had been in a panic, finally calmed down after hearing this. Queenie looked at Justin. “You... Are you really not going after her?”

Justin nodded. “I believe in Nora. Besides, there are other things that I need to take care of.”

Queenie was taken aback.

Justin got up. He lowered his head, picked up his cell phone, and immediately made a call. “Investigate everything within the Imperial league that’s related to the mysterious organization and then... clear them all out!”

There was faint anger in his voice as he added, “Don’t leave even a single one of them!”

Why was Trueman so powerful?

Because he was relying on the Imperial League!

If the Imperial League could find out the identities of all the members of the mysterious organization and cut off all of their sources of income, then Trueman, who would be left with neither manpower nor money, would no longer pose a threat to Nora!

It was dangerous for Nora to face Trueman head-on.

How would Justin possibly just sit by idly and do nothing? He would defeat Trueman and clear all the obstacles for Nora!

—

When Nora walked out of the villa door, sure enough, she spotted a car parked outside.

After she got into the car and started the engine, Trueman said over the phone, “Throw out your cell phone and call me with the cell phone I’ve left for you, instead.”

Nora turned her head to the side and saw an old-fashioned cell phone on the passenger seat. It was an extremely primitive type of cell phone that could probably only be used for calling and not even for text messaging. Without hesitation, she threw away her cell phone.

The primitive cell phone then started ringing. When she answered it, Trueman’s voice came from the opposite end. “Go to 28 Vail Street.”

Nora started the car and went to 28 Vail Street.

As soon as she arrived, the cell phone rang again. When she answered, Trueman said, “My little servant sure is obedient- Do you see the No. 848 bus? Get on it.”

As soon as he finished speaking, the No. 848 bus reached the bus stop in front of her. She glanced back at the surveillance cameras on the road and then got on the bus immediately.

Chapter 961 - 1 Finally Meeting Trueman!!

Chapter 961 Finally Meeting Trueman!!

The phone call went silent. Trueman did not hang up. He smiled on the other end and said, “Little servant, I’ve finally made you obedient. Hahaha, Xander really is my good son. He made you so obedient.”

Nora sat on the bus very calmly. “Can you let me talk to Xander for a while?”

She knew that Trueman liked her being obedient, so her tone was very tactful.

Indeed, this attitude pleased Trueman. He smiled. “Of course.”

Then, Nora heard a sobbing voice on the other end. “...”

Xander’s silence filled the phone. He seemed to not know what to say. Nora’s heart clenched slightly. She slowly said, “Xander...”

Her words made Xander choke even harder as he cried, “Mommy, I’m sorry!” Nora quickly comforted him. “You don’t have to apologize. There’s no need to be sorry. I’m the one who let you down. I gave birth to you, but I didn’t even know of your existence. I let you live in hell for so many years. Xander, you’re the child I feel most guilty towards.”

Xander was definitely shocked, angry, and guilty.

The child was very kind. He knew that his stupidity had put his mother in danger. Xander said, “Mommy, don’t worry about me. Daddy won’t do anything to me. He has always been very good to me...”

Over the years, although Xander had lived in the basement, it was obvious from how Xander had dared to rebut Ruth that his status in the mysterious organization was still very high.

At least Trueman had not abused him.

When Xander said this, before Nora could say anything, Trueman's sharp voice said with a hint of evilness, "That's not necessarily true~ My good son, I treated you well previously only to get you to bring me the gene serum. Now, the V16 is in my hands. If your mommy doesn't do as I say, then I can't guarantee what I'll do to you. Of course, beating you up is impossible. At most, I'll starve you. I think it won't be good if you don't eat for three days, right?" Nora's voice suddenly sank. "Trueman, if you dare to touch even a hair on my son's head, I'll make you die a horrible death!"

Nora rarely said such ruthless words.

She was usually very low-key and tolerant. She was also very indifferent to others, but at this moment, she was really angry. However, Trueman did not back down just because she was angry. He smiled and said, "Little servant, is this the attitude you should have when talking to your master?"

Nora bit her lips.

After a while, she said, "... Please."

"Heh, this is simply too enjoyable!" Trueman laughed out loud. "Your mother Yvette was a stubborn person. The mysterious organization couldn't do anything to her. For so many years, they could only set traps and slowly wait for the V16 to fall in their laps. Compared to your mother, you're really better. You refused to admit defeat so many times... Little servant, if you knew this would happen, why did you do this in the first place? If you had submitted to the mysterious organization and me from the beginning, wouldn't Xander and I each have had one of the two serums now? As for Listener and whoever, they weren't worthy!"

Nora remained silent and did not argue.

Xander was in Trueman's hands, so she had to tread carefully. She asked, "Where do you want me to go? Where are you? If I come looking for you, you'd definitely want to see me submit to you, right?"

"Ha, little servant, you're already good at guessing your master's thoughts, Not bad, keep going like this! This is how you read my mind!"

Nora: "... Your voice still hasn't improved." "It's okay. When we meet, I'll allow you to teach me. Now, get out of the bus."

Nora: "?"

She was stunned. She looked at the still moving bus and said in surprise, "I haven't reached the bus stop." The bus would not halt until it reached the stop.

Trueman smiled. "As the Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts, this shouldn't make things difficult for you, right?"

Nora took a deep breath and suddenly stood up. Sitting beside her was a tall man. When he saw her stand up, he was a little stunned. He reminded her, "We haven't reached the stop

yet."

Nora ignored him and opened the window.

The next moment, she held her hands up and her entire body slipped out the window.

Thud!

After landing, Nora rolled away to reduce her momentum. She immediately stood up neatly and looked around, causing everyone on the bus to stare at her in amusement.

"Martial arts!"

"How awesome!"

“So strong!”

1111

After showing off her skills, Nora did not have any time to listen to these people’s praise. She walked away as per the instructions on the phone.

Not far away, a black car was parked.

Nora jumped into the car and started it. The bus went to the northwest while she drove to the northeast.

Trueman was preventing others from following behind her. When she got on the bus, the best way was to wait at the next stop. However, who would have thought that Trueman would ask Nora to jump out of a moving bus?

Nora was driving, but her phone was still on the line. Trueman smiled. “Little servant, you’re really capable. I’m so relieved. Hahahaha...”

Nora looked at the sea in the distance. She narrowed her eyes and suddenly said, “You want me to board a ship?”

“Yes.”

Trueman laughed. “As long as we go to the open sea, it’ll be difficult for anyone to find us. Not even King! Hahaha, Old King deserves to die. I’ll crush all his hopes for eternal life and watch him die!”

Trueman’s voice was filled with arrogance.

Nora narrowed her almond-shaped eyes and bit her lips.

Half an hour later, Nora could already smell the seawater. She watched helplessly as the coastline slowly came into her view. She knew that if she could not find Trueman at this time and really went on a ship with him to the open sea, she would completely be in Trueman’s hands!

Nora became a little anxious.

At this moment, there was a knock on the phone. Someone should have entered Trueman's room. The person whispered, "Young Master, bad news! Something has happened to our ship!"

Trueman was stunned. "What happened?" The person said anxiously, "Our ship has been detained." Trueman said angrily, "Then look for another. As long as you pay well, I don't believe you can't find another ship in a short time!"

The other party stammered and finally sighed. "Young Master, all our funds have been frozen. I just realized that all our bank accounts have been locked! It must be... It's King! He cut off all our funds!"

Trueman instantly became irritable. He stood up and kicked something away. He muttered softly and cursed, "Trash! You're all trash. A bunch of trash!"

When Nora heard this, she lowered her eyes and suddenly asked, "Trueman, you don't have any money anymore, right? I can give you a choice. Give me Xander. I won't snatch the V16 from you. I'll think of a way to save Xander myself! Leave him behind. I can give you a large sum of money and let you live happily for the rest of your life!"

Without the support of the Imperial League, Trueman was like a general without soldiers. It was impossible to recover lost land.

The V16... Nora did not want it anymore.

This was because Trueman was definitely smart enough to inject himself the moment he got the V16, right?

She only wanted Xander!

She wanted to protect Xander. Even if she could not develop a V16 herself, she wanted to accompany Xander in his little remaining life.

She could not let the child be so afraid.

At the very least, she had to be by Xander's side in his final moments.

However, after she finished speaking, Trueman suddenly sneered. “Nora, you’re thinking too much! Haha, I won’t give you Xander. If you want him, come to me! Be my servant for the rest of your life!”

After saying this, he ordered, “Turn the car south. We’ll meet there!”

Nora knew that Trueman had already gone crazy.

This person was simply crazy.

She gritted her teeth and turned the car. Justin had sent people to look for her throughout the city, but she had already changed cars a few times on the way and changed directions several times too. Under Trueman’s instructions, she had already thrown off those people who had chased after her farther and farther away!

Soon, Nora arrived at an abandoned factory.

She stopped the car and saw a familiar figure standing in front.

When she got out of the car, Caleb walked over with an anxious expression and grabbed her hand. “Nora, what’s going on? Why did Trueman say he captured Xander? He even asked me to bring you to him!”

Looking at the person in front of her, Nora stared at him deeply with her almond-shaped eyes and did not speak.

Caleb sensed that something was wrong with her and said anxiously, “Don’t be anxious. No matter what, I’ll save Xander! Don’t worry!”

However, Nora took a step back and avoided his pull. She looked at Caleb fixedly and said word by word, “There’s no need to pretend.”

Caleb was stunned. “Nora, what are you talking about? I don’t understand. You…”

The rest of his words were stuck in his throat.

Because the next moment, Nora called him, “Trueman.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 962 - 2 The Truth!!!

Time seemed to have stopped at this moment.

Caleb looked at her in shock, his expression gradually cracking. He was extremely shocked, clearly not expecting her to see through his secret. He wanted to say something, but the next moment, he suddenly reached out and took off his glasses.

Caleb had always been the relatively thin and refined type. He looked gentle and made people feel like they were bathing in the spring breeze, but after he took off his glasses, his entire personality became sharp. The smile on his lips slowly faded and he looked fierce and indescribable.

He grinned. Even his voice and tone changed. “Hehe, hehe...”

He suppressed his smile. After laughing, he looked up again, his eyes already becoming ostentatious and teasing. “Little servant, you’re really smart-“

His voice was sharp, as if it was suppressed in his throat, and also like Caleb’s deliberately fake voice.

Nora felt like Caleb had become a different person. She frowned and asked anxiously, “Where’s Xander?”

Caleb... No, it should be said that Trueman was grinning, revealing his two canine teeth. “Call me Master first, and I’ll bring you to see him...”

ee

Nora looked at him coldly.

Trueman’s expression changed. “What do you mean? You’re not going to say it? Hehe, then I’ll call now and ask someone to beat up Little Xander!”

With that, Trueman took out the walkie-talkie. He was about to speak when Nora's eyes narrowed. She took a step forward. "I'll do it!"

This pervert!

She really did not know what kind of fetish this was.

Nora had called him 'Master' when she texted previously, but at this moment, he had the upper hand. It was another humiliation, being forced to do it.

She found it a little difficult to say.

At this moment, Trueman suddenly seemed to be unable to control his body. He put on the glasses in his hand and his aura changed again as if he had become Caleb. "Trueman, don't go overboard!"

With that, he took off his glasses and became Trueman again. "Why? Do you feel sorry for her? Hehe, Caleb, why didn't you feel sorry for me when you betrayed me?"

He put on his glasses again and changed back into Caleb. "Trueman, that's enough! You've already gotten the V16. Return the child to her. Don't make things difficult for her!"

Trueman said, "Tsk, tsk. Your heart aches just like that? I won't! How can I give up such a fun toy so easily? Hehe."

"Trueman, don't go overboard! Otherwise, I'll hurt this body!"

"You're really crazy. You're crazy for this woman!"

Nora looked at Caleb in front of her in shock. He took off his glasses one moment and wore them the next. It was as if Trueman was sealed inside that pair of glasses.

It was only after a while that she reacted.

Caleb had a split personality!!

One personality was Caleb, and the other was Trueman!

She thought of everything that had happened previously and realized that Caleb and Trueman were one person. But from the looks of it, there were really two people inside. After all, every independent personality was a separate person.

“Trueman, no matter what, I won’t allow you to hurt them!”

“Tsk, then make her obedient.”

“Let me talk to her first!” “Alright, I’ll give you five minutes. I want an obedient servant.”

With that, Trueman put on his glasses and became Caleb again.

Seeing that he finally stopped changing back and forth, Nora looked at Caleb in shock and asked, “You’re...” Caleb wore his glasses and touched his forehead. After a while, he said, “I’m sorry. I, I’ve always lied to you, but you’ve seen it too. I can’t control him.”

Nora frowned. “Which identity is real between the two? You or him?”

Every person with a split personality would have a primary and a secondary identity. Caleb hesitated for a moment before saying, “It’s me.”

He looked ahead in a daze. “After I was injected with the drug in the basement, I became afraid of the darkness. Somewhere along the line, he was born. He was braver than me, more ruthless than me, and more adept in that life than me. He could watch helplessly as his siblings died without doing anything while I would be sad. It can be said that he is my dark side.”

Caleb sighed. “It’s not the time to say this. Nora, listen to Trueman obediently. He has controlled this body longer than I have. Now, if you have any questions, ask me directly. I promise to tell you everything.” Nora looked at him fixedly and asked, “Back then, what happened to the three children? Who told Justin about Pete’s existence?”

Caleb sighed. “I did.”

Caleb lowered his eyes and clenched his fists. “I’ve never lied to you. I really hate the mysterious organization. I want to destroy them. This has been my wish since I was young. Your mother was very kind to me back then. I was about to die, it was your mother who had saved me.”

Nora was taken aback.

Caleb spoke again, “Although I had two personalities at that time, after taking the V3 gene serum, the rejection was obvious. Like my other siblings, I knew that I was about to die. At that time, your mother came to the basement and saw everything. She went almost crazy at that time and berated the mysterious organization for conducting human experiments. At that time, many children were facing death. Your mother treated a few of those children and took good care of them... In the end, the five of us who survived received your mother’s kindness. However, I was the one who was there at that time. Trueman really did not know, he only had evil in him. The sole purpose of his existence was to survive. Later, your mother betrayed the mysterious organization and said that she had not developed the V16. After escaping the mysterious organization, my father, Old King, put your mother on the wanted list worldwide...”

At that time, Yvette had already realized that the mysterious organization’s head was King, right?

Therefore, after returning to the country, she knew that no one would be able to resist King. She decisively left Ian and escaped to a small town.

However, she was still found in the end.

Yvette could only make a deal with King, or rather, Trueman. She had killed herself and escaped their clutches. Only when her daughter lived to 24 years old would there be clues to the V16!

Caleb apologized. “Caleb Gray is my other identity. Back then, my mother had actually married into the Grays first. Later on, King forced her to have me. Therefore, although I’m King’s child, I’m indeed a member of the Grays...”

He looked at Nora. “I don’t want to be Trueman. I don’t want anything to do with the Yale name. I just want to be Caleb Gray.” Caleb lowered his head. “Back then, King arranged for Justin to have a child with you. After that, he replaced all the surveillance cameras in your house and buried all clues to the child’s father. Then...”

He sighed. “When I came to look for you, you fainted as you gave birth to your first child. Trueman found a way to get it out in secret. He did it to raise your child. He injected him with gene serums and planned to force you to look for the clues to V16 yourself in the future. Trueman only needed one child. After he left, you gave birth to a second child. Henry threw the child away... I followed the security guard and arrived in the suburbs. He was your son after all. I really couldn’t bear it, so I called Justin and used a voice changer...”

Nora looked at him. “Thank you for saving Pete.”

Caleb was silent for a moment before his lips moved. “I definitely won’t watch him die because he’s your son. You’ll definitely be sad if he dies. I don’t want you to be sad.”

Caleb immediately shut his mouth.

He seemed to have realized that he had said too much and was afraid that his words would put more pressure on Nora. He turned his head and looked elsewhere. He did not dare to look her in the eyes and quickly changed the topic. “When did you realize that I’m Trueman?”

Chapter 963 - The Truth (2)

Nora sighed quietly. "I've had my doubts all along. I already had my suspicions when I first tried to capture Trueman."

Caleb was stunned. Nora lowered her eyes. "When we were trying to capture Trueman that time, I found the hotel where he was staying, but you were the one who walked out of it instead... Later, when we tried to capture Trueman a second time, he escaped and you were caught by the special department, instead. Now that I think about it, you must have allowed them to catch you on purpose, right?" Caleb nodded. "Yes, I wanted to work with the special department so that I would be able to destroy the mysterious organization."

Nora fell silent for a moment. Then, she said, "I was very puzzled at that time. All our arrangements were appropriate and in place, so how on earth had Trueman escaped? During that time, I had even monitored all inbound and outbound activity at immigration, but there wasn't any news of Trueman leaving the country at all. He seemed so mysterious and powerful that he could come and go as he pleased, but I have never believed that anyone in this world can completely avoid leaving traces of their existence as if they have never existed."

Caleb sighed. "I didn't expect you to have become suspicious of me so early."

"At that time, I was just distrustful and a little wary of you, but it didn't occur to me that you may be Trueman. After all, when you were detained in the special department, I was conversing with Trueman the whole time. This dispelled my suspicions. What really made me suspicious of you was when you were unwell and hospitalized some time back... I came to visit you and the nurse taking care of you said that you were scalded by hot water... But if your gene modification was of heat resistance, how could you be scalded? In that case, there could only be one reason you were lying. Your heat resistance abilities haven't been modified at all... But five children had survived in the laboratory back then, and this was something that all five of you knew... It only occurred to me later that even though all five of you know about one another's existence, it may be possible that apart from you, the rest were completely unaware of the others' identities."

Caleb nodded. "You have guessed everything correctly."

He lowered his eyes and explained, "When I went to the special department back then, I did allow myself to be caught on purpose. To avoid anyone from recognizing me as Trueman, people kept impersonating me the entire time. My subordinates were also trying to protect me at that time. After all, even though it's the gene serum that makes it seem like I have lung cancer, the coughing is real. Taking medicine eases my discomfort and relieves the pain... Cough, cough..."

At this point, Caleb covered his mouth again and started coughing.

Nora waited for a long while before Caleb finally stopped coughing. He said, "After escaping from the mysterious organization back then, the person whose heat-resistant genes were improved only wanted to be an ordinary person, even if it meant that he could only live until he was thirty years old. He begged me to help him hide his identity. I happened to be in need of a public persona, so I agreed to it. He lives a very peaceful life now, and he doesn't want to be disturbed by the outside world. He also leads a very innocent life... so I don't want to tell you who he is..."

Nora pressed her lips together. "He's Professor Epton, right?"

As soon as she said that, Caleb looked at her in astonishment and subconsciously asked, "How did you know?"

Nora replied, "When Barbarian was holding him hostage and asked him about the gene serum, he had answered immediately. But during all that time when I was at Staav University, I hadn't heard about the gene serum from any of the other professors at all. It was obvious that the matter was not widely publicized; only people who held great interest in it would know about it. Moreover, Barbarian didn't know who he was at the time. After pushing him into the laboratory and setting it on fire, everyone who went in to rescue him, including my classmates, was injured, yet he wasn't. That's when I first became suspicious of Professor Epton..."

Caleb: "..."

Nora nodded. "Yup, he leads a very innocent life indeed."

Professor Epton certainly led an innocent life, didn't he? He devoted his life to gene serum research, and his only goal was to surpass Anti! When she thought about that man who regarded her as his imaginary enemy, Nora shook her head wryly. "I won't do anything to him."

"... Okay."

Caleb replied again before he let out a quiet sigh and remarked, "You really are very smart."

"No, I'm not smart enough. If I were really that smart... Back then, you told me not to trust anyone so easily, and I never once suspected you... Even if I had doubts about everyone, the fact that you and Trueman had indeed appeared at the same time was already enough to dispel my suspicions. It was only when I connected the dots about Aunt Queenie that the fake Trueman gave me a new perspective..."

After Nora explained all this clearly, she looked at Caleb again. "But none of this is important anymore. What matters now is... I want to know what you're planning. Also, does Trueman know what you're thinking?"

Caleb looked at her and lowered his eyes. "He doesn't."

Caleb rubbed his temples, seemingly having a headache. "We only switch back and forth frequently when I want to talk to him or vice versa. We both have control over this body, but he is getting stronger and stronger, so he is already gradually replacing me... Nora, I will tell you my plans now. I hope you can go with him. Don't worry about where exactly he is taking you for now. As far as I know, he doesn't hold much ill will toward you; he just sees you as a toy. He likes taming people and your stubbornness challenges his authority. Spend some time with him while I take the opportunity to find out where he has hidden the V16...”

Nora was astonished. “Trueman didn’t inject the V16 into himself right away when he obtained it?”

Caleb looked at her. “I stopped him from doing SO.”

Nora was taken aback.

Caleb sighed. “For this body to take any action, both he and I must come to a consensus first. Although, if I take a forceful approach toward something, he won’t be able to go against my will. After all, I am the primary persona now. But... if he really overpowers me eventually, then I won’t be able to come out anymore... When that happens, he will be able to inject himself with the V16. Nora, time is running out. Listen to me carefully, I have already lived long enough, so the V16 must be left for Xander! I want all the sins to end with me. Do you understand? Do as I say!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 964 - Little Servant

Caleb's tone became more and more urgent. Toward the end, his voice also gradually became sharper and sharper.

As the last word rolled off his tongue, he took off his glasses impatiently and stared at Nora. "He's done talking to you, right? You should understand by now that you must follow my orders more obediently, my little servant. Now, I want you to come with me, or else you won't be able to see Xander anymore!"

Nora lowered her eyes and took a deep breath. "Okay."

As soon as she replied, Trueman took out a pill and handed it to her. "Take this."

Surprised, Nora looked down at the pill.

Trueman smiled. "Don't worry, my little servant, you are my favorite servant, you know. Also, thanks to you, that King confiscated all my assets, so you are the only servant I have now. I'm just worried that you will escape. After all, I can't beat the Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts in a fight, and I don't have a second Barbarian to act as my bodyguard either."

Speaking of Barbarian, when Nora was on her way back to the Schmidts, the Queen had called Justin and informed him of Barbarian's death. Also, both the captain and deputy captain of the guards protecting the Queen had been injected with gene serums. One was unable to withstand the serum's effects and had died, while the other became stronger. The Queen had asked Justin what she should do next.

Nora also gave her advice at that time and told her that the gene serums Barbarian was in possession of weren't the purest, so they only improved a portion of the genes, and they would not make one as strong as Barbarian.

Because of this, there would not be too great a backlash. The man's lifespan would only be shortened by ten years at the worst.

Barbarian would never let the bodyguard he prepared for the Queen, right before his death, survive the gene serum but die from its backlash. He really had the Queen's welfare at heart.

The Queen remained silent for a long time on the phone before she finally said, "I'd like to give Barbarian a proper burial. Would you mind if I do that?"

To be honest, regardless of whether or not Justin minded, the Queen would still do it anyway.

This was her private matter.

However, the Queen really did regard Justin as a friend all these years while Barbarian was Justin's enemy... Unexpectedly, though, the usually-petty man had replied solemnly, "We should respect the dead. Do what you want."

This world had treated Barbarian too cruelly, so he had taken revenge. But no matter what had happened, now that he was dead, one should let go of all the past sins.

Trueman put the pill in Nora's hand. She held it up to her nose and took a whiff-it was a type of muscle relaxant.

It didn't harm the body and would only make one feel weak and limp. This way, she would not be able to resist Trueman anymore.

A sneering Nora glanced at Trueman and said, "Indeed, given your puny arms and legs, you'd better not get hurt by me."

Trueman: "??!"

Trueman became angry at once, and a touch of malice even appeared at the corners of his lips. "You-"

The next moment, without waiting for Trueman to lose his temper, Nora took the pill, which took effect immediately. She could sense all her physical strength dissipating. It didn't feel particularly uncomfortable, though. She moved her hands and feet a little, realizing that she had become no different than any other normal, slender, and frail woman, that was all.

A pill was effective for a day.

In other words, during this period when she and Trueman were to be together, Trueman would be feeding her one every day.

Seeing that she was being so obedient, rebuking her didn't feel right to Trueman anymore, so he walked ahead of her and said, "Follow me."

He got into the passenger seat of the car in front and gestured at the driver's seat with his chin. "Drive, my servant."

Nora's expression darkened a little.

Trueman asked provocatively, "Don't wanna see Xander anymore?"

Nora took a deep breath. Left with no other choice, she could only walk over and get into the driver's seat.

She drove following Trueman's instructions. As her car turned a few corners back and forth on the road, they started to go farther and farther from the city, making Nora frown.

Trueman chuckled. "Originally, we should have been on the cruise ship by now. How comfortable would that have been? Unfortunately, thanks to you guys, we no longer have the cruise ship anymore... I'm very curious, though. My little servant, how on earth did you manage to persuade King and make that old geezer take your side?"

Chapter 965 - Meeting Xander At Last!

Nora didn't say anything when she heard Trueman.

She merely continued to look ahead as she asked, "Where's Xander?"

She didn't know how Trueman would react to the old King's death. Under such uncertain circumstances, she decided not to say anything for the time being.

Trueman snorted coldly. "He's waiting for us ahead!"

He didn't ask any more questions but narrowed his eyes instead.

Two hours later, Trueman suddenly said, "Stop."

Nora stopped the car and looked around.

There was only wilderness and nothing else around. She didn't know why Trueman wanted to stop here. She had only just started wondering when Trueman opened the car door, got out, and started walking away.

Nora also got out of the car and followed after him.

"Why are you following me?"

Trueman's voice was sharp and piercing as he scoffed and said, "I'm going to take a leak. Do you want to join me?"

Nora: "????"

She frowned and returned to the car.

She slipped her hand into a pocket in her pants. There, she had a fingernail-sized transmitter that she could use to make contact with the outside world once she pressed the switch.

Just as she was about to press the switch, she saw Trueman standing at the car window, looking at her with a smile.

Nora: "..."

"Get out."

Nora got out of the car. Trueman took out a scanner that he had gotten from somewhere and started to scan all over her body. As a result...

When he scanned her hair, the scanner beeped.

Trueman frowned. "Take it out!"

Nora held her hands out. "Take what out?"

Trueman looked at her suspiciously and continued to scan downward. The scanner continued beeping even when he reached her neck, never once stopping.

Trueman sneered.

Nora sighed. "I'm here to save Xander. Why would I bring anything with me? Your scanner must be broken."

Trueman didn't fall for it.

He continued scanning downward. In the end, the scanner kept beeping from her neck to her arms, her waist, her abdomen, and all the way to her thighs and shoes.

Trueman: "..."

Nora held her hands out again. "See? It really is broken."

Trueman thought for a while. Suddenly, he scanned himself with the scanner, but it didn't make any sound. He looked at Nora frostily and said, "Surrender them yourself, or else I won't take you to Xander!"

Nora: "..."

She heaved a silent sigh. Then, she reached into her hair, felt around, and took out a steel wire as thin as a strand of hair. Obviously, it was used to unlock doors.

After she took it out, Trueman scanned her hair with the scanner again. Sure enough, it didn't beep anymore.

He continued to scan downward again. When he reached Nora's face, the scanner suddenly beeped again.

Nora said expressionlessly, "My nose is fake. There are metal supports inside. That's why it's beeping."

But Trueman merely looked at her with a sneer. "Do you think I've only just met you? You probably don't know this, but I know you better than even you know yourself!"

A resigned Nora could only pull out a white object resembling a wisdom tooth from the innermost part of her mouth. When the scanner scanned the object, sure enough, it started beeping. Trueman asked, "What is this, my little servant?"

"Poison," replied Nora.

Trueman continued to scan downward. When he reached her collarbones, it beeped again.

This time, without waiting for Trueman to ask, Nora reached out, felt around, and took out a very thin thread again.

The thread was the same color as her skin. Even if one looked at her with a magnifying glass, they wouldn't be able to tell that she had a thread hidden on her collarbone.

Nora coughed and explained, “This is a kite string.”

Kite strings were very sturdy, but even such thin strings could kill sometimes. They were often used as weapons in assassinations. In addition, most metal scanners wouldn’t detect them. The one that Trueman had found really was able to detect everything.

After that...

Nora took off the inconspicuous fake fingernails on her fingers. The fake fingernails on all ten of her fingers were all either weapons or poison...

Nora took out a flexible sword from her waist. The flexible sword was of such high quality that Trueman thought it was a belt when he glanced at it...

Nora took out the transmitter she was planning to use just now...

Nora removed the wire wrapped around her thigh...

Nora pulled out a dagger she kept close to herself on her calf...

Nora took off her shoes, which were specially customized such that she could control the mechanism inside the shoes with her toes to extend sharp blades at the tip...

Thud!

Thwack!

Trueman stared at the seven, eight, nine... twenty weapons that Nora had removed from herself in just a span of five minutes, feeling rather gutted.

He couldn’t even maintain the malicious smile on his lips anymore. Instead, he looked at Nora and asked, “So, if I had taken you to Xander, would I have been dead by now?”

All of those numerous weapons, no matter which, could kill him!

“... No, you wouldn’t have,” replied Nora.

Just as Trueman was about to breathe a sigh of relief, Nora added, “I still haven’t found the V16, you know.”

Trueman: “...”

After Nora took off everything, she said, “That’s all there is.”

However, Trueman didn’t believe her. He scanned her with the scanner again from head to toe.

“There, now you can be sure there isn’t anything else, right?” asked Nora.

Trueman thought about it. Suddenly, he scanned her fingers.

He had already scanned Nora from her hair all the way to her toes. In addition, she had even taken the initiative to take off her fake fingernails. Logically, no one would have suspicions about her fingers anymore. But the moment Trueman scanned her fingers, the scanner started beeping again.

Trueman: “...”

Nora: “...”

A silent Nora removed the tiny needles hidden in the crevices of her nails, taking out a whopping twenty of them. There were two hidden in each of her nail crevices.

They were too small to be seen at all.

She coughed—even she felt rather embarrassed herself—and said, “Um, there were so many weapons on me that I forgot about those.”

Trueman retorted, “... Do you think I’ll fall for that?”

Nora didn’t care whether he believed her or not, though. As for Trueman, he didn’t even spare her toe crevices this time. After scanning her up and down several times with the scanner, he finally put away all her weapons and continued walking toward the empty grassland at the side.

“Where are you going?” asked Nora. Didn’t I already tell you just now? I’m taking a leak!”

Trueman replied after he walked a distance away.

Trueman was not worried that she would escape.

As for Nora, she sat in the car and sighed.

She hadn’t expected to be checked so stringently. Great, now she really couldn’t contact anyone anymore. However, so far, it seemed that things hadn’t gone as badly as she had imagined

She waited for another five minutes. Just as she was getting impatient, she suddenly saw Trueman appear in the distance. Beside Trueman was a little boy who only reached the top of his thighs.

The little boy looked dejected, and obviously, rather unhappy.

It was Xander!!!

Chapter 966 - Daddy Is Too Lonely, That'S All

At the sight of Xander, Nora's eyes lit up instantly.

Without waiting for Trueman's orders, she opened the door and jumped out of the car.

Xander was a little taken aback to see her. He stayed where he was and did not walk forward. As they weren't too far from each other, Nora could hear their conversation clearly. Trueman said impatiently, "Hurry up." "I don't want to," Xander replied. Trueman scoffed, "Are you trying to make me force you into it?"

Xander said stubbornly, "Daddy, you've changed! You've never spoken to me like this before!"

Trueman continued to lecture him. "Things are different now. I used to have all the time in the world to play with and foster a bond with you, but we need to hurry now!"

"... I don't dare to meet Mommy," said Xander.

"Because you've let her down?"

Trueman's words made Xander lower his head even further. The boy, whose head was lowered, was rather dejected. "Mommy spent a lot of effort to get the serum for me, but I..."

Xander really did know that he had done something wrong. He had only just said that when Nora walked over. When she heard him, she looked at Xander and asked, "So, you know very well what you have done is wrong, then why did you still do it?" Xander didn't dare to look Nora in the eye when he heard this. He kept his head down as he replied, "Because it's Daddy... I can't just stand by and watch him die... Daddy is just like Butterscotch and Buttercup. He's also my best friend..."

Xander had grown up with Trueman, and he was the only person in Xander's world.

Upon hearing this, Nora glanced at Trueman.

After spending all this time with him, Nora knew what Xander was like.

The boy might seem unreliable and behaved like the spawn of satan, but in truth, he was very sensitive and had difficulty fostering bonds with people. This was also the reason he could immediately bring himself to bite the bodyguard's hand when he saw him.

Because outsiders were all villains to him.

Only a handful of people could qualify to be classified as his own.

For example, he had said that Ruth was his aunt, but in truth, Xander had never regarded her as one of his own. This led to him never trying to save Ruth when he came to New York. He even bullied her instead.

It was also this incident that had made Nora and Justin think that Xander saw Trueman the same way.

He had clearly been imprisoned in the basement by Trueman since he was a baby. In that case, there was no way he would have deep feelings for Trueman, but now... Nora discovered that she was utterly mistaken!

Even at a time like this, and even when Xander understood that Trueman had taken advantage of him, he was still calling him "Daddy".

Nora stared hard at him. "Xander, I know you are a sensible child. When you were injected with the V15, your IQ improved even further, so you should be able to understand what I'm saying right now. The love and kindness that Trueman showed you in the past were all fake. He only did it for the V16... There is only one V16 left in the world now. If you give it to him, you will die."

When Xander heard this, he paused before he replied, "I... I know."

Nora was surprised. "You know?"

"Yes. Daddy told me about it when he called me."

Nora became even more stunned. She had always thought that Xander had been tricked, but from the looks of it now, it seemed that despite being well aware that only one person could be saved, Xander had still chosen to steal the serum and give it to Trueman?

After Xander said what he did, he looked at Trueman and added, "Daddy never lies to me."

Xander said seriously, "Daddy has never lied to me or told me that he was my real father, so I have always known that I was a child that he had brought from somewhere else.

"Every time Daddy visited me, he would bring me chocolate because he knew that I like it.

"Daddy never hits me even when I'm disobedient, but lets me think things through by myself instead.

"Even when Daddy sent me back to Mommy, he explained everything to me clearly..."

After whispering all of that, Xander finally looked at Trueman and said, "But you lied to me this time, Daddy! You didn't tell me that you would kidnap Mommy too!"

Like a little adult, he stood in front of Nora, looked straight at Trueman, and said, "Daddy, if you let Mommy go back, I promise I won't let Mommy seek you out! I will also accompany you until I die..."

After he spoke, he took a step forward and stretched out his arms to hug Trueman's leg.

Nora watched the little figure standing in front of her.

For some reason, she suddenly felt her heart warm.

But right at this moment, Trueman picked Xander up carelessly with a strange look on his face. He said, “Of course I had to be nice to you, little guy. It was all to trick you into stealing the V16 for me. But now that the V16 is in my hands, do you think I will still treat you like how I did before?”

Trueman tossed Xander carelessly to Nora.

Nora hurriedly caught hold of Xander.

Trueman scoffed, “What a fool! Keep an eye on your son, my little servant. Otherwise, don’t hold it against me if I show him no mercy!” After speaking, Trueman walked over to the car and sat in the passenger seat again, leaving the two behind. Nora looked at him from the back before she finally looked down to see a look of shock all over Xander’s little face. Obviously, he hadn’t expected his adoptive father, who had brought him up, to become like this. Nora was about to comfort him when Xander suddenly said, “Mommy, d-don’t be scared. Daddy just says nasty things, that’s all. But in truth, it is very easy to get along with him. He is just... just... too lonely, that’s all...”.

The word “lonely” was uttered very softly.

However, Nora frowned and said, “Xander, human nature is very complex. You... Will come to realize it in the future.”

After speaking, she took Xander with her and got into the car.

Xander sat in the backseat obediently.

Nora started the car again.

The trio sat in the car in silence, none of them speaking. For a while, there was a very strange atmosphere in the car.

Two full days later, Nora finally understood where Trueman was going. This place was at the border of three different countries. Governance at places like this was generally rather messy, and it was a place none of the three countries cared about. The moment she entered, Nora felt as if time had turned back twenty years. The streets around them were rundown and dilapidated, and they could only use cash for purchases. There were even people bartering. All in all, it was a very backward way of life.

All the large companies must dislike doing business here-after all, the people here didn't have any money!

Moreover, most of the buildings here were low-rise, and the paint on the walls was peeling. Ever since Nora drove into the area, she could smell the exposed food on the streets rotting. The streets were very dirty and messy.

Entities like the Imperial League or the Hunt Corporation rarely found themselves here.

Nora started the car again and drove into a dilapidated building.

As soon as the car drove in, five to six burly men immediately appeared in front. At the sight of their car, they rushed up to Trueman and greeted him. "Mr. Yale!"

Trueman nodded. One of them said, "Mr. Yale, you're finally here. Since we were not sure when you'd return, we haven't cooked yet. I'll make something for you right away!"

After driving for two days and taking muscle relaxants each day, Nora was rather tired.

She got out of the car. When she was about to take Xander to find someplace to rest, Trueman suddenly grinned and said, "No need."

Then, he said, "My little servant! Go make your master something to eat!"

Nora instantly frowned.

Just as she was about to say something, Trueman sneered and said, “Otherwise, Xander won’t be allowed to eat today!”

Nora felt that the man must be a lunatic. Yet it seemed like he simply took pleasure in bullying her.

Seeing the playful look in his eyes, Nora’s eyes flashed a little. Suddenly, her lips curled into a smile. She patted Xander’s hand and slowly said with a smile, “Sure.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 967 - Eat First

Nora replied and looked at the person welcoming Trueman. She asked, “Where’s the kitchen?”

The person looked at Trueman and then at Nora before saying, “Follow me.”

The entire building seemed to be Trueman’s property. Nora followed the man to the kitchen. As soon as she entered, she heard a clear voice. “Is Young Master here? I’ll cook for him immediately.”

Before she could finish, the person retorted, “No, you go out!”

The chef turned around looking a little stunned.

Her face was dark as if she had been tanned in some place. She had small eyes and a big face. She did not go out even when told to leave. She asked, “Why?”

The man who led Nora in was named Harry. He was the boss when Trueman was not around. When he heard her, he spat. “What do you mean why? I told you to go out, so go out! Young Master wants to eat food made by this person! Hurry up and scram!”

The chef looked unhappy. “Fine, I’ll go out! Why are you talking to me like this?! I was specially invited by Young Master to cook! Every time Young Master comes over, he eats food cooked by me. Is her cooking so good?”

The chef looked at Nora warily.

Nora did not care. She thought about it and suddenly said, “Then go cook for Xander.” The chef was stunned. “Who’s Xander?” Nora: “...My son.” Harry had seen Xander, of course. When Nora came into the kitchen, Xander wanted to follow her, but his little head was spinning after traveling for two days straight. He was already tired.

Therefore, Nora got Harry to take Xander to the bed upstairs to rest.

On the way to the kitchen, she had already seen about seven to eight people in this dilapidated building, but all of them were burly men. She finally met a woman in the kitchen...

Furthermore, Nora had also asked Harry. She knew that other than the chef, no one else could cook, so she asked the chef to cook for Xander.

As for what she could cook... ahem.

Nora did not make any comments.

The chef still wanted to say something, but Harry waved his hand. "This kitchen is to cook for Young Master. Go to the small kitchen on the side."

The chef went to the small kitchen. Nora then rolled up her sleeves and prepared to cook.

However, when she turned around, she saw Trueman standing at the door gawking at her. Nora raised her eyebrows and asked, "Why are you here?"

"I was afraid you would poison me."

III

Although Nora really wanted to poison him, he had brought the scanner from god knows where to check her entire body from head to toe before confiscating all weapons and poisons she had on her.

She was really unable to poison him even if she wanted to.

eman

She ignored Trueman and picked up the steak beside her. "I'll cook steak for you? This is the most common dish I ate overseas."

Trueman knew about this.

After all, for so many years, he had been sending people to monitor Nora's every move.

Trueman nodded. He saw Nora throw the steak into the frying pan and light the fire.

Nora seared the steak familiarly. Trueman walked behind her and asked, "Have you cooked steak for Justin before?"

Nora: "?"

She glanced at the corner of his mouth. "No."

Trueman's eyes lit up as a smile appeared on his face.

Five minutes later, Nora moved the steak from the pan to the plate and handed it to Trueman.

Trueman praised, "Little servant, you know how to properly serve your master now. Not bad. It looks like I didn't teach you in vain... This improvement is really good!"

As he said this, he saw Nora swallowing; she seemed to have smelled the delicious aroma.

He thought about how they had been eating and drinking on the road these past two days. In order not to let Old King find their traces, they had indeed been surviving direly.

She had not eaten well. All she could have was bread and water.

When they were about to reach their destination, there was not much bread left, so she simply gave it all to Xander. He and Nora had not eaten for twelve hours.

Trueman cut his steak into two and brought half of it to Nora's mouth. "You eat first."

Chapter 968 - My Servant

Nora looked at Trueman in surprise. To be honest, she was indeed hungry after remaining hungry for twelve hours.

Therefore, when she smelled the meat earlier, she indeed got hungry.

However, was this person really that kind?

Just as she thought of this, she heard Trueman snort coldly and say evilly, "I'll have you test it for poison!"

"... I can't poison you without any drugs!" Nora complained silently, but she felt that this suited Trueman's character. She put half of the steak in her mouth without hesitation and began cooking a second steak.

When Trueman saw that she had eaten, he lowered his head in satisfaction and looked at his half. He asked, "Hehe, Justin didn't even get to eat my little servant's steak, but I got your first time?"

Nora: "??"

Why did it sound so wrong?

She suspected that Trueman was doing it on purpose.

She ignored Trueman as he cut a small piece of the steak and placed it in his mouth before beginning to chew it.

The steak was marinated, so it tasted good.

Trueman took a bite and the fresh juice from the steak slipped into his mouth. He chewed again in satisfaction.

Nora blinked and looked at him.

Two minutes later, Trueman... was still chewing.

After another minute, Trueman spat out the steak in his mouth. “What are you cooking? Isn’t the fire too hot? I can’t even swallow the steak!”

Nora said, “It’s cooked. As long as it’s edible!”

She had always eaten it like this when she was overseas.

Because she was not in good health and was afraid of all kinds of parasites, whenever she cooked steak, she would cook it very well and then leave it on the flame for another while. Although such a steak was difficult to chew, it was the same in her stomach if she swallowed it in one gulp!

Trueman: !!!

Nora spoke again, “Yes, I know my own cooking skills. That’s why I never make things difficult for Justin. I don’t hold a grudge against him.”

Trueman: “!!!!!”

He was really angry this time!

He had originally thought that it was her first time cooking steak for someone. He did not expect her to be holding a grudge against him!

Trueman came to Nora’s side angrily. “Go away!”

Nora took a step back.

Trueman reached out. “Give me the pan!”

Nora handed the pan to him.

Trueman began to cook his own steak.

A piece of steak was flipped over a few times. Trueman cooked the steak skillfully. The fire was just right. After he scooped it onto the plate, he glanced at Nora, who was staring at the meat in his hand as he handed the plate over. "Eat half of it and test for poison!"

After taking two bites of Trueman's steak, Nora finally realized how overcooked her steaks were. In the past, she was always afraid that her steaks would be undercooked, and thus, ended up with steaks simply too difficult to swallow.

Trueman finished cooking the last piece of steak and looked up to see Nora eating. Her mouth was bulging like a little hamster, looking a little like the way Xander ate. Trueman lowered his eyes and looked at the two half steaks on the plate. He pursed his lips. After Nora finished eating, she said, "I'll go see what Xander is eating."

Trueman did not stop her.

Nora went out.

The chef had been told to send food upstairs from the small kitchen. She had probably gone to serve food to Xander.

Harry stood staring at Trueman in shock as Nora left the kitchen. "Young Master, this is?"

"A servant."

Trueman said coldly.

Harry instantly heaved a sigh of relief. When he saw Young Master cook for her personally, he had thought that Young Master had taken a liking to this woman. Was this woman going to be their mistress?

But she was also a servant.

With this in mind, he heard Trueman say again, "Mine."

Harry: ?

Trueman looked at him coldly. “She’s my servant.”

Harry: “!!”

He instantly understood what Young Master meant!

On the other hand, Nora went upstairs. When she reached the top stair, she heard the chef scolding someone. “Little bastard, I’m serving Young Master. On what basis should I serve you?”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 969 - Tell Me What?

Two minutes ago.

The chef entered the room with two plates of lasagna.

She took the two plates of lasagna off the tray and placed them on the dining table. Then, she looked at Xander and asked, “What is your relationship with Mr. Yale?”

After speaking, the chef frowned and asked further, “Are you Mr. Yale’s illegitimate son?”

A child like him was actually staying in her master’s bedroom.

The chef was terribly displeased.

The moment she voiced the questions, Xander curled his lips disdainfully.

On the way there, Trueman hadn’t been nice to him at all. Moreover, their relationship didn’t use to be like that in the past, but his father had now become extremely scary.

This made Xander curl his lips as he retorted, “Of course not! How could he possibly be my father?!”

His Daddy Trueman wasn’t someone like that!

The chef was taken aback for a moment when she heard his response. Then, she took off the cover on one of the plates and handed it to Xander.

The lasagna on the plate was clearly cooked in an extremely perfunctory manner. The pasta was undercooked, and the sauce was watery.

The layer of cheese on top was almost non-existent, and it even smelled a little bad.

The chef stood in front of him and looked at him arrogantly as she said, “Your mom told me to make you some food. Hah, who does she think she is? Does she think a servant like her can order me around? I am someone who serves Mr. Yale, and he even once complimented my cooking! Who do you think you are? Never mind that an insignificant servant’s child like you is staying here, but she even wants me to make food for you? What an ignorant woman!

“Tell me, you little bastard, what is your mom’s relationship with Mr. Yale? Why does he prefer her cooking over mine?”

Xander curled his lips disdainfully and looked at the woman in front of him. “Mommy’s relationship with that guy is none of your business!”

Xander had never been one to let anyone give him the short end of the stick, so he took off the cover on the other plate by himself.

The lasagna on that plate looked and smelled delicious. The tomato sauce was rich and meaty, and it was even topped with a lovely layer of gooey mozzarella cheese and parsley. It was obvious at a glance that it was cooked properly for her employer.

Xander pointed at the plate of lasagna and said, “I want this plate of lasagna!”

“No, you can’t have it!”

The chef stopped him.

Xander immediately asked, “Why?”

The chef immediately picked up the plate of lasagna and held it behind her. She said, “I’m someone who only serves Mr. Yale, you little bastard. Why should I wait on you instead?”

“... Who do you think you’re calling a little bastard?” said Xander.

“You, of course!” The chef sneered. The next moment, Xander overturned the plate of lasagna and flipped it right at the chef! “Ahhh! That hurts! You little bastard! You must be sick of living!”

Nora, who heard their exchange the moment she came up the stairs, hurriedly pushed the door open, where she immediately saw the chef storming toward Xander. Her arm was raised, and she was about to hit him.

The look in Nora’s eyes darkened as she immediately kicked over an old shabby wooden chair next to her.

The chair flew straight toward the chef, hitting her hard on her back. The impact caused the chef to stumble forward, and she fell to the ground.

After the commotion, Xander, who had spotted Nora, immediately scrambled off the bed and went behind Nora.

Nora didn’t use that much strength this time after all, she had been drugged. Because of this, the chef managed to quickly get back up. When she looked behind her and saw Nora, she immediately yelled, “How dare you hit me?! Do you know who I am? I’m going to tell Mr. Yale what happened right away! And have him get rid of the two of you!” Almost as soon as she finished speaking, a voice came from the door. “Tell me what?”

Chapter 970 - 0 Psychotherapy

When Nora heard Trueman's grating voice, she immediately frowned.

Crap.

That guy was currently not only having a ball of a time making fun of her, but also feeling great distaste toward Xander. Now that she had beaten up his little chef, he was definitely going to use it against her again. She frowned and put her arms around Xander. Then, she looked at the chef and said warningly, "It's nothing. Your master is already very tired, isn't he?" Seeing her behavior, the chef immediately knew that she was backing down, so she immediately retorted, "What do you mean 'nothing'? Why didn't you say it was 'nothing' when you hit me just now? Mr. Yale, you must help me out here!"

After speaking, she immediately ran up to Trueman and grabbed his sleeve. "Mr. Yale, that little bastard demanded that I serve him! Hah, but why should I? You personally hired me as your chef, and you once said that I am allowed to serve only you! On top of that, he even wanted to eat the lasagna I made for you! When I refused, he flipped the plate of lasagna at me! It really hurt! And that woman, too! Boohoo, she actually hit me!"

The look in Trueman's eyes turned a little displeased, and he looked at Nora darkly. "She hit you?"

The chef nodded repeatedly. "Yes. Not only did she hit me, but she also scolded me. Boohoo, I only cooked a plate of lasagna for the child because I found him pitiful. What makes them think they can boss me around? And even hit me if I refuse to obey their orders?"

The chef's face was dripping with tears.

Nora looked at Trueman warily, wondering how the man was going to make things difficult for her because of this issue.

But when she was thinking about it, she instead saw Trueman stroking his chin. He suddenly smiled and did something jarring taking out a pair of glasses and putting them on. Then, his voice turned sinister as he said, “Maybe it’s the fact that he is also your master?”

The chef was stunned. “What did you say, Mr. Yale?”

Trueman’s expression was dark and sinister as he repeated, “I said, it’s because he is also your master!”

Then, Trueman shouted toward the outside, “Harry!”

“Coming, Mr. Yale!”

Harry arrived upon the summons. When he saw the bespectacled Trueman, he was a little taken aback. “Mr. Yale?”

Trueman... No, one should call him Caleb now instead. Caleb pointed to the chef and ordered, “Take her out and teach her the rules. Let her know who she can mess with and who she can’t! Also, get another chef here to make something for the child to eat.”

“Yes, sir!”

Harry shivered. He immediately lowered his head, grabbed the chef, and led her out.

The chef yelled, “Mr. Yale! Mr. Yale...!”

“Shut up!” Harry covered the chef’s mouth at once. “Are you still courting death even at this moment?! Have an idea of who you’ve just offended!”

The chef continued to let out muffled cries as she was taken away.

In the room.

At the sight of Caleb, all the tension melted away from Nora’s head.

Caleb rubbed his temples and sighed. “He didn’t do anything outrageous when I was away, did he?”

Nora paused and then said, “No, he didn’t.”

“Good.”

Caleb sighed and pulled over a chair in the room. “Xander, we’ll get you something yummy soon, okay?”

Xander looked at Caleb, finding the man’s behavior very novel. He nodded and replied, “Okay.”

Then, Nora looked at Caleb and suddenly asked, “Can he hear what I’m saying to you right now?”

“No, he can’t.”

Caleb added, “He will only know when we converse.”

“Good to know that.” Nora sat on the bed. “I want to talk to you about psychotherapy.”

Chapter 971 - Is Daddy A Bad Person?

Caleb was obviously stunned by her words. It seemed that he had never considered the suggestion before. He broke into a frown and asked, "Would you be able to cure me?"

Caleb had multiple personality disorder. Bluntly put, he had schizophrenia.

Nora had indeed cured someone of it before.

She nodded. "Yeah, I can."

Caleb stayed quiet for a long while before he finally asked, "To what extent can it be cured?" Nora thought for a while and then answered, "If nothing goes wrong, I can stop Trueman from ever appearing again."

Caleb fell silent.

He heaved a small sigh and said, "In that case, we can't do that yet."

"Why?"

Nora asked in surprise.

A resigned Caleb replied, "Because only Trueman knows where the V16 is. So far, I haven't found any info about the V16."

Nora nodded. "Don't worry about that. Mental illnesses are not something that can be cured overnight. It takes time. I can get started on the preparations for you first." After Caleb nodded, he sighed again and said, "Actually, it doesn't really matter if I get it cured or not."

He cast his eyes down and said, "When I get the V16, I will give it to Xander. I won't be using it myself. When Xander gets the last remaining V16, I will die. So it doesn't matter if it is cured or not. And if the three of us cannot outwit Trueman, he will become very strong when he injects himself with the V16. By then, I'm afraid you won't be able to treat me anymore."

Nora was about to persuade him to accept the medical treatment when Caleb said, "But we can still try having it treated. For now, it's good enough as long as I can show up more often and occupy the body for a longer time. This way, it'll also be convenient for me to look for clues."

Nora breathed a sigh of relief. "Yeah."

After a while, the new chef that Harry had found brought them the meal prepared for Xander. Xander glanced at Caleb and started digging in obediently. Xander seemed exceptionally distant toward Caleb.

Nora thought about it for a moment. Xander had feelings for Trueman instead of Caleb. Just as a touch of hesitation flashed across her eyes, Caleb said, "Trueman doesn't let me anywhere near Xander, for fear that I will take him away. So, all these years, he has been the one taking care of Xander."

Then, Caleb smiled and added, "But it's not true that we haven't had any contact with each other at all either. Xander, do you remember how you insisted on asking for medical books when you were four years old?"

Xander paused for a moment, then he raised his head and looked at him. "How did you know that?"

When he was four, many of the animals around him had died. Xander wanted to save them, but Trueman had said with a sneer, "You? Saving people is what doctors do! What does it have to do with you?" Xander had retorted at the time, "Then I will become a doctor! Daddy, teach me how to become a doctor!"

When Trueman heard this, he thought of something and sneered, "I hate doctors the most! You can't study medicine!"

In the past, throwing a tantrum had worked whenever Xander wanted something. This time, however, no matter how much he begged, Trueman simply didn't agree. He said, "Who do you think your little animals went to? And who do you think operated on them? You can be anything you want except a doctor!"

The executioners in the mysterious organization were all professionals and doctors who, in the name of scientific research, had long since forgotten their basic moral boundaries as human beings.

Moreover, all those people around Trueman almost one thousand of them—who had died while he was growing up had not been given proper burials but were dissected by the doctors instead.

In fact... Some who weren't even dead had also been taken away for live human experiments.

It was a very cruel reality.

Dissecting the human body and observing the probability of people surviving various situations that challenged human limits were the best ways to understand the structure and limits of the human body.

Of course, it was said that they had taken reference from the actions of a country that obtained a lot of invaluable data from conducting similar brutal experiments on prisoners of war. This led to that country becoming more advanced than others in various medical fields.

That was why Trueman hated doctors the most, especially the ones who studied biotechnology.

But Xander didn't know that; he just wanted to save his friends. In fact, he had already gouged out a rabbit's heart and put it into a dog's body...

He then went on a hunger strike and told Trueman that he would starve himself to death if he was not allowed to study medicine.

Trueman didn't give in at first.

But Xander was stubborn, and he never relented on things that he had already made up his mind on, so he stopped eating and drinking for real.

Three days later, the little Xander fainted.

By the time he next awoke, there was a tray next to him. On it was a juicy hamburger on a plate, as well as a USB flash drive.

Next to the USB flash drive was a fiercely-written note: "You can only study medicine behind my back. If I find out, I will confiscate everything."

Xander might have grown up locked up in a basement, but he did have access to the Internet and a computer.

He understood something there and then. He got up, ate the burger, and then inserted the USB flash drive into the computer. Sure enough, inside the flash drive were vast amounts of educational material about medicine.

Xander knew that his Daddy Trueman had an awkward personality, so he strictly followed his orders and only studied medicine in secret, when Trueman was away.

Once Trueman returned, he would immediately stop studying. At that time, he'd merely thought that Trueman was throwing a temper tantrum, but now that he thought about it again...

Xander seemed to have realized something. "You were the one who gave me that flash drive?"

Caleb sighed, stretched out his hand, and ruffled Xander's hair. Xander froze but didn't push him away.

He then heard Caleb say, "You're just as stubborn as him, so I didn't have any other choice but to adopt a solution that offered the best of both worlds." Xander lowered his head, ate a mouthful of food, and then whispered, "Thank you."

Caleb didn't say anything. Instead, he got up and walked out. "You guys dig in first. I'll go and deal with that old chef."

Nora immediately said, "Her mistake doesn't warrant a death."

Although this was a place that none of the countries it bordered on cared about, and many things operated in a corrupt manner here, Nora had never been one to show blatant disregard for human life.

The chef had been disrespectful to her and her son, but beating her up was already enough. There was no need to kill her.

Caleb turned around and smiled wryly at her. "Of course. Do you think I'm Trueman?"

Then, he went out the door after speaking.

Nora and Xander shared the plate of lasagna.

After they finished the food, Nora told Xander to lie down and rest. She suddenly asked, "Have you really never seen him wearing glasses all this time?"

Xander answered, "No."

Nora was about to ask another question when Xander suddenly turned to look at her. He said, "Mommy, it's Daddy who won't let me see him."

Nora was taken aback.

Xander looked straight at Nora with a bit of dejection and sadness in his eyes. He said, "Daddy said he was a bad person and told me not to meet him. But now it seems that Daddy is the bad person instead, right?"

Chapter 972 - Bloodstains

Nora looked intently at Xander in front of her.

Earlier, when Xander first returned to them, in order to better get along with the child, neither Nora nor Justin had said anything negative about Trueman to Xander.

After all, for the past five years, Trueman was the child's only kin.

However, ever since Xander stole the V16 and gave it to Trueman, Nora was filled with regrets. She should have taught her son to differentiate between good and evil.

Seeing that Xander was finally bringing up the topic, she kept quiet for a while before she finally said, "True evil doesn't really exist in this world, Xander, and everyone has a dark side deep down in their hearts. But as humans, we should safeguard our moral boundaries and stick to them. No matter what we do, even if we act a little selfish for our own sakes, we mustn't cross that boundary."

Trueman had taught Xander to be unscrupulous and resort to any means available to achieve his goals.

This was apparent from how Xander had frequently bullied the nannies and security guards when he was living with Nora and Justin. The little guy was a devil through and through. Fortunately, he was still young and kind-hearted by nature, which was the only reason why he wouldn't do anything illegal.

However, a child's personality was already cemented by the time they turned five years old.

Xander's heretical and dark personality had become ingrained in him.

For some, their childhood could heal whatever suffering they experience in their lifetime.

But for others, it took a lifetime to heal the suffering from their childhood experiences.

Those five years spent in darkness had already led Xander astray.

Therefore, Nora taught him things differently from how she taught Cherry and Pete. She wanted Xander to keep to his moral boundaries.

Xander, who seemed to vaguely understand, nodded. However, he persisted and asked again, “So, is Daddy Trueman really a bad person?”

Was he really a bad person?

Nora didn’t answer him directly. She only stroked his hair and said, “People should not be defined by the concepts of ‘good’ and ‘bad’. Although he is a pitiable man, it doesn’t give him the right to take revenge on society just because of his unfortunate circumstances. Xander, I want you to know this—you are still young, so educating and nurturing you are our responsibilities. Real parents never contrive against their children when nurturing them. So, if he ever asks you to do anything that brings harm to yourself, please reject him.”

Xander was stunned when he heard her words.

As he looked at Nora, he seemed to truly understand in this instant what parents were supposed to be.

After having a heart-to-heart talk with Xander and gaining a deeper understanding of the child’s thoughts, Nora coaxed him to sleep and then went out of the room.

As soon as she stepped out the door, she saw Harry dragging a suitcase and walking out.

The suitcase was huge, and it seemed that there was something very heavy inside.

Nora didn't pay it much heed. However, when the two passed by each other, Nora suddenly stopped and turned to look at Harry.

Harry gave her a smile and left quickly without saying anything. But the smell of blood coming from the suitcase wafted in the air, causing Nora to narrow her eyes.

Only then did she enter the room, where she immediately saw Caleb cleaning his hands with a wet wipe. He wiped them very meticulously, cleaning his hands one finger at a time. Finally, he tossed the wet wipe into the trash can beside him.

It was then that he finally turned and looked behind him. He seemed a little taken aback at the sight of Nora, but the next moment, he smiled and asked, "Is something up, Nora?"

Nora cast her eyes down. Suddenly, she asked, "What did you decide to do with that chef in the end?"

Without any change in his expression, Caleb replied, "I got Harry to send her away." "Is that so?"

Nora suddenly pointed to a headband next to her on the floor. "If so, you guys forgot to take her headband with you."

The headband was stained all over with blood.

Chapter 973 - She Offended Someone She Shouldn'T Have

The look in Caleb's eyes changed dramatically at once.

Nora stared hard at him and said, "Therefore, you can drop the act, Trueman!"

Upon hearing this, a smile suddenly formed on Caleb's countenance, and it was as though even his voice had changed, becoming sharp and piercing. He removed his glasses and said, "My, my. You're pretty sharp, aren't you, my little servant?"

After speaking, he licked his lips and then looked at the headband on the floor. Then, he snorted and said, "I'm the only one who can order my servant around. Does she think she can order you guys around too? Is she even worthy of doing so?"

Though his words were what a bossy CEO might say, they instead made Nora's hair stand on end.

Just because the chef showed disrespect toward her and Xander, Trueman had killed her?

That guy was too bloodthirsty!

In addition, Trueman had even pretended to be Caleb... In that case, did that mean that Nora would have to pay special attention to him in the future when he was switching to his other personality?

Also, when exactly did Caleb turn into Trueman?

The psychotherapy she brought up just now... Was he Trueman or Caleb at that time?

Nora couldn't quite tell anymore!

From the start, the two of them were one and the same. On top of that, they were primary and secondary personalities who could converse with each other. It couldn't get any easier for them to pretend to be each other!

While Nora was deep in thought, Trueman started walking toward her, making the look in Nora's eyes turn even darker and deeper.

After Trueman came up to Nora, he lowered his head and said with a smile, "My little servant, I know that both you and Caleb want the V16, as well as the fact that Caleb will definitely give the V16 to you after he gets his hands on it. He has already lost the will to live a long time ago. To be honest, it's not impossible for me to give you the V16... If you agree to a condition of mine, I will yield the only chance of survival to Xander. How does that sound?"

A condition?

Nora looked at him warily. She wasn't naive enough to think that Trueman's condition would be that easy to fulfill.

Sure enough, the next moment, a smiling Trueman continued, "Give birth to my child. When I have a descendant, I will give you the V16."

Nora's expression changed dramatically upon hearing his words. "You pervert!"

"Pervert?"

Trueman suddenly laughed. "Why do I find it such a dependable transaction, though? What do you think? I'll give you five days to think about it. Five days later, Xander will be ready for the injection. By then, we'll have to decide for real which one of us will be using the V16!"

After speaking, he patted Nora on the shoulder and added, "Do think about it carefully, my little servant."

II

On the outskirts of town.

Harry, together with two of his subordinates, removed the chef's body from the suitcase.

There were injuries all over the chef's body, who had died a very miserable death.

The sight made the two subordinates shiver all over, and even their voices were trembling as they spoke. They turned to Harry and asked, "Hey Harry, d-didn't she get beaten up a little too badly? Why was Mr. Yale so angry?"

Harry stared hard at the two of them and replied, "Because she offended someone she shouldn't have!"

The two men understood immediately.

"It seems that the woman and child that Mr. Yale brought back with him have a special place in his heart! Keep your eyes peeled and take care not to make foolish mistakes in the future!"

"Has Mr. Yale taken a fancy to that woman? She certainly is very pretty..."
As the two chatted, they dug a pit and buried the chef.

Next to them, Harry looked at the two hesitantly, but in the end, he merely heaved a sigh. Ignorance was bliss sometimes!!

The chef was also pretty unlucky. She sure had offended the wrong person!!

Chapter 974 - It'S Not Too Late

Nora returned to Xander's room.

At the thought of the disgusting conditions that Trueman had put forward, she felt as if she couldn't breathe.

She hadn't expected Trueman to actually say something like that.

Someone knocked on the door at this point.

Nora turned and looked behind to see the new cook, the one that Harry had just found, walking in.

With her head lowered, the cook gave her an ingratiating smile as soon as she entered, and then said, "I'm here to clear the plates, Miss."

As it turned out, the plates from Xander's meal just now hadn't been cleared yet.

Nora nodded.

The cook had obviously been given a heads-up by Harry, so she did not dare to slight Nora. She came forward and treated Nora as though she was her mistress.

With her head lowered, she walked up to the table. After collecting the plates, she suddenly looked at Nora and asked, "Do you want dessert, Miss? I can make you some." Nora shook her head. "No need."

The cook lowered her head and laughed. "Alright. Having something sweet will make you feel better, though."

When she said that, Nora was taken aback.

She suddenly looked at the cook.

A while later, she finally got up and said, “You’re right. Xander had been tense and scared the whole way here. Let’s make some dessert in the kitchen so that he can have some ready when he wakes up.”

“Huh? I can just make some by myself and bring it up for you.”

“No, it’s fine. Let’s go.”

Nora took the lead while the cook followed behind her holding the plates and cutlery. As soon as the two left the room, sure enough, they saw Trueman leaning against the wall watching them. A heretical smile hung on the corners of his lips as he said, “Make me some too.”

rner

Nora rolled her eyes but did not refuse. “Okay.”

“My little servant sure is gaining more and more self-awareness.” Trueman smiled. Just as he was about to follow them, Nora suddenly stopped and said, “Trueman, if you follow me everywhere like this, you are going to give me a certain impression.”

Trueman was taken aback. “What?”

Nora raised her eyebrows. “You are going to make me think that you’re in love with me.”

Trueman was instantly dumbfounded. After a whole two seconds, he finally lost his temper and snapped, “No way! You sure think really highly of yourself!”

Nora didn’t say anything else but merely raised her eyebrows.

A furious Trueman immediately entered his bedroom at the side.

Only then did Nora follow the cook downstairs and enter the kitchen.

The cook turned on the stove and boiled some water. Now that there were some sounds in the background, she suddenly lowered her voice and said,

“My name is Winnie. Mr. Hunt sent me to help you.”

As she spoke, she added some sugar and other ingredients to the pot.

Nora lowered her eyes.

That’s right. What the cook said about how having something sweet would make one feel better had allowed Nora to recognize the other party’s identity.

Those were Cherry’s words.

It was just that Nora suspected that she was being monitored in the room upstairs, so she hadn’t dared to take any action. Now that they were in the kitchen and boiling water, with the steam providing the two of them cover, as well as the sound of the exhaust hood running in the kitchen, the two finally dared to converse.

Nora also lowered her voice. “Where is he?”

After Trueman lost his ship, his finances were also sanctioned by King.

His decision to make his way here had been a last-minute one. Additionally, Trueman was also very careful the whole way here, so Nora had thought that Justin would not be able to find them so soon.

But unexpectedly, the man was pretty efficient.

Winnie replied, “He’s in the town. I can go out to buy groceries once a day. Mr. Hunt said that once you are ready, he can storm the place with his men any time. Is there any message you would like me to pass on to him? Are you safe at the moment?” “Yes, I’m safe.”

Nora was also helping out by looking for ingredients like milk and so on. She kept her head down and tried her best to keep her lip movements subtle as she spoke. She said, “Tell him not to act rashly. Don’t alert the enemy before I find the V16. Both Xander and I are safe, don’t worry.” “Okay, I’ll pass on the message later.”

Winnie raised her head and gave Nora a smile. “I can take care of the rest by myself, Miss. You can go back.”

“Alright. The cooking will take a while, so make sure to watch the heat.”

“Okay.”

The two conversed normally for a while more before Nora finally left the kitchen.

As soon as she went up the stairs, she got a shock-Trueeman was standing right in front of her and staring straight at her.

Nora ignored him and got ready to enter the room to sleep with Xander.

However, Trueeman grabbed her arm. “Hey, so, what do you think of the conditions I mentioned earlier?”

“... I’m not very impressed.”

Nora looked at him. “I’m a human being, not a machine. Besides, if you want children, there is no lack of people willing to have your baby, is there?”

“But I don’t want to go to them,” Trueeman immediately replied.

Nora frowned.

Trueeman, who felt embarrassed, became a little angry. “Are you protecting your chastity because of Justin Hunt? Just because you bore him three children?! Do you know that the children you gave birth to back then should have been mine?!”

As soon as he said that, Nora’s head suddenly whipped up, and she looked at him in disbelief. “What did you say?”

Trueeman sneered, “I said, the children you gave birth to back then should have been mine! Your pregnancy back then was a conspiracy from the start!”

Nora stared at him. “So you were the one who devised that scheme against me back then, weren’t you?”

“Yup.”

Trueman spoke without hesitation. He said, “The moment you were born, your mother injected you with an enhanced version of the gene serum. You had to give birth once you turned eighteen years old, so that you could expel part of the gene serum, or else you would have suffered its backlash! The old King’s plan back then was to have me conceive a baby with you! This way, in order to save our child, you would have had to do anything I said!”

Nora clenched her fists. “Then why was it changed to Justin?”

Why was it changed to Justin?

Because he didn’t want to do it, of course!

Putting aside the fact that Nora had been so fat back then that one couldn’t tell what her facial features looked like at all—so there was no way he would let such an ugly woman bear his child – he had also been resistant to everything arranged by the old King at that time!

Therefore, when the Imperial League’s old butler approached him and told him to conceive a baby with Nora, Trueman had rejected him at once. He had raised his chin high and said, “No, I’m not doing it! It’ll do as long as we find her another man, right? Find her someone more handsome! In my opinion, that American named Justin Hunt is the most good-looking! Have him complement her genes!”

That one line of his got the people from the Imperial League to secretly take action, leading to Justin and Nora spending the night together...

Of course, Trueman didn’t know that Justin had already taken the King mantle by then.

When the butler received the news, he thought of the old King's wishes, and thus, agreed to it as well. As such, Justin had actually been duped by his own men.

Otherwise, how could someone as powerful as Justin possibly be drugged by anyone? And even forget what had happened that night?

This all came later, though. Trueman's face flushed red in this instant.

He looked at Nora.

Who would have thought that Nora would be this attractive after she slimmed down?!

In addition... It was only when he returned to the United States later and deliberately made contact with her that he found out that the woman was no blockhead. Apart from being a beauty, she was also really interesting!

But it was too late.

Everything was too late.

If he had gone along with the old King's plans and conceived a child with her, would their relationship have been different from what it currently was?

He had pushed the woman into another man's arms with his own hands...

But... it wasn't too late yet either!

If Nora was willing, she could still conceive a child for him now...

Chapter 975 - They Are In Love With Her!

“I don’t agree to it.”

Nora was very firm. Even if the one standing in front of her was Trueman, a man with a strange temperament, provoking whom might easily bring her trouble, there were still some boundaries that must be protected.

Sure enough, Trueman frowned and snorted coldly. “Aren’t you afraid that I will kill Xander?”

Nora raised her eyebrows. “If you kill him, you won’t have anything to threaten me with anymore. Also, if you even lay a finger on him, I will make you wish you were dead!”

Toward the end of her sentence, Nora’s voice became awfully sinister.

Her reaction startled even the man standing in front of her.

Trueman’s eyes flickered a little. Seemingly having thought of something, he snorted coldly and narrowed his eyes. “There’s no rush. Sooner or later, I will make you bear my child willingly!”

After speaking, he left.

After leaving Nora’s room, he entered his own room on the third floor.

His room had great soundproofing. People outside wouldn’t be able to hear anything being said inside. After the man closed the door, the look in his eyes suddenly changed.

“What’s the matter? Why do you suddenly want to come out so badly? Do you have something to tell me?”

“Don’t force her into doing things she doesn’t want to!”

An air of certainty suddenly entered the man’s voice as he said, “You’re in love with her too!”

“Ha, how can that be?!”

“I am you, and you are me. I know your true feelings! I didn’t expect us to actually reach a consensus on this matter.”

“So?”

“So, if you want her so badly, why don’t you force her to do what you want? I doubt she won’t do as you say if you hold a knife to Xander’s throat!”

“Ha, you’re having regrets now!”

“I’m not! Shut up!”

“You are! She was originally supposed to be your woman! But you rejected her back then!”

“I told you to shut up!”

“Hmph, I told you back then that the fatty would be lots of fun, but you didn’t believe me and insisted on going against King, instead. You even looked down on her... You looked down on her in the past, but she has now become someone way above your league!”

“You make it sound as though you didn’t have a part in rejecting her back then. Thinking about it now, though, did the two of us oppose the marriage so strongly back then because she was so fat? Or was it because it was what the old man wanted us to do?”

Both of them had been awfully rebellious when they were young.

No, even now, they were still going against their old man.

Although that man had given them life, he had thrown him and his siblings into hell! The two of them were the only ones who had come out alive.

Under such circumstances, how would they possibly be able to make peace with what had happened?

Even if they had become schizophrenic, in this aspect, they'd never had any disagreements in other words, they would never do as they were told!

“No matter the reason, since we have already lost her, there's nothing else we can do! You can't do this to her! This is your fate!”

“Shut up! I told you, I will never accept this fate! If I was going to do that, then why wouldn't I live like how the old man wanted me to?”

Both of them were rather angry, and both their voices had become sharp and piercing, gradually making it hard to tell them apart.

When they were young, they were too weak and could only live in the laboratory as though they were mere objects.

Later, when they survived, they began to put up a resistance. The first thing they had done as a sign of defiance toward King was to reject King's orders for him to conceive a child with Nora... Instead, they had pushed the responsibility to someone else.

After that, they cut off all contact with King.

But now that they thought about it, they had done as they were told all their lives, yet they now regretted the one and only thing they had done as an act of defiance.

What a joke.

Elsewhere.

Winnie, the cook, went out to buy fresh groceries for that night's dinner.

She glanced around outside a vegetable store and then entered.

As soon as she did, she spied a tall and ruthless figure standing in the shadows. Winnie lowered her head at once and greeted him respectfully. “Mr. Hunt!”

Although Justin’s demeanor was distant, there was a bit of anxiety in his voice. “How is she?” “Mrs. Hunt is fine. She wants me to tell you to avoid alarming the enemy, and to wait for the right moment.”

Justin breathed a sigh of relief. “Okay.”

But after speaking, he noticed that Winnie was hesitating about something.

“What’s the matter?” He asked.

Winnie glanced at him, not too sure if she should relay what she had heard. However, her loyalty lay with the man in front of her, so she coughed and said, “I heard Trueman Yale say that he wants Mrs. Hunt to bear him a child. If she does, he will release Xander...”

Smash! The man crushed the drinking glass in his hand, and his expression turned extremely awful.

Chapter 976 - Chicken Stew

Justin's expression turned sinister. But before he could say anything, Winnie hurriedly added, "But Mrs. Hunt rejected him."

This made Justin's expression mellow a bit.

After a while, he said, "Go back and protect Nora."

"Yes, sir."

After Winnie left, Sean and Lawrence finally came out. "Boss, what do we do now? Why don't we just barge in there, arrest Trueman Yale, and torture him? This way, Ms. Smith won't be put in a spot anymore."

Lawrence was angry and indignant. "Yale sure knows how to flatter himself. How dare he ask Ms. Smith to bear him a child? Hah, he sure thinks highly of himself, doesn't he?!"

As soon as he spoke, Sean cleared his throat.

Only then did Lawrence realize that Justin's expression had darkened even further. Justin said, "Trueman Yale has a strange temperament. It probably won't work if we employ forceful measures. Do as she says and bide our time for now, but have our men surround them."

"Yes, sir!"

—

Winnie returned to the small rundown building where they were staying.

With the vegetables she had bought in her hands, she entered the kitchen and began to prepare dinner.

Every once in a while, she would raise her head and glance at the upper floors. Only after making sure that nothing was wrong would she then return to dinner preparations with peace of mind.

It was at this moment that she suddenly heard Harry chatting with a few other people outside.

“Add some stuff to that woman’s dinner tonight.”

“What kind of stuff?”

“Aphrodisiacs, of course. It’s her good fortune that Mr. Yale has taken a fancy to her. We should add some drugs to her dinner so that she can serve him better...”

“No problem!”

As they chatted, the few of them entered the kitchen. Harry looked at Winnie and said, “Make some stew tonight.”

When Winnie heard this, she felt chills run down her spine.

She wanted to contact Justin, but after Harry and the others gave the order, they stayed in the kitchen and kept a close watch on her, giving her no chance to tip-off Justin at all!

Winnie became terribly anxious. As she prepared dinner, she tried to think of a way to resolve the situation. Mr. Hunt had already given her instructions that Mrs. Hunt and Xander’s safety took top priority!

Winnie took a deep breath. Under the watchful eyes of Harry and the others, she made a table full of dishes.

Soon, it was time for dinner.

Winnie brought the food to the table, where she then saw Harry pouring a packet of powder into the chicken stew she had just made. Increasingly anxious, she turned to exit the place.

However, she had only taken a step when Harry asked, “Where are you going?”

Winnie coughed and answered, “To the bathroom.”

Harry pointed to the bathroom in the room. “It’s over there.”

Cold sweat trickled down Winnie’s forehead at once. She lowered her head and gave him an ingratiating smile as she said, “Oh, so that’s where it is. I’ll make a quick trip to the bathroom then.”

“Yeah, okay!”

Harry looked at another woman next to him and ordered, “You, go with her.”

After speaking, Harry looked at the people around him and said, “From now on, none of us are to move about alone. Got it?”

“Got it!”

The rest nodded.

Winnie: !!

She went straight to the bathroom with the other woman, unable to tip-off Justin at all.

By the time she came back out, she saw that Trueman and Nora were already seated at the dining table. Trueman filled a bowl with the stew and handed it to Nora. “Here, I got them to specially make some chicken stew for you.”

Nora looked at the bowl of chicken stew but didn’t move.

A beaming Trueman looked at her. “Why aren’t you eating, my little servant?”

Nora raised her eyebrows. Left with no other choice, she could only take the bowl of chicken stew from him.

At the side, Winnie's expression changed dramatically in an instant!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 977 - Just Set It Off Now

Winnie didn't have the leisure to consider that much anymore.

Mr. Hunt had told her that Nora and Xander's safety took first priority. She took a step forward, but when she was about to say something, she saw that Nora, after taking the bowl of stew from Trueman, only took a quick whiff and immediately asked, "What did you add to the stew?"

Winnie paused.

Next to her, Harry glanced at her warily and frowned.

Winnie was so frightened that she hastily lowered her head and pretended to smooth out her clothes, putting on a stiff and reserved appearance.

At the dining table, Trueman smiled and asked, "What could I possibly add?"

Nora lowered her eyes. "Don't forget that I'm Anti."

Anti wasn't just a surgeon. She was also an outstanding researcher in the field of biomedicine. She was trained in alternative medicine and was capable of making a lot of different types of poison. Therefore, how would she possibly not be able to smell the extra "ingredients" in the chicken stew?

Trueman leaned back on the chair and smiled. "You are so clever, my little servant. Yes, something has indeed been added to the stew."

Nora raised her eyebrows. "What is it?"

"Muscle relaxants," replied Trueman.

Nora: "?"

Trueman smiled. “It’s about time the muscle relaxant dosage is increased. Otherwise, what if your body gets used to the dosage and starts building a resistance to it? So, I added some into the stew.”

Nora didn’t say anything else.

However, Trueman said, “So, finish it and put me at ease. Otherwise, I’m really afraid that you’ll suddenly appear at my bedside tonight and kill me.”

“...”

The corners of Nora’s lips spasmed. She looked down at the chicken stew and then turned to look at Winnie. “Were you the one who added it to the stew?”

Winnie shook her head. “N-no, it’s not me... Ma’am... I...”

She looked at Harry, seemingly asking for help.

Her acting was pretty good.

Nora couldn’t tell what Trueman was up to this time, but she picked up a spoon, filled it with a little stew, and then took a small sip. As a fearful Winnie watched on, she said, “It is the muscle relaxant indeed.”

Winnie: ?

Muscle relaxant?

Then why did Harry say that it was an aphrodisiac?

Winnie was no fool. She immediately understood that Harry was trying to sound her out!

Had she exposed her identity?

No, that was impossible.

She had been living here for many years and was an informant that Justin had been keeping here. Originally, she was not in charge of this matter, but rather, had suddenly been assigned the task.

If she hadn't exposed herself, then there was only one possibility—Trueman didn't trust anyone, so everyone was required to undergo a test.

She must have passed the test, right?

It was fortunate that she had kept calm, as well as that Nora had identified the drug as a muscle relaxant and not an aphrodisiac. Otherwise, even if she must expose her identity, Winnie would still have prevented her from consuming the bowl of chicken stew.

She heaved a huge sigh of relief.

Nora finished the bowl of chicken stew.

Then, she put down the utensils and got up. "I'm full."

Only then did she head upstairs.

Trueman said to Winnie, "Make a sandwich for Xander."

"Yes, sir."

Winnie entered the kitchen, made a sandwich, and brought it upstairs.

After entering Nora and Xander's room, she closed the door and turned behind to look at Nora. Before she could speak, Nora suddenly asked, "Do you have anything you can use to make contact with the outside world?"

Winnie was surprised. The room should still be under surveillance, so why was Mrs. Hunt being so careless all of a sudden?

Regardless, she lowered her voice and replied, "Yes, I do. Mr. Hunt said that if an emergency comes up, I can set off the signal flare immediately. Our men have already surrounded the place, so they can storm in right away."

As soon as she spoke, Nora sighed and said, “Alright. Then go set it off now.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 978 - Falling Out

Winnie: ?

A little stunned, she quite didn't seem to understand. "What?"

"Your identity has been exposed."

Almost as soon as Nora's words came out of her mouth, the door was pushed open, and Trueman led Harry and a few people into the room. With a smile on his face, he said, "That's right. Your identity has been exposed."

Winnie was stunned yet again. She subconsciously reached for the smoke bomb, but before she could move, Harry and the others rushed forward and subdued her.

With an extremely cold look on his face, Trueman ordered, "Kill her!"

Harry and the others escorted Winnie out.

As Winnie thought of the previous cook's fate, she became disheartened.

But just as they were about to exit the room, a voice suddenly came from behind them. "Wait a minute."

Nora said coldly, "Let her go."

Trueman clicked his tongue and said, "When are you going to change your bad habit of being a softie? She is just a servant! Yet you're actually begging for mercy for her?"

There was no way Nora could treat human life with blatant disregard, of course. She repeated, "Let her go."

Trueman sneered. "Sure, I can let her go, but only if you bear me a child! If you do that, I can not only let her go but also Xander, and even you!"

“That’s impossible.”

Nora flatly rejected his suggestion.

Trueman was infuriated. “Then why should I listen to you and let her go?”

Nora sighed. Suddenly, she took a step back and revealed something in her hand. “Because of this.”

After getting a clear look at what she was holding, Trueman, Harry, and the others’ expressions changed drastically.

It was a signal flare!

Even Winnie couldn’t help but take a subconscious look at her pocket. Her signal flare should clearly have been in there. When did Nora get her hands on it?

As Black Cat, stealing something without anyone realizing was the most basic ability she should have.

Trueman took a step forward to snatch it from her.

However, the corners of Nora’s lips curled upward, and she activated the signal flare.

Bang!

Something that looked like fireworks shot straight out of the window, making a “pop” sound in the sky.

The signal had been set off.

At the sight, Trueman became even angrier. With a huge frown on his face, he looked at Nora. “You—!!”

Nora heaved a quiet sigh. “I originally wanted to work with Caleb to find out the whereabouts of the V16, but now it seems that I can give up on that.”

Nora lowered her eyes, her expression terribly cold and indifferent. “If I can’t outwit you, then I’ll just have Black Cat interrogate you instead! I believe no one in this world can survive Black Cat’s interrogation.”

After all, Black Cat was a master of torture!

At her words, Trueman’s handsome face instantly turned sinister. He said coldly, “Nora, you will regret this! No one can hurt me here!”

As soon as he spoke, the sound of fierce fighting suddenly came from outside.

Harry immediately went out to check what was going on. He returned almost immediately and shouted in panic, “Hurry and leave, Mr. Yale! There is a group of people below us! Our guys won’t be able to hold them back!”

But Trueman didn’t believe him. “That’s impossible! There’s no way she can get so many people here! Especially in such a short time!”

He went toward the window and glanced outside, whereupon he suddenly smiled and said, “Oh, so it’s King! Hehe, Nora, you’ve really shot yourself in the foot now. Don’t forget that no matter how much I betray him, I am still his son! I’m afraid you’ve asked the wrong person for help!”

The corners of Nora’s lips curled in a smile. “Well, he’s certainly here for his son.”

Chapter 979 - King!

The sound of people fighting downstairs was getting closer.

This showed that King was slowly storming his way upward with his men.

Because of this unexpected turn of events, Winnie was not taken away but only bound by Harry and thrown aside into a corner of the room.

Harry guarded the entrance loyally.

Seeing that the group of people were about to come up, Trueman suddenly said, "Harry, leave."

Harry was taken aback. "No, I can't leave, Mr. Yale!"

Trueman narrowed his eyes. "The man wearing the mask is my father, he won't do anything to me. But he is a tyrant and hates people defying him the most. He will never let you off, so it's better that you leave."

When Harry heard him, he glanced outside again. However, he remained firm and said, "I'm not leaving, Mr. Yale! Even if he kills me, I still can't abandon your side and leave you high and dry!"

He stayed at the door and kept watch on the outside.

"My life was all yours when you saved my life back then. I don't mind even if I must give it back to you today."

When Nora heard this, she glanced at Trueman in surprise.

She originally thought that the people here only obeyed Trueman's orders because he was paying them, but from the looks of it now, it seemed like that wasn't the case. As it turned out, Trueman surprisingly had his own personal charm too?

While she was thinking about it, Trueman suddenly looked at her. “Nora, I’d advise you to take Xander and leave this place now. Otherwise, if you fall into his clutches, you will only suffer a fate worse than your mother’s!”

Trueman frowned, a ruthless look coming into his eyes. He said, “You are so foolish! So, so foolish! To think you would choose to join forces with a man like him... You have no idea just how cruel he is. He used even his own children for experiments simply because his genes would be closest to theirs once the experiments succeed, which would help him complete the genetic modification needed to achieve immortality... A man like him is the devil himself! Just what kind of deal did you make with him?”

Nora pressed her lips together hard. A while later, she finally asked, “So, you took the V16 and stopped obeying his orders because of this?”

The old King had conducted experiments on his children, and Trueman was now the only experimental subject who might succeed.

But Trueman didn’t want to be led by the nose by him, so he had gone against the Imperial League and brought the V16 to a place in the middle of nowhere like this...

Trueman sneered. “Of course. Why should a cold-blooded animal like him enjoy a long life? Ha, even if I must die, I will never let him extract my genes for research!”

Nora: “...”

Suddenly, she raised her eyebrows and said, “In that case, where is the V16? Why don’t you give me the V16 now, and I leave with the V16 and Xander? This way, he would never be able to get his hands on your genes, right? If not, sooner or later, he will be able to extract your genes if you fall into his clutches!”

As soon as she said that, Trueman instantly raised his voice. “Ha, are you trying to provoke me? The V16 is the only thing I can bank on for survival now. Why would I be so stupid as to give it to you?!”

“I am the one in control of my life, and I will never allow anyone to manipulate me ever again!”

After saying this, Trueman approached the door again.

The next moment, someone kicked the door of the room open from the outside, and a few people rushed in led by Justin.

Just as Harry wanted to fight back, he was restrained at once.

Trueman stared at King. After staring at him for a while, he suddenly frowned. “Y-you are not that old geezer. Who are you? Where’s the old geezer?”

The last time he met King, Caleb had been relatively far away from him, so he hadn’t been able to get a clear look at King. Moreover, Justin had also covered himself up quite a lot that time. However, the two were standing too close to each other this time.

They were standing so close to each other that Trueman noticed the other man’s hands immediately.

It was a pair of youthful hands.

They weren’t the same wrinkled old hands he had seen ten years ago.

His eyes widened, and he stared at King in disbelief. He repeated, “Who are you?”

“I am King.”

Justin answered calmly.

His answer stunned Trueman, who then asked blankly, “Then where’s the old geezer?”

Justin paused for a moment. Then, he suddenly took off his mask.

Chapter 980 - Let Black Cat Interrogate Him

When the mask was removed and Trueman saw the familiar face behind it, he was dumbfounded.

He stared blankly at the man in front of him before he broke into a frown. “Ha, so it’s you. In that case, it seems that the Imperial League hasn’t come at all. Or are you saying that you’ve usurped that old geezer’s position and replaced him? Good, very good. I’ve disliked him for the longest time. Where did you lock him up?”

Justin didn’t speak immediately—he didn’t know what Trueman was thinking.

But Nora, who had possibly discerned a thing or two, kept quiet for a while before she finally said, “He’s dead.”

Trueman was taken aback. “What?”

He looked back at Justin and narrowed his eyes. “That old geezer is dead? How can that be? He is clearly so sick in the head and is even pursuing immortality...”

Come to think of it, it was indeed ridiculous.

The one who wanted to live forever was already dead.

Yet their experiments were still continuing.

At that instant, Trueman suddenly felt like the mysterious organization’s existence was a joke.

He still couldn’t believe it.

After a while, he looked at Justin again and asked, “Are you also his son?”

Justin: “?”

Trueman didn't wait for Justin to reply before he smirked and went on. “Even if you are his son, you're younger than me! If you look at it this way, you have to treat me with the same respect you would show your older brother!

“My dear little brother, you should be thanking me. If not for me, would you have gotten into a relationship with Nora? How are you going to repay me for finding you such a pretty wife?”

“...”

For a moment, Justin found himself at a loss for words.

Going by their blood ties, Trueman was actually his uncle...

The old king was indeed sick in the head.

In order to have a large number of children to conduct experiments on, he had gathered almost a hundred women to conceive children for him. This led to a huge age difference among the old King's children.

Going by the old King's age, he had fathered Trueman only when he was in his fifties.

This led to Trueman being only two to three years older than Justin, despite being his uncle.

However, he wasn't inclined to explain all these details to Trueman. After all, why should he get himself an uncle for no reason whatsoever? Besides, someone like Trueman was not worthy of his respect either.

Justin didn't say anything, but Trueman's eyes suddenly reddened. He said, “Ha... Hahaha. I always thought that I was the most special child to him. He had also said that he would hand over the Imperial League to me in the future! Who would have thought that he would still favor you over me in the end?!”

Even if Trueman knew that he had only survived because of his own persistence and tenacity, it was a fact that Justin had never been injected with the gene serum!

Justin: “...”

He still didn’t feel like explaining anything.

Besides... in a sense, Trueman actually wasn’t wrong in saying that.

When the old King realized that he still had a surviving daughter, he had chosen to contact Justin. In addition, he had even handed over the Imperial League to him, even though they had only met once!

This showed that the old King had held doubts about his experiments before his death.

He was afraid that Trueman had become a monster, so he hadn’t trusted him...

Changing one’s fate... Could someone still be called human if their genes had been modified?

Justin didn’t say anything else. Instead, he asked, “Where is the V16?”

“The V16...” Trueman. who felt like all his efforts had become a joke, broke into a smile. “You want the V16? I’m not handing it over!”

Just as Justin was about to speak, Nora said, “Let’s take a more direct approach—we’ll let Black Cat interrogate him instead.”

Chapter 981 - The Weirdest Situation Has Arisen

Justin thought for a moment. It was indeed going to be hard to get Trueman to suddenly grow a conscience and tell the truth. Moreover, they didn't want to waste any more time either.

Since they had already surrounded the other party and even captured the man himself, why wait any further?

Justin nodded.

He led the others out of the room and closed the door.

Sean and Lawrence were outside the room. When Lawrence heard their exchange, the puzzled man asked, "Has Black Cat come, Boss? Why is Ms. Smith asking Black Cat to handle the interrogation?"

Sean: "..."

Justin ignored him and looked at the others.

Winnie had already been freed and was currently standing at the side. As for Harry and the others, they had been captured and were glaring at him fiercely. "Don't hurt Mr. Yale! I'll do anything you ask!"

"..."

Justin ignored them and looked straight at the room instead.

No one could escape Black Cat's interrogation.

Half an hour later, the door opened.

Nora came out.

Justin hurriedly stepped forward and asked, “Did he talk?”

Nora let out a quiet sigh. Somewhat troubled, she replied, “No, he didn’t.”

Nora had encountered the first obstacle of her life!

Justin was surprised. “He didn’t?”

He had faith in her abilities.

As soon as he spoke, Nora gestured to the room with her chin.

Justin entered to see Trueman sitting on the sofa hanging his head helplessly with a gentle and wry smile.

This wasn’t Trueman—he was Caleb.

Justin: “...”

“Where’s Trueman?” He asked.

Caleb sighed. “He won’t come out.”

“...”

At the door, Nora also let out a soft sigh.

Justin suddenly said, “How about doing a body search?”

A resigned Caleb replied, “I have already searched everywhere. Of course, feel free to have your men search me again.”

“Okay, I’ll do it.” Nora stepped forward. “I’m also a forensic doctor, so I’m great at body searches. I’ll look at the places that you might have missed.”

Just as she was about to step forward, Justin stopped her. He coughed and said, “Sean and Lawrence are also experts in this aspect. Let them do it instead.”

Nora wasn't bothered. She nodded and said, "Okay."

Justin glanced at Caleb. For some reason, he seemed to spy a trace of disappointment on his face???

Justin let out a cold snort. With a wave, Sean and Lawrence entered the room.

Lawrence was still hesitating when he entered the room. "Didn't you say that Black Cat would be doing the interrogation? Why is Ms. Smith doing it instead... I think we should have Black Cat do it. Ms. Smith can't do it..."

Sean covered his mouth and dragged him into the room.

The door closed. Ten minutes later, it was reopened, and Sean and Lawrence both came out. Both of them looked at Justin and shook their heads.

Sean said, "I searched all over but didn't find the V16. I suspect that Trueman doesn't carry it around with him but has placed it somewhere instead."

Lawrence nodded. "We even took off his underwear, but there wasn't anything."

Caleb, who had just exited the room with the two of them: "..."

When he heard Lawrence, the bespectacled man coughed and glanced at Nora with his cheeks a little red.

However, Nora wasn't concerned with their conversation at all.

To be honest... Nora could have subdued Trueman from the start. However, once she realized that Trueman and Caleb were multiple personalities of the same person, she abandoned the thought.

She was afraid of this exact situation.

The moment he was caught, Trueman had gone into hiding.

What was the point of her interrogation when Caleb was already willing to tell her everything? She couldn't possibly torture Caleb, right?

That was why she had followed Trueman here, in hopes of tricking him into revealing the location of the V16.

But Winnie had exposed her identity.

She couldn't just watch Winnie die and not do anything about it...

This had led to their current awkward situation.

What were they to do now?

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 982 - I Have A Solution

“How did Trueman appear in the first place?”

Nora asked.

If Trueman refused to appear, then they would have no way of forcing him to reveal the whereabouts of the V16. Moreover, Caleb was the primary personality, whereas Trueman had only appeared later on in his life.

Caleb sighed. “When I was ten years old, there was once when I was on the verge of death after being injected with the gene serum. It was then that he appeared, endured the pain, and helped me pull through...”

He pondered for a while before he suddenly said, “How about you beat me up? Until I’m about to die. He usually shows up at moments like that.”

“That works...” said Lawrence as he eagerly rolled up his sleeves. However, Sean pulled him back.

Lawrence looked at him in bewilderment. “What’s the matter? What are you pulling me back for? Surely it’s not because you can’t bear to hit him, right?”

Sean: “...”

He glanced at Justin who thought for a moment before finally saying, “No, that won’t do. What if we kill him?”

Caleb: “...”

Nora ignored the two of them. As she stroked her chin, she started to ponder.

She was thinking about how they could force Trueman out.

“Let’s just stay here tonight for now. You two, get a few men to search the place. Even if you must flip the whole place over, try and find the V16.”

Justin ordered Sean and Lawrence.

The two nodded in unison.

After they left the room, Lawrence was still asking, “Why didn’t Boss let us beat that guy up? Isn’t this the best solution?”

Sean was awfully troubled over the man’s IQ. He said, “Boss doesn’t want Ms. Smith to owe Caleb any more favors!”

“...”

Of course, the people in the room did not hear the conversation between the two.

Justin was currently looking at Caleb. He asked, “Which room do you want to stay in?”

Caleb glanced at the room they were in and then at Xander who was asleep on the bed, the meaning of his actions obvious—he wanted to stay here.

He sighed and said, “It doesn’t matter where I stay. I’m just afraid that Trueman would suddenly show up, causing you guys to miss the opportunity.”

“You’re right.”

Nora nodded. “In that case, I will stay here with you.”

As soon as she said that, Justin subconsciously interjected and said, “No, you can’t!”

Nora: “?”

She raised her eyebrows and looked at Justin, who cleared his throat and said, “I’ll stay with him. If Trueman appears, I’ll call you over.”

“... Sure.”

As such, Nora got into bed.

Justin and Caleb went out the door and to the next room.

There was only one bed in the room. After the two men entered, neither of them got onto the bed. Instead, they both sat on the sofa.

Justin looked at Caleb intently. “When does Trueman typically appear?”

Caleb sighed. “He doesn’t come out very often, nor is there any pattern to when he shows up. “Please reading on N?WN0V?L.0?G” He comes out whenever he wants to. This is something outside of my control. To be honest, over the years, my control over this body has been getting weaker and weaker.”

Justin narrowed his eyes. He was about to speak when Caleb said, “I didn’t expect you to be my younger brother.”

“...” Justin didn’t explain the matter about their blood ties this time either—he wasn’t intending to. He merely replied frostily, “Blood ties don’t matter to me; only relationships do.”

In other words, even if the two of them were related by blood, he wasn’t going to show Caleb any mercy.

Caleb nodded. He leaned sideways on the sofa and said, “I’m going to sleep. If Trueman wakes up, remember to keep a close watch on him.”

After Caleb fell asleep, Justin suddenly stood and went out.

Outside the door was Nora.

She looked at Justin and asked, “How is it?”

“He didn’t come out.”

Nora frowned. “Are we going to just keep waiting if he stays inside and refuses to come out?”

After looking at Nora for a while, Justin suddenly curled his lips into a smile and said, “I have a solution.”

“What is it?”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 983 - Justin'S Solution!

Early next morning, the group sat nearby the dining table.

Caleb had a relatively good sleep. He looked at Justin, who had dark circles under his eyes. Obviously, he hadn't slept well the previous night.

Winnie had already made breakfast and was placing it on the dining table.

After Nora brought Xander over, the few of them took their seats.

Caleb said deliberately, "Mr. Hunt... No, I should be calling you Justin instead, since you're my younger brother. Did Trueman appear last night?"

Justin, who had a very grumpy look on his face, replied, "No, he didn't."

Nora looked at Justin and asked, "You mentioned last night that you've thought of a solution. What is it?"

Justin frowned and said, "Let's talk about it after we go back home. I have a device that should be able to provoke Trueman into showing up..."

Nora was taken aback. "Go home?"

Justin's expression turned a little sullen at once. He nodded and said, "Yeah. We can't possibly stay here for the rest of our lives, right?"

It was only after he spoke that he realized that he was being rather grouchy. "n3wn0vel ." Thus, he immediately explained, "Lawrence and Sean have already conducted a thorough search here last night, and they still did not find the V16 even after flipping the place over. Therefore, I am sure that Trueman must have hidden the V16 in the city, so let's go back."

His words made Caleb frown. Nevertheless, he took a sandwich and started to eat as he said, "Alright."

Nora didn't think much about it. After pouring some milk into a bowl of cereal and passing it to Xander, she looked at Caleb and said, "I can treat schizophrenia. If Justin's device doesn't work, then we'll do it the troublesome way and just have you take some medicine to drag Trueman out... I believe he will appear for sure once it's time to administer the V16."

Caleb thought for a moment and then nodded. "You are right."

Xander looked at Nora with his big round eyes. Then, he looked at Justin before finally looking at Caleb. He said, "Daddy..."

"What's wrong?"

Justin asked subconsciously. However, he then realized that Xander's words were directed at Caleb, and his expression turned even grumpier.

As for Caleb, he didn't react immediately. He blanked out for a moment before he finally looked at Xander and asked, "Are you talking to me?"

Xander looked at Nora and shook his head.

Nora said with a smile, "I told him to do it."

Her words made both Justin and Caleb look at her.

Justin had an extremely awful look on his face, whereas Caleb's eyes lit up a little.

But the next moment, Nora said, "Trueman impersonated you the last time. I was worried that Trueman had already appeared and was impersonating you, so I got Xander to do a small test."

So, that was what they were up to.

Justin's expression softened.

Caleb said helplessly, "It really is me. How about this? Let's think of a secret code."

Nora thought for a moment and then nodded. “Okay, that works too.”

The two decided on a secret code.

After breakfast, the group packed their things. Under Justin’s watch, everyone left the house in a grand fashion.

Needless to say, Caleb took the same vehicle as Justin, Nora, and Xander.

The van was extremely comfortable.

Unlike the journey here, there were all kinds of food imaginable in the van. Xander held a can of cola and munched on snacks, his short legs dangling off the seat as he watched the show on the TV screen on the back of the seat in front of him.

It started drizzling outside before anyone had even realized it.

The radio in the car was reporting a piece of news: “Some areas have been experiencing thunderstorms, which have caused landslides and mudslides. Fortunately, there were no casualties...”

“Why is the weather so bad all of a sudden?”

Nora murmured.

Justin sneered and glanced at Caleb. “You’ll have to ask Mr. Gray why he chose to come to a place like this.”

Located at the intersection point of three countries, which made it a place that none of the countries it bordered cared about, the place was bound to be poverty-stricken and worthless.

The area was poor and dilapidated, and the mountains were also left unsupervised.

Caleb smiled wryly.

Suddenly, Xander asked, “Will there be any danger of landslides on the path we’re taking?”

As soon as he said that, the van suddenly stopped.

Justin frowned and asked, “What’s the matter?”

In front, Lawrence suddenly ran over from the other car. When the window opened, he said, “Boss, this is terrible! It’s been raining the last two days, so there are landslides in the mountains. The road in front has collapsed!”

Following Lawrence’s report, the area where they were suddenly began to shake violently!!

Justin and Nora looked at each other. Neither of them said anything, and both reached out to grab Xander.

“Get out of the van! Quick!”

As he spoke, Justin managed to grab Xander first. He and Nora didn’t have the leisure to care about anything else anymore, and they jumped out of the car immediately.

Caleb also panicked. He stood up immediately and got out of the van with them.

But the moment he got off the van, he suddenly saw the people outside standing side by side. The van that had been shaking was still shaking violently.

However, the van was actually stationary on a giant shaking platform.

Nothing had collapsed at all.

All of this was Justin’s ploy.

Upon realizing this, Caleb was stunned. He frowned and looked at Justin, perplexed.

Justin cast his eyes down. He said, “The V16 must be on you. There is no way someone like Trueman would hide the V16 in the city. After all, that would be too risky. The fact that we didn’t find it could only mean that you’ve hidden it relatively well. In dangerous moments, people immediately grab the things that matter the most to them before evacuating. Even if you are Caleb at that moment, Trueman’s consciousness would still wake up, forcing you to make a subconscious reaction...”

As such, his and Nora’s subconscious reaction was to grab Xander.

Justin hadn’t informed Nora of this plan beforehand. The radio broadcast in the van, as well as the deliberate darkening of the car windows, were all to create a dim and dark atmosphere for the people in the van.

Only when Nora reacted naturally would Caleb believe what was happening.

The clothes that Caleb was wearing today were all clothing that Justin had specially prepared for him beforehand. When they were setting off, he must have hidden the V16 somewhere for sure.

Whatever Caleb was clutching at the moment was the hiding place of the V16!!

Chapter 984 - Why Should I Save Him?

The few of them looked at Caleb's hand—he was holding a black inconspicuous plastic bag.

When they were getting into the van, Justin had deliberately relaxed the security checks so that Trueman could bring things in. For Caleb to be holding that bag right now, this meant that...

The V16 was inside!

It seemed that Caleb hadn't expected himself to pick up the bag either. He was dumbfounded for a while before he finally followed everyone's gazes and looked at the bag in his hand.

Confused, he broke into a frown and said hesitantly, "It's true, I don't really remember what happened at that moment when I was getting off the van... So, the V16 is in the bag??"

Before Nora could speak, next to her, Lawrence stepped forward and reached out for the bag.

But Caleb's arm suddenly moved, and he took a couple of steps back to dodge Lawrence.

All of a sudden, he sneered, his voice turning sharp and piercing. "I didn't expect my dearest little brother to be so skilled at manipulating people! Ha, I've lost this time! Still, do you guys think that you can get the V16 so easily just with that little trick? Impossible!"

With his other hand that wasn't holding the black bag, he propelled himself off the side of the van and jumped right over to the other side. Just as everyone was about to go after him, Trueman suddenly stretched out his arm and held the black bag he was holding near the edge of the cliff.

They were in the mountains.

Below the mountains was an abyss.

The drizzling rain made the area, including the bottom, foggy, and it was impossible for one to see how deep the bottom went. If the V16 bottle dropped down the cliff, it might break!

Gene serums were liquids. Once the bottle broke, no one would be able to recover the contents, not even Nora.

“Stay back.”

A smug and brazen look came over Trueman’s countenance. He grinned at Nora and Justin and said, “If you come any further, I’ll throw the bottle down!”

Nora and Justin didn’t dare to move anymore.

Under the few people’s watchful eyes, Trueman opened the black plastic bag.

There was indeed a serum bottle in the bag!

Nora had specially designed the bottle for the V16. With it, the V16 could leave the refrigerator for a short time without the contents going bad. Nora looked at the bottle lid—it was intact.

Obviously, it had never been opened before.

All of this proved that the bottle in Trueman’s hand at the moment... was undoubtedly the V16!

She nodded at Justin.

Justin looked at Trueman. “If you think about it, Xander is your kin too... Can you really bear to completely fall out with us?”

Although Trueman was technically Xander's granduncle, Justin would never outright reveal the generational—and therefore seniority—gap between the two. Thus, he had used the term “kin” instead.

Trueman sneered. “So? It wouldn't matter even if he was my son. Didn't the old geezer himself kill a hundred of his own children?! Do you think that I, who grew up in an environment like that, would still have feelings for familial relations?”

Justin cast his eyes down. “You are surrounded by my men. Do you think you can escape?”

Trueman didn't care. “Who says I'm escaping? I'm going to inject the V16 into myself! Hahaha!”

Justin's expression darkened. “Even if you inject it into yourself and increase your lifespan, believe it or not, I can still kill you right here and now! You won't live to see another day!”

Trueman narrowed his eyes. “There's no point in saying all that to me. Once I inject the V16, you will never be able to kill me—because you would have to draw a sample of my blood as soon as possible in order to study the gene serum's chemical composition. After all, Professor Anti here would never give up on saving Xander, would she?”

Trueman behaved as though he already had the whole situation under control. He sneered and said, “I've already figured out all your tricks. If anyone dares to take a step forward, I will throw the gene serum down the cliff right away. If worse comes to worst, all of us...”

The look in his eyes suddenly turned cold and sinister, and there was no warmth in his voice at all as he said, “... can go to hell together!”

After saying that, he took a step forward.

“Stop!”

Nora shouted abruptly, afraid that he would really fall off the cliff with the gene serum.

He was already at the very edge of the cliff.

The corners of Trueman's lips suddenly curled into a smile again. He said, "Nora, I told you that you would regret it if you give the other V16 to Queenie. Let me ask you the same question now: do you regret what you've done?"

There were originally two gene serums.

Trueman didn't really have any intention to kill Xander.

When he ordered Queenie to take both gene serums with her back then, one was for his own use, while he was intending to use the other to force Nora into begging him for it...

But Nora had set up a trap instead. Not only had he almost been captured, but at the critical moment, she had also given the other gene serum to Queenie.

Trueman really wanted to see Nora breaking down in tears right now.

Nora stayed where she was and said firmly, "I don't regret anything."

She would never regret saving her aunt.

Seeing that she was still being stubborn even at a time like this, Trueman was infuriated. He sneered and said, "Then you can only watch helplessly as your son dies!"

"Trueman!" Nora called out to him. "Xander is your son too. He called you Daddy for five years. How about this? Come back here and give me the gene serum. One drop—that's all I will take. I will take only one drop for research, okay?"

"No."

Trueman smirked. “The dosage of this gene serum is meant for one person’s use. If a drop is missing, it may not take effect correctly. Do you think I am stupid? Besides...”

He looked at Xander. “Why should I save him?”

However, the moment he did, Trueman’s pupils suddenly shrank.

Everyone present was currently looking at him. They had kept Xander well-protected in the innermost part of the mountainous path, so no one ever thought that he would be in danger.

Nora and Justin were at the forefront, while Lawrence and Sean were also watching him.

The rest of the bodyguards all had their backs to Xander.

Therefore, no one noticed that a rock above Xander had suddenly come loose and was slowly rolling down...

Suddenly, a rock the size of Xander’s head fell from the sky!

But no one noticed anything!

Only Trueman, who had looked at Xander because of Nora’s mention of the boy, noticed it.

His pupils shrank, and a look of dilemma suddenly appeared on his countenance.

Should he save him?

Even if he called out now, by the time Nora and Justin reacted, it would definitely be too late...

Yet if he didn’t alert them about it, once the boulder fell and struck Xander’s head, the boy would die for sure!

He would die.

But wasn't it better if he was dead?

Then nobody would fight him for the V16 anymore!

The corners of the man's lips curled into a faint smile.

Go to hell!

But just as the thought formed in his mind...

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 985 - Xander, Look Out!

The look in the man's eyes suddenly changed.

Without any hesitation, he yelled, "Xander, look out!"

Then, he rushed toward Xander immediately without hesitation.

The mountainous path was not very wide, but neither was it narrow... There was a group of bodyguards around Xander, but even if they turned around in this instant and realized the danger he was in, it would still be too late for them to save him.

Upon hearing Trueman's shout, Nora abruptly turned her head and looked over. When she noticed the boulder, even though her body reacted faster than her brain, it was still too late.

She ran toward Xander frantically.

But in her heart, she knew that it was too late.

It was too late!

Was her son going to die in this place just as she was about to obtain the V16?

She couldn't accept this!

But right at this moment, a shadow rushed over and then... Bam!

The boulder crashed into the shadow.

Trueman... No, one might say that the man was Caleb at the moment because the aura around him had suddenly changed. At the most critical moment, he had switched personalities and become the one to protect Xander!!

However, even though he was fast enough, he still didn't manage to push the boy away but only held Xander tightly. The next moment, the rock struck his head.

The man lowered his head, his eyes meeting the other pair of big, grape-like, innocent eyes.

Then, he felt warm liquid trickling down his head.

One drop, two drops... They landed on Xander's face.

The little guy's eyes widened in shock as he stared at him in disbelief. A moment later, Xander's murmurs suddenly turned into a shout. "... Daddy!"

Although his voice was soft, the man still heard him.

The man stretched out his long slender fingers and wiped off the blood on his cheek for him. Then, the corners of his lips raised slightly into an arc.

He looked like he wanted to say something, yet it also looked as though he wanted to mock the boy for looking so funny at the moment. However, his vision went black, and he suddenly collapsed onto the ground...

At some point, the V16 that he had been holding tightly in his hands had also dropped to the ground.

By the time he reached Xander's side, it had already been too late for him to push the boy away. Thus, his palm had opened, causing the V16 to fall to the ground. In return, however, he had managed to protect Xander.

Nora stared at everything happening in front of her in shock and astonishment.

The bottle containing the V16 was extremely sturdy. After falling onto the ground, it rolled over to her feet.

She bent over and picked up the V16.

She couldn't tell if it was because the man had been holding the V16 for too long, but the V16 felt burning hot...

“Mommy, save Daddy!”

Xander suddenly shouted.

Nora handed the V16 to Justin and strode over to Xander, where she then bent over to check on Caleb. He had suffered serious trauma to his head, and he needed to be sent to the hospital for surgery at once!

—

In a small town not far away.

The hospital in the town was obviously simple and shabby.

However, the operating room was brightly-lit at the moment.

Little Xander sat stubbornly in the corridor outside, his eyes locked onto the operating room.

Justin stood beside him.

Xander's little hand clung to his sleeve. Seemingly feeling rather uneasy, he didn't let go even once. Suddenly, he looked at Justin and asked, “Will Daddy Trueman die? Is he going to be buried in the ground like Butterscotch?”

Butterscotch was one of Xander's dogs that had died a few months ago.

Justin kept quiet for a moment before he replied, “No, he won't. Believe in Mommy.”

Xander nodded and continued to stare at the operating room.

Chapter 986 - He Will Die!

Justin reached out to touch Xander's head, but when his hand was about to touch his head, Xander suddenly pulled away.

Justin's hand landed on nothing.

Xander said softly, "Daddy Trueman said that not just anyone can touch my head."

His eyes were a little red.

Justin squatted down to look Xander in the eyes. He turned his son to face him and he said, "Xander, it's not your fault."

"It's my fault! Daddy Trueman only got hurt because he was trying to save me!"

"That wasn't Daddy Trueman but Caleb." Justin didn't know how to explain it to his son. He said, "Trueman is a bad guy who has been using you all this time. The one who saved you is Uncle Caleb."

"I don't care. They are the same person!" Xander shook his head stubbornly. "I know Daddy has schizophrenia. No matter which personality of his is nice to me, they are the same person to me. I don't want him to die!"

He didn't want him to die.

Neither did Justin want anything to happen to Caleb. Otherwise, he would owe him a huge favor!

And Xander would remember him for life!

All the bad things he had previously done would be gone with his death.

And Nora would also feel guilty for the rest of her life.

It seemed that Caleb had done too much for her!

Thus, he didn't want him to die either!

The look in Justin's eyes turned solemn, and he looked at Xander intently. He said, "Don't worry, he won't die! You have to believe in your mom's medical skills!"

Those words seemed to give Xander strength.

Xander finally relaxed.

Another two hours passed.

Even though it was already three in the morning, Justin didn't tell Xander to go to bed or anything like that.

At six o'clock in the morning.

The sky was starting to light up.

At last, Nora came out of the operating room.

She looked exhausted. The moment she came out, Xander stood up abruptly.

The little boy looked at her hesitantly, wanting to ask something yet also too scared to do it.

"He'll live."

Nora's two-worded reply put Xander at ease immediately.

The next moment, a nurse wheeled Caleb, whose head was bandaged with gauze, out of the operating room on a gurney to the ward for observation.

Xander followed behind the nurse and entered the ward.

Justin walked over to Nora, and the two went to the ward together.

Caleb's injury was very serious—after all, he had been struck by a huge rock... Although he was out of danger, he was still admitted to the intensive care unit.

Xander stood outside the glass door of the intensive care unit and looked inside.

Nora walked over and stroked his hair. "Get some sleep."

"But Daddy Trueman..."

"I'll be watching over him here. Trust me, he won't die."

Xander looked at Nora for a long while before he finally nodded and said, "Okay."

Lawrence and Sean took him to a nearby hotel to rest.

Justin and Nora stayed outside the ward.

For a while, neither of them spoke, mainly because they didn't know what to say at a time like this. Neither of them felt any joy at beating Trueman and obtaining the V16.

In the middle of the night, the equipment in the intensive care unit suddenly started to beep.

Nora stood up abruptly and rushed into the ward.

But after a while, she suddenly staggered out of the ward...

"What's wrong?" Justin was shocked at her behavior.

Was Caleb dying?

As soon as the thought formed in his mind, Nora said, "His time is up."

“What time?”

“The time for him to take the V16. If the V16 is not administered to him right away, he will die.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 987 - Old Maddy

Immediately after Nora spoke, a group of people suddenly walked over.

There were two bodyguards with another person in the middle.

The bodyguards were both members of the Assassin Alliance while the person they had brought with them turned out to be someone familiar!

The person's face was full of burn scars—it was Old Maddy who had run away without telling her the truth back then!

Nora still remembered what Old Maddy had said back then. If they couldn't get the support of King from the Imperial League, they would never be able to defeat the mysterious organization...

Thinking about it again, Old Maddy must have already known at that time that the Imperial League was the one backing up the mysterious organization, right?

Therefore, Old Maddy hadn't believed that she could get King's support at all, so he had escaped with the truth to avoid provoking her into becoming enemies with the mysterious organization.

Nora hadn't stayed idle after Old Maddy's escape. She had gone straight to Karl to help find him. Once found, they were to bring him to her immediately.

Old Maddy stood in front of Nora and let out a small sigh. He said, "Ms. Nora."

Nora was not in a good mood. Her mind was preoccupied with thoughts of Caleb's condition, so she only nodded and said, "I finally found you. I'd like to inform you that King..."

But before she could finish, Old Maddy interrupted her. "I know."

A smiling Old Maddy looked at her and said, “I told you, I will naturally appear when the time comes. And now, I’m here.”

Nora: “...”

So, the bodyguards hadn’t found Old Maddy at all? Rather, Old Maddy had allowed himself to be caught on his own initiative?

Old Maddy looked at Justin. He said, “I’d been looking for clues about King all this time, and I finally found out that you’re King. If I had known, I wouldn’t have had to run away in the first place... I could have just told you two the truth.”

Nora gave him a wry smile. “We know the truth now.”

But when Old Maddy heard her, he looked into the ward. After a moment’s hesitation, he said, “No, there may still be something that you don’t know yet.”

“What?”

Old Maddy sighed. “I don’t know if I should say it, because telling you will only give you more trouble.”

“Say it.” Nora looked at him. “Actually, if you had told us the truth from the beginning, we might have been able to avoid all the detours we took after that.”

The old man nodded in agreement, and then said, “It’s about Trueman Yale.”

Nora was taken aback.

Old Maddy sighed. “I was crazy back then, but after I regained my senses, I started investigating the events back then. I knew about you giving birth to triplets back then.”

He said slowly, “I also saw with my own eyes Henry Smith taking your baby and handing him to the bodyguard to get rid of...”

Old Maddy clenched his jaw. “At that time, when the first baby was abandoned, they were going to drown him. I rushed forward to save him, but Henry got someone to stop me. Later, someone came forward and single-handedly saved the baby.”

Nora thought of what Caleb had once said, and it took her slightly by surprise. “Who was it?”

“It was Trueman.”

Old Maddy paused for a while and then went on. “Or maybe Caleb Gray. I didn’t know who he was at the time and he had shown up alone. A few bodyguards stopped us. When he rushed over, he was stabbed trying to save Xander. The stab he took from the back almost struck his heart and killed him on the spot. To be honest, he could have dodged the attack, but if he did, Xander would have fallen into the water...”

Nora stood frozen hearing those words.

Chapter 988 - Someone Has To Be The Villain

Old Maddy looked at Justin again. “At that time, he became seriously injured trying to save Xander. He wanted to save Pete too, but he simply couldn’t walk or move anymore, so he called Mr. Hunt... To be honest, be it Xander or Pete, it didn’t matter even if they had died back then because having one child alive was enough. You can say that it’s all thanks to Caleb that both of them survived...”

Old Maddy lowered his head. “I didn’t know that he was Trueman at that time; I thought he was just a young man with a crush on Ms. Nora. It was only after I recovered my memory that I realized that he used to hang around Ms. Nora in the past.”

Nora was a little stunned. “Really?”

Old Maddy nodded. “I was under orders to protect you at that time, so I had been observing you the whole time. The young Ms. Nora was round and chubby. He often came over to play with you and also occasionally gave you food...”

Nora had fallen ill and started to gain weight when she was five years old.

She vaguely remembered that she did meet a little boy when she was eight or nine years old...

The little boy, who was about twelve or thirteen years old, had stood outside the villa and mocked her for being a little fatty.

But occasionally, when her stepmother didn’t cook for her, he would give her something to eat... He had liked teasing her.

However, he had stopped visiting her after a while...

So, she and Caleb had already met in the past?

And...

Caleb didn't only save Xander this time; he had already saved Xander and Pete once back then!

One could say that without Caleb, the two children would have been killed by Henry long ago!

Nora stared blankly ahead.

There was only one V16 left now. To be honest, after hearing what Old Maddy said, she was now even more at a loss as to what to do.

However, she had always been hard-hearted.

And people were selfish.

Though Caleb had helped her a lot, Xander was her son. The degree of her closeness with them was of utmost importance at this moment. Besides, she had never been the traditional definition of a "good person".

She wasn't capable of abandoning her son to save Caleb.

She looked up at Justin, but saw the man frowning in silence.

Nora understood what he was thinking.

Justin couldn't make the decision for them.

Because Caleb had helped her and saved both Xander and Pete's lives. If Justin made the decision, Xander might hate him for the rest of his life, and their relationship as father and son would never ever be a harmonious one.

But someone had to be the villain here.

Nora took a deep breath. "I'll make the decision."

She looked at Justin intently and said, “The V16 is to be given to Xander.”

Justin frowned. “Even if he hates you in the future?”

“Yes,” Nora nodded and said, “Even if he hates me, he would still be alive. I don’t mind.”

Lawrence stood at the side.

He had immediately returned after he and Sean sent Xander back, in case his boss needed him.

After hearing what Nora said, Lawrence couldn’t help but sigh.

Sean had said that their boss would not be able to make the decision because he was afraid that Nora and Xander would hate him.

But in this instant, for the first time, Lawrence found himself admiring a woman and a mother from the bottom of his heart.

As expected, mothers were the ones who could make the greatest sacrifice.

Despite having to endure a lifetime of guilt and her son’s hatred in the future, Ms. Smith could still bring herself to make the decision... Compared to this, his boss’ dilemma suddenly didn’t seem as serious as hers anymore.

But Lawrence also understood that once Nora made this decision, she would have to live in guilt forever for the rest of her life. She would never be able to find peace.

She would owe someone a life for the rest of her own.

Would Ms. Smith, who felt that way, still spend her days happily with his boss?

Lawrence even thought of all the stories where people took their own lives along with the person who died because they owed their life to them...

Since they couldn’t save their life, they would die with them...

Ms. Smith wasn't such an extreme person, was she?

Lawrence, who had a bad feeling about it, suddenly became worried for his boss.

But when he turned his head and looked over, he saw that...

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 989 - Mommy And Daddy'S Wedding!!

It was extremely difficult for Nora to make this decision.

For the sake of her son, she was going to let down the man who had saved her whole family.

For the rest of her life, she would have to live owing someone else a life...

But so what?

If she could save her son, she would give up even her own life without any hesitation, let alone Caleb's!

But immediately after Nora made the difficult decision, the man in front of her suddenly sighed.

Nora looked at Justin. For the first time, she felt a little like she couldn't breathe.

What did he mean by that?

Did he not support her decision?

While she was wondering, the door of the ward was pushed open again, and the nurse came out. "Dr. Smith, the patient is in shock! We are attempting resuscitation, but the cause of the patient's condition is unknown. We noticed that he has cancer, so that may be it, but we don't know what exactly is going on. Dr. Smith!"

Beep, beep...

Along with the nurse's voice, the sound of the patient's heart beating again came from the ward. However, it was awfully weak, as though it would disappear the next second.

Nora clenched her fists. If she didn't administer the V16 to Caleb right away, he would die.

She turned her head abruptly to look at the ward. "I... will send him off."

This was her punishment to herself.

Witnessing the death of her son's savior... This scene would keep replaying in her mind in the future, making her heart hurt and filling her with shame and guilt.

Nora, you are such a cold-blooded person.

She dissed herself inwardly. But as soon as she took a step forward, a strong and warm hand suddenly held her wrist.

She turned around to see Justin placing the V16 in her hands.

On the man's handsome face, the beauty mark at the corner of his eye shimmered especially brightly. His voice was low and strong like the cello, which helped her find her bearings amid her turmoil and confusion. He said, "Give it to him."

The four words stunned Nora.

She looked at Justin in astonishment.

The two of them stood where they were.

Nora was wearing a white surgical gown and gloves. Her dark hair was coiled into a bun with a pencil, revealing her delicate and exquisite face. Her almond-shaped eyes were slightly widened at the moment.

The man was clad fully in black, and his black silk shirt shone a little under the light. His expression was calm, and his eyes were bright and piercing.

They looked at each other, both silent for a long while.

Beep...

The heartbeat in the ward was becoming slower and slower... Every beat seemed like it might be the last.

It was hard to tell just how much time had passed until Nora clasped her fingers on the V16 that Justin had handed her. Then, she turned and entered the operating room.

At the side, Lawrence rushed over suddenly and exclaimed, "Boss, you, you... How can you make such a decision? What about Xander?!"

Justin didn't say anything.

Lawrence shouted furiously, "I know you have three children, and you have the least amount of affection for Xander, but he's your son! You can't..."

By this point, Lawrence's voice was already all choked up.

In the past, Lawrence had disliked Xander and thought of the boy as a little devil.

After all, he had dark and sinister thoughts and loved playing tricks on the bodyguards and nannies the most. His behavior was also vicious and ruthless...

But when they came to pick them up this time, Lawrence had slowly come to understand Xander's personality.

The child was clearly pure and kind. All the bad things he'd done in the past were because he had been led astray...

In particular, Xander had stayed by Caleb's bed. Even when he was extremely sleepy, he had refused to go back to sleep. In the end, Nora had to order him to go back...

The child was very loyal and faithful!

Lawrence had started to become fond of him.

Yet!

Was the child he had just started to become fond of going to die soon?!

How could his boss make such a decision?

But he didn't dare to say too much either. He could only stare at the intensive care unit angrily.

Through the glass window, he saw Nora opening the V16 gene serum bottle. She drew out all the liquid in the syringe... Then, she looked at the needle.

Under the bright incandescent lights in the ward, the pillow reflected an icy sheen. She pushed the needle slightly to ensure that all the air inside was pushed out. Then, she suddenly looked behind her.

Through the glass door, she and Justin looked at each other.

Justin nodded.

Nora understood at once. She lowered her eyes and injected the V16 straight into Caleb's arm without hesitation!!

...

...

Caleb's heartbeat returned to normal.

Justin ordered one of his best bodyguards to stand guard over him, in case he turned into Trueman and escaped after he woke up.

The V16 was indeed powerful.

Even though Caleb had suffered grievous injuries to his head, after he was injected with the V16, his physical fitness became stronger and stronger, and his recovery speed was twice as fast as that of ordinary people. He indeed showed signs of longevity.

After ensuring that he was out of danger, Nora and Justin returned to the hotel.

The two entered the room at the same time.

Little Xander was lying on the bed. He was so small that one couldn't even see any depression on the soft mattress. It was as if there was no one on it at all...

Justin looked at Nora and suddenly asked, "How long does Xander have left?"

"One month."

Nora replied. She looked at Justin. "We've given the V16 to Caleb. What is Xander going to do?"

Justin contemplated for a moment, but before he could speak, Xander's voice suddenly reached them. "Mommy, I don't mind."

His words took Nora aback for a moment. Then, she turned to look at him.

Xander said, "Daddy saved me several times. I owe him a lot of lives. That's why I had decided to give him the gene serum long ago. This is my choice."

Rubbing his eyes, he sat up from the bed. Then, he looked at Nora with a smile and said, "I still have a month to live! When I was in the basement, I wanted to see the sea and the desert... But actually, what I really want to see is something else."

Nora's eyes were a little red. She walked over to the bed and sat down. Then, she picked up Xander and put him on her lap.

Five-year-olds were still very small.

Xander was not quite used to such intimacy.

He smiled and said, “I wanna see Mommy and Daddy’s wedding! You know what? Pete and Cherry really racked their brains to get you guys together. They told me that the two of them were the first to discover each other’s identities and that they first found each other in a hotel in California. But at that time, they were afraid that the two of you wouldn’t like each other and the two children might even end up separated from their respective parents, so they chose to hide the truth from you two...”

Back then, Cherry and Pete had really racked their brains and done everything they could to bring the two of them together.

They had even hidden their identities...

Time seemed to return to the very beginning when Nora returned to the United States with Cherry...

“I’ve achieved what they couldn’t. I’m a pretty good big brother, right?!”

Although Xander was sleepy, he looked very smug. He said, “This alone should be enough to make the two of them willingly acknowledge me as the eldest.”

“...”

“...”

Nora listened to Xander’s tender voice. The boy had finally become more cheerful and wasn’t so gloomy anymore.

Chapter 990 - Two More Things

“Why...? Why did you inject me with the V16?!”

In the van on its way home, Caleb, who had regained consciousness, couldn't help but glare at Justin. “I didn't want to live. Besides, I'm already thirty, whereas Xander is only five! Why did you give me the V16?!”

Xander was seated next to him, his short legs dangling off the seat as he kept his head down.

Nora looked ahead.

Justin ignored him.

The furious Caleb grabbed Justin's collar. “I've heard the specifics of what happened. Nora had decided to give the V16 to Xander! You were the one who stopped her! Why? Is it really only because you don't want them to feel guilty? But he's your son! Justin, is your heart made of stone? Or do you share the same mindset as that old geezer and feel that you can just father more children? Do you think that you already have enough children, so it doesn't matter even if you abandon one?”

He clenched his fists agitatedly, his eyes filled with bloodthirst as he stared at Justin.

Justin, whose head was lowered, reached over and pried off Caleb's fingers clutching his clothes one by one. He looked at Xander and asked, “Xander, do you regret it?”

Xander shook his head. “No, I don't.”

Justin pointed at him and said to Caleb, “Did you see that? Now, that's my son! This is his choice! Rather than living in guilt and suffering for the rest of his life, it is better that he goes with a blast instead!”

Caleb stared at him in astonishment. Only after a while did he spit out contemptuously, “You... Your heart must be made of stone!”

Xander took his hand. “Daddy Trueman, don’t blame Daddy. I am a man. If I was in the hospital at that time, I would have made the same choice as Daddy too. That’s what a real man should do!”

He raised his chin slightly.

Caleb looked at him. After a while, he finally heaved a sigh and touched his hair. “You’re only five. You’re no man...”

Xander didn’t speak anymore.

Caleb clenched his fists and looked at Nora. “Nora, what about you? Why did you let him convince you?”

Why?

Because the look in Justin’s eyes at that time had told her to trust him!

Even though Justin still hadn’t given her an explanation, Nora didn’t say much. She merely turned her head and looked out the window.

If there was someone in this world whom she could trust unconditionally, it was undoubtedly Justin.

Before she knew it, after going through so much together, it was only at this moment that Nora realized that she was leaving herself this unguarded against him.

While she was thinking, Caleb said, “By saving me, you’ve also saved Trueman. He...”

“No.”

Nora looked at him intently. “I will cure you of your schizophrenia and wipe him out completely!”

Her words made Caleb's eyes light up. "Can... can you really do it?"

Nora nodded. "But this needs time. It'll take a month at the earliest and half a year at the longest. Therefore, you'll have to go back to the States with me."

"Go back to the States?"

Caleb was stunned. "Are you guys going back to the States?"

But the path they were taking was clearly the way to Queenie's manor.

They were already back from the border.

Nora nodded. She looked at Xander with a tender glow in her eyes and said, "We've settled everything, so it's time for us to go home... to prepare for the wedding."

After realizing that the mysterious organization belonged to the Imperial League, Justin had cut off all of the mysterious organization's income sources.

In addition, the mysterious organization was ultimately still inferior to the Imperial League. By utilizing everything at his disposal, Justin had completely dissolved the mysterious organization.

The mysterious organization no longer existed.

The previous King who killed Nora's mother had long since died... Its new master, Trueman, was also right in front of them. Everything had ended.

Nora would never take her anger at the previous King's deeds out on Justin, of course... One should only hold the perpetrator responsible for their misdeeds. The previous King's wicked deeds had already ended during his time.

She had also finally fulfilled her mother's last wishes and destroyed the mysterious organization, wiping the terrifying biological laboratory off the face of the world...

Therefore, there were only two things left for her to do now.

First, she had to cure Caleb of schizophrenia and get rid of his other personality that had committed all those evil deeds. That would count as her revenge.

Secondly, she had to fulfill Xander's wish.

As soon as Nora said what she did, the car fell silent.

Two days later, they finally arrived at Queenie's residence. When Cherry and Pete saw them, they rushed forward excitedly and gathered around Nora and Justin happily.

Cherry clung to Nora's leg and said sweetly, "Mommy, Xander said that you're marrying Daddy. Is it true? Our family of five won't ever have to separate again in the future, right?"

Pete also looked up at them, his eyes brimming with anticipation.

Nora ruffled the two children's hair and looked at Justin.

Justin bent over, picked up Cherry, and nodded as he said, "Uh-huh. Is your luggage all packed? We're going... back to the States!"

Iris was in the United States. Moreover, Nora and Justin's friends were also there. Therefore, they were holding the wedding in the States!

As for Queenie...

Nora looked at the suitcase behind her, as well as at Ian whose wheelchair was being pushed by a caretaker. With a wave, she said, "Let's go back!"

—

After they chartered a plane back to the United States, they went back to the Smiths' residence first.

Joel and Tanya, who had already heard the news, were standing outside the door with smiles on their faces as they waited for them. The group reunited and chatted away.

Mia had already hopped over to Pete. The two little ones seemed to have endless things to talk about.

The group, however, had no idea that a “coup” was currently taking place at the Hunts’ residence.

Mrs. Hunt, whose hair had already turned white, was seated in the living room at the moment and watching the crowd there...

Everyone was questioning her.

“Why hasn’t Ms. Smith come to work for so long?”

“As expected, women really can’t do it after all? How can we support her when she doesn’t even show up?”

“Ma’am, Pete is still young, but Ms. Smith is so unreliable... Besides, as far as we know, she and Mr. Hunt are not legally married yet. In the eyes of the law, she doesn’t even qualify to manage the company!”

“Yes, that’s right. Therefore, we still recommend letting Raymond Hunt’s family take over the company. Ma’am, you must look at the big picture! Of course, if Raymond Hunt’s family can’t do it, then let’s get Herman back. He is Pete’s grandfather and Mr. Hunt’s father after all! He will never harm Pete!”

“All of us here are either too old or too young, yet Ms. Smith, the only one who can manage the company, isn’t legally married to Mr. Hunt. Ma’am, for the sake of the Hunts, make the call to get Herman back first!”

In the midst of the heated discussion, a thrilled Fanny, the housekeeper, rushed into the living room!!

Chapter 991 - Wedding Preparations!

“Ma’am, Ma’am! They’re back! They’re back...!”

Fanny was so excited that she was at a complete loss and stuttering.

Mrs. Hunt frowned. “Pete and the others are back?”

“Yes, yes! And, and...”

Mrs. Hunt understood that Nora, Cherry, and Xander had likely also returned.

But so what even if they were back?

Wasn’t their return just in time for the group of people here, then?

Nora had already blown these shareholders away with her commercial prowess. The strategies she had drafted in the company had impressed them all.

But who’d have expected them to suddenly find out that Nora and Justin hadn’t actually registered their marriage?!

In other words, Nora didn’t have the right to manage the Hunts’ assets at all!

The shareholders here were also terribly troubled, hence the commotion today.

They didn’t really have the intention to speak out against anything; it was just that the Hunts ultimately still had to be ones managing the Hunt Corporation...

Mrs. Hunt understood this even more than them.

When Justin first met with the accident, no one was clear about Nora and Justin's relationship—after all, the two of them were already living together. Who would have thought that they were not married yet?

They had successfully fudged the issue with that

Who knew that this issue would be brought to the surface when the authorities came to investigate tax issues?

Mrs. Hunt was extremely troubled. What should she do?

She waved to Fanny and suddenly said, "They must be tired from traveling. Let them rest first..."

At the very least, she mustn't push Nora out to handle all these now...

Mrs. Hunt was completely on Nora's side now.

But as soon as she spoke, footsteps came from the door, and Nora's calm voice traveled over. "We are not tired, Mrs. Hunt... Why are all of you here, though?"

As soon as she said that, someone said, "Ms. Smith, we just found out that you and Mr. Hunt are not married yet. You are not his legal wife, so you can't manage the company!"

"Oh."

Nora replied calmly, "Then I won't bother anymore."

Everyone: "?"

Mrs. Hunt was also stunned. "Who is going to manage it if you're washing your hands off it?"

"The one who owns the company, of course."

After speaking, Nora suddenly turned sideways. Behind her, three little ones walked in with a large figure.

There was some reflection at the door, so Mrs. Hunt couldn't see the man's face clearly right away.

But even if she couldn't...

How could Mrs. Hunt possibly fail to recognize the grandson she had raised?!

She got up suddenly and looked at Justin in disbelief!!

Her lips were trembling as she called out in surprise, "J-Justin?"

Justin strode forward and soon came up to Mrs. Hunt. He nodded and said, "Grandma."

"..."

For a while, the whole room fell silent.

Everyone looked at Justin incredulously.

Wasn't Justin dead?

Why was he showing up in front of everyone again?

Mrs. Hunt was the first to recover. She laughed and cried, and then she suddenly shouted, "You're alive!"

No wonder... no wonder Nora didn't shed a single tear after Justin's death... They must have planned this!

Couldn't Nora have let her in on it, though?!

But after experiencing so much, Mrs. Hunt had already let such things go.

With tears of excitement on her face, she said, “Good, good! This is wonderful!”

The shareholders at the side were also terribly excited. They said, “It’s great that you’re back, Mr. Hunt!”

“This is great. Looks like we won’t have to get Raymond and his family back from wherever they are...”

“Yes, and your father won’t have to come back to run the show anymore either...”

“The Hunt Corporation has found its leader!!”

“...”

As they spoke, Justin looked at them and suddenly put his arm around Nora’s shoulders. He said slowly, “Next, I want everyone to go all out and help me with one thing.”

“What is it?”

“Didn’t all of you say that Nora and I are not married yet? Prepare for the wedding, then! In 20 days, I will give her an unforgettable wedding!”

“... Okay!”

Following Justin’s words, the entire New York instantly became busy.

—

At Hotel Imperial Finest.

“Hello, all appointments for the week before and after the 26th have been canceled. We will compensate you ten times the penalty... Yes, you heard right, it’s ten times... Why? Because we’re holding the wedding of the century!”

In the kitchen.

“Reconfirm that the ingredients will be airlifted the morning of the 26th! They mustn’t arrive too early, or they will be stale by lunch at noon!”

...

At the Smiths.

Ian was in his room calculating something on the computer.

Next to him, Joel said, “Dad, give her more. All of this is for Nora... I will also give her 10% of the shares in my name...”

Ian sighed. “Don’t you think I want to? But she doesn’t want it! She says that it’s annoying when you have too many things!!”

Joel frowned. “Then what should we give her as a wedding gift?”

Next to them, a hesitant Tanya finally spoke up. She said, “Er... I don’t think she would really care even if you give her this much money. Instead, it’s better that you...”

“...That we do what?”

Both Ian and Joel looked at her.

Tanya coughed and replied, “It’s better that you gift her the most comfortable bed in the world.”

“...”

—

While everyone was having a headache over their choice of gifts...

At the Hunts’, Iris looked at Nora and Justin in shock and exclaimed, “What did you say? Xander only has one month left to live?!”

Chapter 992 - Will Xander Die?

A look of disbelief appeared on the faces of everyone who heard the news, and all of them looked at Nora. Even Mrs. Hunt looked shocked.

Nora looked at Justin and nodded. “Yes.”

Bang!

As Nora’s voice rang out, the glass in Mrs. Hunt’s hand dropped onto the floor.

She looked at Xander with a complicated look.

To be honest, Mrs. Hunt didn’t like the boy very much.

She had watched Pete, an honest and upright boy, grow up. However, from the day Xander had first come to their door, he had been awkward and contrary, and behaved in a terribly detestable way.

He was not a boy who behaved properly and followed the rules, which made him an outlier in Mrs. Hunt’s eyes.

However, Mrs. Hunt did not think that Xander would suddenly die so soon.

It seemed that all of Xander’s shortcomings didn’t matter anymore. It was also at this moment that everyone suddenly realized that Xander was actually just a child.

“It’s okay.”

Unexpectedly, Xander gave them a smile that looked as though he had seen through life itself and said, “I don’t feel any pain or discomfort now. See, I look totally fine, right? I supposedly have a month left to live, but who knows? At least I’m alright now! Besides, I can even be the ring-bearer at Mommy and Daddy’s wedding!”

When the others saw his smile, they could only force themselves to smile as well.

Surprisingly, it was Xander who rushed up to Pete and Cherry and said, “Daddy Trueman has told me that I’m actually the eldest! Both of you must acknowledge me as the big brother from now on, get it?”

Even Xander’s speech had become a little more cheerful.

It was as though he had really let go of all the gloominess from the past five years.

Pete looked him in the eye and replied, “Got it. You’re my elder brother.”

Cherry’s big round eyes were filled with tears. She grabbed Xander’s hand and said, “Xander, Cherry doesn’t want to leave you! ... Can you not die?”

As they said, only children and fools spoke the truth.

Nora looked at them and sighed.

In spite of the depressing atmosphere, though, all the Hunts and Smiths showed an unprecedented fighting spirit.

Xander was dying.

The boy’s only wish was for his parents to get married and to attend their wedding...

The thought of it made everyone’s hearts ache.

As a result...

The Smiths and the Hunts showed an unprecedented sense of unity, seemingly truly planning to turn the wedding into the wedding of the century!!

The two parties involved were not really required to handle the wedding preparations themselves, of course.

Nora was currently looking at Pete.

Pete had a firm look on his face and a determined look in his eyes. He asked, “Mommy, is Xander sick? Which part of his body is sick? Is it the heart? Or the kidney? Can you give him mine?”

Pete looked extremely serious and solemn. “I don’t want Xander to die.”

Nora: “...”

She sighed and touched Pete’s hair. “It’s the brain.”

Nora had done a CT scan of Xander’s whole body.

Xander’s gene modification was to the IQ, so the backlash had caused cancer cells to proliferate in his brain, leading to brain cancer. Unless the V16 was injected into him, with the world’s current medical science, there was no cure.

Pete was stunned. “Can the brain be changed?”

Nora: “...”

The two were chatting secretly, but right after Pete spoke, Xander pushed open the door and walked in. He said disdainfully, “Why are you so uninformed about medicine? Would I still be myself if my brain is changed? Even if Mommy’s medical skills are so amazing that she successfully performs the operation, who would be the one alive? You or me?”

Pete frowned. “Probably me. After all, one’s consciousness lies in the brain, which would be mine...”

Xander rested his chin on his hand. “I think so too. Didn’t someone go through a head transplant surgery in hopes of survival?”

Nora: “...”

The corners of her lips spasmed, and she ignored the two little boys’ wild imaginations. But the moment she exited the room, she saw Cherry looking at her with her eyes red.

“Mommy, will Xander really die?”

After asking the question, Cherry looked at her without blinking once.

Nora: “...”

Just as she was thinking about how she should answer the question, Cherry suddenly wiped her tears and said, “I know the answer now.”

Then, the little girl turned around and ran away.

Nora stared after her, the corners of her lips spasming.

The little girl had been by her side since she was a baby. A single look from her was all it took for Cherry to know what she was thinking.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 993 - Marriage!

When the Hunts and the Smiths were up to their necks in work, the parties involved suddenly disappeared.

Justin took Nora and the three little ones, plus an additional Caleb, with him, and the group of six suddenly vanished from the city.

When Joel received Nora's text message, the corners of his lips couldn't help but spasm.

"What's wrong?" Tanya asked.

Joel replied speechlessly, "They said that they are going on their honeymoon."

"..."

Were they already going on a honeymoon when they weren't even married yet?

But no one who knew about it asked them to return. Even when they encountered problems with the wedding preparation, no one bothered the family of five—they knew that the family was accompanying Xander on the last leg of his journey.

No one wanted to waste a minute or even a second of the time they had left together.

Although, somewhat contrary to the sorrowful and tragic scene that everyone was imagining...

On the beach.

The barefooted Xander stared at the sea and exclaimed, "Is that the sea?"

“Yeah!” Cherry put her hands on her hips and raised her head as she said, “I often visit the sea. Doesn’t it make you feel relaxed and revitalized?”

“Cherry has improved! She knows words like ‘revitalized’ now!” Pete said approvingly from the side.

“Yeah!” Xander echoed.

Cherry raised her chin. “Of course... no, wait, why do I feel like you two are mocking me? Boohoo! Daddy, Pete and Xander are bullying me!”

Right after Cherry’s words and her pretense of crying by rubbing her eyes with her hands, Justin, who was clad in a pair of cooling beach shorts, strode over.

Pete and Xander looked at each other and hurriedly got ready to flee.

Unfortunately, how could the two little ones possibly outrun the Big Brother of the Irvin School of Martial Arts famous for his agility?

Thus, the two were caught.

Then, the two children’s cries could be heard coming from the hotel.

“I was wrong, Daddy! I won’t bully my younger sister ever again!”

“Whoa, I’m dying, Daddy! Can you be a little less heavy-handed?!”

Afterwards.

Nora applied medicine on the two little boys’ butts.

Pete bore with the pain and kept quiet.

As for Xander, he couldn’t help complaining, “That tyrant!”

Nora chuckled, though her movements were gentle. “Who told you to say that you have never been spanked by your parents? We were just cooperating with you so that you won’t leave the world with regrets.”

“... Mommy, you’ve been led astray too!” Xander complained.

“Then Daddy can just spank him. Why spank me too?”

At the side, Justin coughed. “... It was habitual.”

“...”

Pete had mild autism when he was younger, so he was extremely disobedient. At that time, Justin didn’t know about his condition, so he had spanked him.

Pete was also very stubborn then, so he refused to cry out even when he was being spanked, which caused Justin to spank him even harder. This led to him developing a fever in the middle of the night. If Mrs. Hunt hadn’t checked in on him, no one would have noticed.

This was also the reason for the various conflicts between Pete and Justin in the beginning.

When Justin first took Pete to California, Chester had been quite afraid that Justin and the little troublemaker would fight. Neither of them was someone willing to give in. Fortunately, Pete and Cherry had switched places then. Whenever the little girl cried or wailed, Justin would give in immediately.

Come to think of it, it was true that Pete hadn’t been spanked for a really long time now.

While the family of five was happily spending time together, Caleb sat by himself in his room.

Even the door was closed.

There was no other way!

Nora wanted to treat his illness, so they had to bring him along. However! Justin didn’t want the man to disturb the family of five’s time together, so every time they arrived somewhere, he would lock him up.

He was no patient... He was a prisoner!

The corners of Caleb's lips spasmed.

At this moment, his expression suddenly changed, and Trueman appeared. "Ha, what a mockery. Aren't you jealous when you see their family of five living happily?"

"... I'm not jealous. Stop your nonsense. I will never listen to you!"

Trueman's voice was sharp as he said, "Of course you won't. Not when you have always been the primary personality! Caleb... You are so shameless!"

"I'm taking medicine prescribed to me by Nora every day. You will disappear after her wedding at the latest."

Upon hearing this, Trueman fell silent. After a while, in a low voice, he finally asked, "Will Xander's time also be up by then?"

"Yes, but with you accompanying Xander in the afterlife, maybe he won't be so lonely." After speaking, Caleb listened to the excitement in the next room and said, "How nice would it be if Xander didn't have to die?"

"You conniving little rat! ..."

As soon as Trueman's ranting began, Caleb suddenly stretched out a finger and said, "Shh. Listen to how happy they sound."

After that, his expression changed a few more times, but he ultimately successfully suppressed Trueman, who did not appear again.

Next, the six of them visited the deserts and grasslands.

Xander saw the desert and rode a big horse. Not only did he see the beautiful countryside scenery of the United States, Justin even arranged for a private plane to take them to look at the aurora!

During their twenty-day trip, everyone ran unrestrained, abandoning all their worldly troubles and playing to their hearts' content.

Twenty days later, they got on the plane and flew back home.

Because!

The wedding was about to begin!

The moment the helicopter landed at the airport, Joel and Tanya rushed over, grabbed Nora, and started walking out. “Come on, hurry up!”

“... What’s the big hurry?” asked Nora.

The corners of Joel’s lips spasmed. “You need to have your makeup done and your clothes changed immediately! It’s your wedding in two hours!”

“...”

Justin watched as the two of them dragged Nora into the car, which raced off into the distance. He couldn’t help but take two steps in that direction but was stopped by Brenda, Chester, Howard, and others. “You need to hurry up too, Justin! You have to change into the groom’s outfit and prepare for the wedding!”

Justin hesitated for a moment and then asked, “Isn’t the wedding tomorrow?”

Everyone: “???”

In the car returning to the Smiths’ residence, Nora couldn’t help but ask the same thing too.

Everyone who heard the question couldn’t help roaring inwardly, “How can you guys be so unreliable?! Did you get even the date of your wedding wrong?!”

—

By the time Nora returned to the Smiths’ residence, the makeup artist was already waiting for her.

After checking that Nora's skin was in good condition, the makeup artist couldn't help but exclaim, "Your skin is in such good condition, Ms. Smith! I'll just give you some simple foundation and lipstick! This way, you'll look especially healthy and radiant!"

"Okay."

Nora, who rarely wore makeup, sat in front of the mirror hesitantly.

The makeup artist applied powder on her face quickly with a brush. It felt quite comfortable, so Nora couldn't help but doze off.

When someone finally woke her up, Nora slowly opened her eyes. She was a little stunned when she looked in the mirror.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 994 - Stealing The Groom!

Now that the woman, who didn't usually wear makeup, was wearing a little makeup, her skin looked even more beautiful and radiant.

Everyone in the room looked at her in a daze.

They knew that Nora was good-looking, but they didn't expect her to be this stunning!

At the side, Tanya marveled, "Justin is such a lucky bastard!"

Joel and Ian also stared at her blankly.

Soon, the cars that were to take them to the church arrived...

The grand celebration was so huge that people were still marveling at it a few years later.

The cost of the wedding was nearly a legend on its own.

Be it the Hunts or the Smiths, both families seemed to want to give them a perfect wedding...

The decoration in the church was also done ingeniously. White and pink exotic roses covered the place. It was as if the imported flowers didn't cost a cent...

Nora's wedding dress was specially made by a world-renowned fashion designer. As time was of the essence, they had to pay through the nose for it...

On the wedding day, the guests at the wedding banquet also shocked the entire wealthy circle in New York City...

Not only did Queenie Schmidt, who was based in Switzerland, attend the wedding in person, but she was even seated on the bride's side.

People from the pugilistic world also attended the wedding. Quinn and Irvin sat at the same table, which amazed everyone.

The frail and sickly Dr. Silvester Zabe also attended the wedding...

There were also international car racers there...

Even the famous Karl Moore was there...

A singer of international fame also personally attended the wedding and sang a song that paid tribute to love...

...

...

All kinds of people one would never have imagined coming were all attending the wedding in person—and they were all kith and kin of the bride!

If there was a reporter here, they could make headlines on social media just by interviewing any random person there.

Unfortunately for them, security at the wedding was strict, so not a single reporter made it in.

Nevertheless, the reporters still caught wind of some news because...

Even the Queen of the UK was here!

It must be mentioned that visits by the Queen to other countries must be discussed in advance. However, the Queen's visit this time was very special. Her reason for visiting the United States was just to attend a wedding...

Although the princess of the UK had also attended little Cherry's birthday party the last time, she was ultimately still just a princess. Moreover, Lucy was the second child and not the heir appointed by the Queen. Therefore, her visit was in no way as astounding as the Queen's.

Never mind that the Queen was here, but when she saw the jewelry Nora was wearing, she said jealously, there and then, that she had failed to win it at an auction in the past. She hadn't expected to see it on Nora...

The wedding was immortalized as a legendary event.

When the bride appeared, the long wedding dress behind her was held up by three insanely adorable children who won over the entire audience. They carefully followed behind their mother and brought her to the tyrant.

When Ian placed Nora's hand in Justin's, he closed his eyes, and tears fell from the corners.

He didn't say anything emotional but only one sentence: "Lad, if you ever dare bully her, I will kill you!"

Justin didn't get mad. Instead, he nodded solemnly and replied, "Never."

The three little ones behind him also rushed over waving their fists. They said, "Daddy, if you dare bully Mommy in the future..."

The look in Justin's eyes turned frosty as he looked at them, the beauty mark at the corner of his eye shimmering. "What are the three of you going to do?"

Cherry found herself at a loss for words at once.

Pete and Xander looked at each other and said in unison, "We will bully Cherry!"

Cherry: "??"

Mr. Slave-To-His-Daughter Justin: "??"

He sneered and said, “Can the two of you bear to do that?”

Who were they kidding? Those two boys with sister complexes were way scarier than he was, alright?

He couldn’t imagine anyone being able to take Cherry as their wife in the future. With those two fearsome brothers around, they would probably drive everyone away!

After the wedding, at last, Nora sat on the bed at the Hunts’ manor to rest.

Everyone had a great time that day. Even those who knew that Xander didn’t have long to live all feigned happiness because no one wanted to leave behind any regrets.

The Queen was the only one somewhat distracted at the wedding. She looked at the door from time to time, as if waiting for someone.

While Nora was thinking about it, her cell phone suddenly rang.

When she answered the call, the Queen’s quiet voice came from the other end. “Black Cat, do you know that King got married today?”

“... Yes, I know,” replied Nora.

The Queen sighed. “I just knew you would be aware of King’s true identity. Why are you being such a defeatist, though?”

Nora: “?”

“In my heart, you are a heroine who does as she pleases! With your personality and skills, I thought you would have come to the wedding to steal the groom! You are too cowardly!”

Nora: “!!!”

The corners of her lips spasmed. Just as she was about to speak, the Queen coughed and spoke again. “But you still have a chance!”

Nora narrowed her eyes. “What chance?”

“Tonight, of course. They haven’t consummated their marriage yet. Why don’t I create an opportunity for you to take Justin away?”

“... You don’t have to do that anymore,” replied Nora.

“Huh? I know you’re skilled, but the Hunts’ security is still something else. You...” Suddenly, the Queen realized something and she asked in shock, “You’re not already at the Hunts’ manor, are you?”

Nora’s lips curled into a smile. “Yeah.”

The Queen sounded excited at once. “Where are you? I’ll come to you!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 995 - I'M Behind You

“... In the bridal chamber.”

“Huh? You’ve already sneaked into the bridal chamber? But Justin is not there right now... Oh, I get it!”

Nora raised her brows. Had the Queen finally realized who she was?

However, the next moment, the Queen said, “You must have gone there to assassinate Nora!”

Nora: “???”

The Queen continued smiling as she said, “You have my support, Black Cat! Still, you shouldn’t kill her. Although I hate Nora, Cherry would become a very pitiful child if she loses her mother. How about this? I think it’s better if you just kidnap Justin instead...”

As Nora listened to the Queen on the phone and the hurried footsteps outside the door, the corners of her lips curled into a smile.

The Queen continued. “Don’t be rash! It’s not right to take another person’s life. I know you are a killer, but if you kill Nora, Justin won’t let you off... Like you, I really dislike her, especially that poker face of hers that looks as though she never smiles. On top of that, she’s so lazy, and all she does every day is sleep... But Kitty, don’t be rash!”

Kitty? Nora’s lip corners spasmed.

The next moment, the Queen lowered her voice and said, “I’m at the door now. Where are you? I’ll pick you up and get you out of there...”

Then, she rushed into the bridal chamber.

Nora was alone in the room. Justin had dismissed everyone else because... Nora, who had to go to her own wedding as soon as she stepped off the plane, had become sleepy!

Thus, after the Queen entered and looked left and right, she didn't see Black Cat. She curled her lips disdainfully at Nora and said, "I'm here to tour your room. You don't mind, do you?"

Nora raised her brows and gestured to her to do as she pleased.

The Queen went straight into the bathroom. The room outside was huge, but there was only a big bed in it. There was nowhere else for one to hide, so the Queen had thought Black Cat was hiding in the bathroom.

It was only after she went in that she realized that Black Cat wasn't in there.

Thus, the Queen whispered into the phone, "Where on earth are you, Black Cat?"

"I'm on the bed."

"..."

The Queen was taken aback by the reply.

After replying, Nora hung up.

She felt that the Queen must have understood what she meant by now.

She waited for the Queen to exit the bathroom and face her. She wanted to know how the Queen would react since she had dissed Nora for so long just now.

The thought had only just formed when she spotted the Queen furtively sticking her head out of the bathroom.

The Queen had blue eyes and blond hair and was a beauty. Her current actions added some playfulness to her bearing, and there was none of the imposing aura she usually displayed before outsiders.

She smiled awkwardly and walked toward Nora.

Nora looked at her quietly, waiting for her to speak.

The Queen slowly came up to her. She said, “Uh... Your bed is really big!”

Nora raised her brows but said nothing.

The Queen coughed and touched her own hair. Then, she continued in Welsh, “Even my bed back in the UK is not as big and soft as yours... Can I try lying down on it for a while?”

Nora: “?”

She frowned, but right after, she saw the Queen suddenly throw herself on the bed. Then, she rolled across the bed all the way from the top to the end. In between, she even pressed her hands against the mattress, seemingly... looking for something?

Nora: “???????”

The corners of her lips spasmed, and she finally understood what the Queen was doing. Thus, she picked up her cell phone and dialed the Queen’s number.

The Queen got a shock when she saw her cell phone ringing. She gave Nora a smile, then hid at the side and asked in a low voice, “Which part of the bed are you at, Black Cat? Why didn’t I find any mechanisms on the bed?”

Nora: “...”

As expected, the Queen hadn’t realized anything at all!

When she made all those excuses and even rolled back and forth on her bed, she was actually searching for Black Cat.

By then, she couldn’t help but really suspect that the Queen had lost her mind. She slowly stood up, walked up to the Queen from the back, and said into the phone, “I’m behind you.”

“I’m behind you.”

The voice on the phone and the one in real life coming from behind her merged into one, causing the Queen to freeze. Then, she looked behind her incredulously.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 996 - Bed

The Queen's eyes widened and she stared at Nora in disbelief.

She stared hard at Nora. "You, you, you..."

"I'm Black Cat," Nora said directly, worried that the Queen hadn't still realized her identity, as well as to avoid causing further misunderstandings.

"... You are standing right in front of me! Of course I've realized!" The Queen replied.

"Oh. I was afraid you'd misunderstand and think that I kidnapped her."

Nora's reply made the Queen's eyes flicker. To be honest, when she first saw that Nora was holding Black Cat's cell phone, that had indeed been her first thought.

However, she would never admit it, so she raised her chin, snorted, and said, "I'm not that stupid!"

"..."

Just as Nora was about to speak, Brenda rushed in. She said, "My goodness, why are you here, Your Majesty? Justin instructed everyone to leave my sister-in-law alone and let her sleep. What if your presence here affects her?"

The Queen: "..."

When she wanted to speak, Brenda grabbed her arm and said to Nora, "Have a good sleep, Nora. It's all because I went to the bathroom and took my eyes off her. In just that split second, she made her way here. Don't worry, no one will disturb you after this!"

The Queen struggled. "I—"

“Yeah, yeah. Alright, let’s go, Your Majesty. I know you have feelings for Justin, but you mustn’t do anything to harm Nora, or I won’t let you off...”

“The audacity of you! How dare you talk to me like that! I’m the Queen!”

“You may be the Queen of the UK, but I’m not a citizen of the UK,” retorted Brenda.

“...”

The two left the room as they quarreled.

Brenda had received a task from Justin that day—even if the world came crashing down, no one was to disturb them in the bridal chamber!

And so...

When Chester, Howard, the rest of Justin’s cousins, his friends in New York, and other friends from the Smiths came to visit the bridal chamber, they saw Brenda standing at the door.

Brenda was wearing a fiery red mini dress. She brought a chair over and placed it at the entrance of the corridor to block everyone’s way. Then, she said righteously, “Do you have the heart to disturb those five people in the bridal chamber tonight?”

Xander was dying.

Everyone in New York had heard of it. Thus, when they heard what Brenda said, they lost interest in visiting the bridal chamber at once and even cast a glance full of heartache at it before leaving obediently.

Chester also started to entertain the continuous waves of guests on Justin’s behalf, so that he could go upstairs too.

—

Seeing that the bedroom had quietened, Nora finally lay down on the bed.

She had only just lay down when she heard rustling at the door. When she looked over, she saw three little heads—from top to bottom, they were Xander, Pete, and Cherry respectively—lined up in a row. The three little ones looked at Nora curiously.

When Nora looked over, Cherry asked, “Mommy, are you and Daddy making a baby brother for us tonight?”

—

Justin had to pretend to be slightly drunk before he could finally go upstairs.

It was his wedding night. The mere thought of what was about to come excited him.

It was just that when he was heading upstairs, he received a text message from Joel: “You’re welcome for the bed! It’ll definitely be to your convenience! You’ll love it!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 997 - The Dawning Sun Lights Up The Clouds

Joel had ordered someone to construct a big bed and specially sent it over. The mattress was even a high-tech one that felt extremely comfortable. It suited Nora very well, and also suited him and Nora sleeping on it together very well...

No matter what they did on it, the bed would never creak...

With his head lowered, he hurriedly entered the bridal chamber. Just as he was about to go for it, he suddenly spotted one... two... three... four people lying on the bed!

The three little ones were lying beside Nora and even rolling about. “Mommy, this bed is awesome! Uncle Joel is still the best, after all! He gave us such a huge bed!”

“Yes! This way, we can all sleep with Mommy! And it’s not a squeeze either...”

Justin: “???”

What the #% #&!!

He couldn’t help but curse in his head!!

Thanks a lot, Joel!!

The corners of his lips spasmed. He was about to speak when Cherry spotted him. She stood up at once and waved at him. “Come on over, Daddy! Let’s sleep together!”

The little girl scuttled inward and patted the area beside her. “You’re the biggest among us! This space here is yours!”

A resigned Justin walked over. His eyes met Nora's.

Nora looked breathtakingly beautiful that day. From the very moment he laid eyes on her at the wedding, he couldn't look away anymore. Even Cherry couldn't take his attention away from her.

He smiled. But before he could speak, Nora said, "You looked pretty handsome today."

Justin paused when he heard her. Then, he suddenly broke into a grin.

Xander looked at Justin and then at Nora. Suddenly, he said, "Hey tyr... Daddy. You didn't say any sweet nothings to Mommy at the wedding today. You have to say one before you can get on the bed!"

Pete also nodded. "Yes, you must say that you love Mommy! Otherwise, what if you bully her in the future?"

"Why would I bully her? I can't even beat her in a fight," said Justin.

At the side, Cherry suddenly asked, "Daddy, you're King, so you're really powerful; but so is Mommy. In that case, who is stronger, you or Mommy?"

Nora was also curious. She looked at him eagerly and asked, "Which one of us is the stronger one?"

One was the Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts while the other was the Big Brother of the Irvin School of Martial Arts...

Both of them were equally strong, but in their private fights, no one ever came out the winner because Justin always let her win.

Justin looked at the four in front of him. Suddenly, he smiled and slowly said, "That which wafts and drifts, yet is neither smoke nor clouds; and that which is lush and rich, circling about; that is what we know as the clouds of auspice."

As soon as those words came out of his mouth, Cherry and Xander were stunned. "What does that mean?"

Pete sighed silently and explained, “Those lines come from the ‘Records of the Grand Historian: Treatise on the Celestial Offices’. It means that the morning glow lights up the sky, dyeing the clouds into dazzling colors, thereby complementing each other.”

The tyrant was likening himself to the sun and Mommy to the clouds.

Xander and Cherry looked at each other, both suddenly feeling that they should study harder!

Cherry then asked, “Daddy, are you saying that you and Mommy are equally strong?”

“No, I’m not as good as her.”

Justin replied honestly as he looked at Nora affectionately.

As King, and as a leading figure in various industries, he had always been arrogant and never bowed down to anyone. However, in this instant, as he gazed at the woman before him, only one sentence came to his mind:

“The dawning sun lights up the clouds.”

Even if he was the sun, he was willing to stand behind the clouds and let her shine.

—

That night, the family of five slept together.

Even after spending more than 20 days outside having fun, their relationship was still surprisingly good.

Nora also had a rare good night’s sleep. Perhaps she was tired or perhaps it was something else, but the corners of her lips curled into a smile in her dreams.

The next day, when she woke up and opened her eyes, she met Cherry and Pete’s eyes at once.

When Nora stretched, Cherry immediately gestured at her to keep it down. She said, “Shh. Mommy, Xander is sleeping in like you. He has already slept for 16 hours, but he’s still not up!”

When she said this, Nora froze.

Her head turned to the side sharply and she looked at the face fast asleep beside her...

Was one month over so soon?

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 998 - The Only Person You Can Count On Is Yourself

Xander's gene modification was for his IQ. Therefore, when something went wrong with his body, his symptoms were not as intense as Caleb's and Queenie's. Instead, it would only be apparent in one way—falling into a coma.

Nora checked his breathing. When she found that he was breathing evenly, she let out a sigh of relief.

Actually, even if Xander were to die, he would only be brain-dead.

Even Nora could not be sure when he would wake up again.

Nora's grim expression filled the whole Hunt residence with a depressive mood.

It wasn't until ten o'clock in the evening that Xander finally woke up.

The people around him breathed a sigh of relief at once.

Cherry was the first to speak. "Xander, why did you sleep for so long? You've become as lazy as Mommy!"

Pete kept quiet.

No one had told Cherry about what was soon to come. All of them wanted to protect her.

When Xander heard her, his expression became dazed for a while before he finally said with a smile, "Tsk, I'm having a competition with Pete to see who can sleep for a longer time. As I expected, I managed to sleep longer. I must be the eldest among us!"

Xander had a smug look on his face.

Cherry, who didn't know better, nodded again and again. "Yeah! You're amazing! Even Mommy can't sleep as much as you!"

Xander sat up and raised his chin.

Next to him, Pete stayed quiet for a long while before he finally said, "Yeah, you're more impressive. You're the older brother."

Xander's eyes lit up.

Seeing the three children's interaction, Nora and Justin couldn't help but say, "Alright, let's get Xander something to eat!"

The group accompanied Xander downstairs for dinner.

Cherry yawned repeatedly.

She was usually already in bed by this time.

Xander ate something and then said to Cherry, "Cherry, you can go to sleep first."

"No, I have to wait for Pete and Xander to sleep with me!"

Just as Nora was about to speak, Xander nodded and replied, "Okay, then let's go to sleep."

The three little ones went upstairs again.

A worried Nora stood outside their door, whereupon she heard the children's conversation coming from within.

Cherry asked, "Xander, why aren't you sleeping?"

"I already slept the entire day. I'd be a pig if I could fall asleep that quickly!" Xander replied.

Cherry said, "... Oh, that's true. I'm so sleepy, though."

Xander replied, "Go to bed, Cherry. Can you promise me one thing, though?"

"What is it?"

"Even if you want to play games all the time, you still have to learn and master other skills. Be it Pete, Daddy, Mommy, or any of our other relatives, I know any one of them can feed you your whole life, but you are the only one you can really count on!"

Cherry didn't quite understand. Nevertheless, the sharp girl caught something in his words. She asked, "Why aren't you going to protect me?"

"Because I may not be able to grow up with you anymore."

Cherry was so sleepy that she sounded like she was in a daze. She said, "Don't be anxious, Xander. We must grow up bit by bit... yeah..."

As she managed to speak the last few words, she fell asleep.

Nora cast her eyes down, her heart aching a little.

She wanted to push the door open and enter, but Justin stopped her and shook his head.

Sure enough, a short while later, they heard a voice in the room again. "Are you asleep?"

It was Pete.

Xander replied, "Of course not."

"... Why aren't you sleeping?" asked Pete.

"..." Xander kept quiet for a while before he finally replied, "Because I'm afraid that if I fall asleep, I won't be able to wake up again."

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 999 - That Little Rascal

“...”

Outside the door, Nora felt her heart clenching again when she heard Xander.

Then, she heard rustling movements from Pete.

“What are you doing?” asked Xander.

“Getting out of bed.”

“Why are you getting out of bed?”

“Aren’t you having trouble falling asleep? In that case, finish everything you want to do before you go to bed again.”

Xander paused. “... The way you’re behaving makes it seem like you’re the older brother.”

Pete replied, “You’re the older one.”

“Hey, I don’t need you to give in to me just because you pity me!”

“Then am I the older brother?”

“Bah! Daddy Trueman said that he saved me first! It’s only because he didn’t have the strength left to save you that he approached the tyrant... You were born after me!”

“Oh.”

“What do you mean ‘oh’? You don’t believe me?”

“I do, I guess.”

“What do you mean ‘I guess’?! Do you believe me or not?!”

“...”

The two boys in the room spoke very softly, catching anyone who heard them between laughter and tears. Nora and Justin looked at each other and then stepped aside. Then, they saw the two little boys, who had dressed themselves, walking out.

Pete tilted his head and asked, “What do you want to do?”

“Come with me.”

Nora followed after the two boys and saw them sneaking into the garden.

Xander came to a spot. He looked around, stepped on it a few times, and then said, “Let’s dig a hole here!”

Pete: “?”

Xander said, “I’ve already looked around. From here, I can see your room, Cherry’s room, as well as Daddy and Mommy’s room. This place has the best view! So, you must bury me here after I die! I also want to move Butterscotch and Buttercup here to accompany me...”

After saying this, a quiet Pete walked forward.

“Where are you going?” asked Xander.

“Don’t you need a shovel to dig a hole?”

“...”

The two little guys went off to get their shovels and returned a while later. Then, in the dark of the night, they started digging a hole in the garden.

Both of them were smart, so they dug the pit a little faster than others, taking only an hour to do so. After they were done, Xander even tossed about inside. “Yeah, it’s big enough. There’s enough room for me to turn over.”

Pete: “...”

Xander spoke again. “It’s just that it’s kinda dark. Can you find me a luminous pearl?”

“Okay.”

Pete thought about it for a while and then added, “Great-grandma has a big one. I’ll steal it for you another day.”

“Steal?”

“Yeah. I asked her for it before, but she refused to give it to me.”

“Alright, then.”

Xander spoke again. “Let’s get a quilt. It’s freezing inside.”

“Okay.”

The two of them went back into the house and secretly returned with a quilt. They stuffed it into the pit, padding it comfortably. Xander lay down. Finding that it felt pretty comfortable, he was finally satisfied. He said, “Okay, that would do. I will stay here after I die!”

Satisfied, he dusted off his hands. Then, he patted Pete’s shoulder and said, “Peter Hunt, take care of our little sister and Mommy when your big brother is gone! Don’t let anyone bully them!”

Pete said seriously, “There’s still Daddy...”

“I’m talking precisely about the tyrant. Mommy is so strong; no one can bully her except the tyrant.”

Pete said, “... Actually, Daddy isn’t half-bad.”

“Hah.”

The two boys started walking back home as they chatted.

Nora, who was standing behind the two: “...”

She turned her head to look at the sullen-looking Justin and she couldn't help but laugh. “C'mon now, are you really going to hold it against a child?”

Justin didn't say anything, but there was anger in his eyes.

Hah, initially, he had wanted to say something because the boy was so pitiful. But since the little rascal had the balls to say that about him, he would let him be frightened for a while more!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1000 - A Mistake

When the couple turned around to catch up to the boys, they noticed someone flash by nearby—it was Caleb.

All three noticed one another. Caleb paused and looked at Nora.

Both Nora and Justin stopped and then approached Caleb.

Caleb also walked toward them.

They met in the middle where all three stopped.

Caleb, who looked solemn, frowned and asked, “Isn’t there any other solution we can try? Is Xander really going to die? If you can, I’d like you to extract the V16 from my blood and administer it to him.”

Nora replied, “You know it yourself that the V16 is absorbed into the cells once it has been injected into someone. Doing that is useless now.”

Caleb then asked, “It’s been so long. Haven’t you found the V16 formula yet?”

Nora shook her head. “You’ve been with us the whole time over the last month. When am I supposed to find the time to do any research?”

Caleb suddenly became furious. Seemingly a little crazed, he snapped, “So, why did you do that? Why didn’t you use this time to study the V16 instead of wasting time traveling around? If you had studied the V16 in the lab from the start, maybe you’d already have found the formula by now! And Xander wouldn’t have had to die anymore!”

Nora replied, “Xander made his choice.”

The chances of her successfully developing the V16 in the laboratory within a month were close to zero.

So many people had spent decades trying to develop the V16 and still failed. Nora couldn't say for sure that she could develop something like that in just a few months.

She had already made her decision with regard to this matter a few months ago.

Moreover, Lily had been in the laboratory all this time and even so, she had only just managed to outline the real situation. After all, genetic modification was a brand-new field for them. They had never looked into it before.

Upon hearing her reply, Caleb realized that his anger was utterly unreasonable. He lowered his head and took a deep breath.

Only then did the trio enter the villa. When they were about to head up the stairs, they saw Xander and Pete looking at them quietly.

The few of them were surprised.

Pete nudged Xander. "Go tell them."

Xander fidgeted awkwardly but stayed where he was.

Seeing this, Nora stepped forward and stroked Xander's hair. "What's the matter? Is something wrong?"

"Mommy, I... I want a kiss from you."

Xander made a request to Nora.

Nora nodded and gave him a kiss on the cheek.

Xander then looked at Justin. "Tyr... Daddy, lower your head."

Justin lowered his head.

Xander gave him a kiss on the cheek.

Lastly, Xander looked at Caleb, who took a step forward and squatted down, stretching out his arms to give him a hug.

However, Xander kept quiet. After some time, he suddenly looked at Nora. “Mommy, would you be able to cure Daddy Trueman’s illness?”

Over the past month, Nora had been treating Caleb’s condition the whole time. He had almost fully recovered from schizophrenia. Trueman pretty much never appeared the entire time.

Nora nodded. “Yes, I will.”

Xander made another request. “Can you do it before I die?”

“...” Nora was taken aback.

But faced with the stubbornness in Xander’s eyes, Nora could only sigh and reply, “It’ll more or less be done over the next couple of days. Trueman will be killed off completely and he will never appear again.”

Only then did Xander nod. He said seriously, “Then I will wake up again tomorrow. I want to see Daddy Trueman recovering from his illness with my own eyes.”

“Okay.”

Nora stroked his hair.

Xander yawned. Rubbing his eyes, he then said, “I’m sleepy.”

“Go to sleep, then.”

Nora said gently, “You will wake up for sure.”

“Okay.”

Nora went up the stairs, took Xander and Pete to their room, and watched the two little boys get into bed. Xander was awfully sleepy. Unable to control his body, he fell asleep immediately after lying down.

Pete's closed eyes were still moving about, though.

When Nora noticed, she smiled and flicked his forehead. Pete opened his eyes and looked at her. "Mommy, Xander won't die, right?"

A surprised Nora asked, "Why do you say that?"

"Once, when I was sick and nearly died, the tyrant held me all night, but he's not treating Xander with the same tenderness now. This means that he won't die, right?"

"..." After a long silence, Nora finally replied, "I don't know, either."

She was telling the truth.

Since the moment Justin made the decision for them, Nora hadn't once asked him about his plan. She had done as he said merely because she trusted him.

She also felt that Justin had a backup plan.

It was just that she didn't know what it was...

Pete was not disappointed at her reply, though. He breathed a sigh of relief and said, "In that case, it's pretty much confirmed."

Nora slowly broke into a smile. "Perhaps we will have the answer tomorrow."

Because Xander's body wouldn't be able to hold out any longer now.

Pete nodded.

—

In a guest room.

Caleb walked in and entered the bathroom. When he was washing up, he took off his glasses and looked in the mirror.

In the mirror, Caleb's smile slowly disappeared and his expression suddenly turned into one of extreme indifference.

Suddenly, he said, "You'll be dead tomorrow. Is there anything left that you want to say?"

Almost as soon as he spoke, his expression became animated. The corners of his lips rose slightly into a smirk, and his voice also turned a bit shrill. "Caleb, you are so shameless!"

After he spoke, his expression turned into one of indifference again. "I didn't let you out so that you could throw insults at me."

"Then what did you do that for? To bid me farewell? Ha, are you that kind? Caleb, you stole my credit and my son! And now, you're here to rob me of my life and my body! You sure are scheming! I must have been blind to misjudge you so badly in the past! Who would have thought that you'd be the biggest winner in the end?!"

OceanofPDF.com

Volume 11

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1001 - She Killed The Wrong Person

Upon hearing this, Caleb revealed a touch of a smile. “What are you talking about? How is it that I don’t understand what you’re saying? Trueman, you are the eccentric and vicious extremist here. What does that have to do with me? I am the gentle and considerate hero who betrayed even himself in order to take down the mysterious organization!”

His words enraged Trueman. “You’re shameless! Who did you even betray?! You only went to the special department because I wanted you to! I told you to do it! We were going to fight the old King together!”

Caleb replied, “Is that so? But did you put up any resistance? Haven’t you been doing as he wished the whole time? Besides... this body will only survive if I’m the one in it, no? If you’re the one in it, you would be arrested. Those things you did... Heh... But I’m different; I’m the special department’s informant! In everyone’s eyes, I’m the good guy now! Whereas you, Trueman, are a heinous villain! Besides, thanks to Dr. Smith, you haven’t shown up at all during this period of time, have you? Don’t worry, when you’re gone and I get full control over this body, I will find a way to get Nora for you. I know you’re in love with that little fatty... Otherwise, you wouldn’t have visited her when you were younger, right?”

“CALEB GRAY! What are you planning to do to my little servant? She’s my little servant! Not yours!!” Trueman suddenly yelled.

“That’s not something you need to worry about, Trueman. Although you are the primary personality, I am the one who truly controls this body. Don’t forget how you couldn’t do anything except shout and be angry in the past! Your anger was utterly useless; your arrogance was no different from a joke in front of the old King! If I hadn’t shown up and helped you step by step to become what you are today, do you think you’d have been any different from those children who died in the lab? Anger is just a display of your incompetence! I summoned you today to say goodbye to you. No matter how much you resist, it's useless, hahaha! You are completely under my control now, so you can't come out at all... You should be thanking me. If I hadn't let you out, you would just have fallen into a deep sleep instead!"

Trueman was stunned.

He fell silent, aware that what Caleb said was true.

All his anger was pointless at this moment.

Suddenly, he stopped being angry. He said, "Okay, even if everything you said is true—in fact, I can even let myself be killed off tomorrow without fighting back—I only want you to promise me one thing."

"What is it?"

"Don't do anything to that family anymore."

Caleb smiled. "Sure, I'll promise you that. Do you trust me, though?"

"No."

Trueman answered truthfully.

"Then why bother saying that? My dearest big brother, give it some good thought. What else do you want to say?"

Trueman clenched his fists.

Anger was a display of incompetence.

Indeed.

He didn't know what to do except throw temper tantrums, which was probably why they were in this situation today.

He was clearly the one who had saved Xander and Pete, but Nora and Justin obviously credited Caleb for it. As for Xander... he must also think that Daddy Trueman was a bad person, right? Only Caleb was a good man to him...

Trueman hung his head, which he had held up all this time, in defeat.

He suddenly said, "Xander is about to die. I won't tell anyone about this, so I hope you can also keep it a secret."

He didn't want Xander to leave this world with regrets.

Caleb replied, "Of course."

After a while, Trueman suddenly said, "Xander loves ramen the most. I hope you can take him out for some tomorrow. I promised him that I would."

"Okay."

"Xander has always wanted a big helium balloon. He didn't want to be trapped in the basement forever, he wanted to fly into the sky. I hope you will buy him one. Buy a cheery one. He would like that."

"Okay."

"... Back then, when I visited the little fatty and gave her food, I only did it so that she would agree to be my servant. But she refused so adamantly, she would rather starve to death than agree to it. Toward the end, she even bit my hand..."

Trueman lowered his head and raised his arm. Sure enough, he saw a bite mark on his forearm.

He said, "I was so mad at the time that I threw the food to her and arrogantly declared that I would make her my servant one day."

"Why are you telling me all this?"

Trueman paused and then replied, "Since I'm going to die while you're going to live on as me, I'll give you a clear and detailed account of some of the things that happened back then. I hope you can let Xander leave without any regrets, and I also hope that you can keep these things a secret forever and never let them know... that she killed the wrong person.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1002 - Goodbye!

Caleb kept his silence and did not speak.

Trueman went on. “Although you and I share a body, you don’t actually know the things I’ve done. But I’m willing to tell you all these details now... I just hope that you can refrain from hurting her in the future!

“Even if you survive, you will still have to live under the special department’s surveillance for the rest of your life, so you won’t be able to try any tricks. In that case, I shall fill in for you the details of how I had interacted with them and let you become the real me...”

Trueman heaved a quiet sigh and added, “... as thanks for your appearance back then, which saved me.”

Back then, in the mysterious organization’s laboratory, as Trueman watched his brothers and sisters die one by one, he had been extremely furious. He was violent and angry, yet also helpless.

It was at this time that Caleb had appeared.

With his appearance, Trueman stopped butting heads with the mysterious organization and started to adopt a soft approach instead. Not only did he become the sole survivor, but he even gained the old King’s approval and became the mysterious organization’s heir!

Back then, the old King had wanted him to conceive a child with Nora.

However, the furious Trueman didn’t want to obey his orders. As though he was playing a prank, he found a handsome guy to take his place, planning to use him to neutralize the fatty’s genes...

At that time, Trueman’s intentions really were to just defy the old King...

Trueman's personality was indeed like what outsiders described him to be—untamed and uninhibited like a devil. Yet, at the same time, he was also a bit guileless.

Growing up in the basement, no one had ever taught him to differentiate between good and evil, so he didn't understand what was good and what was evil. He was a little devil who wouldn't even know if he did something wrong.

As a result, Xander, who grew up under his care, also had a similar personality.

Even if he was inherently good, he did not know how to differentiate between right and wrong, or good and evil.

However, Xander had Nora and Justin to teach him whereas Trueman didn't!

On the other hand, Caleb was a hypocrite. He smiled all the time, but in truth, he was cunning and vicious. That was why he had planned this whole conspiracy and pretended to be Trueman to cheat Nora out of the V16!

In fact, he had even tricked Nora into treating his mental illness so that he could fully take over the body!

Trueman couldn't resist even if he wanted to.

No...

It didn't become like this because Nora had treated his illness; it was because he had been secretly taking medicine behind Trueman's back, causing their control of the body to gradually go out of balance and lean toward him...

It was now impossible for Trueman to appear even if he wanted to!

Upon hearing Trueman, Caleb sneered and asked, "So, are you saying all this so that I would let you say goodbye to Xander?"

Before their personalities could switch to Trueman, Caleb said, “That’s impossible!”

He would never give Trueman the chance to take back the body and expose the truth.

Therefore, he would never let Trueman say his goodbyes to Xander.

Trueman’s lips curled into a smile as he said, “I know you’ll definitely be afraid and refuse to let me do it. I’m dying anyway; does it matter whether I say goodbye or not?”

“That’s true. In that case, sweet dreams, my brother.”

After speaking, Caleb closed his eyes. By the time he opened them again, the look in his eyes had become gentle again.

—

The next day.

Xander woke up even later than last time. This time, he slept all the way until eleven o’clock at night.

By the time he woke up, the sky was already dark.

Everyone accompanied him to dinner. Then, the group marched to Caleb’s room.

In the room, a dish with a lid over it sat on the table.

As soon as they entered, Caleb pointed to the dish on the table and said, “Xander, this is for you.”

Xander was taken aback.

He looked at the dish, his eyes lighting up. “Are you the Daddy Trueman who treats me nicely every time?”

Caleb did not say anything.

Xander slowly walked toward the dish and reached out for it.

Caleb's eyes were fixed on him.

No one noticed the corners of his lips curling upward slightly, nor the instantaneous change in his eyes.

Xander removed the lid...

Underneath the lid was a cheeseburger!

Xander broke into a smile. "Daddy, you remembered that I like cheeseburgers!"

He picked up the burger and took a couple of bites.

Caleb, however, suppressed the smirk on his lips.

At the same time, two personalities appeared in his mind.

"... You already knew!" Trueman exclaimed.

Caleb sneered. "Yes. There was no way I was going to trust you when you were telling me so much, of course. If I had prepared ramen for Xander like what you told me to, I would probably have given myself away by now, right? Come on, do you really think that I haven't been doing anything all these years? I am aware of all the times you visited that boy! I had installed a surveillance camera at the place where you locked him up!"

Trueman: "!!"

Caleb went on. "I certainly am not very sure about your history with Nora, but it doesn't seem like it's necessary for me to know anymore anyway."

Trueman was furious and raging. He screamed, "You're shameless! Caleb, you're so shameless! She is my little servant! And he is my son! You are so shameless!"

“Trueman, whether it’s Nora or Xander, they are both mine now.”

Caleb laughed.

He opened his eyes and looked at Nora. “Let’s do it. Is this the last acupuncture session?”

“Yes.”

Nora walked over slowly and picked up a silver needle. She said to Caleb, “It may take a bit longer this time, and you will also fall asleep. The next time you wake up, he will be gone forever.”

“Okay.”

With a gentle smile, Caleb lay down on the specialized bed meant for conducting acupuncture and rested both his hands on his chest. When he thought of how Trueman was about to disappear whereas he would fully take over the body and become a good person... A smile appeared on his face.

His smile was so relaxed.

Then, he felt Nora inserting the needle in her hand into his head.

In his ear was her low and mellow voice. “Go to sleep.”

He said, “Nora, have I ever told you that I was in love with you too?”

Nora kept quiet and inserted another needle instead.

Caleb began to doze off.

Before he fell asleep, he could vaguely hear Trueman’s furious shouts in his mind. He seemed like he was about to dissipate and fade away as he yelled, “Shameless! You’re shameless!”

The corners of Caleb’s lips rose into a smile. “Goodbye, Trueman.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1003 - Stay

Trueman was trapped in the body.

He felt like he was watching a replay of his entire life.

From the moment he was born, he had been injected with the gene serum in the laboratory. People observed his body at regular intervals. The young boy did not know how people on the outside led their lives. He thought that people were born to suffer; after all, wasn't that exactly the case for all the children around him?

For him, the happiest day of each month was the day when the old man came to visit.

The old man had already gotten on in years. Trueman was one of the youngest among his children...

It was said that many of the old man's children before him had already died...

Even so, he still liked the old man because he always brought him loads of delicious treats, including chocolates and candies that reduced the bitter taste in his mouth after he was injected with the gene serum.

However, he always stayed at the back of the crowd and never dared to go forward to get closer to the old man. He was afraid of him.

Over time, he grew up.

He could no longer remember which gene serum it was, but one of the times he was being injected with it, he simply couldn't bear the pain and felt like he was about to die. At that time, a second personality—Caleb—had slowly formed inside his head.

Caleb had a much better personality than him.

He was impulsive and irritable, and he wore his heart on his sleeve.

But Caleb was more likable, and he knew how to judge the situation better. When the old man visited, he even stepped forward to please the old man, making him so happy that he even gave him two more pieces of the chocolate he was holding.

When did changes start taking place between the two?

Ever since the old man discovered that Trueman had schizophrenia, he was given special treatment. Since then, the numerous times he was injected with the gene serum, the mysterious organization put in full effort to save him, and he ultimately survived the years of ordeal.

All his brothers and sisters around him had died.

Feeling lonely, Trueman regarded Caleb as his brother.

It was just that Trueman didn't understand why the old man had suddenly handed down the mysterious organization to him after he was injected with the V15. At the same time, he had specifically stated that the heir to the mysterious organization was Trueman while Caleb was only meant to assist him.

It was probably because Caleb was a secondary personality, right?

Then, they started looking for the V16...

Being paranoid, after he became the heir, he acted impulsively in everything he did, no matter what. No one could keep him in check—except Caleb.

Because he cared about Caleb.

But never would he have ever imagined that Caleb would fight him for the control of the body one day.

He wanted to be the sole owner of the body.

It saddened Trueman terribly.

But he also felt relieved.

Perhaps only smart and manipulative people like him could survive in this world.

Trueman closed his eyes.

Goodbye, Caleb.

Goodbye, Xander. With Daddy Trueman accompanying you in the afterlife, you won't have to be scared anymore.

... Goodbye, little fatty.

Soon, his consciousness disappeared.

...

...

He thought that he would never open his eyes again.

But in his daze, his eyes suddenly opened. Blinding light shone into his eyes, turning his vision completely white, and he couldn't adapt to it at all. He suddenly stretched out his hand and covered his face.

What was this place?

Where was he?

Wasn't he already dead?

As soon as the thoughts formed, he heard a voice coming from the side.
"Daddy Trueman, is that you?"

Trueman abruptly looked in the direction where the voice came from to see Xander standing there.

Trueman was stunned. He asked, “Xander? Why are you here? Did... your illness relapse, so you reached the afterlife before me?”

Xander: “?”

The corners of his lips spasmed. He turned his head to the side and said, “Looks like he really is Daddy Trueman.”

“Yeah. It’s fine as long as we didn’t get the wrong person.”

The low and mellow voice took Trueman by surprise again. It was then that he finally looked to Xander’s side and saw Nora. Trueman became even more stunned. “Little servant? Are you dead too?”

“...”

Snap!

Nora switched off the light, dimming the room. She said dryly, “You’re still alive. Also, I am not your servant.”

Trueman: “!!”

He looked at Nora in disbelief and sat up suddenly.

He looked down at his hands and then pinched his cheek. Then, he asked Xander, “Quick, take a look at me, Xander. Am I still the same person?”

“... Yes, it’s you, Daddy Trueman.”

Even Xander felt rather helpless.

He sighed and walked over to Trueman. He said, “Mommy had already noticed that something was wrong a long time ago. That bad guy pretended to be you and kidnapped me and Mommy, right?”

Trueman nodded. “Yes, that’s right!”

It was precisely from that point onward that he sensed that something was wrong with Caleb, so he had kept asking for control over the body. However, Caleb claimed that he had a way to obtain the V16, so he suppressed him and refused to let him out.

The only time he had come out was when Xander had been in danger.

Caleb had been impersonating him to deal with Nora and wanted to disregard Xander's life.

Besides, if the rock had hit Xander, no one would pay attention to him anymore. With that, he would be able to inject the gene serum into himself immediately...

However, Trueman had fought desperately to emerge that time, successfully saving Xander's life at the critical moment.

It was also after that time that he completely lost control over the body.

But now, he was finally back?

He turned to Nora in a daze. Suddenly, he frowned and sneered, "My little servant, you and Justin sure are generous! You actually injected the V16 into me! Are you abandoning your son? The two of you are not worthy of being parents!"

Caleb had also feigned regret and anguish, but he had done it gently, which looked overly hypocritical.

Who wouldn't want to live?

There was scorn and disappointment in Trueman's words, but also some relief and hope. This was what a normal person's reaction should be.

The biggest difference between Trueman and Caleb lay in the fact that Trueman was genuine and not hypocritical.

Nora lowered her eyes and said nothing.

Justin took a step forward and brought Xander over to Trueman. Before doing anything else, he asked Nora, “Caleb won’t ever come out again, right?”

“Yeah.” Nora nodded.

After realizing that Caleb was lying, she decided to go along with his ploy. To destroy a personality, the person must be completely relaxed. If Caleb was tense and distrusted her, it would have been even harder for her to get rid of him.

Xander asked nervously, “Will he ever appear again?”

Nora kept quiet for a while before she replied, “Probably not.”

This was unless Trueman birthed another personality.

Xander breathed a sigh of relief.

When Justin heard this, he looked at Xander and then nodded to Trueman. He motioned to them and said, “You heard your mommy. You can rest assured now, right? Alright, say your goodbyes to each other. Xander’s time is running out.”

The light in Trueman’s eyes dimmed instantly.

Panic also appeared in Xander’s eyes. He was just a child after all; how could he possibly not fear death?

Chapter 1004 - Will He Really Die?

Xander looked at Trueman.

He grinned at him, revealing two little canine teeth.

Trueman's eyes reddened.

Although he had received the V16 injection and survived—which made him selfishly feel happy for himself—now that he was truly faced with the moment of separation, Trueman suddenly understood something he had read on the Internet:

“If one could exchange their life for another's, or if one could make a wish with their death as the price, then there would probably be a lot of mothers and fathers in Heaven.”

Though Xander was not his biological son, he had brought him up for five years and watched him grow from a tiny infant to the big boy he was now. How could Trueman possibly bear to part with him?

He reached out and stroked Xander's head. “You're such a silly boy.”

Xander took his hand. “Daddy Trueman, don't do anything illegal anymore. Mommy works with the special department, so she is authorized to arrest you... Daddy is also very fierce. He will be watching you too.”

Xander looked at Trueman intently. “Can you promise me that?”

Xander's words stunned Trueman.

Faced with the child's clear and pristine eyes, Trueman's lips curled into a smile. “Okay.”

Hearing his reply, relief flooded Xander.

Although Daddy Trueman was not a good man, he always kept his word and never lied...

After talking to him, Xander returned to Nora's side.

Trueman looked at Nora and Justin and asked, "What do the two of you intend to do about me?"

Trueman could be said to be an out-and-out villain.

Over the years, he had led the mysterious organization to commit a lot of crimes. Besides, he was not like Caleb who had pushed the blame for all the crimes on him—he was indeed a villain.

Nora and Justin exchanged a look.

Justin replied, "I will get you out of here, but everything else that happens after is out of my hands."

The special department was still searching for him all over the world and trying to capture him. Although the mysterious organization had been dissolved, as its leader, Trueman would remain a wanted criminal for the rest of his life.

To be honest, Nora and Justin had the option of handing over Trueman directly to the special department.

However, Trueman had saved Xander twice and even Pete too...

These two reasons were more than enough to hold back Nora and Justin from doing something like that.

Trueman nodded and got up. "We don't owe each other anything anymore."

Justin said, "The car is right outside."

Justin didn't want to see him anymore, not even for another minute or second...

Trueman nodded and headed straight for the door. But halfway through, he suddenly turned to look at Justin. “By right, I can be considered your elder brother, which would then make Nora my sister-in-law. I have something to ask her. You don’t mind, right?”

Justin looked at him with a complex look on his face. “No, go ahead.”

There was no way he would ever tell Trueman the truth! After all, that would put him a whole generation younger than him! He’d just let him think that they were brothers instead!

Trueman looked at Nora. “When did you discover Caleb’s secret?”

The messages he had tried to send hadn’t been conveyed to Nora at all. In that case, how had it occurred to Nora?

Nora cast her eyes down. Suddenly, she smiled and said, “If I tell you that I never really trusted Caleb, would you believe me?”

Trueman was taken aback.

Nora explained, “Back then, when he first appeared in New York, he was captured and humiliated because of me. I went to rescue him that time. You may not know this, but later, Morris told me that all those who had bullied him perished in a fire. When he was investigating the matter, he’d thought that either Justin or I was behind it, but neither of us is that cruel.”

Although they were all bad people, Justin and Nora never broke the law in the United States!

They were both model citizens who abided by the law. The most they would do was teach them a lesson; they would never cause any fatalities.

In that case, the only other possible explanation was that Caleb had murdered them to vent his anger.

Since they had kidnapped him, there was no doubt that he would want to kill them. However, Caleb had killed them in too cruel a way. All of them had been tortured before they died. It was to the extent that all their bones were broken.

Trueman frowned.

Nora went on. “Later... When he was arrested by the special department, doubts did form in my mind when you sent me a text message to take care of him when there was no way he could access his cell phone in prison. But later, when he got someone to impersonate you and meet me, that was when I thought, ‘I see, so you can do it like that too!’ He could totally just get a subordinate to imitate the way you speak and do what you’re supposed to do...!”

“After his identity was exposed, I became even more suspicious of him. When the cook was killed, that was when I became sure that Caleb was not a good person!

“At that time, I’d thought you were pretending to be him, but the more I thought about it, the less sense it made. Considering how arrogant and conceited you are, how would you possibly pretend to be someone else?”

Ever since Nora met Trueman, she had always known that he was a little devil.

However, the little devil was awfully naive, easily provoked, and didn’t have that many tricks up his sleeve. It was unlikely that he would be willing to pretend to be Caleb to approach her...

“Later, Xander finally confirmed your identity. He has spent the most time with you and knows you the best. He refused to call Caleb ‘Daddy’ the whole time but always addressed you as ‘Daddy Trueman’...”

At this point, Nora said at last, “So, I took a gamble—I gambled that you were the one who saved us back then... Also, it came back to me...”

Trueman asked, “What did?”

“The way you threw stuff at me from outside my door back then. Caleb’s biggest mistake was telling me that he was the one who had given me food. Given that person’s little devil-like behavior at that time, that person was clearly you!”

Trueman lowered his eyes and smiled. “In the end, he was the one who ultimately exposed himself.”

“Yeah.”

After explaining everything, Nora gestured to the door. “It’s time to go. I can’t guarantee when Morris would be here to arrest you.”

Trueman nodded and left.

After he went downstairs and got into the car that Justin had arranged for him, Pete looked nervously at Nora and Justin. “Mommy, Daddy. Will Xander really die?”

Chapter 1005 - Two Options!

Pete's question made everyone look at Justin.

Only Nora, who seemed to have vaguely guessed something, pressed her lips together and kept quiet.

Justin let out a small sigh. He squatted down, looked at Xander, and stroked his head. "Xander, you have two options now."

The puzzled Xander looked at him. "What?"

"The first one: we capture and bring Trueman back, lock him up for life, and never let him show his face outside. This way, you'll be able to live on openly."

Xander: "?"

Stunned, the boy didn't seem to be able to quite digest the news.

What was going on?

What was this sudden plot twist?

He didn't have to die anymore?

They had the V16 now?

While he was thinking, Nora asked, "What is the second option?"

Justin answered, "We let Trueman go free while you stay hidden for life, unable to ever appear before others."

Pete frowned.

Cherry asked blankly, "Why?"

At her question, Justin explained to the three children seriously, “Because we can’t let outsiders know that a third V16 exists.”

Other five-year-olds were still naive and innocent at this stage of their lives, but the three of them were different. All three of them were exceptionally intelligent, so Justin felt it necessary to explain everything to them clearly.

Xander suddenly realized something. “A third V16 exists?”

“...” Justin kept quiet for a while and looked at Nora. When he was about to speak, Nora interjected and spoke ahead of him. “My guess is that there exists not just a third but also a fourth, fifth, and even more. Am I right?”

Justin sighed.

He knew he wouldn’t be able to hide anything from Nora.

He nodded.

However, Xander didn’t understand. “But didn’t Grandma only leave two? They were at the university!”

Nora explained, “That’s because your father only allowed your grandma to leave two.”

The more Xander heard, the more confused he became.

He felt like he didn’t understand what was going on at all.

He stared at them blankly.

Nora, however, looked at Justin and asked, “If I’m not wrong, the V16 is actually me, right?”

A resigned Justin nodded. “When did you realize?”

“I became suspicious when you told me to give Trueman the V16.” Nora lowered her eyes. “Also, back when we found out that Barbarian was coming to New York for the V16 and that Mom had left clues in the bank, I slept very deeply for an hour that night. When I woke up, I found a needle hole on my sole, an inconspicuous part of the body. I didn't think much about it at that time but come to think of it now, you must have extracted my blood? Therefore, my blood is the V16, right? No, to be exact, my plasma is the V16."

Justin nodded. "That's right."

Enlightenment dawned upon Nora. "So, back then, when you faked your death, your purpose was to create an illusion for them that those were the only V16s left, so if they failed to get their hands on them, they would die! It wasn't a diversion tactic at all..."

When Justin's identity as King was still a secret, Nora had really been under the impression that he was diverting attention away from her.

But after his identity as King was revealed, Nora didn't understand anymore... Since he was so powerful, why did he still have to divert attention away from her? But she finally understood now—

Justin had done all that just to protect her!!

If news of her plasma being the V16 were to spread, even if Justin was King, he still wouldn't be able to stop the whole world from wanting to become stronger.

This was especially the case for the longevity gene...

How many big shots and titans of various industries with the desire to lengthen their lifespans were there in this world? Sure, King could set up the Imperial League and rule over the world, but he still would never be able to control everybody's desires.

Think about it, once the news got out, how many people would try to steal Nora's blood?

Their lives would become incredibly tiresome!

Therefore... Justin was actually the one who had left behind the Morse code and so on that Nora's mother had put in the safe in the bank.

He had already figured out the truth long ago and set up a huge conspiracy!

Justin looked at Nora. Suddenly, he said, "Your mother really loved you a lot."

Nora fell silent.

Yes, Yvette had indeed thought of everything.

If Nora wanted to fight the world's largest organizations, i.e. the Imperial League and the mysterious organization, she would have needed incredible strength and power. Thus, her mother had prepared a great number of teachers for her.

However, no one could say for sure how powerful she would become as an individual, so Yvette had also arranged one last route for her.

This way, even if she lost the fight, the mysterious organization would still be prevented from killing her.

After all, once she was dead, that would be all the blood they would have.

But if she was alive, she would be able to continuously produce the V16!

The gene serum she was injected with when she was a child was not an IQ-improving one at all; that was nothing more than a gimmick. Her mother had injected her with the V16 instead!!!

When everyone suddenly realized what was going on, Justin said, "But I didn't foresee Queenie's sudden appearance."

He had only made two gene serums.

After all, if there were three or four, it wouldn't be able to make the five survivors of the mysterious organization go for one another's throats anymore.

One was for Xander.

The other was meant for the mysterious organization as a form of hope. This way, at least the mysterious organization could still give Xander a way out, and they could also cut down on unnecessary trouble.

But never would he have thought that Queenie's genes had also undergone modification.

As a result, they were still one V16 short.

Although Trueman was not a good man and had taken and injected Xander with the gene serum, this didn't change the fact that he had saved the two children back then!

Without him, Pete and Xander might have already died long ago.

Moreover, even though Xander had grown up in the basement, Trueman hadn't done it on purpose. He himself had grown up in an environment like that; in his world, that was how children were supposed to live.

He had even given Xander a lot of animals as company.

Of course, he was not trying to whitewash Trueman. He was indeed a bad person, but his life should not end in their hands...

Justin looked at Xander again. "In order to keep your Mommy's secret, you must choose one of the two options. If we lock up Trueman, we can say that we extracted all his blood and refined the V16 from it, thereby saving you. Therefore, Trueman must 'die'. If Trueman doesn't 'die', then you must."

Justin lowered his eyes. "I already have it all planned. Pete will receive all of the Hunts' assets in the future, but the Imperial League also needs a successor. If you wish to go underground, then it works out because you can be the next King to the Imperial League."

If he chose the second option, then Xander would have to "die" tonight.

From that day onward, he would have nothing to do with the Hunts anymore.

Without hesitation, Xander said, “I choose Option 2!”

He had lived in darkness since the day he was born. So what if he had to continue living in the shadows for the rest of his life?

But as soon as he spoke, Justin’s cell phone suddenly rang. When he answered, a flustered voice came from the other end. “Boss, this is terrible! Trueman... He...”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1006 - Living For Himself For The First Time

The caller, who was too distressed, couldn't help stammering.

Xander panicked. "What happened to Daddy Trueman?"

Nora also looked over. Justin asked gravely, "What on earth happened?"

His voice seemed to have some magic power that calmed the caller, who then answered, "An accident has happened!"

...

In a hospital ward.

Nora and Justin stood at the door, both looking at the man on the bed.

Xander's eyes were all red from crying.

"Why are you crying?"

Trueman, who was on the bed, sounded annoyed. "You're a man, aren't you? I'm so tired of hearing you cry."

Xander stopped crying at once. He stepped forward and stretched out his little hand to touch Trueman's face. However, his face was all bandaged, and every part of it was injured.

Yes, that was right.

Trueman was disfigured.

After he got into the car that Justin had arranged for him, as they slowly drove to the airport, a thought suddenly hit him and he cursed. "Sh*t!"

Neither Nora nor Justin were a saint in the traditional sense. How could they possibly do something like giving up the V16 for him and letting their own son die?

Trueman would never have thought this deeply before.

But when he found out that Justin was King while knowing that King's identity must forever remain a mystery, it was at that moment that it suddenly hit him.

He suddenly said, "Stop for a moment. I'm going to the pharmacy to get some medicine."

Thereafter, he took a bottle of concentrated sulfuric acid and splashed it on his face.

It disfigured him.

This was his way of erasing Trueman from the world and allowing Xander to live on.

Xander had never let him down before. In that case, he wasn't going to fail him either.

Xander couldn't help but ask, "Does it hurt?"

"Duh, obviously it does."

Trueman leaned on the bed and crossed one leg over the other. He shook his leg casually as he said, "I am disabled now. Since I brought you up, you must take care of me until I die of old age, you hear? I'm counting on you to feed me from now on!"

In other words, he was willing to stay at the Hunts' residence and be under house arrest for the rest of his life.

After all, even if he was now disfigured, going by Nora and Justin's personalities, they still wouldn't trust him completely.

Xander nodded and said seriously, “Don’t worry, Daddy Trueman, I won’t let you go hungry! As long as I still have a bite of food, you will also have a morsel of it!”

“Sh*t! Being a big joker, aren’t you?! Leaving yourself a whole bite and giving your dad only a morsel?” Trueman pointed to his face. “I did this all for your sake, you know!”

Xander wanted to say more, but Trueman waved him off. “Alright, get lost. I’m going to bed. I’m exhausted! I’ve only just taken over the body, so I’m not that good with it yet...”

“Okay.”

Xander walked to the door. Suddenly, he looked back at him and asked, “Does it hurt, Daddy Trueman?”

Trueman stopped shaking his leg for a moment. Then, he scoffed and replied, “Of course it doesn’t! I told you, I’m a man! This bit of pain is nothing! I won’t make a peep even if I break an arm or a leg!”

Only then did Xander breathe a sigh of relief.

Nora, however, glanced at Trueman. She said nothing and cast her eyes down instead.

After the family of three left the ward, Trueman clenched the sheets all of a sudden.

F*ck!

It hurt so f*cking much!!

It hurt so much that all his toes had curled up...

Yet... he was also so goddamn happy.

For the first time in his life, he had lived for himself and made a decision on his own. At last, his life was no longer dictated by the old King, nor was it the result of discussion with another.

He had lost his freedom again.

But it also seemed that he was finally free.

On the way home, Nora suddenly asked, “What do we do about him?”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1007 - Five Years Later

“Let’s set him free.”

Justin said after a moment of contemplation.

Nora looked half-amused. “Really?”

She didn’t believe that the man trusted Trueman.

To be honest, even she didn’t trust him either.

What if Trueman went crazy one day and told the whole world that she was the V16?

Sure enough, Justin then said, “I will get my men to keep tabs on him.”

The plan was to have someone tail him and report his whereabouts at all times. If he ever showed signs of reviving the mysterious organization, Justin would off him immediately.

Nora nodded.

Xander surprisingly also nodded, giving his approval for the plan.

Nora was a little surprised to see Xander nodding. The drowsy woman leaned against the car seat, upon which she heard the little guy’s voice.

“Daddy Trueman has made a lot of mistakes, so it’s true that it’s inappropriate for him to stay with us. It would be awful if he led Cherry and Pete astray too.”

“...”

They soon reached home in the car. After saying goodbye to Xander, Nora went to bed. However, Justin put his arms around her. Just as he was about to speak, Nora said, “I finally know why I’m always so sleepy.”

Justin was taken aback. “And why is that?”

“Because my plasma is the V16, all the nutrients in my body are constantly being absorbed at an insane rate, leading to my energy level always being low. This, in turn, causes my perpetual lethargy.”

Nora looked at him and said seriously, “So, if there’s something you want to do, wait until I’m up again.”

“...”

—

A week later, after Trueman’s wounds stabilized, Nora performed cosmetic surgery on him. Before entering the operating room, Trueman, who looked like he was in a dilemma, asked, “So, all I needed to do was to just request that you perform cosmetic surgery on me? Why did I splash acid on my face instead?”

An expressionless Nora asked, “Uh-huh. So, why did you do it?”

Trueman: “...”

Nora went on. “Have you decided what kind of face you want?”

Trueman answered, “I want one that is more handsome, more arrogant, and more attractive than Justin’s. Oh, right, he has a beauty mark at the corner of his eye. Give me one too.”

Nora looked troubled. “... I can’t imagine a face more handsome than his.”

F*ck! Is she showing off how much in love they are? Trueman thought.

Then, the girl yawned and said, “Come on, hurry up and choose. I’m going back to bed after the surgery.”

She looked impatient.

Trueman: "..."

When he came out of the operating theater, Trueman had bandages all over his face.

The stitches in some places were to be removed in a month's time while some could be removed after just two days.

However, when Trueman woke up, he found himself on a ship instead of the hospital ward. He became angry at once. "Where are you taking me?"

One of Justin's subordinates looked at Trueman and replied, "Mr. Hunt has instructed us to take you wherever you'd like."

Trueman: "!"

He wanted to rage, but held himself back in the end.

He touched his face and asked, "Compared with Justin's, whose facial features look better?"

"..."

"Hey, answer me! I'm asking you a question! Are you mute? Or are you blind?"

"..."

—

Five years later.

In the playground of the top elementary school in New York.

It was already dark, but a few people were still jogging there.

"I can't run anymore!"

A sweet voice rang out as its owner panted heavily. A pretty little girl somewhat resembling Nora was bent over and gasping for breath.

“Cheryl, did you ruin your body by playing games every day? You haven’t even run that much yet and you’re already at your limit?”

A voice that sounded a little heretical reached her. Alexander Yale jogged to the spot beside the girl and reached out to tug at her. “Come on!”

“... We must have already run eight laps by now, right?!” Cheryl retorted.

Alexander curled his lips disdainfully. “Pete can run for hours without panting, you know. Your physical fitness is too poor!”

Cheryl’s eyes widened. “Peter said that we should call him Peter Hunt! Pete is a nickname. He has already grown up!”

“No matter how old he is, he’s not going to be older than me.” Alexander ignored her and urged her again. “Hurry up, Cherry!”

“... My name is CHERYL SMITH!!”

Cheryl couldn’t help gnashing her teeth.

Alexander grinned and then reached out to grab her hand. “Alright, alright. C’mon, I’ll pull you along as we run! You don’t want Great-Grandma to say that you were brought up by Mom while Pete was brought up by Dad, and that Pete looks way stronger than you, right?”

During the last few years, even though the family lived in harmony, there was no way that the elderly Mrs. Hunt would just let them be.

As Peter grew up, he became more and more outstanding. He took the college entrance examinations at the age of ten and achieved a perfect score. He had already been sent to college. Cheryl, however, was addicted to games. Although she was smart, she did not focus on her studies.

This led to Mrs. Hunt occasionally being sarcastic and saying things like children brought up by serious people were serious, whereas children brought up by certain people were oh-so-delicate...

Cheryl was the darling of the family, but Mrs. Hunt was the only one who still preferred her grandsons to her granddaughter. Over the years, she had even started to accept Alexander, but she simply found Cherry an eyesore all the time...

Upon hearing what Alexander said, Cheryl couldn't help but sigh. She gritted her teeth and said, "Fine, we'll run one more lap. Just one, okay?!"

"Okay..."

Alexander grabbed her hand. The two were jogging when a strong beam of light shone at them. Then, the headmaster strode over. He pointed at them and yelled, "Hey, you two! Yes, the two of you! Come here!"

"The two of you are still so young, but you're already being bad kids and trying to date like adults?"

Alexander was stunned. "We're not..."

"Not what? You're still holding hands, you know! What are your parents' names? Get your parents here!!"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1008 - Calling The Parents~

Cheryl said seriously, “Sir, we really aren’t. The two of us are...”

“Cheryl Smith! You’re exactly the one I’ve been wanting to give a talking-to! You sleep during the class and play games after the class. We have already told you that cell phones are not allowed in school, yet you still bring it to class! And now a student with poor grades like you is even misbehaving and dating! You must get your parents here and let us have a good talk with them!”

Cherry: “??”

Her big eyes blinked. But before she could speak, Alexander’s voice turned cold. “What do you mean by a ‘student with poor grades’?”

The headmaster was surprised.

He looked at Alexander.

The ten-year-old boy was already as tall as the teacher. His height made him look thin, and his delicate facial features exuded youthfulness.

Alexander was well-known in school because he was simply too good-looking and even had excellent grades. Although nobody knew who his parents were, he had already become the school’s beacon of hope.

The headmaster frowned. “Alexander, tell me, was it Cheryl who seduced you? You should keep your distance from students with poor grades like her! Or she would spread it to you!”

Cheryl was also well-known in school because she was pretty, though her academic performance was average. Additionally, she could always find various ways to smuggle her cell phone into the school, even though the school conducted rigorous checks all the time!

The girl was simply just so weird.

He looked at the form that Cheryl had filled in—her brother was named Peter...

He was a ten-year-old genius with a perfect score on the college entrance examination!

His speculation was that Cheryl and Peter's parents were likely divorced, which was why the two children had different last names.

He couldn't help but point at Cheryl, his finger almost jabbing into Cheryl's face as he said, "Look at you. The two of you are obviously twins and even look pretty alike, but why is there such a huge difference between you and your brother? If you were even half as smart as your brother, you wouldn't be in this state as you are now!"

Alexander couldn't bring himself to continue listening anymore. It was alright for him to say that his sister's grades were bad, but not others, especially if they were saying it so nastily. A wicked smile appeared on his face and he said, "Does having good grades immediately make you excellent by default? But I find Cheryl extremely outstanding too. At the very least, no one is her match when it comes to gaming. If it weren't for the age limit, she'd be the national champion by now."

"Ha, is playing games something to be proud of? National champion? Oh, come on... She's only ten years old; what kind of national champion can she be? The way I see it, she must have bewitched you so badly that you've lost your mind! To think you can even bring yourself to say such things!"

The man said, "Alexander, I know you're definitely innocent. Don't let her lead you astray. Alright, you can go. Cheryl, come with me! I must correct your ways properly today!"

After speaking, he reached out to grab Cheryl's arm.

But the next moment, Alexander stood between him and Cheryl and said, “No, it’s fine. I think my ways also need some correction.”

Alexander folded his arms, his lip corners curling into a sneer. The look in his eyes was frosty and hostile, which made the headmaster panic.

He took a step back. “What kind of look is that in your eyes? Alexander, are you thinking of being violent with me?”

Alexander’s voice turned even colder. “Don’t get handsy with Cheryl.”

“You...” The man didn’t have such intentions at all; the ten-year-old Cheryl was just a child in his eyes. He just wanted to grab her arm to prevent her from escaping, that was all...

Alexander was well aware of this, of course. Otherwise, he would have decked him long ago.

Nevertheless, the headmaster was furious. “Fine, fine, being the hero and saving the damsel in distress, are you? Since you think I’m not good enough to teach you... get your parents here! I want to see them tomorrow!!”

After speaking, the teacher turned around and left huffily.

After returning to the office, he thought about it and picked up the parent contact list.

As Cheryl was a girl, he contacted Nora. “Hello, is this Cheryl’s mom? ... Yes, I’m the headmaster at Cheryl’s school. Please come to the school tomorrow afternoon.”

After hanging up the phone, he called Alexander’s father. “... Yes, that’s right. Three o’clock tomorrow!”

Chapter 1009 - Dating At An Early Age??

Nora said hesitantly: “Cherry must have had her cell phone confiscated for playing games again. What happened to Xander, though?”

Although Cherry didn’t take her studies seriously in school, she was very well-behaved. Moreover, she was good-looking and a sweet-talker, so even if the headmasters confiscated the cell phone, they would return it to her within just a couple of days.

Over the years, the school had rarely ever called her parents because of disciplinary issues.

As for Xander, he was pretty much the model student and had never had any incidents where the school had to call his parents!

Justin was perplexed too. “... I’m free tomorrow anyway. Let’s go and have a look.”

As the Hunts’ children, the three children’s information was confidential to outsiders and they also faked their identities in school.

Moreover, the three kids all had different last names...

Apart from Cherry and Pete who looked too alike to be entirely unrelated, nobody knew that Cherry and Xander were also siblings. Nobody knew that they were the Hunts’ children either.

After all, for their safety, they had to be low-key about it!

Furthermore, the three children were enrolled in a private school from the start anyway...

In order to make Cherry and Xander independent, the two of them even chose to move to the boarding school after fourth grade... Cherry was the one who requested this, of course.

Needless to say, Nora knew that she did it because nobody would be able to stop her from using her cell phone once she moved to the school dorms.

Little Cherry knew that it would be difficult to convince Nora, so she had pestered Justin to agree to the request instead. Mr. Slave-To-His-Daughter Justin would never turn down her requests, so he had signed the application form for moving into the school dorms.

Nora had even lost her temper because of this.

In the end, it was only when Xander also decided to move into the dorms to monitor her that Nora finally let the matter go.

All three children were extremely outstanding. Pete did everything systematically and did not hide his capabilities—after all, he was going to take over a publicly-known company like the Hunt Corporation in the future.

In that case, Pete's excellent capabilities must be clear to all.

As for Xander... he was even smarter—after all, he had been injected with the gene serum. However, it was precisely because of this that Nora and Justin decided to have him progress through his education systematically. Xander was raised by Trueman, so his moral compass had become a bit misguided. The two hoped that Xander could slowly correct this through contact with his peers, even if his current classes were way too simple for him...

Besides, Xander was taking over the Imperial League in the future, so he would stand out less if he did everything systematically.

After all, with people like Pete, one was enough to create a sensation in the country.

Nora and Justin also chose different ways to educate the three children.

—

The next day, the two arrived at the school together.

As it was the headmaster who had asked for them to come, the two went to his office.

The headmaster was a bit taken aback when he saw Nora. However, when he saw how lazy and half-asleep the woman looked, he frowned, though he refrained from saying anything nasty. After all, the woman looked like she wasn't one to be messed with.

“Are you Cheryl's mom?” He asked.

Nora nodded.

The headmaster then looked at Justin.

Justin's elite aura was impossible to conceal, even if he tried his darnedest to tone it down and make himself seem more approachable.

With a smile, the headmaster said, “You must be Alexander's father? Here, please take a seat.”

With confused looks, Nora and Justin sat on the sofa opposite the headmaster's desk and looked at him.

Nora was reticent, so Justin asked, “Sir, did the two children do something wrong?”

“Yes!”

The headmaster became stern and said, “That's exactly why I asked the two of you to come! People who enroll their children in our private school are all rich and noble, so I understand that you would have higher expectations for your children! That is why I must let you know in advance if they make any mistakes, so that the problem can be nipped in the bud!”

Justin frowned, his voice turning a little stern. “What did Alexander do? He must have instigated it!”

After all, his daughter was so well-behaved.

Now, Nora didn’t like hearing that. She frowned and looked at Justin as she said, “Maybe it’s Cheryl who did something wrong and implicated Alexander?”

Nora didn’t like how Justin pampered their daughter.

He pretty much had no boundaries.

Fortunately, the family still had her, the mother, around. If not, he would have neglected both their sons.

Justin’s voice immediately softened. “... There’s that possibility too, but Cheryl definitely wouldn’t do it on purpose. Since Alexander failed to protect her, the responsibility lies with him!”

Nora: “...”

The headmaster opposite them: “??”

The confused man lowered his head to check if he had invited the wrong people over.

When conflicts arose among other children, their parents always took their own children’s side unconditionally. Why was this pair of parents so strange?

Had he invited Cheryl’s father and Alexander’s mother over instead of Cheryl’s mother and Alexander’s father?

In the midst of his confusion, Nora slowly asked, “Sir, what exactly did the children do?”

The headmaster looked up at once. With a frown, he replied, “They are dating at an early age!”

Nora: “?”

Justin: “?”

The headmaster said righteously, “Children these days mature very quickly. By the time they turn ten, they already know what it means to have a crush on someone. There are quite a few couples in our school too... As parents, you should be strict with them! Nip it in the bud! And put an end to this!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1010 - My Daughter!!

After saying that, the headmaster looked at the two of them, wanting to see their shocked expressions.

Parents in these days were very strict with their children, especially those who could be sent to this school. Their families were not bad, but the two parents in front of the headmaster were different from the others.

He saw that Cheryl's mother and Alexander's father had incredulous expressions. Then, Cheryl's mother raised her eyebrows.

Alexander's father asked, "That's it?"

The headmaster was speechless.

What did he mean by that?

Wasn't that enough?

He was momentarily at a loss for words.

Nora glanced at Justin and knew that he had confused the headmaster. Therefore, she added calmly, "Other than this, are there any other problems?"

The headmaster was speechless.

He shook his head.

Nora instantly heaved a sigh of relief. "That's good."

The headmaster couldn't think of anything to say.

Why was the reaction of these two parents so strange?

Did they not realize the seriousness of the matter?

The headmaster continued, “Cheryl’s mother, Alexander’s father, do you think this is a child’s game? No, they’re 10 years old and already know how to date. There are other children in school who might follow them at a young age. The children are too young. It’s even worse for them to date at a young age. Especially since Cheryl doesn’t study well. This will lead Alexander astray!”

As soon as he finished speaking, Justin’s expression darkened. “Who said that she’s not good at her studies?”

The headmaster: ?

He looked at Justin in a daze and clearly felt Justin’s anger. He did not understand... Why? Was he still protecting his son’s girlfriend?

Nora’s expression turned colder. “Headmaster, if there’s nothing else, then we’ll get going.”

After saying this, she yawned.

She really thought that something had happened to the two children, but in the end, it was just a misunderstanding.

The headmaster was even angrier. “What’s wrong with the two of you? Don’t you believe me? I caught them myself. They were holding hands and running on the field!”

Justin said, “So be it.”

They were only 10 years old... What was wrong with a brother pulling his sister to run?

With a little thought, he realized that it must be Cheryl wanting to slack off. Alexander was just pulling her along!

The headmaster was furious. “Alexander’s father, you don’t realize the seriousness of the matter. Cheryl is one of the worst students in the school.

She barely makes it through day to day in school. It's obvious that she's not a good girl. If Alexander is left with her for a long time, sooner or later, he'll be influenced by her! You..."

Bang!

Justin slapped the table.

The director in front of him was belittling Cheryl again and again. He could not help but say in a cold voice, "Who said Cheryl is not a good girl?!"

His words made the headmaster choke.

He looked at Justin coldly and saw a hand pressing on Justin's hand. That hand was very thin and white, with clearly defined knuckles. It was very beautiful.

When that hand fell, the anger on Justin's face dissipated.

The headmaster heaved a sigh of relief. He wiped his forehead and followed that hand to see Nora...

The headmaster was stunned.

What was going on? Wasn't the relationship between Cheryl's mother and Alexander's father... a little too ambiguous?

As he was thinking, he heard Nora say slowly, "Don't hit anyone in this country."

The headmaster: ?

Don't hit anyone in this country?

He could hit others overseas?

While the headmaster was in a daze, he saw Justin take out his phone and make a call. His voice was very fierce. "Can your school's headmaster be expelled?"

The headmaster was instantly furious. “What do you mean?”

He knew that one capable of sending their children to study in this school must have high status, but most of the parents agreed with what he did. He said angrily, “Your son is dating in school and has broken the school rules. I’m talking to you, and you’re still being unreasonable? What right do you have to expel me?”

Justin sneered. “Because you so casually slandered my daughter.”

The headmaster blurted out, “When did I slander your daughter? I caught them myself. The school has it on video. This is all evidence. I...”

At this point, he suddenly reacted. “... Your daughter?!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1011 - One Cannot Change The Circumstances Of Their Birth, But They Can Change Their Destiny

The headmaster was absolutely stunned. He looked at Justin in astonishment. “Aren’t you Alexander’s father? How can you possibly be Cheryl’s...”

It was at this point that something finally clicked.

He looked at Nora and then at Justin in disbelief.

With a cool and distant look on her face, Nora stood and said, “They are triplets.”

The headmaster: “!!!”

Triplets!!

He was utterly stunned.

It wasn’t until the principal heard of what had happened and hurried over that the headmaster finally recovered. He immediately shouted, “I, I didn’t know they were triplets! One of them has the last name Smith while the other’s is Yale!”

Justin scoffed. “Oh, and the eldest among them has the last name Hunt.”

Alexander’s personality was too weird, so Pete was the most reliable one instead. Therefore, even if everyone at home knew that Xander was the eldest, they still silently regarded Peter as the eldest.

The headmaster: “!”

He shouted again, “E-even if that really is the case, this is a misunderstanding. How can you do this to me? I asked the two of you here for your children’s own good...”

Justin said sullenly, “How? Simply by how you spoke so rudely of my daughter time and time again...”

Never mind if he had just said that his daughter had poor grades and would be a bad influence on Alexander...

After all, he was a headmaster, so they had put up with it. But what had the headmaster said at the end?

“It’s obvious that she is no good girl...”

When had the definition of a good girl become so narrow-minded?

Was one worthless just because they had poor grades?!

The headmaster wanted to say more, but the principal immediately reprimanded him. “If you still want to make a living in this industry, then shut up at once! Do you have any idea who you have offended?!”

His hushed rebuke shut the headmaster up.

He had finally understood—he had offended people whom he should not have!

In the end, the headmaster was fired.

Nora and Justin also took Cherry and Xander home.

After all, they were only ten years old and were still too young to be living in school dorms. They had only allowed the two of them to live in the school dorms during the last few days for novelty’s sake. Besides, Nora was not receptive to the idea from the start.

The two children went upstairs. Nora and Justin, however, looked at each other and then drove out of their residence.

—

In the middle of the night.

A nimble figure sneaked into an ordinary residential area. The man had a chilling aura around him. As he walked, someone suddenly stood in his path.

As Nora stood there, she yawned and looked at the man in front of her. “What are you trying to do?”

The man scoffed and raised his voice. “You are all good citizens who abide by the law. Leave it to me to take care of that scumbag headmaster!”

He was Trueman!

Trueman was an extreme man. Knowing that Xander and Cherry had been wronged, he would definitely show up to deal with the headmaster. Thus, Nora was waiting for him.

She heaved a soft sigh. “His wrongdoings are not that serious that he has to die.”

She wasn't a saint; she just didn't want to take innocent lives. All the headmaster had done was say some nasty things. What Justin did was already enough punishment.

Trueman's eyes flashed fiercely. After a while, he finally sighed. “Fine.”

The two left the residential area and walked out.

This was the first time Nora had met Trueman since they parted five years ago.

The man's appearance had long since changed, but his temperament was still as heretical as ever. As he swaggered in front, Nora suddenly asked,

“What have you been doing these past five years?”

“Me?”

Trueman scoffed and said, “I gathered a group of children and locked them in the basement, of course! Then I tortured them and made them call me Dad!”

“...”

Nora glanced at him silently.

To be honest, she and Justin both knew what Trueman had been doing. Otherwise, they wouldn't have known that he would show up here tonight...

Trueman had certainly gathered a group of children... but they were all children abandoned by their parents, or were sick or physically disabled. He had set up an orphanage to raise them.

Not only had lacked Trueman motherly love since he was born, but his father was also cruel. This had led to his moral compass remaining misguided his whole life.

The two reached the gates of the residential area. As they were about to go their separate ways, Trueman suddenly called out to Nora.

When Nora looked back, she saw Trueman scratching his head. He said, “I have a question for you.”

“Speak.”

“There is a kid in my orphanage. His father is a murderer who has been executed. People around him don't like him. They call him names, call him the child of a murderer, and say that since his father had killed someone, he should die. What do you think I should do?”

Trueman really was having a headache over this.

His way of educating children had always been simple and crude, but when faced with that child who couldn't see the light, he didn't know what to say.

When Nora heard this, she paused. Then, she looked at Trueman and said meaningfully, "One cannot change the circumstances of their birth, but they can change their destiny. Don't let your parents' tragedy become yours."

Leaving this sentence, Nora turned around and left.

Trueman, however, was stunned in place.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1012 - Why One Should Study

Justin went home while Nora was waiting for Trueman.

By the time she was done talking to Trueman and got back home, she found that Alexander had already gone to bed. When she was about to return to her bedroom, she noticed the lights on the balcony.

She walked over to find Justin and Cherry conversing on the balcony.

Cherry, who was now ten years old, was going through a growth spurt, so she was thin and skinny. However, her cheeks were round and plump with collagen, and her almond-shaped eyes were identical to Nora's. Together with her double eyelids, narrow at the inner tips and wide at the outer, she was so pretty and looked so delicate that it was as if she was not of this world.

Plenty of directors and scouts from film and television companies had noticed her when they visited the school during the past few years. On many occasions, they had asked the teachers to contact her parents on their behalf in hopes of having her debut as a child actress. After all, given her good looks, she would undoubtedly gain immense popularity if she took on the role of the younger version of a female lead.

However, both Nora and Justin had declined the offers after consulting her for her opinion.

Their daughter's only interest was gaming; she didn't have much interest in anything else.

Cherry was currently wearing a set of white pajamas. She looked a little down as she sat on the furry rug with her head lowered.

Justin stayed by her side quietly as his large hand gently stroked his daughter's hair.

Nora didn't go over to disturb the pair.

When she was about to return to the room to take a bath and rest for the night, she suddenly heard Cherry ask, "Am I really that lousy, Daddy?"

Justin's voice turned cold at once. "Don't listen to that teacher's nonsense!"

Justin was a reticent man, but whenever he spoke with Cherry, he would be more patient than usual. He looked at Cherry quietly and said, "Grades are not the only criterion to assess a person. Besides, you are not incapable of studying; you just don't want to."

Cherry sighed.

Justin kept quiet for a moment before he suddenly asked, "Cherry, can you tell me why you don't want to study?"

"It's boring."

Cherry looked up. Her big, clearly-defined eyes were fixed on Justin as she added, "I don't know what the purpose of studying is, that's all."

Justin was taken aback.

Cherry said, "I play games to win and to lead the team to victory, but what about studying? What do I do it for?"

"Daddy, some people study hard because they want to make a lot of money when they grow up; some people do it because they want to be government officials; some people do it because they want to become astronauts; and some people do it because they want to become doctors. But... I don't know what I want to do."

She sounded lost as she said, "Apart from games, I haven't found anything that interests me. I asked my classmates about it too—some of them want to make lots and lots of money so that they can spend extravagantly and buy whatever they want. But if it is for the sake of making money, then not only is Daddy already so rich, but Grand aunt Queenie's assets will also be mine in the future. I'm already so rich that I can't even spend all that money my whole life. Why should I still work hard to make money?

"Pete's goal is to turn the Hunt Corporation into a business empire. Money is no more than numbers to him; what he enjoys is the process. Xander wants to become a doctor and find a way to replace a person's head with another, so he also needs vast amounts of knowledge to realize his goal. But I'm different! I just want to play games for now, and I can still do that even if I don't study! So, why should I study? Am I supposed to do it just so others pay me a few compliments?"

Justin fell silent when he heard her.

Cherry turned to look at him and waited quietly for his answer.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1013 - Be Confident, Be Fearless, Be Humble, And Live With No Regrets (End Of Main Story)

Justin stroked Cherry's hair and slowly answered, "Cherry, while your mom and I—and even your brothers—will never leave you to fend for yourself in the future, I hope you can have the ability to solve your problems with your own strength."

Cherry was stunned.

It was a rare occasion when Justin smiled. He said to Cherry, "What you guys are learning now may not be useful in the future—you may not even use some of these things your whole life—but they form a foundation of knowledge.

"You may be interested in gaming now, but it's impossible that you'll only play games all your life. I don't want you to end up as someone who can only look on helplessly when you develop an interest in other things in the future, unable to do anything due to a lack of foundation.

"Cherry, you still have a long life ahead of you. All the hard work you put in today will build your confidence in the future."

Justin looked at Cheryl after he spoke.

His daughter's features were young, but she looked thoughtful when she heard his words.

Justin stood up quietly and gave her time and space to think.

As soon as he turned around, he spotted Nora who was standing nearby.

He raised his eyebrows and smiled slightly, the beauty mark at the corner of his eye shimmering a little. Then, he strode over.

The two went back to the bedroom together.

After taking a bath, Justin came out to see Nora sitting on the sofa and looking out the window.

He strode over and asked, “Penny for your thoughts?”

Nora replied, “I received a phone call yesterday from a reporter who wants to interview us.”

When Pete enrolled at the top university in the United States with a perfect score on his college entrance examination at ten years old, countless reporters wanted to interview his parents. However, they were all rejected. Various schools even invited them to give speeches, but they had turned down all the invitations.

However, Nora suddenly felt like accepting one of the interviews now.

Justin didn’t ask her why. He only smiled and said, “Okay, I’ll make the arrangements.”

As he spoke, his misbehaving hand reached into her collar...

Nora wanted to sleep, but when she thought of how he had advised their daughter so patiently just now, she ultimately did not refuse him...

—

The next day, Cherry got up bright and early and had breakfast with Xander.

Only a night had passed, but Xander could already sense that there seemed to be something different about his sister—it felt like she had figured out something.

At the dining table, as Mrs. Hunt looked at Cherry, she couldn't help but say, "The school called up your parents and summoned them to the office yesterday, right? Well, Pete has never had teachers summon his parents to the school..."

Mrs. Hunt was just being naggy and mouthing off. Now that she had gotten on in years, there was simply no way of correcting this bad habit of hers anymore. Everyone at home also let her be.

Cherry looked up. "I've decided to study hard. I won't be any less brilliant than Pete in the future!"

Her words took Mrs. Hunt by surprise. A moment later, she couldn't help but scoff and say, "You're already ten. It's too late even if you start studying hard now. No matter how hard you work, you will never surpass Pete!"

Xander couldn't help but say, "Don't rush, Cherry."

He was planning to tell Pete to slow down a little and wait for their sister.

But as soon as the thought formed, Cherry said, "I'm only ten years old. And even if I'm twenty or thirty, as long as I study hard, it's never too late."

She stuffed the rest of her sandwich into her mouth after she spoke and then looked at Mrs. Hunt with her big, clearly-defined eyes. "Let's wait and see, Great-Grandma!"

She would definitely blow everyone away!

Mrs. Hunt curled her lips disdainfully. "Sure, we'll wait and see!"

Xander said from the side, "Waiting and seeing isn't much of a bet, Great-Grandma. Why don't we make a bet instead?"

"What kind of bet?"

"We'll bet on the next exam. If Cherry can get into the top ten, you must admit that you were wrong and apologize to her! How does that sound?"

Mrs. Hunt was about to reply when Xander grinned and taunted, “Great-Grandma, you can’t possibly be afraid, right?”

No way!

Mrs. Hunt sneered and replied, “It’s a deal! But if she doesn’t get into the top ten in the exam, then she must learn the right ways from me and become a proper lady as per my requirements.”

Cherry nodded. Her voice was clear and crisp as she replied, “No problem!”

After the two little ones left, Mrs. Hunt said to the housekeeper beside her, “Cherry has really been spoiled rotten. She doesn’t carry herself like the young lady of a noble family at all and even plays games all day... She has no talent for learning. All I expect now is for her to behave herself when she grows up and then marry her off somewhere!”

—

Elsewhere, the reporter that Justin had arranged a meeting with arrived at a cafe and met up with Nora and Justin.

The reporter’s eyes widened in surprise when she saw them, and she exclaimed, “You two are so young! I would totally believe you even if you told me that you guys were still in college!”

The interview then started.

Nora wasn’t a chatty person, but Justin was willing to supplement information for her.

The interview started with questions about Peter’s study habits, of course. Justin answered all of them in detail.

In the middle of the interview, the reporter asked, “I heard that he is majoring in business management. Are you thinking of having him build a business empire in the future?”

The reporter was vaguely aware of the couple's identities, but she would never include such details in the article, of course.

Justin fell quiet for a while. Then, he glanced at Nora and slowly answered with a smile, "No, a child's future should not be defined by their parents."

The reporter looked at Nora. "Do you think the same way, Mrs. Hunt?"

Nora nodded.

The reporter smiled. As she looked at Nora, she said, "To round off the interview, I hope you can say something to all the children out there, Mrs. Hunt."

Justin looked at Nora.

Knowing that his wife was a quiet woman, he was about to take over the question when he saw Nora straighten her back and sit upright. With a firm look in her eyes, she slowly said, "Be confident, be fearless, be humble, and live with no regrets."

Stunned, Justin looked at her with a scorching look in his eyes.

She had never felt sorry for herself because she didn't have a mother and was neglected by her stepmother and stepfather.

She had never backed down from fear of the unknown and forged ahead bravely even in the face of difficulties.

She had never been arrogant and conceited because of her achievements in whichever field she studied.

And she regretted nothing from the past, lived up to the present, and never feared the future.

She was Nora Smith, his wife.

Sensing Justin's scorching gaze, Nora turned to look at him. As the two exchanged a smile, a thought flashed through their minds at the same time:

“There is nothing more I can ask for after having the fortune of meeting her at the pinnacle.”

“With him by my side for the rest of my life, I can live my life with no regrets.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1014 - C, The God Of Gaming (1)

Ten years later.

The plane drew a long trail across the sky.

At the San Francisco International Airport.

Cheryl slowly walked out of the airport with an extra-large 32-inch pink suitcase.

The sixteen-year-old girl had pretty and delicate facial features and did not have any makeup on her flawless and tender skin. Her hair was up in a half-bun, and she wore a white dress cinched at the waist. She looked just like a fairy, causing people all around to look at her.

There were even people who thought that she must be a celebrity of some sort.

Cheryl was already accustomed to the way people looked at her.

She was simply too good-looking. She and her brothers were always the center of attention wherever they went. There was nothing they could do about it.

She let out a quiet sigh and then picked up her cell phone to see that there were already a few messages in the family group chat.

Justin: 'Are you there yet?'

Peter: 'She should have gotten off the plane by now, I think?'

Alexander: 'She isn't there yet? But I just called the airport, and they said that she has definitely arrived.'

Justin: '@Cheryl, reply once you've reached.'

Cheryl: "..."

The corners of her lips spasmed, and she let out another silent sigh. Yet she also inexplicably felt like she had just flown out of a cage. She was simply so excited!

At last, she could finally escape her three fathers' control.

The way her two brothers cared for her practically made them her fathers.

Only her mom was slightly more normal among everyone in the family.

For example... Now that she had grown up, she wanted to play in an e-sports tournament and fulfill her childhood dream, however, just convincing her brothers and her father alone had taken so much work!

In the end, her mom had to step in. With just a single sentence, she allowed her to escape from the hellish scene and shut her brothers and father up.

She sighed quietly and replied: 'I have reached. I'm busy, so let's talk in the evening instead. Leave me alone!!!!'

It was only after she sent the five exclamation points in a row that she finally stopped the three men who wanted to call her.

After putting down the phone, she looked at the pick-up area ahead of her.

That's right.

She had found a team she had high hopes for and decided to join them.

The team had been sending her private messages in the game for many years, but she had been too young then. Her father had stated that she could only go on trips by herself after she turned sixteen, so she had declined all their invitations in the past.

She looked at the area in front and finally spotted two boys looking at her holding a placard.

Written on the placard was her in-game alias—God C.

She had already given up her sweetcherry account a long time ago because she found the name too childish now that she was all grown up. Thus, she took the first letter from “cherry” as her new in-game name. Her in-game name was C, but everyone called her God C.

Cheryl walked toward the pair. As soon as she went near, she heard them discussing something in low voices.

“Who on earth is God C? She’s so mysterious. There has been a lot of speculation over the years that she’s not a girl but a guy instead!”

When one registered for an account in the game, they had to state their gender, and Cheryl had picked “Female”, of course.

Therefore, outsiders knew that C was female.

It was just a pity that nobody believed it as they felt that it was impossible for girls to achieve such results in the game.

The other person replied, “I don’t know, man. God C only joined after our gunner retired... I heard that the coaching team had contacted her long ago, but she rejected them.”

“Everybody says that God C has never shown her face all these years because she isn’t good-looking... Actually, I think she is a guy, but still, the coaching team was too hasty! Our life as e-sports competitors basically ends at 25 years old. Once we pass the age of 25, our reaction time and muscle movement will slow down... But God C had already dominated the game seven to eight years ago. Even if she was 16 years old seven to eight years ago, she would still be 25 now! Is she really up to the task?”

“Yeah... Captain threw a fit in the club because of this too, sigh!”

“Is our club out of money? Going by our boss—Chester Hunt’s—personality, that shouldn’t be the case, though. How nice would it be if he just head-hunted an expert player from abroad at a high price instead?”

Yup, the club that Cheryl was joining was founded by Chester, her uncle.

Cheryl stood in front of the pair.

However, the pair was in a hurry to find God C, so one of them took out his cell phone and said, “I’ll give God C a call. I have her number!”

After he spoke, he dialed Cheryl’s number.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1015 - C, The God Of Gaming (2)

When the ringtone rang out next to them, the pair who was there to pick up Cheryl stared at her blankly.

Then, they saw the pretty, little princess-like Cheryl in front of them holding up her cell phone. In a soft and cute voice, she said, “Hello, I’m C.”

“Hello, I’m C.”

The voice echoed from the cell phone at the same time. The caller looked at her in disbelief and then stammered, “You... y-you’re God C?”

Cheryl nodded. “Uh-huh!”

She hung up.

To be honest, it wasn’t so much that she didn’t want to directly identify herself. Rather, she knew that the two would never believe she was C even if she went to them directly. That was why she had stood in front of them and waited for them to call her and confirm her arrival.

In this regard, Cheryl understood people like them all too well.

After all, all these years, no one she knew believed that she was C, and some even thought she was lying...

Now that the evidence was in front of them, the two staff members could only accept the truth, no matter how much they doubted it.

“God C! Hello! We are from Club HS. Here, this way, please!”

Cheryl handed the two her suitcase after they spoke, and one of them took it from her. Then, Cheryl walked ahead and asked, “Where is the car?”

“It’s in the car park on B2.”

Cheryl nodded.

As the two behind her walked on, they suddenly felt like something didn’t feel right... Why did they seem like her subordinates and God C a queen high up in the air?!

With this thought in mind, the two of them looked at each other.

Then, the car took Cheryl straight to the club.

Club HS was located in a villa district in San Francisco. Chester received dividends from his shares in the Hunt Corporation every year, so he had tons of pocket money that he couldn’t finish spending even if he wanted to. He also owned properties all over the country.

Club HS had shown pretty good results all this time, so Chester had very generously converted a villa in a luxurious district into their clubhouse.

When the car entered the district, Cheryl found herself slightly taken aback. “Is the clubhouse in this district?”

“Yeah.”

The person taking her to the clubhouse nodded. Then, he said proudly, “Our boss is super rich, so our club is known as one for the wealthy. All the club members are rich young men!”

The guy thought that Cheryl was astonished by the locale because it was common for anyone who visited their clubhouse for the first time to be surprised by the district it was in.

People living in this district were either rich or of high social status. It was undoubtedly an extravagant move to set up a clubhouse here.

However, Cheryl merely nodded calmly.

Afterward, she arrived at Villa No. 8.

When the other pro players in the clubhouse heard the news of her arrival, all of them craned their necks and looked outside.

God C was their idol.

Many of them had been her fans since they were 16 and continued to this day.

Thus, all of them wanted to see who God C was.

The boy standing at the forefront was dressed handsomely in the team uniform. He rested both hands on his hips, and his whole demeanor screamed arrogance. After all, as the captain of Club HS, and even the one in charge of the design and planning department of the game league, Zac Stannard had always been very proud of himself.

But now that God C was joining the club, was the club going to listen to him or to her from now on?

Zac raised his chin arrogantly.

Mildly unhappy with God C, he planned to trash her in a game and make her recognize his abilities...

His teammates behind him were also talking about God C.

“Judging from how much time has passed, God C must be at least 24 or 25 by now, right? Isn’t she too old to become a pro now?”

“I don’t think she’s too old; the coaching team must have their reasons for doing what they did. They wouldn’t have invited God C to join the team if she didn’t have the skill...”

“God C has never publicly shown her face, and everyone in the industry says that she is horribly ugly...”

“Haha, God C has always been awfully stuck-up, and there were even rumors going around that she may be a rich heir to some business tycoon. I’m just waiting to see the look of astonishment on God C’s face when she sees that we live in such an awesome place. She will definitely be intimidated, right?”

A car slowly came to a stop in front of him.

Then, the door opened, and a sweet and beautiful teen girl stepped out of it.

The girl was stunningly beautiful. Her exquisite beauty lit up people’s eyes and made it impossible for them to take their eyes off her, but...

Zac frowned and reprimanded the two boys. “Where’s God C? Didn’t you two go to the airport to pick up God C? Why did you bring back some random minor instead of God C?”

The two staff members stared at each other, both at a loss for words.

Zac became even angrier. Just as he was about to speak again, Cheryl stretched out her hand to him. “Hi, I’m C.”

Zac: “??”

The teammates behind him who were waiting to catch a glimpse of C’s charming demeanor: “?”

Chapter 1016 - C, The God Of Gaming (3)

Everyone looked at Cheryl in astonishment and complete disbelief.

Zac also frowned. However, he was more composed, so his reaction wasn't too dramatic.

The other members of the club, however, went into a huge furor after a moment of silence. "No way!"

How could God C possibly be a young girl in her teens like her?

Everyone started talking.

"Hey, stop joking around!"

"Yeah, I know everyone is down because we lost the last championship, but come on, don't joke around with us like this!"

"Although the sight of a pretty girl makes me very happy, we're all still waiting for God C to carry us, you know..."

Everyone piped up one by one, none of them believing that the girl was God C, no matter what.

This was very understandable. C was already dominating the game ten years ago, but how young had Cheryl been back then?

Nobody would ever think that Cheryl was C.

Cheryl had long since become desensitized to such situations.

Without hesitation, she took out her cell phone, started up the game app, and logged into her account in front of them.

Everyone: “!!”

Zac frowned, “Are you really C?”

“Uh-huh.”

Even the way Cheryl spoke was soft and cutesy, making her look like a child.

Zac frowned and asked, “Kid, you don’t look like you’re of age yet, do you?”

Cheryl replied seriously, “How can that be?”

Zac heaved a sigh of relief.

He knew it. Why would the club get a minor to compete in professional e-sports tournaments, right? However, the next moment, Cheryl added, “I’m only 15! I still have a long way to go before I turn 18!”

Zac: “!!!”

Cheryl certainly looked very young. If it wasn’t for her height, with her young and adorable facial features, she could even pass off as a 10-year-old... Zac had thought that she merely looked young.

After all, in this day and age, it was nearly impossible to tell someone’s age once they put on make-up.

He had thought that she was just pretending to be young and was at least in her twenties, but to his surprise, the kid was only fifteen?

The corners of his lips spasmed.

At this point, someone from the coaching team hurried over. He extended his hand to Cheryl respectfully and said, “Hello, God C! Welcome to the club! Why don’t we go in first? What are you doing standing outside?”

Cheryl hesitated and glanced at Villa No. 9...

The club consisted only of boys, so her uncle had already assigned her Villa No. 9 before her arrival. She only needed to walk a short distance over to report for duty every day.

However, everyone was so enthusiastic that she ended up being ushered into the clubhouse.

As soon as she entered, the head coach said, “God C, we took into consideration that you’re a girl, so we have connected two rooms into one upstairs and renovated it for you. Would you like to go up and have a look?”

Cheryl: “...”

Before she could move, her teammates picked up the pink suitcase for her and went upstairs.

Cheryl could only follow after them...

She thought about it seriously and decided that she would just stay in this villa for the next few days. She would bring up the topic of moving out after she became familiar with her teammates.

Thus, she followed her teammates up the stairs.

Lionel, a mid lane mage, was a young lively boy who looked like he was about 20 years old. He smiled and said, “Look! Isn’t your room big? We specially prepared this for girls. Even your room at home isn’t as big as this, right?”

The two rooms had been connected into one, making the room look about 50 to 60 square meters big. For ordinary people, it was indeed considered sufficiently big.

But when Cheryl thought of her suite in the New York villa...

She gave him a polite smile.

Zac smacked Lionel on the head.

Zac could also be considered a rich heir, and his family was also well-known in San Francisco. He could tell that even though the girl was even-tempered and easy to get along with, her every move carried an air of extravagance. She was not a child raised in an ordinary family. Judging simply from how delicate she looked... Her entire self gave off an air of extravagance that only money could nurture.

“Do you want us to help you clean up?” Zac asked.

Cheryl was about to reply when her cell phone suddenly rang. She smiled apologetically at the coach and her teammates and said, “Sorry, I have to take a call.”

Then, she answered the phone call. “Hello, sir...”

She turned and walked out of the room.

After closing the door, Cheryl looked at the phone and asked, “Is something the matter?”

“It’s...” Her high school homeroom teacher’s voice came from the opposite end. “It’s about your college admission again. Another few schools have called and offered various attractive conditions in hopes that you would enroll in the schools. You...”

Cheryl sighed. “Sir, I’ve already taken the college entrance examination this year.”

That’s right.

Cheryl had also skipped grades.

Ever since she made a bet with her great-grandmother, she had started to study hard.

Although she started late, her IQ was high enough, so she completed all the courses in five years and took the college entrance examination that summer.

Of course, she had still played a lot of games during the past five years.

Now that she was done with the college entrance examination, she had finally come to the club to compete as a professional e-sports player...

The teacher nodded. "I know you have already taken the college entrance examination, but the schools have been urging me for an answer... Those are the top universities in the US, yet you refused recommendations and insisted on taking the college entrance examination... Never mind. Are you really going to wait for the scores to be released?"

"Yeah."

Cheryl smiled.

She had confidence in herself.

"Okay."

The teacher also had confidence in her. Nevertheless, he said, "I heard that you're going to compete professionally. Don't forget to train every day!"

"Got it."

After hanging up, Cheryl opened the door again and walked back in, where she saw the whole group looking at her.

After hesitating for a while, Zac said, "Kid, you must be taking your high school entrance examinations this year, right? I still think you are too young. You should at least finish high school before you decide what to do for the rest of your life..."

"Yeah!"

The others nodded repeatedly. "Zac was a Harvard student. Back then, he took his college entrance examination and enrolled in the university. It was only after he made it into the team that he dropped out and became a professional player!"

“Although we aren’t good at our studies, you should still study hard... By the way, did your teacher call you just now because the high school entrance exam results are out? Which high school did you get into? You’re a New Yorker, right? Zac lived in New York City for a while too! Do you want him to help you find a school or something...?”

Cheryl: “???”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1017 - C, The God Of Gaming (4)

She blinked, then replied, “Trinity School.”

“Wow! Zac was also from Trinity School. This means that you two are about to become alumni of the same school!” The rest echoed.

In order to leave a good impression of himself on Cheryl, Lionel sang Zac’s praises. “Do you know? Zac almost topped the college entrance examination in your school, but there was a mutant in your school that year who got a perfect score on the exam... But this doesn’t matter; what matters is that Zac legitimately enrolled in Harvard through the college entrance examination. If you stay here and ever need help with your studies, you can just approach him!”

Lionel patted his chest and added, “Zac almost got a perfect score in Mathematics in the college entrance examination, you know! He’s unbelievable! God C, do you want to know how to get an almost perfect score in Mathematics? If you do, you can ask the captain to explain it to you!”

Cheryl: “?”

She was stunned for a moment. After thinking briefly, she answered seriously, “Is it by solving one fewer multiple-choice question?”

Everyone: “?”

Lionel: “???”

What did she mean by solving one fewer question?!

What he’d meant to express was that it was impressive how Zac had achieved a near-perfect score in mathematics, but why was God C’s response making it seem like she was a star student?

The corners of Zac's lips spasmed.

Suddenly, he found the kid in front of him pretty cute.

Still, he hesitated for a moment before he looked at the coach. "When our team was recruiting, we had stated that candidates must be at least high school graduates. Never mind that she's a minor; after all, there are players who started playing professionally when they were only 16. Is she going to be a pro player when she hasn't even finished high school, though?"

He broke into a frown and his tone turned serious, completely forgetting that the cute Cheryl in front of him was God C. "This is not right," he said.

"How so?"

The coach said, "She has already graduated high school! She even took the college entrance examination this year!"

In recent years, the game industry had been growing more and more rapidly. Many teenagers addicted to the Internet wanted to become professional e-sports players, resulting in many children neglecting their studies and getting preoccupied with thoughts of dropping out of school to play games.

Thus, there was now a new rule in the professional league—one must finish at least high school or vocational school before they could pursue a career as a professional e-sports player.

This rule was passed for the good of the children.

Lionel was stunned. "How can that be? She's only fifteen! Yet she has already taken the college entrance examination?"

Cheryl nodded.

Lionel found it a little incredulous. "You skipped a grade? Why?"

She had definitely skipped a grade.

Cheryl replied, “So that I could play games!”

Her parents had requested that she pass the college entrance examination before she started her career as a professional e-sports player, so Cheryl had to study as quickly as possible! If it wasn't for the fact that her brother was too demanding and insisted that she get a full score on the exam before she could skip a grade, she could even have taken the college entrance examination a year earlier!

Lionel suddenly understood something...

There were cases like this in the professional league too.

Some children had gaming talent, and ages between 16 to 22 were optimal for one to play professionally. To avoid letting those few years go to waste, parents of the really talented children would help them skip grades and graduate from high school as soon as possible so that they could compete.

A kid who joined the league this year had mediocre grades, yet he kept skipping grades in order to play professionally. After graduating from high school this year, he finally became an official player!

Thus, Lionel thought that Cheryl's case was a similar one...

He smiled and changed the subject. “Does this mean you're not going to university?”

Cheryl shook her head again. “No, my parents requested that I go to university, but they have agreed to let me take a year off from school this year.”

“Well, that's true. Aside from Zac, going to university would only be a boring affair for the rest of us. You're probably only eligible for a third-rate university like me, right?”

“... That shouldn't be the case,” replied Cheryl.

“You mean it may be worse?”

Lionel frowned. He wanted to say something, but he suddenly realized that he was speaking to a delicate young girl, so he shouldn't rub salt into her wound. Therefore, before Cheryl could explain, he changed the topic and said, "Alright, let's not talk about this anymore. Let's instead talk about what to do now. I see that you don't have much luggage with you. Shall I take you to the supermarket to get the things you need? Oh, by the way, there are only premium supermarkets nearby..."

After speaking, Lionel looked at Cheryl.

The teen girl looked dainty, but she dressed simply, and none of the clothes she wore had brand names on them.

Lionel had only decided to pursue a career in e-sports because his financial situation at home was not good.

Over the past two years, he had earned more than a million dollars in wages and bonuses in the club each year, so one could say that he was now exposed to various luxury brands. Since there weren't brand names on the teen's clothes, this meant that her clothes must be from fast fashion brands...

With that in mind, Lionel thought of how he had only thirty bucks on him when he first came to the club back then.

He had gone to the supermarket for daily necessities, but after entering the premium supermarket, he accidentally spent $300 just shopping casually inside.

He had been dumbfounded at the time.

Why was a towel $15 when they were sold for two or three bucks back in his hometown?!

He couldn't pay at all!

It was Zac who noticed his embarrassing situation and then footed the bill for him...

After recalling his own situation, Lionel looked at Cheryl even more kindly and said, “Come on, let’s go, God C! I’ll take you shopping. I have a membership card, so leave tonight’s bill to me!”

“I can do it too!”

“Me, I can do it! I have money!”

Two other teammates also scrambled to pay.

Zac looked at them, the corners of his lips spasming. He said, “You can ask the coaching team for an advance on your first month’s salary.”

... That isn’t necessary at all , thought Cheryl.

She touched the black card in her pocket and said quietly, “Um... I can pay for myself.”

“How much can you possibly have?”

Lionel beckoned to her and said, “Come on, I’ll drive you there.”

Cheryl originally wanted to refuse, but when she heard the word “drive”, she let out a quiet sigh.

She wasn’t old enough to even get a driver’s license yet...

Even though she could clearly drive and even ride a motorcycle...

Cheryl could only follow Lionel out the door. There was nothing in the room, so she did have to buy things like shampoo, shower gel, etc.

After Cheryl left, Zac suddenly picked up his cell phone and sent a text message to his former homeroom teacher: ‘Hey, are you there? Can I ask you about a student?’

He wanted to know what Cheryl’s grades were like so that he could decide if she needed his help in finding a good school after the college entrance examination.

After all, his family did have some status. Lionel's college entrance examination results had been mediocre back then. It was his family that had helped him enroll in an acceptable university. Otherwise, he would not have even been able to enroll in one.

As captain, Zac showed his teammates a lot of concern. If there was anything he could help with, he definitely would. He was much more reliable than their boss, Chester.

After he sent the message, his homeroom teacher replied: 'Who are you asking about?'

Zac: 'Do you know Cheryl Smith?'

His teacher: 'Of course! She's famous!'

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1018 - C, The God Of Gaming (5)

Famous?

Zac was a bit taken aback as he stared at the reply. He asked: 'What's going on?'

However, his homeroom teacher left him on a cliffhanger: 'Wanna guess?'

Zac: "..."

Guess? What for?!

He sent another message to the teacher: 'I'll bring you a couple of bottles of good wine when I go to New York for a competition during summer vacation.'

Only then did his teacher laugh and reply: 'Cheryl skipped two grades in a row, jumping directly from freshman year to senior year in high school. I heard she did it so that she could take part in a professional competition for the same game you're playing. Oh, by the way, she is also a star athlete. She was specially head-hunted by the school.'

A star athlete?

Zac thought of Cheryl's docile and soft appearance. She probably wasn't a student specializing in track and field, was she?

His attention was successfully diverted, and he asked: 'In arts?'

His teacher: 'No, shooting.'

Zac: "..."

He thought of how thin and frail she looked, yet she had enrolled in her high school as a shooting sports specialist. In addition, there was a charming contrast when he thought of a cute girl like her holding a gun.

The teacher sent another message: ‘She stopped practicing during the last few years, though. But with the awards she has won, she won’t have any problems enrolling in university...’

Zac suddenly realized what was going on.

So, that was what Cheryl was doing.

As an important sport and even a competitive segment in the Olympics, shooting had indeed become very popular in recent years. If her family’s financial situation was good enough and they had exposed her to the sport since she was a child, this was indeed a viable option for her.

By now, he was already under the impression that Cheryl had poor grades and could only get into university by being a specialized student.

Thus, he stopped asking about her grades. Instead, he asked: ‘She won’t have problems enrolling in university?’

His teacher: ‘Of course not. She’s very talented in shooting...’

Cheryl was so sought after by various schools precisely because she was a hot favorite for marksmanship champion in the next Olympics.

Of course, his homeroom teacher didn’t dare to say this out loud, so he could only hint at it vaguely.

After all, Cheryl was so young. If they put so much pressure on her, she might not be able to perform at her usual standard... Therefore, the coaches of the national team never let teachers show off to outsiders.

She was the national team’s hidden trump card for the next Olympics.

Zac understood now. He asked: ‘I see. By the way, which university did she choose in the end?’

His teacher: 'She hasn't picked one so far. The college entrance examination scores aren't out yet.'

Academic scores were taken into consideration for specialized students too.

As a result, Zac felt that the teacher must have been exaggerating when he said that she had a lot of talent.

If she was really that talented, why would she still need to take part in the college entrance examination? Schools would just find a way to directly recruit her...

Zac felt that he now had a better understanding of Cheryl.

Her family's financial situation was not bad and her grades were average. However, because her family was rich, they groomed her interest in shooting, where she then used her talent to enroll in a top high school and eventually university.

C had been playing games since she was five, and she had spent a lot of time playing games over the years, so her forte was still gaming.

Zac, who seemed to have realized something, ended his chat with his homeroom teacher.

However, the head coach of the team walked in with a sullen look on his face. "This is too much!"

Zac was surprised. "What's wrong?"

The head coach picked up his cell phone and handed it to Zac. Only then did he realize that their team was being roasted on social media.

Only Cheryl's back was pictured, but someone had taken a photo of Cheryl, Lionel, and the others shopping at the supermarket, as well as of her entering the club.

The paparazzi must have taken the photos.

However, as soon as the photos were released, all hell broke loose.

Team HS had failed to win the championship this year and came in second place because their gunner had injured his hand during the last season. This had angered the fans.

In the beginning, everyone was just sad, but because of these photos, the fans now behaved as though they had caught on to something and started roasting the team.

‘No wonder they lost the game! Their minds are no longer on the game after they made some money, right? Are they just having fun with girls now?’

‘Us fans can’t even go to a sacred place like the club, yet they brought a girl in? Has HS given up on themselves after losing the competition once?’

‘The whole team was performing below expectations in the competition. Their success has obviously gotten into their heads!’

‘Hah, they still haven’t officially announced their new gunner. Has the club given up on recruiting? Has everyone given up?’

‘If you have given up, then please let your fans know, lest we continue to foolishly wait for the champions to return!’

...

...

Their comments were extremely unpleasant and unbearable.

After losing a game, even dating would be seen as a sin.

This was the reality that professional players had to face.

Seeing this, Zac’s expression darkened. “Get rid of it, lest the kid sees such a disgusting thing and has her mood ruined when she has only just joined.”

The head coach sighed. “I’ll go clarify the matter, then.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1019 - C, The God Of Gaming (6)

The head coach quickly logged in to the club's Facebook account and posted a clarification notice.

Club HS E-Sports: 'We believe that our players have the freedom to engage in romantic relationships, but we would still like to clarify that Lionel is currently not in one; the young lady is a new member of our club. As for who she is, we're keeping it a secret for now.'

Players easily became targets in e-sports competitions.

C was an expert gunner who could be said to be among the top tier of players in the league. Because of this, there were many who liked to study her habits and play style.

This made it easy for her to become a target for other teams.

Though she would reveal her presence in competitions sooner or later, having their competitors study her play style after the start of the competition was still preferable to revealing her identity at this point and giving them sufficient time to target her.

They would just keep it a secret for as long as they could.

It would be ideal if they could keep it a secret until the first round of the competition so that they could catch the opponents by surprise.

This was what everyone in the club had agreed upon previously.

As soon as the coach posted the notice, the fans calmed down.

To be honest, the fans were just expecting better from Club HS, that was all. They were the champions every year, yet they had come in second place this year. The retirement of the top gunner in the league due to injury had led to everyone paying special attention to Club HS.

They were afraid that the club would not fare well in the future.

Therefore, now that the club had cleared the air, the issue was resolved.

Nevertheless, when some looked at Cheryl's side profile in the photo, they couldn't help but raise a few questions.

'Is the new gunner a girl? Isn't she the first female professional player in the league?'

'What's wrong with female players? Can't we girls take part in the competition? What a joke! What age are we in now? Are there still people discriminating against girls?'

'Men have better reflexes in e-sports than women, right? Besides, the people who make it to the pinnacle of various industries all seem to be men.'

'LMAOing at the guy above. Here, let me tell you a story: the most famous surgeon in the world is a woman.'

'Here's another piece of trivia: Yanci, the top car racer in the world, is also a woman.'

'Chiming in to add that Q, the most well-known hacker in the world, is also a woman.'

...

After receiving a crash course from the rest, the person who had raised the question in the beginning immediately wussed out.

'I'm not discriminating against her. I'm welcoming her... In any case, the godly Zac is so strong that he can carry anyone anyway!'

'Yes, I welcome female players!'

The comments were relatively peaceful. After all, women had successfully achieved high positions in various industries over the years. Though there were few female competitive e-sports players, they did exist.

The head coach looked at the rest of the staff with a smile and said, “It’s fortunate that women have made it into the ranks of top performers in every industry over the years, so there aren’t many who question their abilities anymore when they become professional players.”

However, among these comments was a question:

‘Judging from her side-profile, she seems very young, though? Is she an elementary school student?’

The coach immediately replied to the message: ‘Don’t worry, our new member just took her college entrance examination this year. She reported for duty right after that.’

‘Then it’s fine.’

The problem was resolved easily and smoothly. All the dissent online seemed to have disappeared, and not many had raised doubts about girls participating in e-sports.

Even though the coach knew that there wouldn’t be that much opposition in the first place, wasn’t this going a little too smoothly?

Little did he know...

In New York, Alexander stretched lazily and said, “Tsk, tsk. Trending on social media when she has only just reached the club. As expected, Cheryl can’t manage without her big brother!”

As he spoke, Peter, who was sitting opposite him, slowly looked up.

Differences were already starting to show in fifteen-year-old Peter and Cheryl’s looks.

Cheryl still looked cute and adorable, but there was an additional sense of toughness in the same facial features on Peter. In addition, Peter had trained in martial arts frequently over the years, so his features were more defined, and he didn't have any baby fat. He looked absolutely dashing.

He slowly said, "You mean big brothers."

"... Fine," said Alexander.

He pulled his hand from the keyboard and said, "Write a program and keep an eye on the Internet. If anyone says things like 'girls can't be professional e-sports players' again, ban their accounts! Also, Cherry's side profile is more than enough on the Internet; all full-frontal photos must be deleted. Don't go too soft on them. I have something on, so I'll go for now."

—

The incident was resolved quietly. When Cheryl returned to the club after she was done shopping for daily necessities, she didn't yet know that she had trended on social media.

Her teammates enthusiastically escorted her to the room and even helped her clean it up.

When the head coach came over, he immediately saw Cheryl seated on the sofa while the rest of the team was busy with chores.

The corners of his lips spasmed.

Generally, whenever there was fresh blood in the team, everyone treated them with mild skepticism. Moreover, they were all still young and hot-blooded. The head coach had been worried that they would get into a dispute with the new member.

But from how things looked... It seemed despite having only been here for two hours, Cheryl had already become the club favorite!

However... the head coach looked at Cheryl.

The teen girl sat quietly on the sofa as she munched on a potato chip she was holding between her fair fingers. Her little mouth was moving constantly, making her look cute and well-behaved, like a little squirrel. Even he didn't dare to raise his voice at her!

So, it was only natural that she would end up as the club favorite, right?

While the head coach was musing, a staff member suddenly came over. The man looked serious as he said, "Coach, Club JQ is so shameless!"

Surprised, the head coach asked, "What happened?"

"Take a look at this!"

The staff member took out his cell phone, opened up Facebook, and handed it to the coach.

Only then did the head coach realize that Club JQ, their archrival, had officially announced a new member in their team this year!

Team JQ had also welcomed a new player this year, and everyone had been guessing who it might be...

However, they had just made an official announcement, and the new member was also a well-known player in the game—the female live-streamer, Jimmy.

A female player!

Well, that was some pretty hot news.

The problem, though, was that Team JQ had made a special mention of Jimmy's education when they introduced her—because she was a rare one with relatively high academic qualifications among the group!

She was an undergraduate at a prestigious university!

After the news went public, fans of Team JQ took the opportunity to create the image of a highly-educated intellectual for her...

They were clearly facing off with Club HS by doing this!

Fans of Team JQ were even starting to antagonize them on the Internet.

They outright at-mentioned Club HS' official account and asked, "How high can your new member score in the college entrance examination?"

The head coach: "!!!"

This was an e-sports competition!! What was the point of obsessing over the players' college entrance examination results?!

What a ridiculous way of antagonizing them!

Had they let their win go to their heads after becoming the champions just once?

They had practically come all the way to their doorstep to bully them now!

Yet...

He glanced at Cheryl.

Sensing that he was looking at her, Cheryl looked up, whereupon she saw the head coach smile kindly at her as he said, "It's okay. College entrance examination scores aren't everything. We don't look at one's college entrance examination results in this industry."

Cheryl: "??"

Chapter 1020 - C, The God Of Gaming (7)

Cheryl picked up another potato chip, took a bite, and then looked at the head coach. “Oh, okay.”

Then, she saw the head coach pacing back and forth in front of her as he looked at her earnestly, looking like someone who wanted to ask her something yet didn't dare to.

“... Coach, is there something you want to ask me?” Cheryl asked.

The head coach coughed and said, “Um, I'm just asking about this casually. I am absolutely not insinuating anything, nor am I looking down on you! But, well, what kind of university do you think you can get into?”

After speaking, the head coach wanted to give himself a tight slap.

What was he even asking?

The teen obviously looked easily embarrassed. What if the young lady couldn't even get into a university at all? How was she going to answer him?

The head coach immediately tried to repair the situation. “No, what I mean to say is, it's okay even if it's just a specialist school. Er, it doesn't matter whether you go to university or not...”

“Yes, yes, that's right! I also think that academic qualifications aren't important in our industry!” Lionel had also seen the posts and comments on Facebook. He came over immediately to comfort her and said, “Look at me, I only attended a lousy second-rate university while these guys here went to even worse ones!”

The rest of the team also hurried over and comforted her.

“Exactly, so it’s alright no matter how you score in the exams!”

“It’s okay even if you don’t attend university!”

“Haha, mutants like Captain Zac are a rarity in our industry. Nobody can ace their exams while being an expert gamer too, right?”

“We compete with our abilities, not academic qualifications!”

...

While they were talking, Cheryl sensed that something was amiss.

The smart girl blinked a couple of times and then opened up Facebook, where she saw that someone had at-mentioned Club HS.

As she stared at her cell phone, her big eyes widened in disbelief.

Upon seeing this, the head coach next to her became even more distressed. “D-don’t cry, Cheryl... Everything will be fine, they are just jealous that you’re pretty!”

“Yeah, you’re so much prettier than that live-streamer lady, so she could only try to make up for the difference with her academics...”

“Ignore them. They’re just trying to embarrass you!”

“Their fans all seem to feel some kind of sense of superiority to others online. Ha, it’s not like having good grades will let them win the championship, right?”

As everyone comforted her, they saw her look up.

On her flawless little face, they didn’t see any sadness in her eyes but faint... excitement instead?

The head coach felt like his eyes must be playing tricks on him. He was about to speak when Cheryl said docilely, “Coach, can I reply to the message?”

The head coach: “?”

The teen spoke so innocently that he couldn't even make himself say no!

The corners of his lips spasmed as he considered the proposal for a moment. Then, he replied, “Alright, go ahead, but don't argue with them. People online are just being led on by others... Don't cry, either, nor do you have to feel like you've let the fans down just because your grades are poor... Oh, and don't use foul language. We'll deduct $30 per swear word you use.”

“Okay!”

Cheryl opened up her Facebook settings and changed her name to Cherry HS.

She knew that the club didn't want her to reveal her identity yet, so she didn't change it to “C”. After the change, the head coach made a welcome post on the club's official Facebook page: ‘Welcome to the club, @Cherry HS.’

With that, everyone now knew that Cherry HS was the new member of Club HS.

After that, Cheryl lowered her head and started typing a message.

The head coach watched her from a distance away and shook his head slightly.

Lionel was a little worried. “Coach, aren't you concerned that she may use abusive language or argue with them?”

The head coach replied, “She has promised me that she wouldn't. Besides, she's so innocent. Do you think she would argue with them?”

Lionel nodded after hearing this. He certainly didn't dare to even speak a little loudly to Cheryl. The girl looked so delicate that it was as if she would shatter like porcelain if he spoke even a little louder than usual.

The two of them thought that even if the girl panicked for real and argued a bit with the people online, she would probably just say something like “If you continue insulting me, I’ll beat you up with my little fists”.

There was no firepower whatsoever.

In fact, Lionel couldn’t help but suggest, “Coach, should I help her hurl a couple of insults?”

The head coach looked at him coldly at once. “Ha ha, that would be $30 deducted per word, then.”

Lionel shut up immediately.

He was the embodiment of a miser.

While the two were chatting, a staff member of the club suddenly approached them anxiously. When he saw the head coach, his expression immediately changed, and he looked as if he wanted to cry!

“Coach!!”

The head coach looked at him. “What’s wrong?”

He subconsciously looked at Cheryl and asked, “Did you use abusive language?”

Cheryl shook her head, the look in her eyes cute and innocent as she answered, “Nope!”

“Nope”...

She was just too cute!

The head coach completely believed her.

The staff member next to him was caught between laughter and tears, though. He said, “God C, it’s true that you didn’t use abusive language... but it might have been better if you had!”

The head coach was stunned when he heard this.

At last, he sensed something amiss belatedly and picked up his cell phone, where he saw that the welcome post for Cheryl had been pinned at the top.

In the post, someone had at-mentioned her and asked: ‘Jimmy scored 1300 on her SAT. Do you know how she scored so high?’

At the sight of the question, the head coach’s heart suddenly sank.

He suddenly thought of Cheryl’s response when Lionel mentioned Zac’s near-perfect score in his mathematics paper during the college entrance examination.

He continued scrolling down, and sure enough, he saw Cheryl’s reply: ‘Did she miss out chunks of questions in one of the papers?’

The head coach: “??”

He felt his vision blacking out!

He was getting that vague feeling of someone showing off again!!

Nevertheless, he asked, “S-she must be joking, right?”

The staff member sighed. He felt as though the head coach, who was strict with everyone, had been blinded by Cheryl. He said, “Keep reading.”

The head coach continued scrolling down.

Then, he saw someone at-mention her again. They asked: ‘Oh wow, since you are so smart, which university do you think you can get into?’

Cheryl replied: ‘I am considering Harvard and MIT, but I haven’t decided which yet.’

As expected, the comments that followed were full of jeering. Everyone was guffawing.

The head coach: “!!!”

He looked up at Cheryl.

Still speaking in the same innocent tone, Cheryl said, “See? I didn’t use any abusive language.”

“It might have been better if you had!”

The head coach panicked.

If she had used abusive language, it would at least have been because the other party had provoked her first, so she couldn’t help but retaliate, which would have made her reaction justifiable. But what was she bragging so freaking much for?!

Harvard and MIT? She was considering them?

Were those two schools something one could joke so carelessly about?!!!

His voice shook as he said, “Um, if memory serves me right, the college entrance examination results will be out in ten days, right?”

Cheryl nodded. “Yup!”

She was giving him that same harmless and adorable feeling again...

The head coach felt like he had been completely bewitched by her. The corners of his lips spasmed and he found himself utterly at a loss for words.

Next to him, the staff member couldn’t help but ask, “What do we do, coach?”

The head coach replied, “What else can we do? Have the PR department ready! They’d better do a good job at handling this matter on the day the college entrance examination results are released!!!”

That girl was still so young and was even so pretty, but why must she be such a huge braggart?!!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1021 - College Entrance Examination Results Are Out!

What happened next was true to the head coach's expectations—Club JQ's fans went into full-out ridicule mode.

By the end of it, the situation had turned into “The presumptuous new member of Club HS is competing with Jimy over academic qualifications!”

This was despite the fact that they had started the argument first!

It was just a shame that Club HS couldn't clear the air even if they wanted to because Cheryl had personally made those outrageous claims.

In the end, the head coach had no choice but to implement a new rule—uninstall Facebook!

All of them uninstalled Facebook for a period of time. Once the whole thing blew over, they would download it again... Their accounts were managed by club staff anyway.

Cheryl had no choice but to do the same. She had always been an obedient girl, so she also did as told and uninstalled Facebook.

“Starting from tomorrow, you and Zac will team up in ranked matches to build up a rapport with each other.”

The head coach said to Cheryl.

Zac, who happened to exit his room at this point, nodded when he heard him.

Zac was the jungler and ganker of the team. By having the two of them play together, the head coach wanted to let Zac have a look at Cheryl's play style and habits so that he could work with her to take down opponents.

After all, the jungler was the one in control of the overall pace in a game.

“Okay. We’ll try a ranked match at eleven o’clock tomorrow morning.”

“Okie-Dokie!”

After bidding goodbye to the others, Cheryl entered her room.

Everything in the room had been tidied up, so she only needed to unpack her belongings.

Cheryl spent a bit of time unpacking and then washed up. Then, she lay on the bed and picked up her cell phone.

There were a lot of messages in the family group chat.

Her brothers and father were asking her how her new club was, whether she was lonely living in a villa all by herself, and whether she wanted them to find her a caretaker.

Cheryl glanced at the cramped room and then, with a guilty conscience, replied: ‘No, it’s fine! I like being by myself!’

As soon as she sent the reply, she received a video call from Justin.

Cheryl: “...”

She answered the call and pointed the camera at the ceiling.

The room layouts in the two villas were similar. After all, both had been renovated before they were handed over to their owners...

Justin’s voice was low, and the beauty mark at the corner of his eye was as alluring as ever. As Cheryl looked at him, she couldn’t help but wonder why her father seemed like he simply didn’t age at all.

People would believe him even if he stood next to her brothers and claimed that the three of them were brothers!

“Show me the room,” Justin said.

Cheryl’s guilty conscience immediately took over. “No, I just took a shower, so I can’t right now!”

The little girl was already fifteen years old, so Justin did have to watch himself.

He kept quiet for a while and then handed the phone to Nora. “Then show your mom the room.”

Cheryl: “!!!”

She stared at the sleepy Nora on the screen...

Her mom looked even younger than her dad. Even after so many years, she still looked like a 20-year-old... Of course, this was taking into consideration the fact that she was only 35 years old that year.

She yawned loudly and asked in a low voice, “Must you?”

She was talking to Justin.

Justin replied, “Check whether she is living in the villa next door. A girl mustn’t stay by herself in the same house as a group of boys.”

“...”

Cheryl felt even guiltier now.

Then, she saw Nora’s lazy eyes glance at the phone. It was as though she could see right through her through the screen.

Cheryl immediately gave her an ingratiating smile. “Mommy, you seem to have become even prettier after a few days of separation! It’s Hollywood’s loss that you didn’t become an actress! It’s humanity’s loss that they can’t see you on the big screen!”

Nora: “...”

The obvious flattery clearly indicated a guilty conscience.

She glanced sideways. When she saw Justin's head leaning over, she immediately switched the video call to voice only. She sounded as lazy as ever, and she spoke like a big boss as she said, "What are you looking at? Cherry says it's inappropriate."

"... Okay."

Her arrogant and domineering CEO of a father was like a little kitten right now.

Cheryl secretly giggled.

Mommy was the only one in this world who could do something about Daddy!

After chatting with them a while more, Cheryl hung up.

Then, she saw a message from Mia: 'Cherry, you're so daring.'

Little Mia did not have an insanely high IQ like her, but she was very hardworking and diligent, so she had also skipped a grade. Thus, even though she was fifteen years old, she was already in her second year of high school.

Cheryl called her.

Mia picked up quickly. The gently speaking girl was no longer the pushover she used to be, but she had such a frail temperament that it made one want to protect her.

Her face was still pointed and oval-shaped like before, except that she was even prettier now after growing up. She had combined the best features of Joel and Tanya, so she was also well-known for her beauty in the New York circle.

On the other hand, Cheryl didn't like appearing in public, so few people knew her.

Mia asked slowly, “Aren’t you afraid of not performing well?”

“How can that be?” Cheryl replied sweetly, “Even if I can’t get a perfect score like Pete, I’ll still score at least 1500!”

At the mention of Peter, Mia paused and changed the subject subtly. “How I wish half a month could pass when we wake up tomorrow! Then you could’ve slapped their faces with your score!”

“D’aw, time flies by anyway! By the way, what are you doing?”

“Studying,” Mia replied.

“You have good grades, so you definitely won’t have any problems in the college entrance exam. Why are you still working so hard this late at night?”

Mia was briefly taken aback. Then, she replied, “Mm, I want to do better on the exams.”

So that you can go to Pete?

However, Cheryl held herself back and didn’t say it out loud.

As Mia and Peter grew up, their relationship gradually became unfathomable. Mia was his younger cousin, yet Peter had gradually put distance between him and her.

This was the same for Mia. She stopped sticking to Peter whenever the two families got together and started sticking to Cheryl instead.

Both their parents were busy with various things and didn’t notice this, but Cheryl had.

“Alright, I’m cheering for you,” said Cheryl.

—

After hanging up, Cheryl threw everything to the back of her mind.

The next morning, after waking up and playing a ranked match with Zac, Cheryl felt some long-lost pleasure!

She always had to carry her teammates in the past, but when she played in the ranked match with Zac, she felt the capabilities of a professional player. Zac seemed to know what she wanted to do all the time. Whenever she wanted to rush forward, he was already lying in ambush in the bushes at the side.

And whenever she wanted to retreat, Zac would retreat even faster than her...

This made Cheryl's eyes light up more and more!

As expected, professional players were different!

Immersed in the training, Cheryl didn't even realize that a whole week had passed.

A week later, when the head coach held a routine meeting with Zac, he asked, "How is C?"

The corners of Zac's lips curled into a smile and he replied, "She's great."

He seldom had such high praise for anyone, especially a teammate.

Therefore, the head coach could tell that Zac was very satisfied.

He had also studied the recordings of Zac and Cheryl's ranked matches.

Zac's skills were at a much higher level than what he showed. However, Lionel and the other teammates couldn't keep up with him, so he could only lower his level to cooperate with them.

After all, they played this game as a team, not as individuals.

As a result, this severely limited Zac's performance.

However, the head coach found out that God C could keep up with him!

It was as though the two of them shared the same brain. No matter what Zac did, Cheryl could always react quickly and keep up with him. Sometimes, she even reacted earlier than him...

To be honest, before God C joined the team, he'd had a lot of doubts about the decision!

Not only was God C a girl, but she was also only fifteen years old. Could she really do it?

But after observing her for a week, he realized that she really could!

In fact, with her in Club HS, the team had become even stronger. The combination of God C and Zac had demonstrated exponential results!

The head coach felt as if the champion trophy of the new season was waving at Club HS right now!

He let out a delighted laugh.

However, the next moment, he frowned and said, "Sigh, God C's gaming capabilities are undeniable, but so is her ability to stir up trouble!"

Upon hearing this, Zac's expression darkened. "Is that incident still not over yet?"

"No, it's not!"

At the mention, the head coach became even angrier. He said, "The situation had originally calmed down, and there weren't many still mocking her. But during Jimmy's live-stream last night, she made insinuations about the situation again, bringing it back to people's attention... I initially thought that after the incident died down, everyone would forget about it by the time the college entrance examination results came out. But she's gone and reminded everyone that the results will be out in a week now, which revived the topic... Club JQ is so shameless when it comes to leeching off others' popularity and hot topics!"

Zac stayed quiet for a while before he asked, "What did the boss say?"

He was referring to Chester.

Chester was very protective of the club members. A couple of years ago, when Lionel had a small accident, Chester had immediately paid to get the heat off him and suppressed the incident.

He was sure that the boss would step forward and defend her this time too...

But as soon as the thought formed, the head coach frowned and replied, “Come to think of it, the situation is rather strange this time. Usually, the boss would ask how things are whenever the club met with even a bit of trouble, but he hasn’t said even a word this time. In fact, when I approached the boss about this matter today—so that he could do something about the Facebook activity—he actually said... to let it be!”

Zac was taken aback. “Let it be?”

“Yeah.”

The head coach was so troubled that he was close to having insomnia. He said, “To be honest, being insulted or mocked a little is not a big deal. I’m mainly just concerned that the young lady won’t be able to take it, leading to her frame of mind being affected... That’s exactly what Club JQ is doing this time—toying with the young lady’s frame of mind. They are so insidious!”

Zac frowned and kept quiet.

He thought of the kid’s seemingly inexhaustible energy whenever she was gaming. Even if there were rumors flying about, surely it wouldn’t get her down, right? Besides, the boss had always been reliable...

With this in mind, he said, “Then let’s do as the boss says.”

The head coach nodded. “Maybe we should see this as a chance for the newcomer to train her mental resilience. If she can overcome it, nothing will get her down in the future. If she can't, it won't do her good if we are overprotective of her anyway.”

Amid the few people's anxiety, at last, the college entrance examination results were released.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1022 - The Scores???

As the date of release for the college entrance examination results approached, the Club HS members grew increasingly nervous.

After two weeks of interaction, everyone had grown fond of Cheryl, who was good at gaming, looked cute and sweet, and was soft-spoken!

Sometimes when they saw her watching videos as she munched on fries, they couldn't even imagine that she was the little girl blasting people with her cannon in the game.

In the game, Cheryl, whose forte was being a gunner, played as a female character who carried a cannon as big as herself and could take out half an opponent's HP with just a single blast.

Moreover, the character could move quickly from one spot to another, so her movements were flexible and she was not easily caught. This simply fitted her image too well.

As a result, everyone subconsciously became protective of her... They even subconsciously gave her the best of everything in daily life.

Take for example their lunch. In the past, whenever they had fried chicken, everyone would fight for the drumsticks. This wasn't because they really wanted the drumsticks; rather, it was just the boys' competitive streak.

But now...

"The watermelon is really sweet today! Come on, cut them into pieces and give some to God C! She likes munching on fruits when she watches game replays."

"Oh, this crab has so much roe! Here you go, C!"

“What? They are customizing new equipment for us again? I’m not in a hurry, so God C can go first! Ladies first!”

“...”

Cheryl had become the club’s favorite.

Even the strict Captain Zac had turned a blind eye to the situation, and was no longer the ‘Demon Lord Jungler’ he was previously known as. In fact...

“You can have the first red buff we get.”

The first wave of the game was spent clearing monsters in the jungle. In the past, in order to reach level 4 quickly, Zac had to set the pace, so he never gave the first wave of monsters to the gunners or mages.

Even Lionel, the mage, didn’t have such privilege!

Yet Cheryl had been given the team’s first red buff.

When Lionel heard this during a team match, he wanted to cry. He asked, “Captain, when will you ever give me the first blue buff?”

Zac, who was controlling the mouse, replied perfunctorily, “Hmm... Try having a sex change first?”

Lionel: “...”

That evening, they played until it was late in the night—because they would be able to check the examination results online once it was midnight!

The matter had been on everyone’s minds all this time; they just didn’t dare to mention anything about it, that’s all. One by one, all of them looked at Cheryl—only to see her hands flying across the keyboard at high speed. She didn’t look nervous in the least.

Had she forgotten about it?

Despite thinking so, they found it somewhat of a positive development.

While they were having a break after the match, Zac quickly went to the club's public relations department, where he saw the head coach and some others on standby.

Upon seeing him, the head coach extended his hand to him and said, "Don't worry, we are ready!"

Since the day before, fans of Club JQ had been @-mentioning Cheryl constantly.

A verified big-name fan of Club JQ had made a post, which was subsequently liked and reposted by many:

'The college entrance examination results will be out soon. Are you scared yet? So, have you decided which university to attend? Is it Harvard or MIT?'

They even included a mocking GIF in the post.

It was obvious that they were being sarcastic.

There was still more than an hour until midnight.

This hour-long period tormented everyone in the club.

When Zac returned, he saw Cheryl still gaming with a lollipop in her mouth. She looked as though she had really forgotten about the matter.

Suddenly, he felt awfully unsettled.

He wanted to ask her what exactly was going on.

From the side, Lionel also couldn't help but ask, "Hey, God C. Um, did you ever try estimating your score after the college entrance examinations?"

Cheryl glanced at him with her big and pretty eyes and then answered, "Nope!"

Ever since she started scoring full marks in the mock exams, she seldom looked at the answers. She had absolute confidence that she could get everything right!

Lionel: "..."

He wanted to ask further about the matter, but the person next to him covered his mouth and gave him a look that screamed "Stop asking about it! Why are you so clueless?!".

Lionel muttered, "It's obviously because she looks so calm and relaxed, so I thought she might really pull it off... That's why I asked..."

She didn't even try estimating her score... Just how much did Cheryl love her games?!

Although he was awfully anxious about it, he didn't dare to probe any further. Thus, he tried to incite Zac to do it instead. He said, "Captain, why don't you try asking your teacher for some information again? Ask him if she can get into a prestigious... nah, a first-rate university. A first-rate university would sound reasonable too. This way, they won't mock her too badly..."

Zac glanced at him and then shoved both hands in his pockets. "Ugh, look at how impatient you are!"

Lionel: "!!"

He hung his head upon being chastised. But when he noticed Zac going out again, he couldn't help but ask, "Captain, where are you going?"

"To the bathroom."

Lionel: "?"

He scratched his head. "Captain, do you have bladder issues? Didn't you just go?"

Zac: "..."

This time, Zac indeed entered the bathroom next door. He took out his cell phone, opened up his chat with his ex-homeroom teacher, and then sent a text message: ‘Hey, can I ask you a question? Based on your understanding of Cheryl, can she get into a first-rate university?’

After a moment’s consideration, Zac changed “first-rate” to “second-rate” and then sent the message...

After sending the message, he waited anxiously for his teacher’s reply.

Time was creeping closer and closer. Like the other members of the club, he was also becoming more and more nervous.

People were also starting to become more and more active on the Club JQ social media pages.

But why wasn’t his teacher replying? Was he already asleep at this time?

Wasn’t it too early?

He couldn’t help but call his teacher.

As soon as he dialed his number, someone picked up.

His teacher’s cheerful voice reached him from the other end of the call. “What are you doing, Zac? College entrance examination results will be out in a moment, so we are all waiting! The students’ parents are all trying to talk to me, yet you’re taking up my precious time. Those who didn’t know better would have thought you had a daughter taking the college entrance examinations!”

Zac: “...”

He suppressed his annoyance and said, “Er, take a look at the message I sent...”

The head teacher seemingly glanced at it, upon which a strange silence ensued for two seconds. Then, he asked, “Do you actually think Cheryl is aiming for a second-rate university?”

An uneasy and nervous Zac asked, "... Is there no hope of that happening?"

"... No." The teacher replied.

Zac: "..."

He broke into a frown. Just as he was about to speak, his teacher suddenly raised his voice. "Do you actually think that she can only get into a second-rate university? Who do you think you're looking down on?!"

Zac: "?"

He wanted to respond, but his teacher cut him off and said, "Alright, I have bawling students who need me to comfort them because they didn't score well in the exams. Don't take up any more of my time!"

After saying that, he hung up.

Zac: "..."

For some reason, he now felt even more uneasy after the call.

What on earth did his teacher mean by that?

—

Cheryl was awfully weirded out by the strange atmosphere in the club tonight. The others would glance at her from time to time, but when she looked back at them, they would quickly look away.

She glanced at the time—the scores would be out in another ten minutes. Thus, she didn't start a new round after finishing the current one. Instead, she picked up a bag of potato chips and a slice of watermelon and started munching on them.

As she did, next to her, Lionel slightly pushed the paper napkins on his table toward her. He did it again and again until they were right in front of her.

Cheryl: “?”

The girl was confused for a moment. Then, she picked one up and wiped her fingers with it as she said, “Thanks.”

“You’re welcome.” Lionel coughed and added, “These tissues are specially made for wiping tears and snot. Ordinary tissues may irritate the nose and make it turn red if you blow your nose with them...”

When Lionel came down with a cold some time back, the skin at his nose had gotten rashes from wiping his nose with normal tissues. Knowing that the exam results would be released soon and afraid that God C would burst into tears, Lionel had specially searched for these tissues on the Internet and even placed an order a week ago, for fear that they would not come in time for today.

Cheryl: “...”

She blinked and replied, “Oh.”

Not only was Lionel behaving strangely, but the others around her were also looking at her with slight... sympathy in their eyes?

She thought of telling Zac that something seemed wrong with everyone today, but as soon as she turned her head, she saw Zac taking out a few ice cubes from the refrigerator and putting them on a towel. Then, he coughed and said, “I heard that people should apply an ice pack on their eyes before they go to bed if they cry their eyes out. Um, just so you know, the club has lots of ice cubes!”

Cheryl: “??”

She broke into a frown, not quite sure what was wrong with all of them. Why were they all expecting her to cry?

Amid the strange atmosphere, Cheryl picked up her cell phone, where she found that midnight had struck!

Cheryl’s eyes lit up.

She could check the scores now.

The family had been chatting about this earlier in the day.

Alexander had asked her how many points she thought she could get in the exam, after which he said that they would be able to find out whether she had achieved a perfect score tonight.

Justin had comforted her and told her that it was alright even if she didn't get a perfect score.

Even her mom, who was always lazy and only cared about sleeping, had popped up in the group chat and added a "+1" below Justin's text message.

Peter hadn't appeared in the chat.

Alexander even took the opportunity to mock Peter for not showing concern for his sister.

When it turned midnight, Cheryl stopped munching on snacks and opened up the exam results website, where she then entered her admission ticket number...

It went without saying that she was concerned about her grades too. There was no doubt that she would be able to enroll in Harvard University; what mattered now was the score she got in with... Once she knew her score, she would also be able to update her family in the group chat.

While she was doing all this, the people behind her crowded around her.

One... two... three... four heads leaned in from behind her, and everyone held their breath as they watched Cheryl hit the Enter key.

The page immediately changed to a loading screen...

Soon, Cheryl's score appeared.

Everyone immediately looked over, and one by one, their eyes widened.

Were their eyes playing tricks on them?!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1023 - Fighting For The Same Candidate!!

Cheryl also found herself stunned for a moment. Then, she heaved a disappointed sigh.

Displayed on the screen was a score of... 0?

While Cheryl was spacing out, a furor went through the rest of the team.

“How can this be?!”

“Is something wrong with the system? How can the score be 0?”

“Even if you guess your way through the papers and choose C for every question, you still won’t get 0 points, right?”

“Yeah, there must have been a mistake somewhere!”

“Even I scored more than 100 points on my college entrance examination back then! It’s too difficult to get a 0!”

Someone even entertained a ludicrous thought and asked, “Hey Cheryl, you couldn’t possibly have skipped every single paper and just filled in your name, right? Did you do that just to shut your family up because they wouldn’t let you join the team unless you took the college entrance examination? Are you trying to get back at them?”

Cheryl: “...”

The corners of her lips spasmed. When she was about to say something, next to her, a contemplative look came over Zac’s face.

0 points... He had seen that before.

But compared to those people, this young lady in front of him was... So, how could it possibly have been 0 points?

At the same time, Cheryl lowered her head and saw Peter leisurely send a message in the group chat:

‘Cheryl won’t be able to see her scores tonight. The scores of the top 50 in each city are protected, so their scores will be masked and displayed as 0. A certain somebody did not take the college entrance examination, so it’s only natural that he wouldn’t know. @Alexander]

He was dissing Alexander for saying that he didn’t care about his sister.

Alexander responded very quickly: ‘Even if they have masked it, as a hacker, couldn’t you have hacked into the system to take a look? At the bottom of it all, it’s still because you don’t care enough about Cheryl.’

Peter replied: ‘I tried hacking into their system to check Cheryl’s score just now, but they are using the latest firewall technology, so I didn’t manage to get in.’

A proud Justin immediately sent a message: ‘That firewall was enhanced by Nora.’

Everyone: “?”

Cheryl’s lip corners spasmed. What was her dad being so proud of when it was her mom who wrote the firewall program?

Peter asked: ‘Can Dad hack into it?’

Justin, who was completely unashamed of the fact that he couldn’t get past his wife’s firewall, replied proudly: ‘Of course not.’

Alexander: “...”

Peter: “...”

Cheryl: ‘I have six things to say:’

Cheryl: ‘...’

Just as the three were utterly speechless, Nora finally popped up in the chat: ‘1598. Two points were deducted in the essay.’

Cheryl: “?”

The others: “???”

After that, Cheryl received congratulatory messages from Alexander, Peter, and Justin. However, she was still a little disappointed, so she hung her head.

Her reaction made Lionel and others even more nervous. Everyone asked, “Hey God C, you... you didn’t really submit a blank paper, did you?”

Zac was also a little confused.

As far as he was aware, the scores of the top 50 in each city were masked as a protective measure. And of course, those 50 candidates were basically split between Harvard and MIT.

Should this really be the case, then there wouldn’t be anything wrong when Cheryl said that she was still considering Harvard and MIT!

Zac felt like he had stumbled upon the truth.

Cheryl was actually a star student.

He clearly felt like he had guessed the truth, so why was Cheryl suddenly showing such an abject look of disappointment? Had she really handed in a blank paper like what Lionel and the others were saying?

Zac became uncertain again.

Just as everyone was bewildered and confused, Cheryl heaved a huge sigh and said, “I didn’t get 1600 points. This is so maddening!”

Everyone: “...”

The difference between 0 and 1600 was kinda big, wasn't it?

Was God C still in lala-land?

Or did she decide to go for the lowest score possible because she couldn't get a score of 1600?

It was certainly true that nobody had a lower score than that in the entire country!

Everyone's lip corners spasmed. They wanted to say something, but they didn't know how they should comfort her.

0 points... God C sure was pitiful!

The only one with a different reaction was Zac. His pupils shrank fiercely, and he confirmed his suspicions.

Originally, he had thought that Cheryl barely made it into the top 50, but judging from what she just said... her score was nearly perfect?!

So, she was even smarter than he'd thought?!

Where did a star student like her pop up from?!

Zac frowned.

It was at this point that the head coach also rushed into the room. "God C, how many points did you score?"

Cheryl closed the results page quietly and replied, "We'll have to wait a little longer to find out."

"Wait?" The head coach, who had never associated with true star students before, was confused. "Aren't the college entrance examination results out yet? But I saw many people showing off their scores on social media!"

Lionel and the others immediately lowered their heads and kept quiet.

Sigh. Since God C was embarrassed to talk about her exam score, then they'd better not expose her.

Zac, however, clenched his jaw, his dark eyes glued to Cheryl. The adorable young lady in front of him looked harmless and easily made one let down their guard against her, but as it turned out, she wasn't just amazing at games... Was she so full of surprises even when it came to studying?!

He pressed his lips together.

As for Cheryl, she downloaded the Facebook app onto her cell phone.

As soon as she did, she saw that fans of both Club HS and Club JQ had poured into her Facebook page and were asking her about her college entrance examination score.

Cheryl could only reply: 'It isn't out yet.'

As soon as she sent the reply, her cell phone rang. She glanced at the number and then stood. "I have to answer a call."

The head coach nodded.

Cheryl tapped on the answer button as she walked past the few of them. Zac happened to be standing right beside her, so he overheard the voice coming from her cell phone: "Hello, can I speak with Ms. Cheryl Smith? Hello, we are calling from the Harvard University admissions office. As you have scored particularly well in your college entrance examination, we would like to invite you..."

Zac: "!!"

He was not only an excellent player in the gaming industry, but he had also been a Harvard student. This had always been something that gave him extraordinary status, as well as something he was proud of.

But in this instant, he suddenly felt that his academic qualifications were worthless...

While Cheryl was on the phone, the head coach looked at the Facebook page again. The comments on the page were going crazy.

Cheryl's reply had stunned everyone.

Everyone thought she was pulling a diva act.

Fans of Club HS were defending her while fans of Club JQ were attacking her madly.

'Ha, didn't somebody boast about choosing between two universities previously? Yet she is staying quiet when the results are out? What a joke! Is she afraid that we'll mock her if she announces her results?'

'Everybody else's grades are already out except hers? Yeah right, does she think she's special or what?'

'Special? What nonsense! A certain somebody is just scared! Since she sucks at studying, why even bother competing with Jimmy over education qualifications?'

'Isn't that obvious? She's just trying to leech off Jimmy's popularity by competing with her over academic qualifications! Trash!'

...

...

Club HS fans panicked.

'This is e-sports, not school!'

'Are exam scores even that important? Did everyone in your club go to college?'

'What a joke! Who's even trying to compete with Jimmy? It was obviously you guys who came forward, okay? Has Club HS ever claimed that she is a star student?'

However, Club JQ fans refused to listen to the explanations.

During this period of time, everyone had focused only on what Cheryl had said about how she was considering Harvard University and MIT and flamed her for it.

Her statement had been posted on Facebook without any context. Who would care about the actual circumstances behind it when they were just onlookers?

All they knew was that they simply found her statement too arrogant!

Many fans even started to at-mention the two schools and inquire if they had admitted her.

MIT was the first to respond.

On MIT's official page: 'We don't admit just anybody into the school.'

They outright mocked Cheryl with just one sentence.

This elicited even more laughter from Club JQ fans.

Even Jimmy herself stepped forward and at-mentioned MIT: 'It has always been my dream to attend MIT. I hope I can enroll in the school as a student...'

However, the cold and aloof MIT ignored her.

This did not stop the others from ridiculing Cheryl, though.

The head coach was in a huge panic. "They are dragging MIT into it as well, it's going to be even harder for God C to respond now!"

As soon as he said that, Zac narrowed his eyes.

He suddenly realized that MIT might not even know the name of the new Club HS member.

Zac clenched his jaw.

He walked toward the door and Cheryl happened to end the call with Harvard University when he did, so Zac immediately showed her what MIT had posted on Facebook.

At this moment, Cheryl's cell phone rang again.

At MIT.

Student Admissions Office.

A teacher was frantically calling someone on the phone. "The New York top scorer's phone has been busy this whole time. She must be on the phone with Harvard University! Why are they on the call for so long?"

"The top scorer's name is Cheryl?"

Just as the teacher was wondering why the name Cheryl sounded so familiar to her, she suddenly realized something and looked straight at the other teacher. "Are you talking about the Cheryl I think you're talking about?!"

"Yes!"

"Hurry up and call her! We have been trying to recruit her into the school since last year, but she has refused us all this time! The principal even personally instructed me to recruit her into the school, no matter the method and no matter what the conditions I must offer!"

While she was talking, the phone call finally connected.

She spoke in a very friendly tone and said, "Hello, Ms. Cheryl Smith. I am calling from the student admissions office at MIT. You..."

But before she could finish, Cheryl replied coldly, "Oh, it's you... No, I'm not going there."

The teacher was stunned. “Why? We are below Harvard University in any form. In fact, our school has a better shooting team, which suits your future plans better. You...”

Before the teacher could finish her proposal, Cheryl snorted coldly and said, “Didn’t you guys say that not everyone is worthy of being admitted into the school?”

The teacher was bewildered.

After Cheryl said that, she hung up at once.

It was obvious that the girl was furious.

The teacher was stunned. “When did we ever say anything like that?”

The teacher next to her was also stunned. “Students indeed see our school as the best, but how would we ever dare to say anything like that to a genius like Cheryl? There must be some kind of misunderstanding in here!”

Next to them, a teacher said quietly, “I... think I know what’s going on.”

Chapter 1024 - Our New Member Is Cheryl Smith

“What’s going on?”

The director of the admissions office was right next to him. When the other teacher was talking to Cheryl just now, he desperately wanted to grab the phone and talk to her personally, but Cheryl hadn’t given him a chance to do so at all, hanging up right away instead.

Upon hearing one of the teachers speak up, he immediately became anxious.

The teacher, who happened to open up the university’s Facebook page, showed the post to the director.

The director was stunned when he read it. “But we didn’t say anything wrong in our Facebook post, so why would she be angry? Is she a fan of Club HS? But isn’t Cheryl Smith a shooting athlete? Does she follow gaming news?”

The teacher didn’t understand what was going on, either. He replied, “But she was obviously referring to this statement. Maybe she is a fan of Zac Stannard? Stannard is not only a Harvard student but also good-looking. He’s very popular in the gaming circle.”

“... Youngsters are just so impulsive. How can she reject our school just because of this? She didn’t even bother listening to our offer!” exclaimed the director.

After grousing, the director looked at him and instructed, “Contact the people managing the school’s official Facebook page immediately and tell them to delete the post!”

“... Got it!” The teacher replied.

When the people managing the school's Facebook page received the news, they were also stunned.

The school hadn't said anything wrong. After all, a small-time professional player boasting that they were hesitating between the two schools... was indeed disrespectful to them.

The university's Facebook page was managed by students, who had made the post in a moment of pique.

There were countless students who woke up early and stayed up late to study just so they could be admitted to the university. Moreover, most of the students in the university were the top students from all over the world. Even if they weren't the top scorers in their cities, they were at least the top scorers in their schools. Why should the university that they were so proud of be relegated to a mere choice in someone else's eyes?

As a result, one of the students, who had been stewing over this for a long while, couldn't hold himself back from making such a post earlier in the day.

Yet they were saying that he had made a mistake?

The student was furious and outraged.

He said to his classmate, "For their mediocre grades, those professional players sure are divas! They have actually attracted the attention of the school leaders! Do they make as great a contribution to society as we do when all they do is play games? All of us will be elites in society after graduation, so how are we any inferior to them?! Every single one of them acts as if they are celebrities... What kind of world is this?! Not only do celebrities make more money than scientists, but they are also more respected than scientists..."

Despite the indignant student's complaints, he nevertheless deleted the post from the school's official Facebook page.

However, after he deleted it, the more he thought about it, the more indignant he felt.

In the end, he simply couldn't help but post about it on his private Facebook account.

—

“They deleted the post.”

In the dim corridor, Zac's low voice rang out as he stared intently at Cheryl.

“Okie-Dokie.”

Cheryl replied adorably. She turned around to return to the training room, but she had only taken two steps when Zac suddenly grabbed her arm. “Hey kid, don't you have anything to tell me?”

Cheryl: “?”

Stunned, she blinked a couple of times, not quite understanding what he meant. “Like what?”

“Like how many points you really scored in the exam?”

Cheryl let out a sigh, which was followed by another sigh. This made Zac suspect that she had botched the exams. Perhaps the girl usually had stellar grades but had been off-form on the college entrance examination this time?

For example, maybe she was usually one of the top five scorers but had only achieved 50th place in the college entrance examination this time?

While his imagination was running wild, Cheryl replied softly, “1598 points.”

Zac: “??”

He was utterly dumbfounded!

There were hardly such high college entrance examination scores in recent years!

He didn't wonder why Cheryl knew her score—after all, she had chatted with the Harvard University staff for so long. They might have told her the score in a show of their sincerity.

Rather, what he didn't understand was...

“Then why are you so unhappy?”

Cheryl pouted. “Because I wanted a perfect score!”

“...”

Zac's lip corners spasmed, and he felt like he truly couldn't understand how geniuses think.

He ruffled Cheryl's hair and said, “Uh... It's near-impossible to achieve a perfect score. With your score of 1598, you must already be the top scorer this year, so don't ask for too much.”

Since the implementation of the college entrance examination system, his cohort was the only one that had produced a candidate with a perfect score. On top of that, the candidate had even been a ten-year-old child. This had shocked the whole country.

Surely this kid didn't think that she was that smart or that big of a mutant, right?

After all, people like that candidate must be incredibly intelligent.

But how would he possibly know that Cheryl's IQ was even higher than her brother's?! The only reason why Cheryl hadn't scored full marks was due to her having grown up abroad. Compared to Peter, she was indeed not as used to local expectations as he was.

Given how Cheryl couldn't even get her history facts right when she was a child, scoring that high in the exams was already a miracle in itself.

God knows how tiring it had been for Peter when he tutored Cheryl all these years...

Cheryl, who soon came to terms with it, grinned and said, "You're right!"

No way in hell was she going to compare herself to her brother!

Wasn't that purely just asking for trouble?

She turned and happily skipped into the training room.

As soon as she and Zac entered, they heard the head coach say, "They deleted it! They deleted it! MIT has deleted the post!"

But right after he spoke, a distressed staff member next to him broke into a frown in distress. "But an MIT student has posted an exposé..."

The public relations staff member was close to tears.

It had only been half an hour since the results were released. Why was there a wave after wave of trouble taking place on the Internet?

The head coach looked over to see that a student who claimed to be from MIT had made a Facebook post as follows:

Sonny: 'Hi everyone, I'm a student at MIT. Regarding the Facebook post that was just taken down, one must thank the power of celebrities for that. When did America's scientists and the best higher institution of learning become a tool for celebrities to hype themselves? How smug do you feel to trample upon us? Yet our school can't even respond because if we do, we'll be criticized for not being magnanimous... I am really worried about the future of this country. Will there come a day when university admissions no longer look at college entrance examination results as admission criteria but the number of fans one has? The future of the scientific community is truly deplorable!'

The post was pretty much short of just outright saying that the club's star power had forced the school into deleting the post!

MIT's deletion of the Facebook post had initially confused Club JQ fans, but when they saw this post, they immediately went on a mad rampage. In just the span of five minutes, the post had garnered thousands of likes and reposts!

Everyone was questioning what had happened.

'What gives the new member of Club HS the power to force MIT into deleting their post?!

The head coach, who initially thought that it was their boss who had paid his way out of the situation, was so freaked out that he was going around in circles. "How can you go head-to-head with those two schools?! Boss has really done it this time!"

The public relations department was also awfully troubled. "How are we supposed to settle this diplomatically now?!"

Club HS fans were also a little outraged.

'What on earth is HS doing? How can you be so stupid? Can money control schools?! This is terrible!'

'Although I like both celebrities and HS players, I have more respect for the two universities. This behavior is indeed ludicrous...'

Seeing that both sides were now questioning the behavior of Club HS, the head coach knew that their reputation was truly finished this time.

Just as he was at a loss and in a panic...

Zac suddenly logged onto his Facebook account.

He merely made a one-liner post:

Zac: 'Introducing our newest member. Her name is Cheryl Smith. @MIT @Sonny'

This post was simply bewildering.

Fans on both sides were stunned.

Was the introduction just a name?

‘Ha, what does this even mean? Is he telling everyone to attack the new member and hinting that this matter has nothing to do with HS?’

‘There isn’t any relation between the two in the first place. From the start, the new member was the only one stirring trouble. I highly recommend that Club HS fire her. After all, she did stir up a lot of trouble...’

‘What is Captain Zac doing? Is he pushing the blame? Didn’t they say that he is the most protective of his own? LOL’

...

...

Everyone went into full-on mocking mode again. However, a huge furor went through the Facebook sphere after that.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1025 - Harvard University'S Response

Zac had a great number of fans. He had nearly 4 million followers, a number that was comparable to first-rate celebrities' follower counts.

His Facebook page was even more popular than the official Club HS one.

Since the incident took place, many people had visited Zac's Facebook page to ask about the situation. However, he was usually focused on training and rarely posted on social media, so he had never logged in during this period.

The post he had just made puzzled everyone.

Even Sonny, the MIT student, was perplexed.

What was the big deal about Cheryl Smith?

Was he trying to tell everybody to refer to Cheryl by her name instead of "the new Club HS member" when they were blasting her?!

While he was sneering at the post, his cell phone suddenly rang.

To his surprise, MIT's admissions office was calling him.

Given that the admissions office was calling him again after making him delete his Facebook post just now, Sonny suddenly felt a little sheepish. When he answered the call, the director of the admissions office roared, "What the hell are you saying on the Internet?!"

However, Sonny, who didn't think he was in the wrong at all, retorted, "I can't say what I want on the university's official page, so I've deleted the post. But why can't I say what I want on my own account? Don't I have any freedom of speech?"

The director was so mad that he could hardly speak. He yelled, “Do you have any idea who Cheryl Smith is?!”

“Heh, who is she? Or is this related to who her father is? Sir, you taught us that we should not feel sorry for ourselves. We may be penniless students, but we have ideals and ambition! There are so many students applying every year, but how many of them qualify to enroll in our school? I was also the top scorer back in my hometown! What makes her think she can look down on MIT?”

The director was so speechless that he actually calmed down. After staying quiet for a moment, he asked, “What was your score in the college entrance examination back then?”

At the mention, Sonny immediately replied arrogantly, “1442! It was the highest score in my hometown! Both Harvard and MIT called me back then, but I chose MIT in the end. But even so, I have never looked down on Harvard University.”

“... Which part of Cheryl Smith’s post looks down on Harvard University? It’s only because of your own low self-esteem that you would find her arrogant! Even you have admitted that you were deliberating between Harvard and MIT back then, so why can’t she?!” said the director.

After being taken back for a moment, Sonny immediately became indignant. He said, “Sir, are you really comparing me to her? I have been studying so hard for more than ten years, whereas she is a gamer. How can she compare to me?!”

The director kept quiet for a while and then slowly said, “She scored 1598 points on the college entrance examination this year. Be it Harvard or MIT, both are trying to contact her in hopes of recruiting her into the school. When a student like her says that she is considering enrolling in our school, she is actually giving us a chance. But now, I don’t think she will be considering us as an option anymore.”

Sonny: “???”

He was stunned. “What? How many points did she score again? 1598 points? That’s impossible! How can anyone even achieve such a high score?!”

However, the director didn’t respond. He hung up on Sonny, leaving him utterly dumbfounded.

Only then did he truly feel like he had made a mistake.

—

Though Sonny had learned about Cheryl’s score, everyone else on the Internet hadn’t.

While everyone was still attacking Cheryl, the Club JQ professional players, who were mostly night owls, gathered around Jimmy in the training room and chatted with one another.

“Haha! This is terrible! To think Zac actually threw the little missy under the bus. He has no conscience whatsoever.”

“To think they actually recruited a female member too. But how can she possibly compare to our Jimmy? Jimmy graduated from a prestigious university, you know! Their member even boasted that she could choose freely between the two universities or something, right? Haha, does she really think she’s a star student? Or does she think that Club HS would take her side? She’s so naive!”

“... Exactly. Jimmy is undoubtedly the top female player in the league! With the exception of Zac, few have better academic qualifications than you...”

But while the group was gloating about Cheryl’s misfortune, an uproar suddenly broke out on the Internet.

Harvard University had made a post on their official Facebook page.

Harvard University: ‘We sincerely and wholeheartedly invite Cheryl Smith to be a part of our school! Thanks for giving her up, MIT. @MIT @Club HS’

Harvard had posted this at night, and as soon as it was posted, the entire Internet exploded!

Fans were stunned.

What was going on?

Fans of Club JQ flocked to Harvard University's Facebook post.

'LOL, what's going on? Has Harvard also decided to join the fray and back her up?'

'Why should she be admitted into Harvard? Is it just because she is a member of Club HS? Or did the owner of Club HS donate a library in her name or something?'

'Exactly. Even gamers can enroll into the top two universities these days?'

'This is so unfair!!'

'How much did Club HS pay you to put up this pretense?!'

...

...

The fans of Club HS didn't dare to speak up anymore, either. Although it seemed like their club had won, it looked like they hadn't employed very respectable means?

Only the director of the MIT students admissions office was furious when he saw the post.

Harvard University was totally refusing to admit that they had benefited from the situation! Yet it was too late for them to do anything now!

What could they do when they were the ones who had made a dumb move first and offended the girl? It was no exaggeration to say that they had offered up a student with immense potential on a silver platter to their nemesis!

Given what they had posted on their official Facebook page at that time, it would be a cold day in hell before Cheryl would pick them!

The furious director of the admissions office immediately called up one of the school leaders. “Wherever did you recruit such a stupid administrator for the school’s Facebook page?! Fire him right away!!”

At Club JQ.

Everyone frowned.

“What the f*ck?! Why?”

“What’s up with Harvard University? Are they really recruiting her? Special admissions? Is gaming her specialty? If so, then doesn’t that mean we can all go to Harvard University now?”

“They are too much!”

Jimmy’s brows drew together as she balled up her fists. Having high academic qualifications had given her grounds to be arrogant in this industry. What gave the other girl the right to be admitted into Harvard University?

Nevertheless, she didn’t voice her thoughts. Instead, she comforted her teammates and said, “Alright, alright. We all know the owner of Club HS is rich anyway. To be honest, is there even anything money can’t buy these days? After all, it would be great promotional material if their newly recruited club member was a Harvard student, right? Come on, don’t be mad anymore. I’m fine.”

But her words only served to make her teammates even angrier.

One of them even logged in to their Facebook account and left a comment on Harvard University’s post.

‘In that case, can I also be admitted via special admissions? I play better than Cheryl Smith. :)’

The smiley at the end couldn’t get any more sarcastic!

On top of that, as he had many fans, his comment quickly garnered tens of thousands of likes and became the top comment on Harvard University’s post.

His comment was simply oozing sarcasm!

In fact, it even made headlines on social media.

As a result, everyone started to ridicule Cheryl even more.

However, it was at this moment that Harvard University suddenly replied to the Club JQ member’s comment.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1026 - Moving Out

Harvard University: ‘Well, did you take the college entrance examination this year? And did you get a score of 1598? :)’

They had also added a smiley face at the end.

Their reply was overflowing with counter-mockery!

As soon as they replied, all of Club JQ went into an uproar!

The member who had mocked Cheryl in his comment widened his eyes, somewhat confused. “What is Harvard University talking about? Why would I take the college entrance examinations this year? A score of 1598? Are they trying to be funny or what?”

But as soon as he spoke, he saw the looks in his teammates’ eyes change.

After the momentary surprise, the guy finally understood something. “N-no way? You must be kidding, right?”

Likewise, all the netizens also went into an uproar.

Everyone pressed Harvard University for more details.

‘A score of 1598? You mean to say that Cheryl Smith achieved a score of 1598 in the college entrance examinations?’

‘What the actual f*ck? Am I dreaming? On top of the guy who got a perfect score five years ago, a new mutant has emerged now?’

‘No wonder she said that she’s trying to decide between the two schools! With those results, she must be the top scorer this year. It’s obvious that she can decide freely between the two schools! She can even take her pick from among all the majors available!’

The news didn't just excite the netizens. The fans of Club HS, who hadn't dared to say anything just now, instantly became elated.

One by one, they swarmed into Club JQ's Facebook page and attacked them furiously.

'Hmm, didn't someone just say that they wanted Harvard University to recruit them via special admissions? How shameless. Did he become full of himself just because he is a professional e-sports player? Or does he think the whole world has to pander to him or what?'

'Wanna hear a joke? Jimy has the highest academic qualifications among the female professional e-sports players.'

'Oh my, I'm sorry but the two players with the highest academic qualifications are both in our favorite, Club HS now. As for who they are, I'm sure that nobody needs further elaboration about Zac, while the other is the cutie Cheryl!'

...

...

Upon seeing the sarcastic comments, an awful look came over Jimy's countenance.

She bit her lip.

Her teammates were also incensed. "What's the big deal about having better grades? What are they being so cocky for?"

However, someone said sheepishly, "Weren't we the ones who started this...?"

Everyone: "?"

Was this fellow unable to read the room or what?!

However! They weren't going to take it lying down just like that.

Jimmy thought for a while and then smiled and said, “Aren’t we e-sports professionals? Is that star student here to just fool around or something?”

The rest instantly understood what she meant.

“Exactly. We’re e-sports professionals. What’s the use of having good grades? The competition is about our gaming abilities... Who exactly is Cheryl Smith? Club HS’ recruitment of her is rather surprising. What class is a girl like her going to be? Support class?”

“She’s a support class for sure. Have you forgotten that the person currently playing as support in their team was initially a gunner? It’s not like girls can be gunners anyway, right?”

“Well, she won’t be a threat if she’s just a support class, then! Jimmy is the top support class player in the local server! There’s no way she can outclass Jimmy when it comes to being a support!”

While they were dissing Cheryl, the member whom Harvard University had mocked just now couldn’t stop himself from posting a new comment:

‘Whoops, sorry about that, it was just a joke. I didn’t expect Ms. Smith’s score to be so good. But since she has spent all her time studying, I wonder how good she is at gaming?’

With just one sentence, he had mocked Cheryl again.

Even Jimmy couldn’t resist joining in and posting a comment this time.

Jimmy: ‘Nice to meet you. You must also be a support class like me, right? See you in-game. @Cherry HS]

Immediately after she posted the comment, Club JQ fans seemingly found a direction to go in again, and they tried to reverse online public opinion by saying things like how e-sports were ultimately still all about games and so on...

In Club HS.

“Don’t bother looking at it anymore. They are just a whole bunch of keyboard warriors who can’t stop flaming others the moment they find even the most trifling thing to nitpick about. Our fans are no pushovers, though. They have already begun to fight back.”

Zac said in a bid to comfort Cheryl. As the girl nodded, the corners of her lips curled into a smile and she said, “They think I’m playing as support.”

“Yeah.”

Zac was not surprised, though.

They were not trying to look down on women in e-sports. However, biological differences were such that men’s reflexes were indeed sharper than women’s. This was no different from how most men were physically stronger and taller than women.

This was an undeniable fact.

However, there were also cases where women would outclass men.

If anything, after partnering with Cheryl for the past half a month, Zac had already become fully convinced of her capabilities and didn’t dare doubt her prowess anymore. He smiled and said, “Let them say whatever they want for now. When it’s time for the actual competition, you will be a real eye-opener for them, as well as a big surprise for our fans.”

Though the fans of Club HS supported the club’s decision, they were ultimately still apprehensive about having a female player on the team.

Everyone was worried that Cheryl would have trouble keeping up...

Cheryl nodded. “Yeah. I’m not bothered about their comments. We’ll see who has the last laugh once the competition starts.”

After speaking, she popped into her mouth a lollipop that she had removed the wrapper of at some point and then blinked at him.

The way she looked so sweet and cute made Zac’s heart flutter.

But immediately after, he couldn't help but be horrified at himself. She was only 15 years old! She was still a kid!

He coughed and turned around, whereupon he saw his teammates utterly stunned.

The head coach was also bewildered.

Everyone in the PR department stared blankly at the battle of words on Facebook.

How did they win the public opinion battle when they hadn't even done anything yet?

Among them, Lionel was the first to break the silence. He said, "Um, hey, Cheryl. What does Harvard University mean by this? I know you took part in the college entrance examinations this year, but what does this part about having a score of 1598 mean? What am I failing to understand here?"

"..."

Zac couldn't make himself look on.

Here he was thinking that Lionel had finally smartened up for once, but as it turned out, he was just utterly bewildered!

The corners of his lips spasmed and he said, "Cheryl scored 1598 points in the college entrance examinations."

While the others hadn't recovered from the shock, Zac said to Cheryl, "You can head upstairs and rest first."

"Okay."

With the lollipop in her mouth, Cheryl went upstairs. Along the way, text message notifications from a group chat popped up on her cell phone.

Alexander: 'I bet you had candy, right? Don't forget to brush your teeth before you go to bed.'

Peter: ‘Peace has returned to the Internet. I’ll be there when your competition starts.’

Cheryl smiled at the messages, but right after she did, she saw a message from Justin that surprised her.

Justin: ‘Move out tomorrow, you hear?’

Cheryl: “!”

The corners of her lips spasmed.

However, even she understood that her presence was inconveniencing all the occupants of the villa.

For example, the morning after she moved into the villa, when she exited her room in her pajamas after she woke up, she had bumped into a shirtless Lionel having breakfast in his floral-patterned boxers.

Lionel had been caught completely off guard at that time. Then, he let out a piercing shriek and ran into his room.

As for herself, she also realized that it wasn’t appropriate for her to be walking around in her pajamas, either, so she had returned to her room and changed into another set of clothes...

Besides, the villa she was supposed to move into was right beside this one, so it wasn’t like it was inconvenient for her to report for duty, either!

Cheryl wanted to head back down to inform her teammates that she was moving out, but the moment she turned around, she heard her teammates’ exclamations.

“Oh my god, God C scored 1598 in the college entrance examinations?”

“Is she really human?!”

“What the f*ck? How can someone be so good in their studies, yet also be crazy good at games?!”

“...”

After a moment's thought, Cheryl decided that she would tell them about it the next morning instead.

—

The following morning.

“Pfft!” Lionel choked and spat out his mouthful of bread when Cheryl mentioned that she was moving out. “God C, are you going back to heaven?”

Cheryl: “?”

What on earth was he talking about?!

The corners of her lips spasmed and she replied, “I’m just moving out. My dad said that he’s worried about me because it’s not appropriate for me to stay here with you guys. Plus, he has a house nearby, so...”

Only then did Lionel breathe a sigh of relief.

Everyone tried to reassure her that everything was fine and that they didn't feel inconvenienced.

Zac was the only one whose eyes dimmed a little.

He thought of how the girl had exited her room with a blank look on her face in the morning, and how adorable she had looked half-asleep. But the next moment, he thought of how Lionel and the rest often made dirty jokes...

He coughed and said, “You can move out if you want, but is the house good enough?”

Lionel immediately nodded. “Yeah. Look at all the fabulous benefits you get when you live here. Your room here is also a spacious one. Your dad's property is probably an apartment, right? Or a two-bedroom house? In any case, it won't be any better than this big villa, so why bother moving out..."

Just as Cheryl was about to explain, Zac smacked Lionel on the head and said, "Shut up and eat. Why are you talking so much?"

Lionel curled his lips disdainfully. A short pause later, though, he said, "Fine, I suppose. We'll help you with the move later, God C."

Then, he sent a message to the team group chat.

'When we help God C move out, no one is allowed to mock her for having a small house, you hear? We must be considerate toward her self-esteem!!'

After he sent the message, all the other teammates responded affirmatively.

After breakfast, Cheryl headed upstairs to pack her luggage.

Lionel hurriedly took the suitcase from her and then lugged it out the door. Then, he asked, "Where are you moving to, God C? How long will it take to drive there?"

Chapter 1027 - Well, Her Family Is Worth At Least $1.5 Million

Drive?

Cheryl kept quiet for a while.

This upscale neighborhood was relatively quiet, so there was indeed quite a distance between each villa, and traveling to another villa by foot would take at least ten minutes.

However, it took only three to five minutes by car.

In that case, they would just drive, then.

But before Cheryl could answer that it would take only a few minutes, Lionel had loaded the suitcase into the trunk and slipped into the driver's seat.

This was a seven-seater multi-purpose vehicle. When Lionel sat in the driver's seat, the rest got into the car immediately. One sat in the passenger seat in the front while others sat in the back, leaving the two seats in the middle to Cheryl and Zac.

After the two got in, Lionel asked, "Where are we going? I'll set up the GPS."

"We don't need the GPS."

Cheryl said, "Just drive forward."

"Huh? Oh, okay."

Lionel started the car obediently and left Villa No. 8. Just as he was about to turn to the gate, Cheryl said, "Turn left."

He subconsciously turned left as instructed, but after he did, he said in confusion, “You’re pointing me in the wrong direction, God C. The exit is to the north while the entrance is to the south... Never mind, I’ll just circle back here.”

After Lionel spoke, a teammate nicknamed Chonk, who played as a support class, asked, “How big is the house, God C? Is it bigger or smaller than your room in the villa?”

Chonk’s question arose purely out of curiosity. The room in question was referring to Cheryl’s suite in the villa.

However, Cheryl, who had automatically overlooked the word “room”, thought that he was comparing villa to villa, so she naturally replied, “They are the same size!”

Her voice was simply too cute.

Chonk, who was entranced by her voice, subconsciously voiced his true thoughts and replied, “Isn’t that really small?”

All the members, no matter their financial status in the past, had made a lot of money during their few years of being professional gamers.

Lionel raked in about $1.5 million per year from prize money from competitions, various product endorsements, live-stream appearances, and more. After a few years as professional e-sports players, all of them had accumulated substantial wealth that allowed them to purchase property, cars, and more...

Therefore, Chonk found even a house about 500 square feet small these days. After all, he had bought a big villa for his parents back in his hometown! Even the penniless Lionel had bought a 2000-square-foot house in San Francisco!

They weren’t looking down on Cheryl; rather, they truly found the house small.

However, Chonk quickly came back to his senses and patted Cheryl on the shoulder. He said, “Don’t worry, it’s not a big deal. If you work hard in the club, you will be able to afford a big house within two years!”

As one of the only two female professional e-sports players in the league, Cheryl must have an even higher endorsement fee than them.

Lionel also nodded. “Yeah, ignore Chonk. It’s already fortunate that you can afford to live in a 1000-square-foot house. Back then, I was so poor that we had to sell almost everything we had just to cover my travel expenses to the club. Later, when the boss found out about this, he quickly sent some money to my family. Otherwise, my parents would have fainted from hunger... Even though I was poor back then, it doesn’t matter anymore. Look at me now! I have already escaped poverty!”

Lionel was afraid that they had upset Cheryl.

That was why he was bringing up his embarrassing past.

Chonk immediately followed up and added, “Yes, yes, I can still remember how Lionel looked when he arrived! All the clothes he was wearing were patched and mended! When he took off his shorts at night, even his underwear was full of holes...”

“Piss off! Watch what you say! Why are you telling dirty jokes?!”

Lionel was furious.

However, it was mainly because such details were simply too embarrassing. How could he tell the pretty girl something like that?

In the backseat, Benjamin, a reticent top-laner, couldn’t help but nod when he heard Lionel. He frequently cleared obstacles in the top lane alone in the game and was a rather reserved guy by nature. In all the time that Cheryl had been here, she had never heard him say much.

If he could just grunt in response, he would never choose to utter an “okay”.

If he could express what he wanted to say in just two words, he would never utter a third.

Now, though, he actually spoke up for once. “Everybody starts somewhere. You guys don’t have to overthink this, though. Cheryl’s family is definitely not a poor one.”

Would a poor family be able to raise someone as spoiled as Cheryl?

Benjamin had always been one to observe others quietly.

Lionel and Chonk might not have noticed anything, but Benjamin had long since discovered that God C was actually very spoiled.

During meals, she would never take a second bite of food that tasted even a little overcooked.

And when she ate apples, she would only eat them if they were peeled and cut into small pieces, or she’d rather just not have any... When she first came to the villa, he had thought that Cheryl didn’t like fruits.

It wasn’t until one night when they ordered a fruit platter takeout that he found her munching away like a little hamster. In addition, she only ate the fresh fruits. For example, she didn’t touch the watermelon, which seemed like it had been left out all afternoon.

Later, when Benjamin quietly cut a few apples into small pieces and placed them on the dining table, sure enough, Cheryl dug into them immediately after dinner... She was undeniably a pampered little princess!

Or at the very least, her family doted on her very much.

Benjamin had then thought deeper into it and arrived at the conclusion that Cheryl must come from a rich family.

After all, for them to be able to afford a 1000-square-foot house in San Francisco, they were undoubtedly no ordinary people, alright?!

After all, real estate rates in San Francisco were sky-high... The houses nearby cost about $150 per square foot... Yup, her family was definitely worth at least $1.5 million!

Lionel echoed him. “Yeah, Benjamin is right! Everyone starts somewhere!”

Just as he was about to continue, Cheryl said, “We’re here. You can stop here.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1028 - God C Is A Rich Second-Generation Heir!!!

Lionel subconsciously stepped on the brakes.

But when the car stopped, he looked out to find that they hadn't left the neighborhood at all.

Confused, he asked, "What's going on? There isn't any house here except for Villa No. 9..."

But when he uttered that, his words trailed off in astonishment.

The rest of the team was also stunned.

Zac stared at Villa No. 9, his lips curling up into a near-imperceptible arc.

Oh my, the kiddo's family is pretty well-off, isn't it?

A villa in the neighborhood cost more than $7.5 million. On top of that, Villa No. 9 was situated by the lake and was slightly larger than Villa No. 8, so it was worth almost $15 million!

When they first moved in, Lionel had passed by the villa on an evening run once and remarked enviously, "I wonder who the owner of Villa No. 9 is. The scenery here is even better than ours, and it also seems a bit bigger. Damn the rich, why do they get to enjoy life so much?"

But now!

He seemed to have found out who the owners of this villa were.

Zac coughed.

Lionel also swallowed and asked incredulously, “G-God C, sure... surely you don’t mean to say that Villa No. 9 is the ‘house’ you were referring to, right?”

Cheryl nodded. “Yup!”

“Yup”...

Lionel felt like crying. Come on, no acting cute in the club, alright?! Who would have thought that an adorable girl like her would turn out to be a little money bag in disguise?!

He was this close to shedding tears of envy. He said, “A-are you living here alone, God C? How lonely would it be if you don’t have anyone cooking for you, right? Do you want us to come over and accompany you...?”

As soon as he spoke, though, the door to the villa opened and a full-time butler stepped out. Dressed in a suit, he looked at the car with a smile and quickly walked over. He made Zac step aside and then opened the door for Cheryl.

Only then did Cheryl get out of the car.

“Ms. Cheryl, the villa is ready. This way, please.”

M... Ms. Cheryl?!

What the heck was this?

Also, the butler looked awfully professional!

The group was stunned.

They had met rich people—for example, Zac—before... Lionel and the others had even visited his home. Only manors like the Stannards’ home would need a butler, come on!

So, was God C’s family as rich as Zac’s?!

Zac was also taken aback—because he recognized the butler.

The housekeeping industry had a ranking of its own, and this particular butler ranked among the top five in the United States. A few years ago, his family had contacted him with the intention to hire him.

Hoover, the butler, had told them that he was already employed by someone else.

Little did he think that it would turn out to be Cheryl's family!

Just who... exactly was her family?

Even Zac, who was exposed to the wealthy and dignitaries, felt a little lost now.

Smith...

Was Cheryl part of the Smiths from New York?!

But as far as he knew, the Smiths only had one fifteen-year-old girl in the family, and she was currently in her second year of high school. The girl was said to be shy and gentle, and was also renowned for her beauty...

Of course, Cheryl was also a beauty, but she was no “shy and gentle” girl!

While Zac's imagination was running wild, the butler picked up Cheryl's suitcase and politely invited Lionel and the others into the villa.

The housekeeper was currently occupied in the kitchen, which was wafting an aromatic smell of something cooking.

Lionel swallowed hard. “God C, I'm so envious that my tears are flowing out from the corners of my mouth. Why does your housekeeper's cooking smell so good?”

“... Wanna stay for lunch, then?” asked Cheryl.

“No problem!”

Lionel walked straight to the dining hall and seated himself at the dining table.

Zac and Benjamin looked around at the interior decor. It was obvious that the decor here was cozier than in the club, and all the little details exhibited low-key luxury.

After the meal, Lionel couldn't help but secretly look at Cheryl and ask, "Hey, God C. Um, I kinda wanna ask you something, but I don't know if it's okay to?"

"... Go ahead," replied Cheryl.

Lionel coughed and asked, "What business is your family in, God C?"

Cheryl thought for a while. "Actually, I'm not sure myself."

The Hunts had businesses in a large number of industries, while her grandaunt was involved with mysterious matters overseas. On top of that, her mom was also an enigmatic one who disappeared for a couple of days or so every month for some inexplicable reason.

In the entire family, her brother, Peter, was the only normal one who went through his education systematically. She had heard that their father intended to hand over the Hunt Corporation to him this year.

Her other brother, Alexander, was also an unfathomable one. Nobody knew what their father was doing with him every day, and she had heard that he was planning to have him inherit something to do with "King" and whatnot...

In any case, Cheryl wasn't bothered about these things. All she knew was that she was the weakest in the family and that she was so rich that she would never run out of money her whole life!

However, Cheryl's teammates misunderstood and thought that she was reluctant to reveal anything to outsiders because of her desire to remain low-key, so they didn't probe further.

After lunch, everyone drove back to Villa No. 8 for afternoon training.

After the training session, Cheryl refused the butler's offer to pick her up, instead insisting on walking home by herself.

The villa was only a ten-minute walk or three-minute drive away. She would just take the walk as exercise!

Zac suddenly stood up and said, "I'm going out for an evening run, so I can walk you back home along the way."

Cheryl, who didn't think much about it, nodded.

Before they went out, Cheryl, who suddenly thought of something, said, "By the way, I have to take two days off starting tomorrow."

The head coach happened to exit the room at this point. Upon hearing this, he asked, "What for?"

"Mm, shooting practice."

Don't forget that Cheryl had another identity—a shooting athlete!

Although she had enrolled in Harvard via the college entrance examination, she had never given up on shooting as a sport.

The coach was confused. "What?"

Zac explained on her behalf and said, "Cheryl is a shooting athlete."

"... Uh-huh, and then?"

Cheryl said, "I promised the national team that I would train with them for at least two days a month."

The coach: "??"

The rest of the club seeing her out the door: "?"

Cheryl, who had mistaken their reaction as disapproval, explained, “I only need to go for shooting practice two days a month so that they wouldn’t bother me. Don’t worry, my focus is on the game!”

Gaming wasn’t a one-man show but a team effort.

Therefore, Cheryl indeed had to spend more time training team coordination with them.

Lionel, who had pretty much become numb to further revelations, said jokingly, “Um, considering that you got a score of 1598 in the college entrance examinations, be it games or shooting, isn’t either too much of a waste? Why don’t you do scientific research instead?”

Celebrities and game clubs were lucrative businesses, but being a scientist was obviously a more respected profession!

Cheryl thought for a moment and then replied, “That’s an option.”

Everyone: “...”

“I’m kidding, I’m kidding...” After speaking, Lionel, who wanted to improve his relationship with Ms. Rich Heir God C, patted his chest and said, “For the sake of playing for our club, you have decided to patronize the national shooting team and just train with them a couple of days each month... But don’t worry! You may not be able to take the championship in shooting, but we will make it up to you with the game competition! We are very confident of taking the championship this year!”

Cheryl: “?”

Who said she couldn’t take the championship in shooting?

She blinked a couple of times and thought of explaining, but when she saw how moved everyone looked, as though she had given up shooting for the game... she couldn’t be bothered to say anything.

She put on her shoes and went out.

Zac followed behind her.

As soon as the two of them exited, they saw a car at the door. A middle-aged lady dressed opulently then got out and walked straight to the two of them.

The woman frowned at the pair in front of her and then said to Zac, “Why is there a girl in the club? Is she the girlfriend you mentioned?”

Zac: “?”

Some time ago, his family had wanted to set him up on a blind date.

However, he couldn’t be bothered to go, so he made up an excuse and said that he already had a girlfriend.

It seemed like his mother had misunderstood, though.

He was about to explain when the woman said, “Zac, you’d better be rational about this! I’ve already given my permission for you to become a professional e-sports player under the condition that you would only play until you are 25, whereupon you will retire and return to inherit the family business! But I will never agree to you dating just any random woman!”

After saying that, the middle-aged woman’s eyes reddened and she said, “Your father has brought his illegitimate son home, and I heard that he is even planning to set him up on a blind date with the young lady of the Smiths in New York. If he really marries Ms. Smith, you’ll be finished! You won’t be able to inherit the family business anymore!! If he wins the Smiths over, unless you marry the mysterious young lady of the Hunts, you really won’t have any hope of inheriting the company anymore! Are you trying to drive me to my grave?!”

As she spoke, she took out a handkerchief and started to dab at her eyes. “Never mind that he’s fooling around outside, but he’s even brought his illegitimate son home now. Is he so confident that we won’t fight back? Zac, you heartless boy. I suffered so much all these years, yet you don’t care about how I feel at all... I have given you everything you wanted all your life... How can you treat me as heartlessly as your father? Are you going to let that homewrecker step all over me in the future, too?"

Zac heaved a helpless sigh and said, "Mom, stop that act of yours. She is not my girlfriend but a new member of the club."

After a moment, the stunned woman stopped crying and then smiled awkwardly at Cheryl. "Oh, is that so? You should have told me earlier. I ended up crying for nothing..."

Zac: "..."

Cheryl: "..."

Cheryl was thinking about what the woman had said just now, though. Did she say that the Stannards' illegitimate son was planning to befriend Mia?

She tilted her head and took out her cell phone to inform Mia of the news.

But after a moment's thought, she decided not to. Mia was currently in her second year of high school, which was a critical moment for her studies. It would be better if she didn't bother Mia with such news.

Thus, Cheryl sent the message to Peter instead. She wrote: 'Hey Peter, the Stannards in San Francisco are planning a political marriage with Mia.'

After sending the message, she looked back up to see the middle-aged lady pulling Zac's ear as she said, "Listen up now. I didn't let you do whatever you want so that you don't fight for what's yours. That boy is only 18 years old now; you're a whole three years older than him! You can play games if that's what you want, but you must take back the family's assets! It'll be so embarrassing if I end up being kicked out of the family after putting up so much with the Stannards!"

An extremely helpless Zac replied, "... Okay, okay."

"Try to find the young lady of the Hunts and see if you can seduce her!"

Zac: "!!"

Cheryl: “????”

The young lady of the Hunts... Was she talking about her?!

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1029 - The Boss Is Here!

Surprisingly enough, Cheryl ended up listening to gossip about herself in the end!

She grinned and said, “Um, I’ll go first.”

“... Okay,” Zac replied.

Even after walking a distance away, Cheryl could still hear Mrs. Stannard nagging at Zac. “Young man, you are already in your twenties. It’s about time you find a girlfriend. It can’t possibly be that you’ve never had a girlfriend before because you’re into men instead, right?”

Cheryl: “??”

Did she just hear something she shouldn’t have?

She quickly sped up, lest she ended up being silenced by the captain.

Well, just kidding.

He wouldn’t actually kill her, of course. However, if he made her life difficult in the future, things would certainly become very troublesome.

As her mom said, one must always cut off any potential source of trouble!

It was only after Zac watched the kid speed up and escape that he finally came back to his senses. “Huh? What did you just say?”

Mrs. Stannard: “???”

—

Cheryl had a good night’s sleep that evening.

When she woke up the next day, the butler drove her to a nearby helicopter base, where she returned to New York for training via helicopter.

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

All five shots hit the bullseye in succession.

Satisfied, Cheryl lowered the gun. Her coach then came over. “Good, it seems that you haven’t been slacking.”

But after saying that, he couldn’t help but start nagging at her. “Cheryl, you carry the national team’s hope of victory. We are counting on you for our gold medal this year. Can’t you join that game club later? What’s so good about games anyway? Can it win you anything? You should stay here to continue training instead. You...”

Cheryl couldn’t help but interrupt. “Coach, what am I even supposed to work on if I stay here to train?”

The coach suddenly found himself at a loss for words.

Ever since Cheryl joined the national team, she had consistently hit the bullseye every time. It was indeed true that there was nothing she could improve anymore!

After all, how would he know that Justin was the one who had taught Cheryl her shooting skills?

However, she was not allowed to skip her monthly training. This was the furthest the coach would relent.

Cheryl had agreed to it as well.

After all, she did have to practice a bit every month to prevent her skills from becoming rusty.

It was currently June. Once the Olympics rolled about in August, she would be competing for Team America!

When she thought of how neither of her brothers was involved in such activities, Cheryl couldn't help but smile.

After a whole afternoon of training, she finally found her groove.

Then, she went straight home in the evening.

As soon as she stepped through the door, she spotted Justin sitting on the sofa and staring at the door. At the sight of her, the man got up. In a low but gentle and cheerful voice, he said, "You're back."

"Uh-huh!" Cheryl skipped over and asked, "Where's Mom, Dad?"

Justin replied, "Why are you looking for your mom the moment you return...? She's already asleep."

... I knew it! Cheryl thought.

Her mother's terrible habit of excessive sleeping still hadn't changed, despite so many years going by. She fell asleep all the time without any warning.

This was due to her mother's physical constitution, though.

She was about to go upstairs when Justin said, "The kitchen has prepared your favorite chicken soup. New clothes and dresses from the current season have also been brought upstairs."

After speaking, he looked at Cheryl disdainfully and said, "Girls should dress up more!"

Cheryl: "..."

Since she was a child, it was actually her father who had dressed her like a little princess all along.

She had indeed loved princess dresses when she was a child, but now... She wore whatever she found convenient, of course.

On the other hand, though, her father didn't have similar expectations of her mother. Even if her mother wore a sack, he would still compliment her in it, even if he didn't really mean it. Yet he now had so many expectations when it came to her?

She pouted and said, "Alright, alright!"

Then, she went upstairs.

Before she entered her room, she glanced behind at her father to find that he had quietly walked over to the master bedroom. He opened the door gently and then tiptoed in.

Despite so many years going by, Justin didn't show any signs of aging at all, and even Nora could pass off as her sister when they stood next to each other.

It was as though they weren't affected by the passage of time at all.

Cheryl shook her head and entered her room.

The home was the most comfortable after all. When she woke up the next day, she went to visit Mia.

Mia looked as gentle as ever. She was clearly younger than Cheryl, yet her thoughtfulness made her seem as though she was the older one instead.

The two had lunch together. In the afternoon, Cheryl went to the training ground for practice again. Then, in the evening, she took the helicopter back to San Francisco.

The next day, she went back to the club and started training with everyone again.

In the blink of an eye, another week had passed.

One day, everyone in the club sobered up. Even Zac looked serious and on guard.

A curious Cheryl asked, “What’s going on?”

While no one was looking, Lionel secretly replied, “The boss is coming over tonight!”

Cheryl: “?”

The boss? Uncle Chester?

While she was thinking, Lionel grumbled, “The boss loves playing games, but he’s unfortunately not very good at it. Even so, every time he comes over, he makes us play with him. He’s terrible at it, but he just loves playing it so much! He also has a bad temper. He disses us every time he loses... He has a real knack for insults, too. Do you know what he said when we asked him where he learned to diss others like that?”

An earnest and well-behaved Cheryl asked, “What did he say?”

Lionel answered, “He said that he learned it from his team leader and that he has already been showing us mercy!”

“...”

The corners of Cheryl’s lips spasmed, and she thought back to how vicious she had been in the past.

However, she had tried to restrain her temper a little the past month. Besides, she only threw insults at others because they were dumb, but her teammates were some of the best players in the game.

They cooperated well with one another in-game. Come to think of it, she hadn't blasted anyone at all this month—because they had won all the matches!

Cheryl coughed.

Lionel went on. “Also, you know what, the boss’ background is no joke!”

“What?”

Cheryl was surprised.

Did Uncle Chesty have other identities that she was unaware of? Did he have secret identities too?!

While she was wondering, Lionel said, “He is a part of the Hunts in New York!”

Cheryl: “?????”

“Uh-huh? What about it?”

“What do you mean ‘what about it’? The Hunts in New York! We’re talking about the wealthiest family in America! Even the Smiths are a tad less powerful than them. This is why the boss is so bad-tempered. The sight of him scares us! When he gets here, you’d better not rush up to him in front...”

God C was the club’s favorite person.

Lionel wouldn’t want her to be scolded by the boss, of course!

Every time the boss came over, he would always scold all of them at least a little. Even Captain Zac wasn’t spared. On top of that, he always scolded him for the same things.

“Can’t you smile?”

“How are you going to lead the team when you talk so little? This is so worrying!”

When he thought of this, Lionel couldn't help but look at Cheryl.

Would the boss take pity on a cute little girl like her?

While he was thinking about it, he heard a voice coming from the door.
“Boss is here!”

Then, a beaming Chester walked in.

As soon as he entered, his eyes locked onto Cheryl and he exclaimed, “Leader!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1030 - What Is Their Relationship?

There was complete silence in the club.

Everyone turned to look at Cheryl incredulously.

Then, they looked back at their boss who was always scolding them.

Chester was 30 years old this year. His wife had just given birth to their son recently, so he didn't have as much time as before to visit the club these days. Cheryl had already met the adorable and pretty baby boy before.

Chester, who had been so busy taking care of his son and related matters, could finally relax now. He said, "Hey, leader! Let's play a round together!"

However, the heartless Cheryl replied, "... I don't feel like playing with you."

"Why?"

"You're horrible at it."

"..."

When Cheryl's teammates heard her blunt reply, none of them dared to even utter a word.

Zac looked at the two of them thoughtfully.

As for Lionel, he widened his eyes and glanced at Cheryl worriedly.

Although he had been astonished by Chester calling God C "leader" just now, Chester was ultimately still their boss! God C was simply too rude!

What if their boss got mad and refused to pay her salary?!

True enough, Chester did get mad. “If you don’t play with me, I won’t pay you your salary!”

He would remit Cheryl’s salary to his sister-in-law instead!

Cheryl glanced at him. “Do what you want.”

Didn’t he know that money was the last thing she lacked at the moment?!

Chester: “...”

Chester was obviously at a disadvantage in the conversation, yet nobody could tell for some reason, and they even thought that Cheryl had thoroughly enraged Chester.

A smiling Lionel immediately said, “We’ll play with you, instead, Boss...!”

He took a step forward and stood between Cheryl and Chester, shielding her behind him.

After spending more than 20 days together, Lionel had already started to become protective of her.

Cheryl was now the club’s favorite person...

An aggrieved Chester whined, “I’ve been having such a hard time lately because I have to take care of my kid. Can’t you agree to my request when I finally have a day off today?”

“...”

At the sight of his pitiful expression, the helpless Cheryl could only reply, “Fine, just one round, okay?”

“Five!”

“One.”

“Three!”

In the end, Cheryl heaved a quiet sigh and relented. “Two rounds.”

“You’re on!”

Chester immediately grabbed Lionel’s computer and mouse and logged into his account. “Come on, hurry up and log in!”

Chester liked playing as a mage, so every time he came, Lionel would have to sit out and let him play instead.

He was more than happy to do so, too.

After all, their boss was not only horrible at the game, but also had an awful temper. Whoever played with him would end up having to suffer.

Lionel stood at the side and waited. However, after the game started, he found that their boss was actually playing calmly and wasn’t losing his temper...

In the past, whenever Zac fought in the jungle, he always had to go to the middle lane to help him fight the minions there before quickly leaving because he mustn’t steal the experience points. However, when the battle started, Zac promptly went to the bottom lane after just a moment’s hesitation.

Sure enough, Chester only glanced at him as though he wanted to say something, but held back in the end.

After a while...

“Ahh, I died again! Leader, why didn’t you come and save me?”

“Save you? Chesty, please look at whether you’re worth it. Is there any point in saving you? Even an advanced cannon does more damage than you!”

Lionel: “!!!!”

“Leader, someone assassinated me again. I’m weak only because I gave you all the coins we earned, so you’re not allowed to laugh at me.”

“Ha, I’d rather give all the coins the team earned to a wild boar instead of you. At least the wild boar knows that it should counterattack the enemy, but what about you? You were knocked out in one hit before you could even cast any of the mage’s skills... You should learn how to move first!”

Lionel: “!!!!!”

Although it felt great to see their boss, who was always scolding them, suffer a setback for once, was it really alright for God C to diss him like that?

Also!

God C was so scary!

She didn’t even need to use swear words when she insulted someone!

No wonder their boss always said that his prowess at dishing out insults couldn’t compare to even half of his leader’s...

Lionel swallowed.

At the end of the round, even though Cheryl and Zac led their teammates to victory, the game didn’t bring Chester any joy at all. He looked at Cheryl aggrievedly. “Hey, leader...”

“Be a good boy and go back to the baby. This game doesn’t suit you.”

“...”

In the end, she still played another round with her poor uncle. Although he still got scolded, Chester felt totally refreshed this time. After the game, he got ready to leave.

When he was leaving, all the members of the club went to see him off.

Cheryl also followed them out the door.

Chester looked at everyone except for Cheryl and said threateningly, “You guys better treat my leader well, you hear? Or all of you will be in for it!”

Everyone: “...”

After speaking, Chester looked at Cheryl cheerfully and then suddenly leaned in close to her. He lowered his voice and said, “By the way, Justin wants me to remind you that it’s Nora’s birthday this month.”

“Got it.”

Cheryl sighed silently.

Her dad celebrated her mom’s birthday grandly every year. Her mom clearly didn’t like it, but her dad insisted that life was about having a sense of ceremony, so she was also forced to prepare birthday gifts for her mom every year.

Sigh, how troublesome.

After the exchange, Chester left in the car.

He had moved to San Francisco for good. Not only was he near the club, but he could also escape the Hunts’ control. Life couldn’t get any better.

After he left, the way Lionel and the others looked at Cheryl changed.

Zac was even convinced that Cheryl must be related to the Smiths in New York. Otherwise, a Hunt would never put up with her temper.

But soon, he didn’t have the time or leisure to think about Cheryl’s identity because...!

Something had happened to their club again!

It was also about Cheryl this time...

The next morning, social media went into an uproar.

Someone had taken photos of Chester leaving the club the previous night, and the person who had posted the photos even maliciously edited the photos before posting them online. Everyone was now secretly saying that Cheryl had only wormed her way into the club by relying on her feminine wiles.

They even called Cheryl a homewrecker. After all, most people knew that Chester was married.

The head coach was furious.

Lionel was puzzled. “We all know this isn’t true. Besides, it’s obvious that the photos are Photoshopped. What are you panicking about?”

The head coach glared at Lionel and then said, “Boss was whispering into Cheryl’s ear in the photo. The two of them are too close to each other physically... I’m afraid that Mr. Hunt’s wife will see the photo. How do you think she’ll look at the photo?”

Lionel: “?”

The head coach sighed. “If the boss’ wife asks me to fire Cheryl, should I fire her or not?”

Lionel: “!!”

The head coach looked at him. “Also, although we all know the truth, can Cheryl guarantee that it will not affect her? She is also good friends with the boss in the game. I’m afraid that this incident will affect their friendship! This may seem like a terrible move on their end, but they are going for a psychological attack!

“The qualifiers are about to start, and it’s highly likely that we’ll be matched with Club JQ right in the qualifiers. What if Cheryl becomes emotionally unstable at this time and doesn’t perform well in the competition?”

While the head coach was worrying over this, a voice reached them from outside. “Coach, this is terrible! Boss and his wife are here!”

The head coach: “!”

Lionel panicked. “What should we do? The lady boss is here... Will she really make things difficult for God C? I’ll take God C and go into hiding right away!”

Even Zac broke into a frown and looked worried this time.

To be honest, when their boss and that kid leaned in so close to each other that day, he had found their actions rather inappropriate. After all, men and women should keep a respectable distance from each other, and it wasn’t like they were family...

Amid their worry, Chester openly walked into the room.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1031

Chapter 1031

Chester's Niece? Everyone in the training room looked serious and on guard.

Lionel looked at Cheryl worriedly.

Cheryl looked at the door.

Like Chester, his wife was also the daughter of a rich family, the kind that mucked around and did nothing purposeful in life. She was cheerful and magnanimous.

As soon as she entered, her eyes immediately fell on Cheryl and she said, "God C, I've come to visit you!"

Everyone in the club: "...!!!"

As expected, the lady boss was here for God C. However, Cheryl stood and greeted her politely.

"Hi, Aunty."

Everyone: "???"

Everyone looked at Cheryl in disbelief, all of them incredulous that she had called the other woman "Aunty".

Even if she was reluctant to call her "Mrs. Hunt", she should at least have used something that sounded younger! The lady boss wasn't even thirty yet! "Hey, don't call me that!"

The lady boss suddenly became stern.

See? As expected, it made her angry! Lionel immediately took a step forward with a big smile.

However, just as he was about to speak, the lady boss said cheerfully, “Call me Kitty!”

Everyone: “...”

The corners of Cheryl’s lips spasmed.

Both her aunt and uncle were equally undependable.

The couple had often made her game with them in the past, and her aunt’s nickname in the game was none other than “Kitty”.

She coughed.

“Why are you here?”

Everyone in the club: “!!!”

Lionel felt like Cheryl looked just like a conversation killer right now.

This was their club! Why couldn’t they come over?! Yet, for some reason, the lady boss was still smiling brightly. She said, “I saw the trending topics on social media, so I came over to visit you. Those people sure are gossipy. They are not scared to spout all kinds of nonsense... Your relationship with Chester...”

Before she could even finish, Lionel hastily interrupted her and said, “They are gaming friends! Nothing else!”

The lady boss: “??”

She raised her eyebrows and looked at Chester.

Chester winked at her.

When the incident broke out after he returned home the day before, his wife had insisted on coming over to clarify matters as she was afraid that the people in the club would misunderstand Cheryl.

He had told her that it wasn't necessary—after all, he could already tell from his visit the day before that his leader was most definitely the favorite in the club— but his wife refused to believe him and simply insisted on coming over... See? Her teammates treated her incredibly well! Right at this moment, Cheryl's aunt's cell phone started ringing.

Her aunt could only give them an apologetic look and pick up her cell phone.

But when she saw the caller's name on the screen, she raised her eyebrows.

“Who is it?” A concerned Chester glanced at her phone.

“It's Jimmy”

His wife explained, “She played pretty well as a support class previously. You don't like me playing with guys, so I played two rounds with her. We added each other on Facebook after that”

“Oh- Even though Chester wasn't bothered, he nevertheless heaved a sigh of relief.

Cheryl's aunt picked up the phone.

The voice of Jimmy, who was from Club JQ, rang out at the other end of the phone.

“Hi, Mrs.Hunt.Are you okay?”

Cheryl's aunt: “??”

Baffled at the other woman's question, she replied, “I'm doing pretty well!”

However, Jimmy continued as though she didn't hear her.

“You don’t have to hold yourself back in front of me. We are friends, after all...No, wait, have you looked at Facebook yet?”

But right after saying that, Jimmy acted as if she had said something she shouldn’t have and said, “I’m sorry, Mrs.Hunt. Mr.Hunt must have forbidden you from spending too much time on your cell phone since you just gave birth recently...I shouldn’t have said so much...”

Her actions screamed hypocrisy.

Cheryl’s aunt said straightforwardly, “Alright, that’s enough. You must be referring to Cheryl, the female member of our club, right?”

“Oh, you’re aware?’ Jimmy began to console her.

“Cheer up!”

“But I’m not upset!”

Jimmy said, “I know you must be upset, so you really don’t have to pretend that you’re not.Anyone would be upset if their husband cheated on them when they’ve just given birth to his child... Of course, I’m not saying that Mr.Hunt must have cheated on you.He would never do anything like that.It must have been Cheryl who seduced him instead.Besides, she probably hasn’t succeeded

yet...”

“What the f*ck?! What did you just say? Cheryl seduced Chester?”

Cheryl’s aunt’s voice suddenly rose. Everyone in the club turned to look at her.

Lionel, Zac, and Benjamin tensed up at once, afraid that the other party would successfully sow discord between the lady boss and Cheryl.

Chonk walked over to Cheryl and whispered, “Come on, God C! Hurry up and explain everything to her!”

“What am I supposed to explain?” asked Cheryl.

Chonk: “?”

Everyone else: “?”

On the phone, Jimmy was still going on.

“Calm down, I’m sure there’s nothing between the two of them. Don’t worry!”

“Of course I’m not worried!”

Cheryl’s aunt sneered and said, “Why would anything ever happen between the two of them?”

Her words made everyone in the club heave a sigh of relief. It seemed that the lady boss trusted God C very much.

Phew...

However, the next moment, everyone’s eyes widened in shock.

The lady boss shouted angrily, “Don’t you dare add fuel to the fire! Do you think I’m not aware of your purpose in calling me? Do you think you can do anything you want just because you’ve joined Club JQ? Who do you think you are?”

Jimmy pretended to be aggrieved and said, “Mrs. Hunt, I know you must be frustrated and depressed, but you shouldn’t lose your temper at me. Mr. Hunt comes from a very good family. Although he is not a direct descendant of the Hunts, he shares a good relationship with the current head of the family. I know you’ll definitely want to keep this matter under wraps and deal with it together with him...but you shouldn’t let yourself suffer in vain! You can kick up a bit of a fuss and at least get Mr. Hunt to kick that woman out of the club...”

Cheryl’s aunt interrupted her again.

“What do you mean by ‘that woman’? She’s only fifteen! She’s still a child! Also, who would freaking dare to kick Chester’s niece out of the club?????”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1032

Chapter 1032 See You At the Competition!

Her words stunned the other party right away.

The club also fell completely silent in an instant.

Lionel, who had been worrying about Cheryl, looked at her in surprise when he heard what the lady boss said.

Then, he looked at Chester...

Cheryl and Peter shared identical facial features.

Though they were indistinguishable from each other when they were children, now that they had grown up, it was now possible to tell one apart from the other.

After all, Peter was already starting to go through a growth spurt and was now half a head taller than Cheryl.

They were only fifteen years old now, so he would only grow taller in the future.

The older Peter became, the more he resembled Justin.

Cheryl's facial features were very similar to Justin's, except that they were gentler and younger.

Despite her young age, she was already a stunning beauty, and it was obvious that she would become a second Brenda once she grew up 70% of the twins' appearance took after their father's.

Therefore, if one looked closely, they would see that Cheryl and Chester did resemble each other somewhat.

Wasn't Cheryl's last name Smith, though? How could she possibly be a Hunt? On the phone, Jimmy was also stunned.

"W-what did you say, Mrs. Hunt? But...but her last name is Smith!"

Cheryl's aunt sneered.

"Can't she take her mother's surname?! You fool! In my opinion, you shouldn't stay in the club anymore. That place doesn't suit

you."

After saying that, she hung up.

However, she went on after hanging up and said, "What a foolish woman. Doesn't she know who she is messing with? To think she had the guts to call me... Chester, call Club JQ immediately and tell them to fire Jimmy. Look at how much trouble they have caused God C all because of that woman?"

"It's not quite appropriate of us to bully others like this, right?" asked Chester.

Cheryl's aunt sneered and asked, "Do you know what I love the most?"

"What?"

"Bullying others."

Chester had long since wanted to do this, but he didn't dare to reveal Cheryl's identity to the public.

After all, Justin had never once publicly announced anything in order to protect his three children...

If he kicked up a fuss, wouldn't he end up exposing Cheryl's identity? But since his wife had said so, then it must be alright for him to do so.

Chester picked up his cell phone and called Club JQ immediately.

“Have you had enough yet? I want you to fire Jimmy immediately! Otherwise, Club JQ will cease to exist.”

“Why? Ha, because she called my wife and made her angry!”

After saying this, Chester hung up. While Chester was on the phone, Cheryl’s aunt was also talking to the rest of the team cheerfully.

“Do you know why my niece took her mother’s last name?”

By then, Lionel and the others were already numb to further shocks, and their brains were not even functioning anymore.

“Because she’s hiding her identity, of course! My niece wants a quiet, peaceful life without any disturbances. Get it?”

Lionel and the others nodded.

On the side, when Zac saw this, he couldn’t help but hold his forehead.

The guys in the team were so shocked by Cheryl’s identity that they didn’t even understand what the lady boss was trying to say.

He kept quiet for a while and then said, “Don’t worry, I won’t tell anyone about it.”

Only then did Lionel and the others react.

They nodded hurriedly and echoed, “Yeah, we won’t tell anyone!”

Lionel then asked, “But what about Jimmy?”

The lady boss smiled and replied, “Don’t worry, she’s a smart one. She knows that there are things she can say and things she can’t”

Even though she had offended her in this industry, things weren’t that bad for her.

At the very least, she could continue live-streaming even after she was kicked out of the club.

However, if she told outsiders that she had offended the Hunts...then she could forget about making a living in other industries, too.

Zac understood this very quickly.

Rather, it was Lionel and the others who didn't understand how such things worked in the wealthy circle.

Regardless, they didn't probe any further.

The lady boss was always right anyway! As they had a month-old infant at home, Chester and his wife didn't stay long at the club.

They left shortly.

Ten minutes later.

Lionel, who was scrolling through Facebook, smiled and said, "Did you see? Jimmy has made a post saying that she is quitting Club JQ because gaming is ultimately not something for her"

Club JQ had also posted on Facebook and announced that they had terminated their contract with Jimmy, citing incompatibility issues as the reason.

Surprisingly enough, their fans didn't show much of a reaction.

After all, few girls played professionally in the first place.

Some clubs had tried using this as a gimmick before, but it had ultimately failed.

Jimmy's departure made Club JQ fans breathe sighs of relief instead.

The trending news about Cheryl and Chester had also died down without anyone realizing it.

In fact, there wasn't even any news about them anywhere on Facebook.

It was as if the incident had never happened.

However, in order to prevent similar incidents, they nevertheless secretly released a piece of news to the public—Cheryl and Chester were relatives! As the piece of news died down before it even gained traction, few noticed it.

However, Club HS fans were a little worried.

They went to Club HS' and the members' Facebook pages and left messages.

'For the sake of the championship, shouldn't we cancel Cheryl?'

'Club JQ has already terminated their contract with Jimmy. Why don't you guys do it, too? Girls really are a bit lacking when it comes to e-sports.'

I'm not looking down on girls here; I'm a girl myself. But girls' reflexes really aren't as quick as boys'.

Are you guys really not going to consider the suggestion?'

"Are you guys planning on giving up the championship this year because you've won for so many years?'

Members of other clubs on good terms with Club HS also mentioned Zac in their respective group chats.

It was common for people to switch teams during their time as professional e-sports players, so there wasn't much hostility between members of different clubs.

The captains of the various teams had created a group chat each.

The captains of the other teams were all trying to persuade him in their group chats.

‘It really is very tough to win with girls on the team’

‘No matter how good you are as a jungler, it won’t do to have a support class holding you back, Zac: Everyone had, by default, assumed that Cheryl was playing as a support class.

...Hey, quit it, guys.I heard through the grapevine that the girl is related to their boss.I reckon she’s probably the daughter of a wealthy family somewhere who’s just out to have some fun.

We won’t hold back during the competition, though: ‘Yeah, let the rich little princess know about the sinister nature of the world! Even Zac won’t be able to carry her, but still bring the team victory!’”

E-sports gaming was a team effort.

No matter how strong one’s individual ability was, if the team had a weak link, it would still be tough for them to win.

However, this was also where the charm of e-sports was.

Zac looked at the group chat messages that were either showing concern or issuing challenges and then looked up at the girl currently seated in front of the computer tapping away on her pink keyboard seriously.

He smiled and wrote: I’m not carrying the kid: As soon as he sent the reply, everyone got ready to comfort him.

However, before they could, they saw his next message: ‘The kid is the one carrying the team: ‘See you guys at the competition.

Everyone: “??”

Three days later, the competition officially started, and Club HS ushered to their very first battle!?!!!!

Chapter 1033

Chapter 1033: God C!!!

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

For the first game of the new season, the organizers hosted an opening event where they invited stars to perform. Many clubs sent representatives for the event.

Coaches would usually just attend such events with a random member of the team as the purpose of showing up was simply to show their appreciation to the organizers. However, as Club HS was up in the first round after drawing lots to determine the order, as well as because Zac was simply so popular in the circle, all the members accompanying their coaches turned out to be the captains of their teams.

All the competitors were resting backstage.

The captains gathered and started a discussion.

“Club HS is so unlucky to be up against Club JQ again right in the first round.”

“I heard Club JQ found a new member to play as support right after Jimmy quit, and the support plays so much better than her! They are also ranked pretty high in the local server...”

“Yeah, my team played against them in a training match yesterday.”

“How did it go?”

“Club JQ has become even stronger.”

“...”

The entire group fell silent, all somewhat worried for Club HS.

Be it Zac, Lionel, or even their retired ex-gunner, all the Club HS members were on good terms with the others. However, Club JQ members were somewhat seen as black sheep among the players.

They often head-hunted people from other teams—and even players from other countries—by offering high remuneration.

They stopped at nothing to win.

When Club HS recruited a female team member, they had also immediately recruited Jimmy, all because they were determined not to be outdone. They wanted the top spot in everything and were willing to leech off anybody's popularity.

To be honest, everyone disliked them.

Unfortunately, during the last season, the wrist injury that Club HS' ex-gunner previously suffered had returned to plague him, leading to him making a mistake in the finals. He had then been killed by Club JQ's jungler immediately, resulting in Club HS losing the final round of the team battle and Club JQ emerging as the champion.

There was no room for mistakes in team battles.

Everyone was unhappy with Club JQ, and no one ever considered them worthy of their title as champion.

“What is Club HS going to do??”

“With their new support being a rookie, they're going to lose for sure... Besides, Chonk, who plays as support, didn't play very well when he played as a gunner previously either. That was why he switched to a support class instead. When you spend enough time as a support, you'll end up habitually protecting your teammates. Do you think people like that would play recklessly?”

While they were deep in the discussion, Zac pushed open the door.

They were all friends with one another, after all. Since he was aware that the captains were all here, there was no doubt that Zac would drop by to say hi.

As soon as he entered the room, the other captains all cast him a pitying glance, which baffled Zac a little.

He raised his eyebrows and asked, “What’s wrong?”

Someone immediately asked, “Why didn’t your team recruit a gunner when they were looking for new members?”

“Yeah, if you had recruited a gunner instead, a certain somebody wouldn’t have been able to join, even if she had all the connections in the world. Even your boss understands that an important position like that is no laughing matter...”

“Sigh. Speaking of gunners, someone comes to mind right away.”

“I also thought of someone...”

“Me too...”

“Me...”

“Drop the ‘Me too’. I know who you’re all talking about! We’ve been dominated by her for so many years. Aren’t you guys sick of it yet? You can just say her name—God C!”

“Hahaha! The mention of her name makes me panic.”

“Me too...”

When Cheryl was a child, she often encountered professional players when she reached the highest tier in the rankings. On occasions when her teammates weren’t strong enough, she liked to play against them one-on-one.

A good number of professional players had loved dueling one-on-one with her back then.

Even their coaches had ordered them to play one-on-one with her.

Because!

One-on-one duels with her were no different from grueling training sessions for movement practice!

Even though she was a gunner, she could still avoid all the assassins and dish out a counter-kill!

With the way she moved and her reflexes, even the head coaches found it a shame that she didn't play as an assassin.

But when they thought about it again, it was true that the gunner made up the core of a team. She would indeed be the strongest if she played as a gunner...

Everyone present was a professional player who had made a name for themselves during the last five to six years, and all of them had experienced the era of God C's domination in the game. There had even been a rumor among professional players back then:

Players who wanted to be on the starter team must play one-on-one against God C at least 50 times! This was the only way to train one's mental resilience!

Before anyone realized it, God C had already become an insurmountable obstacle in their hearts.

At the mention of God C, everyone became pumped up, and they started chatting about how she had trounced them so badly back then. Toward the end, someone said, "That's why we all thought that your whale of a boss would definitely invite God C to join Club HS after your ex-gunner retired!"

After all, Chester had built up Club HS' reputation as a filthy rich team with real money!

Zac: "..."

He kept quiet and said nothing.

Well, the kid would have to introduce herself when she went on stage later anyway. When that happened, she would most definitely astound these guys.

Heh, were they looking down on the kid?

"That's impossible."

One of the captains said, "Think about it, God C was already dominating the game ten years ago, so she must already be past the ideal age for a professional player. Her reflexes must have already declined."

The others nodded at once. "That's true. The optimal age for a player is between 16 and 24 years old. Zac can probably play until he's 26, but for people like us, things will probably start going downhill from as early as 22!"

Zac was currently 23 years old, but he was still in his prime.

"Forget it, the list has already been finalized anyway. Let's not trigger him with talk of God C anymore. That said, you now have a little princess instead of God C in your team, Zac. You guys won't end up trying to protect a support class like her during the competition, will you?"

"Wasn't there a saying that goes something like... 'You can lose the game, but you mustn't let the princess die'?"

"Actually, that would work, too. You guys can afford to lose a few matches here and there anyway. By the time you guys lose enough matches, I'm sure your boss would also have understood. He'll definitely find a replacement then. I reckon the little princess will probably go home once she's had her fill with playing too..."

“But this doesn’t change the fact that we’re here to watch you get thrashed by your opponent in the match today, hahaha!”

Now that all of them were joking around, the things they said also changed.

The corners of Zac’s lips curled into a smile, and he patted the shoulder of the person closest to him. “That may not necessarily happen, though.”

“What?”

However, Zac decided to leave them on a cliffhanger. He said, “Open your eyes wide and watch the match carefully.”

After speaking, he stood up and said, “Alright, I’m off. It’s the kid’s first time participating in the competition, so I’m afraid she may be nervous.”

Everyone: “...”

His tone was so indulgent.

Those who didn’t know any better would have thought he was talking about his girlfriend instead!

All of them exchanged looks with one another. After Zac left, they thought about it and asked, “Has Zac been corrupted by money?”

“It’s possible...”

“Hahaha! Well, that makes sense. Families related to the Hunts must also be very powerful. That girl probably has quite an impressive background. Zac eventually has to inherit his family’s property, so it’s about time he starts planning for the future...”

“No wonder Zac agreed to let the little princess into the team...”

“Sigh. I feel like the spirit of the game would change once even Zac bows down to money.”

“...”

Everyone fell silent.

Gaming competitions were becoming increasingly commercialized.

However, these captains hadn't been focused on making money back when they started playing; rather, all they had on their minds was winning the game.

Among them, Zac upheld his moral boundaries the most. Should he of all people also decide to compromise, they didn't know if they could persevere in the game for much longer...

Just as a gloomy atmosphere took over the room, the performance on stage ended. The competition was finally starting!

The host began to introduce the participants.

One by one, Club HS members went on stage.

Suddenly, someone noticed something amiss. "Look, why does that team seem kinda off?"

Teams generally lined up according to their roles in the game. Mages fought in the middle lane, so they would also stand in the middle... So, why was that pretty girl standing in the second place from the left?

That position wasn't for support classes!

Everyone panicked. "Is the new member not a support class?"

"Going by the position, she's definitely a gunner!"

"Good lord, the little princess wants to be a gunner... Well, if you think about it, that makes sense. What's the fun in playing as a support class? Rich players love looking for good players to protect them while they play as gunners anyway. In such cases, those players even have to give them their kills!"

Just as everyone became gloomier and gloomier, one of the captains suddenly exclaimed, “F*ck! Look!”

“At what?”

“Look at her game ID!”

Cheryl’s game ID had appeared above her head: HS – C.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1034

Chapter 1034: What's Important is That She Had Participated!

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Everyone was shocked and dumbfounded.

Someone couldn't help but ask, "I-is that the same C I'm thinking of?"

"T-that's God C? No way... Is God C really a girl?"

None of them dared to say any more, for fear that they would have to eat their words later on. They had originally only shown up to show Zac support, but in this instant, they suddenly felt like they had made the right decision to come!

The competition was streamed live online.

None of them saw that the comments had already gone into an uproar.

'C?'

'Why does that name look so strange and familiar?'

'Dude, you need a crash course on God C the dominator.'

'Why did the little princess of Club HS give herself a name like that? Is she trying to imitate God C?'

'What nonsense! Game IDs are unique! Duplicate names are not allowed! Did the little princess buy God C's account?'

'Exactly. God C was already playing this game ten years ago, but the little princess looks just like an elementary school student. There's no way she's already 20 years old.'

‘There is information about Cheryl in the club! She is 15 years old this year!’

...

Amid the discussion, the match started.

And then... everyone found themselves dumbfounded once more.

The comments went into yet another uproar.

‘F*ck! C’s moves totally dazzled me just now!’

‘Are those movements even humanly possible?’

‘She was clearly about to die. How did she manage that counter-kill with so little HP?’

‘Club JQ should have realized how powerful she is by now! That’s why four of them tried to surround her just now. God C, who was terrified at the time, thought to herself, ‘Guys, hurry up! Four of the enemies are on their own! I’ve surrounded them!’

‘Hahahaha!’

...

...

Off-stage, in the area where the captains were, nobody dared to say anything. After all, Cheryl’s moves in the game were all too familiar. None of them had any doubts anymore.

Still, someone couldn’t help but ask,

“So, God C was just an elementary student when she thrashed us in the game back then?”

“Ugh, shut up. I’m so embarrassed that I want to bury myself in a hole right now.”

“Here’s a piece of good news, guys,” someone suddenly said.

Everyone looked at him, whereupon he said, “God C took her college entrance examinations this year, so the ones who were thrashed by her during the last three years didn’t get thrashed by an elementary school student...”

“...Get lost!”

“I can’t imagine how young God C must have been when she struck fear into all of us back then.”

Gradually, everyone started to accept the truth. One of the captains sighed and said, “Zac is already difficult enough to deal with. Now that they also have God C on their side, there’s no doubt that Club HS will win the competition this season.”

“...”

Everyone fell speechless for a while.

When Club HS’ ex-gunner retired, everyone had been ecstatic and thought that they finally had a chance at victory! But Club JQ had beaten them immediately.

Now that the new season had started, everyone was all geared up to vie for the title of champion, but in the end...

God C had shown up!

Did they even have any chance left?!

However, someone soon recovered and declared, “My team will definitely take second place this year!”

Even if they couldn't win Club HS, it didn't mean that they couldn't win against others!

Everyone instantly found back the feeling they had when they first played the game!

Besides, what was the big deal about God C anyway? She might have given them a beating back then, but it was now time for them to get their revenge on the battlefield!

Passion was eternal in e-sports players! They would never admit defeat!

Passion surged in the captains once more. Full of fighting spirit, it was as though they had found the aspirations they had when they first entered the industry back then.

—

Cheryl had absolutely no idea what kind of impact her presence had brought to that group of e-sports players eroded by commercialism. All she knew was... Club JQ was awfully weak.

After a month of training, her coordination with her teammates had become so smooth that the match against Club JQ was completely effortless for them.

After winning the third match in a row, Cheryl looked at the others perplexedly. "How did you guys lose last season?"

Everyone: "...". They felt humiliated!

Why did it feel so good to be humiliated by God C, though?

Well, it was mainly because their match had simply gone so smoothly this time, so they had given all the coins to God C and allowed her to groom them further. In the past, they were worried that the gunner would be assassinated, but now they could completely trust God C!

With this battle, almost everybody could foresee what was going to happen in the future.

Netizens were already starting to take notice of Cheryl.

First, she had achieved a score of 1598 in her college entrance examinations. This was undoubtedly the highest score in the country this year. Few could achieve a score like that, even in the New York circle.

Then, there was God C of e-sports...

Originally, only those in the e-sports circle had paid attention to this incident. However, it gradually blew up and started to attract a great deal of attention.

Everyone swarmed to Cheryl's Facebook page and began to leave messages.

'God C, what's your secret to having good grades and being a powerhouse player?'

'Does this mean that even geniuses should work hard?'

While they were asking her questions, a number of people also popped up and started to recount Cheryl's journey of accomplishments.

Someone made a post on Facebook, which attracted all the netizens' attention.

'I am Cheryl's classmate. She grew up abroad, so even when she was ten years old, her studies were a complete mess. Every time the exams came around, she either handed in blank papers or got all the questions wrong. She also never once realized that all her knowledge was wrong... But when she was ten years old, God C suddenly turned around and started to study hard. In the first year, she skipped a grade to the fifth, and in the second year, she went to high school. She pretty much did in five years what we would take twelve years to do...'

As soon as the news came out, all the netizens were astounded.

Wasn't this a classic example of a bottom-feeder launching a counter-attack?!

It couldn't get any more inspiring!

Everyone had already imagined for themselves how hard God C must have worked during those five years. However, at this point, a player in the game stepped forward and posted a record of how much time God C had spent in the game during the last five years.

Thanks to this, everyone now knew that God C went online for three hours every day for the past five years... Didn't she need sleep at all?

At this point, Cheryl went online. When she saw everyone asking about her schedule, she posted a reply.

Cheryl: 'Yes, I have been very hardworking all this time. Every single day during the last five years, I only slept ten hours, exercised for two, played games for three, studied for five hours, and practiced shooting for ten minutes...'

The entire Internet fell into silence.

Hardworking? Yeah, right!

How many people had to sacrifice sleep and wake up at the crack of dawn, spending all their time studying just so they could enroll in a good university? Yet she had achieved that with just five hours of studying a day for five years... Was she trying to crush everyone's hopes or what?!

People did notice that she had mentioned "shooting", though.

Someone asked: 'God G, do you like shooting? Are you a professional?'

1

Cheryl: 'Yeah, I am! I am on the national team! I also like skiing, running, ice-skating...'

“ ...”

At this point, the national team also made a post on Facebook announcing the list of athletes participating in the Olympic Games this year. They specially at-mentioned Cheryl in the shooting section.

Everyone: “!!!”

Fans of the Club HS couldn't help but start to worry.

‘Considering how many things God G has to do, the time she has for training will definitely be greatly reduced, right? Can she really do it?’

3

‘Yeah, next to shooting and studying, gaming doesn't seem that important anymore. What exactly is God C the best at? I'm so worried!’

Seeing this, Cheryl replied: ‘Don't worry, my specialty is gaming. The rest are just my hobbies!’

When everyone saw her reply, they all reached a tacit understanding:

Yup, God C's specialty was gaming. Studying was something she couldn't get out of, while shooting was just a hobby. Also, she was just participating in the Olympics to make up numbers on the team!

As a result, Cheryl's fans couldn't help but start defending her to outsiders—it didn't matter whether she won a medal in the Olympics or not. What was important was that she had participated in it!

Chapter 1035

Chapter 1035: Six Points

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

What came next was a fully-packed schedule.

Club HS had regular matches scheduled for the rest of the month. During the course of the competition, Cheryl built up an even better rapport and coordination with her teammates.

Club HS won every single match during this one month.

However...

When everyone heard that Cheryl was taking a week off to participate in the Olympic Games, they were shocked.

Lionel was the first to speak. “We can still play as usual during your week of absence by sending in a substitute, so we don’t have to worry about that. But God C, will you become rusty if you don’t play for a while?”

Chonk cocked his head sideways and asked, “Didn’t you say that shooting was just a hobby? Your participation in the competition is a formality, right? You’ll probably be disqualified in the first round, so you probably only need to take three days off at most. Why are you requesting a week off instead? The competition will be over by the time you’re back!”

Benjamin smacked Chonk lightly. “Are you dumb? God C is still teammates with the other athletes, no matter what. Even if she can’t make it to the finals, she should still show support to her teammates! This is a major event. Besides, we haven’t reached the critical point of the competition yet; it’s just the qualifiers right now. So, don’t worry and just go for the shooting competition, God C!”

“...Actually, I’m pretty good at shooting,” said Cheryl.

“Hahaha! Even so, can you clinch the champion title?” Lionel was the first to laugh. “Come on, stop the jokes, God C. There are so many shooting experts around. You may be impressive here, but your skills won’t be much to marvel at in front of others. Still, this is something you’re interested in, so we respect your decision!”

The head coach also chimed in. “Yes, we will respect your decision. We will definitely be fine in the qualifiers!”

From how the matches in the past month had gone, it was obvious that Club HS would be the champion this year.

There was no doubt about that!

Cheryl: “...”

Forget it, she wasn’t going to say any more. Instead, she nodded and reached out for her pink suitcase. However, before she could put her hand around it, Zac had already taken hold of it for her. He said, “I’ll see you off.”

Their competition wasn’t held in San Francisco, so they were currently staying in a hotel. In order to stay with her teammates, Cheryl had chosen not to move to another hotel. All of them were staying on the same floor.

Justin hadn’t expressed any opinion about this. After all, she needed total focus during the competition, so it was not quite the same as the training sessions in the villa.

“...Sure,” replied Cheryl.

The pair walked toward the elevator. Before they got in, Lionel called after them, “It’s alright even if you don’t get a medal, God C! We have a champion title waiting for you right here! Don’t worry, we will definitely be the champions this year!”

“...Wow, thanks for the encouragement,” said Cheryl.

“No problem!”

Lionel beamed at her innocently.

When the elevator doors closed, Chonk smacked him on the head. “What did you say that for?”

Lionel replied, “Athletes who do not aim to be champions don’t make good e-sports players! Everyone that does e-sports aims to win, and I’m sure that includes God C too. That’s why I tried to comfort her!”

Chonk sighed. “To be honest, when you consider that she can still make it onto the national team when she spends so little time training... If she used all the time she spends playing games on shooting practice instead, do you think she could win the championship?”

As soon as he said that, everyone fell silent.

Come to think of it, what he said made sense.

Everyone was terribly moved.

God C definitely had the utmost dedication to e-sports!

She was giving up the chance to become a world champion for the gaming competition! In that case, they must get the gold medal for God C!

Lionel, Chonk, and Benjamin instantly became pumped up. “Don’t worry, God C! We will be fine while you’re away!”

At the door.

Zac loaded Cheryl’s suitcase into the trunk.

Cheryl got in the car and waved to him.

When she was about to shut the door, Zac suddenly said, “Good luck!”

Hm? Cheryl thought.

She was about to speak when she saw Zac smiling at her. He said, “You can do it.”

Cheryl blinked in surprise and then returned the smile with one of her own.

—

—

In order to avoid creating a stir, the club did not make any announcements about Cheryl’s participation in the Olympic Games.

However, when a different gunner showed up instead of Cheryl during the next match, her absence caught everyone’s attention.

The fans panicked.

“What’s going on? Why did they change the gunner? Where’s God C?”

“The match feels so dull without God C!”

“What are they trying to do by substituting someone else for God C at this point in time? Do they look down on their opponents that much? Are they trying to say that they can win against their opponents even if they didn’t use their trump card?”

“Of course not! Have all of you overlooked a certain upcoming event?”

Most people into e-sports were homebodies, and it was to the extent that some weren’t even concerned about real-life events and spent all their time in the game. However, there were still some who paid attention to popular topics in current affairs.

Some people commented:

“The Olympics have started! I remember God C saying that she’s part of the national team, so she will be representing America in the Olympics! Did she go to the Olympics?”

“What? You’re right! Come on, let’s see if God C competed today!”

“She probably did, right? The women’s qualifiers are taking place today. I wonder how God C fared and whether she made it to the finals!”

“Haha! Tell me the outcome after you guys check it out! I’m just waiting to laugh at God C now! There are over 100 athletes in the competition. Do you really think God C will make it into the top 8?!”

“Well, if she does, then she can continue with the games tomorrow. If not, she can return to us and continue with the competition.”

Everybody went to check out the results of the Olympic qualifiers.

Twenty seconds later, a comment appeared:

“kay, I’m back from checking the results. Regarding this, I have six points to raise.”

“...”

Everyone: “????”

Chapter 1036

Chapter 1036: Champion!

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Amid all the question marks filling the screen, someone finally wrote something different.

“I can’t describe it any other way than this—she’s too damn impressive!”

“She’s amazing! Cheryl Smith took first place in the qualifiers!”

“I suspect that the two of them have the same name. How can anyone not only excel at gaming but also at shooting?”

“Sudden thought here, but... what if Cheryl Smith turns out to be the champion?”

...

...

That’s right, Cheryl had taken first place in the qualifiers and successfully made it through to the finals. Once the finals were over, which would be held the next day, she would receive the medal.

Cheryl’s fans started chatting in the forums.

“Don’t go around bragging online just yet, guys! Stay low-key! Low-key, you hear?!”

“Yeah, the girl might have lucked out in the qualifiers, that’s all. If we start bragging and she doesn’t win tomorrow, it’ll be really embarrassing!”

“Cheryl is still young! It’s okay even if she doesn’t win this time! She can always try again after four years!”

“Yeah! You’re right!”

—

As for the Club HS members, after they easily won the match, the host couldn’t help but ask Lionel during an interview, “Do you have any comments about Ms. Cheryl Smith’s participation in the Olympic Games?”

Lionel, who was completely unaware that Cheryl had already cleared the qualifiers, smiled and replied, “Well, what matters is that she gained some experience by participating, right? God C is cooped up in the club with us all the time. There’s only so much energy one can have. Since her talent has gone to gaming, it’s a given that she won’t do as well in other areas... That’s perfectly understandable, no?”

He cleared his throat and added, “Besides, Cheryl is still young, so do be patient with her. We’ll eventually compete on a global scale after this, so we can clinch a world championship title for everyone too!”

The host: “??”

Utterly bemused, she looked at Lionel and asked, “Uh... Haven’t you looked at Ms. Smith’s results in the qualifiers?”

Lionel, who was even more lost than her, replied, “Yeah, the match just ended, so I haven’t had a chance to look at my phone yet. I was told to come here for the interview immediately. What’s the matter? Did she rank too low? But that’s perfectly understandable, isn’t it? People shouldn’t be so demanding toward kids!”

“...”

The host kept quiet for a while. Then, she tried to give him a hint and asked, “Seeing that Ms. Smith has ranked first in the qualifiers, how confident do you feel about her taking the champion title tomorrow?”

Lionel: “???”

Lionel felt like he was dreaming even as he walked down from the stage. He pinched himself hard, the pain making him inhale sharply. Only then did he turn to Zac in disbelief. “Hey, Zac. Just what kind of genius have we recruited?!”

The answer to his question came the next day—

Cheryl was the champion!!

An uproar went through the whole country!

Cheryl’s fans were incredibly excited.

“Oh my god! I only became a fan because she’s so pretty. What kind of unbelievable person have I become a fan of, though?!”

“Nation-wide top scorer in the college entrance examinations, a godlike player in games, and a champion in shooting? Dear Lord, any one of those titles is enough to brand one successful in life. God C is unbelievable!”

“God C is no human; she’s a god!”

At the same time!

A proud Harvard University official also posted on their Facebook page: “We await the champion.”

The moment they made the post, people swarmed to it.

The staff of MIT also raised a furor.

Over at the student admissions office, the head of the department sorely wished he could turn back time.

Why on earth had they allowed students to take care of their official Facebook page?!

Great, not only was Cheryl the top scorer, but she was also a world champion now. If she had picked their school, their reputation would have been so much greater than Harvard!

To save the situation—as well as to prevent the department head from holding him accountable for the farce—one of the teachers in the admissions office smiled and said, “Tsk, those things can only help us in terms of our reputation. The student that we recruited this year is the one who will bring us actual benefits. Don’t forget, he’s from the Stannards in New York!”

MIT had recruited the heir to a conglomerate this time. He hadn’t even started his studies at the university, yet he had already sponsored a good number of the university’s research projects!

In addition, he had also promised strategic partnerships with MIT that would last numerous years!

Recruiting him had granted MIT tremendous tangible benefits.

When the head of the admissions office heard the teacher, he felt a bit better.

After all, it wasn’t like Harvard University enjoyed similar benefits...

However, his mood had only just improved a little when the expression of a teacher, who was scrolling through Facebook, suddenly changed dramatically. She stammered, “S-sir, someone just revealed Cheryl Smith’s background...”

Chapter 1037

Chapter 1037: Why Didn't Cheryl's Mom Take Her Studies Seriously?

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

When the head of MIT's student admissions office heard her, he couldn't help but turn to her. "What's the big deal? It's not like her background can possibly be more amazing than our student's?"

For her to train in shooting since she was a child, she must come from pretty wealthy family background.

Not many had the chance to try shooting as a sport.

However, the thought had only just formed when the teacher jumped to her feet. Close to tears, she said, "It certainly is more amazing—she's a Hunt."

"What?!"

The head of the department exclaimed at once.

—

The almighty netizens had indeed dug up Cheryl's family background.

However, this wasn't to the netizens' credit but that of a certain somebody who couldn't resist showing off his daughter. This said person had "accidentally" spilled the beans.

Mr. Justin "Slave To His Daughter" Hunt, who had now transformed into Justin "Proud Daddy" Hunt, had outright given all the employees of Hunt Corporation bonus pay equivalent to a month's salary.

When asked about the reason for the bonus, he merely replied cryptically, "I'm in a good mood."

“Why are you in such a good mood?”

Someone asked cautiously.

He'd initially thought that the cool and aloof CEO wouldn't answer him, but unexpectedly, Justin smiled and asked, “Have you heard of Cheryl Smith?”

“Yes! She's our first gold medalist this year! She—”

The man, who was also watching the Olympic Games, was about to sing Cheryl's praises when Justin said, “She's my daughter!”

The subordinate: “!!!”

He immediately launched into a crazy bout of flattery, which made Justin so giddy with glee that he nodded and said, “Exactly. Neither of the two lousy boys at home can compare to my daughter! My little girl is the best.”

The subordinate: “...”

Peter had only joined the company this year, and judging from the CEO's actions, he was intending to have him take over the company next year!

He was such an outstanding young man. Not only did he achieve a perfect score on the college entrance examinations at the tender age of ten and complete his university education in two years, but he also completed his double Master's degree in three years. On top of that, he even successfully applied for a doctorate!

In addition, it was said that the AI system designed by Peter was equipped with the ability to think autonomously. This would undoubtedly revolutionize the world of IT engineering!

Was there anyone who wouldn't be impressed by someone like that?

Though Cheryl had clinched a gold medal and brought glory to the country, Peter's achievements had allowed the country's technological advancements to progress beyond what was thought possible!

But if the CEO said so, then...

With that, every Hunt Corporation employee now knew that Cheryl was Justin's daughter!

Had it just been the core employees in the know, the secret wouldn't have spread. However, it was obvious that Justin wanted people to know, so everybody automatically began to spread the news about Cheryl to outsiders.

Just to celebrate their little princess' victory, the Hunt Corporation's official Facebook page even held a giveaway that rewarded 1,000 lucky winners with $1,500 each.

Given the fanfare they were making, wasn't it obvious that Cheryl's family background would be exposed?

An uproar went through the Internet.

There was a Facebook post introducing all the members of Cheryl's family:

"Here's an introduction to Cheryl Smith's family."

"I'm sure everybody already knows this, but Cheryl herself is a Harvard student."

"Cheryl's father is the CEO of Hunt Corporation and the holder of three Master's degrees."

"Her elder brother, Peter Hunt, is the valedictorian who achieved a perfect score on the college entrance examinations at the age of ten, five years ago. After graduating from university in just two years, he went on to further his education. It is said that the young man, who is a genius in the IT field, will soon take over Hunt Corporation!

"Alexander Yale, also her elder brother, was admitted to Harvard University at the age of thirteen and has graduated with a degree in medicine. He is also the youngest surgeon ever and his hands are said to be insured for millions of dollars.

“Her paternal grandfather...

“Her paternal grandmother...

“Her maternal grandfather...

“Her maternal grandmother...”

Although Justin’s father was somewhat of a jerk, it was undeniable that he had graduated from an Ivy League university back then. Iris, Ian, and Yvette didn’t need further elaboration, either—their academic qualifications were no secret. It wasn’t difficult to look them up.

This information was all on Wikipedia, and someone had collated and publicly posted it.

When netizens saw the post, they became incredibly excited.

As expected, intelligence ran in the family for star students!

What a family of geniuses!

However, among the envious and idolizing comments, a joking comment appeared:

“Why didn’t Cheryl Smith’s mom attend school properly?”

Compared to the group of big bosses with excellent academic qualifications, there was indeed nothing about Cheryl’s mother. Nobody could even find out which schools she had attended.

After all, Nora had never officially attended school her whole life. Therefore, she didn’t leave any academic records.

The person who posted the comment was actually just joking, and it should have blown over after eliciting some laughter.

Alas, people found the joke especially amusing, so the comment instantly garnered more Likes than the actual Facebook post itself, continuing all the way until it reached over a million Likes!

The hashtag #WhyDidntCherylsMomGoToSchool started to trend.

When Nora suddenly saw the news after she woke up, she was utterly bewildered.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1038

Chapter 1038: A Birthday Party Filled With Big Bosses

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Nora wasn't going to hold it against the netizens, though.

After all, they were just joking.

She was a lot more easy-going these days. Though the sight of the news had angered Justin so much that he wanted to have the trending topic removed and delete the entire discussion online, Nora stopped him. She said, "The topic is trending at its peak right now. If you delete it, everybody will find it strange. It's not like they are really ridiculing me anyway, so don't take it to heart."

Justin narrowed his eyes, but then suddenly smiled and said, "Fine. Your birthday will be here soon, though. A lot of people are planning to visit to celebrate it. Let's not turn them down."

Nora: "..."

Honestly speaking, she couldn't be bothered to celebrate her birthday. If she had that much time to spare, she'd rather catch up on sleep.

But since Justin had put it that way, if she continued to turn him down, it would make her seem a little unappreciative.

So, she nodded and replied, "Okay."

—

There were still a few days to Nora's birthday, so after Cheryl clinched the champion title, she hurriedly returned to the club for more training.

On the day of her return, Lionel and the others decorated the clubhouse in celebration of her victory.

Although they now knew that she was a Hunt, they had indeed gotten along very well during the past month, so they didn't shun Cheryl.

Lionel, in particular, even wagged his brows and said, "Hey, God C. Why did you hide your true capabilities? You should have just told us that you're a master marksman!"

A surprised Cheryl replied, "But I'm really not that good at shooting. Dad, Mom, and my brothers all outshine me at it."

Lionel: "?"

He swallowed hard. "But didn't you say that shooting was your hobby...?"

"Uh-huh! Shooting is my hobby, just not my favorite one. I also like skiing, jogging, long jump, and swimming. Among those hobbies, I'm the weakest at shooting. That's why I can't really be bothered to spend much time training in it!"

The Olympics had age requirements for all the disciplines, but the one for shooting was the lowest, so Cheryl had participated in that. However, as every participant was only allowed to take part in three disciplines¹ at the most, Cheryl would only be able to sign up for a maximum of three disciplines in the next iteration of the Olympics four years later. She was still considering what she should sign up for.

Everyone: "??"

All of them were flabbergasted. "What are you the best at, then?"

Cheryl raised the keyboard she was holding and replied, "Gaming, of course. Didn't I already say so?"

"..."

Lionel's lip corners spasmed a little.

Suddenly, he said, “What a shame.”

“What’s wrong?”

Puzzled, Cheryl cocked her head to the side.

Lionel gave her a wry smile and replied, “Considering how smart you are, it’s a real shame that you’re not spending your time on scientific research beneficial to humanity, instead!”

Games could indeed make one a champion.

So could the Olympics.

However, neither had as great an impact on humanity as scientific research.

Lionel wasn’t looking down on gaming or the Olympics. He merely thought that if Cheryl had the ability to invent something that could benefit humanity, then wouldn’t that be a better use of her superior intelligence?

However, Cheryl said, “...Nah, it’s not a shame!”

Before Lionel could reply, Cheryl explained, “I’m already doing that!”

Had Cheryl only been studying all this time?

Nope!

After she completed her studies, she also delved into scientific research.

For one, she was interested in human genetics. For another, the gene serum hadn’t been thoroughly destroyed and still existed in the world. Cheryl wanted to study and invent a real, proper gene serum that could bring out a human being’s potential yet not harm their genes or reduce their lifespan.

A serum like that would be a lifesaver for a lot of patients.

It could even improve the constitution of someone with poor health or the genes of people with hereditary diseases...

Justin had even gotten in touch with Harvard University and sponsored a huge sum of money to set up a research project exclusive to his daughter.

However, all that would only be set into motion after Cheryl won the gaming competition.

As they said, slow and steady wins the race!

Lionel: “!!!!!”

Everyone else: “!!!!!”

Even Zac, someone seen as a golden boy and one of the standouts in San Francisco, suddenly felt a little small next to Cheryl.

He was an outstanding man, but compared to Cheryl’s mutant-like family members, he was a far ways off.

—

A few days later, it was Nora’s birthday.

A few reporters sneaked over furtively to the entrance of the Hunts’ residence.

“Sigh, I’m surprised that news of Mrs. Hunt’s birthday was leaked. I can’t tell if the Hunts were just too careless or what...”

“Who cares? Any photographs we take would trend anyway! Even now, the topic about why Mrs. Hunt didn’t study properly is still going viral!”

“Yeah, what kind of sheer dumb luck was it that allowed Mrs. Hunt to marry Mr. Hunt and even give birth to such amazing kids? This must be because Mr. Hunt has superior genes! Although, I’ve heard that mothers contribute a lot to how intelligent a child is!”

“Haha! The Hunts have totally proven how untrue this statement is.”

“Mrs. Hunt was a Smith. The Smiths are also very clever and shockingly capable, so in terms of genetics, she must also be very intelligent. It’s just a shame because I heard she grew up in the boonies. Her talents must have gone to waste!”

“Yeah! I also heard that she grew up in a small town in California and has never attended school... For someone like her to marry Mr. Hunt, this must be a political marriage between the Hunts and the Smiths. Mrs. Hunt is so lucky! You can pretty much say that she’s a winner in life without even needing to do anything!”

“Shh, a guest is here. Let’s see who they are...”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1039

Chapter 1039: A Birthday Party Filled With Big Bosses (2)

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

“Eh? Isn’t that Lisa Black, the famous neurosurgeon? Why is she here?”

After her stint as Anti’s postgraduate student, Lisa joined the medical field immediately after graduation. She was now a well-known doctor specializing in neurology in the country.

With her and Lily around, Nora had more or less stopped performing operations.

She only had one operation scheduled per month.

To keep her life quiet and peaceful, she gradually removed her identity as Anti from the public eye and slowly became low-profile. Apart from the cohorts of students from Lisa’s schooling days, there was nobody who knew about Nora’s identity as Anti now.

However, what made Lisa well-known was that to date, she was Anti’s one and only postgraduate student. She could be said to be Anti’s direct successor.

The reporters were astonished to see her.

Lisa was very well-respected in the medical field and she had innumerable people in line hoping for her to operate on them or treat their illnesses. She had become particularly famous over the last two years and coincidentally had been interviewed recently, so both reporters knew who she was.

One of them said, “I seem to recall that Dr. Black is married to Louis Smith, the sixth son of the Smiths. So, it’s not surprising that she would turn up, right?”

“That’s true. I heard that Dr. Black and Mrs. Hunt both lived in the same town in California back then. They are probably old friends.”

“Hm, yeah, it’s perfectly normal that she would show up...”

As the two reporters conversed with each other, another car approached. Through the window, they saw that the passenger in the car was the most famous doctor in alternative medicine practice in New York at the moment.

He was Dr. Silvester Zabe’s grandson.

Eight years ago, after Dr. Zabe passed away from poor health, his grandson took over the helm and began to study alternative medicine, eventually becoming the chairman of the Alternative Medicine Association in New York.

He held an esteemed position in the circle.

However, he had no relations to either the Smiths or the Hunts, so why was he here?

Both reporters were dumbfounded.

Due to Dr. Zabe’s position in the alternative medicine field, everyone in New York respected the family a lot. Thus, the chairman also held a highly esteemed position in the field. It was said that he had learned all his skills from the only disciple that Dr. Zabe had ever taken. Dr. Zabe’s disciple was said to be younger than him, but nobody knew who they were and they rarely made an appearance.

“... The Hunts are the number one family, after all. It’s understandable that the chairman would show up to support them.”

“Yeah...”

The two reporters continued to converse between themselves.

Then, they saw more people approaching. Some were famous personalities and some were celebrities. To sum it up, all the big bosses from various fields and circles had turned up, making the reporters' jaws drop.

The two exchanged a look. One of them said, "The Hunts really are impressive, huh. I heard that big bosses only hang out with fellow big bosses, so it's understandable that those people would be on good terms with the Hunts..."

"When you think of it that way, Mrs. Hunt sure has it tough. She definitely wouldn't have anything in common with any of them. Also, even though all those big bosses have turned up because of Mr. Hunt, deep down, they must secretly look down on Mrs. Hunt..."

Just as the two were speculating, a butler suddenly walked toward them.

Shocked, the reporters hastily turned to flee.

But the moment they turned, they found that the Hunts' bodyguards were right behind them.

The reporters panicked and hurriedly apologized. "Sorry, sorry! We'll leave right away..."

However, the butler smiled and said, "Please don't misunderstand, sirs. Mr. Hunt would like to invite the two of you into the house."

The reporters: "???"

They were dumbfounded. However, the butler didn't look like he was joking, so they followed behind him in trepidation and entered the Hunt manor.

In a show of goodwill, the reporters promised, "Don't worry, we won't make up any stories in our articles!"

However, the butler said seriously, "Oh, you have it wrong. Mr. Hunt would like the two of you to truthfully report what you see here!"

"..."

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1040

Chapter 1040: A Birthday Party Filled With Big Bosses (3)

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

When the reporters joined the party, their eyes widened even further.

Big bosses whom they hadn't seen at the entrance were at the party too. This party must be a top-secret one for sure, right? There were so many influential figures here! Any one of them easily made headlines in the news.

The Queen of the UK and Princess Lucy were here...

So was Karl Moore, the boss of an overseas security service...

Even the internationally famous star Kelvin Hart was here...

And that wasn't all...

The most renowned hacker Solo was also here!

Solo, who had been active in the United States the last few years, had assisted the police in solving numerous cases and was currently under employment in the United States. His claim to fame came when he represented the United States in an international network breach and defense competition and clinched the champion title.

There were also many other familiar faces commonly seen on TV...

One of them was Logan Anderson who had represented the United States in a car racing competition and emerged as champion.

The reporters were dumbfounded.

Why were there so many people here?!

Had this been Justin's birthday party, the guest list would make complete sense, but it wasn't! It was Mrs. Hunt's!

It didn't matter how much Justin doted on his wife because those big bosses would never go along with his frivolous demands.

What was going on?

The reporters parked themselves somewhere and squatted down.

They knew that if they wanted to know what was going on, all they had to do was wait. Once the guests started to present their gifts, they would eventually talk. When that happened, all would be clear.

—

Nora didn't notice the reporters at all.

She yawned and looked at the bunch of familiar faces in front of her.

She had already spotted Kelvin long ago, but she merely raised her brows and looked at Justin.

The cousins certainly bore a striking resemblance to each other. With a bit of makeup, they would look like they were one and the same. Back then, when she had been overseas, Kelvin had even hit on her. However, after everything ended, Justin had explained everything to her.

It was imperative that he did so. Otherwise, it would be awfully awkward if a misunderstanding formed between his cousin and his wife.

Kelvin was exceptionally respectful toward Nora now, and he didn't behave as roguishly as Justin had when he was impersonating him.

Something worth mentioning was that Kelvin was now in a relationship with Sheril Anderson.

After her boyfriend cheated on her, Sheril had thrown herself into her research. For the longest time, there was no love interest in her life—until she met Kelvin one day.

As an international superstar, Kelvin was simply too dashing.

When he confessed to her, Sheril completely fell for him.

The couple had already secretly gotten married. After all, Sheril only wanted to lead a peaceful life as a researcher and coop herself up in the pharmacy to study new drugs. She didn't want reporters tailing her and keeping tabs on her private life.

Both of them were currently focusing on their careers, so they hadn't had any children yet. This greatly troubled Nora's aunt, Melissa Anderson. She urged, "You're already 33 years old. If you put this off any longer, you'll face much higher pregnancy risks!"

Logan, who was next to them, said, "Yeah, Mom's right, Sheril. I want a niece or a nephew too!"

Sheril looked at Kelvin.

Kelvin rubbed his nose and suddenly said, "We'll try for a kid when Logan finds a girlfriend. There's no hurry..."

His words diverted Melissa's attention at once. She turned straight to Logan and said, "He's right! How come you haven't found a single girlfriend yet?!"

Logan: "!!"

His brother-in-law was as devious as Justin!

The family's banter with one another was a heartwarming sight.

Nora smiled. Suddenly, someone leaned toward her. Solo asked, "Hey, Anti. Why isn't Brenny here yet?"

Though he had found a proper job and was already in his early thirties, Solo surprisingly still looked as young and handsome as he did back then.

Nora raised her brows at his question.

She asked, “It’s already been so many years, but you still haven’t succeeded in wooing her?”

A bleak look flashed across Solo’s eyes.

He scratched his head and replied, “Well, you know how it is. Both Brenny and I don’t believe in marriage, so there’s not much point in obsessing over whether I’ve managed to woo her or not. I just haven’t seen her in two months, so I miss her a lot...”

Nora: “...”

The two of them could be said to be star-crossed lovers.

Solo had unknowingly been an accomplice in the events that led to the death of Brenda’s teammate, and Brenda simply couldn’t get over it or let it go.

Nora asked curiously, “Didn’t she already let it go after that case from five years ago?”

Solo and Brenda had worked together that time to catch a criminal.

To protect Brenda, Solo had taken a bullet to the chest.

A tearful Brenda had called Nora in the middle of the night, who then hurried over in a helicopter to operate on Solo. Only then did he manage to escape death.

They had already reconciled in the hospital ward at that time.

Brenda had also finally relented and forgiven Solo!

The two had even gotten engaged...

But for some unknown reason, the couple had separated again later.

Solo gave Nora a resigned smile when he heard her question.

At this point, they heard some noise coming from the entrance. The pair turned to see Brenda striding into the room.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1041

Chapter 1041: A Birthday Party Filled With Big Bosses (4)

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Brenda hadn't changed much. She merely looked more mature now, which made her even more charming and alluring. Dressed in a short red formal dress, her hips twisted from side to side when she walked, forming a sensual and alluring sight.

The moment she entered, she attracted everyone's gaze.

Her lips curled into a smile. However, when her gaze flitted past Solo, she avoided his eyes slightly. Then, she went up to Nora with a smile and said, "Happy 18th birthday, Nora!"

Nora: "..."

She glanced at Solo quietly and then yawned and said, "Yeah, thanks. Justin is looking for me. You guys go ahead and chat."

Then, she turned and left.

Brenda hurriedly followed after her. "Hey, Nora. It's been more than two months since we last met. Don't you miss me?"

"Nope, but someone else does," replied Nora.

As soon as she said that, an aggrieved Solo followed Brenda at the side. He looked at her innocently and said, "Brenny, I miss you so much. Where were you the last two months?"

Brenda rolled her eyes. "You're simply so... We've already broken up. Why are you still saying such mushy things?"

“I didn’t agree to it...”

“Even so, we’ve still broken up. If you pester me any further, you’ll become a huge nuisance.”

After speaking, Brenda’s gaze swept across everyone in the room. Then, she sighed and said, “I thought there would be at least a few hotties at your birthday party, Nora, but they are all people I know. It’s not going to be easy for me to hit on them!”

“...”

Nora hesitated for a moment. Her gaze also swept across the people in the room, eventually stopping when she spotted Morris Ford. She said, “I think Captain Ford is still single.”

Brenda’s eyes lit up. “Captain Ford is strong and muscular. He’s much better than a certain somebody’s tiny weak-a*s physique. What a pity that I still haven’t had a taste of it.

“...”

After so many years of friendship, Nora now understood Brenda very well. The woman just liked mouthing off. She said awfully lascivious things, but she didn’t have the guts to act on her words at all.

She didn’t pay any more attention to the two of them but walked off to the side instead.

A well-behaved Philip Coleman was currently following after Iris at the back. Both of them had gotten on in years, and Philip had finally become much more at peace.

As he followed after Iris, he said, “Um, Iris. It’s my birthday next month. Can you come for the celebration?”

Iris was gentle but firm as she answered, “It’s too far. I’m not going.”

“... But I’m hosting the birthday party right here in New York!”

Iris: “...”

Philip sighed and said, “I know I went overboard in the past, and I’ve really reflected on my mistakes. Besides, I don’t have a successor to my Imperial League account yet. How about... I mean, look at how outstanding Cherry, Pete, and Xander are. It doesn’t make sense if they don’t have accounts in there, right?”

Iris: “...”

The man might have claimed that he had changed, but he could never resist attempting to bribe people with benefits.

She was about to reply when a voice reached them. “It’s fine, they already have accounts, thanks.”

Given that Justin was King, the boss of the Imperial League, how could the three little guys possibly not have accounts in there?

Joel’s account had been passed on to the Smiths.

Nora’s “cat” account would be Cherry’s in the future.

Xander was already slated to be the next King, so the only one left without an account was Pete. However, they could just add him to the group later.

To join the Imperial League, one must obtain recommendations from three members... Alternatively, King could directly add them to the group, too.

No matter which method it was, there wouldn’t be a problem.

Philip: “...”

He couldn’t help but glance at Nora. He heaved a quiet sigh and asked, “Will you come to my birthday party next month?”

Iris: “...”

Philip lowered his head and sighed. “I don’t have children and I have already aged. I’m already in my fifties this year, and my nephews have started to eye my position... I don’t have anyone who truly cares for me by my side anymore...”

However, Iris cut him off. “You have a ton of girls willing to bear you children even at your age, don’t you?”

Philip paused.

Iris said seriously, “Once you age, you’ll find that it really is very lonely if you don’t have children. I already have grandchildren of my own, so I really am very content with my life now. But what about you? At my age, I can’t conceive anymore. You should look for a young woman instead.”

To be honest, this was also part of the reason she had been rejecting Philip’s requests to reconcile all these years.

However, Philip’s expression darkened. “Those women are only interested in my money. Is there any point in a life like that?! I’d rather die old and alone than have a wife and kids like that.”

At the bottom of it all, the man was still the same as before.

Iris looked at him. “Why do you insist on doing that to yourself?”

Philip looked back at her. “Then what about you? You have been living your entire life for your mother, your son, and now your grandchildren. When are you ever going to live for yourself? We are already approaching our sixties. Iris, ask yourself this—do you really not love me at all?”

“...”

Iris fell silent.

Seeing her reaction, Nora knew at once that Iris still had feelings for Philip.

It was just that everything that had happened in the past had eroded her passion.

She took a couple of steps back, thinking to herself that there was still a possibility of reconciliation between the two.

But when she turned her head, she saw two unfamiliar faces staring at her. Puzzled, Nora raised her brows. However, when she saw the cameras in their hands, she suddenly realized that they were reporters.

After keeping quiet for half a day, the reporters had reached their limit. In their opinion, Mrs. Hunt was likely the most easy-going person in the room. After all, among all the big bosses in there, she was the most down-to-earth.

Thus, they asked, “Mrs. Hunt, these people... Why are they so polite to you?”

Nora: “?”

Chapter 1042

Chapter 1042: A Birthday Party Filled With Big Bosses (5)

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Nora raised her brows. However, before she could answer, Lisa suddenly walked over. The woman, who was full of smiles, was completely engrossed in her life as a surgeon these days. With her life happy and worry-free, she didn't notice the two reporters at all.

She said sincerely, "Happy birthday, Nora!"

Nora didn't pay any more attention to the reporters.

When she noticed the reporters, she immediately understood something.

Obviously, showing off his daughter wasn't enough for Justin, so he was also showing off his wife now.

The corners of her lips spasmed a little as she nodded at Lisa. Then, she said, "I heard you performed neurosurgery last week. Was the patient..."

She began to ask questions related to the professional know-how of the operation.

Lisa listened to her seriously. Toward the end, enlightenment dawned upon her and she exclaimed, "So, that's how it is! Nora, if I had discussed this with you beforehand, those post-surgery problems wouldn't have happened! I shouldn't have skipped discussing this with you when you're my mentor."

However, Nora shook her head and said, "If you discuss every operation with me beforehand, how are you going to learn and gain experience? Besides, your operations are already perfect as they are now!"

There was no lack of patients in the country, so this was a good opportunity for Lisa to practice her skills and improve.

Although this wasn't very fair to the patients in her care before she fully matured as a surgeon, that was how reality worked. If Nora interfered with everything Lisa did, the young woman would never be able to stand on her own.

Besides, should she really meet with a crisis of life and death, Nora would help for sure anyway.

Lisa was already the top neurosurgeon in the country. She would eventually become a doctor whose skills were on par with Anti's!

After the discussion, Solo returned and started to pester Nora.

Lisa wisely stepped back.

The reporters took the opportunity to step forward at this point. They looked at Lisa and asked, "Dr. Black, why did you refer to Mrs. Hunt as your mentor? Isn't your mentor Dr. Anti?"

Lisa: "?"

Upon hearing the question, she looked at the reporters.

Only then did she notice the gadgets they were holding. When she thought of the joke going around the Internet recently, she smiled and replied, "Didn't you just answer the question yourself?"

The reporters: "?"

As they watched Lisa leave, the pair exchanged a look with each other, both their brains malfunctioning for a split second. Suddenly, a realization hit one of them. "Is Mrs. Hunt Dr. Anti?"

The other reporter replied, "I remember now! Anti had come to the States back then! Let me check the news from ten years ago!"

With that, the reporter started to look up news from ten years ago.

Cameras were already highly advanced then. So, when he saw news reports from that period...

As expected, Mrs. Hunt was indeed Dr. Anti!!

The pair looked somewhere a distance away where Quentin Smith and Lily were standing together. Though Quentin had suffered devastating injuries back then, he had regained the ability to stand now.

As Nora's assistant, Lily was an excellent surgeon. She was good-looking and knew exactly how to handle Quentin.

When Quentin and Lily noticed the reporters looking at them, they leaned closer to each other and posed with victory signs at them, seemingly hoping that the reporters would snap a picture for them.

After posing for a while, Quentin refused to do it anymore. He said, "Alright, alright, that's enough! You look so silly doing this!"

Lily retorted, "No matter how silly I look, I'm not going to look sillier than you. Who's the one who claimed that he was going to protect his cousin but ended up being protected by her in the end?"

Being reminded of how he had been a teen who harbored delusions of grandeur in the past, Quentin turned as red as a tomato. "Ugh, don't say any more..."

However, Lily stepped forward and pinched his cheek. "How rare, you're actually blushing. You don't even blush when we do it at night anymore... It's a good thing that Boss saved you and helped you regain mobility. Otherwise, how boring would it be if I'm always the one on top?"

... Lily really hasn't changed at all, Quentin thought to himself.

He coughed and said, "Alright, it's your boss' birthday today, so quit the dirty jokes already! Go and give her your well-wishes!"

“... Fine!”

The reporters standing in the distance were flabbergasted.

However, they quickly understood what was going on. “I see, so that’s how it is! Mrs. Hunt is Dr. Anti, that’s why she is so popular! Think about it, people can fall sick anytime. That’s why it’s imperative that people maintain cordial relationships with her!”

It was just that...

Although these people were also friendly and polite to Lisa, why did they seem to be more respectful toward Mrs. Hunt?

Just as they were utterly perplexed, they heard the conversation between Solo, the world-famous hacker, and Nora.

“I’m thinking of hacking into Brenny’s computer to search for clues and see what exactly she’s thinking. Can you disable your firewall?”

“No, I can’t.”

Nora rejected his request coldly.

A grumpy look appeared on Solo’s face at once.

Nora looked at him. “You two should talk it out face-to-face if there’s a problem. It’s exactly because you didn’t have any moral boundaries in the past and did whatever was asked of you, as long as you were paid for your services, that Barbarian successfully made use of you to hurt her. Do you want that to happen again?”

Her censuring words made Solo hang his head, and he heaved a quiet sigh.

It was true that he acted with barely any moral boundaries in the past. Short of taking someone else’s life, he had pretty much been willing to do just about anything.

He couldn’t even realize when someone made use of him.

Now that he was officially employed, he faced restrictions in everything he did. He had originally been rather unhappy about that, but Nora's words made him realize something.

People shouldn't be allowed to do as they please all the time. Sometimes, restrictions are also a form of protection.

He nodded. "Alright."

After Nora left, Solo got ready to approach Brenda again. However, when he turned around, he immediately spotted the two reporters standing next to him. They looked at him hopefully and asked, "Mr. Solo, you are a computer expert and champion of a hacker competition yourself, so why are you still begging Mrs. Hunt for help?"

Solo raised his brows. "Don't you guys know who she is? Try looking up the news from ten years ago!"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1043

Chapter 1043: A Birthday Party Filled With Big Bosses (6)

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

News from ten years ago again?

The reporters traveling here and there for news scoops these days were no longer the same ones from ten years ago. Therefore, it was perfectly understandable that they wouldn't know of incidents that happened a decade ago.

When the reporters heard Solo, they again buried their heads into their phones to search for news from a decade ago.

And the moment they did...

Guess what they found.

Mrs. Hunt was actually Q?

Even though numerous experts had emerged in the world of hackers in the last few years, Q and Y's positions had remained rock-solid!

The reporters swallowed hard. They turned and looked at Nora in unison, finding the whole thing more and more unbelievable.

How did this happen?!

How could this be?!

As they looked at each other, they noticed Logan approaching Nora. He said, "A race is coming up in a few days. They would like to invite you to join the panel of judges. Are you interested?"

“Nah.”

Nora yawned and added, “I’d rather sleep.”

“...”

Logan pressed his lips together. Although he was unhappy, he nevertheless uttered an “oh”. The reporters feigned nonchalance and slowly crept closer, where they heard Logan grumble, “A lot of people want to meet you, Yanci, and many of them are your fans. But I guess they just aren’t lucky enough to get the chance, unlike me who lucked out because we’re cousins.”

The reporters: “!!!”

Were their ears playing tricks on them?!

Never mind that Mrs. Hunt was not only Anti but also Q. Was she Yanci too?

Didn’t she have too many hidden identities?

Could she get any more amazing?!

And it didn’t end there. The reporters even saw the most influential bigwig of the alternative medicine circle coming over and addressing her as his mentor. Didn’t that mean that she was that mysterious disciple of Dr. Zabe’s?!

When they observed Karl and the others, they noticed that they also treated her exceptionally respectfully...

The reporters were dumbfounded.

The social status of Karl and the other guests—such as the Queen and so on—meant that information on them was already beyond the limits of what the reporters could access. Therefore, no matter how respectful they were to Mrs. Hunt, the reporters would never ever understand why.

Things had gone completely beyond their wildest imagination.

There was no way Mrs. Hunt could possibly be a spy or a special agent, right?

The pair, who were utterly dumbfounded, shook in their boots as they hid in a corner... They felt like any of the big bosses in front of them could easily crush them with a mere finger.

Just as they were feeling lost and frightened, Justin suddenly appeared in front of them.

The reporters swallowed.

With his hands in his pockets, Justin glanced at them and asked leisurely, “Didn’t you want to interview me?”

One of the reporters was silly enough to ask, “M-Mr. Hunt, when did we request to interview you...?”

After all, Justin was someone high up in the air and usually remained low-key. The only times he ever behaved flamboyantly were when he showed off his daughter. Therefore, he rarely ever accepted interview requests from reporters.

However, the other reporter suddenly realized something and quickly said, “Yes, yes! We wanted to interview you!”

“Yeah, then let’s get on with it.”

Justin adjusted his tie and cleared his throat lightly.

The reporters: “...”

They couldn’t help but be lost for words—it wasn’t like they had prepared a script!

The more quick-witted reporter of the two asked sheepishly, “Uh, Mr. Hunt, what... was the topic of our interview again?”

Justin glanced at him and replied, “It’s my wife’s birthday today. Didn’t you want to know about my relationship with her?”

“Ah, yes, yes, that’s right! What are your comments on that, Mr. Hunt?”

Justin’s gaze shifted to the center of the venue where his wife was surrounded by the big bosses of various industries. As he watched her shuffle among the guests lazily like a big boss, the corners of his lips curled into a smile and he said, “I’m lucky to have her as my wife—because otherwise, she would have been out of my league.”

“ ... ”

...

Amid the reporters’ astonishment, the birthday party finally came to an end.

When the dumbfounded pair exited the party, a group of reporters outside immediately came forward and surrounded them.

It was Mrs. Hunt’s birthday party that day, so it went without saying that all of them would be there.

When they saw the pair, looks of envy appeared on all of their faces. Someone asked, “Did you manage to take any pictures?”

“Yeah! Those big bosses only came because of Mr. Hunt, right?”

Someone even made a reference to the joke trending online and asked, “Did you guys manage to find out anything? So, why didn’t Mrs. Hunt study properly?”

Chapter 1044

Chapter 1044: Feelings That She Shouldn't Have

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

The reporters: “???”

The corners of their lips spasmed.

At the sight of their reaction, the other reporters immediately asked, “Come on, what on earth happened inside? I heard that Mrs. Hunt didn't even graduate from elementary school. Did you guys manage to interview her?”

“... No, we didn't.”

The two reporters answered.

Disdain filled the other reporters at once. “Meh, Mrs. Hunt is probably the most easy-going one in the party today because the rest are all big bosses... Yet you didn't even manage to interview her... Did you even manage to interview anyone?”

“... We interviewed Mr. Hunt.” The two reporters answered.

“...”

After a moment of silence, a huge buzz went through the other reporters.

“What?”

“Mr. Hunt agreed to the interview?”

“How can that be?! Don't you know that Mr. Hunt is the hardest person to get an interview with?! Besides, most of the guests today only came because of Mr. Hunt, which goes to show just how impressive of a man he is... Why would he accept an interview request from you two...?”

Someone even directly offered the two reporters cigarettes and asked ingratiatingly, “Bro, did Mr. Hunt say anything? Can you tell us some of it? Come on, it won’t hurt to share a little, right...?”

The reporters: “...”

One of them scratched his head and said, “Uh, actually, we are allowed to share the content of the interview.”

Justin had tasked them with it.

He wanted them all to “clarify the rumors” for his wife—even if he was just blatantly showing off his wife throughout the whole interview, despite using the word “clarify”.

As for the two reporters, they had been utterly stunned after learning about Nora’s true identities. They coughed and then said, “Let’s find somewhere and have an in-depth talk about this.”

—

Though the party didn’t last long, the guests had specially made their way over from various corners of the earth, so they didn’t leave that early.

Fortunately, the Hunts’ manor was more than spacious enough to house them.

The men gathered and chatted with one another.

The women also gathered by themselves.

Cheryl and Mia were playing with the latter’s younger brother whom Tanya and Joel had later conceived. The five-year-old boy was especially lively and adorable and loved sticking to Cheryl. He stared at her with rapture and said, “You’re so pretty, Cherry. Can you marry me when I grow up?”

The reporters: “???”

The corners of their lips spasmed.

At the sight of their reaction, the other reporters immediately asked, “Come on, what on earth happened inside? I heard that Mrs. Hunt didn’t even graduate from elementary school. Did you guys manage to interview her?”

“... No, we didn’t.”

The two reporters answered.

Disdain filled the other reporters at once. “Meh, Mrs. Hunt is probably the most easy-going one in the party today because the rest are all big bosses... Yet you didn’t even manage to interview her... Did you even manage to interview anyone?”

“... We interviewed Mr. Hunt.” The two reporters answered.

“...”

After a moment of silence, a huge buzz went through the other reporters.

“What?”

“Mr. Hunt agreed to the interview?”

“How can that be?! Don’t you know that Mr. Hunt is the hardest person to get an interview with?! Besides, most of the guests today only came because of Mr. Hunt, which goes to show just how impressive of a man he is... Why would he accept an interview request from you two...?”

Someone even directly offered the two reporters cigarettes and asked ingratiatingly, “Bro, did Mr. Hunt say anything? Can you tell us some of it? Come on, it won’t hurt to share a little, right...?”

The reporters: “...”

One of them scratched his head and said, “Uh, actually, we are allowed to share the content of the interview.”

Justin had tasked them with it.

He wanted them all to “clarify the rumors” for his wife—even if he was just blatantly showing off his wife throughout the whole interview, despite using the word “clarify”.

As for the two reporters, they had been utterly stunned after learning about Nora’s true identities. They coughed and then said, “Let’s find somewhere and have an in-depth talk about this.”

—

Though the party didn’t last long, the guests had specially made their way over from various corners of the earth, so they didn’t leave that early.

Fortunately, the Hunts’ manor was more than spacious enough to house them.

The men gathered and chatted with one another.

The women also gathered by themselves.

Cheryl and Mia were playing with the latter’s younger brother whom Tanya and Joel had later conceived. The five-year-old boy was especially lively and adorable and loved sticking to Cheryl. He stared at her with rapture and said, “You’re so pretty, Cherry. Can you marry me when I grow up?”

“...Sure!” replied Cheryl.

Her reply made the little guy jump up and down in delight. Then, he looked around and asked, “Where’s Pete?”

It wasn’t a milestone birthday for Nora today, so it wasn’t a particularly formal celebration party. As Pete was doing research work overseas, he didn’t specially return for the party.

Come to think of it, Peter had already been away for a very long while.

Cheryl pouted and replied, “I don’t know. He seems very busy, though. I think his research is in a very crucial phase right now, so he doesn’t even contact us now...”

Cheryl glanced at Mia carefully after she spoke. Though the latter didn’t show any particular reaction, Cheryl noticed that there was ultimately still some disappointment in her eyes. Thus, she said, “He didn’t even come back for my competition a while back! My club is already the champion in the country, though, so we’ll be going overseas to compete next month. The competition happens to be in the same city that Pete is currently living in, so I’ll visit him then! I’ll tell him to call Mia!”

Mia’s cheeks turned red immediately. “N-no, you don’t have to...”

The girl was soft-spoken, and her face was small with a pointed chin, making her the picture of a classic beauty. She said, “Um, I suddenly recall that I still have some assignments to complete. I’ll get going now.”

Mia got up. After notifying Tanya and Joel, she left immediately.

Cheryl was a little stunned to see her like this.

It seemed like Mia’s eyes had reddened just now?

However, ever since they grew up, the relationship between Pete and Mia had become rather strange.

She heaved a quiet sigh. When she suddenly noticed that Joel and Ian had gone to the balcony, she followed after them. However, the moment she went near, she heard Joel say, “Dad, I’m thinking of giving half of the Smith Corporation’s shares to Nora.”

Ian was taken aback. “Why?”

Then, he frowned and asked, “Did your parents approach you again?”

Joel kept quiet for a moment before he finally replied, "... They want Warren to inherit the family business."

"Fools!" Ian cursed furiously. Then, he sighed and said, "No matter what, you will always be a Smith in my eyes, Joel!"

However, Joel hesitated for a moment and then said, "But I'm ultimately just an adopted child..."

"Hah!" Ian sneered and said, "So what even if you're adopted? Does that make you any worse than a child with blood ties to the family? It's not always blood ties that make a family, a family... When they couldn't conceive and secretly adopted you back then, they told everyone that you were their biological son. Yet when they finally managed to conceive their own child, they abandoned you... You don't need parents like them!"

Joel clenched his jaw.

Childhood memories flooded his mind.

As the eldest child of the Smiths, the family had had high hopes for him since he was little.

But he could never understand why his parents treated his younger brother so well but were always so callous toward him, and even wished for his death at times.

It wasn't until he heard the real reason one day that he finally understood—he was adopted.

In the fight with Ian over the inheritance of family assets, children were also a bargaining chip. Therefore, his father had never once told outsiders about it. It could be said that there were no more than five people who were aware of the truth.

Even his cousins and siblings among the Smiths were not aware of it.

Back then, when Ian wanted to adopt a child from among his siblings' families, he had selected him. Joel's parents had gotten into a huge row with

Ian because of this, and it was also during that incident that Joel learned the truth.

—

On the way back to the Smiths', Mia held her cell phone in the car, unable to make up her mind for the longest time.

She missed Pete very much.

She knew that she had developed some feelings for Pete that she shouldn't have... He must have sensed it too, right? That was why he had distanced himself from her...

They hadn't contacted each other for over a year.

She had been studying very hard in hopes of enrolling in Harvard, so that she could visit the school that Pete had studied in and also go abroad after that... but she didn't dare to tell anyone.

From Cheryl's perspective, it seemed that Mia and Pete had fallen out, but in truth, that wasn't the case.

She heaved a quiet sigh and put down her cell phone in the end.

These feelings shouldn't exist. She would just hide them deep down in her heart... and keep them from being discovered by others.

"...Sure!" replied Cheryl.

Her reply made the little guy jump up and down in delight. Then, he looked around and asked, "Where's Pete?"

It wasn't a milestone birthday for Nora today, so it wasn't a particularly formal celebration party. As Pete was doing research work overseas, he didn't return for the party.

Come to think of it, Peter had already been away for a very long while.

Cheryl pouted and replied, “I don’t know. He seems very busy, though. I think his research is in a very crucial phase right now, so he doesn’t even contact us now...”

1

Cheryl glanced at Mia carefully after she spoke. Though the latter didn’t show any particular reaction, Cheryl noticed that there was ultimately still some disappointment in her eyes. Thus, she said, “He didn’t even come back for my competition a while back! My club is already the champion in the country, though, so we’ll be going overseas to compete next month. The competition happens to be in the same city that Pete is currently living in, so I’ll visit him then! I’ll tell him to call Mia!”

Mia’s cheeks turned red immediately. “N-no, you don’t have to...”

The girl was soft-spoken, and her face was small with a pointed chin, making her the picture of a classic beauty. She said, “Um, I suddenly recall that I still have some assignments to complete. I’ll get going now.”

Mia got up. After notifying Tanya and Joel, she left immediately.

Cheryl was a little stunned to see her like this.

It seemed like Mia’s eyes had reddened just now?

However, ever since they grew up, the relationship between Pete and Mia had become rather strange.

She heaved a quiet sigh. When she suddenly noticed that Joel and Ian had gone to the balcony, she followed after them. However, the moment she went near, she heard Joel say, “Dad, I’m thinking of giving half of the Smith Corporation’s shares to Nora.”

Ian was taken aback. “Why?”

Then, he frowned and asked, “Did your parents approach you again?”

1

Joel kept quiet for a moment before he finally replied, "... They want Warren to inherit the family business."

"Fools!" Ian cursed furiously. Then, he sighed and said, "No matter what, you will always be a Smith in my eyes, Joel!"

However, Joel hesitated for a moment and then said, "But I'm ultimately just an adopted child..."

"Hah!" Ian sneered and said, "So what even if you're adopted? Does that make you any worse than a child with blood ties to the family? It's not always blood ties that make a family, a family... When they couldn't conceive and secretly adopted you back then, they told everyone that you were their biological son. Yet when they finally managed to conceive their own child, they abandoned you... You don't need parents like them!"

Joel clenched his jaw.

Childhood memories flooded his mind.

As the eldest child of the Smiths, the family had had high hopes for him since he was little.

But he could never understand why his parents treated his younger brother so well but were always so callous toward him, and even wished for his death at times.

It wasn't until he heard the real reason one day that he finally understood—he was adopted.

In the fight with Ian over the inheritance of family assets, children were also a bargaining chip. Therefore, his father had never once told outsiders about it. It could be said that there were no more than five people who were aware of the truth.

Even his cousins and siblings among the Smiths were not aware of it.

Back then, when Ian wanted to adopt a child from among his siblings' families, he had selected him. Joel's parents had gotten into a huge row with

Ian because of this, and it was also during that incident that Joel had learned of the truth.

—

On the way back to the Smiths', Mia held her cell phone in the car, unable to make up her mind for the longest time.

She missed Pete very much.

She knew that she had developed some feelings for Pete that she shouldn't have... He must have sensed it too, right? That was why he had distanced himself from her...

They hadn't contacted each other for over a year.

She had been studying very hard in hopes of enrolling in Harvard, so that she could visit the school that Pete had studied in and also go abroad after that... but she didn't dare to tell anyone.

1

From Cheryl's perspective, it seemed that Mia and Pete had fallen out, but in truth, that wasn't the case.

She heaved a quiet sigh and put down her cell phone in the end.

These feelings shouldn't exist. She would just hide them deep down in her heart... and keep them from being discovered by others.

Chapter 1045

Chapter 1045: Abducted!!

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Mia tried to suppress her pining for Pete.

Soon, she arrived back home. She entered her study unhappily, opened up her practice papers, and began to go through them.

Even if they were not meant to be, she still wanted to chase after him and experience what he had experienced.

Mia began to study seriously.

To others, having a crush might be painful and might get one down. However, to Mia, this was her only motivation in life.

After studying for a long while, Mia gradually started to nod off.

Soon, she fell asleep at her desk.

However, it was at this moment that her cell phone suddenly beeped. On the display, the notification showed that she had received a text message. The sender was Pete.

—

At the Hunts’.

As it gradually got late, people who were supposed to leave left, and people who were supposed to rest went to rest for the night.

Nora sat in the living room and looked at Queenie.

Her aunt had also stayed single the last few years, but she remembered that she had once told her that she had a crush on someone.

Nora, who thought that she had been talking about Ian, said to Queenie, “Since you’ve returned to the States, why not continue staying here, Aunt Queenie?”

She didn’t mind Ian and Queenie becoming a couple if it meant that it would lessen the pain for both of them.

However, Queenie raised her brows and replied, “Nah.”

“Why?”

Nora walked up to her. For the first time ever, the lazy woman took the initiative to be a matchmaker. She said, “Dad has been alone all these years too. If you want, I can help you woo him.”

Queenie was taken aback. “Why would I woo your dad?”

Nora asked hesitantly, “Aren’t you in love with him?”

Queenie: “?”

She stared at Nora in a daze. It was only after a short while that she finally recovered. “When did I ever say that I’m in love with him?” She exclaimed.

“... You told me last time that you have had a crush on someone for many, many years.”

Queenie burst into laughter. “Even so, that person is not your dad!”

“Then who is it?”

Nora asked curiously.

Queenie’s cheeks suddenly turned red. After a while, she finally sighed and replied, “My feelings are considered taboo in this society, so I’ve never told anyone about it before. Besides, the person I'm in love with is already dead."

Nora: "!!"

As it turned out, she had misunderstood!

As Ian had been friendly to Queenie, and Queenie had also treated Ian well and even shown a lot of concern for his health, Nora had ended up misunderstanding.

Queenie, who seemed to notice her puzzlement, smiled and explained, "Mr. Smith and I are friends because the people we cared about, cared about us."

"People we cared about" was referring to Yvette.

"Cared about us" was referring to Ian and Queenie.

Nora looked at her with a puzzled look.

However, Queenie looked away.

In this instant, Nora suddenly understood who Queenie was in love with...

She retracted her gaze at once and said with a smile, "Aunt Queenie, I, like Mom, also hope that you can live for yourself."

"Yeah."

Queenie nodded. Then, she noticed an unfamiliar-looking man on the balcony nearby.

After a pause, she asked, "Is that Trueman?"

"Yeah."

Nora kept nothing from Queenie.

After the cosmetic surgery, Trueman now looked completely different from how he did back then. He was currently pestering Justin and trying to convince him to agree to a business deal. He said, “This is my first time doing business. What’s the big deal about working with me this once?”

Justin was about to reply when

Trueman grumbled, “You’re my younger brother, you know! And one related by blood, no less!”

Uh...

Despite ten years going by, Justin had never once told Trueman the truth, in case the latter used his position as his uncle to take advantage of him.

Nora, who was aware of Justin’s devious thoughts, broke into a smile.

While the few of them were chatting, they suddenly heard a hasty knocking at the door.

When the butler opened the door, Tanya and Joel hurriedly entered with Mia, who said, “Pete is in trouble!”

The look in Nora’s eyes turned serious at once. “What?”

Mia said, “I... I received a text message from Pete earlier this evening. In the message, he asked me how I’m doing and said that he misses the pot roast I made... but this is our secret code!”

Her eyes were wide in fear and shock, and she was shaking all over. “This sentence means that he has been abducted!!”

Chapter 1046

Chapter 1046: Going to Peter

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

He had been abducted?

Nora narrowed her eyes and looked at Justin immediately.

Both of them reacted the same way.

Others might not know that much, but Nora knew this very well—Pete had been learning martial arts from Quinn for years and was already a skilled martial artist with pretty good moves by now.

Otherwise, Justin wouldn't have had the peace of mind to let him go abroad for further studies while hiding his identity.

But why had he been abducted?

Who had abducted him?

Nora immediately turned on her computer and searched for the location where Pete's cell phone signal had been when he sent the text message. When she did, she discovered that the location from where he had sent the text message was the laboratory where he was studying and doing research work.

Nora's expression turned solemn.

After a moment's hesitation, she finally said, "Pete is likely fine."

Justin nodded. "If someone wanted to capture him, they would need at least a dozen people attacking him at the same time, but this would cause too great a commotion. Since there is no sign of Pete putting up resistance, there are two possible scenarios.”

“What are they?”

Mia asked anxiously.

Justin had already sent his men to the laboratory to investigate, but they hadn’t found any signs of struggle there. This was also the case a few hours ago; all they found were people reporting for work and knocking off work as usual.

He lowered his gaze and replied, “Pete either gave up resistance because there were too many enemies, or he deliberately allowed himself to be captured.”

Nora was also of the same opinion.

However, Mia was still very anxious. “Why would he allow himself to be captured on purpose? It’s not like he doesn’t know better!”

Even though she was terribly anxious, the adults were not surprised by her reaction.

After all, next to Nora and Justin’s trio of mutants, every other child seemed a little immature. Besides, Mia had always been timid since she was little.

Nora said, “Think about it carefully. Since he could send you a signal before he was captured, what does this mean?”

Mia paused for a moment and then answered, “It means that Pete didn’t completely lose the freedom to move and act.”

“Yes.”

Nora continued to gently explain things to her. She said, “If he wanted to resist the other party, he could have just texted Justin or me and told us directly that he had been captured, as well as who the abductors are, but he didn’t. What does this mean?”

Mia thought carefully for a while and finally realized what she meant. She replied, “It means that Pete has temporarily fallen under someone’s control, but he can still access electronic devices. His freedom has not been fully restricted, but he is unable to report the situation to outsiders. That’s why he decided to use the secret code method!”

“Yes,” Nora nodded and said, “This means that he is not in a life-threatening situation for the time being.”

Mia breathed a sigh of relief. Even so, she was still awfully anxious. She said, “Aunt Nora, hurry up and save Pete!”

Nora: “...”

Actually, she didn’t think that the situation was that serious.

Moreover, Justin had also assigned Pete secret bodyguards when he went abroad. However, the bodyguards hadn’t reported anything out of the ordinary so far, which meant that Pete was definitely still in the laboratory.

She nodded. “Okay, tomorrow, I’ll...”

But before she could finish, Mia said, “I’ve already asked Dad to get a jet ready. Why don’t we go over right away?”

Nora: “???”

The corners of Justin’s lips also spasmed. He said, “We don’t have to be in such a hurry. I’ve already received news from the secret bodyguards. They have confirmed his presence—he really is working overtime in the lab.”

However, Mia said very seriously, “Aunt Nora, Uncle Justin, don’t you understand what Pete is like? If he hadn’t been captured, he wouldn’t have texted me! Also, Pete always comes back for Aunt Nora’s birthday every year, yet he suddenly skipped it this year. This is already very odd in itself. So, let’s go over there right away!”

“...”

Under Mia's urging, the group set out in the jet overnight and headed to Manchester in the UK, where Pete currently was.

In the jet, Nora slept the whole way there.

However, the jet was awfully uncomfortable. After they got off and she confirmed with Justin once more that Pete was not in any danger, she decided to go to a hotel and catch up on sleep.

However, Mia kept urging the two of them. "Aunt Nora, let's go to Pete's lab right away! Even just a glance at him would do!"

Nora: "..."

What could she do? Mia was timid and soft-spoken. She usually didn't have much presence at home, yet for some reason, be it Nora, Justin, or even Tanya and Joel, none of them could say no to her.

No matter what request Mia made, all of them would agree to it.

Thus, the group went straight to the laboratory where Peter was.

Chapter 1047

Chapter 1047: Mia Cares For Me the Most in the Whole Family

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

The moment they arrived at the laboratory, they happened to run into a group of people who had just woken up and were getting ready to go for breakfast.

The group stopped the trio at the entrance and asked, “Our company is not a place where any Tom, Dick, or Harry can enter. Who are you?”

Mia replied, “We’re here to look for my elder brother. He’s in there right now. These are my parents. We’re here on vacation...”

The security guard glanced at Nora and Justin and then sneered, “Are you kidding me?”

Mia: “?”

The security guard said, “These two look so young. The woman can only be your elder sister at best! How can they possibly be your parents?!”

Mia: “???”

In order to minimize potential trouble, she was pretending to be Cheryl.

That was why she had claimed that Nora and Justin were her parents.

Yet the security guard wasn’t taking her word for it?

The security guard then pointed at Nora and said, “She looks twenty years old at best. How can she possibly have a child as old as you? And this guy...”

The security guard pointed at Justin and said, “He’s probably only about thirty years old?”

Justin was wearing a suit and had a stern look on his face. Even though his facial features looked young, he didn’t look like a twenty-year-old lad still wet behind the ears.

Therefore, while the security guard might be persuaded to believe that Justin was Mia’s father, there was no way he was going to believe that Nora was her mother.

“ ...”

A grouchy look took over Justin’s face.

The security guard had outright made him and Nora people from two different generations. They were about the same age, alright?!

Mia explained, “It’s true... They just look younger than most other people, that’s all.”

She took out their ID documents and showed them to the security guard. “My mom is already 34 years old this year. She gave birth to us when she was 19...”

The security guard examined the ID closely, flipping it over and over as he stared at it. At last, he believed Mia’s words and said, “Alright, I guess. Security is strict in the lab, so outsiders are not allowed into the premises. I’ll call Peter Hunt outside instead.”

Asking him to come out...?

Then this would at least mean that Pete was free to move about.

Mia heaved a sigh of relief.

The security guard then went into the reception room and summoned Peter. About five minutes later, Peter jogged over to the main entrance.

The fifteen-year-old young man was tall and handsome.

As he was going through a growth spurt, his height made him look awfully skinny as though he didn't have much strength.

He wore a loose t-shirt, and one could even faintly see the protruding shape of his spine.

Upon seeing the smile on the boy's good-looking face, Nora was relieved, and she felt that the tiring night was all worth it.

"Dad! Mom! Mia! You're here!"

Pete stopped and panted for a while. Then, he returned to his usual calm demeanor and greeted the trio.

He looked at the security guard and said, "These are my parents and younger sister. They already notified me long ago that they would be here for a vacation. Surely I can go for breakfast with them, right?"

The security guard stared hard at Pete and then replied, "Yeah, go ahead. It must have been a while since you guys met, so I'm sure you miss your family. Have a good chat with them."

He emphasized the word "chat".

Peter, however, seemed to understand something. He nodded and said, "Sure."

Then, he went up to Nora and pointed at a café opposite the road. "Let's have breakfast there!"

The group went to the café.

After ordering food, they settled down at a table. Justin asked coldly, "What on earth are you up to?"

Not only was Peter able to leave the laboratory for breakfast, but judging from how he looked, it was obvious that he hadn't run into terrible trouble.

In that case, he'd best give him a good explanation for sending such a text message to Mia in the middle of the night. Otherwise, Justin wasn't going to let him off for disturbing Nora's beauty sleep.

Peter was still rather scared of his father.

After all... he couldn't beat him in a fight yet. He was still too young!

But once he could beat him... ahem.

Peter dismissed his thoughts and looked at them. "I really have run into trouble!"

"If you've run into trouble, couldn't you just come to us directly? Why did you send Mia such a text message late at night and frighten her so badly?"

Nora frowned in displeasure.

Mia had been awfully pale the whole way there and had looked terribly frightened.

Peter coughed lightly and gave Mia an apologetic look. Then, he couldn't help but heave a quiet sigh and say somewhat resentfully, "If I had sent you two the message instead, would the two of you have come over? In the entire family, Mia cares for my safety the most. If I contact her, you guys will definitely come."

Mia's cheeks turned red when she heard the words "cares for my safety the most".

She subconsciously looked at Nora and Justin. When she saw that neither of them had detected the hidden meaning of the words, she breathed a silent sigh of relief and then looked at Peter with infatuation in her eyes.

As for Nora and Justin, both of them were rather speechless.

Come to think of it, It was true that had Peter contacted them directly, they might not have come over once they learned of the situation!

Nora felt somewhat guilty.

Justin, however, was thick-skinned enough to continue pulling a long face.
“Alright, that’s enough. Get to the point.”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1048

Chapter 1048: To Help or Not to Help?

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Peter turned serious.

He had always been similar in personality to Justin—after all, the latter had raised him single-handedly. Peter said seriously, “The lab is forcibly keeping its employees here.”

His words made Nora raise her brows. “Forcibly?”

“Yes.”

Peter explained, “They refuse to let the employees leave. Now that you guys are here, I reckon they’ll also start monitoring you. They will never let me return to the States—after all, I’m one of the talents they specially picked. They gave me a lot of benefits and even promised me real estate. The salary is also high...”

But was he someone short of money?

Peter had never revealed his true identity to outsiders, that was all.

Nora said, “You didn’t make us come all the way here just because of that, did you?” Not only was Peter a skilled martial artist himself, but he also had a few other guards by his side. He could easily escape anytime, so he didn’t need to have them personally make a trip here if it was just about that.

A disapproving Justin also remarked, “You can’t even get away by yourself when the surveillance is this lax? How useless!”

Peter: “...”

The corners of his lips spasmed and he glanced at Mia.

Now that he had grown up, he didn't like being embarrassed in front of others. In particular, he was especially unaccustomed to being chastised by his parents in front of Mia.

He touched his nose—the boy had also picked up Justin's little habits—and answered, "I'm not talking about myself."

"My colleagues are affected too."

He looked up at Nora and said, "Mom, I have 23 colleagues from America who are also facing the same situation. All of them are Harvard and MIT graduates. After they left the country to pursue further studies, they didn't return to America even once. Because of this, they were even flamed by netizens on the Internet, but not all of them had stayed here of their own volition. It's because they ended up becoming exposed to high-end industries under their lecturer's guidance when they were still university students, resulting in them being forced to stay here and being forbidden from returning to America.

"They want to go back too..."

"There are many others like them."

There were already 23 such cases in Peter's school alone. Moreover, most of them had even gotten married and started a family there, so they wanted to return to their country with their wives, husbands, and children.

But there was only so much Peter could do.

He had no problem escaping by himself—in fact, he could even take two or three people with him—but he couldn't take all of them with him.

All 23 of his colleagues wanted to leave this place with him. It wouldn't be right, no matter who he abandoned or took with him.

So... In case of trouble, Mom was the person to go to.

He was only fifteen. It was perfectly normal that he wouldn't be able to resolve such a serious problem.

Nora: "..."

Justin also fell silent.

Peter gave Mia a look.

Mia immediately said gently to Nora, "Aunt Nora, those people are so pitiful. Like Pete, all of them obviously want to go home, but not only are they unable to, their own countrymen misunderstood them and even called them traitors... I'm sure their parents miss them a lot too."

"... Fine, let's help them," Nora said.

"How many do we help?" Peter asked.

Nora looked at him. "Since we've decided to help, then we must get every one of them out."

Then, she cocked her head to the side and suddenly chuckled. "Well, would you look at that? We've got company. Since they have already set their sights on us, let's visit your lab and have a look!"

"Okay."

After breakfast, the group went to the laboratory entrance. Peter said, "My parents and little sister haven't settled their accommodation arrangements yet. Is it possible to let them stay in the laboratory's lounge?"

The security guard looked at Nora and Justin and then replied, "Give me a minute. I'll have to ask the higher-ups about that."

With a walkie-talkie in his hand, he stepped aside and asked, "Do I let them in, sir?"

The person on the other end replied, "Let them in. Three small and skinny weaklings like them aren't going to be much of a threat, if at all. Don't get so nervous just because they are Americans; only the Big Brother of the Irvin School of Martial Arts and the Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts can pose a threat to us. The rest are no problem!”

“Yes, sir!”

Thus, the security guards let them in. None of them knew just what kind of monsters they had allowed into the laboratory.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1049

Chapter 1049: Black Cat

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Rather than a laboratory, Peter's workplace was actually more like a research center.

As they went deeper into the facility, just on the way to the lounge alone, Nora observed that there were already about a few hundred people guarding the place. From the looks of it, Peter and the others were doing research on something extremely important.

There were also a lot of employees—at least a thousand of them—in the research center.

Therefore, the research center had its own employee dormitories and canteen.

The families of most of the people under surveillance also lived and worked there, so they couldn't leave even if they wanted to.

When they reached the lounge, Peter said, "Rest here. I'll bring you guys around and let you meet those people when lunchtime comes. I'll give them a heads-up first, too."

"Okay."

After sleeping the morning away, when lunchtime approached, the trio went to the canteen with Peter. There, Nora met the 23 people in question.

The group was both excited and nervous.

But some of them looked clearly uneasy.

“What’s wrong?” Nora asked.

Peter answered, “For some of them, their family members aren’t here, but would also like to leave with us.”

Nora broke into a frown. After a moment of contemplation, she exchanged a look with Justin and then said, “How about this? Get their families’ addresses and give them to me. I’ll send people to pick them up.”

Peter nodded and went to talk to the others.

After a while, he came back again. The boy, who still looked as troubled as before, asked, “Must we act tonight, Mom?”

“Yeah.”

For one, by taking action quickly, it was highly likely that they could get away before the people outside even realized what had happened.

For another, she wanted to go home earlier to sleep!

She couldn’t possibly stay here just because of one or two people.

Peter said, “Actually, a few of them haven’t made up their minds yet. After all, taking their families and children with them and leaving the country is a big decision. They are not sure whether their wives would agree to it.”

Nora thought for a moment and finally said, “Get them to give me their addresses. I’ll send people to pick them up at 1 a.m. tonight...”

She raised her head and looked at Peter intently. “If they want to leave, then have their families display the national flag at the entrance of their homes. If it’s inconvenient for them to display the flag, or if they don’t have one at home, they can draw stars and stripes on a piece of paper and put that up instead.”

Her words took Peter by surprise.

Stars and stripes...

He suddenly smiled and said, “Okay, got it.”

In this instant, Peter suddenly felt immensely proud of having a mother like Nora.

He looked back and relayed Nora’s instructions to the others.

Then, he collated everyone’s addresses and handed them to Nora.

As Nora stared at the addresses, she lowered her gaze.

In the afternoon, when they returned to the hotel, she immediately dialed Karl’s number. “We have a new mission.”

Karl immediately asked, “What is it?”

“Picking people up.”

Without any hesitation whatsoever, Karl answered, “No problem.”

After hanging up the phone, he gave out orders to Black Panther and Abbott. Both men immediately became excited. “Do we get to meet Black Cat this time?”

To chase after his idol, Abbott had joined Karl’s team.

Unfortunately, Black Cat hadn’t been in action much these recent years, so he hadn’t managed to meet his idol yet. Black Panther said, “When Nora impersonated Black Cat back then, she did a pretty good job... Never mind, I’m going to meet the real Black Cat this time! I wonder who’s more impressive, Nora or Black Cat?”

As Karl stared at them, the corners of his lips couldn’t help but spasm.

Black Cat’s identity was sensitive—after all, she had taken so many lives, so it went without saying that her identity must be kept a secret—so he hadn’t told these two dummies the truth yet.

Upon hearing what they said, Karl cleared his throat and nodded. “Alright, get going now!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1050

Chapter 1050: Escape!

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

At 4 a.m.

The hour right before daybreak was when people were the sleepest.

In spite of that, Nora opened her eyes punctually. When she sat up, Justin, who was beside her, also sat up.

After exchanging a look with each other, Nora went to wash up leisurely. She put her hair up into a ponytail and stretched as she remarked, “It’s been a while since I last did anything taxing. I should go get some good exercise tonight.”

“Yeah. How do you want to go about it?”

A dotting Justin asked.

Nora blinked and replied, “It’d be really boring if we just leave quietly by ourselves. We should make them pay for what they’ve done. After all, they kept Pete captive for so long. We shouldn’t let them off the hook that easily, right?”

Justin smiled. “Got it.”

Justin hadn’t passed down his social connections to Pete yet. As for Pete himself, he was only fifteen years old, so he hadn’t established his own connections yet. He was still in the phase of looking for reliable subordinates of his own.

Therefore, it was indeed rather hard for Pete to save his colleagues.

But to Nora and Justin, the same task was as easy as ABC.

The couple stepped out of the room and went next door to look for Mia. However, when they went over, they realized that she wasn't in the room.

“Oh, right. Mia said she would be with Pete tonight to help him with the logistical arrangements,” said Nora.

“Yeah, okay.”

The two then headed down leisurely.

The security guard at the lounge entrance had already fallen asleep. The middle-aged lady's head nodded forward again and again as she dozed. Nora and Justin, who had decided to openly leave through the door, then took out their cell phones and held them up to the scanner at the entrance, where the glass doors immediately opened.

The two stepped out.

The sky was dim and gray as daybreak slowly approached.

The two went to Pete's dormitory.

As soon as they arrived, they saw that Pete and the others had already assembled on the ground floor. All of them looked tired and weary. It was obvious that they hadn't slept the whole night because they were too nervous.

Nora yawned and signaled to Pete.

Pete immediately nodded and led the way in front. As he walked, he explained, “I've already scouted out the area nearby—there are no security cameras along this route. There's an iron gate in front, though, and the key is with the captain of the security officers.”

Nora raised her brows. “If you had told me earlier, I'd have gone to retrieve it.”

When Pete heard her, he let out a sneaky chuckle and fished out a key from his pocket. “I already swiped the key a long time ago and duplicated it.”

Well done, thought Nora. As expected of her son, indeed.

In this instant, it occurred to Nora that Pete did have the ability to bring his colleagues out of the research center. It was just that he couldn't ensure their successful escape once they left.

When Justin saw the look of approval in Nora's eyes, he immediately poured cold water and said, “They must have realized what you were up to, right? That's why you panicked and got us here to clean up your mess.”

Pete: “...”

Unfortunately, that was indeed what had happened. When he stole the key and duplicated it the other time, the captain of the security officers had sensed something amiss and had been tracing the culprit recently. The clues would probably lead him to Pete in another couple of days or so.

While he could certainly leave by himself, two days were too short a period for him to bring so many people with him.

He touched his nose and grumbled, “Cough, quit it, Dad.”

Seeing the boy embarrassed, Justin was satisfied.

Ha, that little brat. Don't even think of showing off in front of Nora. You're still too young!

Nora glanced at the people behind them. When she realized that there were fewer than 20 people behind, Pete explained, “A few of them changed their minds at the last minute and decided to stay.”

“Yeah, okay.”

Nora didn't press for details.

With Pete familiar with the terrain, the group managed to reach the main entrance without any problems.

Pete stopped in his tracks. “Mom, Dad, I’m sure that there are surveillance cameras at the entrance. If I open the door, they will find out immediately. We only have 30 seconds before they get here. Are the people who are supposed to meet us already outside?”

“Yeah, they are.”

“Alright, let’s go, then!”

Pete did a tuck-and-roll and tried his best to hide his presence as he rushed over and opened the gate.

When the gate opened, everyone dashed toward it!

Outside.

Abbott, who had personally driven a truck over, craned his neck when he spotted them. “Where’s Black Cat?”

Chapter 1051

Chapter 1051: Get Them!

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Peter stood beside the truck and watched as his colleagues got into the truck one by one. In the end, he looked at Mia and said, “Get in, Mia!”

Mia’s eyes were bright and shiny.

This was the first time that the girl, who had always been well-behaved since she was little, was involved in something this exciting. It was an extremely novel experience for her.

However, she couldn’t help but be worried about Pete’s safety. She wanted to say something, yet she didn’t dare to, so she merely nodded and grabbed the cargo bed of the truck. Just as she was about to prop herself up, a big and warm arm suddenly held her around the waist and held her up. With that, Mia got into the truck immediately.

Mia: “!!”

Her cheeks immediately turned as red as a tomato, and she felt as if her heart was pounding faster than usual.

She looked outside...

Just as she was about to speak, she noticed that the doors of the main entrance had opened, and security officers were rushing out of the building. They were about to surround them!

Some even raised their guns and pointed them at the truck’s tires. Once the tires were punctured, they wouldn’t be able to leave!

It was at this point that she saw Peter, who had been holding on to the cargo bed and planning to get in previously, suddenly jumping back down. He promptly shouted, “Go!”

Though Abbott didn’t manage to catch a glimpse of Black Cat, he knew very well that his mission was to pick these people up today. The man immediately started the truck.

When someone fired at the truck, Abbott quickly changed its speed and direction to prevent the bullet from striking the tires.

Those guys didn’t dare to go as far as to take lives—after all, they needed the researchers alive—so they didn’t fire at anyone. Just as more and more bullets were fired and it seemed that they wouldn’t be able to dodge them anymore, a commotion suddenly broke out in the distance where the security officers were!

Abbott immediately slammed his foot down on the gas pedal. The truck went charging out immediately and disappeared after rounding the corner.

When the captain of the security officers saw the truck disappear from his sight, he immediately knew that it was too late.

Despite that, he didn’t panic.

Since he had decided to stay put, it went without saying that he had a plan.

Those guys might be able to escape the research center, but leaving for good? Not so easy!

He looked coldly at the trio who had stayed behind and said derisively, “Playing hero? Don’t overestimate yourselves! Peter Hunt, you must be the one who stole my key, right?”

Peter nodded. “Yup.”

The captain sneered. “I’ll make you pay for that today! And give you a taste of what happens when you don’t behave!”

Then, he took a step back and ordered, “Go, get them! Teach them a good lesson! I want Peter Hunt’s legs broken!”

They certainly couldn’t kill the researchers, but once their legs were broken, it would be even harder for them to escape, no?

As he gave the order, over 20 security officers rushed over and surrounded the trio.

However, Nora was looking at an overland vehicle nearby. They might have missed the truck just now, but look what they had here? Their escape route had just presented itself!

“I’ll hold them here. Which one of you is going to steal the car?”

“I’ll protect you, Mom. Dad can go steal the car.”

Justin: “...”

A grumpy look had already come over his countenance. It wasn’t easy for him to have a chance to team up with his wife. What was that kid butting in for?

He scoffed, “Nothing but an unnecessary move.”

Peter stroked his chin.

He was simply speechless at the tyrant. Did he really have to be so possessive even at a time like this? Never mind, it wasn’t like he had the guts to piss his father off too badly, either. After all, he was still young. Should the tyrant really decide to make things difficult for him, he wouldn’t be able to handle it.

Peter came around to the idea in no time. He said, “Dad, Mom, you guys hold ’em back. I’ll go get the car.”

“Okay.”

Upon seeing the trio still leisurely discussing plans despite being surrounded, the captain was furious. Fools sure were fearless!

Did the three of them really think that he and his team were just your average, run-of-the-mill security officers?

Normal people would never be able to keep those people in the facility.

They were all elites who had been carefully selected!

With a sneer, the captain ordered, "Get them!"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1052

Chapter 1052: Black Cat is Over Here!

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Ten minutes later.

Security officers lay all over the ground as Nora and Justin stretched their arms and legs.

“Stretch a little more. You haven’t exercised for too long. Take care not to hurt yourself,” said Justin.

Peter who had driven over and was waiting for them to get into the car: “...”

Fine, compared to his father, he certainly still had a long way to go!

Nora did as Justin said.

He was right. Her life was becoming more and more relaxed and leisurely these days. All she did every day was sleep and go for strolls. She was completely leading the life of a retiree. Given all the activity today, there was indeed a need for her to cool down properly.

She stretched her arms and legs seriously.

The captain, who was on the floor, stared at them in shock. He stammered, “W-who are you?”

He already had a vague idea of their identities by then...

At his question, Nora hesitated for a moment and then suddenly said with a straight face, “We’re Americans.”

“...”

I know that, of course! The captain thought.

Annoyed, the captain retorted, “Do you have any idea who we are?! How dare you do this to me! I will tell the Queen about this! I don’t believe we can’t catch you guys if the UK goes all out!”

“...Oh, okay,” Nora replied.

The captain: “?”

After the two were done stretching, they got into the car. Peter sped into the distance at once.

Black Panther had personally gone to pick up the researchers’ families at the places specified by Nora. Whenever they spotted a house with the American flag hung on the door or window, they would knock out the hidden agents monitoring the occupants, rush into the houses, and then escort the researchers’ family members into the transportation vehicle.

To be honest, after Black Panther started working for Karl and began his career as an assassin, the man, who had grown up in Switzerland, had become someone who confounded right and wrong. He was someone who lived with his morals in the gray area.

But when he saw the star-spangled banners fluttering in the breeze, a feeling of patriotism suddenly arose in him.

However, he didn’t dwell too long on it. He quickly took his charges to Black Cat and met up with her instead.

Though the two teams were working separately, both ultimately raced toward the same destination.

When Black Panther arrived at the pier where they were supposed to meet up, he saw Abbott and a group of people there. They were craning their necks anxiously and looking into the distance.

“Where’s Black Cat?” Black Panther asked.

Abbott shook his head and replied, “Black Cat isn’t here yet. They are going to find us very soon, though. If Black Cat doesn’t get here soon, we won’t be able to get away anymore.”

Black Panther broke into a frown as well.

Neither of them knew that a certain security bureau was currently trying their hardest to find them via the traffic cameras on the roads.

However, someone hacked into the system at that moment...

In the cyber-security central bureau of the UK, Q and Y easily stopped the bureau from accessing the system.

In fact, they even blocked the satellite signal. As a result, the bureau could only use the most traditional method to search for them. Because of this, even though five minutes had already passed since Abbott and the others reached their destination, the bureau still hadn’t found their way over yet.

Screech!

While the group was waiting anxiously, a car stopped in front of them.

Peter, Nora, and Justin then got out of it.

Nora and Justin were both tapping away on their cell phones...

With cyber-security technology getting more and more advanced, even Q and Y couldn’t afford to look away from the UK’s cyber-security system for even a second if they wanted to stop them from finding their whereabouts. As soon as they stopped, the other party would be able to restore the system. Should that happen, it would only be a matter of mere seconds before their whereabouts are exposed.

The trio got out of the car and approached the group.

Black Panther panicked at once. He shouted, “Where’s Black Cat?! Do you know that the vehicle we’re about to use is absolute top-secret in the organization?! Only Boss and Black Cat are authorized to use it! Without Black Cat here, we won't be able to leave at all! What have you people done? Did you abandon Black Cat and leave Black Cat there to bring up the rear?!"

An anxious Abbott also asked, "Yeah. Where's Black Cat?"

Nora: "..."

The corners of her lips spasmed as she said, "Shut up."

Then, she closed the hacking program on her cell phone and opened a program that only Karl and she could access.

Abbott and Black Panther: "?????"

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1053

Chapter 1053: They Can't Be Together

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Abbott and Black Panther stared at Nora in shock and astonishment.

Both of them were incredulous.

Honestly speaking, they had already found Nora very impressive when they realized that she was the Big Sister of the Quinn School of Martial Arts. Among all the women... no, among everybody they had ever met, including the men, she was the most impressive one ever.

In that case, how much more impressive could Black Cat possibly be?

Now that they suddenly realized that Nora was, in fact, Black Cat herself, even though the discovery was certainly surprising, it also made perfect sense to them.

At the same time, they also felt rather bad for looking down on Nora back then.

How could they have been so clueless?!

While the two men were plagued with guilt, Nora looked intently at her cell phone and wordlessly tapped the "Activate" button.

To hide their embarrassment, Abbott and Black Panther asked, "What's the emergency plan, Black Cat?"

"Yeah, this is the ocean. You'll have to cross the ocean if you want to go back to America. How are you guys going to get there?"

Abbott wasn't an American, so he didn't feel much of a sense of loyalty to the United States.

While the two were talking, they suddenly heard a whirring sound. Then, the coast started to shake a little. The next moment, a black, massive object suddenly emerged from the ocean.

Shocked, the two quickly looked over warily, whereupon they realized that it was actually a... submarine!!

On top of that, it was a huge one that could seat up to a hundred people!

Abbott and Black Panther were astounded. The two men stared at the behemoth in disbelief.

When did the organization get an ultimate weapon like this?!

With this around, they wouldn't have to fear even if they created a huge ruckus in the UK!

This was also Nora's first time seeing the submarine.

She and Karl had prepared this as their backup plan in the past.

At the bottom of it all, the assassin organization was still an illegal business. Moreover, Karl still had an official identity—a spy—in the United States.

The two had hit it off immediately and prepared the submarine. In case there ever came a day when they could no longer bear the pressure from foreign authorities, they could use the submarine and escape to anywhere in the world in it.

Energy supplies were also replenished regularly. At the very least, there was definitely enough to last till they got to the United States!

Nora stepped forward and unlocked the system with a scan of her thumb. The submarine's door opened and everyone went in one by one. After everyone had entered, Nora and Justin finally went in and closed the door.

As soon as the door closed, Justin put his cell phone away.

The submarine started sinking into the waters and began its journey to the United States.

The submarine featured a lot of advanced technology, including even a counter-reconnaissance system. This more or less gave them a veil of invisibility and prevented radars from detecting them.

The submarine started moving in the ocean.

Everyone inside also quietened down.

From the UK, it would take roughly a week for them to reach the United States. Everything outside in the vast ocean was covered in darkness, making the passengers rather scared and panicky.

When Black Panther sensed their apprehension and anxiety, he started to chat with them to pass the time.

He looked at Peter first. “Do you have a girlfriend?”

This boy was Black Cat’s son!

When Peter was about to answer, his colleagues next to him said, “Oh, Peter’s super popular with the girls in the lab! Even though he’s still young, there are a lot of women throwing themselves at him!”

Black Panther immediately remarked jokingly, “Ooh, you lucky chap!”

Peter, however, glanced at Mia subconsciously—true enough, a flustered look appeared in the girl’s eyes. Yet when he looked over, she hurriedly lowered her head to hide her emotions.

Peter heaved a sigh inwardly.

He had been diagnosed with mild autism when he was a child, but as the son of Justin Hunt, he was extremely prideful.

Among all the girls he had ever met, only Mia and Cherry were good enough in his eyes.

Cherry was his younger sister whom he doted on a lot.

As for Mia... Initially, he had found the girl weak and frail, so he couldn't bring himself to bully her at all, and he also started to subconsciously protect her. When he found out that she was his younger cousin, it became all the more natural for him to do so.

When had those changes in his feelings for her suddenly changed?

He couldn't quite recall anymore.

All he knew was that in his family where everyone was a big boss, Mia was the one who cared for him the most.

Yet, in spite of that, the two of them were not allowed to be together.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1054

Chapter 1054: Welcome Home

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Joel and Nora were recognized as siblings in the eyes of the law, but in terms of blood relations, they were actually cousins. Although this meant that Peter and Mia were already a generation apart in blood relations, they were ultimately still second cousins. Therefore, they still couldn't be together.

He knew that his parents didn't care about such things. If he and Mia made up their minds to be together, even if they didn't hold the actual wedding itself, his parents would still give them their blessings.

However, he knew that Mia loved kids, and people in consanguineous marriages easily produced children with deformities.

In that case, he'd rather suppress his feelings than end up causing Mia to regret her decision in the future.

She was only fifteen; she still had many more years ahead of her. Peter didn't want to hold her back and cause her to have to pay for her folly in her youth after she grew up.

As the group chatted, Nora answered a phone call.

The caller was from the UK. There was faint anger in the Queen's voice as she said, "Now Black Cat, that's not quite nice of you. How can you snatch away all of our researchers?!"

Nora answered calmly, "... We didn't 'snatch' them away—they came with me of their own accord."

"..."

The Queen was well aware of this, of course, but no way was she going to admit to it.

She scoffed and said in a stuck-up manner, “You made me a laughingstock by snatching them away! No, I won’t take this lying down. You have to compensate me for my losses!”

By saying that, she was actually indirectly giving them the green light to leave.

Of course, even if she didn’t, Nora wouldn’t lack ways and means to take the researchers home, either. However, if she did, their journey home would certainly be a lot smoother.

“What kind of compensation do you want?” She asked.

“How about this? Have Alexander come over and keep Lucy company.”

The little princess was extremely fond of Cherry and often flew over to the United States to visit since she was little. The Queen had always turned a blind eye to her actions because she thought that it would be nice if her daughter had a close friend.

She had only brought up Alexander because she knew that Peter would be going home to take over the Hunts’ businesses. However, this meant that Alexander was free, wasn’t he? That was why she wanted him to keep her daughter company. Maybe she would have a chance of luring him to stay in the UK with the title of an earl or something in the future, who knows...?

The more the Queen thought about it, the more she found it a good deal.

After all, Alexander was the next King of the Imperial League!

It would be fantastic if she could get him to stay in the UK!

The Queen asked, “Isn’t he studying overseas right now? Have him come over and tutor Lucy a little and see if he can make her a star student. I’m not asking for too much, am I?”

“Not at all.”

Nora didn't show the least bit of hesitation in selling her son out. However, she did set a condition. “But this means that you'll give our organization the green light whenever we save people from the UK in the future, right?”

The Queen: “!!!”

“How many more are you planning to save?!”

Nora said, “Everyone who wants to go back to their homeland.”

The Queen was furious. “Don't push your luck, Nora!”

Nora coughed and said, “I'm not pushing it that badly, am I? Well, if you're not agreeable to it, then never mind.”

Even if the Queen didn't give the green light, she would still be able to save the researchers anymore. Things would be a bit more troublesome and take up more of her sleep time, that's all.

The Queen: “...”

The lip corners of the Queen, who could tell the underlying meaning of her words, couldn't help but spasm a little.

A moment later, through gritted teeth, she finally said, “Fine, I agree to your condition! Have Alexander come over immediately!”

Then, she asked, “How's Justin doing lately?”

When the Queen had first realized that Nora was Black Cat, she felt troubled and was caught in a dilemma for a while. But after that, she decided to accept reality—after all, she had already come to see Black Cat as a close friend.

She had even poured out a lot of her secret woes to Black Cat previously, so she couldn't bear to suddenly lose her friend.

Therefore, from that point onward, she always went through Nora whenever she wanted to contact Justin.

The Queen had been in love with Justin and pestered him before, after all, so she decided to maintain a respectable distance from him.

Nora was very pleased with this.

Thus, whenever she asked after Justin during their chat, she didn't mind letting him speak with the Queen. She handed the cell phone to Justin.

"Hello?" Justin said.

"Hello, Justin. How have you been?"

"I'm doing pretty well. Still as loving a couple with my wife as always; no arguments whatsoever."

"..."

"Do you need anything else? Or do you want to hear about what we have been up to lately?"

"... Beep... beep... beep..."

Did he think that the Queen didn't have a temper or what? Who would want to listen to him show off how loving a couple he was with his wife?!

Justin raised his brows and returned the cell phone to Nora. Then, he asked, "Can you bear to part with Xander, though?"

"No," Nora answered, "But it's not certain who's ultimately going to go home with who just yet!"

Surprised, Justin asked, "What do you mean?"

"Well, Lucy's pretty cute. Since her elder sister will be inheriting the throne, there's not much point in her staying in the UK. She might as well come to the States, then."

Justin: “????”

—

A few days later, the submarine finally arrived at a coastal area in the United States.

When the submarine emerged from the sea and docked, Morris’ men, whom Nora had contacted beforehand, were already waiting for them onshore. They would be escorting the researchers back to their hometowns.

United with their families, the researchers turned their heads back and gave Nora looks of gratitude.

“Any words for them, Mom?” Peter asked.

Nora: “?”

After a moment’s thought, she straightened her expression and only said one line: “Welcome home.”

Chapter 1055

Chapter 1055: You Care For Me the Most

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Nora didn't just stop at saving the researchers; she also told Peter to spread a piece of news:

Should people find themselves in similar situations abroad, they could approach Karl's security agency for help to go back home. They would help to pick them up and send them home.

Peter did a great job at the task.

He was extremely popular among the international students, after all.

Now that Peter was back, he didn't plan on leaving the country anymore. Instead, he took over the Hunt Corporation.

On the day that he officially became the head of the Hunt Corporation, his family held a handover ceremony at home. As a show of support, the Smiths all came over as well.

Ian could now walk by himself and didn't have to rely on a wheelchair anymore. With a walking stick in hand, he patted Peter on the shoulder and said, "You're even more capable than Grandpa! Back then, Grandpa only managed to take over the company in his twenties!"

Next to them, Alexander said jokingly, "He's so envious of you, though."

A smiling Ian asked, "Why?"

"Because you have such awesome grandchildren! And three of them at that!"

Ian: "..."

Peter: "..."

The lad had not only praised Peter but also himself. What a cocky little narcissist he was!

Peter looked at him with a smile. "You're heading to the UK tomorrow, right?"

"Yeah. What about it? Are you gonna miss me? Come on, we're brothers. Don't be a sissy and go crying your eyes out now!"

Alexander said dismissively.

"... I just wanted to tell you to bring that person home soon," replied Peter.

"That person? Who?"

Alexander was perplexed.

A mysterious smile graced Peter's lips and he said, "Nah, it's nothing important."

He mustn't give away his mom's intentions so casually.

Seeing his reaction, Alexander rolled his eyes and said, "Ugh, you're being cryptic again."

After saying that, he turned his head to the side, where he saw Mia dozing on the sofa beside them. He couldn't help but nod in her direction at Peter. Then, he walked over. Just as he was about to play a prank on Mia from the back, Peter caught hold of his outstretched arm.

"What are you doing?" asked Alexander.

Peter replied, "She hasn't been getting enough sleep because she's doing a lot of practice papers every day. Now that she can finally relax a little tonight, you shouldn't disturb her."

“I just wanted to tease her a little. What are you being so protective for?” Alexander said.

Protective?

Peter coughed and said, “Don’t talk nonsense. Isn’t she your younger cousin too?”

Alexander pursed his lips and said, “She is, but she’s always been weak and frail since she was little, so she’s really boring and no fun at all.”

“... Lucy isn’t,” said Peter.

That little princess had been as strong and healthy as Cherry since she was little!

Alexander grinned and said, “I know. Wait for it; once I go over, I’m going to bully her.”

Peter: “?”

Alexander raised his brows and said, “Once I bully her and make her cry, she’ll go whining to the Queen. And once she does, the Queen will release me immediately, no?”

“...”

Peter gave him a smile that screamed “Good luck, pal”.

However, Alexander, who didn’t get it, turned and left instead.

After he left, Peter got ready to leave too. But just as he did, he noticed Mia’s lashes quivering, which surprised him a little.

Since their return to the country, both of them had been in New York the whole time. However, Mia hadn’t approached him even once. Even when the two families met for meals, she would always use the excuse of studying to skip the gatherings.

This was their first time meeting since their return.

“Are you awake?” He asked.

Mia opened her eyes. Suddenly, she lowered her head and asked, “Am I useless, Pete?”

Peter immediately understood what she was saying.

During the operation last time, she hadn’t been able to help with anything at all. From the start to the end, all she did was escape obediently. This made Mia feel horribly disheartened.

She felt like she was an utter failure who was completely useless, and she felt like she wasn’t worthy of liking Pete at all.

That was why she didn’t even dare to bring herself to meet him recently.

On top of that, she was even harboring those feelings for him...

Mia was close to driving herself mad.

The more she tried to curb her feelings, the more she couldn’t help but think of Peter.

It was to the extent that her heart would subconsciously start pounding a little faster whenever she heard his name...

Yet when she saw him, she couldn’t help but be filled with trepidation and panic.

Just as her imagination was running wild, Peter slowly squatted down in front of her. He suddenly said, “Did you know, Mia? You actually played the key role in the incident the last time.”

Mia was taken aback. “How so?”

Peter smiled and answered, “Only sending you the message would give me the biggest peace of mind—because I know that you will definitely pester

Mom and Dad to save me.”

In this world, you are the one who cares about everything I do the most.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1056

Chapter 1056: Brenda's Secret

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

It wasn't so much that his parents didn't care about him.

However, more so than that, they trusted in his capabilities, so they no longer spoiled him as much as they had when he was a child. Sometimes, what his parents wanted more was to train him and let him solve the problem on his own.

Moreover, his parents were already half-retired. It was Peter's personal desire to help the researchers leave, and he hadn't informed them about the situation beforehand, either. Furthermore, he had even been under the watchful eye of the security officers during the emergency. This had prevented him from filling in his parents about the situation. As a result, he could only use the secret code that he had established with Mia.

If he had hinted at the situation to his parents instead, they definitely wouldn't have reacted as anxiously as Mia—after all, the two of them knew what he was capable of all too well.

Mia bit her lip as she listened to Peter. Then, she gave him a smile.

Seeing that she had thought things through, Peter breathed a sigh of relief.

The two of them were only fifteen this year. Neither of them could say for sure how long their budding feelings during their adolescence would last in the face of reality. Therefore, neither of them was going to reveal anything at this point, either.

In fact, Peter had even thought that perhaps Mia would find a boyfriend after she grew up.

After chatting a little, the two separated.

Mia went to Tanya.

When she went over, Tanya was rather surprised. Her daughter had been down in the dumps since she returned from overseas a few days ago, but now it seemed that she had thought things through!

Amid everyone's well wishes and congratulations, Peter officially took over as the head of the Hunt Corporation.

There were quite a lot of guests today—after all, all of them had to show Peter their support.

Brenda was also here.

As always, the woman was clad in a red dress, making her a charming and alluring sight. People couldn't take their eyes off her at all.

Nora and Justin were currently surrounded by the latter's third uncle and his wife, who were also Brenda's parents.

Their daughter had been putting off marriage forever, making them terribly anxious. Didn't she know that they were looking forward to grandkids?!

“Hey, Nora. You're her sister-in-law, so I'm sure she'll listen to you if you talk to her. She's already thirty; if she continues to put off marriage, she won't be able to find a good man anymore!”

Brenda's mother dabbed at her eyes.

Brenda's father was also very troubled. “Wasn't that young hacker guy from some time back pretty nice? Why did they break up...? Also, I heard he's still single!”

Brenda's mother nodded. “I also heard that Solo is an orphan. He's pretty much all ready to be our son-in-law. Where are you going to find someone better than him?”

Nora: "..."

She also wanted to know why Solo and Brenda had broken up. Even though Solo had been persistently trying to court Brenda, the woman simply wouldn't stop hiding from him!

She thought for a moment and then said, "Alright, I'll talk to her when I have the time."

"Okay."

Brenda's mother didn't pester her any further.

Out of all the Hunts, she understood the best just how infamous Nora was for her indolence. She was reluctant to take on any kind of responsibilities and would rather spend that time sleeping instead.

Also, she never made promises to anyone easily.

Now that she had given her word that she would talk to Brenda, this meant that she would definitely try to help.

As for Nora herself, she also felt that it was about time she did something.

Before this, she hadn't wanted to interfere with Brenda and Solo's relationship because, for one, she felt that they were already adults—it wasn't like they were kids like Cherry and Pete—and everyone had the right to choose how they wanted to spend their lives. For another, the two of them might not want her to interfere, either.

But now, with Solo unable to improve the situation, as Brenda's sister-in-law, she had no choice but to do something.

She sighed silently.

When was trouble ever going to stop?

This was no doubt going to keep her from her beauty sleep again!

Both the host and the guests enjoyed themselves at the party. Soon, the party ended. As the host, Peter went to see the guests out while Nora and Justin slacked off behind the scenes.

Nora kept observing Brenda.

Solo was out on a mission today, so he hadn't attended the party. Though Brenda had a smile on, there was some forlornness in her eyes.

At this point, her cell phone rang.

She looked at it and hurriedly answered the phone call. The caller said something, upon which Brenda immediately replied, "Okay, I'm on my way."

Then, she hurriedly left.

Nora looked at her and then exchanged a look with Justin.

Both of them knew that the reason for Brenda's rejection of Solo probably lay right in this phone call.

They followed after her immediately.

Chapter 1057

Chapter 1057: Brenda Has a Secret Lover?

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Brenda got into her car immediately after she left. The way she looked like she was in a huge hurry made her seem somewhat anxious, and she didn't notice that Nora and Justin were behind her.

Nora followed behind her in a car.

After some time, they arrived at a villa on the outskirts of New York.

Brenda stopped the car, got out, and started walking toward the villa. However, she had only taken a couple of steps when she stopped and returned to the car.

By the time she came out of the car again, she had already changed into another set of clothes.

The red gown was now a black dress, turning her from a vibrant and gorgeous woman into a dignified and self-composed one.

Her actions confused Nora. Brenda had even beaten red lights just to race all the way here, so why did she change her clothes after she arrived?

Also, what was this place?

After Brenda entered the villa, Justin finally said, "This is her villa."

Nora: "?"

Did this mean that Brenda had really found another man? Was she even keeping her secret lover here?

She broke into a frown.

To avoid disturbing Brenda, the two waited outside quietly.

After a good four to five hours—Nora even managed to take a nap during this time—Brenda finally came out of the villa in a different black dress. Her hair was damp, and it was obvious that she had just taken a bath.

Brenda got into her car and left.

Just as Nora and Justin were about to get out of their car and approach the villa to have a look around and see who exactly the villa was housing, a skinny figure suddenly rushed over to the villa.

It was... Solo?

So, apart from them, Solo was tailing Brenda, too?

Solo had an awful look on his countenance. He stared hard at the door of the villa, seemingly never having even considered the possibility that Brenda was keeping a lover here.

He then thought of how Brenda had come out of the villa looking like she had just taken a bath. On top of that, her cheeks were even rosy. It was obvious that she'd just done some exercise.

And she even changed her clothes...

No matter how he looked at it, it was the complete picture of someone committing adultery!

The corners of Nora's lips spasmed a little, and she finally got out of the car and walked up to Solo.

At the sound of footsteps coming from behind, Solo turned around. When he saw Nora, his eyes immediately reddened as though he had just seen someone whom he could depend on. He said, "Say, Anti, just what exactly am I doing wrong? Why is Brenny doing this to me?"

Nora: "..."

But before she could even say anything, Solo lost it. He said, "I don't believe this is happening. My eyes must be playing tricks on me. The woman who went in isn't Brenny, right? Although she makes dirty jokes all the time, she's actually never been a promiscuous woman. I was her first man, as well as her only one... She would never cast me aside!"

Solo clenched his fists.

"... Actually, you don't have to be like this. If you want to know what's going on, why don't you just knock on the door?"

Solo: "!!"

He knew that the truth would present itself before him the instant he knocked, of course. The problem was—he didn't dare to.

He was afraid that his guess would turn into reality.

He could never accept it if that happened—because after Brenda started ignoring him, he had thought of every possible reason under the sun except this one!

He trusted Brenda...

While he was in a dilemma, Nora went straight up to the door and pressed the doorbell.

Solo: "..."

Solo was also scared that he wanted to turn and flee, but a moment later, he heard a woman's voice coming from the door. "Who is it?"

Then, the door opened.

A middle-aged lady who looked to be in her fifties or sixties stood at the door and looked at them in trepidation. "Who are you looking for?"

Solo heaved a sigh of relief.

However, the next instant, he heard the middle-aged lady ask, “Are you looking for my son? He’s already asleep...”

Her son...

Solo’s mind instantly went blank.

So, Brenda was not only keeping a pretty boy secret lover but also taking care of his entire family?!

While he was lost in thought, Nora asked, “Oh, I saw Brenda leave this villa just now. May I know how she is related to your son?”

Solo tensed up at once and looked at the middle-aged lady nervously.

The lady smiled and answered, “Oh, Brenda? She’s my daughter-in-law!”

“...”

“Daughter-in-law”... and “My son is already asleep”...

The combination of these words immediately turned Solo as pale as a sheet!

Was Brenda already... married to someone else?

Chapter 1058

Chapter 1058: He's Still Alive?!

Translator: Atlas Studios Editor: Atlas Studios

Solo felt as if his mind had gone completely blank, and he felt a little unsteady on his feet.

He turned away in shock, not quite sure who or where he should be looking, or what he should do at this moment.

After a brief silence, Nora asked, "What's your son's name?"

The lady answered, "Oh, my son? He's a really tall and handsome chap! His name is Marcus, and he's a police officer. Do you guys know each other?"

Marcus?

Though Nora was puzzled, she did find the name somewhat familiar.

In contrast, it was Solo who suddenly understood what was going on. He stared at the lady in front of him in disbelief and then suddenly took a step back, his face turning even paler than before.

Nora, who detected his unusual reaction, looked at the lady again and asked, "Ma'am, has your son been staying here all along?"

"Yeah!" The lady smiled and said, "Shh, keep it down, my son is asleep. If you're looking for my daughter-in-law, how about I give her a phone call for you?"

Nora nodded.

The lady then closed the door.

Nora looked at Solo, who explained, “Marcus... He is Brenda’s comrade who died protecting her back then, but isn’t he dead?”

Nora’s eyes narrowed at Solo’s words.

No wonder she had found his name so familiar just now. She’d heard about Brenda’s past where Solo had, due to a freak combination of factors, accidentally caused Marcus to die while saving Brenda.

This was also why it had been impossible between Solo and Brenda back then.

Later, Solo had made countless attempts to redeem himself, which ultimately made Brenda relent and change her mind. The pair had been about to get engaged when Brenda suddenly started to reject him again and insisted on breaking off the engagement...

So, had all that been because of Marcus’ return?

Nora looked at the villa again. Suddenly, the voice of the middle-aged lady from earlier reached their ears. “Oh, you’re awake, son?”

“Yeah. Who’s outside, Mom?” The other party’s voice belonged to a man.

“I don’t know, just a few passers-by. They are probably your wife’s friends. By the way, when are the two of you going to have kids? I can’t wait to have grandkids!”

“Well... it’s no hurry! Aren’t we already trying our best?”

“...”

The rest of the conversation was too soft to be audible; it was likely that they had gone into another room.

Solo turned even paler. For a moment, he didn’t know whether he should feel guilty or scared.

Was it possible for the dead to come back to life?

Or... had Marcus been alive all along?

But Marcus had died in an explosion while trying to save Brenda, and his body had even been laid to rest. How could he possibly still be alive?

Nora and Justin exchanged a look.

Justin was currently tapping away on his cell phone. After a while, he passed the phone to her. During that short while, Justin had already hacked into the government network and was checking the information in the police system.

Marcus' status was verified as deceased.

Solo was still lost in thought. Nora looked at him and said, "Rather than puzzling over it here, let's just ask the person involved and find out what exactly is going on."

Since they were unsure about the situation with the man inside the villa, they couldn't possibly force their way in. Their only option now was to contact Brenda.

Nora called Brenda, who answered right away.

She sounded rather tired. "Hi, Nora. What's up?"

Nora asked, "What on earth is going on with Marcus?"

Brenda fell silent.

Nora looked at the villa. "We're outside the villa right now. If you don't explain what's going on, I can't promise you that Solo won't force his way in."

The moment she said that, Brenda immediately panicked and said, "Don't! I... I'll come back right away... no, wait, let's meet at the café at the entrance of the neighborhood instead."

"Okay."

After hanging up, Nora and Justin took the despondent Solo with them and went to the café.

As soon as they entered, they saw Brenda racing over in the car. She entered the café immediately after she parked.

Solo had already gotten up from his seat and was looking at her in shock. “What on earth is going on, Brenny? Is Marcus still alive?!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1059 - The Truth

A hesitant look formed in Brenda's eyes when she saw Solo.

A moment later, she lowered her gaze and suddenly said, "Come with me, guys."

Then, she headed straight toward the villa.

The group followed after her. Brenda took out a card key, swiped it at the entrance, and opened the door.

When Nora and the others saw how well she knew her way around the house, they couldn't help but exchange a look with one another. From the looks of it, Brenda often came over. It was likely she treated the villa as her home.

After Brenda entered, the middle-aged lady from earlier appeared. When she saw Brenda and the people behind her, she smiled and said, "You're back, Brenda? They must be your friends. Here, make yourselves at home! I'll get you guys some coffee."

Without giving them a chance to refuse, she went into the kitchen and began to boil some water.

Brenda pointed to the sofa and gestured for them to have a seat.

Then, she entered the kitchen and said, "Let me do it, Mom."

Solo's heart sank.

Brenda had called her "Mom"...

And she had even been so natural when she did it.

He clenched his fists.

However, the lady frowned and said, “Shoo, shoo. Go and keep the guests company instead. Mom can handle all these just fine.”

She ushered Brenda out of the kitchen and then said with a smile, “I’ll go up and wake Marcus. How can he continue sleeping when there are guests in the house? Geez! I’ll get him to go get some nice little snacks or something!”

Brenda’s expression turned a little nervous.

However, she didn’t say anything. The lady then went up the stairs and pushed the door to the master bedroom open. She called out, “Hey, Marcus! Go out and get some snacks! We have guests in the house!”

A man’s voice was then heard coming from the second floor. “Alright, Mom.”

The lady then came back down and continued making coffee.

When Solo heard the voice from the upper floor, his expression turned even more awful.

Moreover, it sounded like the voice had come from the master bedroom...

Solo got onto his feet to charge upstairs.

His fists clenched again and again, but he ultimately forced himself to resist the urge.

He didn’t want to make things difficult for Brenda.

If Brenda really was already married, he didn’t want to break up her family.

As though all the strength in him had suddenly left him, he sat back down on the sofa.

At this point, the lady had finished making the coffee and brought it over. She said, “You guys are Brenda’s friends, right? You should talk some sense into her... She's already in her thirties. It's about time she considers having kids..."

Solo lowered his gaze.

At this point, the lady suddenly looked at the stairs and got up. "Why isn't Marcus here yet? I'll get him."

She then went up the stairs again.

However, a short while later, she suddenly screamed.

Brenda rushed up the stairs anxiously.

Nora and Justin followed closely behind her.

Solo was the only one who stayed where he was. However, after hesitating for a moment, he still decided to follow them upstairs.

When Nora arrived on the upper floor, she noticed that the door to the master bedroom was ajar. The lady's voice could be heard coming from within. "Marcus? Marcus! What happened?! Quick, get the doctor here!"

Nora rushed into the room immediately.

She was a doctor and could save the patient in times of emergency.

But when she went in, she saw the lady collapsed on the floor. Brenda was squatting beside her and pulling her arm. "Mom, it's okay, it's okay. Marcus is fine..."

"No, he's not! Doctor, doctor!"

The lady screamed.

Nora quickly stepped forward and said calmly, "I'm a doctor. What's wrong?"

As soon as she heard Nora, the lady grabbed her hand and said, “Please, save my son! Save my son!”

Nora’s gaze followed the direction where she was pointing and looked at the bed.

The lady screamed, “Why isn’t my son waking up? Why isn’t he getting up?!”

Nora’s expression instantly changed.

There was nobody on the bed at all.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1060 - So That'S What Had Happened

Surprised, she looked at Brenda, who shook her head at her and then continued to comfort the middle-aged lady. She said, "Mom, why don't you go outside first? I'll wake him up. Don't worry, everything is okay..."

"What do you mean everything is okay?! Something must have happened! I'm not blind! Tell me, what exactly is going on with Marcus?!"

The lady gripped Brenda's hands tightly, her emotions gradually changing. She demanded, "Tell me, did you guys have an argument? Or is it because you're unwilling to have children with my son? Is that why he became like this? Brenda, how can you reject having children with him? You're too much!"

After speaking, she immediately started hitting and kicking Brenda!

Brenda held her tightly, not at all bothered even when the lady hit her a few times. It was Nora who couldn't stand to watch her actions any longer that knocked the lady out with a karate chop to the neck. Only then did the commotion stop.

The huge skirmish had already made Brenda all out of breath, and even her clothes and hair were in a total mess. She sighed and said, "I'll go take another bath."

Nora nodded.

After giving the lady some medicine to calm her down, she left the room.

The trio waited for Brenda downstairs.

After the incident just now, Solo had understood something. "So, she had taken a bath earlier because of this? It wasn't because she was married!"

He paced back and forth as he said, “What on earth is going on, though? Why does she think that Marcus is alive? And who is that man who was talking in the room?”

While the trio was thinking, Brenda came down the stairs.

She towed her damp hair and collapsed onto the sofa. She was so exhausted that she was close to collapsing.

The others didn’t urge her to hurry.

After Brenda caught her breath, she finally sighed and said, “That’s an AI system.”

“What?”

Solo was taken aback.

Brenda tossed a pair of spectacles to him and gestured for him to put them on. The moment Solo did, a figure appeared in front of him, giving Solo such a huge shock that he couldn’t help but take a step back.

In his vision, Marcus moved somewhat stiffly and unnaturally.

The figure said, “Hi, friend!”

It was Marcus’ voice.

Brenda rubbed her temples. “Marcus’ mom has been denying the fact that Marcus is already dead. I don’t know who tricked her, but they inserted a chip into her eyes that allowed her to see and even talk to Marcus. Her mental health is terrible, and we are not allowed to say that Marcus has already passed away... The chip isn’t very stable, though, and ‘Marcus’ would sometimes freeze and stop moving. When that happens, she panics and calls me. I was here just now to calm her down and reboot the system.”

Solo asked, “Then she was referring to you as her daughter-in-law because...?”

Brenda sighed and answered, “In her eyes, Marcus and I are married. That’s why she keeps calling me her daughter-in-law... She has also been dying for a grandchild.”

Brenda lowered her head.

However, Solo understood what was going on. He stepped forward and held Brenda’s hands. “So, this is why you’ve been rejecting me?”

Brenda nodded.

Solo, however, was close to tears. He said, “But I don’t mind at all! I can support her and keep her company with you! I can even treat her like she’s my mom!”

Brenda gave him a wry smile and said, “And then? What kind of identity are you going to use to stay by her side?”

Her question stumped Solo.

Brenda lowered her head and said, “I’ve never considered marriage at all in the past anyway, so let’s just keep things this way. I’m pretty okay with how things stand now.”

She then pointed at the door and added, “You can leave now. Don’t ever look for me again.”

Chapter 1061 - Come With Me

However, Solo remained where he was.

Suddenly, he said, “Is the gadget broken? I’ll take a look at it.”

He looked around the room before looking in the direction where the sound was coming from. There, he spotted a black box. He went over, opened the box, and began to study the electrical wiring inside.

As he did, he remarked, “This is an outdated version. They don’t set up new ones like this anymore, so she certainly has been tricked. Here, I’ll update the system.”

While he spoke, he started to get down to work.

Brenda opened and then shut her mouth as she looked at him, hesitant to speak. When she was about to say something, Solo said, “To be honest, you don’t have to feel so guilty about it. I’m the one who caused his death. If someone must make up for it, then I should be the one doing it, not you. You really don’t have to... make up for it with the rest of your entire life.”

Brenda shut her mouth.

To be honest, she didn’t feel like she had done anything wrong. But when she got engaged to Solo, Marcus’ mother had approached her, stared straight into her eyes, and asked, “Are you getting engaged when my son died for you?”

Because of that, she couldn’t bring herself to say those words anymore.

She felt awfully guilty and horrible, which made her give up thinking about the matter altogether. She threw herself into her work and used it to numb herself.

All her missions had actually been highly dangerous the last few years, and she had suffered grievous injuries as a result. Sometimes, she even wondered if all of this would end if she just gave her life back to Marcus?

But this was impossible...

She took a deep breath. At this point, Nora suddenly grabbed her arm.

She said, "Come with me."

Her words took Brenda by surprise.

Solo didn't pay them any attention but continued to fix the black box instead.

Brenda then left the villa with Nora.

This time, Justin didn't follow them.

After making Brenda get into the passenger seat, Nora took out her cell phone and dialed Morris' number.

Morris soon picked up the call.

His voice was calm and steady as he asked, "Is something the matter, Nora?"

"Can I come over to the special department?"

Morris' voice deepened a little as he answered, "You are always welcome here."

Nora hung up.

Next to her, Brenda, who wanted to lighten up the mood, remarked, "Are you sure you should be flirting with another man in front of me, Nora? Aren't you afraid that Justin would be jealous?"

Nora didn't answer her.

Her stern demeanor made Brenda drop the flippant act, and she didn't dare to joke around anymore.

Soon, they arrived at the special department.

Nora stopped the car, got out with Brenda, and entered from the main entrance.

Morris, who was in his office, was standing at the window and watching them.

His secretary came in and asked, "It's time to knock off, Captain Ford. Aren't you leaving?"

"No, I still have something to do."

Morris replied.

Surprised, the secretary asked, "Is there a case that needs our attention? Do you need my help? We..."

"No, it's fine. You guys can go."

"... Alright, then."

The secretary didn't know why Morris, who usually knocked off on the dot, was working overtime today, but she was greatly relieved that she didn't have to work overtime along with him.

Thus, everyone left the office.

Nora entered the special department with Brenda. The latter had once worked there for a period of time, so she knew everyone there and was on good terms with them. After greeting them all, she finally asked, "Where are we going, Nora?"

As soon as she popped the question, Nora stopped in front of a door with Brenda. She gazed at the door and then answered, "We're here."

She pushed the door open.

When Brenda got a clear look at the room, she was stunned.

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1062 - The Founder Of The Special Department

The secluded room was shrouded completely in darkness, and there were no windows inside. When Nora opened the door, the sensor-operated lights switched on, lighting up the room with a dim yellow light and allowing Brenda to take a good look at the interior.

The walls were filled with black and white headshots.

Nora entered the room. Brenda followed after her and looked at the photographs one by one.

Underneath the black and white portraits were not even names but just serial codes. It was as though they were afraid of having their identities discovered even when they were in the special department.

Though Brenda had worked here before, she had never stepped into this room before because she knew very well that this was where those who had died in the line of duty were.

Nora said, "I don't know what it's like in Interpol, but here in America, these people are honored for their sacrifice. These brave soldiers sacrificed themselves for the country and for the people, but they have never demanded anything in return. Even after their deaths, they refuse to leave behind even their names, for fear that they may implicate their family.

"Brenda, when you joined this line of work, have you ever thought that you would die in the line of duty? Would you cower in fear and be hesitant to take action while carrying out missions because you're afraid that you would die?

"Would you want your teammates to live the rest of their lives in atonement after you die in the line of duty, unable to ever escape from the curse? There is no problem with looking after a deceased teammate's family, but is there a need for you to do it in such a lowly manner?

“Marcus may have died and sacrificed his life while trying to save you, but before he died, I'm sure he wouldn't have wanted you to become his wife after his death to take care of his aging mother!

“The two of you are comrades! The two of you are brothers-in-arms! The frontline is no place for romance! At the bottom of it all, Marcus didn't die for your sake; he died in the line of duty while trying to catch Barbarian! He died for the greater good; for Barbarian's future victims, and for the ones whom he had already killed!

“But what are you doing now? You've cheapened Marcus' sacrifice!

“Take a good look at these people... After their deaths, their comrades will certainly become their brothers and help them to take care of their families, but they will never sacrifice themselves to do so! Neither will they allow themselves to become their wives!”

Nora rarely spoke this much. If it wasn't because she wanted to give Brenda a wake-up call, she couldn't even be bothered to talk to her.

The woman had forced herself into a dead end, and her actions had sullied Marcus' sacrifice.

Marcus' death had indeed been partially due to Brenda and his own personal feelings, but it was more a sacrifice in the line of duty as an Interpol officer while trying to catch a criminal than anything else.

His sacrifice was for the people!

Brenda was stunned.

She naturally understood all these, but she simply couldn't accept it psychologically.

But in this instant, as she gazed at the wall of photographs of officers who had died in the line of duty, a solemn look came over Brenda's countenance, and she suddenly realized that her actions had indeed cheapened Marcus' sacrifice.

From a brave soldier who died trying to protect the country, it had turned him into an infatuated man who died for mere love and romance!

Brenda's eyes reddened.

She suddenly looked at Nora and said, "I understand now, Nora!"

Nora knew that Brenda would probably still need some time to think things through, but this was as much as she could do for her. The rest would depend on herself.

She nodded.

The pair stayed wordlessly in the room for a while and paid their respects to the warriors who gave their lives selflessly for others.

Footsteps suddenly came from the door at this point.

As Morris stood at the door, his deep voice suddenly reached them. "Wanna know who founded the special department?" He asked.

Both Nora and Brenda looked over in unison.

Admiration filled Morris' eyes as he said, "I've never met the founder, but we all know him as Commander Xavier."

Chapter 1063 - They Are Legends

Morris took a step forward and explained, “The founder’s story has already become a legend. Nobody knows how much of it is true, but it’s said that humans had gained superpowers during that time, and many used their superpowers for evil. Commander Xavier established the special department to protect regular humans.”

He looked at Brenda and said, “Commander Xavier’s real name is Hugh Xavier. I heard his wife was also part of the special department back then. Once, when Commander Xavier was out of commission, she had led the special department to achieve various victories. The two ultimately retreated to the background and lived in seclusion in the end.

“The two of them were not just husband and wife but also comrades-in-arms. Commander Xavier’s wife was a reticent woman, and the couple rarely spoke sweet nothings to each other like other married couples. But when they stood next to each other, they gave people the feeling that two of the mightiest people had formed a powerful alliance, and it was as if they knew exactly what the other was thinking. When Commander Xavier’s wife was wanted by the entire world, he was willing to make an enemy of the whole world for her sake.

“They, who served the country and the people and also did everything they could for each other, then became the legends of the special department.”

Morris went on and said, “It’s also because that era was simply too glorious and spawned too many legends that people, in the pursuit of power, started developing an interest in genetic research. That was what led to our existing V1 to V16 gene serums. At the core of it all, these gene serums are actually humanity’s attempts at overcoming their limits. They dream of becoming as powerful as those super-humans, but little do they know that all those people who once possessed superpowers just wanted to become ordinary humans once more.”

After saying all these, Morris realized that he had said a little too much. He then added, “Commander Xavier once said that with great power comes great responsibility. If your comrade-in-arms has died in the line of duty, then all the more you must take on their share of duty and live on properly instead of losing yourself in your grief.

“His wife, Simone Xavier, once lost a friend with red hair. After her friend’s death, she dyed her own hair red and lived an exciting life in her friend’s stead. All of them have never complained or regretted what they’ve done.”

As Nora listened to Morris, she suddenly found herself longing to live in that era.

As for Brenda, she balled up her fists. A wry smile formed on her countenance as she said, “I really was splitting hairs over minor issues, huh.”

After chatting for a while longer, Nora’s cell phone suddenly rang. She stepped aside and answered the call. The caller, Lisa, said, “I’m at the villa now, Nora. Marcus’ mom’s mental illness stems from psychological reasons, not physical ones, so it’s actually out of our control. At the bottom of it all, the truth is that she’s not sick at all; she’s just doing all this to numb her pain. As for insisting that Brenda is her daughter-in-law... my guess is that she’s jealous of her in a way.”

She was jealous that Brenda was living her life properly when her son was dead.

To be honest, this was a perfectly understandable mindset.

A couple of days ago, Nora had even seen the news about an 18-year-old boy who saved a 16-year-old girl who was drowning. While the girl had survived, the boy had died.

The boy’s parents were unable to bring themselves to forgive the girl and were unwilling to meet her.

It was obvious that Marcus' mom wanted Brenda to suffer along with her so that she could feel better.

She sighed silently.

Elsewhere.

When Nora stepped aside to pick up a phone call, Brenda came up to Morris and stood next to him. She followed his line of sight and looked at Nora, who was standing near them, from the back.

Brenda suddenly asked, "Captain Ford, have you stayed single all these years because of Nora?"

Her words took Morris by surprise.

Brenda went on. "Do you also want a wife like Commander Xavier's? A soulmate whom you can also form a powerful alliance with and who knows what exactly is on your mind?"

Morris fell silent.

He had never told anyone about his feelings.

He didn't expect Brenda to still detect them.

Chapter 1064 - Solo And Brenda

Nora returned after the phone call to find the atmosphere around Morris and Brenda a bit strange. However, she didn't dwell on it too much. Instead, she said to Brenda, "Let's go."

"Oh, okay."

Brenda followed Nora out. After they got into the car, they returned to the villa.

Justin was still using his cell phone on the sofa as he waited for them.

As for Solo, he was occupied with the gadget. After dismantling the box, he had changed its components to the best ones available and was installing them at the moment. Upon noticing the two ladies, both men turned to face them.

Solo gazed at Brenda with a scorching look in his eyes while Justin gave Nora a gentle smile.

The man was not only smiling more often these days but also becoming more and more charismatic.

Nora shifted her gaze to the upper floor and said, "I'll go check up on Marcus' mom."

"Okay."

Upstairs, Lily and a psychologist were giving Marcus' mom a checkup. The woman, who had already come to, screamed, "Stay away from me! Marcus, help! Save me!"

When Nora entered, Marcus' mom looked at her in panic. "Who are you? What are you trying to do to me? Where's my daughter-in-law? Brenda, save me!"

Nora cast her eyes down and said, “Why don’t you just drop the act?”

Marcus’ mom paused. However, a brief moment later, she continued to scream. “Marcus! Where’s Marcus?! Brenda! Help!”

Next to her, Lily said, “This is Anti, the renowned surgeon and cornerstone of the Alternative Medicine Association. Identifying medical symptoms is as easy as ABC to her. Feigning illness is pointless in front of her, Mrs. Robinson.”

Mrs. Robinson was Marcus’ mother.

Lily had avoided referring to her as Marcus’ mother as she felt that the term of address would sadden her further.

When Mrs. Robinson heard what Lily said, she quietened down at last.

Nora looked at her and said, “I know it’s difficult for you, but the ones who have already passed wouldn’t want you to torment the ones who are still alive.”

Mrs. Robinson immediately screamed, “Why?!”

Tears trickled down her cheeks as she screamed, “Why should she be allowed to marry another man when my son is dead?! My son loves her! He died trying to save her!”

However, Nora replied, “No, your son died because he was trying to catch a fugitive. Helping and protecting his teammate is part of his duty! Even if the person in danger hadn’t been Brenda, his superior, he would still be obligated to put his life on the line to save them! That’s what it means to be teammates!”

Mrs. Robinson bit her lip and kept quiet.

She lowered her head and said, “But I just can’t accept this... I just can’t...”

In the middle of the conversation, Mrs. Robinson suddenly looked up to see Brenda at the door.

At the sight of her, she immediately hung her head in guilt.

She'd thought that Brenda would be furious and upset, but unexpectedly, she entered the room and looked at her instead. However, before Brenda could speak... Thud!

Solo entered the room and got down on his knees in front of Mrs. Robinson.

Everyone in the room was stunned.

Solo said, "I'm an orphan who doesn't have parents. If you're alright with me, I can take care of you like your son in the future. Will you accept me?"

His eyes reddened as he added, "I will treat you just like how Marcus had! I will take care of you for the rest of your life!"

He sighed and said, "Brenda is not the main cause of Marcus' death; I am. If you must torment someone, then please just do it to me. She didn't do anything wrong."

Brenda clenched her jaw, her eyes reddening.

Mrs. Robinson stared at Solo. Suddenly, she also fell to her knees and started to hit him. "You killed my son! You killed him! Why is my son dead when all of you are still alive? Sob..."

But as she continued to hit him, she suddenly put her arms around him and said, "Fine, I want you to be my son from now on! You must take care of my every need and want for the rest of your life! I am going to torment you from now on... And you!"

She looked at Brenda and said, "I want you to be my daughter-in-law and wait on me every day!"

Using the most vicious tone possible, the woman uttered the kindest words in the world.

Tears rolled down the cheeks of Brenda, who understood what she meant, again. She nodded and said, “Okay, I understand, Mom!”

Solo also echoed Brenda and said, “Okay, Mom!”

OceanofPDF.com

Chapter 1065 - Princess Lucy Is Here!

Five months later.

In the middle of the night.

Nora and Justin were asleep at home when they suddenly heard sounds from outside.

In the dark, they opened their eyes at the same time and shifted their gazes to the outside warily.

Both of them were already half-retired by now. They spent their time sleeping and relaxing at home nearly every day and only went traveling once in a while. One could say that they had basically already washed their hands of the affairs in the outside world.

They now led extremely peaceful lives with hardly anyone ever coming to bother them.

So, who was this oblivious little burglar?

The two exchanged a look. Then, Nora sat up and stretched. She was about to hop off the bed when Justin held her arm and said, "I'll do it. You can continue sleeping."

"... Alright."

Nora promptly lay back down. A moment later, her breathing became even again.

Justin couldn't help but be amused as he gazed at her.

She sure wasn't worried about him at all, huh?

Justin put on a light jacket and exited the room. His footsteps were soft and nearly silent to the people outside. Then, he heard a light rattle from a window in one of the rooms on the second floor.

He raised his brows, walked over, and held the door handle quietly.

The burglar in there likely had some pretty good moves, or they wouldn't have been able to get past the tight security at home. He pushed the door open abruptly and entered the room in a flash, whereupon he immediately sensed someone throwing a punch at him. His head ducked to the side leisurely before he grabbed the intruder's fist. Just as he grabbed the intruder and was about to dislocate their shoulder, the intruder said, "Dad! Wait, Dad! Go easy on me!"

Justin: "?"

He let go of the intruder and switched on the lights. Only then did he realize that the intruder was actually Alexander.

The sixteen-year-old Alexander was not only sneaking around but had also entered Peter's bedroom instead of his own.

Now that Peter had taken over the company, in order to have him focus on managing the company and get accustomed to it as quickly as possible, Justin had generously gifted him an apartment in the building next to the company and told him to move there.

He didn't want the boy to come home every night to pester Nora for help in business management in the name of learning...

Besides, were there really that many things he didn't know anyway?!

When he was little, hadn't he also figured everything out himself whenever there was something he didn't know how to do?

Moreover, Nora also needed her sleep!

After going abroad for the competition and returning with the champion trophy, Cheryl was now a proper university student, so she wasn't living with them, either. As a result, he and Nora were the only ones at home now. Life couldn't get any better than this.

But Alexander was actually back now...

Justin frowned and asked, "Aren't you supposed to be in the UK? Why are you back?"

Alexander grinned and replied, "Aww, you know, I miss you and Mom, so I came back to visit."

"Through the window?"

Alexander coughed and said, "Well, I didn't want anyone to know that I'm back."

Then, he opened Peter's closet, took out his pajamas, and put them on. The brothers were of similar statures, so they could wear each other's clothes.

When Justin noticed his son's somewhat skinny figure, he kept quiet for a moment before he asked, "Is the Queen not treating you well?"

"Nah. There's good food and fine wine every day, so life's pretty good there."

"Then why are you back?"

"Ugh, Dad, don't ask, alright? Aren't you sleepy? Come on, just go back and sleep with Mom. Oh, by the way, don't let outsiders know that I'm back!"

As Alexander spoke, he entered Peter's bathroom with an unused bath towel.

Justin: "..."

He couldn't help but gaze somewhat thoughtfully at the bathroom.

The next day.

When Justin and Nora woke up, they saw Alexander having breakfast on the ground floor.

After he was done, he patted his belly and said, “American cuisine is the best, after all! I’m so sick of the food there that I was close to throwing up!”

Nora raised her brows. She had already heard about his return from Justin when she woke up, so she wasn’t surprised to see him. She said, “Have more, then. Why do you look like you lost weight?”

“Hmph, Mom and Dad weren’t with me, so there wasn’t anyone who loves me enough to take care of me, I suppose.”

As Alexander spoke, he walked over and held Nora’s arm. He said impishly, “Hey, Mom. Spend some time with me today? Aren’t you tired of staring at that old man every day?”

Justin, the 35-year-old “old man”: “???”

He suddenly felt like his fists were itching!

However, at this moment, the butler suddenly came in and said, “Ma’am, Princess Lucy is here.”

The instant the words left the butler’s lips, Alexander jumped and said, “Dad, Mom. I’m going to hide for a while. Don’t tell her I’m here, okay? Just say that I haven’t been back at all!”

Then, he ran upstairs as swiftly as the wind.

Nora and Justin: “?????”

She Becomes Glamorous After The Engagement Annulment c1-1065

1. Volume 1

1. Chapter 1
2. Chapter 2
3. Chapter 3
4. Chapter 4
5. Chapter 5
6. Chapter 6
7. Chapter 7
8. Chapter 8
9. Chapter 9
10. Chapter 10
11. Chapter 11
12. Chapter 12
13. Chapter 13
14. Chapter 14
15. Chapter 15
16. Chapter 16
17. Chapter 17
18. Chapter 18
19. Chapter 19
20. Chapter 20
21. Chapter 21 - The Operation!
22. Chapter 22 - Anti!
23. Chapter 23 - Eating Her Words!
24. Chapter 24 - Meeting Each Other
25. Chapter 25 - Triggered?
26. Chapter 26 - A Single-Celled Organism
27. Chapter 27 - Pete The Little Princess
28. Chapter 28 - I Know Your Sons Whereabouts
29. Chapter 29 - First Aid!
30. Chapter 30 - Hes Alive! Hes Alive!
31. Chapter 31 - Anti!

32. Chapter 32 - Exposing Her Own Identity
33. Chapter 33 - He Knows Now!
34. Chapter 34 - Poor Relatives?
35. Chapter 35 - The Andersons From New York?!
36. Chapter 36 - Two Petes?!
37. Chapter 37 - Weve Been Discovered!
38. Chapter 38 - Nora Is Petes Mother!
39. Chapter 39 - Sharing The Same Room
40. Chapter 40 - Justin Eating His Own Words
41. Chapter 41 - They Came Too Late!
42. Chapter 42 - Mommy, Save Great-Grandma!
43. Chapter 43 - Wheres Your Son?
44. Chapter 44 - Investigate His Son!
45. Chapter 45 - She Mustnt Let It Pass Her By!
46. Chapter 46 - Noras Son
47. Chapter 47 - Noras Mothers Secret
48. Chapter 48 - Who Are You Looking Down On?
49. Chapter 49 - Acknowledging Each Other!
50. Chapter 50 - Mommy, Im Sorry!
51. Chapter 51 - He Really Was Hers, Though
52. Chapter 52 - Conquer Him In Bed!
53. Chapter 53 - Pills
54. Chapter 54 - Mr. Hunt Is Being Narcissistic Again
55. Chapter 55 - Your Son Is My Son
56. Chapter 56 - Seven Days Later!
57. Chapter 57 - Eating Her Words!
58. Chapter 58 - Justin, Actually, You Can Also Have A Daughter!
59. Chapter 59 - Go To Nora And Youll Have Both A Son And A Daughter
60. Chapter 60 - My Daughter Looks Like Her Father
61. Chapter 61 - Investigate Her Daughter!
62. Chapter 62 - It Really Is The Carefree Pill
63. Chapter 63 - The Carefree Pill Belongs To The Andersons!
64. Chapter 64 - Ill Give You Anything You Want
65. Chapter 65 - Someone Was Investigating My Daughter!
66. Chapter 66 - An Incurable Illness?
67. Chapter 67 - Direct Successor

68. Chapter 68 - Grandpa, Why Dont I Tell You Some Trivia?
 69. Chapter 69 - Daddy Has Come!
 70. Chapter 70 - I Already Have A Spot
 71. Chapter 71 - The Hidden Big Boss Of The Andersons
 72. Chapter 72 - Exempted From The Interview!
 73. Chapter 73 - Hello, Miss Smith
 74. Chapter 74 - How Did She Get Pregnant Back Then?
 75. Chapter 75 - A Stray Cat
 76. Chapter 76 - A Professional
 77. Chapter 77 - Who Says I Dont Dare To Turn On The Camera?
 78. Chapter 78 - Shes Turned On The Camera!
 79. Chapter 79 - Cherry Looks A Little Familiar
 80. Chapter 80 - Tanya Turner!
 81. Chapter 81 - Name Your Price, Mr. Hunt!
 82. Chapter 82 - Rachel Wood, Bring That Face Of Yours Over!
 83. Chapter 83 - Eating Her Words At The Dance Party! 1
 84. Chapter 84 - Eating Her Words At The Dance Party! 2
 85. Chapter 85 - Eating Her Words At The Dance Party! 3
 86. Chapter 86 - Why Are You So Interested In My Son?
 87. Chapter 87 - Youre A Bad Girl!
 88. Chapter 88 - Everyone Has A Very Active Imagination
 89. Chapter 89 - We Were Once In The Same Boat
 90. Chapter 90 - An Identical Child!
 91. Chapter 91 - Is She Qualified To Be Mrs. Hunt?
 92. Chapter 92 - A Little Sidekick
 93. Chapter 93 - The Photo From The Live-Stream
 94. Chapter 94 - A Wet Dream
 95. Chapter 95 - How Do You Become A Boy?
 96. Chapter 96 - Live-Stream Face-Off!
 97. Chapter 97 - Sweetcherry, Slamming People In Progress
 98. Chapter 98 - Nora Smith The Little Moneymaker
 99. Chapter 99 - Profits!
 100. Chapter 100 - Has Mr. Hunt Been Narcissistic Today?
2. Volume 2
 1. Chapter 101 - Birthday Present
 2. Chapter 102 - Your Life Will Be In Danger...
 3. Chapter 103 - The Birthday Gift For Daddy

4. Chapter 104 - Dont Hold Up Daddys Birthday Celebrations
5. Chapter 105 - Daddy, Actually You Have A Daughter
6. Chapter 106 - Sweetcherry Is Trending~
7. Chapter 107 - Little Cherry Is Famous Now!
8. Chapter 108 - Daddy, Are You Asleep?
9. Chapter 109 - Dont You Want To Be My Daddy?
10. Chapter 110 - She Shouldnt Stop Father And Daughter From Acknowledging Each Other
11. Chapter 111 - Pete Is A Live-Streamer?
12. Chapter 112 - It Really Is Pete!
13. Chapter 113 - Sponsor Daddy Is A Tool?
14. Chapter 114 - He Actually Has A Daughter!!
15. Chapter 115 - Cherry, Youve Exposed Yourself
16. Chapter 116 - Saving The Damsel In Distress!
17. Chapter 117 - Bossy Ceo In Da Room, Yo~
18. Chapter 118 - If He Had A Child
19. Chapter 119 - My Father Is Justin Hunt!
20. Chapter 120 - You Might As Well Just Say Youre The Lord Himself
21. Chapter 121 - A Soft And Squishy Daughter!
22. Chapter 122 - He Had Already Seen Through Everything A Long Time Ago
23. Chapter 123 - A Kindly Father And An Obedient Daughter
24. Chapter 124 - The Carefree Pills Ownership Rights
25. Chapter 125 - The Lowes Go Bankrupt!
26. Chapter 126 - Making Mrs. Levin Eat Her Words!
27. Chapter 127 - Forcing Her To Marry?
28. Chapter 128 - Mommy Likes Little Puppies~
29. Chapter 129 - The Truth Behind What Happened Back Then
30. Chapter 130 - Shes My Sons Mother, So You Dont Have To Bother Yourself Taking Care Of Her
31. Chapter 131 - Mother And Daughter Meet Each Other
32. Chapter 132 - Mommy, Dont Leave Me...
33. Chapter 133 - They Resemble Each Other A Little
34. Chapter 134 - Her Son~
35. Chapter 135 - Theyre Getting Married?
36. Chapter 136 - Justin Steps Forward

37. Chapter 137 - Father And Daughter Claiming Credit
38. Chapter 138 - Assistance Has Come~
39. Chapter 139 - Hillary Digs Her Own Grave
40. Chapter 140 - Leaving No Means Untried
41. Chapter 141 - Cherry Is Hospitalized~
42. Chapter 142 - Joel Smith Is Cracking
43. Chapter 143 - Whats Your Relationship With Mr. Hunt, Ms. Smith?
44. Chapter 144 - Nora Hates Misunderstandings The Most
45. Chapter 145 - God-Mom... Tanya???
46. Chapter 146 - Its A Small World
47. Chapter 147 - Are They Really Father And Daughter?
48. Chapter 148 - Yes, Im Bullying You. So What?
49. Chapter 149 - The Interview Notice
50. Chapter 150 - The Familiar-Looking Jeep
51. Chapter 151 - The Admission Results Are Out!
52. Chapter 152 - The Most Awesome Mentor!
53. Chapter 153 - Im Her Father!
54. Chapter 154 - Sell It!
55. Chapter 155 - Hes A Slave To His Daughter Alright
56. Chapter 156 - Acknowledging Them As Family.
57. Chapter 157 - I Want The Companys Shares
58. Chapter 158 - The Dna Test Results Are Out!
59. Chapter 159 - A Second Test!
60. Chapter 160 - Embellishing The Story.
61. Chapter 161 - Dna Paternity Test!!
62. Chapter 162 - She Looks Almost Exactly The Same As Yvette!
63. Chapter 163 - Might She Be His Daughter?
64. Chapter 164 - The Kindness Of Giving Birth To Her?
65. Chapter 165 - The Truth!
66. Chapter 166 - Public Opinion!
67. Chapter 167 - The Truth Behind What Happened Back Then!!
68. Chapter 168 - A Surprise Gift~
69. Chapter 169 - She Must Be My Daughter
70. Chapter 170 - Retribution
71. Chapter 171 - Henry Smiths Fate
72. Chapter 172 - A Discovery.

73. Chapter 173 - Im A Female Hooligan
 74. Chapter 174 - Is Narcissism Hereditary?
 75. Chapter 175 - Life Is Too Dangerous!
 76. Chapter 176 - Anti Is The First!
 77. Chapter 177 - Do You Know Who She Is?
 78. Chapter 178 - Her Biological Father?
 79. Chapter 179 - We Can Do A Dna Comparison Now!
 80. Chapter 180 - A Slap In The Face!
 81. Chapter 181 - Nora Smith Is Anti!
 82. Chapter 182 - Tina Yorks Fate!
 83. Chapter 183 - The Report Is Out
 84. Chapter 184 - Why Are You Forbidding Mia From Learning How To Dance?
 85. Chapter 185 - Cherry Enters The Grand Manor
 86. Chapter 186 - Do You Play Games?
 87. Chapter 187 - Rushing Over To Give Them Money!
 88. Chapter 188 - Im Going, Then!
 89. Chapter 189 - A Quack Doctors Misdiagnosis!
 90. Chapter 190 - Am I Dying?
 91. Chapter 191 - The Childs Father!
 92. Chapter 192 - Choosing Between Two Options
 93. Chapter 193 - Yanci The Car Racer!
 94. Chapter 194 - The Hunts
 95. Chapter 195 - Jimmy Is In Danger!
 96. Chapter 196 - So, Nora Smith Was Right!
 97. Chapter 197 - The Race!
 98. Chapter 198 - Cherrys Father Is Justin Hunt!
 99. Chapter 199 - Justin Hunts Daughter
 100. Chapter 200 - The Phone Number
3. Volume 3
1. Chapter 201 - Justin Hunt Is Here!
 2. Chapter 202 - Father And Son Meet
 3. Chapter 203 - Daddy!!
 4. Chapter 204 - Yanci!
 5. Chapter 205 - Ill Do It!
 6. Chapter 206 - I Will Take The First Place For You!
 7. Chapter 207 - She Is Yanci!!!

8. Chapter 208 - Yanci Is Invincible!
9. Chapter 209 - Angels Kiss
10. Chapter 210 - Dna Test Report
11. Chapter 211 - Listen To Third Uncles Arrangement
12. Chapter 212 - The School Of Martial Arts?
13. Chapter 213 - Taking Over The Quinn School Of Martial Arts Affairs?
14. Chapter 214 - Daughter And Sister Control
15. Chapter 215 - Exam Results~
16. Chapter 216 - Pete The Loafer
17. Chapter 217 - Geniuses Are All Such Mutants!
18. Chapter 218 - The Quinn School Of Martial Arts Disciples Are Not To Be Messed With
19. Chapter 219 - Big Sister Is Here!
20. Chapter 220 - Having A Date Behind His Back
21. Chapter 221 - The Quinlan Sect Is Backed By The Quinn School O
22. Chapter 222 - Going To The Quinn School Of Martial Arts!
23. Chapter 223 - Long-Time Friends In Spirit!
24. Chapter 224 - His Lover Is Nora Smith!
25. Chapter 225 - Bullying The Strong
26. Chapter 226 - The Kids Go To The Quinn School Of Martial Arts
27. Chapter 227 - I Am The Father Whos Out Of Your League!
28. Chapter 228 - Miss Smith Of Quinn School Of Martial Arts!
29. Chapter 229 - Miss Smith Of Quinn School Of Martial Arts! 2
30. Chapter 230 - Miss Smith Of Quinn School Of Martial Arts! 3
31. Chapter 231 - Miss Smith Of Quinn School Of Martial Arts! 4
32. Chapter 232 - Miss Smith Of Quinn School Of Martial Arts! 5
33. Chapter 233 - Ecause Hes My Son!
34. Chapter 234 - Paul Quinlans Fate!
35. Chapter 235 - Make Sure She Doesnt Die
36. Chapter 236 - Lets Just Throw This Pot Of Flowers Away
37. Chapter 237 - Whats That?
38. Chapter 238 - Joels Thoughtfulness
39. Chapter 239 - Mother-In-Law And Daughter-In-Law Meet!
40. Chapter 240 - Help!
41. Chapter 241 - Smith?

42. Chapter 242 - Children Must Not Be Without Their Mother
43. Chapter 243 - Cherrys Mommy
44. Chapter 244 - Raising Her Daughter?
45. Chapter 245 - Whats Your Name, Ms. Smith?
46. Chapter 246 - God-Sisters
47. Chapter 247 - Tough Love
48. Chapter 248 - Let The Two Children Meet And Get Familiar With Each Other!
49. Chapter 249 - Returning To The Hunts
50. Chapter 250 - The Past
51. Chapter 251 - Meeting
52. Chapter 252 - Nora Is Petes Biological Mother??
53. Chapter 253 - Isiting God-Sis
54. Chapter 254 - The Family Of Four Meets!
55. Chapter 255 - Mr. Hunt, This Is Your God-Aunt
56. Chapter 256 - A Reasonable Explanation!
57. Chapter 257 - How Did She Become Pregnant Back Then?
58. Chapter 258 - The Secret!
59. Chapter 259 - Birthday Party
60. Chapter 260 - Alchemy!
61. Chapter 261 - Mr. Hunts Girlfriend
62. Chapter 262 - Medicine Success
63. Chapter 263 - Drug Seller~
64. Chapter 264 - Marriage Of The Smiths And Hunts
65. Chapter 265 - Bringing Her Back To The Smiths!
66. Chapter 266 - The Birthday Party!
67. Chapter 267 - The Blue Enchantress
68. Chapter 268 - Public Enemy
69. Chapter 269 - The Official Announcement Is Coming!
70. Chapter 270 - The Strongest Socialite?
71. Chapter 271 - How Can You Get Violent?
72. Chapter 272 - Let Me Make The Introductions, This Is My Girlfriend
73. Chapter 273 - 3: Birthday Gift~
74. Chapter 274 - Zabe Corporations Calming Pill!
75. Chapter 275 - Ian Is Here!
76. Chapter 276 - Rich Grandpa~

77. Chapter 277 - Meeting Each Other
 78. Chapter 278 - Illegitimate Daughter?
 79. Chapter 279 - Who Said She Didn't Have A Strong Family?
 80. Chapter 280 - She's A Daughter Of The Smiths!
 81. Chapter 281 - Dna Test Results!
 82. Chapter 282 - Redoing The Dna Test
 83. Chapter 283 - Her Real Father?
 84. Chapter 284 - Golden Words Of Advice
 85. Chapter 285 - To The Smiths!!
 86. Chapter 286 - Results Of The Dna Test
 87. Chapter 287 - Overeat!
 88. Chapter 288 - Who Is More Respected?
 89. Chapter 289 - You Are Ian's Daughter!
 90. Chapter 290 - A Strange Madman~
 91. Chapter 291 - A Debt~
 92. Chapter 292 - Hitting The Child?
 93. Chapter 293 - The Family Of Three~
 94. Chapter 294 - Happy Times For The Family Of Four~
 95. Chapter 295 - Do You Know Any Really Good Hackers?
 96. Chapter 296 - We Found A Hacker!
 97. Chapter 297 - Real Or Fake Solo
 98. Chapter 298 - You Are Being Watched
 99. Chapter 299 - The Real Solo!!!
 100. Chapter 300 - 0: It's Yvonne
4. Volume 4
1. Chapter 301 - Hacker Alliance
 2. Chapter 302 - Love Words~
 3. Chapter 303 - Genius?
 4. Chapter 304 - I Have Money!
 5. Chapter 305 - Louiss Secret
 6. Chapter 306 - Blow Up The Card!
 7. Chapter 307 - The Jealous Justin~
 8. Chapter 308 - The Bank Card!!
 9. Chapter 309 - The Card Is Mine!
 10. Chapter 310 - The Real Owner Of The Card!
 11. Chapter 311 - Five Years Ago
 12. Chapter 312 - Quentin Goes Idol-Chasing!

13. Chapter 313 - The Big Sister Of The Quinn School Of Martial Arts?
14. Chapter 314 - The Big Brother Of The Irvin School Of Martial Arts
15. Chapter 315 - Meeting Big Brother?
16. Chapter 316 - Give Up!
17. Chapter 317 - I Wont Use My Legs
18. Chapter 318 - Ryans Whereabouts
19. Chapter 319 - A Man Cant Say No
20. Chapter 320 - Exposed
21. Chapter 321 - Yvette?
22. Chapter 322 - Ill Bring You To Win~
23. Chapter 323 - Stealing The Limelight
24. Chapter 324 - Big Sister Is On
25. Chapter 325 - The Big Sister Of The Quinn School Of Martial Arts?
26. Chapter 326 - Yvette?
27. Chapter 327 - Are You Ryan?
28. Chapter 328 - Treating His Illness?
29. Chapter 329 - Acupuncture
30. Chapter 330 - Nora And No.028
31. Chapter 331 - Are You Taking Apprentices?
32. Chapter 332 - Old Maddys Condition
33. Chapter 333 - Provocation
34. Chapter 334 - No Virtue
35. Chapter 335 - Pervert
36. Chapter 336 - The Big Sister Of The Quinn School Of Martial Arts!
37. Chapter 337 - Going On Stage
38. Chapter 338 - Admit Defeat?
39. Chapter 339 - Youre Really Irritating
40. Chapter 340 - Is He Ryan Smith?
41. Chapter 341 - Exposed
42. Chapter 342 - Big Sister And Big Brother~
43. Chapter 343 - Thats Impossible!
44. Chapter 344 - Something Happened!
45. Chapter 345 - Saving People!

46. Chapter 346 - Captain Ford
47. Chapter 347 - Things Are Not Simple
48. Chapter 348 - Yvonne Is About To Be Exposed
49. Chapter 349 - Big Sister Didnt Come~
50. Chapter 350 - Im Here To Take My Fiancée With Me!
51. Chapter 351 - Secrets
52. Chapter 352 - Go!
53. Chapter 353 - Ridiculous Family
54. Chapter 354 - Who Will Pass The Word?
55. Chapter 355 - Saving People!
56. Chapter 356 - Light Of Justice?
57. Chapter 357 - Old Maddy Is Not Dead!!
58. Chapter 358 - Were Husband And Wife~
59. Chapter 359 - Im Anti!
60. Chapter 360 - Found Out!
61. Chapter 361 - The Pill Was Taken From Miss Yvones Room
62. Chapter 362 - It Was You!!
63. Chapter 363 - Stripped Of Duties!
64. Chapter 364 - Dna Sample From Back Then?
65. Chapter 365 - Who Is The Real Miss?
66. Chapter 366 - Umbilical Cord Blood!!
67. Chapter 367 - Two Actresses
68. Chapter 368 - Arent You From The Smiths?
69. Chapter 369 - Petes Sense Of Security
70. Chapter 370 - Shes Finally Awake
71. Chapter 371 - Ill Be Right There!
72. Chapter 372 - Choosing Clothes
73. Chapter 373 - Nora, Your Cord Blood Still Exists
74. Chapter 374 - The Villain Slings An Accusation First?
75. Chapter 375 - Slapping Yvonne In The Face!
76. Chapter 376 - Chase Her Out Of The House!
77. Chapter 377 - To The Hospital!
78. Chapter 378 - The Hospital
79. Chapter 379 - Immediate Family!!!
80. Chapter 380 - Nora Is Ians Daughter!!
81. Chapter 381 - Cured!
82. Chapter 382 - Punishment!

83. Chapter 383 - Was She Wrong?
 84. Chapter 384 - Karma
 85. Chapter 385 - Big Sister, Show Me Your True Colors!
 86. Chapter 386 - Teaming Up For The Tournament?
 87. Chapter 387 - Change Him To Big Brother!
 88. Chapter 388 - A Younger Sister Should Give In To Her Elder Brother
 89. Chapter 389 - Kiss~
 90. Chapter 390 - Her Birthday
 91. Chapter 391 - Courage
 92. Chapter 392 - Exposed!
 93. Chapter 393 - Nora Is Big Sister
 94. Chapter 394 - Exposing Her Own Identity
 95. Chapter 395 - The Strange Guy
 96. Chapter 396 - Father And Daughter Acknowledge Each Other! Separated By Death?
 97. Chapter 397 - Petes Speculation
 98. Chapter 398 - I Wont Let Go This Time
 99. Chapter 399 - Peace
 100. Chapter 400 - Their Child
5. Volume 5
1. Chapter 401 - Do You Like Children?
 2. Chapter 402 - Is Mia Really Hillarys Daughter?
 3. Chapter 403 - Noras Suspicion
 4. Chapter 404 - Mias Blood Type?
 5. Chapter 405 - Your Daughter Looks So Much Like You!
 6. Chapter 406 - Dna Sample
 7. Chapter 407 - Working Overtime To Do The Dna Test!
 8. Chapter 408 - The Passionate Young Man
 9. Chapter 409 - The Dna Test Results Are Out!
 10. Chapter 410 - Blood For Blood!
 11. Chapter 411 - Saving Him!
 12. Chapter 412 - Revenge!
 13. Chapter 413 - Big Brother And Big Sister Joining Forces!
 14. Chapter 414 - Revenge!!
 15. Chapter 415 - Big Sister Is Angry!
 16. Chapter 416 - Email!

17. Chapter 417 - Arriving Late!
18. Chapter 418 - Mia Is My Daughter!
19. Chapter 419 - Our Family Of Three~
20. Chapter 420 - Sponsor Grandpa Is Here!
21. Chapter 421 - Mr. Hunt Has Messed Up Again~
22. Chapter 422 - Dna Report~
23. Chapter 423 - Mia Is Tanyas Daughter!
24. Chapter 424 - Tanya, You Had A Child Once.
25. Chapter 425 - Our Child...
26. Chapter 426 - A Family Of Three!
27. Chapter 427 - Another Identity~
28. Chapter 428 - Two Men Working Together
29. Chapter 429 - Returning To The Country!
30. Chapter 430 - Public Opinion!
31. Chapter 431 - Ferment
32. Chapter 432 - The Jealous Lover
33. Chapter 433 - Going To Court!
34. Chapter 434 - The Trial Starts!
35. Chapter 435 - The Plaintiff Turns Into The Defendant!!
36. Chapter 436 - Pleading Guilty!
37. Chapter 437 - Life Imprisonment!!
38. Chapter 438 - Karl Moore Is Tanya'S Father?
39. Chapter 439 - The Busy Lily.
40. Chapter 440 - The Queen Of Sleep Is Awake
41. Chapter 441 - Shower You
42. Chapter 442 - Let Me Die!
43. Chapter 443 - Lily, Work Is Here Again!
44. Chapter 444 - Black Cat Is Here
45. Chapter 445 - Result!
46. Chapter 446 - Take Good Care Of Hillary.
47. Chapter 447 - A Child With A High Status Elevates Their Mother'S Status
48. Chapter 448 - Tanya Doesn'T Have A Notable Background?
49. Chapter 449 - Karl Is Here!
50. Chapter 450 - Tanya Is My Daughter!!
51. Chapter 451 - Shall I Accompany You?
52. Chapter 452 - Tanya'S Birthday Is Wrong

53. Chapter 453 - Back Then?
54. Chapter 454 - Meet The Small One~
55. Chapter 455 - Sleeping So Long?!
56. Chapter 456 - The External Forensic Doctor
57. Chapter 457 - I Met Her!
58. Chapter 458 - Aunt Brenda, I'M Cherry!
59. Chapter 459 - Aunt And Niece Sharing The Same Interests
60. Chapter 460 - I'M Your Mother
61. Chapter 461 - The Mastermind!!
62. Chapter 462 - 2 Strange Illness
63. Chapter 463 - Alternative Medicine And Modern Medicine!
64. Chapter 464 - Sudden Death
65. Chapter 465 - Cause Of Death!!
66. Chapter 466 - Evidence!
67. Chapter 467 - Confess!
68. Chapter 468 - Too Late!
69. Chapter 469 - A Turn Of Events!!
70. Chapter 470 - How She Became Pregnant Back Then!!!
71. Chapter 471 - The Truth?
72. Chapter 472 - Flip The Case!!
73. Chapter 473 - Ms. Tanya Is Not A Suspect!
74. Chapter 474 - I Want To Bicker With You!
75. Chapter 475 - I Got You!
76. Chapter 476 - Frightening You~
77. Chapter 477 - I'M Q
78. Chapter 478 - Ungrateful
79. Chapter 479 - Do You Have A Feud With Q?
80. Chapter 480 - She Isn'T Q
81. Chapter 481 - Nora Smith Is Q!
82. Chapter 482 - She Is Far Inferior To Q!
83. Chapter 483 - A Fake Will Always Be A Fake
84. Chapter 484 - Caught You!
85. Chapter 485 - We Have Q!
86. Chapter 486 - Nora... Is Angering People To Death
87. Chapter 487 - I'Ll Tell You A Secret~
88. Chapter 488 - A Secret!
89. Chapter 489 - Little Psycho?

90. Chapter 490 - Another Identity~
 91. Chapter 491 - Slapping The Hypocrite In The Face!
 92. Chapter 492 - 2 There Will Always Be A Way!
 93. Chapter 493 - The Misguided Nora Smith??
 94. Chapter 494 - Jon Gets Slapped In The Face
 95. Chapter 495 - Name Your Price, Q
 96. Chapter 496 - Playing Along With The Enemy!
 97. Chapter 497 - Trueman Yale!
 98. Chapter 498 - Exposing Her Own Identity!
 99. Chapter 499 - Mr. Gray, You Know Trueman Yale!
 100. Chapter 500 - Jealous
6. Volume 6
1. Chapter 501 - Biological Siblings~
 2. Chapter 502 - Mrs. Hunt Was Slapped In The Face!
 3. Chapter 503 - Face Slapping Mrs. Hunt!
 4. Chapter 504 - Smiths Select A Son-In-Law!
 5. Chapter 505 - A Good Show!
 6. Chapter 506 - Modern Medicine And Alternative Medicine Competition!
 7. Chapter 507 - Black Cat?
 8. Chapter 508 - Getting The Marriage Certificate!
 9. Chapter 509 - Kissed!!
 10. Chapter 510 - I Haven'T Had Enough Of Kissing You Yet
 11. Chapter 511 - Dilemma?
 12. Chapter 512 - Complain!
 13. Chapter 513 - Are You Satisfied With My Arrangement?
 14. Chapter 514 - Passionate
 15. Chapter 515 - We Have To Act Fast
 16. Chapter 516 - The Scheming Father And Son
 17. Chapter 517 - Exposing Her Own Identity!
 18. Chapter 518 - There'S No Way She Would Ever Say Anything Like That!
 19. Chapter 519 - She Is The Last Disciple Of Dr. Zabe!
 20. Chapter 520 - Slap In The Face!
 21. Chapter 521 - The Truth About The Pregnancy Back Then!
 22. Chapter 522 - The Final Truth Must Be Cruel!
 23. Chapter 523 - The Truth!

24. Chapter 524 - A Slap In The Face!
25. Chapter 525 - The Entrance Is Going To Be Destroyed!
26. Chapter 526 - The Person Who Plotted The Artificial Insemination!
27. Chapter 527 - Karl Is Troubled
28. Chapter 528 - Caught!!!
29. Chapter 529 - Is Karl Really An Accomplice?
30. Chapter 530 - Jill'S Secret!
31. Chapter 531 - Back Then!
32. Chapter 532 - Nora'S Methods!
33. Chapter 533 - Jill'S True Colors!
34. Chapter 534 - Trying To Take Advantage Of The Smiths? Are You Worthy?
35. Chapter 535 - Feel Free To Sue Him Then
36. Chapter 536 - Jill Is Not Tanya'S Mother!!
37. Chapter 537 - Fake Face!
38. Chapter 538 - The Truth!!
39. Chapter 539 - Karl'S Choice!
40. Chapter 540 - Q'S Habit
41. Chapter 541 - The Wedding!!
42. Chapter 542 - Giving Her Hand Away!!
43. Chapter 543 - Karl Has Come!!
44. Chapter 544 - Don'T Worry, Dad
45. Chapter 545 - Another Secret Identity~
46. Chapter 546 - Who Says I'Ve Been Fired?
47. Chapter 547 - Nora Is So Popular~
48. Chapter 548 - 8 Which Part Of Him Is Different?
49. Chapter 549 - Falling Into Her Hands!
50. Chapter 550 - Johnson Gets Slapped In The Face!
51. Chapter 551 - Interrogation Master!
52. Chapter 552 - She Didn'T Remember She Knew Ruth
53. Chapter 553 - Bullying Her?
54. Chapter 554 - Hacker Q And Y
55. Chapter 555 - Go!
56. Chapter 556 - Ruth Digs Her Own Grave!
57. Chapter 557 - The Face-Slapping Continues!
58. Chapter 558 - I'M Y

59. Chapter 559 - I Don'T Have A Messenger Account
60. Chapter 560 - Black Cat
61. Chapter 561 - Informant!!
62. Chapter 562 - Going Overseas
63. Chapter 563 - Karl Is Not A Criminal!
64. Chapter 564 - Joel Is Not Their Son!
65. Chapter 565 - Don'T Offend Justin!
66. Chapter 566 - A Date
67. Chapter 567 - Let'S Get Engaged!
68. Chapter 568 - Something Big Has Happened!!
69. Chapter 569 - Aren'T You Afraid Of Becoming Enemies With Black Cat?
70. Chapter 570 - 70 You Have Already Met Black Cat Before
71. Chapter 571 - The Questionnaire!!
72. Chapter 572 - I'M Black Cat
73. Chapter 573 - Nora'S Academic Qualifications!
74. Chapter 574 - Academic Qualifications!
75. Chapter 575 - Slap In The Face!
76. Chapter 576 - Leave?
77. Chapter 577 - Stay Or Leave?
78. Chapter 578 - Wake Old Terry Up
79. Chapter 579 - Treatment!!
80. Chapter 580 - What If He Is Cured?!
81. Chapter 581 - Justin'S Brilliant Power
82. Chapter 582 - Is Austin Coming?!
83. Chapter 583 - Quentin Stood Up!
84. Chapter 584 - Johnson Gives Himself Away!
85. Chapter 585 - Cranky Nora Slaps Them In The Face!
86. Chapter 586 - It'S Being Repaired!!
87. Chapter 587 - Johnson Takes Action!
88. Chapter 588 - A Big Meeting!
89. Chapter 589 - Old Terry Is Not Dead!!
90. Chapter 590 - Captain Johnson'S True Colors Were Revealed!
91. Chapter 591 - Captain Johnson'S Defeat!
92. Chapter 592 - About The Child?
93. Chapter 593 - Welcome Home!
94. Chapter 594 - Going Home

95. Chapter 595 - Arresting Someone
 96. Chapter 596 - Making A False Police Report
 97. Chapter 597 - Interrogation Results!
 98. Chapter 598 - Interrogation?!
 99. Chapter 599 - She'S Not Going To Put Up With It Anymore!
 100. Chapter 600 - Black Cat!
7. Volume 7
1. Chapter 601 - Black Cat'S Interrogation!!
 2. Chapter 602 - Full Confession!
 3. Chapter 603 - Identity Exposed!
 4. Chapter 604 - The Truth From Back Then!
 5. Chapter 605 - Why Are You Pregnant?!
 6. Chapter 606 - The Night Five Years Ago!
 7. Chapter 607 - Capture Her
 8. Chapter 608 - My Dad'S Not Here~
 9. Chapter 609 - Go To The Hunts To Interrogate Ruth!
 10. Chapter 610 - A Woman'S Jealousy.
 11. Chapter 611 - Nora Is Black Cat!!
 12. Chapter 612 - Child!!
 13. Chapter 613 - Justin'S Glorious Coldness
 14. Chapter 614 - Bring The Child Here!
 15. Chapter 615 - Triplets!!
 16. Chapter 616 - 6 Too Many Children!
 17. Chapter 617 - You Are Not My Mother
 18. Chapter 618 - Putting The Cards On The Table
 19. Chapter 619 - How Is She Different?
 20. Chapter 620 - Xander Yale Is Here!!
 21. Chapter 621 - Little Devil!
 22. Chapter 622 - Call Me Daddy A Hundred Times
 23. Chapter 623 - Nora Is Here!
 24. Chapter 624 - Exposed!
 25. Chapter 625 - 5 90% Biological
 26. Chapter 626 - Whose Problem?
 27. Chapter 627 - Whose Problem?!
 28. Chapter 628 - Diagnosis Results!
 29. Chapter 629 - The Real Reason!
 30. Chapter 630 - Divorce!

31. Chapter 631 - The Truth!
32. Chapter 632 - The Truth About Xander Yale
33. Chapter 633 - The Truth: Ruth Is Not Xander'S Mother!!
34. Chapter 634 - Are You? Are You Worthy Of It?
35. Chapter 635 - A Family Of Five
36. Chapter 636 - Good News~~
37. Chapter 637 - Thomas The Huge Cuckold!
38. Chapter 638 - Taking Action!
39. Chapter 639 - Face-Slapping At The Birthday Party!
40. Chapter 640 - Her Schemes Fail!
41. Chapter 641 - The Unsuccessful Scheme Backfires
42. Chapter 642 - The Badass Nora Smith
43. Chapter 643 - Results!
44. Chapter 644 - Heartless Boss~
45. Chapter 645 - Dna Testing For The Truth
46. Chapter 646 - Furious
47. Chapter 647 - Triplets!
48. Chapter 648 - The Way To Have Triplets
49. Chapter 649 - That Lunatic
50. Chapter 650 - It'S Her!!
51. Chapter 651 - Yvette'S Words!
52. Chapter 652 - How Did She Get Pregnant Back Then?
53. Chapter 653 - Old Maddy Is Awake!!
54. Chapter 654 - Twins Or Triplets?
55. Chapter 655 - Why She Would Die If She Didn'T Have Children!
56. Chapter 656 - 6 The Truth!
57. Chapter 657 - The Mystery Of Xander'S Birth!
58. Chapter 658 - Hello, Charles
59. Chapter 659 - I'M Sorry, Ms. Yvette
60. Chapter 660 - Her Numerous Secret Identities
61. Chapter 661 - How Can One Have So Many Secret Identities?
62. Chapter 662 - King'S Identity!
63. Chapter 663 - Build A Good Relationship With King
64. Chapter 664 - Birthday.
65. Chapter 665 - Pete'S Little Sneaky Thoughts
66. Chapter 666 - The Same Birthday.
67. Chapter 667 - He'S Not An Illegitimate Child!

68. Chapter 668 - Who'S The Naughty Boy?
 69. Chapter 669 - This Family Is Actually Not That Bad Either
 70. Chapter 670 - His Birthday Is On September 8
 71. Chapter 671 - If Only They Were Triplets
 72. Chapter 672 - Couldn'T Bear To See You Again
 73. Chapter 673 - A Small Misunderstanding~
 74. Chapter 674 - Joining Forces~
 75. Chapter 675 - Her Son Had Suffered Too Much!
 76. Chapter 676 - Coming To Die?
 77. Chapter 677 - I'M Your Mommy 1
 78. Chapter 678 - I'M Your Mommy 2
 79. Chapter 679 - I'M Your Mommy 3
 80. Chapter 680 - I'M Your Mommy 4
 81. Chapter 681 - Birthday Party! 1
 82. Chapter 682 - Birthday Party! 2
 83. Chapter 683 - Birthday Party! 3
 84. Chapter 684 - Birthday Party! 4
 85. Chapter 685 - Birthday Present 1
 86. Chapter 686 - Birthday Present 2
 87. Chapter 687 - Birthday Present \(3\)
 88. Chapter 688 - Birthday Present \(4\)
 89. Chapter 689 - Birthday Present \(5\)
 90. Chapter 690 - Birthday Present \(6\)
 91. Chapter 691 - Birthday Present \(7\)
 92. Chapter 692 - Birthday Present \(8\)
 93. Chapter 693 - Xander Is Bait
 94. Chapter 694 - Mommy, Save It!
 95. Chapter 695 - Three Months
 96. Chapter 696 - Clues
 97. Chapter 697 - A Trick, Yvette'S Skillful Methods
 98. Chapter 698 - The Clue Is On Her!
 99. Chapter 699 - Who Dares To Chase Me Away?
 100. Chapter 700 - Iris'S Changing Face
8. Volume 8
1. Chapter 701 - Can You Accompany Me Tonight?
 2. Chapter 702 - Reasons
 3. Chapter 703 - Nora, You'Re The Only One I Have Left Now

4. Chapter 704 - She'S Asleep
5. Chapter 705 - An Unfaithful Woman?
6. Chapter 706 - Showing Off?
7. Chapter 707 - The Face-Slapping Came So Quickly!
8. Chapter 708 - A Real Piece Of Work
9. Chapter 709 - The Great Master Orchidance
10. Chapter 710 - Let Me Tell You A Story.
11. Chapter 711 - Take A Gamble!
12. Chapter 712 - 2 It'S Cured?
13. Chapter 713 - Reconciling With Yourself
14. Chapter 714 - A Call From Hell
15. Chapter 715 - Nora Is Orchidance!
16. Chapter 716 - Face-Slapping.\(1\)
17. Chapter 717 - Face-Slapping.\(2\)
18. Chapter 718 - Face-Slapping.\(3\)
19. Chapter 719 - Face-Slapping.\(4\)
20. Chapter 720 - I'M Here To Listen To The Story.
21. Chapter 721 - 1 The Truth
22. Chapter 722 - Opponent!
23. Chapter 723 - The Shocking Turn Of Events
24. Chapter 724 - The Hunts Who Plot Against One Another
25. Chapter 725 - King Of The World
26. Chapter 726 - With King, There'S No Need To Be Afraid
27. Chapter 727 - Who Is King?!
28. Chapter 728 - Pleasing Father-In-Law!
29. Chapter 729 - King'S Slap!
30. Chapter 730 - Taking Revenge For Xander
31. Chapter 731 - Making False Counter-Charges
32. Chapter 732 - Who Says I Don'T Have Any Evidence?!
33. Chapter 733 - 3 Face-Slapping!
34. Chapter 734 - What Should Xander'S Last Name Be?
35. Chapter 735 - The Board Of Directors!
36. Chapter 736 - Sleeping With Mommy.
37. Chapter 737 - Nora Vs Justin: Who'S The Winner?
38. Chapter 738 - Justin Is Short Of Money?
39. Chapter 739 - Catching The Adulterous Couple?
40. Chapter 740 - Beat Her At Her Own Game

41. Chapter 741 - Board Meeting Tomorrow!
42. Chapter 742 - Board Of Directors!
43. Chapter 743 - Center!
44. Chapter 744 - Complete Victory?
45. Chapter 745 - Slap In The Face!!
46. Chapter 746 - Continuing To Slap Face!
47. Chapter 747 - The Divorce Storm?
48. Chapter 748 - Clarification!!
49. Chapter 749 - Hacker Q?
50. Chapter 750 - Brenda "Compromised"
51. Chapter 751 - 1 Q'S Identity Has Been Found!
52. Chapter 752 - It'S Okay For Her To Blow Her Cover As Q!
53. Chapter 753 - Press Conference
54. Chapter 754 - Nora Smith Is Q!
55. Chapter 755 - Iris Goes Missing, Meeting Again
56. Chapter 756 - The Clue To V16 Has Finally Been Found!!
57. Chapter 757 - She Had Sacrificed Too Much!
58. Chapter 758 - Password Book!
59. Chapter 759 - Find The Code Book
60. Chapter 760 - Someone'S Impersonating?
61. Chapter 761 - Untitled
62. Chapter 762 - Rushing Into The Dragon King Temple
63. Chapter 763 - Luring The Snake Out Of The Cave
64. Chapter 764 - 4 The Mastermind Revealed
65. Chapter 765 - Protect Quinn School Of Martial Arts' Big Sister?
66. Chapter 766 - Being Dramatic
67. Chapter 767 - It Turns Out That My Sister-In-Law Is An Expert
68. Chapter 768 - I Don'T Need It
69. Chapter 769 - New Trap
70. Chapter 770 - Dead Or Alive?
71. Chapter 771 - Repaying Debts
72. Chapter 772 - Taking Revenge For Her
73. Chapter 773 - Husband And Wife Work Together
74. Chapter 774 - She Can'T Wait Anymore!
75. Chapter 775 - A Stranger!
76. Chapter 776 - The Moment Of Farewell!
77. Chapter 777 - Whose Corpse Is That? Is Justin Dead Or Alive?

78. Chapter 778 - His Feels Great! You'Re Exactly The One I Want To Hit!!
 79. Chapter 779 - Redirecting Their Troubles!
 80. Chapter 780 - It Wasn'T Like She Was A Racer!!
 81. Chapter 781 - She'S Here!!! How Embarrassing!
 82. Chapter 782 - King!!!
 83. Chapter 783 - King Was Watching Her!
 84. Chapter 784 - Genius? Slap Her In The Face?
 85. Chapter 785 - Mrs. Hunt'S Spirit
 86. Chapter 786 - No Shortage Of Money!
 87. Chapter 787 - A Commercial Conspiracy?
 88. Chapter 788 - It'S Time For Some Face-Slapping!
 89. Chapter 789 - Her Friend
 90. Chapter 790 - Gold Prices Make A Comeback!
 91. Chapter 791 - Slap In The Face!!!
 92. Chapter 792 - Continue To Slap His Face
 93. Chapter 793 - Justin'S Whereabouts
 94. Chapter 794 - Mysterious Account
 95. Chapter 795 - A Child Missing Love
 96. Chapter 796 - Joel'S Redemption
 97. Chapter 797 - 7 Who Gets The Account?
 98. Chapter 798 - Grandpa, Come Watch My Live-Stream!
 99. Chapter 799 - I Don'T Need The Account
 100. Chapter 800 - I Have An Account Too
9. Volume 9
1. Chapter 801 - Biological Grandpa!
 2. Chapter 802 - Grandpa'S Identity.
 3. Chapter 803 - Too Few Naps!
 4. Chapter 804 - I Want To Go Back!
 5. Chapter 805 - I Want To Go Home!
 6. Chapter 806 - Justin Appears!!
 7. Chapter 807 - I'M Here To Pick You Up!
 8. Chapter 808 - The Big Sister Of The Quinn School Of Martial Arts?
 9. Chapter 809 - Release Her!!
 10. Chapter 810 - I'M Going To Look For Justin
 11. Chapter 811 - Admiring The Scenery In Justin'S Stead

12. Chapter 812 - 2 Daddy!!
13. Chapter 813 - Daddy??
14. Chapter 814 - His True Identity!!
15. Chapter 815 - 5 Playing With One'S Sister-In-Law
16. Chapter 816 - Grandaunt'S Company!!
17. Chapter 817 - Approaching The Library
18. Chapter 818 - Mr. Hunt Can'T Take It
19. Chapter 819 - 9 This Familiar Narcissism
20. Chapter 820 - 004!
21. Chapter 821 - Slander?
22. Chapter 822 - I Have Evidence!
23. Chapter 823 - Who Will Be Fired?!
24. Chapter 824 - Fire Someone For Me
25. Chapter 825 - Who Is The Letter Of Dismissal For?
26. Chapter 826 - Slap In The Face! You Are Fired!
27. Chapter 827 - You Offended Someone You Shouldn'T Have!
28. Chapter 828 - I Can Understand
29. Chapter 829 - Advanced Archives
30. Chapter 830 - She Had Never Intended To Hide Her Strength
31. Chapter 831 - Exam!
32. Chapter 832 - How Did She Do In The Exam?
33. Chapter 833 - Face-Slapped By The Grades!
34. Chapter 834 - There'S Something Wrong With Him
35. Chapter 835 - A+?!
36. Chapter 836 - There'S Still Lisa!
37. Chapter 837 - 7 Investment Project
38. Chapter 838 - Meeting Old Friends
39. Chapter 839 - Investment!
40. Chapter 840 - You'Re Welcome
41. Chapter 841 - Strange Text Messages!
42. Chapter 842 - Don'T Laugh
43. Chapter 843 - What A Coincidence!
44. Chapter 844 - Anti'S Reputation Is Unwarranted By Actual Skill?
45. Chapter 845 - First Time?
46. Chapter 846 - Killed
47. Chapter 847 - Call The Police!
48. Chapter 848 - Digging His Own Grave

49. Chapter 849 - I'M Anti!
50. Chapter 850 - Meeting
51. Chapter 851 - Brenda'S Troubles
52. Chapter 852 - You Have No Right To Interfere With My Freedom
53. Chapter 853 - Epson Digs His Own Grave
54. Chapter 854 - Competing With Anti???
55. Chapter 855 - A Complaint?
56. Chapter 856 - Barbarian'S Modus Operandi!
57. Chapter 857 - Found It!!
58. Chapter 858 - Capturing The Criminal!
59. Chapter 859 - Why Is Brenda Ignoring Solo!
60. Chapter 860 - How To Make Up For It
61. Chapter 861 - Smoking The Enemy Out
62. Chapter 862 - You Shall Witness A Historic Moment
63. Chapter 863 - What Anti Looks Like
64. Chapter 864 - The Murderer Is Here!!
65. Chapter 865 - Barbarian Is Here!!
66. Chapter 866 - You Have Been Surrounded!
67. Chapter 867 - Her V16!!
68. Chapter 868 - She Has Gotten The V16!!!
69. Chapter 869 - It'S In The Bag Now!
70. Chapter 870 - 0 Medical License
71. Chapter 871 - It'S The V16!!
72. Chapter 872 - Two Potions
73. Chapter 873 - Little... Lisa?
74. Chapter 874 - Purification Of The V16
75. Chapter 875 - Spacey!!
76. Chapter 876 - This Is Switzerland!
77. Chapter 877 - Counterattack!!
78. Chapter 878 - Threat! Splitting The Loot
79. Chapter 879 - Where Did That Scumbag Go?
80. Chapter 880 - Queenie Schmidt
81. Chapter 881 - Do You Want To Go In?
82. Chapter 882 - She'S Playing Herself?
83. Chapter 883 - The Temperament Of Black Cat
84. Chapter 884 - The Little Princess Is Here Too
85. Chapter 885 - King?

86. Chapter 886 - Who'S The Eldest?
87. Chapter 887 - We Had Already Met A Long Time Ago!
88. Chapter 888 - The Mysterious Organization'S Headquarters
89. Chapter 889 - Blowing Her Own Cover: I Am Black Cat
90. Chapter 890 - She'S Fake!
91. Chapter 891 - Are You Sure You Want To See It?
92. Chapter 892 - Security Work
93. Chapter 893 - Take Off The Mask
94. Chapter 894 - We Don'T Know Each Other Very Well
95. Chapter 895 - King!
96. Chapter 896 - Tonight Is Her Chance!
97. Chapter 897 - Untitled
98. Chapter 898 - Justin Hunt Is King!!
99. Chapter 899 - She Doesn'T Speak Welsh?
100. Chapter 900 - She Speaks Welsh
10. Volume 10
 1. Chapter 901 - 1 Will King Refuse?
 2. Chapter 902 - In The Same Car
 3. Chapter 903 - Missing Her Uncontrollably
 4. Chapter 904 - Come On, Let'S Get Straight To Business
 5. Chapter 905 - He Was By Her Side All Along
 6. Chapter 906 - Jealousy
 7. Chapter 907 - The True Mastermind Behind The Scenes!
 8. Chapter 908 - The Shrewish Fiancée
 9. Chapter 909 - Queenie'S True Identity!
 10. Chapter 910 - She'S Not A Good Person
 11. Chapter 911 - What Did You Find?
 12. Chapter 912 - Mother-In-Law Looking At Her Son-In-Law
 13. Chapter 913 - You'Ve Been Cuckolded
 14. Chapter 914 - A Close Female Friend
 15. Chapter 915 - Two Sister-Doting Maniacs
 16. Chapter 916 - Taking Action!
 17. Chapter 917 - The Queen Is In Danger
 18. Chapter 918 - The Real Spacey!
 19. Chapter 919 - The Boy And The Princess
 20. Chapter 920 - One Down
 21. Chapter 921 - Queenie'S Secret

22. Chapter 922 - Queenie'S Character
23. Chapter 923 - Getting Into Intense Competition To Pamper Their Younger Sister
24. Chapter 924 - Black Cat, You'Re So Much Nicer Than Nora Smith!
25. Chapter 925 - Queenie Schmidt'S True Identity???
26. Chapter 926 - Nervous!
27. Chapter 927 - Queenie'S True Identity!!
28. Chapter 928 - She'S Queenie!
29. Chapter 929 - Queenie, Where Are You Going?
30. Chapter 930 - Explanation
31. Chapter 931 - 1 Taking Her Home
32. Chapter 932 - Something'S Wrong
33. Chapter 933 - On A Rampage
34. Chapter 934 - A Man
35. Chapter 935 - A Male Stranger
36. Chapter 936 - Death Is A Relief Sometimes
37. Chapter 937 - First Love
38. Chapter 938 - Barbarian Is Here!!!
39. Chapter 939 - Barbarian Must Die!
40. Chapter 940 - Let Them Fight!
41. Chapter 941 - Troublesome! Cooperation!
42. Chapter 942 - Nora Was Not To Be Trifled With Either!
43. Chapter 943 - I'M Sorry, Nora
44. Chapter 944 - Reversal!!
45. Chapter 945 - Queenie'S True Objective!
46. Chapter 946 - Trump Card!!
47. Chapter 947 - Cornered!
48. Chapter 948 - Fight!
49. Chapter 949 - His Defeat Is Set In Stone!
50. Chapter 950 - He'S Doomed
51. Chapter 951 - I Don'T Have To Lie To You Ever Again
52. Chapter 952 - Aunt'S Identity And The Truth
53. Chapter 953 - Live!
54. Chapter 954 - I Can'T Use This Serum
55. Chapter 955 - Angering Trueman!
56. Chapter 956 - The Truth About The Imperial League!!

57. Chapter 957 - The Neglected Truth
58. Chapter 958 - Trueman'S Bottom Line
59. Chapter 959 - Don'T Bring Anyone!
60. Chapter 960 - Husband And Wife Join Forces!
61. Chapter 961 - 1 Finally Meeting Trueman!!
62. Chapter 962 - 2 The Truth!!!
63. Chapter 963 - The Truth \(2\)
64. Chapter 964 - Little Servant
65. Chapter 965 - Meeting Xander At Last!
66. Chapter 966 - Daddy Is Too Lonely, That'S All
67. Chapter 967 - Eat First
68. Chapter 968 - My Servant
69. Chapter 969 - Tell Me What?
70. Chapter 970 - 0 Psychotherapy.
71. Chapter 971 - Is Daddy A Bad Person?
72. Chapter 972 - Bloodstains
73. Chapter 973 - She Offended Someone She Shouldn'T Have
74. Chapter 974 - It'S Not Too Late
75. Chapter 975 - They Are In Love With Her!
76. Chapter 976 - Chicken Stew
77. Chapter 977 - Just Set It Off Now
78. Chapter 978 - Falling Out
79. Chapter 979 - King!
80. Chapter 980 - Let Black Cat Interrogate Him
81. Chapter 981 - The Weirdest Situation Has Arisen
82. Chapter 982 - I Have A Solution
83. Chapter 983 - Justin'S Solution!
84. Chapter 984 - Why Should I Save Him?
85. Chapter 985 - Xander, Look Out!
86. Chapter 986 - He Will Die!
87. Chapter 987 - Old Maddy.
88. Chapter 988 - Someone Has To Be The Villain
89. Chapter 989 - Mommy And Daddy'S Wedding!!
90. Chapter 990 - Two More Things
91. Chapter 991 - Wedding Preparations!
92. Chapter 992 - Will Xander Die?
93. Chapter 993 - Marriage!

94. Chapter 994 - Stealing The Groom!
95. Chapter 995 - I'M Behind You
96. Chapter 996 - Bed
97. Chapter 997 - The Dawning Sun Lights Up The Clouds
98. Chapter 998 - The Only Person You Can Count On Is Yourself
99. Chapter 999 - That Little Rascal
100. Chapter 1000 - A Mistake
11. Volume 11
 1. Chapter 1001 - She Killed The Wrong Person
 2. Chapter 1002 - Goodbye!
 3. Chapter 1003 - Stay
 4. Chapter 1004 - Will He Really Die?
 5. Chapter 1005 - Two Options!
 6. Chapter 1006 - Living For Himself For The First Time
 7. Chapter 1007 - Five Years Later
 8. Chapter 1008 - Calling The Parents~
 9. Chapter 1009 - Dating At An Early Age??
 10. Chapter 1010 - My Daughter!!
 11. Chapter 1011 - One Cannot Change The Circumstances Of Their Birth, But They Can Change Their Destiny.
 12. Chapter 1012 - Why One Should Study
 13. Chapter 1013 - Be Confident, Be Fearless, Be Humble, And Live With No Regrets \(End Of Main Story\).
 14. Chapter 1014 - C, The God Of Gaming \(1\)
 15. Chapter 1015 - C, The God Of Gaming \(2\)
 16. Chapter 1016 - C, The God Of Gaming \(3\)
 17. Chapter 1017 - C, The God Of Gaming \(4\)
 18. Chapter 1018 - C, The God Of Gaming \(5\)
 19. Chapter 1019 - C, The God Of Gaming \(6\)
 20. Chapter 1020 - C, The God Of Gaming \(7\)
 21. Chapter 1021 - College Entrance Examination Results Are Out!
 22. Chapter 1022 - The Scores???
 23. Chapter 1023 - Fighting For The Same Candidate!!
 24. Chapter 1024 - Our New Member Is Cheryl Smith
 25. Chapter 1025 - Harvard University'S Response
 26. Chapter 1026 - Moving Out
 27. Chapter 1027 - Well, Her Family Is Worth At Least \$1.5 Million

28. Chapter 1028 - God C Is A Rich Second-Generation Heir!!!
29. Chapter 1029 - The Boss Is Here!
30. Chapter 1030 - What Is Their Relationship?
31. Chapter 1031
32. Chapter 1032
33. Chapter 1033
34. Chapter 1034
35. Chapter 1035
36. Chapter 1036
37. Chapter 1037
38. Chapter 1038
39. Chapter 1039
40. Chapter 1040
41. Chapter 1041
42. Chapter 1042
43. Chapter 1043
44. Chapter 1044
45. Chapter 1045
46. Chapter 1046
47. Chapter 1047
48. Chapter 1048
49. Chapter 1049
50. Chapter 1050
51. Chapter 1051
52. Chapter 1052
53. Chapter 1053
54. Chapter 1054
55. Chapter 1055
56. Chapter 1056
57. Chapter 1057
58. Chapter 1058
59. Chapter 1059 - The Truth
60. Chapter 1060 - So That'S What Had Happened
61. Chapter 1061 - Come With Me
62. Chapter 1062 - The Founder Of The Special Department
63. Chapter 1063 - They Are Legends
64. Chapter 1064 - Solo And Brenda

65. Chapter 1065 - Princess Lucy Is Here!

OceanofPDF.com

She Becomes Glamorous After THE ENGAGEMENT ANNULMENT

by Mr.Yan

 WEBNOVEL

OceanofPDF.com