

Table of Contents

		114			. •
D	Δ	n	$\boldsymbol{\Gamma}$	3	tı.	n	n
\mathbf{L}	L	u	L	u	ш	U	ш

Chapter One

Chapter Two

Chapter Three

Chapter Four

Chapter Five

Chapter Six

Chapter Seven

Chapter Eight

Chapter Nine

Chapter Ten

Chapter Eleven

Chapter Twelve

Chapter Thirteen

Chapter Fourteen

Chapter Fifteen

Chapter Sixteen

Chapter Seventeen

Chapter Eighteen

Chapter Nineteen

Chapter Twenty

Chapter Twenty-One

Chapter Twenty-Two

Chapter Twenty-Three

Chapter Twenty-Four

Chapter Twenty-Five

Chapter Twenty-Six

Chapter Twenty-Seven

Chapter Twenty-Eight

Chapter Twenty-Nine

Chapter Thirty

Chapter Thirty-One

Chapter Thirty-Two

Chapter Thirty-Three

Chapter Thirty-Four

Chapter Thirty-Five

Chapter Thirty-Six

Chapter Thirty-Seven

Chapter Thirty-Eight

Chapter Thirty-Nine

Chapter Forty

Chapter Forty-One

Chapter Forty-Two

Chapter Forty-Three

Chapter Forty-Four

Chapter Forty-Five

Chapter Forty-Six

Chapter Forty-Seven

Chapter Forty-Eight

Chapter Forty-Nine

Chapter Fifty

Other Titles by Nadia Lee

About Nadia Lee

Copyright

Chapter Thirty

Chapter Thirty-One

Chapter Thirty-Two

Chapter Thirty-Three

Chapter Thirty-Four

Chapter Thirty-Five

Chapter Thirty-Six

Chapter Thirty-Seven

Chapter Thirty-Eight

Chapter Thirty-Nine

Chapter Forty

Chapter Forty-One

Chapter Forty-Two

Chapter Forty-Three

Chapter Forty-Four

Chapter Forty-Five

Chapter Forty-Six

Chapter Forty-Seven

Chapter Forty-Eight

Chapter Forty-Nine

Chapter Fifty

Other Titles by Nadia Lee

About Nadia Lee

Copyright

Finally Forever

Nadia Lee

Finally Forever

Nadia Lee

Chapter One

Nicholas

"You're the biggest asshole in the world!"

I raise an eyebrow. Alicia's sharp accusation was expected, but the accompanying theatrics are over-the-top, even for her. Her impressive heaves in the low-cut green dress she bought with my money. Maybe s wants me to feel bad about turning her down, but all I can think is that needs to see her colorist. Dark roots clash with her over-bleached platic hair. And the fake lash over her left eye isn't well glued. Every time she blinks, it droops a little. She can't feel that?

Well-heeled diners in designer clothes start turning discreetly to ca drama. A woman in a mauve dress drops her napkin and takes a quick our table as she retrieves it. These people might be wealthy enough to glitzy restaurant with a menu that doesn't have prices, but they aren't impervious to the thrill of witnessing a juicy scene. And Alicia's shrill promises just that.

"It isn't that much money," she adds in a slightly calmer voice. She knows I hate drama.

The disappointment from the people around us is palpable. They w hoping she'd throw the '98 Lafitte at me. But that'd be a terrible move steady and reasonable as long as I'm not pushed too far. But when I've enough, I explode. Most people never see it because my threshold is hi Not even my brothers, except for that one time in high school.

"I'm not throwing money at some whim of yours," I say calmly.

"It's a business."

"With no plans or financial projections."

"It's going to be profitable, Nicholas. I'm giving you an opportunit invest early. It's only two million dollars. Not that much money. Practi pocket change."

That's rich, coming from a girl who maxed out seven credit cards. only reason she hasn't declared bankruptcy is that her hedge fund man daddy is paying off the balances. "In that case, just scoop it up from be your couch cushions."

She leans forward. "Your new car is worth half a million."

"Exactly. I don't even spend two million on a car for me, and I'm r spending that kind of money on your 'business.' I'm not your piggy ba "I'll pay it back."

"A sloth will finish a marathon before you can make enough to rep interest-free loan you're asking for."

"Why do you have to be so greedy?" she demands. "I've been cou on your support!"

"Because it's my money, not yours, and I'm not your father." My I chest buzzes. I glance at the screen, which flashes a text from my stepsister. she she -Georgia: Hey, are you in town? If so, can you come to Eat Pray D num now? ıe

-Me: What's that?

-Georgia: A bar. It's Molly's birthday, and she's a little drunk. An tch the look at nobody can drive her home.

eat at a

Molly. Georgia's best friend and fellow UC Irvine student, who jus turned twenty-one today. Everyone she's out with is probably pickled tone alcohol, including my stepsister.

-Georgia: I'm also in no condition to drive, so I'm going to walk o Jerry's. But Molly probably wants to head home. You remember when ere apartment is? . I'm -Me: Of course. I helped you move. had ؛ igh.

> Mainly because I wanted to spend some time with Molly. Otherwis would've just hired a crew to help Georgia.

-Georgia: If you can't, I'll ask somebody else. Maybe Dan. I think said he wasn't going to drink that much. y to ically

Dan, huh? Does she honestly think I'm going to trust a tipsy colleg

Ĵ

The with Molly?

ager

d

it

in etween —Me: I'll be there. Tell Molly to hang tight.

-Georgia: Thanks. I knew I could count on you.

More like I told her not to screw around with her or Molly's safety ink." Although those two didn't enter my life until three years ago, I take the wellbeing seriously. Georgia because she's my stepsister, and Molly...

ay the because she's just special. The smile on her face when we first met strulike Cupid's proverbial arrow, and I haven't been able to fully shake it even though I know she's too young. I'm eight years older, and we do have a lot in common.

bhone But something about her keeps pulling me in. Hard to put my finge but she makes me feel like I can just...breathe easy and be myself.

"Have you been listening to anything I said?" Alicia demands. The brink on her face is blotchy and unbecoming.

"I already told you no." I catch our waiter's eye and hand him the parking ticket. He disappears.

Alicia doesn't pay attention to what I'm doing with the waiter. To restaurant staff is of no importance. Actually, most people seem to be her notice unless they're rich or well connected. I probably shouldn't he gone out with her, even if she does make decent arm candy. But I was to forget my attraction to Molly, and the best course seemed to be to lo somebody who was nothing like her. A woman my age, with some fan high-society gloss and...stuff.

ver to And now here I am with this melodramatic banshee, who's shoutin e our said if you're going to be so cheap about it, at least take me to your fat birthday party!"

More eyes turn in our direction.

"No." I say it coolly but have to hide an inward shudder. As a rule, avoid taking dates to Dad's birthday parties. They're always embarrass although he calls them "fun," and of course everyone in his circle agre You don't disagree with Ted Lasker, the Hollywood god who's product nothing but mega-hit movies in his decades-long career. Even I admit I filmography is impressive. I drop a few hundred-dollar bills on the table need to go."

ye kid "What? You can't do that!"

I get up.

"If you walk out, we're done!" She slaps the table hard enough to I the silverware rattle.

"Okay." I start moving away.

"What? Nicholas! No, wait!" Her chair scrapes the floor with a scrape she jumps to her feet.

eir But I get out before she does—my strides are longer, I have a head . Well, and she's in wobbly heels.

off The valet and I exchange cash and fob. I climb into my Aston Mari off "You can't leave me here! I'm your girlfriend!" Alicia screams.

a't Girlfriend? Is she kidding? I lower the window on the passenger si about two inches. "I thought we were done. You broke up with me just on it, remember?" Then I head down I-5 toward Irvine.

Eat Pray Drink is near the campus, and looks like a typical college flush Garish lights, lots of neon writing on reflective black surfaces promisis cheap booze and even cheaper food.

Valet I park and climb out. A few girls are walking by. One says, "Wow. Some guys stare openly at the car, but I ignore them and roll my tight her, the shoulders. There's a full moon in the night sky, unusually round and be beneath Pretty. The sight of it helps calm my annoyance from dinner. The relative shines the same way, no matter where you are...or how you feel. It isn trying overly bright and flashy like the sun, either. It has a sort of understated ook for steadiness that I find comforting.

cy Eat Pray Drink is packed tighter than a box of doughnuts. I'm overdressed in my Armani suit and Gucci loafers. The interior's dimly and terrible songs boom in the air. The lyrics are more cuss words that her's Her friends should've taken Molly to someplace classier. At least with alcohol that would be worth a hangover.

I finally spot Molly and Georgia in the back. My stepsister's eyes a slits, and she purses her mouth as some guy next to her says something Molly's next to Georgia, nursing a beer. From the way her body is swa know she's had a few.

red I walk up and put a hand on Molly's shoulder. "Hey."

his She turns to me. "Hey, Nicholas." She slurs the greeting and gives le. "I wonderful bright smile. But her green eyes are positively glassy. "I'm twenty-one now!"

"Yes, I know. I sent you a happy birthday text this morning, remen

I also sent her what Georgia calls "book money" so that I don't appear nake "weird guy with too much money." Georgia is great for my ego.

"Oh yeah, you did." Molly giggles. "Are you here to buy me a drin "Yeah...not sure that would be a good idea. I'm actually here to taleech as home."

Georgia turns her head. "Oh hey, you're here."

start "Yes." My eyes slide to the guy next to her.

"This is Jerry," Georgia says. "Jerry, my stepbrother Nicholas."

approval. At least she has somebody to walk with. I don't care what co de administrators say about the safety of the area. I'm not letting my steps t now, become a statistic. "Make sure she gets home safely, okay?"

He gives me one of those Hawaiian salutes, thumb and pinky exterbar. from his fist, and waggles it. "You know it, step-bro."

I turn to Molly. "Let's take you home now."

lit,

"You're going to drive me back?" she says.

"Yep. I'm your personal chauffeur tonight." I help her up.

"Oh, goodie." She wobbles a little and then collapses against me. I right. curves crush against my side, and my mouth dries. She's slightly swea noon smells like alcohol. But she fits perfectly against me, and her softness she's not a kid.

She's only twenty-one. I'm almost thirty. I have no business feeling hot zings through my body. Georgia would've never asked me to take best friend home if she knew the kind of unholy thoughts going throug mind.

a not. As I escort her out of the bar, she slurs, "Good night!" to a bunch c better people along the way. Many of them have to have hugs and confused farewells before she leaves. They probably came here to celebrate her birthday, but are too drunk now to remember.

Finally, we exit the bar. The night air couldn't feel sweeter. Molly lying, I along, her sweet little body pressed against me. Silently reciting the Lc Prayer—which doesn't do much to distract me—I help her climb into then get behind the wheel. She blinks a little.

me a "This is a real nice car," she says with awe, sliding her fingertips a the leather seat and dashboard. "Aren't you worried I might puke?"

"Feel that bad?" Concern roughens my voice. "You need a doctor of other?" something?"

like a She giggles. "No. I'm fine."

We'll see. I should keep an eye on her. I'll never forget the group stomach-pumping incident back in college when a bunch of juniors ke you overdrank. I start the engine.

"Do you know where I live?"

Sigh. "Yes. I helped Georgia move, remember?" I also carried tons boxes for Molly because she was moving alone. For some reason, her is never available to help. She was apologetic at first, then thanked me ent and profusely. She made me and Georgia a quick chicken and veggie stirfollege dinner. I couldn't remember the last time somebody cooked for me. At was the best meal I'd had in forever. Something about Molly's home c will beat a Michelin three-star restaurant every time.

ided She yawns and stretches. "I thought maybe you forgot."

I remember everything about you. Memories accumulate. Each one different, but they all make me smile with affection.

She makes a small noise deep in her throat and closes her eyes.

"Let me know if you aren't feeling well," I say as I maneuver the c fer gently through the traffic.

ty and "Don't worry. Not gonna throw up in your car. Can't afford to clea says "I don't care about the car. I'm worried about you."

She looks like she's fallen asleep. "Thought I'd feel different when these twenty-one, but it's pretty much the same," she murmurs.

her "Yeah? What did you expect to feel?"

h my "More... I dunno. Adult? With some clear idea about how to get w want?"

"What do you want?" Maybe I'll get it for her.

She grows silent again. "Wish Mom were here."

Confusion and sympathy fleet through me—Molly's mom passed a when she was just a kid.

sways "But she's gone, so..." She sighs. "I wish I could have someone word's loves me the way I am," she mumbles, more to herself than me.

the car, "Everyone loves you the way you are." I hate the resignation in her Molly's normally bright, and she would never drop her guard long eno show me a glimpse of her vulnerability if she were sober.

"Really?" Her tone says, No way.

or "Uh-huh."

"It's so weird. Aren't you supposed to be cynical?"

"Me? Why?"

"Because you're rich? Don't people ask you for money and stuff? you're naturally, like, 'Oh my God, I hate people.'"

I think back on the unpleasant dinner with Alicia. Then I look at M who's holding on to the seatbelt like it's keeping her upright. I think at how flustered she was when I gave her a modest garnet anklet on her b three years ago. Too expensive. Not something she could possibly acce "Well, sometimes. But not everyone is awful."

ry for "You know what? It's totally okay for you to be rich," she says, try ad it sound wise despite the drunkenness.

ooking "Why? You like my money, too?" I smile.

She lets out a gasp. "No! I'd never be that shallow. I like you for yobody."

e is Heat flares inside me, but then she lets out a drunken giggle, dousing fire.

"Actually, I like your eyes." She twists a little to see me better. "The really kind." Her soft voice is earnest. "You have a way of making pecfeel special just by gazing at them."

In it." She tilts her head and peers at me as the city lights flash by. But shone who has the gift to make someone special. She looks at me like I'r perfect just for being myself, not for my money or my father. She's neasked me for anything, and she never expects anything. If I lost all my money, she'd still treat me the same.

hat I She gives me a pretty smile that makes my heart shiver, then leans against the seat, closing her eyes.

She doesn't wake up until I take her into her apartment.

ho When I call to check on her the next day, she groans with a vicious hangover but doesn't remember any of our conversation.

"You were so nice to drive me home, though," she says hoarsely. " ugh to the best, Nicholas. Just like your mom."

Something between shock and denial wells in my stomach. Mom is one person I've done my best not to emulate. "Molly, my mother and I nothing in common."

"Nonsense." She lets out a soft moan. "I have to go lie down before head falls off. Thanks again."

```
So lolly, out irthday
pt.
ring to our ng the 1ey're ple e's the ver back You're
s the have e my
```

head falls off. Thanks again."

Chapter Two

Molly

-4 years, 11 months and 23 days later

"All I want for my birthday is a hot, sexy, grumpy single dad, who hire to be a nanny to his adorable little girl, then falls in love with me and a to marry him and have his baby." I glare at my virtually empty iced americano cup, an unjust state of affairs when I'm not feeling the happ effects of the caffeine yet. Okay, out of coffee so soon? I reach for the chips. I like this little deli near my work—the small, round wooden tab matching chairs and colorful butterfly windchimes hanging from the color but they need to sell bigger coffees.

At least they're generous with the potato chips and pickles. Try to fasilver lining. It's depressing to note I'm about to be a year older when haven't accomplished anything yet. Actually, forget accomplishments. thrilled if I just found some meaning and purpose to my life.

I should know what it is by now. I'm going to be twenty-six next w Surely I wasn't put into this beautiful world just to be an accountant to overly tanned, megalomaniacal creep and have transient, unfulfilling relationships.

"Grumpy single dad, huh? Is that a book you just read or something want to read? And if it's the former, tell me the title, because I want to it." Georgia grins, then bites into her BLT. We met as two bookworms junior high who overcame our embarrassed awkwardness once we star blabber about our love of The Hunger Games and Twilight. Over the y she's gotten taller and slimmer, and her dark brown hair curls adorably around her pretty face with its wide brown eyes and nose-bridge freckl Meanwhile, I've grown taller and softly rounded, and my brown hair is long and straight as uncooked spaghetti. But our love of reading and st for each other remain the same.

She's visiting this part of town to have lunch with me because she I hate having birthdays, and she considers it her duty as my best friend cheer me up.

"Neither," I say, then exhale slowly. "It's what I wish my life coulc At least I'd have some noble higher purpose. Taking care of a young c a serious but wonderful responsibility.

Georgia chuckles. "Don't we all? And Mr. Grumpy Single Dad is at to have the body of Apollo and the dick of an elephant on Viagra." She fluttering her eyelashes.

I snort. She's crazy in love with her boyfriend, and the faraway loo gets when she talks about him is genuine. "Never mind. I guess it is kil cliché."

sks me "You love clichés. You call them 'comfort reads,' and everyone love your comfort-read posts."

"Yeah..." I sigh. Even thinking about my popular Bookstagram ac potato doesn't improve my mood. "But you know things like that don't happe real life. Too trope-y, whereas real life is more normal. I'll settle for a eiling. contractor who hires me to be his accountant so I can help him make so his expanding empire."

ind the Georgia laughs. "What the hell kind of romance is that? It sounds a s"—she looks around, seeking inspiration—"drywall."

I'd be "The realistic kind."

es me

g you

"Girl, nobody's going to be excited about working for a contractor veek! wants you to keep track of his taxes. Not even you could sell it to your followers. By the way, is this contractor hot? You didn't say."

"Probably. I haven't decided." My tone is light to hide how glum I God, I'm dying to do something about my shitty life, except I don't kn what to do. I feel stuck at the moment.

read "Make him hot. And add some fun to it."

in "Fine." I wave my pickle spear around like a magic wand. "He's he ted to "How hot?"

ears Nicholas hot. The answer almost pops out of my mouth, but I contain Nicholas is Georgia's stepbrother. Just thinking of him makes my hear triple twists, but I know better than to show it. He's too sophisticated a cool—the Hope Diamond of men. And he's super nice to me, but only ipport because I'm Georgia's best friend. If he knew I've been harboring this crush on him, he'd probably get weirded out and pull away.

knows Since I see him once a month at the animal shelter where I volunted don't want to make things awkward. He's like a beautiful special-edition hardback of your favorite book that you display in a case while your real be." copy gets used and worn.

hild is "Very," I say instead in my most innocent tone.

Georgia squints. "And what else? A hot contractor hiring you to be going accountant isn't doing it for me."

e sighs, I tap the edge of my empty coffee cup, trying to think of some trop will satisfy my bestie. "He decides to fake-date his new accountant?"

k she "Why can't he just fake-date you from the beginning, rather than h nd of a you first?"

"Because that way I'd have a valid reason to quit my job."

ves "Ohhh... Job hunting not going well?"

I nod, trying not to feel too dejected. "I've sent résumés to several count but nothing. I'm beginning to wonder if there's something wrong with qualifications or something." This lack of new-job progress is another I feel stuck.

ense of "Nothing's wrong with your qualifications. Or you," Georgia says, picking up on my unspoken sense of inadequacy. "It's just a sign from universe that you should open the indie bookstore you've always drear of."

"One in five U.S. businesses fail within the first year." That's me. who sunshine and positivity.

"You could be the four in five that don't."

"And almost half fail after five years."

feel. "So be the other half. Right?"

ow Georgia is always confident that things are going to work out. But anything happens, she has her dad to catch her. Me? I'd consider myse lucky if mine merely let me go splat. He wouldn't just let me fall; he'd ot." me on my way down. Part of me is envious of her amazing relationship her father. On the other hand, she had no part in her mother's death, so ain it. A sharp pain pierces my heart, and I hold my breath for a moment t do recover.

nd You were only six.

But I could've been more patient. Acted better. My therapist back torazy told me it wasn't really my fault, and I nodded because I couldn't think words to express how I didn't believe her.

er, I "What's wrong?" Georgia's voice is soft with concern.

on I paste on a smile. The lingering grief from my mother's untimely adding isn't something I want to bring up. "Nothing. I was just thinking you'r optimistic."

"Somebody's gotta cheer you on. Oh, wait." Her eyes light up. "Is why you're dreaming of fake-dating a successful contractor? So he car in your bookstore?"

e that "No. I wouldn't want a boyfriend to invest in my business, especia when there's such a big chance of failure."

"Come on. Why date a rich guy if you can't raid his bank account? I almost choke. "Because that's mercenary? Besides, mixing relation and money is messy." I know that from personal experience. "Trying t things work with another person is hard enough without muddying places, everything up with money."

my "Did something happen between you and Owen?" Georgia asks, as reason perceptive as usual.

"Well..."

"What's wrong? I thought you were getting along great. I mean, he the he loved you..."

"I know." We started living together three months ago because he only told me he loved me, he said he wanted to come home to me. It was sooo romantic—and a great dating milestone. It sounded like he was lot to more. Maybe even marriage.

Just the image of us in love, growing old together, made me smile happiness.

I just didn't expect his "I love you" to be the peak of our relationsh then, if reality set in eventually. Georgia warned me that living with someone leasy—she's had three live-in boyfriends—but I didn't anticipate it to be berate challenging.

o with "He won't leave me alone."

"So he's...what? Too frisky?" Georgia says. "It's better than what to had with Shawn."

My ex told me I had a negative effect on his libido when he had trousing to the occasion. He said my ridiculous expectations about men a relationships made things hard—although "things" clearly didn't incluse of penis. He claimed it wasn't fair that I wanted him to be like my book boyfriends when he never expected me to be like the women in his fav porn. Then he looked at my waistline meaningfully.

death That was the last time he got to look at me.

e too "Not really." I still can't decide exactly what to do about my relatic with Owen. I feel like it should be salvageable somehow, but I don't ke that how. And there's an uncomfortable knot in my belly about our relation invest that continues to grow bigger as time goes by. Whenever Owen says, "you, babe," it shrinks a little, but then it goes back to expanding.

"Things are more complicated with Owen than Shawn," I say final Georgia's eyes are glowing murderously. She knows about Shawn shitty comments toward the end that made me break up with him. "WhonshipsOwen do?"

o make "It isn't, like, one thing. More a combination of stuff. Sometimes I to talk to him about if we're on the same page about what we want—a where we see our relationship going. I think I got a little overcome who told me he loved me, and moved in with him too quickly." None of my previous boyfriends had ever said the words, and they were just wonde hear, especially a day after my dad told me nobody would ever love me said way I was. I even cried a little.

"Have you tried talking to him?" Georgia says.

"Sure. Lots of times. But whenever I do, he says he has a deadline paying publications. And he's like, 'You understand I have to do this rooking now, don't you, babe?' What else can I do, except nod considerately a away?"

with "How about after he's done?"

"I've tried, but... He just wants to close his eyes and drink his been ip. But says nothing else really matters because he loves me and that's what's isn't important." As sweet as it was to hear those words, my vague sense of perplexity didn't really go away. But I shut up because it seemed wron argue with a guy telling me he loves me when not even my own father me that.

"Maybe you should write down what's bothering you and make an appointment to talk to him. Dad does that with Nikki sometimes becau she's so busy," Georgia says.

md "Yeah. And your stepmom is easily distracted." We sit on that for a de his moments. "But that isn't all that's bothering me. Every time I try to rea interrupts me. When he knows I'm making posts and reels for my acco wants to discuss the bills." orite

"The bills?"

"Yeah. He wants to rehash how we should split the utilities, even t onship we agreed on fifty-fifty before I moved in."

Red suffuses her cheeks. "Does he think you should pay more?" now

"No, worse. He just wants to argue about the split for a few minute ıship agree that fifty-fifty is fair after all. But by then, I'm so emotionally fra Love I can't focus on reading or making posts or anything."

"What a dickhead." ly.

g to

"When I told him it wasn't cool for him to interrupt me like that, he 's at did —and I quote—'It's not a paying gig, just some silly book stuff. So wl cares?'"

She bristles. "Did you kick his ass?" want

"I've tried to talk to him about his behavior, but he just kisses me a nd says, 'Love you, babe.'" en he

"Oh my God. That's so passive-aggressive."

erful to "Maybe he doesn't realize what he's doing is making me feel disrespected in our relationship." e the

> "Is he jealous that his account has sixty-three thousand followers, v you have over a hundred thousand?" Georgia asks.

for "That's silly. We aren't in competition. We don't even talk about t same things." Owen is a food and restaurant critic, so his account is all ight the best spots to eat in SoCal. nd go

"Maybe you should make puking sounds in the background while l recording videos for his account." A vindictive gleam glints in my best : He blue eyes.

"I might, if he pushes me much more. I just wish he'd quit saying I reading is making me have 'unrealistic expectations' that he doesn't fe can meet. It'd be better if he just didn't say a word about my books and it to himself." tells

"What else does he say?" She can tell there's more.

I sigh. "Last week, I was reading Big Beautiful, and he said, 'No billionaire with a six-pack wants to be seen with a fat chick." se Georgia gasps. "Oh my God, I want to stab him!"

"Gotta admit, I thought about it. Or hitting him with a frying pan fo a few ad, he being so insensitive." I shake my head. "He wasn't like that before. Or ount, he we just didn't spend enough time together until I moved in." It's one o biggest regrets about the whole thing with Owen. I wished I'd been more cautious—ensured that I was one hundred percent certain before movin hough rather than getting swept up in the moment when he said he loved me.

"Buyer's remorse doesn't kick in until after you've bought," she sa totally on Team Molly.

"I told him the title referred to the hero's package, not the size of the size

"Good...?" Georgia prompts.

"Good. Yeah." I feel awful that it's really the only suitable word. In painful to realize that the first guy who told me he loved me is someon struggling to live with. What's wrong with me? Or is it him? Owen see fine before. Or is it us as a couple?

"Girl." Georgia makes a face. "You need to get rid of Owen. And y shitty job. You need a life makeover."

while I laugh. "A life makeover?"

"Hey, it's a thing. There's a podcast about it. Here." She taps her p and texts me a link. "You should check it out. It'll give you some clari about listen to these ladies all the time. There's even a life makeover retreat i Seattle. Wanna come?"

he's "Uh... I'll take a look, but no guarantees." Part of me says I need to looking for a new apartment, especially if Owen and I can't have a serious discussion about our relationship. We can't continue like this. I wish only issues were something we could fix—because love conquers all. But really lives aren't romance novels with a third-act breakup.

d kept "I'm so sorry, girl. Hopefully, your birthday gets better, and you ru a hot billionaire who needs you more than you need him and treats you the queen that you are."

I laugh. "Yeah. So do I." I smile to hide my wistfulness over how I is off the rails even though I'm almost twenty-six and feel like I should it all figured out by now.

or maybe f my

```
ore ng in—
```

ıys,

ne main wen ee days, Being ff, t's e I'm med

/our hone ty. I n o start ious ur eal ın into ı like ny life 1 have

Chapter Three

Nicholas

I look around the ballroom at the Ritz for a final check before my moth star of tonight's event, arrives. She asked for a particularly lavish birth party with all her friends, acquaintances and the other mothers of my s brothers. So I invited them, but not my brothers themselves because sh wanted Dad present, and they can't stand him. I try to avoid Dad as mi possible as well. Nothing embarrasses the man. Thank God secondhan humiliation isn't fatal. Otherwise, my life would've been over before I became a teenager.

Mom will be thrilled when she walks in. Four hundred balloons an bears fill the space, just like she wanted, and exactly one thousand red are arranged in beautiful clusters everywhere. She asked for a quartet t the party, then a DJ to get the crowd going and dancing, so that's been arranged. She couldn't decide between a buffet or a sit-down dinner, so both—a seven-course sit-down dinner with a dessert buffet. Plus a cho fountain in the center because she said she had to have one.

It took four weeks to pull it together, but the result is stunning. Not Athena—Grant's super-critical mother—or Rachel—Griffin's hyper-melodramatic mother—will be able to find fault with the arrangements The only thing I need to get the party started is Mom.

I check the time. She's ten minutes late, which is to be expected. We isn't known for being punctual. That virtue belongs to her husband Pau Although I could call him my "stepfather," it's never felt right. Mom do marry him until I was twenty-six, well past the time I needed a father for in my life. The man is also perceptive and wise enough not to expect no play his son.

"Just where is she?" Athena's words are clipped, and she looks at r it's my fault her time is being wasted. A lanky strawberry blonde, she stratospheric IQ and gets bored easily. She believes most people are to dumb to associate with. She only deigned to come to the party because decided I have a sufficient number of brain cells to meet her standards. she finds Mom likable and funny.

"Maybe she couldn't find a date," Rachel says, tossing her long go hair over a delicate shoulder in a typically practiced gesture—she neve anything without knowing the exact effect it will have on her audience in a white Grecian dress that shows off her lithe body and legs. She ma sure to stand with her hips canted just so, her chin tilted at the perfect a She's a former model who every woman wanted to be and every man ner, the to marry, and she knows how to pose to showcase her assets.

"She's married, Rachel," Athena points out stiffly. Her tone says it day ix half-taking all her patience not to call Rachel an idiot.

"So? She might want some variety. And there's something about y ich as men that just makes you feel young." Rachel leans closer to her date, v probably in his mid-twenties. He has an exceptionally pretty face, with set blue eyes, a rosy mouth and a slim, wiry body that could pass for a dancer's, except he doesn't have the grace. Rachel likes her men young d teddymalleable and photogenic. She doesn't care to be seen with men who d roses enhance her.

My brother Griffin was relieved she found a date for the party. Rac o start likes to have him act as her backup when she has boy-toy issues, but G 2 I got is too devoted to his wife and triplets to spend his free time catering to colate mother's vanity.

"It's incredibly unprofessional to be late to your own party," come Jeremiah's voice from behind me. She's one of the mothers—and one nastiest legal sharks in the country. I'm not too surprised that she show Even though she doesn't bother with much that doesn't involve billable ì. hours, she is quite fond of my mom. Calls her the life of the party.

Jeremiah is in a conservative navy jumpsuit more fitting for a cour Iom than a party, and a huge diamond hangs from her slim neck. Her hair is ıl. lidn't the shade of fresh blood.

"You look like your hair committed hara-kiri." Athena's voice is si igure but it isn't enough to hide the naked blade underneath. ie to

Here we go, I think with a silent, resigned sigh. Athena might be a ne like but she's also predictable in her dislike of Jeremiah. They're probably too smart and too stubborn to get along. Athena hates people who argu has a her, and Jeremiah hasn't seen an argument she didn't want to rip apart.

"It's goat's blood. What do you think? I thought if you invited me would match your home décor." Jeremiah smiles that shark smile. Athone point dated some unhinged moron who thought he could cast a low on her by spattering her home with fresh goat blood. She's still embarrer does and upset about the incident, since Jeremiah calls it proof that "the great she's Athena Grant isn't infallible." That man's lucky the police arrested him threw him in jail. Otherwise, Athena would've found a way to rip him angle. little pieces and feed them to rabid dogs.

wanted She slowly turns red. It's the kind of red you get before you screan "Fuck you," and launch yourself at the other person. I begin to move a 's from the mothers before they ask me to take sides.

Where the hell is Mom?

outhful Even Dad, who likes to make a late entrance, has arrived. Dark-hai who's with a square jaw, he stands tall and grins smugly at the world like he'deep-God's gift to humanity. But then, why not? He's been consistently such throughout a career in an unbelievably competitive field. People worsh him, fawn over him and credit him for launching—or in some cases relon't—their careers. Even studio executives kiss his feet for the oodles of p brings in.

the Joey, his assistant with a forehead the size of a basketball court and the color of a shriveled California navel orange, is following him. His puffed out, his shoulders pushed back. The smile on his face is more the little arrogant—he knows he's gatekeeper to the all-important Ted Las course, that shit-eating grin changes to one of subservience as soon as of the eyes meet Dad's.

red up. "Hello, Nicholas." Rick Gordon, the mayor of our beautiful city, goe hand. "When is Nikki going to be here?" His cornflower-blue eyes gro soulful as he speaks of my mother, and his face falls a little like a basse troom hound's. His lank brown hair adds to the effect.

The man's married—happily so, according to the people in charge managing his pristine political image. But Rick doesn't bother to hide mooth, unrequited crush he has on my mother. Or maybe he doesn't know he' wearing his heart on his sleeve. If Mom ever got tired of Paul and divo genius, him, Rick would dump his wife on the spot to pursue her.

both Of course, he'd have to fight a lot of other guys for her attention. S le with a particular gift for making men feel great about themselves.

"Hopefully soon. Let me check." I smile politely, then step away a over it out my phone. I scowl at the missed text.

ena at

re spell —Marissa: Hey, I heard you bought LA Food Digest. Can you make assed the CFO? I'd be fabulous in the position. I'm looking for a new career, at feel like you're the person I can count on to help out.

n and

Marissa is someone I escorted to a social function a couple of monago, and the woman is woefully unqualified for the CFO position. The numerical skill she has is an ability to count by twos—and that only to up the number of shoes in her closet. She spent the entire time we were talking about her collection—and which ones she likes to wear to bed. conversation could've been bottled as a form of chemical castration. I red couldn't care less about her shoes or her plastic tits or the cloying perfit that gave me a low-grade headache.

cessful We haven't spoken since then, and I don't understand why she thir ip can just contact me for a job. Count on me, indeed. I block her number bootingtype up a text for my mother.

rofit he –Me: When are you going to arrive? Everyone's already here, inclil hair Jeremiah.

chest is

nan a Mom specifically said she wanted to hang out with Jeremiah. Othe ker. Of would've tried to avoid having her at the same event as Athena. I gland their direction. They're still speaking, their smiles wider and brighter, showing lots of shiny, bleached teeth.

rips my The text goes unread. That's unusual. Did she forget to charge her I wait two more beats, then text Paul.

et

-Me: When are you and Mom going to get here?

of —Paul: Get where?

the

What the hell? He knows about the party. He was present when Morced I talked about it, and he's a reliable kind of guy, unless he's suddenly developed a cocaine habit.

he has

–Me: Her birthday party at the Ritz.

nd pull

Three dots appear, then disappear. Finally a text from Mom arrives.

e me

, and I —Mom: Enjoy the party, love! I'm about to board my flight to Mad Madrid?

ths

only —Me: What are you talking about? Everyone is here! You asked for tally party!

-Mom: Did I? Michelle said my calendar was empty, so I thought have anything to do. But don't worry, I won't be alone. Paul and Georg coming with me!

ume

She has to be kidding. Mom's assistant Michelle is in her twenties, iks she comatose donkey would be more organized. As much as I dislike Joey, then I could clone him and give him to Mom. He'd never let her forget an e

-Mom: I'm so sorry. I'm sure the party is fabulous. I already feel ading incredibly blessed to have you in my life. You know that, don't you?

It'd be more of a blessing if she'd just shown up. She loves to trave rwise, Ishe likes to do what she wants, when she wants, but does she have to does in today? After promising me she'd attend?

On the other hand, why did I ever think she'd come? She keeps her maybe half the time. Even my being valedictorian at Brown wasn't enophone? She swore she'd come to graduation, but ended up texting me the fligh Bahamas she'd booked for me, saying it was more fun to celebrate that

And she threw a party so delightful, it almost soothed the hurt she delivered by not showing up to see me get my diploma. She always kn just how to smile and what to say to make you feel special. It's just...i always done on her schedule and whim.

om and

-Mom: They're boarding, so gotta go. But I'll bring you presents f Madrid! I'm also going to hit other European cities, so if you want any let me know! Love you!

She sends me a selfie of her smiling as she's walking down the sky She's even winking and blowing me a kiss. The personification of joie vivre.

I let out a soft sigh. "I love you too, Mom. Happy birthday," I muri rid. then put away my phone.

I look at the setup, and another small sigh wells. I signal the staff. ' start the champagne toast."

At least all the balloons, teddy bears and flowers won't be wasted.

r this made arrangements to donate them to local pediatric oncology departm

This birthday celebration was wasted, but hopefully Molly likes what l

I didn't planned for hers, even if it's small and not particularly spectacular.

gia are but a , I wish vent.

ان, and lo it

word ough.
It to the tway.

ows t's

rom thing, She sends me a selfie of her smiling as she's walking down the skybridge. She's even winking and blowing me a kiss. The personification of joie de vivre.

I let out a soft sigh. "I love you too, Mom. Happy birthday," I murmur, then put away my phone.

I look at the setup, and another small sigh wells. I signal the staff. "Let's start the champagne toast."

At least all the balloons, teddy bears and flowers won't be wasted. I've made arrangements to donate them to local pediatric oncology departments. This birthday celebration was wasted, but hopefully Molly likes what I planned for hers, even if it's small and not particularly spectacular.

Chapter Four

Molly

Owen's passed out on his belly next to me, his face pressed into the pil His brown hair is sticking up, making the back of his skull look like a hedgehog. He smells like stale booze. He didn't come home until well I'd gone to bed with my trusty Kindle. He probably spent Friday night clubbing with his friends. He says it energizes him. But the truth of the is he's going to spend all day today feeling miserable. I know from experience it's best to stay away from him when he's going to be crabl from a hangover. He makes the three-year-old boy I babysat in middle look rational and calm by comparison.

I slip out of bed so he can get some extra snooze time and then sho getting ready to go to Furry Haven. I volunteer once a month and love care of the animals at the shelter. It's the best feeling when we get to n them with new owners, who—hopefully—will love them to pieces and them all the adoration they deserve.

Because every one of those animals just wants someone to love the And in return, they give their owners unconditional loyalty and love. Y literally become the center of their universe.

I pick out an old pink T-shirt with a funny quote from one of my farom-coms, denim shorts and flip-flops. I'm certain Brenda's going to ϵ to help wash the dogs.

I leave a short handwritten note for Owen to let him know I went to shelter. Last month, he forgot that I had to go and acted like I'd abando him in his time of greatest need. His reaction was a little shocking—he never behaved like my volunteer work at the shelter bothered him until He even asked if I could quit. When I told him no, he gave me a look c absolute betrayal.

As I drive toward Furry Haven, a thought pops up.

Serial killers don't like animals.

Actually, serial killers practice on animals would be more correct. Owen's recent attitude toward my time at Furry Haven is another thing bugging me. What kind of person gets jealous over some poor homeles animals? I wonder what he'd say if I asked him if we could adopt Cool adorable golden retriever. Probably have a conniption fit.

Does Owen resent that I have outside interests? But I wouldn't be didn't. Seriously, who is Molly Greene if she doesn't read, share her lo books on Instagram or volunteer? Without those things, I'd just be an accountant at a gym who's in a relationship with Owen. But I'm more llows. that. My identity can't just be my job or my boyfriend.

The uncomfortable knot in my belly grows bigger. I should force a after with Owen, but he told me he has a deadline this coming Wednesday. out after my birthday on Friday? I don't want to have an uncomfortable matterconversation right before my birthday, and he did say he wanted to tak out...although he didn't specify when or where.

So. Have the conversation next Saturday or Sunday. See if we can school things. An open, honest discussion should help. It's possible we aren't communicating well about what we need from each other. Even in rom wer, novels, couples go through crises—and make up. This is just a third-ac taking breakup of sorts. A hiccup before the happy ending.

Furry Haven is in a pleasant part of the city, near a small park that' perfect for walking dogs. It's in a surprisingly compact square building white paint glaring in the California sun. The lot is mostly empty excelem. the cars that belong to the staff and volunteers. I don't spot one that located it cost a kidney, so that means Nicholas isn't here. He volunteers at the shelter too, but there are times he can't come because he's busy with we worite His billion-dollar empire doesn't run itself.

Brenda's blue-green eyes light up when I walk in. "Oh thank God! cropped copper hair glints under the fluorescent light as she opens her a colorful Hawaiian shirt stretches over her chest, and she wraps me in the hug. "I was wondering when you'd come."

"Why? Is Cooper being difficult?"

I then. "Along with all the others. It's like nobody wants to get washed too
I smile. "Do they ever?"

"No, but today's extra bad." She turns around, tugging me toward washing area. She's in denim shorts that show off well-muscled calves used to play soccer in high school and college.

But I help her. Jessie, a high school junior who started to volunteer two that's months ago to beef up her extracurriculars, lets out a soft sigh. "Does to mean I get to take a short break?"

per, an "Yes," I say with a laugh. Jessie's a good kid who loves animals—a poodle at home—but she's not used to washing this many dogs.

me if I I let her take a moment to slouch on a metal folding chair and help ove of Brenda, who seems to have unlimited stamina to deal with animals—a everything that needs to be done at the shelter. Like most shelters, Furnthan Haven never has enough money to do everything. Brenda wears all sor hats, not just managing the shelter but also handling the social media a talk "So were you able to find someone to do the charity auction?" I asl Maybe toweling off Cooper, who is the last one to get washed. A charitable foundation is hosting a bachelorette auction, and unlike most such ever where the foundation decides where the money goes, the bachelorettes decide what the funds are used for. When Brenda heard about it, she as fix me if I wanted to auction off a date for the shelter.

She might as well have tased me. Put myself on a stage in front of nance people? And hope they like me enough to fork over their hard-earned refer a few hours of time together? I'd rather watch a horror movie and horightmares for a month.

s But then Brenda gave me her patented sad puppy eyes. "It's just… 5, the money's so tight. It'd mean a lot."

pt for Noooo, don't look at me like that... "Honestly, I don't think I'd geloks likethan a few hundred bucks."

The puppy eyes became even more sorrowful. "It would really meatork." to the dogs. Besides, you underestimate your attractiveness, Molly."

I laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, and laughed laughed, but it came out shaky. It's always uncomfortable when present a laughed, and laughed l day." "If you can't find anybody, how about if I just write a check for fiv hundred bucks?" I finally offered. The amount wasn't something I cou easily afford, but I also didn't mind since it was for a good cause. Of c this was before I realized how incompatible Owen and I were, and I m need the money to move out.

So right now I'm praying Brenda found some other woman for the his auction.

She stretches her shoulders, watching Jessie take Cooper to dry hin she has "Uh-huh. An Instagram fitness influencer agreed to commit her procee us." She smiles. "It's going to be great. She's fairly well known, and sl gorgeous. Should bring some attention to the shelter, too, since she off make some posts about Furry Haven. We need money, but some extra volunteers wouldn't hurt."

The last part is true. Although Furry Haven has been lucky to get s nd PR. generous anonymous donations, Brenda is terrified that money might c k, Before I started volunteering, the shelter had a crisis with funds when the donors quit sending checks. She's exceptionally frugal now, but ev she were more relaxed about finances, there isn't enough to hire a sufficant number of staff to take care of all the dogs. Basically, without voluntees shelter can't function.

"You might know her," Brenda continues. "Dana Mincer?"

Ugh. It's like a spoonful of lemon juice just teleported into my mornoney I manage to maintain a neutral expression. Dana has hundreds of thous of followers on Instagram, and she is good looking. So I should be hap she's decided to champion the shelter, even though she was mean to m high school. If I didn't see her at the gym all the time, I might believe thanged since then. But Dana is still the same, just older and blonder.

I shake off my less-than-great feelings about her. These dogs aren'to walk themselves. I start to gather the ones who haven't had a chance in a lot out yet. I'm so relieved I'm dealing with the happier dogs. Some of the ones are so depressed about being abandoned, they won't even go for veople and they break my heart. I wish I could do something to make them fer nasty better, but the only thing would be to bring them back to their owners, that's beyond my ability. It makes me feel so helpless and angry. Thos are wasting their love on the wrong people. Sometimes I wish the dogs se as is were romance novels, so I could give them all fantastic happy endings gifting their owners with incurable gout in a bonus epilogue.

"Ooh, look!" Jessie squeaks and points out the window facing the lot. "It's Nicholas!"

ourse, "Wait, I thought he wasn't coming today!" another volunteer says. "Does that matter? He's here and he's hot!"

"Shit! I should've worn something prettier!"

Wouldn't we all have?

I smooth my hair, hoping it isn't a complete mess after helping Bren off. wash the dogs. And I'm not the only one.

eds to A thrill ripples through the volunteers. I'm susceptible as well, eve he's though I shouldn't be this shivery when I'm already in a committed ered to relationship. But Nicholas is so gorgeous with those stunning dark gray and Cupid's-bow mouth. And the body...

The breadth of his thickly muscled shoulders always makes me sig ome whether they're cased in a suit or a T-shirt—like today. His torso taper lry up. to a narrow waist, and as he strolls into Furry Haven, his quads flex an one of under his shorts. Jessie isn't the only one eye-fucking him.

en if He's like some kind of exotic, forbidden man-fruit. Or maybe a particient lazily stalking you. How can anyone's body be that perfect? And he's ears, the the nicest people in the world! Given how busy he is, it's incredible he time to volunteer at the shelter. Just goes to show how generous and swis.

uth, but He flashes a smile. "Good morning."

Female sighs go up around me. Nobody is immune to his smile—including me, even though I've seen it since I was eighteen. I'll probable in never get used to its impact.

she'd Boom boom boom boom...

I press a hand over my erratic heart, praying it will settle down. If a t going cardiologist were to examine me now, he'd push me into an OR for to go immediate surgery. Hearts can't be designed to pump this hard.

e older "Hi, Molly." His warm voice flows over me like a chocolate martii walks, sweet and potent.

"Hi." My response is more of a squeak than I'd like, and I groan and inwardly. Smooth, Molly. Very smooth. Might as well stick your tongue e dogs and pant while you're at it.

i' lives Nicholas's smile only widens. He probably doesn't even notice my while reactions. Not when girls far prettier than me fawn over him.

"Ready to walk 'em?" He tilts his chin at the leashes I'm holding. parking "Yeah." The dogs wag their tails faster, probably hoping he's my partner," so we can get going. Although Furry Haven is in a nice area, an incident last month when some weirdo flashed one of the volunteers during a walk. Since then, nobody's allowed to take the dogs out with partner. I think flashers might enjoy the chance for a twofer, but I'm no one making the rules here.

"Awesome. Let me take a few." A couple of the younger ones bark unable to contain their excitement.

n Nicholas reaches out for the leashes. His hand brushes mine, and a electric zing shoots through my body. I bite my lip and drop my gaze t y eyes my reaction.

Envious gazes focus on me, but I merely smile and walk out of the h, with Nicholas.

's down "I thought Matt was going to be my safety partner." I keep my tone d bulgecasual and cool as he reins in the excited dogs. Cooper in particular is excitable.

one of and pull on the leashes, and Nicholas tightens his grip. The man knows makes to exert control, which is hot as hell. His forearm muscles flex, and I st veet he absolute fascination.

"He apparently had something come up," Nicholas answers with a "I see." I think, but am unable to add anything.

I've harbored something between an infatuation and hopeless love him since I met him eight years ago at high school graduation. He look me indulgently and treated me like a kid he liked better than most becamy friendship with his stepsister, Georgia. After all, I was just finishin school, and he'd been out of college for several years. There was nothing about me that would draw his eye.

Besides, nothing could've made our differences clearer than his giveni— me a gorgeous garnet anklet on my nineteenth birthday. I was shocked uncertain as to what to say. The jewelry seemed so expensive, and not something I could casually accept. And isn't jewelry for somebody you romantically? Or was I reading too much into it? My head sort of went and I panicked with the pressure to say something. Although I can't remember exactly what, I'm pretty sure I blabbered a bunch of nonsenupset him. Since then, he's never given me anything except a short tex hundred-dollar Amazon gift card for my birthdays.

safety And I give him a handmade card in return for his because he said the wanted. He was probably just trying to be nice. After all, I can't him anything, not when he's a billionaire with everything he could desout a his fingertips. I'm just an accountant who lives from paycheck to payc ot the He travels all over the world—in private jets—and I don't even have n passport. He dates models with toned abs and endless legs, and I'm lik Well, let's just say the modeling agencies aren't breaking down my do just a normal girl with a soft, un-toned body and legs of average length couldn't be more different. Like a fish and a bird.

o hide I can't imagine being with Nicholas. He's out of this galaxy, beyor reach. It's like trying to do a split—except that if I overextend myself, shelter might just rip my heart out. Or, worse, have him pity me.

Besides, I'm loath to do anything that would make him feel awkwa around me. He's too nice to say anything, but he might avoid me or qu overly coming to the shelter. I'm just happy to be able to spend some time will once a month, doing good deeds for animals who need extra care and l

We walk along the path toward the park near the shelter. It's a favor show spot for the dogs to explore.

tare in "I heard you went to some gala for your brother. Grant, I think?" I oh-so casually.

shrug. "Yeah. Some sort of charity he wanted to support, and I wanted to Nicholas's tone is kind and patient, just like the man himself. "Speakir for which, I hear there's a charity auction Furry Haven's going to be part ced at Three weeks from now, right? Are you going to be there? To auction o use of date?"

g high "Who, me? Oh. Ha-ha. No."

ng in He frowns. "Brenda didn't ask?"

"Well, yeah, she did." I clear my throat, wondering if that sounded arrogant, like, of course she did—I'm hot. "I think she asked everyone and anyway, no. Not me."

"Why not?"

Is it me, or does he sound genuinely perplexed? Except I don't kno blank, he would be. "Well, you know. The shelter already has somebody who going to do the auction, and I wasn't sure if I could raise any real monse and His frown stays, and I realize he might be thinking that it was selfice."

t and a me to refuse to help raise money for the shelter. "But I, you know, offe donate some money to the shelter if she couldn't find anyone."

hat's His frown deepens. What did I say?

buy Finally, he lets out a small sigh. He opens his mouth like he's abou ire at something, but shuts up. "So. How have you been?" he asks finally.

heck. "Great." I flash him a bright smile. Thank God we aren't talking al

the auction anymore. I try to come up with something interesting and ϵ e... to say about my life. Sadly, being an accountant doesn't lend itself to t or. I'm and I don't think my boss being overly touchy-feely or that I'm lookin when we job behind his back is the kind of topic that Nicholas will find interesting. And I doubt he wants to hear about the spicy romance now finished last week. Actually, it's inappropriate to talk to him about a beat that's more like a collection of sex scenes strung together with a threat plot. It could come across like I was trying to hit on him, which I'm to not.

"I moved in with Owen three months ago," I blurt out finally. Not th him because I think my boyfriend is a super exciting subject for Nicholas, I ove. because it seems like an inoffensive topic that won't bore him to tears. The price of the seems of th

Not sure why. I try a small laugh to lighten the mood. "Yeah, I gue say, told me he loved me, so..." I smile brightly because that seems like the to do. "But living together isn't easy." Talk about the understatement c help." century.

ig of "Oh yeah? How come?"

of. "Just...different lifestyles and expectations." I shrug, like it isn't a deal. It's one thing to dump everything on Georgia—she's my bestie. I something else with Nicholas. Now I wish I hadn't brought Owen up a should've talked about the apartment I gave up. It was perfect—the rer reasonable, and it was in a safe area near the Get Jacked Gym where I

Of course, that's about as exciting as discussing how to maximize But employer's contribution to your 401(k).

My heart aches. This is another sign that Nicholas and I are totally different. I can't seem to come up with anything to talk to him about. I we why were better traveled or worldlier, I could be regaling him with the dirty martini I had in London or the kind of car I bought to help fill my twel ey." vehicle garage or something.

sh of I get a ping on my phone and let out a breath with relief at the distrered to "Scuse me for a sec." I check the screen.

-Brenda: Hey, ask Nicholas if it's okay to take some photos of him it to saywalking the dogs for our website. He's so gorgeous. The last time we part a pic of him, we got twenty percent more donations and volunteer inquitout than usual.

exciting

hrills, Last time, the shot "of him" was in the mix because the shelter tool g for a multiple group photos to showcase what we do. This one's going to be him and the dogs, and I don't know how he'll feel about it. Georgia sai el I Nicholas values his privacy, and I've never seen him do an interview c bok kind of social media.

lbare

-Brenda: Pick a good location—maybe that park near us?—and se he's willing to pose with the dogs, one by one. So we can use them for adoption page, too.

out

Oh, Brenda. Why don't you have me ask him for a kidney, too?
I steal a quick glance at Nicholas. He looks back, gray eyes curious iss. He I clear my throat. "Would it, um, be okay to take some pictures of the shelter? Brenda wants to put them up on the website. Probably on sof the media, too. But you don't have to if you don't want. It's no big deal. The are other photos." I add the last part so he doesn't feel pressured. It's a deal for him to spend time at the shelter because he's a busy man, and big bad about asking him to do more than he is, even if it is for the cause. It's is fabulous, but sometimes she focuses so much on the shelter's mission that I she forgets not everyone wants to do things her way—or with her level work. "Sure. Anything you need, Molly." He smiles.

your My belly flutters, and heat infuses my cheeks. I know he means pic but when he talks like that while smiling at me, I feel like he's granting wish because it's me who's asking.

"It might take a few minutes." My voice is a little breathless. So embarrassing. But I can't control my reaction. It's like feeling warm in presence of the sun.

"No problem. Like I said, anything you need is yours."

ı əosted

iiries

action.

it was dedication.

Last time, the shot "of him" was in the mix because the shelter took multiple group photos to showcase what we do. This one's going to be just him and the dogs, and I don't know how he'll feel about it. Georgia said Nicholas values his privacy, and I've never seen him do an interview or any kind of social media.

-Brenda: Pick a good location—maybe that park near us?—and see if he's willing to pose with the dogs, one by one. So we can use them for the adoption page, too.

Oh, Brenda. Why don't you have me ask him for a kidney, too? I steal a quick glance at Nicholas. He looks back, gray eyes curious.

I clear my throat. "Would it, um, be okay to take some pictures of you for the shelter? Brenda wants to put them up on the website. Probably on social media, too. But you don't have to if you don't want. It's no big deal. There are other photos." I add the last part so he doesn't feel pressured. It's a big deal for him to spend time at the shelter because he's a busy man, and I feel bad about asking him to do more than he is, even if it is for the cause. Brenda is fabulous, but sometimes she focuses so much on the shelter's mission that she forgets not everyone wants to do things her way—or with her level of dedication.

"Sure. Anything you need, Molly." He smiles.

My belly flutters, and heat infuses my cheeks. I know he means pictures, but when he talks like that while smiling at me, I feel like he's granting a wish because it's me who's asking.

"It might take a few minutes." My voice is a little breathless. So embarrassing. But I can't control my reaction. It's like feeling warm in the presence of the sun.

"No problem. Like I said, anything you need is yours."

Chapter Five

Nicholas

I'm running waaay late for the ten o'clock brunch with my brothers. W technically we don't have to be there by ten because we're all busy and understand showing up at all is a huge commitment. But still. I hate be late.

My relationship with my six brothers matters. Time is the one com we can't get more of, no matter how much money we have. But howev busy and tired we are, we try to meet up regularly. And my brothers have been rock-solid anchors in my life.

Sadly, my parents aren't people I can rely on. Our father, the vaunt Lasker, still believes he's a man in his twenties—invincible and irresis He doesn't practice safe sex, either, since he's confident his second vasectomy is good.

When the first one failed, he fathered us—seven boys with seven different women—in the space of four months. He was one lucky basta avoid getting a variety of STDs on the side as well.

It wouldn't shock me if the second one failed and we ended up with more infant half-brothers. But just because it wouldn't be surprising domean it wouldn't be scandalous or repulsive. Noah said he sent Dad a supply of condoms four years ago, but Joey sent them back, saying, "I provided everything Ted needs," in that stiff tone of voice he uses whe feels unjustly judged.

I pull into Grant's home, a giant mansion with a massive garden an tennis court. It's his turn to host the brunch. I spot five cars—which make I'm the last one here. Grant's wife Aspen is probably already out with Sierra and Lucie, the other wives. So far, four of my six brothers have in love and gotten married.

Lucky bastards.

I managed the fall-in-love part, but getting married?

That, I haven't been able to do. In fact, I haven't even held her han she's in love with somebody else. She flushed like a girl with a crush v she was talking about her boyfriend.

He told me he loved me.

Damn it. It was all I could do to not declare, "I fell in love with you Before you met that bastard." I'm sure that would have gone over well

My heart thumps glumly, but I shove aside my morose thoughts. T don't serve any purpose. I'm here to have a good time with my brother

I walk into the giant foyer. Grant went overboard with the marble a /ell, crystal, but somehow the place looks homey. Must be Aspen's touch. I we wasn't this welcoming before.

ing My brothers are in the breakfast room, grabbing food from an enor spread Grant has had catered. The scent of strong coffee permeates the modity My brothers are coffee addicts. I prefer Earl Grey, but drink coffee wh ver we're together.

We sport basic similar features that demonstrate we're related, every though we have different mothers. It's the dark coloring and the square red Ted we got from Dad. Although my brothers don't like to think about it, we tible. got our height and frame from him, too. I thank my lucky stars Dad was weak-chinned, hunchbacked midget.

My brothers are casually dressed, except for Emmett, who probably to go to the office afterward. He's a workaholic, and although he quit ard to spending so much time at work after he married Amy, he's still ridicul busy. Venture capital can be demanding, and Emmett tends to put mor h seventhings on his plate than is wise.

"Hey, you made it!" Grant grins. "I was wondering if you could co year's "Wouldn't miss it." I grab some scrambled eggs and sausages and the empty seat next to Noah. Huxley pours a coffee and hands it to me "Heard about what happened at your mom's birthday party," Grant his voice full of sympathy.

I give him a what-can-I-do shrug. "I kind of knew Mom wasn't goi eans show," I say, pretending it didn't bother me when she opted to fly to N Amy, instead. When the same kind of humiliation is heaped upon you over a fallen over again, the pain becomes dull and numbing, rather than sharp and burning. At least none of my brothers have mothers like mine. "But so local kids with cancer got some toys and balloons, so…" I shrug again

Sebastian sighs. "She's literally treating you like an experiment pig "A what?" d. And "There was this experiment where pigeons were put in a cage and l vhen peck a button to get food. At first the pecking always produced food, s pigeons quit pecking pretty quickly when the scientists changed the set I first! food wouldn't come out anymore. Then the button gave out food every peck, and then every third one, and when the food was cut off, the pige took longer to stop pecking it. But when pecking the button gave out for hey randomly—so sometimes they got something and sometimes they didr S. the birds just kept on pecking forever, hoping that maybe this time the and fed." t

I exhale roughly. Sebastian is describing the relationship between 1 my mom pretty well. And of course it isn't healthy or normal to have t mous kind of dynamic. It's just that this is how it's always been, and now we air. a train stuck on a sidetrack in toxic land. en

Emmett hands me an extra piece of bacon in solidarity. He has the mom out of all of us—always reliable and always puts him first—and terrible for me. e jaw

"What's wrong with your eyes?" Noah says. e also

"What?" ısn't a n

"They're red-rimmed."

I probably spent too much time with the dogs. Got too close. The p y has for the adoption page required that I hug them, and not even my prescr meds could save me. ously

"Late night," I mumble, not wanting to tell my brothers what really happened.

"Is that dog hair on you?" Sebastian says from my left. He squints me." shoulder. take

"It's probably mine." Molly wasn't close enough to put her hair on : says, Unfortunately.

"Your hair isn't golden." He picks it off my shirt. "And this is way ing to long."

Ah, shit. It must be Cooper's. The golden retriever sheds like he's s Iadrid nd bald.

My brothers all stare at me like I've just put on a thong and jumped croc-infested swamp. me

"What?" It comes out testy.

"What is you're extremely allergic to dogs and cats." Huxley sound a lawyer cross-examining an uncooperative witness. He should've been add to attorney, rather than an ad executive. He even has the right credential—o the degree from Harvard.

tting so "It's just one hair."

other "On your shoulder? What were you doing, giving a dog a piggybace ons ride?" Emmett looks like he's worried about my mental health.

"It'd be easier to just stab yourself in the face with a fork if you wa 1't— be miserable," Noah says.

y'd get I take a large bite out of a sausage and chew energetically. Hopeful brothers get the hint that I don't want to talk about it.

ne and "Oh…" Noah stares at his phone. He's addicted to social media, ar hat can't help checking his phone every other minute. "Look at you, Nicho e're on Are you trying to get people to adopt the dog or you?"

Shit. The photos Molly took must've already gotten on the shelter' nicest Noah starts laughing. "Wait—it gets better. All of these shots are tafeels by Molly Greene."

"How do you know?" I demand.

"Says so right here."

Damn it.

"Lemme see," Sebastian says, an evil glint in his eyes. He's never pictures to let me live this down.

iption Emmett joins in with a grin. "Send me the link."

Oh, for fuck's sake. When did my brothers start sharing Noah's lov social media?

"Lemme screencap it first," Noah says.

at my "Stop." I reach for his phone.

He jumps back, quicker than the cheetahs he loves so much. "Uh-u me. slow! Check your phones, bros."

My phone buzzes, and there are various pings around the table. All too brothers pull out their phones to check.

"Holy shit..." Huxley says with a laugh. "Look at those soulful gragoing eyes."

"Women will adopt the dogs in a heartbeat if you come with them, I into a Griffin says. Is it a joke? He's a grumpy bastard and sometimes it's hat tell.

"So. Is Molly Greene the one?" Noah's tone grows sly.

described in the direction is like. Everyone turns in my direction.

n an "'The one'?" I keep my voice cool.

-a law "The girl you've been pining over all these years. Why else would look at her like, 'Take me home with you, please!'"

"Shut up!" But Noah's correct. Fuck. I was trying to play it unaffect but it's impossible when Molly was giving me an encouraging smile the entire time she took the pictures.

"Stop pining and man up," Grant says decisively. "Ask her out." Emmett nods. "Exactly."

"Like you asked Amy out?" She hated him for years because he maredo all her work over and over again to prevent her from seeing other "Well, I didn't wait eight years, that's for sure. Not even two," Emplas. says.

"I'm not sure that's a lot better, manning-up-wise," Huxley says.

s feed. "Carpe Molly, dude. Who knows, she could be madly in love with aken Noah says.

Doubt that, based on how she looked when she spoke of her boyfri hate how I keep missing her in-between-boyfriend periods to make my But I never find out until it's too late, and by then she's with a new gur like the world is conspiring against me.

going "What's the problem?" Griffin says.

"She's happy with her boyfriend," I say flatly.

"So? Boyfriends can be disposed of." Noah grins. "Just hire a hook re of seduce him away from her."

I shake my head. "That's low."

"Whatever. Look, if you were in a relationship with Molly, and sor hooker wanted to bang you—for free—would you go for it?"

h. Too "Of course not!" I'd never hurt or humiliate Molly that way.

"Exactly. And if that boyfriend is meant to be, he won't either. Alt my my money's on the hooker." Noah grins, all smug.

"No. He told her he's in love with her."

"His head can be in love with her, but his dick can be in love with someone else," Huxley says.

"See? Huxley likes my plan," Noah says.

rd to "No, I was just pointing out that Nicholas doesn't have to let that o guy's 'love' get in the way. It isn't like they're married."

"Thank you, Hux. I think." I turn to Noah. "There are lines one sho never cross."

Noah gives me a horrified look. "Lines exist solely so you can cros you "Not really," Sebastian says. "And I wouldn't cross them unless you to and are dead certain you won't get caught. And the hooker idea is to cted, so don't listen to Rubicon over there. It's like some kind of shitty entraine Don't do it."

"Just trying to help his love life along." Noah grimaces. "Eight yea is..."

A frickin' long time. But I can't erase the memory of the pretty, ros ade her in her cheeks when she told me her boyfriend loved her. I wish I could men. my mind. "Stop. Even if she isn't dating right now, she thinks I'm like mett mom." Which is another major obstacle to overcome.

Griffin and Huxley choke on their coffee. The others, thankfully, w drinking.

you," "What the... How the hell did she come to that conclusion?" Huxle manages between wheezing gasps.

end. I "You're the most reliable one of all of us," Sebastian says.

move. "It doesn't matter." I shrug. "It happened."

y. It's "Oh wow..." Griffin looks at me with sheer pity.

"I didn't know it was possible for people to be steadier than you," says. "What is she? An actuary?"

"An accountant," I say glumly. "Look, guys. I'm not thrilled about ser to situation either, but she was just really pleased when she talked about I moved in with her boyfriend. And her happiness matters more than my feelings for her. It'd kill me to see her miserable for any reason."

ne hot "Jesus, what a waste," Grant mutters. "She has no idea what she's up by judging you like that."

My brothers nod in unison.

hough They don't really understand. It isn't just that Molly's dating Ower now. It's also that she's too young and innocent. She isn't like us. She stability, and the fact that she's convinced I'm like Mom means I'm no she's looking for.

Since I don't want to think about those things, I turn to Sebastian. 'bracelet almost done?"

ther "Yeah. It should be delivered to your address, like we do every year Suddenly he narrows his eyes. "Wait a minute... Is this for Molly?"

ould I have no choice but to nod. Thanks, Noah.

"Damn. I can't believe she's still saying no when you've been giving seem." hundreds of thousands of dollars in jewelry every year!" Sebastian brishu have "Not everyone is dazzled by shiny objects, even if they come from errible, Sebastian Jewelry." I don't tell him I haven't given Molly any of them apment. her nineteenth birthday.

Still, I've been asking Seb for a custom piece every year, hoping the day I'll figure out a way to give them to her. Meanwhile, I've been sen her a happy birthday text and a one-hundred-dollar Amazon gift card say glow can have some book money. Georgia told me the more book money the bleach better, although anything over a hundred bucks would probably get we my "I know it's no big deal in your circles to drop a few thousand buck you're dealing with normal people," my stepsister told me. "We don't reren't four-figure presents."

I didn't tell her I was thinking more like five or six figures. I don't her to think I'm irredeemably weird. My stepsister often shakes her he calls me absurd and over-the-top. Anything but normal.

My brothers will never understand how not normal we are. Hell, I probably don't fully comprehend it. But I'd give up all my money if I to be someone Molly wanted and needed. The problem is, wishes like that Grant come true in the real world.

And that's the most depressing fact in the universe.

the having f giving right wants of what 'Is the ır."

"Damn. I can't believe she's still saying no when you've been giving her hundreds of thousands of dollars in jewelry every year!" Sebastian bristles.

"Not everyone is dazzled by shiny objects, even if they come from Sebastian Jewelry." I don't tell him I haven't given Molly any of them since her nineteenth birthday.

Still, I've been asking Seb for a custom piece every year, hoping that one day I'll figure out a way to give them to her. Meanwhile, I've been sending her a happy birthday text and a one-hundred-dollar Amazon gift card so she can have some book money. Georgia told me the more book money the better, although anything over a hundred bucks would probably get weird.

"I know it's no big deal in your circles to drop a few thousand bucks, but you're dealing with normal people," my stepsister told me. "We don't do four-figure presents."

I didn't tell her I was thinking more like five or six figures. I don't want her to think I'm irredeemably weird. My stepsister often shakes her head and calls me absurd and over-the-top. Anything but normal.

My brothers will never understand how not normal we are. Hell, I probably don't fully comprehend it. But I'd give up all my money if I could be someone Molly wanted and needed. The problem is, wishes like that don't come true in the real world.

And that's the most depressing fact in the universe.

Chapter Six

Molly

On Friday, when the UPS man shows up at Get Jacked, I sign for the package. It's my favorite author's latest release in a limited-edition har special-ordered from her site. A treat to celebrate my birthday.

Anticipation zinging through my veins, I return to my tiny office, r open the package and pull out the gorgeous tome. It even has a dust jac So pretty!

I flip the pages and almost squeal—she autographed it! Almost lik knew it was my birthday!

Swaying left and right to the happy beat in my head, I close my eye inhale the scent of the paper. Aaaaah. I love my Kindle, don't get me v But there's just something so...tactilely pleasing about holding an actu book in my hands. The weight, the whisper of paper as I flip the pages smell. The whole combination.

I wrap the book in a brown paper bag so I can smuggle it into the townhouse. Owen's bound to point out that I "wasted" money on it, an don't want an argument, especially not today, when he's taking me out celebrate my birthday. Still, part of me is sad and slightly resentful that judges my hobby. It's not like it hurts anybody. And I'm fine with his watching porn on his laptop when he thinks I'm not looking.

Like clockwork, a text from Nicholas arrives with a gift card.

-Nicholas: Happy birthday, Molly!

Does Nicholas care what I buy with the book money he gives me e year? Would he cut me off if he knew I was buying romance novels?

I'd be disappointed if he was biased against my hobby, even if all I harbor negative views of women reading "those silly things."

On the other hand, I can't picture him judging me. He's never said single unkind thing to me. Then again, Owen didn't say anything nasty my reading until I moved in with him, so...

I sigh. I'd be so disappointed if Nicholas turned out to be prejudice against my favorite genre.

My phone pings again. I glance at the screen and grimace as acid s in my gut. It's Dad, wishing me happy birthday as well. But his congratulations are the kind you have to brace yourself for.

-Dad: Happy birthday! What are you up to today? Any celebration A party?

dback,

If I tell him I don't have any plans, he's going to insist on having d together. Eating with him always causes indigestion and heartburn for three days. Thankfully, my evening's spoken for, although sharing that sick feeling in my belly.

e she

-Me: Thanks, Dad. Owen's taking me out to Dolce.

es and wrong. After he turned in his article to his editor on Wednesday, Owen sai needed to eat there before the week was over and write up a review for . The Food Digest. He said he'd love to take me with him, so we could also celebrate my birthday on the magazine's dime. I said fine, since going twice is too much, given the timing.

d I to —Dad: That's a great restaurant, but is it wise to eat there? The foot the rich, and their desserts are irresistible.

Naturally.

- –Me: Thanks, but I think it'll be fine.
- Dad: Drink two glasses of water before you go. And have three si before each bite. You aren't even thirty, and you're going to grow out very the nice stuff I bought you.

nen My queasy feeling turns into outright nausea. Dad is constantly wo about how I look. He wants me to be as athletic and fit as he is, which impossible. He was a football jock in high school and runs 10k races for a 7 about charitable causes all the time. Meanwhile, I'm lucky to manage 1k.

He occasionally splurges on expensive dresses for me that never fit ď and make me feel like an overstuffed sausage. He says I need to wear t anyway to make myself "presentable" when he shows me to his girlfrie He has a certain reputation he needs to maintain, and a frumpy, boring urges daughter "doesn't contribute."

To him, image is everything. He bought a Lamborghini with Mom insurance money. Says it's critical that he project success, especially a plans? widowed real estate agent. I don't understand the connection between marital status and how successful he looks, but I don't ask too many questions. They're upsetting for both of us, and I feel like I owe Dad for inner role in Mom's death.

at least

DS

is

-Dad: You should wear that dress I bought you to meet Renée last t puts a That one probably still fits okay. It makes you look good. I saw how po admired you.

By "look good," he means appear more like Mom...which is some possible so long as I stay still and keep my mouth shut. She passed awa d he car accident when I was six, on the way back from a grocery store. She LAto buy me blueberries because I begged and cajoled her for them. Dad told me outright that it was my fault, but he's said things. out

If you'd been just more patient...

If you hadn't been so demanding...

1 is If you hadn't been so difficult...

If you hadn't been so stubborn...

He never finished the thought, but he'd get a wistful, faraway look little and force a tight smile.

In many ways, I understand his grief. Although Mom's face is a bit I always remember her as being radiant, warm and wonderful. Just bei her made me happy. Dad filled in the blanks, describing how Mom wa telling me stories about her as I grew up. She was the captain of her high of all school cheerleading squad, homecoming queen and prom queen. She v slim, beautiful, cheerful and fashionable, with hair that looked like son had spun sunlight into a crown and a personality that attracted everyon rried "She could make a garbage bag look like a designer dress by simpl or putting it on," Dad said, while looking at me like I have the exact opportunity effect.

tright No matter how hard I tried, I could never live up to what Mom was them wasn't coordinated enough to be a cheerleader. I wasn't popular enougends. a homecoming queen or prom queen. My hair is a mousy brown, and prodon't flock to me dying for a smile or a warm greeting...or any other rather for that matter. I'm just naturally introverted, and I don't think that's go shange, no matter how much Dad wishes it weren't so.

s a He's sort of settled—reluctantly and resentfully—for a child who chis embarrass him too much to be seen with.

I look down at myself. At my chest. Hips. Thighs. I see curves. An or my of softness. This is as small as I'm going to get. I'm never going to be zero like Mom, regardless how much water I drink with my meals. My has never expressed any concerns about my health or anything, but Da month. misses an opportunity to inform me there's something wrong with the eople am.

He carefully selects pricey clothes that are just a tad too small, the being that having them will light the fire Mom must've left in my hear what somewhere. But for the meeting with Renée, he sent me a dress that way in a right size—much to my relief. Of course, it was probably because whe went the girlfriend before Renée, I ripped a side seam while trying to sit downever had to leave in abject humiliation. Renée is gorgeous and well-to-do—the kind of woman Dad loves to be seen with. He'd rather lick a porn s floor after a shoot than jeopardize his chances with her.

-Dad: Remember, you're lucky you managed to snag Owen, even he's just a food complainer.

, sniff a

I sigh. "If you were just more like your mom, you could do better t hazy, Owen," Dad said when I let him know I was moving in with my boyfring with s and —Dad: Men like Owen don't want to be with a woman who can't m gh them shine just by standing next to them.

nebody I don't have to read the rest of his text to know what he's going to le. But I'm in a masochistic mood.

vas

Dad: Women are like accessories. When they lose their luster, me want them anymore, just like you wouldn't want to keep earrings that a enhance your appearance. If you remember this, you'll be ahead of the the bemajority of women out there. Doesn't matter what people claim—life i competition. The ones who can get the best spouses and most money veason, oing to He always says the exact same thing, word for word. Does he copy paste it every time? I can't decide if I'm upset because he thinks so litt loesn't me, or because he's too lazy to type up something new. Probably a littl both.

d lots

a size —Dad: Anyway, try to not embarrass your boyfriend too much. The doctorreason popular and successful men hang out with popular and beautifu d neverwomen.

way I

Dad always knows exactly where to stick his verbal knives. It's tin idea end this text monologue before I become too depressed to enjoy the ret my day. It's my birthday, damn it!

as the n I met —Me: Got it. I'll try to drink as much water as possible.

vn and exactly —Dad: Good! And while you're at it, why don't you take advantage free membership and work out? That'll help, too.

I exhale hard. I do not want to take advantage of the free gym though membership. Or work out. The perk is offered because it costs the comnothing.

When I have free time, I like to curl up with a good book and some han coffee. Why is that so hard for Dad to accept?

Dad: I'm only saying this because I'm your father and I love you.
 the best for you and to help you become the best version of yourself. P who tell you you're fine the way you are are lying because they don't about you enough to tell you the harsh truth.

say. —Dad: I don't want you to live your life blinded by sweet-sounding

No chance of that. Not when Dad tells me how things really are, ar n don'tmuch harder I need to strive.

' and

le of

didn't I start to type up a sarcastic response, then stop as guilt presses ove vast resentment that's been gathering in my gut. Dad wasn't like this when is a was around. When she died, he became more temperamental and critic vin.

If I hadn't begged and begged for blueberries that day. Mom would

If I hadn't begged and begged for blueberries that day, Mom would have died so senselessly. And my family would've been okay. Everyor could've been happy. Dad would've been able to spend his life with th woman he loved, and I would've been able to bask in both of their love.

le of Tears sting my eyes, and I blink to clear them as a painful breath sl through me. Crying doesn't fix anything, and I'm not going to break dowork. I delete the reply I typed up, and put the phone on my desk, screare's a down. Needing to leave my windowless, jail-like office, I carry the boot to dump it in the cardboard recycling bin at the end of the hall.

Windows facing the gym area dot the long corridor, and I spot a gatoned women working out in the cardio section. The one in the center in Dana, my worst tormentor and bully from high school. For whatever rest of she decided I sucked and that everyone should not only know her opin me but agree with it. Now she's an influencer, doing sponsorship stuff some local breweries. Thankfully, her hobby has changed from sneering snubbing me to spending hours in the gym and taking selfies and vided her Instagram account. Her friends do, too, much to the frustrated deligner of the our male trainers. I can tell it's all Zeke and James can do not to stare of there wasn't a policy against dating the clients, I'm sure one of them have made a move by now.

I pause for a moment and look at the women on the other side of the spany glass. Dana is a bottle blonde, and her body is as toned as my mom's very She says something, and a few of the women laugh together. She rearrest her high ponytail and poses as one of her friends raise a phone to take a snapshots.

She was the captain of our high school cheerleading squad. And I want homecoming queen. And prom queen. And voted the most beautiful an eople popular.

The sight of her pulls a resigned sigh from me. Maybe we were sw at birth. Dad would be so proud if I could be even the tiniest bit more l pana. He wouldn't feel the need to make apologies for my rather lackl personality to his girlfriends, either.

Id how And he might even not have been so upset that time he was contact about my appendicitis. It was on a weekend during my senior year in her the school. He couldn't understand why I called him—It isn't like I can op on you. He had an important golf outing with people who mattered, an was furious he'd been pulled away over something that wasn't "that cr ln't Surely the doctors and nurses could deal with me.

"You need to be less selfish. Consider that others have priorities the might be more important than you." Dad's tone said what I was doing was comparable to what I did to my mom by asking for blueberries.

nudders My heart ached more than the appendix, and I couldn't speak throu own at pain. When I cried, he impatiently demanded that I be given a painkille enDana finishes posing and gets on a treadmill. Soon she's running li ok box zebra on the African veldt with a physical grace I can't even imagine f myself.

Iggle of After dumping the box in the recycling bin, I go to the breakroom to something to drink. One of the benefits of working at a gym is that the eason, lots of healthy options, including flavored tea and water.

ion of I grab a bottle of plain mineral water. Otherwise, Dad's voice will with ringing in my head the entire time I'm at the restaurant with Owen.

"There you are, pretty girl!" Jack says with a broad smile. He's my so for and the founder of Get Jacked Gyms. In his mid-thirties, he's tall, tann ght of ripped, with bleached hair that's cropped tight. He began his career as openly. personal trainer, worked up to Hollywood celebs and then decided he'd would own a gym. He still has personal clients—after all, celebrities pay very —but he spends a lot of energy on the gym business, too. Get Jacked he locations in Los Angeles, this one being the original. "Happy birthday! vas. His brown eyes linger on my chest a beat too long, but I need this judges least for the time being. "Thanks."

a few I start to make as wide a circle as possible to reach the exit, but he hand.

"Stay put so I can text everyone." He whips out his phone and start id most tapping. "I got you a mocha cake from that bakery you like in Koreato We should do the candles and all that." His biceps bulge as he rubs his itched together in anticipation. He grabs my shoulder and gives it a squeeze.

ike I take a step back and cross my arms. Why can't I just win the lotte uster Nothing too big. Just a couple million so I can quit my job, get away fi this creep and not worry about money ever again.

ted There's nobody I can talk to about this gym situation. I mentioned uncomfortable his behavior makes me to my supervisor, Elaine, but sh perate me I was just being too sensitive.

d he "Jack's just a little hands-on. You've seen him when he trains his c itical." correcting their form and spotting them to make sure they don't get inj

I have, and he places his hands on their backs and hips and so on to at ensure they don't slouch or lift using bad form.

to him She continued, "All the trainers do this, not just him. He probably j wants to correct your posture or something because that makes a huge 1gh the difference in how your back feels." Her eyes swept over me, the tip of mouth twisting in you're-delusional-if-you-honestly-think-you're-hot-ke a enough-for-his-notice derision.

or "But he doesn't touch them when they aren't in session. And he stamy chest. It makes me uncomfortable."

I might as well have been talking to a wall. And that was when I do re are it was time to find a new job. But it's tough when most places don't pa well as Get Jacked, and I have a lot of expenses, including my student be Los Angeles is a costly city.

"You can't not have cake on your birthday," Jack adds expectantly boss, gaze fixed to my chest. "It's like a law."

ed and The cake isn't hidden between my boobs! "Right."

Even as I nod with a fake smile and pray that my boss learns the m d rather of maintaining eye contact, my mind says it'll be faster to just find a my well Jack squints at me. "Are you okay?"

as four Finally! "Yeah. Why?"

"You just seem a little tense."

ob, at I'm stuck here with you! Where are the others? There's free cake h "It's been a busy week."

raises a "I can't do anything about your workload. But tell you what!" Jack twinkle like he's Satan spotting some poor sucker whose soul he plans steal. "Let's get a workout together. The endorphin rush will totally de wn. you!"

hands "I couldn't possibly impose on you like that." Or let you put your l all over me to "correct my form." ry? "Imposition? Nah. Consider it a birthday present. Nobody gets to to with me for free but you." He winks.

God, please spare me. "Hahaha. Right. Thanks."

how I can't do this anymore. I wish I'd brought my phone so I could pre e told to get an urgent text and make my escape. Or at least have a blunt obje hand.

lients, Then again, why should I break my phone? I should throw the cake ured." him instead.

"Hey, is this where you hid the free cake?" comes a cheerful voice. I turn and see a black-haired guy with beautiful olive skin coming i breakroom. Something about him seems familiar, but I can't put my fii it. I'm certain we've never met, though. He isn't the kind of guy you'd her easily.

He's tall, with shoulders and biceps that strain against the tight fit of trainer uniform. Given his size, he's in the largest shirt we have. Muscares at bulge in his thick thighs and calves as he walks. He isn't exactly hands but his features are even, and his white smile puts you at ease, like you ecided the presence of the protective big brother you always wanted.

ly as Right now, he's my hero. Jack can't be as gross when somebody's loans. watching.

"Hey, Arturo!" Jack feigns a smile and claps his shoulder in manly , his greeting. But the thwack of flesh hitting flesh is awfully loud.

Arturo doesn't seem bothered. He looks like he could hit back just hard, if not harder. His hands are just as big as Jack's—and veinier. "Feaning boss. So who's this pretty girl?"

ew job. Amazing how when Jack called me a pretty girl, I wanted to scratc skin off. When Arturo says it, I just want to smile and say a friendly he the other hand, anybody is better than Jack.

"Molly Greene. She's an accountant here. Back office, you know? lere! birthday."

"Yeah, I saw your text." He turns to me. "Hi. I'm Arturo. Just start :'s eyes today."

to "Hi." I shake his hand. He has a good grip. Firm and controlled.

-stress "If I'd known it was your birthday, I would've brought a gift or something."

nands "That really isn't necessary," I say quickly.

"That's why I got a cake!" Jack booms. "For her!"

other trainers trickle in. Elaine walks in and smiles at Jack before an interested eyebrow at Arturo. He gives her a glance, nods, then look at me.

etend "Looks like everyone's here." Jack claps his hands. "Let's sing 'Ha Birthday'!"

```
ct in
           "Actually, let's light the candles first," Arturo says. "So the birthda can make a wish." He smiles.
e at
           And although it feels greedy to want so much, I wish for love, hap and respect.
into the nger on forget of our les ome, ı're in as ley, h my ello. On It's her ed
```

raising s back

эрру

Birthday'!"

"Actually, let's light the candles first," Arturo says. "So the birthday girl can make a wish." He smiles.

And although it feels greedy to want so much, I wish for love, happiness and respect.

Chapter Seven

Molly

Dolce's reputation is well deserved. The place isn't super glitzy, but it definitely elegant, with lots of dark wood and ivory tiles and marble. T lighting is low and warm, and the candle on our table burns romantical casting a dreamy glow over my sober, showered and cleaned-up boyfri

Owen is a good-looking man. He has wide-set brown eyes and a th mouth that smiles easily. He's photogenic, too, which helps with his pl and career. He has a huge following online, a lot of them women. The button-down shirt looks good on his lean, wiry frame. The slacks are b and perfect for the restaurant.

I changed into a black dress I bought, since I refuse to put on the drad got me. Besides, I'm more comfortable in clothes I've paid for. The tend to fit better, and aren't overly showy the way Dad's selections ten be.

Owen checks his phone for the third time, then smiles at the waitre when she clears our table of the appetizer dishes and brings out a fancy with leafy greens and tiny fruit chunks. He taps the table once, then tur attention to me.

"Thank you for dinner. This is lovely," I say, then struggle to decic much of the green stuff I should choke down. I should eat at least two so it doesn't look like I'm being picky. I hate vegetables. They taste lilno matter how well you wash them or what kind of dressing is poured them.

"My pleasure." His tone is overly smooth, and his smile is more pc than the mirror in Get Jacked's yoga studio. "I figured it was perfect w was asked to check the place out. Two birds with one stone. And the m has everything we both like, so..." A shrug and a small smile. "It just sperfect to order the six-course dinner. It's supposedly the best one they have."

's

ress

Is it me, or does it sound like celebrating my birthday is an afterthat to his work? I shake myself mentally. I must be more upset than I thou after Dad's texts and Jack's ogling. Owen's trying to do something nic my birthday, even if he isn't using a penny of his own money. He didn forget, like Shawn, although that's setting the bar pretty low. Romance novels didn't give me any unrealistic expectations.

I manage to swallow two whole leaves, but my hands start to shake I find a few blueberries in the bowl. Ever since Mom's death, I can't explueberries. I don't even like looking at them. I just tell people I'm alle because that's easier than explaining the real reason.

The I place a large lettuce leaf over the berries and put down my fork. I down the entire glass of Cabernet to wash away the lingering taste of lend.

Our waitress brings me another glass.

in "Your hands are shaking. You okay?" Owen says. He's always mo latform solicitous when we're out.

crisp "I saw blueberries in the salad. Guess they forgot to take them out."
lack "Oh." He clears his throat. "I forgot to tell them about your allergy

"I told you when we started dating," I say, struggling to contain my dismay and anger.

hey He studies my face. "It isn't like it's fatal, right? I mean, you aren't d to swelling up or anything."

"That isn't the point."

ss "I'm sorry. I'll remember next time." Owen sighs. He hates being t salad when he made a mistake. "Anyway, your present." He slides a small ms his envelope across the table.

I decide to let it go. There's nothing more we can do after he said he how sorry and promised to remember in the future.

leaves, I pick up the envelope and open it to find a Target gift card. Well. ce dirt, That's...unusual. I don't know what I expected, really, but we've been over for a year now. I thought he'd give me something other than a box stor card.

olished "You know, in case you want to get something," Owen adds, as the then I he can sense my disappointment.

"Right. Thank you." I smile, trying to look at the bright side. "It's preemed The Target by the gym has a large book section."

He frowns. "I wasn't thinking books."

"It's a gift card," I say, trying not to sound stiff. "I can buy whatev ought want, right?"

ght "Well, yeah. But ideally something that will be good for you."

e for "Reading is good for me."

"I was thinking..." He stops when our server comes over to take or plates. When we're alone, Owen says, "I guess I should've been more specific."

e when Before he can elaborate, the waitress returns with our pasta, checks at if we need more of anything, then leaves. I wait for Owen to explain his ergic but he just gestures at me with his new fork.

"Go ahead. The spaghetti is supposed to be really good."

Then I He has that stubborn look that says he's not going to do anything u ettuce. do what he asked of me first. I don't need clarification right this mome why not humor him? I take a bite of the meatball and chew. It's quite § re But part of me stays a bit wary—and somewhat resentful. Whatever O going to specify about the gift card can't be good. But I don't know wl gave me one if he only wants me to buy some specific thing he approv ." He should've just bought me what he really wanted me to have. That v could've skipped this unpleasant discussion.

Or is this his way of talking about what's been bothering him? But have to be on my birthday?

"I just think it's best if we take a moment to breathe," he says sudd "You know...away from each other."

I choke on the meat. Crap! The basil tomato sauce shoots up my no and burns like hell! I start coughing and snorting.

Owen jumps up and shoves his napkin up my nose while covering ie was mouth. Oh my God. Is he trying to smother me to death in front of all t well-heeled diners here?

I swat his wrist a few times and he finally pulls back. The piece of dating meatball that was lodged in the wrong place pops out, allowing me to pe gift—into my lungs.

"Are you okay?" He leans forward, peering at me.

ough "No!" I gasp.

t

He raises the napkin again. I wave him away impatiently and take perfect. swallows of wine. "You want to break up?"

He retakes his seat. "That isn't what I said. Just, you know. Take a breather."

er I "That totally sounds like a breakup."

"No," he insists. "I'm not breaking up with you on your birthday." I blink as it slowly dawns on me. He wants to be the good guy. He brought me to this nice restaurant and is feeding me excellent food for ar saladreason. He's dumping me over the entrée so I'll have dessert to consolomyself with.

And the restaurant review site will pay for all of it.

I've been thinking things weren't right with our relationship, but are imself, ambush on my birthday? Especially when he's been saying, "Love you babe," every chance he gets? I'm starting to feel annoyed at being lied manipulated. Pain and humiliation slide into my chest like jagged glass ntil I must've laughed at me behind my back for allowing him to manage ment, so meaningless professions of "love."

good. "Then why do we need a 'breather'? You've been saying you love wen's constantly." My voice is dry to hide the anger and hurt.

y he "You don't have to remind me. I'm not senile," he says tightly, obves of. irritated I'm arguing. "But that was before I met Dana."

vay we Dana? "Before or after you said, 'Love you, babe,' this morning?" press.

does it He scowls. "I don't know why you're upset that I was being consic "Considerate?"

lenly. "Obviously I can't say, 'I don't find you attractive anymore, babe,' I'm trying to be nice to you. I was telling you what you wanted to hear

His final statement slaps me into utter silence. It's one thing to real he's been lying and manipulating me, but another to have it confirmed baldly. He doesn't even seem sorry. He's scowling like I'm the one at he I wish I could freeze time and come up with the perfect comeback. believe I thought we might still be able to fix our relationship because loved me. Did he ever love me? Or was it just something he said to copull air me from the very beginning?

"Anyway, you would understand if you met her." His eyes go soft. perfect. Promotes breweries and other local businesses on Instagram. Y might recognize her if you saw her photos."

two big "Are you talking about Dana Mincer?"

"Yeah. You know her?" A smile splits his face, and his chest puffs He's obviously full of pride for Dana's fame. Suddenly, I realize with humiliation that he's never had that look when he talked about me. "Sh just a better fit. The kind of woman I need to be seen with. You're a gr girl, Molly, but you just aren't right for my personal brand." He makes face and puts his hands out, palms up. Surely you understand, don't yo couldn't be more eloquent.

Owen might as well stab me with his breadknife. The dull ache in a chest spreads.

You have to make men shine if you want to hang on to them.

Dad's voice rings in my head. If he finds out what just happened, to told you sos will never end. If only I were hotter, had a more engaging to and personality, more charisma—if only I were more like Mom—Owen we never dump me. Especially on my birthday.

e with "I'm trying to help by letting you know sooner than later," he says. you can find somebody who suits you better while there's still time. The clock's always ticking, right?" Sincerity oozes from him. He could be the Bible for all the grave earnestness he's projecting. "When you look viously ten years from now, you'll thank me."

Thank him? More like curse him.

I As I stare at his smarmy, I've-done-nothing-wrong face, I realize I use me for far too long because he said, "I love you." I was too emotio lerate." invested because he was my first boyfriend to say it, and I wanted to fe loved more than I realized.

when "I gave up my apartment." My voice cracks with yet-to-be-fullyprocessed shock. Out of all the things swirling in my head, this seems ize urgent somehow. After all, I can't possibly live with an ex who dumpe because I wasn't good enough for his "personal brand."

fault. Owen's face grows lax with faux thoughtfulness. "I'm not a compl I can't asshole, Molly. You know me better than that."

he "Do I?"

a

P

ntrol He acts affronted. "You can stay at my place until the end of the m Give you time to look for a new apartment."

"She's "The end of the month? Are you kidding? That barely gives me a v You He gives me the open hands again. "Dana wants to move in next m don't want to upset her."

My face heats with humiliation. As the initial horror dissipates, I'n out. starting to register certain things. The mild condescension in Owen's painful expression. The pity and contempt in his gaze, like he's been slumming this time and now he's done screwing around with somebody who's be him. Confidence shines on his face. He's convinced I'm going to give a wry gracefully. I'm the kind of girl who knows her place, her social ranking u? He bound to retreat meekly and spare everyone an embarrassing scene.

The knowledge throws gas on the fire burning inside me. I'll be da ny if I do what he wants.

"I can't believe you." My hand wraps around my knife as I struggle an intense desire to throw it at him. It isn't that he doesn't deserve it, b afraid I'll miss and hit an innocent diner.

Alarm flares in Owen's eyes. "Molly—"

he I

"You said you loved me and asked for a deeper commitment just the months ago. Only to do this?" Letting go of the knife, I hurl my napking. "Now on his pasta. Unfortunately, the wadded cloth immediately unfurls and sauce doesn't hit his clothes.

citing He looks around as his cheeks redden. "Calm the hell down. What' back wrong with you?"

"What's wrong with me? You want to know what's wrong with me you dump me on my birthday?" My shaky voice attracts other diners' let himActually, my whole body is trembling, but I'm not going away quietly nally Owen. He should suffer the consequences of his actions. "You were juplaying with me all this time!"

"No, I meant what I said. It's just that circumstances have changed "Circumstances? Your feelings are so fickle, they change every tin circumstances change? You said you loved me this morning before I le d me work!" My chest heaves as I raise my voice. "Did you disclose your capriciousness to your brand-enhancing Dana?"

"Stop dragging her into it," he says. "This is about you and me."

"It was, until you dragged her into it to dump me. Were you cheating me all this time, too?"

onth. "Of course not! I'd never do that to Dana."

Rage rocks me. "I'm not the other woman, Owen!" I jump to my for veek!" start to reach for my glass of water. Let's see if he can still play the golonth. I when I throw it in his face!

Owen's gaze slides away from me for a moment, to focus on some behind me. The hair on the back of my neck bristles. Is Dana behind n g all "Hey, Molly, what are you doing here?"

neath Nicholas? His voice sounds like warm chocolate syrup. I drop my in before it can grasp the glass of water.

g. I'm "I thought you were celebrating your birthday today. But it doesn't like you're having a good time...?"

I turn and almost do a double take. He's in a suit and tie, radiating authority and warmth as he looks at me. He's even hotter than he was e with Saturday, and my heart flutters.

ut I'm Owen points at Nicholas like he's an unwanted fly hovering over h meal. "Who is this?"

Oh my God, could he be any ruder? "Nicholas," I say. "Georgia's stepbrother."

n down Nicholas stands close enough that I can feel his body heat. My more the dries, and I try not to focus too much on how nice it feels or how the protective angle of his body is making me feel safe.

"Why is he standing so close to you like that?" Owen demands, his accusatory as he glares at Nicholas. It's almost like Owen is some pool after husband who just caught his wife in bed with another man.

gazes. What gives him the right to talk to me like that after telling me Dar to suit the one for him?

st "Might want to watch your tone," Nicholas says before I can think sarcastic response.

." "My tone?" Owen says. "You have a problem with my tone?"

"That's right. Nobody talks to my girl with disrespect. Not if you veft for leave here under your own power."

Did Nicholas just call me his girl? I have no idea what the hell is gon. I'm not drunk enough to hallucinate. Maybe I'm having a dream. F alarm, don't go off right now!

ng on Owen can dump me a hundred times, so long as it ends with Nicho arm around me.

"Your girl?" Owen says with a raised eyebrow.

eet and "Yup. I'm claiming her, since you're obviously stupid enough to nod guy recognize her value."

My heart booms hard and fast in my chest, and I glance at Nicholasthing shock. His feelings for me are platonic, but I can almost believe he see 1e? Or a desirable woman.

Owen sizes Nicholas up. You don't have to see him naked to know man is built like a prizefighter. Not only that, he's taller than Owen by hand least half a head.

My now-ex-boyfriend does the math and decides to snort and give look nasty look. "I can't believe you acted all mad and shit when you've be cheating on me with this guy."

power, "Oh, but I haven't. I'd never do that to Nicholas!" I loop my arms a my best friend's older brother and pull him close. As predicted, he's so hard muscle. Instead of stiffening or pulling back, he shifts until he's fais against my side and wraps his arm around me.

My heart beats like it's about to burst out of my chest. Shivers run through me—this isn't like me at all, but I'm too mad to behave proper The wine I gulped down earlier isn't helping either.

Owen is staring like I've lost my mind, but it only eggs me on. "Af conversation tonight, I've decided it's time to upgrade my personal bra accepting Nicholas's offer of a date. I've been declining them, since, u some people, I take my commitments seriously. Silly of me to think yo the same, but whatever. Good luck enhancing your food complainer br with Dana!" I say, even as blood roars in my head. I've never done any this impulsive, but I feel incredibly brave with my arms around Nichol

Owen flushes at the way I throw his words back at him, then nods of a as he regains his composure. "You know what? You're right. You arer kind of girl who can pull off cheating. And I doubt you were entertaini offer behind my back." The superior smirk on his face says he knows t vant to weren't any offers. "You can still stay with me until the end of the more because I'm not the bad guy here."

oing Damn it. He knows I'm lying. I'm not the type of woman Nicholas 'lease, be asking out—

"That won't be necessary." Nicholas presses his lips to my temple, las's gives Owen an indolently superior look. He beams at me like I'm the c woman worthy of his attention. "She's coming home with me."

ot

s in s me as

⁷ the

at

My now-ex-boyfriend does the math and decides to snort and give me a nasty look. "I can't believe you acted all mad and shit when you've been cheating on me with this guy."

"Oh, but I haven't. I'd never do that to Nicholas!" I loop my arms around my best friend's older brother and pull him close. As predicted, he's solid, all hard muscle. Instead of stiffening or pulling back, he shifts until he's flush against my side and wraps his arm around me.

My heart beats like it's about to burst out of my chest. Shivers run through me—this isn't like me at all, but I'm too mad to behave properly. The wine I gulped down earlier isn't helping either.

Owen is staring like I've lost my mind, but it only eggs me on. "After our conversation tonight, I've decided it's time to upgrade my personal brand by accepting Nicholas's offer of a date. I've been declining them, since, unlike some people, I take my commitments seriously. Silly of me to think you'd do the same, but whatever. Good luck enhancing your food complainer brand with Dana!" I say, even as blood roars in my head. I've never done anything this impulsive, but I feel incredibly brave with my arms around Nicholas.

Owen flushes at the way I throw his words back at him, then nods slowly as he regains his composure. "You know what? You're right. You aren't the kind of girl who can pull off cheating. And I doubt you were entertaining an offer behind my back." The superior smirk on his face says he knows there weren't any offers. "You can still stay with me until the end of the month because I'm not the bad guy here."

Damn it. He knows I'm lying. I'm not the type of woman Nicholas would be asking out—

"That won't be necessary." Nicholas presses his lips to my temple, then gives Owen an indolently superior look. He beams at me like I'm the only woman worthy of his attention. "She's coming home with me."

Chapter Eight

Nicholas

Molly quivers against me. If she were just a little bit meaner, I might the she was tense with the need to kick her boyfriend's ass, but—

Actually, ex-boyfriend. Music to my ears. So much for all the "I lo you" bullshit he's been feeding her. I make a mental note to thank my for wanting to have our business dinner at Dolce. Otherwise, I wouldn been able to shield Molly from this idiot's abuse.

I can't believe he had the nerve to humiliate and dump her on her birthday. He's unfit to lick the soles of her shoes. I'd spend my days th of ways to make her smile if she were mine.

For the first time since Molly wrapped her arms around me, Owen' confidence falters. He studies her closely. I don't need to be a mind reaknow what's going through his head. He's wondering what he might'v missed. He doesn't want to make a mistake of dumping her if she has a quality that he's overlooked. He's dying to figure out what I see in her

What an asshole.

Wanting and caring for her isn't even on his radar. The fact that sh wasted time with undeserving trash like him makes me want to punch the nose, then hug her.

"She doesn't live with you," Owen says.

Is he high? He can't possibly expect her to go home with him. Not the stunt he pulled. The biggest reason I didn't make a move on Molly that she appeared content with her boyfriend, and her happiness was supremely important to me. But now that he's destroyed that, the glove off.

"Not until tonight. But there's no reason for her to continue slumm at your shitty home," I say coolly. "Not when she can have an entire w my mansion." He shrivels as he realizes how much more I can offer Molly. Dear So many men believe they're hot shit once they get a bit of fame, whic must think he possesses as an influencer of sorts. Personally, I'm blasé fame and fortune. It's difficult to be dazzled when your father is one of most successful Hollywood movie producers of all time.

I turn to Molly. "Ready to head out?"

Say yes.

Her wide, owlish eyes focus on me. She's so adorable I want to kis on the mouth, but that would probably freak her out. She's quivering li rabbit, and I don't want to lose her.

nink "So ready." Her voice is low, but firm.

"You can't!" Owen shouts.

ve "Why not?" she demands. "Does Dana not want to move in with yo COO week?"

't have He shuts up, unspoken protest flashing his eyes. What did Molly evin this guy?

"Thought so. I'll drop by later to grab my things," she says.

inking "I'll throw everything out!" he seethes.

I'm not against him tossing her things because I'll be more than ha replace everything. Hell, I'll fill her closet with luxurious things that wader to make her feel like a million bucks just for having them in her room.

But she stiffens. She probably has some sentimental items at his placement. She notion annoys the hell out of me. She should've never wasted with this asshole.

"If you do that, I'm calling the police," she says. "And I'll sue you e Or maybe make such a ruckus that it damages your personal brand." him in Go, Molly!

Owen turns redder as he stares at her. His face says he can't believ has the audacity to talk like that to him.

after No reason for her to waste any more energy on this loser. "You car was whatever you want if you don't mind losing some teeth." I shoot him a fuck-around-and-find-out smile.

His Adam's apple bobs. He gets my message. Understands it isn't threat, but a promise. It's infuriating that he doesn't respect Molly enoing it take her words seriously. He obviously dismisses people who aren't bi ing of strong enough to turn his face into hamburger meat.

I put my hand at the small of her back. "Shall we?"

God. "Yes." She grabs her purse, then snatches the Target gift card from the table. "We shall."

about "You're going to take my present after all this?" Owen demands.

"You said it was for me." She narrows her eyes. "I'm not giving up money just because you're insecure. And by the way, Owen, you were You could never compete with my book boyfriends. You aren't big endown there, or strong enough to last for long. And frankly, honey, you that exciting."

ike a I try not to laugh, but fail. I've never seen this sassy side of her, an adore it.

His cheeks turn red. "I knew it! Your impossible expectations ruine relationship!"

ou next "No, it was you needing to improve your personal brand by dating somebody else. I'm done settling. Bet your amazingly branded Dana w ver see either. So good luck, Sponge Dick."

Laughing harder, I escort her out, even as Owen splutters.

Although she got the last word, I should do something about him. I his smug face, his superior tone and self-satisfied smirk.

ppy to She doesn't deserve what just happened at the restaurant. How dame the first hurt her on the day she should be happiest? She was glowing when she about him just last weekend. Even though this could be my opening, I ace. see her in pain. I don't even want to think about what other humiliation time insults he might have subjected her to if I hadn't ended my dinner and interrupted them.

r ass. Molly and I walk out into the parking lot. "Are you all right?" "Yeah. I'm fine." Her little smile lacks its usual sparkle. "Sorry. The little scene probably wasn't really pleasant for you."

e she "Me? What about you?"

"Yeah." She lets out an awkward laugh, flushing in the dim light. " thard The glimpse of shyness and embarrassment pierces my heart. She lidea how pretty she is. How much I want to coddle and spoil her.

1 do either."

a "Anyway, thanks for coming to my rescue and salvaging my ego. I ugh to there's no reason to put me up. You probably need your space, and I can g and crash with Georgia," she says, not meeting my eyes.

Careful, Nicholas. I always thought I was a decent catch. Nobody's complained about me, and I've had my share of luck with girls.

the But not Molly. I don't think she's uncomfortable with me, exactly, there's an invisible line separating us. Every time I get close, she back quickly putting more distance between us—like she knows I come with book of family baggage and am too old for her.

right. It's frustratingly ironic that the women I don't care for want to use ough while the only woman I want has no use for me. Molly is always indeparen't and capable.

But tonight, I wish she'd lean on me, even if she is strong enough t d I on her own.

"Georgia's out of the country," I say. "Mom just took her and Paul ed our Europe last week, and I'm pretty sure they won't be back for a while." "She is? Why didn't she say something?"

"You know Mom. She just does what she wants, without any warn ron't, How Paul accommodates all of her mood swings and whims is a myste But somehow he does, which is why they've been happily married for years. He's so good at humoring her that I initially thought he was son of gold digger. But no. He just really, incomprehensibly loves Mom.

"Oh. Well..." Molly shifts her weight. "I guess I have nowhere to a be wish JJ hadn't moved to Seattle."

talked JJ must be one of Molly's friends. Interesting that she isn't bringin hate to her dad, who lives in the city. But I don't point that out. "Not nowhere and have me."

I keep my tone casual and light. This isn't the time to reveal how h smile struck me dumb when I first saw her at Georgia's high school graduation eight years ago. Frankly, if Molly had been just a pretty gir probably would have lost interest. Pretty faces aren't that uncommon.

But something about her keeps pulling me back. Maybe it's the wa loves those abandoned dogs. Or the fact that she's always loyal and sw 'Me Georgia. Or maybe it's that she doesn't seem dazzled by my bank accommection to the all-important Ted Lasker. When she looks at me, I'm as no guy named Nicholas who happens to be her best friend's older brother volunteers at the animal shelter. It's incredibly liberating and flattering judged for the way I am, rather than what I have or who I know.

an just She bites her lip. "I don't know..."

at

"I wasn't kidding when I said you could have a wing to yourself. T s ever place is huge—lots of bedrooms, all fully furnished. And you don't wa be on the streets because of a shitty ex. Consider it a birthday present. but home is your home."

She mulls it over. Come on, Molly. Haven't I proven myself to be a decent guy? Surely she doesn't suspect I'm going to do something like her. I want her, but I'd never do anything she didn't want.

me, Finally, she nods. "Okay. Thanks, Nicholas."

needent I smile in triumph and relief. I open the passenger door to my car a her slide in, then get behind the wheel. It's a brand-new Spectre, and I's o standhappy I brought it out of the garage as she runs her hand along the leat interior.

to "Wow. This is so nice," she says.

Her reaction reminds me of the adorable drunken admiration she expressed for my Aston Martin on the night she turned twenty-one. It's bad she doesn't remember anything from that time.

eight could buy her one and she'd just accept it. But she freaked out over an 1e kind And not even a diamond anklet—one with garnets. She'd flip if I gave car worth over $400k.

go. I Even though she deserves it.

She has no idea the kind of things I want to lay at her feet.

As I maneuver through the traffic, tension starts to gather in the bar. You my neck. My place is a huge mansion with all the amenities, but it isn' done to my tastes or wishes. I bought it three years ago for Mom, who desperately wanted a house in Los Angeles, then spent a year having it renovated to her specifications—only to have her tell me she didn't real, I want to live there anymore. She'd already bought a penthouse in Denv reside in with Paul, and she'd found a place to rent in L.A. when she we yo spend some time in the city.

"You told me you didn't like your home. So sell it and move into to bunt or place," she said, like that was enough to acknowledge all the work I'd i just a for her.

I didn't respond, but went ahead and moved in, since my old place to be never felt like home. The mansion doesn't feel much like home, either least it's newer. And the pool is bigger.

I slide the car past the double gates, then speed along the driveway winds through the huge garden and a garish plastic-gem-studded marb statue of Poseidon holding a trident. Lights at the base of the monstros make the thing even more hideous in the dark. It looks like something bunch of drunk frat boys stole from Las Vegas.

Molly gapes at the mythic figure. "It's so...um..."

"Ridiculous, I know." I laugh. "It was a gag gift from my brothers 'housewarming' party." They knew why I ended up with this mansion, they were sympathetic. But that didn't mean they were going to miss a nd let opportunity to rag me. And I wouldn't expect anything less.

'm She turns to me. "You like it?"

her "I told them I'd keep it in the garden before I realized what it was. first, I hated it, but it's grown on me." They also wanted to ensure Morwouldn't change her mind—again—about not wanting the mansion aft moved in. "You should see his eyes in the morning. They burn red."

She giggles. "Why would a god of the sea have burning red eyes?"

"To shoot waterproof lasers with? I don't know. But you can't real ere I it once you're past the driveway, so it's not too much of an eyesore if y anklet. looking out from the house." It is, however, enough of one that Mom v her a never ask me to give the mansion back. "You can see the rest of the ga the morning if you want. I have acacia and lilac."

"Ooh, they smell so good."

"Lisianthus and sweet pea, too."

se of "They're my favorites!" A tinge of excitement sizzles underneath l t really voice, making me smile. "Your garden must be amazing."

"There's a gazebo where you can see it and read or relax. There are couple of rocking chairs and a swing."

illy "That sounds heavenly."

er to I smile at her enthusiasm. The acacia and lilac were planted at Mor ranted request, but the lisianthus and sweet peas—and the gazebo—were addition made to the place after moving in. Molly mentioned how much she low he new those flowers during our time at the shelter, and so I planted some. "W put in rig up a hammock out there if that's more your thing."

"No," she says. "They look so relaxing in pictures, but I can never had of one without landing on my face."

, but at It's comical how aggravated she sounds. But good that she isn't crower her breakup with Owen. As much as he didn't deserve her, she protected feels some pain over it. When Georgia broke up with her boyfriend—a dumped him—she was so depressed that I had to lend her my black Arity she could give herself some retail therapy. "There's a trick to it," I say show you later."

I pull into the garage and kill the engine. Before I can get around to other side of the car, she hops out. Like it never entered her mind I mig for my want to open the door for her.

, and She doesn't know how you feel about her.

I look at her standing in front of the entrance to the house, her face flushed. Her pretty green eyes are twinkling again, albeit not as brightl before. Nerves and determination pump in my veins. I want her to kno precious she is to me, and how happy I am to share my home with her.

n This could end up as a rebound. But I don't want to exercise patien ter I like I did after she broke up with her previous boyfriend, and miss my again.

I'm sick of waiting. I can take this one day at a time and convince ly see give us a chance by indulging her, spoiling her and ruining her for othe you're "Let me show you around." I want to reach for her hand, but instea will mine on her back and usher her in.

rden in Although I didn't initially buy and renovate the mansion for mysel a lot of nice features and amenities. It opens to a massive foyer with lo natural light that pours in during the day. Pale marble covers the foyer, oak flooring on the rest of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the rest of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the first level gives a warm coziness to the harmonic transfer of the harmonic transfer of "Wow. I love your kitchen." Molly's gaze roams around. "Absolut n's amazing." She runs her hand over the spotless stove and ovens.

itions I I'm glad my housekeeping staff does such a good job. I should gived a bonus. "Do you cook?"

"Uh-huh. Mostly baking, but yeah." Then she notices the other kitc "You have four ovens?" She sounds like somebody just gave her a lim get out credit card.

"Yeah. You can use any or all of them if you like."

"Thank you. I'm going to bake you my specialty: double chocolate obably cookies. They're to die for. Everyone at the gym comes by my office to and she compliment me whenever I bring them to work."

nEx so "I thought the people at Get Jacked are too worried about getting ja. "I'll to eat cookies." Did that sound disapproving? I hate it that they've had Molly's cookies multiple times, while I didn't even know she baked.

"Well, the back-office people don't care. And it doesn't matter to t trainers—I mean, they work out all the time, so..."

"I wasn't judging. Just jealous that I never got to have your cookies before."

"Oh." She gives me a relieved smile. "I can bake some for you eve y as if you want."

w how "Well, maybe not every day. I didn't bring you here to cook for me That's not the point at all. Any pampering should flow in the opposite direction. Can't ruin her if she's working hard to spoil me. "Besides, I chance people who come over to take care of things like that."

I show her the sunroom and the rest. I mention the pool and the gyrher to don't take her to see them since she probably works out at Get Jacked. It men. Although I'd prefer that she exercise with me, I do it in the morning be do put go into the office. She undoubtedly doesn't want to get up that early. E if she shows up in a bathing suit, I won't be swimming laps for long.

f, it has "Your home's so warm and welcoming," she says as we finish the ts of the first floor. "I thought most mansions were, like, you know, filled w but expensive things. Like a showroom."

iouse. "I want a home where I can relax, and I've swapped out most of the furnishings." Mom's preference does indeed run to stuffing rooms with priceless items. I'm partial to comfort, and I love it that Molly likes my having home. A castle wouldn't mean a thing if it didn't make her happy. I conclive in a hut without the Internet—or modern plumbing—if it would mely her content.

"I love it. It suits you," she says, her eyes shining.

e them "The question is, does it suit you?"

"Oh, absolutely."

chen. "Good. But wait until you see the library." I'm excited about show itless my most prized room—the one I added after moving in and put the mc thought and effort into. I've filled it with books she gushed over on he Instagram account.

chip She inhales sharply and stops in her tracks. "You have a library?" o "Uh-huh. Upstairs."

"We've gotta go see it! Like, now!" She takes my hand.

It's the first time she's done that. I freeze for a second, and my entil body is buzzing. I know it's not me but the prospect of seeing the libra that's electrifying her. But that doesn't matter when her hand is wrappe he around mine and she's looking up at me with excitement and anticipati shining in her beautiful eyes.

I escort her up the winding staircase as casually as possible, wishin stairs would never end so we could hold hands like this forever. When ry day reach the library, she lets go—leaving me slightly bereft—and steps in Her hands cover her mouth as she lets out a gasp. "Oh my gosh…"

The reaction is satisfying. The architect I hired took out two walls merged three large bedrooms into a single space for the library. The ce vaulted and has skylights. When you recline in one of the armchairs, y see the night sky through the clear glass.

m, but Molly moves further inside. "These chairs look so comfy." Her fin brush the buttery leather of each seat, the soft throw blankets resting or efore I arms. Carelessly tossed thick rugs cover the floor. She sees an espressor sesides, machine on a stand and lets out a small squeal. "Oh my God, this is lik most perfect thing. Books and coffee! Yum."

tour of I smile. I bought it because she's a heavy coffee drinker and I hope invite her here at some point. I could picture her curled up with a good and fresh coffee in one of the seats with a blanket over her.

e She goes over and studies the machine. "It looks new."

"It is," I say. "I haven't had a chance to use it." I got it for you.

"We could have coffee together and read," she says excitedly, then uld caution slips into her expression. "Unless you'd rather watch TV or something?"

"Reading is better."

She flashes me a smile, then studies the books on the shelves. "You the old leather-bound encyclopedias?"

"Yeah. They don't publish them anymore, though."

ing her "I know. Wow. I only see them in public libraries occasionally." Slost her head and parts her mouth. "You have romance novels!"

"Yes."

1

re

"Special editions, too."

"Yeah, I buy them when they're available. But some are just regular paperbacks." Not all the authors Molly recommends on her Instagram account put out special hardbacks.

She looks surprised. "Do you read them, too?"

ry "Of course. I've read everything in this library." I collect romance because I want to read the same books Molly does. It's part of an endle desire to get to know her better, to understand what makes her happy, makes her "swoon."

"Ooooh..." Molly goes up on her toes and stretches, trying to reacl we book on the top shelf.

side. I admire the soft lines of her body as she extends herself. But she's even close to getting the book. "Which one?"

and "Can you grab What He Wants by Emma Grant, please? I started it illing is couple of days ago, but haven't finished it yet."

ou can "Sure."

I take a step forward before she can move, place a hand on the boo gertips to her left and lean forward, momentarily enclosing her in the space be ver the me and the shelves. She's close enough that I can smell the floral scen shampoo. I raise my arm, reaching for the book she asked for. Her breate the hitches—the sound is small, but we're so close. Meanwhile, her silken caresses the tip of my nose and chin, and the head of the erection I've led to the past twenty minutes brushes against her.

book The touch is like an electric jolt. I grit my teeth to contain the low a gathering in my chest. She just had a breakup, and I didn't mean to have dick touch her, even through clothes. It's too fast. If I don't rein mysel the relationship I'd love to have with Molly is going to crash and burn.

"Here." I hand her the book.

She can't quite meet my eye as she takes it. Our fingers brush—accidentally? I'm praying that it's not—that she wants to touch me as I want to touch her.

u have "Um. Thanks." She smiles. "That's so sweet of you."

"Want to see the rest of the house or your room?" Speaking is a str now. My throat is so dry.

he tilts "My room." She hugs the book. Either she's using it as a shield or going to read it all night. "It's getting late, and I should get ready for b

ır

desire to get to know her better, to understand what makes her happy, what makes her "swoon."

"Ooooh..." Molly goes up on her toes and stretches, trying to reach a book on the top shelf.

I admire the soft lines of her body as she extends herself. But she's not even close to getting the book. "Which one?"

"Can you grab What He Wants by Emma Grant, please? I started it a couple of days ago, but haven't finished it yet."

"Sure."

I take a step forward before she can move, place a hand on the bookcase to her left and lean forward, momentarily enclosing her in the space between me and the shelves. She's close enough that I can smell the floral scent of her shampoo. I raise my arm, reaching for the book she asked for. Her breath hitches—the sound is small, but we're so close. Meanwhile, her silken hair caresses the tip of my nose and chin, and the head of the erection I've had for the past twenty minutes brushes against her.

The touch is like an electric jolt. I grit my teeth to contain the low groan gathering in my chest. She just had a breakup, and I didn't mean to have my dick touch her, even through clothes. It's too fast. If I don't rein myself in, the relationship I'd love to have with Molly is going to crash and burn.

"Here." I hand her the book.

She can't quite meet my eye as she takes it. Our fingers brush—accidentally? I'm praying that it's not—that she wants to touch me as much as I want to touch her.

"Um. Thanks." She smiles. "That's so sweet of you."

"Want to see the rest of the house or your room?" Speaking is a struggle now. My throat is so dry.

"My room." She hugs the book. Either she's using it as a shield or she's going to read it all night. "It's getting late, and I should get ready for bed."

Chapter Nine

Nicholas

I give Molly options, but she ultimately ends up in the suite with the connecting door to mine. It's the best room in the mansion, slightly big than my own. This weird design isn't something I would've opted for. on Mom's wish list because she's convinced having separate bedroom improves the quality of her sleep. Maybe Paul snores.

In any case, I never bothered to do anything about the connecting s because it wasn't high on my priority list. I figured when I got married had kids it could be used as a nursery.

The connecting door is left locked on both sides for privacy. I wish were only one bed in this ten-bedroom mansion. Romance novels alwa have one bed, even at the largest and swankiest hotels. My respect for romance novelists goes up a notch; clearly, they're experts at logistics.

I go to my room, strip off my clothes and shower. My dick's hard–condition that has persisted since I brought Molly into my home.

It isn't going to settle down anytime soon, so I grip it and give a fer pumps. Normally I don't ejaculate without thinking of some specific so involving Molly, but this time it shoots thick white cum with hardly an effort.

What the...?

It must be from having brushed against her in the library. My penis never touched Molly, and I've been hyper-charged since. And the thou her being in my house has had me on edge for hours.

I sluice off, then towel myself dry. Molly's newly single, and in my home. But I'm struggling to come up with a plan to show her what she to me without scaring her off. My brothers have said I can be overly in at times— apparently I'm too serious and somber. It's frustrating becar I've spent years thinking of what I'd do if I had the chance, and now the have the perfect opportunity, none of the plans seem acceptable.

Timid knocks come from the connecting door. My whole body per like a dog noticing his owner coming home. What does Molly need? It somebody to hold her and make her feel better... Although that would good to be true.

I start to shrug into a bathrobe, then stop. I work out regularly to lo good. Part of it is for me, but a big part is also for Molly. I always hopeget my chance, and didn't want her to be disappointed.

I glance at my reflection in the mirror. Thick muscle covers my tall frame, and there's not an ounce of fat. My abs are ridged—you could l your change between the sections. I run my fingers through my damp l then wrap a towel around my hips and go over to see what Molly need

It was

ger

She's on the other side of the connecting door. At the sight of her, blood flows south. She's showered too. Unlike me, she's made use of the bathrobe hanging in her suite, and a thick towel is wrapped around her Without any makeup, she looks so huggable and pretty, her cheeks rosher lips pink and soft. She smells like my soap—lime and myrrh. But I her to smell like me.

there She gazes up at me, blinking. Her gaze glides down my torso, mover my shoulders and chest and arms...then to my abs. I feel her scrulike hands running over me.

Time seems to slow down as heat spreads through me. Her eyes dream further, tracing the dusting of hair on my belly that vanishes under the A soft sigh drifts from her. The sound wraps around my cock like a tigw goodKnowing the attraction isn't just one way boils my blood.

cenario Suddenly, she jerks her eyes back up.

Oh, baby, you could've done more than just look. You could've ask to drop the towel and lick you to an orgasm, and I would've done it gle Her face is scarlet. "Uh... Sorry to bother you. I didn't know you ve has the shower."

ight of "No problem. I just got done." I paste on a friendly smile, like it's natural to answer the door in a towel.

"Would it be okay if I did a quick load of laundry? I, um, don't have means anything else to wear."

"Sure. This way." Still in the towel, I show her the second-floor lau room. I hope she appreciates the years of work I've put into my body. need anything else..."

uites

and

cei

"Yeah. Thanks." Her cheeks turn rosier. "I think I'm good. Just goks up read a little and go to bed."

leally My mind conjures up the image. She probably doesn't sleep in a be too bathrobe, so... Does this mean she's going to read in bed and then go t nude? The book she asked me to grab is pretty explicit. Will it give hereok Turn her on? Will I be on her mind?

ed I'd Molly naked in one of the beds in my house, reading a romance no hotter than any porn scenario. Suddenly, my skin feels overly hot and l, wide stretched too thin. Any more tension and something's going to snap.

ose "Actually, could I borrow one of your T-shirts? Anything is fine. I nair, need something to sleep in."

s. I almost groan. Her in my T-shirt is even hotter. Makes her seem n all the My girl. My Molly.

the I try to speak but can't. I clear my throat to get rid of the weird lunhair. "Yeah. I have plenty you can take." You can have all of them. And me, y and while you're at it.

want The first T-shirt I grab from my closet is a simple white one. The c thin and cool, and it's one of my favorites. I hand it to her.

ing She takes it, careful not to touch my fingers. "Thanks. Good night, tiny Nicholas," she says, then slips into her room.

An hour later, I'm lying in bed staring into the darkness. I should b op sleeping, but my body's wound tight.

towel. I keep picturing Molly in my T-shirt. She isn't wearing any underw ht fist. Her nipples are most definitely visible through the fabric. Is she still re It has some great sex scenes. Is she getting turned on?

My cock grows even harder. Fuck.

ted me But my dick isn't the only problem. My fingertips tingle, too. I imandly. pushing one inside her to see if she's wet while she's reading.

vere in Forget that. I'd just lick her.

I grip my dick and close my eyes, imagining her propped up on pil totally stacked against the headboard. Her eyes are on the page as I climb on t bed and slowly make my way to her. She doesn't notice—she's too en in the book. But that's okay because I'm a man with a plan.

Her nipples poke against the T-shirt. They look so pretty. My mout andry waters. She moves her legs restlessly. I catch a glimpse of pink flesh b "If you her thighs. It glistens, and I know...

The book has a very long, extended oral sex scene.

Her legs twist, giving me another peek. Her clit is slightly swollen. Unable to hold back, I kiss the tender flesh at the junction of her thighs breath catches before she moans softly. The scent of her is sweet, drive to sleep crazy.

r ideas? Holding the book with one hand, she uses the other to lazily play w hair. I slip my hands under the T-shirt and slide them up to cup her bre vel, is She arches into my palms, and air catches in her throat. She spreads he wider in shameless invitation.

I oblige, running the flat of my tongue over her sweet flesh. Tasting just—honey and need. Feeling her squirm, trying to get closer.

I tug gently at her nipples while I devour her. I suck her clit, roll it hard candy. She makes a soft sound, and I move down, fucking her put with my tongue.

ip. She's dripping. I love it that my face is drenched with her juices. I' too, one making her wet. I want to be the only man to ever do this to her.

Her pelvis moves, rocking against my face. She's chasing her climotton's lust burns in my veins—

A hot stream of fluid slaps my cheek and streaks my torso and bell open my eyes and finally inhale. Fuck. That was some orgasm. I've jer off to the thought of Molly before, but never shot my wad this hard.

But then, I've never believed that she could be in my T-shirt or in I home.

vear. Breathing hard, I wipe the mess on the sheet and toss it aside. I'm teading? heated up for any kind of cover. But the orgasm I've given myself in the darkness in my bed, alone, is unsatisfying. It leaves me craving the task Molly on my tongue for real.

igine

lows to the grossed

th etween Her legs twist, giving me another peek. Her clit is slightly swollen. Unable to hold back, I kiss the tender flesh at the junction of her thighs. Her breath catches before she moans softly. The scent of her is sweet, drives me crazy.

Holding the book with one hand, she uses the other to lazily play with my hair. I slip my hands under the T-shirt and slide them up to cup her breasts. She arches into my palms, and air catches in her throat. She spreads her legs wider in shameless invitation.

I oblige, running the flat of my tongue over her sweet flesh. Tasting the honey and need. Feeling her squirm, trying to get closer.

I tug gently at her nipples while I devour her. I suck her clit, roll it like a hard candy. She makes a soft sound, and I move down, fucking her pussy with my tongue.

She's dripping. I love it that my face is drenched with her juices. I'm the one making her wet. I want to be the only man to ever do this to her.

Her pelvis moves, rocking against my face. She's chasing her climax, and lust burns in my veins—

A hot stream of fluid slaps my cheek and streaks my torso and belly. I open my eyes and finally inhale. Fuck. That was some orgasm. I've jerked off to the thought of Molly before, but never shot my wad this hard.

But then, I've never believed that she could be in my T-shirt or in my home.

Breathing hard, I wipe the mess on the sheet and toss it aside. I'm too heated up for any kind of cover. But the orgasm I've given myself in the darkness in my bed, alone, is unsatisfying. It leaves me craving the taste of Molly on my tongue for real.

Chapter Ten

Molly

I slowly come awake and blink up at an unfamiliar ceiling. Disoriented my eyes, then stop when I feel the huge T-shirt over my body.

I'm in Nicholas's bed.

Well, not exactly his bed—alas—but one of the beds in his massive house.

I stare up at the ceiling again. I guess I finally fell asleep. It was dit last night. All the nerve endings in my body were tingling. The worst v clit, which throbbed so hard that pressing my legs together didn't do a to help.

Usually I would have touched myself until I got a nice, pleasant or and went to sleep. I tried to refrain, since it felt like I was violating hin something by touching myself in one of his beds. I mean, I'd be annoy helped some guy out and he masturbated in my home to dirty fantasies me.

But the sheets smelled like Nicholas's laundry detergent, and that c made me more turned on, like I was surrounded by him.

Hey, if the guy who was masturbating to dirty fantasies about you Nicholas, you wouldn't be particularly upset...

My body temperature jumped at least ten degrees at the notion.

And my fingers slipped between my legs, to my swollen and slick

The memories from the evening came flooding back. The feel of his when he wrapped his arm around me in front of Owen. His scent in the when he drove me to his home.

And his body when he showed up topless...

I imagined his heavy weight pressing me down, and an orgasm sha through me with such abrupt force that I couldn't even scream. I lay pa in the darkness, stunned that I came so easily and so hard. It's always a struggle to finish, and usually it's more like a pop. I thought orgasms to your heart racing and you utterly breathless only happened in romance novels.

I hug the pillow and inhale the laundry soap scent. My mind drifts last night again—but what happened feels surreal.

I still can't believe Owen dumped me the way he did. I guess the fanice guys are the cruelest. If Nicholas hadn't shown up, I would've spanight under the same roof as Owen. How awful and awkward that wou have been.

Nicholas was so kind, playing along like that when he didn't have also didn't pull away when I unconsciously gripped his hand in exciter about the library. I was too worked up to realize what I'd done until we halfway up the staircase. My heart raced like it was going to gallop aw he let me hold him like there was nothing unusual about it.

So I pretended like I didn't notice, then let go when we reached the fficult library.

vas my I always knew Nicholas was amazing, but seeing that stunning spathing the selection of romance novels he has in there made him perfect. And he took the book from the top shelf for me...

or pillow. I froze when I felt his breath on my hair. And I thought I'd die ed if I what I thought was his erection brushed against my back for a second. about now that I've had some time to reflect, I'm pretty sure it's just my perv mind being...well, pervy.

He doesn't have any special feelings for me. He isn't attracted to mall. He stepped up to save me from humiliation last night because he's guy and has always cared for me like an honorary baby sister or somet because of my friendship with Georgia. And besides, whatever I thoug felt was too big to be a penis. It was probably something else. Like ma flesh. phone.

Besides, the final evidence he doesn't have any feelings for me is vecar he answered the door in nothing but a towel. He didn't check me out, a certainly didn't try to make a move. I was the one who ogled him like starved nympho. But his body was just too perfect to ignore. Those brothered shoulders for me to grip and that wide chest I could lay my head on... And the abs! I thought abs like that only existed in superhero movies on Photoshopped model photos. I could run my tongue along those ridges hat left day...

I've never seen a male body that beautiful in person. I was also wondering if his penis was as impressive as his physique. I even wishe back totowel would just...slip a little. Actually, just come loose altogether.

Thank God he couldn't read my mind. But my money's on him defakenoticing I was having less-than-pure thoughts—he's too observant. He ent the too gentlemanly to say anything about my mental inappropriateness. H ld won't even hint. He'll just act like nothing's happened.

Why couldn't Nicholas be a little bit more like— No. Then he wou to. He be the Nicholas I know and like. Besides, he wouldn't have taken adva nent of my emotionally weakened state. More like he'd just start avoiding ne were It's for the best that I behaved and he's a gentleman.

ay, but Although...what would he be like if he decided not to be a gentlem anymore...? Would he—

Stop!

I smack myself mentally, then hop out of bed. Staying put won't ce and accomplish anything, and I need to look at some apartments. Nicholas when probably wants me out of his hair as soon as possible—ideally before I my sanity and jump him.

After splashing my face with water and brushing my teeth with the when toothbrush and toothpaste that were laid out in the bathroom, I put on I freshly laundered underwear and head downstairs. Nicholas's T-shirt is big, it reaches two inches above my knees.

When I get to the kitchen, I don't smell coffee. So he probably has been down yet. I set the coffee machine for a couple of servings—I'm a nice he's going to want some.

hing Something beeps. Then it comes again and I look around. Not an a ht I from one of the appliances. I finally locate an intercom on the side of t ybe a main kitchen wall. On the screen are a group of women. Four...maybe It's hard to tell. They seem well dressed and well made-up, though. Th tops are low enough to showcase massive cleavages.

nd he Definitely not missionaries trying to get you to enter God's Kingdo a sex- And I don't think Nicholas's neighborhood allows for door-to-door sal I hit "speak" on the control. "Hello?"

or kiss. "Hi. Is Nicholas home? Nikki sent us," one of the women says.

"I was sent by Ted," another one says. "He said to mention that all specifically."

Nicholas's mother and father sent these women?

It presents a dilemma. I'm not sure if Nicholas is up yet, and I don' d the to disturb him if he's sleeping in.

"Look, can we come in? Nikki said he's expecting us." The womer finitely around.

's just "Should I call her?" another one says. "Just in case there was a mix I don't want them to bother Nikki, especially when she's out of the e country. "No. I guess it's okay," I say, hitting a button with a key syml ıldn't it. I'll just ask them to keep it quiet and wait until Nicholas is up.

"Thanks, doll." ıntage

Doll? I think, but the screen goes black. ne.

Just then, Nicholas comes down the stairs. Despite dark half-circle his eyes, he looks amazing in a pale gray T-shirt that stretches across h าลท shoulders and chest, and shorts that cling to his narrow hips. Dark stub shadows his square jaw.

The sight makes me want to take a picture so I can preserve the mc forever. This is Nicholas at his most casual and relaxed, something I'v seen before. He could've come down all dressed up like he normally is [lose fact that he's letting me glimpse his private side makes me like him ev more. I feel like I'm part of his inner circle.

He pads silently across the distance on bare feet until he reaches m ny corners of his eyes crinkle. "Morning." S SO I smile back, trying to hide how giddy I am. "Good morning."

"Did you sleep well?" n't

No. I was too turned on. You made me wet. But I swear, I'm not a sure nympho. I promise not to touch you inappropriately. "Yeah. You?"

larm He nods.

new

"I started coffee. For us." he

His eyes light up. I knew he'd love some in the morning. five?

"Let me get it for you." I head to the kitchen and pour him a genero eir mugful. "And do you want me to make some for your guests?"

"Guests?" He frowns and checks his phone. "Weird..." m.

"Your mom sent them. Actually, one's from your father." es.

> He whips around. If he were a billboard, a neon red Oh fuck! would flashing. "You turned them away, right?"

"No. I—"

Chimes go off and the door opens. The women spill into the foyer.

Nicholas runs toward them, placing his coffee on the counter.

't want I follow him out, feeling a kernel of panic. Did I let in stalkers or something?

The intercom screen didn't do the women justice. They're even pre person. And fashionably dressed. Closer, the air around them smells lil r-up?" perfume. They toss glossy hair—probably straightened professionally, because it's so sleek and shiny—and wave their greetings.

on If I had even half their beauty and confidence, Dad would be proud "Hi, Nicholas," one of them says, giving him a coy look. She's the with the biggest breasts and roundest butt. Her skintight red dress leave nothing to the imagination. Not even her nipples are hidden. She's most under definitely not wearing anything underneath.

is Nicholas's eyes narrow. "Who are you?"

ble "I'm Candy. Ted's pick." She giggles as she places a hand over he generous and extraordinarily well-formed chest. I've never had breast ment but I'm beginning to feel it now. "The rest are from Nikki."

e never "Why are my parents together?" he says, looking slightly horrified "Oh, they're not."

en "Is it really true that you're going to pay two hundred thousand dol a baby?" one of them says.

e. The What? I swing my undoubtedly wide eyes to him.

"No!" Nicholas shoos the women toward the door. "Out! All of you The women begin to mill around, but don't make much progress to the door. "Wait, I really need the money! And my eggs are great!"

"I have a twin if you're into that. Identical." A wink.

"I'm not even into you, much less two of you," Nicholas says. "No Before I call the police!"

"But I want to get paid!"

"Invoice my mother!"

When they're finally all standing outside, he slams the door shut, the locks it loudly. The muffled sound of women complaining comes throusolid wooden door.

"Wow," I say. "That's...not what I expected when I let them in."

d be "It isn't what any rational human would expect." Nicholas looks pa "Excuse me. I need to make a call."

ettier in ke posh

l. one es st r envy, llars for u!" ward

w, out!

hen 1gh the ined.

Chapter Eleven

Nicholas

Thank you, Mother. Thank you, Father.

My good mood is gone. Hell, Molly's good mood is gone.

I was so happy when I woke up and she said she'd made coffee for was like we were a real couple enjoying a domestic morning scene.

But of course that couldn't last. Mom and Dad just had to send tho women! What the hell were they thinking?

Actually, the real problem is that they don't think. Or when they do for their own selfish reasons.

I go to the kitchen and grab my coffee. Whether the brew is my thi not is irrelevant—Molly could make me a laxative cocktail and I'd drin Then I go to the living room corner farthest from the kitchen to make ε My parents' crazy attempts to get me to impregnate a woman of their ε are going to end now.

A couple of rings later, my mother answers. She has a slightly brea and girlish voice, more suited to a woman half her age. I'm certain it's up to last December she sounded like a chipmunk because she'd decide a woman sounding like she was full of helium was "fun" and "sexy."

"Nicholas! Darling! How are you?"

"Mom, how could—"

"Have you seen the women I sent? Are they there now? What do y think?"

"No, they—"

"Any of them do it for you? No need to consider life goals or long-compatibility or that sort of thing. Just picture how half of you mixed v half of them would look like."

"Mother! I told you no."

"And I told you I want a grandchild! Emma has one and Rachel has Why can't I? I'm just as good as they are. And you are just as capable fathering a child as Emmett and Griffin because you're—my—son!"

I pinch the bridge of my nose. We've had this argument before, bu doesn't listen. She saw baby photos from Emma and Rachel and now i convinced she simply has to have a grandbaby as well. And she'll valu baby about as much as she did the birthday party she asked me to plan she skipped it to go to Madrid.

Mom can hurt me all she wants. She's already damaged me enough making promises she doesn't remember to keep, but also making me for I'm the center of her universe when she's with me. Our relationship is exactly healthy, but I've accepted it for what it is because I understand never change or comprehend what she's done. But I'm not letting her of the same to a child of mine.

"Mom, listen to me very, very carefully. I am not, I repeat, not goir se have a baby simply to suit your whim. Clear?"

When I have a baby, it's going to be with the woman I love—Moll o, it's imagine how cute the child will be with Molly's wide green eyes. Or h button nose, complete with a dusting of freckles.

ng or Jesus. My heart beats funny. That kid's going to have me wrapped nk it. her chubby little finger. And I won't care. I'll lay the world at her feet. "Don't be so cruel!" Mom whines. "I'm not asking you to carry the hoice nine months!"

She's completely missed the point. "You want them at the moment thless once something flashier catches your attention, you won't even remem fake—that you have a grandchild."

ed that "Don't be absurd! I'm not that bad."

"You told me the same thing when you asked me to plan your birth party."

As usual, she doesn't register a word she doesn't want to hear. "Be unlike your father, I selected your women for both IQ and looks, so my grandchild will be smart and beautiful. You're welcome."

Suddenly, Dad comes online. "Don't worry. I was able to stick one term the mix. The hottest one. Pick her. I want a hot baby."

with "What the hell are you doing with Mom?"

"I happen to be in Madrid too and have an hour to spare," he says.

"What does Paul think about you two?" I demand, furious my pare s three. plotting against me. If they didn't get along well enough to marry, they of shouldn't get along well enough to come after me together.

"He knows I don't go back for second helpings." Dad sounds entire t she cheerful, like he's proud of what he just said.

s Gross. But then, Dad wouldn't be Dad if he weren't gross and imple the "The women we sent are all very discreet surrogates," Mom says. 'before stop complaining. It isn't like you're seeing anybody serious."

"You're wrong. I am!" Maybe this will make her back off. What w n, Molly think if random women keep popping up at my house? This is neel like opportunity to convince her to go out with me...and hopefully choose a permanent basis. It's going to be a complicated and delicate process-she'll one of those mating dances birds perform to attract a suitable partner.

This is why birds don't hang out with their parents once they're old enough to be on their own.

ng to Mom snorts. "Like who? That mystery woman you're supposedly i with? Ha!"

y. I can A delicate clearing of the throat comes from behind me. I turn and er Molly standing there. Damn it. How much did she hear? Mom was practically shouting.

around "What was that?" Mom says. "I thought I heard something."

"It's..." The word "nothing" chokes me. Although it's the best way sm for shut this line of questioning down, I don't want to say Molly is nothing She's everything. If I could have only one thing in the world, I'd clutcles, but me and never let go.

Mom can scent blood in the water like a shark. "It's a woman, isn' Put her on speaker right now!"

"No."

"Do it or I'm flying home immediately to meet her in person."

She's determined enough to do it. Fickle she may be, but when she sides, something, she goes for it with the single-minded focus of a starving to boy reaching for a TV dinner. Sighing, I pull the phone away from my and put it on speaker. I mouth to Molly, You don't have to do anything into Nodding, she smiles.

"Hello? Who is this? Are you the reason my son is childless?" Mor demands.

Molly blinks at the blunt question. "Uh...hi. And, um, I don't thinl nts are so...?"

"Good," Mom says, obviously not recognizing Molly. Not surprising

When Mom's focused on something, she's like a runaway train. "So arely too going to have his child in the next week or two? I honestly don't want a month."

roper. "I can send Joey with some stuff to help. You know he's good at th' Now of thing," Dad calls out.

Oh God, not Joey. He does everything Dad asks, including sending hookers to our homes because that's what Dad decided was the proper get babies out of us. Thank God my parents didn't stoop quite that low me on time, but I'm not risking anything. Not while I have Molly here.

—like "We do not need Joey's help." My voice is cold enough to freeze the entire Pacific.

"If she's not going to have your baby in the next two weeks, what i she?" Dad asks. "Wait, I know! She's your side piece!" He sounds as I in love as a puppy that just mastered a new trick.

Molly cringes.

see I should buy a weapons manufacturer. That way, I can drone-strike father. "She's not a side piece!"

"Fine, fine," Dad says. "The main piece?"

Mom huffs. She's probably throwing her hair over her shoulder, to "Don't be ridiculous, Ted. It's called a girlfriend."

g. "Uh, we're really—" Molly begins.

h her to "Oh, honey, you don't have to explain. We get it. You think you're young to have a baby. But that isn't true. Having a baby won't ruin you tit? body. You'll still be hot enough to be a movie star. Tell her, Ted."

"Of course! I'll cast you in my next movie! I promise!"

Molly clears her throat. "That's not—"

Mom is undeterred. "Having a baby is easier if you do it earlier rat wants than—" eenage "Goodbye, Mother. Father," I say at the same time Dad shouts, "I'll ear over right now and audition her!"

. Click. There.

My phone rings. I tap the red button, then turn off the phone when and Dad begin to tag-team call me. They'll give up after about an hour I'll be able to turn it back on.

"Wow." Molly is slightly wide-eyed. "So she thinks I'm your girlf! I pause for a moment to savor the words that just came out of Moll mouth. Your girlfriend. "Apparently."

"Right. Okay, well..." She clears her throat. "If you need me to, I of to wait be your, you know. Girlfriend."

Her statement leaves me in a euphoric daze. It's like she somehow at sort me in the solar plexus.

"I mean, not like a real one, of course. But a fake one." She's speal fast. "I mean, that's, like, the least I can do to pay you back for your way to kindness."

"That would be great." Fake dating wasn't one of my plans, but I c work with it. Actually, in some ways it's better because it gives us the reason to stay together and for me to lavish gifts upon her the way I've always wanted. After a few weeks, we can upgrade to real dating.

"Okay." Then she hesitates for a second. "By the way, do you thin recognized me on the phone?"

"Doubt it." Hopefully she never will. I'm going to have to murder I own mother if she starts to harass Molly about a baby. Parental pressur what she needs, especially so soon after her breakup with Owen. Besid she's too young. She should be able to enjoy her twenties without worn about whether she has enough diapers or if anybody's going to notice a stain on her chest.

Molly's shoulders slump a little.

what did I say? Should I have offered more reassurance? "She did you Molly. She would have if she knew."

"Right. Yeah, no. I mean..." Molly clears her throat, then fidgets.

"What is it?" I don't want her to feel like she can't tell me what she thinking.

her "Well. If she does recognize me at some point, she probably won't convinced we're dating. It isn't like I fit your...um...personal brand on ll come anything." She looks away.

"My personal brand?" What the hell? Who filled her head with thi nonsense? Better not be Georgia, or I'm going to make her pay me bac Mom all those special editions I bought.

"Like...you know." She makes a vague gesture. "Your reputation.'
Just what kind of rep does she think I have? Unlike some of my fla riend?" brothers, I tend to keep a low public profile. Besides, managing a priva y's equity fund that owns a bunch of companies isn't sexy, like owning a j empire or venture capital firm, even though it is quite profitable.

"I don't have a reputation, and I don't have some 'personal brand' you have to worry about." I don't care about "personal brand." I only c kissed about her.

"Okay. As long as it'll help you get some peace..." Molly shrugs, tking smiles. "I don't mind if you use me a little."

She doesn't get it. She's supposed to use me, not vice versa. I'm go have to show her that.

stead... "By the way, can you drive me to my—to Owen's place? I want to an my things before he gets any ideas. He really doesn't like my books, a perfect don't want him doing anything to them."

Good. She's not referring to his place as hers anymore. "Such as... "I don't know. Setting them on fire? He joked about it a few times, k she now that I think about it, he might have been serious."

"What an asshole," I mutter. "Don't worry. If he does anything of the sort, I'll replace them." And kick his ass so hard it'll end up between h the isn't "That's sweet of you, but it wouldn't be the same. I have highlighten notations for all my favorite books. I'd hate to lose them."

rying Highlights and notations? Now I'm curious what she finds interest a puke enough to go to such trouble. And if Owen has done anything to those he'll pay.

Molly's like Georgia, so there will probably be hundreds of books n't call It'd be easiest to hire movers—and same-day hiring is doable if I offer enough money. But if Owen isn't around the townhouse, it'll be an opportunity to spend time with Molly. And look at the kind of things so likes—the accessories she has, the items she likes to collect, what she's to get rid of.

And if there's anything heavy, I can carry it for her. I make a ment to put on a stretchy shirt before we go. Molly might not see me as real material at the moment, but based on the way she was looking at my be last night, her liking for my physique is real enough.

"Let me grab a truck so we can fit everything."

"Awesome." She smiles.

I turn on my phone. Thirty-seven missed calls from my parents. She shier my head, I text my assistant Cody.

ewelry —Me: I need to help my girl move. So get a truck big enough for the have it delivered to my place in the next two hours.

that —Cody: Boxes and tape, too?

care –Me: Yes.

-Cody: Coming right up.

then

"While the truck's coming, let's get you fed," I say, putting a hand bing to elbow to lead her to the kitchen.

"Wait... The truck isn't here?" She gestures in the general direction grab garage, her eyes wide with shock.

nd I "No. But don't worry. A dealer will drop one off in the next couple hours. Brand new. Full tank." Cody knows what's expected.

?" Molly's jaw slackens. "You just bought a truck?" I might as well h but admitted that I like to use my testicles for table tennis.

"Yeah, of course."

the "But—"

is ears. "How else are we going to fit everything? In my Spectre?" Her bro s and remains taut. "Besides, I always wanted to own a truck."

She shoots me a skeptical look. So I try to shift her focus. "Come c ing should eat breakfast before the truck gets here. I know a good place to books, some pancakes and bacon."

"But I wanted to feed you," she says.

to box. It's a little shocking to hear. The women in my life don't volunteer care of me. They expect me to do the caretaking. And for Molly to say She adds, "I make a pretty mean breakfast, if I do say so myself. If he have some eggs and bacon..."

s loath "I do." I smile, flattered and happy that she wants to put in the effo me.

al note "Awesome. Prepare to be wowed."

dating Prepare? Ever since I laid eyes on her, I've been wowed.

ody

aking

at, and

-Cody: Boxes and tape, too?

-Me: Yes.

-Cody: Coming right up.

"While the truck's coming, let's get you fed," I say, putting a hand on her elbow to lead her to the kitchen.

"Wait... The truck isn't here?" She gestures in the general direction of the garage, her eyes wide with shock.

"No. But don't worry. A dealer will drop one off in the next couple of hours. Brand new. Full tank." Cody knows what's expected.

Molly's jaw slackens. "You just bought a truck?" I might as well have admitted that I like to use my testicles for table tennis.

"Yeah, of course."

"But—"

"How else are we going to fit everything? In my Spectre?" Her brow remains taut. "Besides, I always wanted to own a truck."

She shoots me a skeptical look. So I try to shift her focus. "Come on. We should eat breakfast before the truck gets here. I know a good place to grab some pancakes and bacon."

"But I wanted to feed you," she says.

It's a little shocking to hear. The women in my life don't volunteer to take care of me. They expect me to do the caretaking. And for Molly to say it...

She adds, "I make a pretty mean breakfast, if I do say so myself. If you have some eggs and bacon..."

"I do." I smile, flattered and happy that she wants to put in the effort for me.

"Awesome. Prepare to be wowed."

Prepare? Ever since I laid eyes on her, I've been wowed.

Chapter Twelve

Molly

Nicholas probably thought I was just saying it, but I actually do make scrambled eggs and bacon. It's the one thing even Dad said I do better Mom.

I whip everything up and put the plates on the counter. Nicholas ra eyebrows. "That looks really good."

"My specialty."

I serve more coffee, and we eat. Predictably, he puts his food away methodical fashion. I've never seen him frazzled or at a loss. Georgia she's the most organized person she knows, adding that she'd love to se shaken up a little.

I didn't have a lot of appetite after seeing the parade of gorgeous w his parents picked out. But watching him enjoy my cooking makes me and enjoy the food, too. Plus, of course, I'm the one sharing a meal wit not any of them.

"I'm so glad you aren't an 'eat your veggies with your breakfast to your day right' kind of person." Nicholas sighs appreciatively as he fir the food and sips his coffee.

"Ew. Who eats veggies for breakfast?"

"You'd be surprised."

"Your ex?" Insisting on veggies first thing is the morning is totally reason to break up with someone.

"My mother." He shudders. "Baked Brussels sprouts should never offered before noon. Or ever, really."

I lean closer. "I hate veggies. I choke them down because they're supposed to be good for you." And because Dad tells me all the time a how Mom ate salad to stay svelte and healthy. I suspect he said that to to switch to eating more salad and less protein and starch, but my palat what it is. "If I had it my way, I'd eat nothing but meat, eggs and potat "And cheese?"

"Well, yeah, of course. Can't forget cheese."

A beatific smile breaks over his stunning face. "My kind of womar My breath freezes, and I stare at the bliss radiating from him. My h pounds, screaming, He's the one and you're stupid not to jump his bon There's no meat better than this man.

My head, on the other hand, is desperately yanking on the reins to j back.

Just imagine how embarrassing it would be if he meant "my kind c the bestwoman" platonically, and you threw yourself at him. Your pride would than recover. Remember what Dad said? Mom never had to throw herself a anybody. Men threw themselves at her.

ises his My mouth is too dry. I gulp down the now-lukewarm coffee. I wisl could read his mind so I could know how he really feels. His actions so doesn't see me as anything but his younger stepsister's best friend, but in a love to know if there's a way to make him view me as a woman.

said Jump him. He'll see you as a woman, all right.

Hahaha, no. Terrible idea, I tell myself. If I mess things up, he'll n look at me with a warm smile again. He'll quit coming to the shelter are omen everything in his power to avoid me.

relax You're his "fake" girlfriend now. You can have "fake" sex with him him, Why the hell is my mind putting double quotation marks around fa meant fake seriously. I'm just not the kind of girl someone like Nichola start would date for real. If I'd said, "Let's date for real to stymie your parenishes would've been like, "Sorry, not that desperate."

"Let me clean up." I need to distract my one-track libido before I d something stupid. I can't imagine him wanting to date me for real, not saw him turn away all those gorgeous women.

a valid "No, no, no. You cooked." Nicholas stands up. "You go rest on on couches, and I'll put everything in the dishwasher." He makes a shooir be motion with a small grin. "Go on. Go."

"Do you know what to do?" I eye him suspiciously. "Or are you ju going to leave stuff everywhere until your housekeeper comes?"

bout He laughs. "My housekeeper is off on weekends, and yes, I do kno get me to load a dishwasher. Emma—that's my half-brother Emmett's mother taught us basic chores around the house." He comes over and grabs my oes." As he does so, his arm brushes mine. All the hair on my skin stands, m winding tight with sexual zing and longing.

It's all I can do to do swallow discreetly and manage a cool, careles 1." façade. "Okay. But if you need any help..."

leart He waves me away. "I'll holler."

on one of the plush sofas. Although the morning didn't start quite the very envisioned, it's now progressing the way I hoped—friendly and peaced check my phone for missed texts or calls. I have a few, but they aren't but there are some from Georgia that I check immediately.

1 never

Georgia: How did the date go? Dolce is supposed to be amazing.
 Owen splurged massively on you.

h I —Me: Actually, Owen was there for work, so the meal was comped by he

I'd It takes only a few seconds before my bestie responds.

-Georgia: Wow. That was cheap. But at least the dessert was good lever heard the tiramisu is divine.

nd do —Me: No idea. I left before I could finish my pasta.

-Georgia: What? What happened?

m, too. –Me: He dumped me.

ke? I —Georgia: WTF??!!!! That asshole!

as

nts," he Her instant fury soothes the frayed edges of my nerves. It was ama have Nicholas jump to my defense, but I realize I need my bestie's sup too.

after I My phone buzzes with an incoming call. Georgia! I instantly decline and text her.

e of the ng —Me: No! Stop! —Me: Don't call!

st —Me: I'm at Nicholas's place right now, and I don't want to have h hear the conversation.

w how —Georgia: You're staying with Nicholas?

 y belly —Georgia: Okay, got it. But I'm DYING here. Text me everything.

I quickly type what's happened since Owen declared his need to in his "personal brand" by dumping me and being with Dana Mincer, and send.

down

im

way I —Georgia: What personal brand? That he's a fucking asshole??? Uş ful. I And Dana's just a bitch. I never liked her. I guess those two roaches w urgent. happy together. Great that Nicholas was there for you so you could fuc Owen's ego. So does this mean you're going to give him a chance?

-Me: Who, Nicholas? What chance? He was just being nice. I need I hope find a new apartment as soon as possible so I can get out of his hair.

. I'm not letting Georgia get any unrealistic ideas. She has an over-tl imagination and can be excessively romantic. It doesn't help that both and Nikki encourage her. Nikki once said to Georgia, "If a man doesn' how to make you happy, dump him. There are other fish in the ocean v more money, better brains and bigger cocks."

-Georgia: There's nice and there's nice. He's never offered to let a stay the night with him.

-Me: Never? Not even his ex-girlfriends?

-Georgia: Don't think so. I overheard Nikki complain to Dad abou cold-hearted and awful Nicholas can be. She thinks that's why he's hazing to trouble getting a long-term girlfriend.

I like Nikki, but I'm beginning to think she might not know her sor well as she should. He's anything but cold-hearted and awful.

-Georgia: So it's a huge deal that he's letting you stay at his place. wanted to just be "nice" like you said, he could've dumped you at a ho offered to pay for a night or two. And he didn't object to you being his girlfriend, which means he wants you around.

-Me: You think so?

-Georgia: Hello? Fake Dating Rule Number One? You have to ma ne, but people believe you aren't fake-dating. Which in your case means you cing! immediately move out or it'll look like you dumped him. Now! —Me: Ha. Nobody's going to think that. They'll think he dumped n

-Georgia: Come on, girl. You know that isn't true.

aprove —Me: Have you seen your brother?

I hit —Georgia: Yes. And I've seen the way he looks at you. I bet that rig minute he's thinking of a way to date you for real.

gh. I roll my eyes with a smile. She's such a romantic.

ill be

:k with —Me: This is my life, not a romance novel. Things like that don't h

-Georgia: I love you, so we're going to have to agree to disagree. I to secretly acknowledging that I'm right and you're wrong, of course.

I laugh fondly. This is how my best friend and I end minor argume ne-top because they aren't worth hard feelings. Our friendship matters more. Paul t know —Georgia: And let's suppose the world has ended and you're right with all. Why move out so quickly? The whole point of fake dating is enjoy benefits of being somebody's fake girlfriend. So use his house and his and everything else that comes with the fake relationship until you fake girl up. I'm rooting for you both to get what you want out of this.

All I can do is shake my head. She's probably already written a me t how romance novel about me and Nicholas. But it won't hurt to let my best ving friend's imagination run free. She'll realize soon enough that it's totall unrealistic.

My notifications show a text from Dad earlier this morning. Looks missed it when the horde of women came over, and a painful knot instance forms in my belly. Instinct says I shouldn't look at it until later, but pare wants to just get it over with. It's also the weekend, so he's probab. If he going to be too busy showing properties to his clients to devote much eatel and to telling me what a disappointment I am.

–Dad: By the way, I realized I totally forgot to send these to you. F belated birthday. Here's to a better and improved you as you grow a you older.

ran't

ke

I go still for a moment, then exhale softly. It's a much kinder text t

ne. expected, since he rarely gets in touch without something to criticize n about. I'm grateful for whatever prompted this change in him.

I click on the link to claim the e-gift he sent. A colorful certificate ight this personal training sessions at Get Jacked fills the screen. My hand tight around my phone as frustration and indignation roil through me, buzzi angry hornets. I blink slowly, praying I didn't see the present correctly no such luck.

Another text pops up, covering the certificate.

appen.

While —Dad: I see you just claimed the present! Good girl! And it should hard—you're there every day. Just get there an hour early or stay an holate. I decided to be more supportive and give you the tools to help you nts Resentment and anger eat at me. If this is how he wants to be support I don't want it. But at the same time, a tiny kernel of guilt won't let me after him how I really feel. It's the same guilt that's been haunting me since ing the Mom's death.

money "Are you okay?" comes Nicholas's concerned voice.

e-break I lift my eyes and look at Nicholas, who's drying his hands on a dishtowel. His brow is furrowed, and his expression says he's ready to me whatever I need to make myself feel better, whether that's a should ental cry on or someone who can rage with me.

A sense of powerlessness and embarrassment pulses in my veins. I humiliating to tell Nicholas about my father. Or how messy our relatio has become.

like I "Yeah." I manage a small smile, although I know it's not convincing antly "Is it Owen?" Nicholas demands.

rt of I wish. I'm done with that jerk, and I can block him from my life. I ly another matter. "No."

energy Nicholas's eyes shutter, and he flattens his mouth. He's unhappy I' being more forthcoming, but I just don't want to get into it.

"I need to change before heading to Owen's place," I say, desperat lappy steer things in a different direction. "So I'll see you in a few."

expected, since he rarely gets in touch without something to criticize me about. I'm grateful for whatever prompted this change in him.

I click on the link to claim the e-gift he sent. A colorful certificate for six personal training sessions at Get Jacked fills the screen. My hand tightens around my phone as frustration and indignation roil through me, buzzing like angry hornets. I blink slowly, praying I didn't see the present correctly, but no such luck.

Another text pops up, covering the certificate.

-Dad: I see you just claimed the present! Good girl! And it shouldn't be hard—you're there every day. Just get there an hour early or stay an hour late. I decided to be more supportive and give you the tools to help yourself.

Resentment and anger eat at me. If this is how he wants to be supportive, I don't want it. But at the same time, a tiny kernel of guilt won't let me tell him how I really feel. It's the same guilt that's been haunting me since Mom's death.

"Are you okay?" comes Nicholas's concerned voice.

I lift my eyes and look at Nicholas, who's drying his hands on a dishtowel. His brow is furrowed, and his expression says he's ready to give me whatever I need to make myself feel better, whether that's a shoulder to cry on or someone who can rage with me.

A sense of powerlessness and embarrassment pulses in my veins. It's too humiliating to tell Nicholas about my father. Or how messy our relationship has become.

"Yeah." I manage a small smile, although I know it's not convincing. "Is it Owen?" Nicholas demands.

I wish. I'm done with that jerk, and I can block him from my life. Dad is another matter. "No."

Nicholas's eyes shutter, and he flattens his mouth. He's unhappy I'm not being more forthcoming, but I just don't want to get into it.

"I need to change before heading to Owen's place," I say, desperate to steer things in a different direction. "So I'll see you in a few."

Chapter Thirteen

Molly

I go back to my room, pull the T-shirt over my head and stare at the on outfit I have—the dress from yesterday. I should put it on before going public, but the ember of rage from last night rebels at the idea. I wore t dress to look pretty for Owen. And I don't want to wear it again.

I've been with guys who made me angry when we broke up, but O the first to make me feel unworthy, acting like somehow being with me damaging to him. The humiliation and rage have tainted the dress to the that it no longer gives me joy to wear it.

Screw it. I'm not bothering with the dress. I put Nicholas's T-shirt on. The churning in my heart eases, and I feel safer, like I have his arm around me. Sighing, I think back to his taut expression. I should apolog but I don't know how to do that and not share what I felt.

We're fake-dating. And fake relationships don't include unloading problems on the other person.

I study my reflection in the huge mirror in the walk-in closet. The is long enough to be a dress. I pull the silver hoop belt off my dress and that around my waist. There. Much better. I twist my hair into a messy topknot and run some lip gloss over my mouth.

I'm ready.

When I go downstairs, Nicholas is just taking a truck fob from som dealership guy. He looks like he'd love to lick Nicholas's shoes. "We offer a custom paint option as well. Given the time constraint, of cours couldn't do much with that aspect of the vehicle, but—"

"I'll keep it in mind," Nicholas says.

"And our detailing service is always available."

"Good to know."

"If you need anything else..."

"I'm good. Thanks." Nicholas's voice is polite. But then, he's alwa polite and nice. He shuts the door before the other man can offer to sel his liver.

"Just in time," I say with a smile. The plan is to act like our tense n never happened, at least until I can figure out how to apologize withou oversharing.

He turns around, then stares. He studies me from top to bottom, rui over my shoulders to breasts to hips and legs...then back up as he take in. Probably just shocked I'm not in proper clothes, but my heart shive hotly anyway. Something in his eyes makes me feel like he's caressing with his gaze. Heat flutters in my belly and suddenly I'm slightly out in lightheaded, like I'm not getting enough air.

I shake myself mentally before I do something embarrassing. "Too hat even for a fake girlfriend?" I spread my arms with an overly casual sm His eyebrows pull together into a V. A mixture of displeasure and wen is confusion flashes across his face. e was

Maybe he really doesn't want me in this shirt. Anxiety unfurls. I of e point close my hands a few times to calm my nerves, to very little effect. I al sort of blew him off earlier, and I don't want to do that again. "I was th back about changing into the dress from yesterday, but it's my breakup dres ıs wear it again, it'll definitely be weird. Like I'm still pining over him o gize, something. Which I'm not. For sure. No way. That would totally under our attempt to put up a façade." your Nicholas's frown deepens as I continue to babble. Obviously, I'm 1 Γ-shirt helping. Oh my God, shut up, shut up, shut up.

But my mouth doesn't get the memo. "And what if your mom hear d put the girl you said was your girlfriend is hung up on somebody else? I w want her to think you aren't as good as Owen. Because you are. Like, way better than him. Like he's a donkey, and you're a horse."

The tip of his right eyebrow twitches.

ıly

ıe

of

Oh crap. I insulted him. "I mean, like, he's not even a donkey. Mo a jackass. And you're a stallion. A sexy horse. The kind of horse I'd lil —" I put both hands over my mouth because I was about to add "sleep and it'd be super perverted to say "horse I'd like to sleep with."

My heart races. Heat suffuses my face until you could fry a couple eggs on my cheeks.

A corner of his mouth quirks up. "You think I'm a sexy stallion?"

ıys eyes sparkle.

I him I lower my hands. "Well, yes." I smile, relieved he either didn't cat other stuff or chose to ignore it. "Totally."

noment "I like you in my shirt." Approval warms his tone. And is that topreciation in his eyes?

"Thank you." A little of my tension dissipates. I probably just overthought the situation. More coffee might help, but then we're out to some door and heading to the brand-new truck.

rs It's so big and high off the ground. I stare, wondering how I'm going me be able to climb inside without looking ridiculous.

"Allow me." Nicholas reaches over. This close, I can smell the fres of soap and shampoo over the hot male flesh. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the door and places his large hands on my waist. The skin at the back of n weird, tingles as he opens the skin at the back of n weird, the skin at the back of n weird, ben and "Thank you." No man has ever been able to leave me slightly daze lready just a platonic touch, and the words come out a little breathlessly.

"My pleasure." His voice brushes me like soft velvet, while his fings. If I caress my hip and thigh as he arranges my shirt dress. Although he's covering me up, the gesture feels erotic, a prelude to something more. The nerve endings sing like I just came, and my face grows hot again.

Stop thinking about sex. Or orgasms. Or anything else that's going up embarrassing you. This is Nicholas. He's not interested in you that He's been nothing but a complete gentleman. Look how he just end that was properly covered.

ouldn't Nicholas drives us over to Owen's townhouse. The huge black picl way, truck purrs as he confidently maneuvers through the traffic. I don't know he can drive something this large so easily. I can't drive anything too because I get nervous that I might ding a door or something. His compore like makes my blood run hotter. I bet if we were in the caveman era, he'd be ke to lead hunter. The guy who caught the biggest mammoths and got the be with," pelts.

I need something to distract myself from obsessing about Nicholas of pull out my phone and scroll around on Pulse, one of the social media Owen and I use outside of our Instagram personas.

His I see he's tagged me. Did he post about the meal from Dolce? Owe probably finished the dinner so he could write a review for the place. Etch the The post isn't about the restaurant. He must've gone clubbing with Da Nicholas and I left, because he posted over sixty photos of him and Da drinking, dancing and kissing.

He wrote one short caption for all the photos: Having the best time life with my new love.

I thumb through them with the lurid, unblinking focus of somebody can't look away from a train wreck. It's painful to see my ex having furing to my high school nemesis, not because I have any romantic feelings left him, but because it makes my heart ache to wonder if things went wroman shape and the scentbecause of me. Is it common for a guy to say, "I love you," a lot, then sh scentbecause of me. Is it common for a guy to say, "I love you," a lot, then ny neckup one day and go, "Nope, I don't love you"?

ne heat Or maybe he has always been a bad guy, and I just never recognize and the like a pathetic, gullible fool.

ne Frank, a mutual friend, commented last night.

d from

gertips

I thought Molly moved in with you like two months ago or something. What happened?

My

Owen wasted no time disparaging me.

to end way. sured I cup ow how oig etence

oe the

Actually, three months ago. Which is about how long it took befo I realized how incompatible we were. Thank God I figured it out sooner rather than later. She just drags me down and won't do anything interesting other than reading some stupid porn, and I ju can't be with somebody who doesn't really enhance my life in anyway.

Asshole.

, so I apps

:st

What did I do to deserve this kind of public judgment? He and I are celebrities. Our breakup should be private, but now it's out there for exto see, since he didn't bother to limit the post to friends only. Some strateft snide comments, too.

'n

3ut no. na after na,

Sometimes you don't know what kind of witch they are until you start living with them. Thank God you found out before you got fooled into marrying her. Imagine how much worse that'd be. Shudder

of my

y who n with for ng wake

Women just latch on to men to fulfill their emo needs, not caring that we have needs too. Got something blunt to say about that, bu don't wanna get banned.

יd it—

What strangers say shouldn't matter. They don't know me. But the cruelty still digs talons into my chest, sending out ripples of pain.

Owen responded to each of them. He must've had a lot of time since came home from clubbing. And needed reassurance that he did nothing wrong.

Totally. Some women are just a lost cause. Time to write 'em off and move on. Life's too short.

re

I should've thrown the meatballs in Owen's face last night.

Nicholas places a hand on my shoulder. "What's wrong?"

I don't want to tell him how pitiful I look in this breakup saga. "Jus stupid stuff on social media."

st

Maybe it's my glum tone that makes him disbelieve me. He stops a intersection, plucks the phone from my hand and looks at the screen. F mouth tight, he scans the feed.

"Can I have it back?" My voice is shaky. No need for him to see m my humiliation.

en't angers

"Gimme a sec." Suddenly, he smiles, crinkling his eyes and curvin reryone mouth into a gorgeous line that leaves my heart fluttering. He takes a c snapshot, then taps my phone a few times.

Uncertainty and a tinge of excitement mingle inside me. I have a fe that he's going to do something about those horrible people, just like h to the occasion with Owen yesterday. "What are you doing?"

"Making my position known. I guess I wasn't clear enough last nig Dolce." He gives my phone back, inclining his head in an invitation to what he did.

Molly's new man here. I'm glad she and Owen aren't together anymore, too. Now I can indulge and spoil her the way she deserves. Some frogs never turn into princes. Easier to just skip a the kissing and grab a ready-to-date prince.

Underneath that comment is the selfie he just took. He looks amazi ir the photo, and it does its job—Owen looks like a particularly malform warthog by comparison.

ce he 3

I gasp, then laugh. Happiness wraps around me like a warm blanke wow... Thank you. You didn't have to post that, though."

"Sure I did. Nobody gets to disrespect my girl that way."

My insides go gooey at the way he said "my girl." When he talks in tone, I feel like I belong to him.

"Also, he looks like a toad in that picture where he has his face squ up against his new girlfriend's."

I know the one Nicholas means, and have to laugh. It wasn't the bε of Owen. Why my ex put it up for public consumption is anyone's gue He's generally more careful about the photos he posts. "And you're the st some ready-to-date prince."

"Yup. Only the very best for you." Nicholas winks playfully.

His good humor is infectious, and I love how easily he cheers me t Nobody else has been able to do that, not even Georgia.

But when we pull onto Owen's street, my mood sours again at the the flashy red Ferrari parked in front of my ex's garage. He wants peor ore of assume he must have another, even more expensive, car in there, but it actually empty. He just prefers the Ferrari to be visible so everyone car his dick hanging out.

"You're frowning again," Nicholas says.

"Owen's home. I was hoping we wouldn't run into him." Please, p don't let Dana be with him right now.

it an lis

g his Juick

eling e rose "Molly." Nicholas squeezes my shoulder gently. "Remember—I've that your back."

check I look into his calm gray eyes. Power radiates from him, and I sudd realize I can get through packing up my things no matter who's at Owe home. It's as though Nicholas has extended an invisible shield around himself and included me within its protection. "Thanks."

Nicholas kills the engine, and we walk into the place together.

Owen's house is big enough for two adults. A few beer cans sit on oak coffee table in the living room, and there's a faint smell of the microwavable pizza he likes to have for breakfast. For a critic who specializes in gourmet restaurants, he starts his day with the most frat-food imaginable.

A jacket hangs carelessly over the back of the couch, with Owen sprawled under it, stubble covering his jaw. A limp white T-shirt hange lanky frame, and he's in his favorite Batman boxer shorts. Batman is home number one superhero because he's a normal human fighting crime and protecting the innocent. Now that I think about it, he probably identified Bruce Wayne, although he spends his nights watching movies and eating that rather than catching criminals. I never saw him do anything else in the months we were living under the same roof.

"What are you doing here?" Owen says. His eyes are slightly blood He sits up, then looks at Nicholas standing next to me. He sizes Nicholast shot again, but this time with more insolence. "And what's he doing here?" SS. "He's here to help me move."

e "And why are you dressed like a ho—?"

"Ex*cuse* me?" I straighten my spine to stand as tall as possible. I hat I'm barely five-five. Why couldn't I be one of those gorgeous six-up. women?

He looks at Nicholas and flinches. "I was about to say homeless pe sight of You're in some...T-shirt. Where did you find it? A dumpster?"

"In my closet." Nicholas's voice is like a well-sharpened blade.

Owen shuts up.

 Π

"I'm wearing it because I want everyone to know I'm with Nichola now." I paste on a fuck-you smile.

"Oh my God, so juvenile," he says. "I should've known you were { lease to show up like...like that! I saw your ridiculous comment, too."

He must be talking about what Nicholas posted. His petulant gaze directed at me with all the skepticism in the world. He can't believe it Nicholas who posted the picture, not me. As far as he's concerned, I'm the kind of girl who inspires that sort of strong affection and protective "He's just doing it out of pity," Owen continues. "You aren't even good in bed."

He adds the last part quietly, but I hear it. From the way Nicholas s he does, too.

the Humiliation burns my face. Owen never complained about sex. I al let him have as much as he wanted, even though he didn't always hold afterward like I wanted him to. He preferred to just roll over and fall as on his back when he was finished. It was me who turned until I could I hand over his torso and wrap myself around him. Sometimes he'd pat I back. But now I'm beginning to suspect it was more out of reflex than s on hisintentional effort to show appreciation or affection.

is More proof that all his I-love-yous were just empty talk. He doesn'd me—he never loved me. Actually, he probably isn't capable of loving s with but himself...and maybe the Ferrari parked outside.

ng out Nicholas steps closer and puts an arm around my shoulders. I've ge three "Owen, gotta hand it to you, man. If you weren't both blind and stupid wouldn't have had the opportunity to convince this absolute gem of a valshot. to finally give me a chance."

Owen's jaw slackens. In his world, people don't talk to him like th Even though Nicholas is just saying it to spare my ego, that delicio fluttery feeling comes back to my belly.

"And it's good to know you're awful in bed." Nicholas's tone is so ate it and pleasant, it takes a second before the meaning sinks into my brain. foot mean, I assumed. But nice to have it confirmed."

From the belated reddening of Owen's face, it's taken him a mome rson. process, too.

Nicholas continues in the same dulcet voice but takes a step forwar "However, my gratitude just expired. Next time you talk to my girl wit disrespect, I'm going to force-feed you a course in manners."

I gasp. I'm not into violence—the idea of people throwing punches each other is horrible—but Nicholas vowing to protect me is hot as hel going was My ex is shaking, but he's too scared to challenge Nicholas, who b not with such confidence that he seems untouchable.

Owen jumps to his feet. "You wouldn't dare...!"

"Try me." Nicholas spreads his arms in invitation. "Go ahead. I'll l is throw the first punch."

eness. But Owen refuses to sit back down. That would be admitting defeathat he huffs and glares at me. "I'll give you an hour. Pack your shit, take everything and don't come back. I'm changing the locks!"

tiffens. He storms out and slams the door.

Nicholas's eyes narrow. Rage burns in their depths, and I put a han lways his arm. There's no point in escalating things any further. "You weren really going to fight Owen, were you?" My tone's half teasing, to calm sleep Nicholas's temper.

out my "I'll do what's necessary to protect what's mine, Molly."

my His solemn words root me to the spot. But he can't possibly mean to some even though every cell in my being says he must. He has the most ama power to convince me everything he's saying is true. It's those grave got love eyes of his.

anyone But we aren't really dating. I can't ever forget that and start believi things between me and Nicholas are real. Not unless I want to have my ot you. absolutely shredded.

l, I The mood is growing too heavy between us. Time to lighten it up. woman Whoever gets to date you for real is a lucky woman," I say airily.

The light in his eyes dims slightly.

is. My gut says I'm the cause, but I shake it off and paste on an extraus, smile. "Since we have only an hour, let's get going."

polite

nt to

d.

at 1.

let you

My ex is shaking, but he's too scared to challenge Nicholas, who brims with such confidence that he seems untouchable.

But Owen refuses to sit back down. That would be admitting defeat. So he huffs and glares at me. "I'll give you an hour. Pack your shit, take everything and don't come back. I'm changing the locks!"

He storms out and slams the door.

Nicholas's eyes narrow. Rage burns in their depths, and I put a hand over his arm. There's no point in escalating things any further. "You weren't really going to fight Owen, were you?" My tone's half teasing, to calm Nicholas's temper.

"I'll do what's necessary to protect what's mine, Molly."

His solemn words root me to the spot. But he can't possibly mean them, even though every cell in my being says he must. He has the most amazing power to convince me everything he's saying is true. It's those grave gray eyes of his.

But we aren't really dating. I can't ever forget that and start believing that things between me and Nicholas are real. Not unless I want to have my heart absolutely shredded.

The mood is growing too heavy between us. Time to lighten it up. "Well. Whoever gets to date you for real is a lucky woman," I say airily.

The light in his eyes dims slightly.

My gut says I'm the cause, but I shake it off and paste on an extra-bright smile. "Since we have only an hour, let's get going."

Chapter Fourteen

Molly

It shouldn't take much time to grab all my things, mainly because I dic place all my books on shelves when I moved in with Owen.

"Most of my books are in the garage, except for a couple of boxes bedroom," I say, thinking we can save a lot of time. Ms. Find The Silv Lining—that's me.

"You never unpacked them?" Nicholas asks with a small, disappro frown.

I flush as embarrassment worms its way to my heart. Although not unpacked everything has worked out for the best, it sort of makes me l like a slob. "Owen didn't want me to take all the space. It isn't like I re those books at once." As the words leave my lips, I register with a mix shock and sadness at what a pushover I've been with my ex. If the guy romance novel said the same, I would've tagged him "not book boyfrie material" and said some scathing things about him in a post. I was too dazzled by Owen's I-love-yous to see all the subtle ways my ex manip me to his benefit and convenience, and the realization shames me, alth couldn't have known his love is as lasting as a rainbow back then. I too at face value, like a gullible fool.

"What an asshole," Nicholas mutters. "He never deserved you. You claim to the living space as much as he did."

His support has me relaxing as I walk with him through the living I He puts his hand at the small of my back, the feel of his palm warm an sweet through the thin shirt. Tingling sensations start from the spot wh we're connected and spread. I try not to squirm. He's expecting a fake girlfriend, and reacting to every little touch isn't part of the deal. I wisl could channel one of the women who dropped by earlier in the mornin They would've known exactly how to play things cool and smooth.

I step over a couple of wadded paper napkins, a crushed beer can a half-eaten pizza crust. A large, dirty gray sock that used to be white at point peeks from under the couch Owen occupied earlier.

He isn't the neatest person, and he probably hasn't bothered to pick anything up since I went to work yesterday. Sometimes I had to ask, by oftentimes it was easier to just pick things up myself to avoid unpleasa arguments. They never escalated to anything major, but always genera resentment on my part that I had to ask, and annoyance on his part that couldn't just let him get around to picking up after himself when he fel it.

ln't A half-eaten slice of blueberry pie sits on the table. His gray eyes f with irritation and contempt, Nicholas grabs it and tosses it before I cal him. in the "Owen was probably saving that for later," I say. But I'm secretly I er Nicholas got rid of the blueberry pie, since I don't want anything to rei me of my mother's death. The berries in my dinner last night and the p ving Owen's kitchen make me suspect he's being passive-aggressive.

Nicholas gives me a so what? look. "He should know you're allerg having blueberries and not have anything that could cause you problems in the ook and all house." His lip curls in distaste, and if Owen were here, Nicholas woul ture of probably ream him.

It's surprising that Nicholas remembers, though. I only mentioned in a in passing to Georgia because her boyfriend brought some blueberry ta end When Nicholas asked if my allergy was fatal, I said no, since I didn't v ulated anybody to forgo a treat for my sake.

"It's just some minor discomfort," I say, in case Nicholas forgot ab ough I ok him that part. Most people love blueberries, and I don't want Nicholas to fe he has to give them up while we fake-date.

"So? He was your boyfriend, and that's the least he could do." Nic u had shakes his head.

d ere

ı I

g.

"Guess that's why our relationship went kaboom," I say lightly. He room. him talk about what I deserve in a boyfriend is oddly flustering. Althor I've dreamed of an ideal relationship, I've never thought about it in an specific detail because sometimes what I wished for seemed too grand.

Maybe that's why Owen saying, "I love you," was enough for me t overlook so many issues. I settled because it seemed foolish to be too I Nicholas and I go to the master bedroom, which has deteriorated nd a significantly in the last twenty-four hours. The fitted sheet is half off the some mattress, and a pillow lies on the carpeted floor. Charging cords lie in tangled ball, and a clear mug half-full of something that appears to be coffee sits forlornly on the nightstand. I wrinkle my nose at the stale count and alcohol permeating the air.

nt "I was being kind when I said you were slumming here," Nicholas ted shock. "This is awful."

t I I cringe. "It wasn't this bad when I left."

It like "I know it's him, not you. I saw how neat your apartment was whe were in college. I love my sister, but she has the terrible habit of leavir lashing everything where she last used it. Obviously, Owen is worse. It's disgun stop you had to act like a free maid for him."

His tone says he would've treated me like a queen if we were datin bappy belly flutters and my heart clenches oddly. The notion that I could be to important to somebody is flustering, but exciting as well. Who doesn't they could be the center of someone's universe? At the same time, I'm if someone gets to know me too well, they might realize I'm nothing spic to Shaking off the unproductive feelings, I pull out my suitcase from closet and start throwing my things into it, while Nicholas carries the bud of my books out of the house I no longer live in.

it once irts.

vant

out el like

holas

earing 1gh y 10 Dicky. significantly in the last twenty-four hours. The fitted sheet is half off the mattress, and a pillow lies on the carpeted floor. Charging cords lie in a tangled ball, and a clear mug half-full of something that appears to be black coffee sits forlornly on the nightstand. I wrinkle my nose at the stale coffee and alcohol permeating the air.

"I was being kind when I said you were slumming here," Nicholas says in shock. "This is awful."

I cringe. "It wasn't this bad when I left."

"I know it's him, not you. I saw how neat your apartment was when you were in college. I love my sister, but she has the terrible habit of leaving everything where she last used it. Obviously, Owen is worse. It's disgusting you had to act like a free maid for him."

His tone says he would've treated me like a queen if we were dating. My belly flutters and my heart clenches oddly. The notion that I could be truly important to somebody is flustering, but exciting as well. Who doesn't wish they could be the center of someone's universe? At the same time, I'm afraid if someone gets to know me too well, they might realize I'm nothing special.

Shaking off the unproductive feelings, I pull out my suitcase from the closet and start throwing my things into it, while Nicholas carries the boxes of my books out of the house I no longer live in.

Chapter Fifteen

Molly

It didn't take much time to pack my things and load them into Nichola truck. Because Owen didn't want my books taking up a lot of space, I almost all of them in boxes in the garage.

It was like some weird serendipity. When he asked me to leave mo my babies in the garage, I was annoyed but also realized that his place have enough bookshelves anyway. Getting some was on my to-do list.

We arrive at Nicholas's home, and I grab my suitcases and backpa from the truck. Nicholas gently pulls them from my hands. "I'll take the upstairs for you."

He hoists them like they weigh nothing and carries them to my roo Thankfully I made the bed and tidied up in the morning. Otherwise I would've been utterly embarrassed, especially after Nicholas saw how Owen's place was.

He sets the suitcases down. "Do you want your books in your room library?" he asks, looking at the empty floating shelves near the readin nook.

"There are too many to put in the room."

I open my mouth to add that there's no need to unpack when I'm o here temporarily, but Nicholas says, "So maybe keep your favorites he put the rest in the library?"

"How? It's full of your books," I say, remembering all the pristine volumes sitting neatly on the shelves.

"There are a few empty shelves. And if you need more, I can get so installed or put some of my older books in storage."

"Thanks, but I wouldn't want you to go to the trouble."

"It's no trouble. This is your home, too."

"But I'm only here temporarily."

"Nonsense. We're dating."

"That doesn't necessarily imply that we're living together. Plenty c couples date but still have their own places. And I don't want to overst welcome."

"Molly, darling, you could never overstay your welcome. And it'll more convincing if we're living together."

"But Georgia said you don't bring women to your place."

"Georgia talks too much. Besides, what does that have to do with anything? You're special."

I blink, unsure how to proceed. Those women were real dates. I'm s's fake girlfriend. My heart pirouettes like a happy ballerina, but I hold m had leftback. "Of course. Aren't I, like, your first fake girlfriend?"

"You're the first girlfriend of any sort that I've wanted to bring hor st of Nicholas says.

didn't I'm screaming inside, but I press my lips together. This isn't the tir lose my head and start believing things that aren't being offered. I let c soft laugh instead. "Why don't we just leave my books in your truck for moment? Let's not waste the pretty day. We're both sweaty from the n so how about relaxing by the pool for a while? This weather's too nice m. spent just moving stuff."

He regards me thoughtfully.

messy I paste on an even brighter smile. "Unless you want to do somethin I'm flexible."

or the He shrugs. "Hanging by the pool is fine."

g "Awesome. So I'll see you there in a few?"

But as soon as he leaves, I realize my error. Hanging by the pool m putting on a bathing suit. The red-and-white retro bikini I bought is sul cute, with flattering polka dots and stripes, but it isn't going to cover u re and softness of my body. My mind conjures up the taut physiques of the w from this morning, and Dad's judgmental voice starts to ring in my hea

If you'd just started training with Jack when I asked you—

I shake myself. I'm thinking like I plan to compete with those won which is ludicrous. Nicholas couldn't have been less interested in them doubt that my losing some padding would make any difference to him.

I should put on my brand-new bikini, get some sun and start on the com advanced reader copy I've been dying to dive into. I should also t some photos featuring the enemies-to-lovers books I plan to feature thi month. A few of my favorite authors sent me paperback ARCs featuring trope. Stack the books or spread them? Or lay them out in a fan... Cho ay my choices.

ome

After changing, I stick my sunglasses on top of my head, then grab books, my phone and sunblock and head to the pool. It looks festive w thick umbrellas and thick, pale yellow towels stretched over the lounge. The sunlight reflects brilliantly off the water, a sea of little diamonds the makes me narrow my eyes. I lower my sunglasses.

A bottle of sunblock sits on one of the loungers. Nicholas is alreadjust a pool, doing a lap, heading away from me.

I take the lounger next to his, sitting under the umbrella on the near spread towel, and lay the books and my phone on a square table with a me," glass top. I start to put sunblock liberally on my pale skin and watch N swim. He's headed back now, using a superb butterfly. Georgia and I value a strength evident in the Olympics, purely to ogle over the hot bodies a strength evident in the different strokes. My favorite is the butterfly for the explosive power and grace. Nothing's sexier than a man full of confidence, and competence.

to be Nicholas brims with both.

be

My God, he is fast! And the force of his kick and the sinuous way body moves are hot—seeing the display in person leaves me breathless gelse? air suddenly feels warmer, although a breeze has started up.

Nicholas reaches the edge of the pool, puts his hands flat on the ror surface and pushes himself up and out in one smooth motion. Water slater from his wide shoulders along the well-developed pecs and sloping later the way down to his ridged abs and strong thighs. I've already seen his topless, but somehow, with the light breaking over him this way, he loop the even more stunning.

omen Despite the shade provided by the umbrella, my skin heats. He pull ad. his goggles and smiles, the corners of his gray eyes crinkling.

My mouth dries, and my heart races like I'm the one who did the nen, butterfly.

ı. I "Need some help?" he says.

He's barely out of breath. A drop of water falls from the hair over larom-forehead and drips down his nose, all the way down until it's clinging fullest part of his lower lip. An inexplicable urge to lick it off rolls throme. I clench my hand in reflex—

There's a pop, and sunblock squirts out of the bottle. The white glc ig the ices, lands right on my chest, and his eyes follow. My face couldn't get any at my clumsy reaction—and the fact that the sunblock spewed on my the cleavage looks like something out of a third-rate porn video.

"Just, haha, putting on some sunblock. I burn, you know." I spread ith glob on my already protected chest, sticking my right index finger dow ers. between my breasts to get at the remaining slippery goo. As I pull it or hat realize how it must look, and my face flames. "And I was thinking I sh y in the probably put some on my back too!" I contort my arm behind myself... makes me arch like I'm—tly "Probably need more sunblock than that," Nicholas says. Does his faux- sound a little rough?

I can't decide if I need to say something—my mind is blank, and a icholas watch register is the timbre of his voice and another water drop that's gliding between his pecs. nd

He gently takes the bottle from my hand and pours a generous while r its dollop on his palms. "Turn around," he says, and his velvety voice mel ence my spine.

The skin on my neck tingling with heat, I present my back and pull hair to the side. His warm palms glide over my shoulders and spine. If his buzzed, and a shiver runs through me as though every stroke is charged s. The air in my lungs grows thin, and my toes curl as heat streaks through me pools between my legs. It's like my entire back has turned into my mo uices sensitive erogenous zone, and I feel his touch like a lover would.

Do not squirm! I tense my legs and bite my lip, relieved Nicholas c see my expression.

Something moves in my peripheral vision. A guy with hair the cold navel orange surges to his feet from the other side of the shrubs that dc side of the pool. With a lanky frame and extra-pale face, he doesn't loc threatening, but you never know these days. When his owlish eyes locl mine...

I shriek.

his to the ough

ıgh

s, all n oks

ls off

There's a pop, and sunblock squirts out of the bottle. The white glop lands right on my chest, and his eyes follow. My face couldn't get any hotter at my clumsy reaction—and the fact that the sunblock spewed on my cleavage looks like something out of a third-rate porn video.

"Just, haha, putting on some sunblock. I burn, you know." I spread the glob on my already protected chest, sticking my right index finger down between my breasts to get at the remaining slippery goo. As I pull it out, I realize how it must look, and my face flames. "And I was thinking I should probably put some on my back too!" I contort my arm behind myself...which makes me arch like I'm—

"Probably need more sunblock than that," Nicholas says. Does his voice sound a little rough?

I can't decide if I need to say something—my mind is blank, and all I can register is the timbre of his voice and another water drop that's gliding down between his pecs.

He gently takes the bottle from my hand and pours a generous white dollop on his palms. "Turn around," he says, and his velvety voice melts over my spine.

The skin on my neck tingling with heat, I present my back and pull my hair to the side. His warm palms glide over my shoulders and spine. I feel buzzed, and a shiver runs through me as though every stroke is charged. The air in my lungs grows thin, and my toes curl as heat streaks through me and pools between my legs. It's like my entire back has turned into my most sensitive erogenous zone, and I feel his touch like a lover would.

Do not squirm! I tense my legs and bite my lip, relieved Nicholas can't see my expression.

Something moves in my peripheral vision. A guy with hair the color of a navel orange surges to his feet from the other side of the shrubs that dot the side of the pool. With a lanky frame and extra-pale face, he doesn't look threatening, but you never know these days. When his owlish eyes lock with mine...

I shriek.

Chapter Sixteen

Nicholas

I purposely wanted to be doing the butterfly instead of sitting by the powhen Molly came out. Georgia mentioned once that it was Molly's faw which just goes to show my girl likes only the best. The butterfly is tax because there are only two speeds—fast and faster—and it isn't easy to well.

The idea was for Molly to see me doing it and—hopefully—be impressed. The charge in the air changed when she showed up, and an exuberance that had nothing to do with the high I get from swimming thrummed through my veins.

Although a pair of large sunglasses hid her eyes, I could feel her cheme out when I hauled myself out of the pool. What I was doing met wi approval. Then that sunblock had to spurt out of its bottle and land on chest. An innocent accident, of course, but also hot as hell.

I've fantasized about all kinds of sexual acts with her, one of them marking her as mine, and there's nothing more primitive and visceral t spilling your cum on a woman. Then when she stuck a finger between breasts, it made me think about fucking her tits.

My blood couldn't have flowed south faster, filling my cock until i I shifted a little to hide the reaction, but an erection is impossible to conceal in bathing trunks. I took the sunblock from her and offered to j on her back to give myself a little time to settle down.

But her bare skin is warm and smooth under my palms, and the sof of her shampoo is driving me crazy. Plus she smells like my soap. I wat to smell like me in other ways, too.

A window to our left shows her reflection—eyes closed, teeth digg into the plump flesh of her lip. Is she getting turned on? It's possible, left "Ack!"

I jerk my hands from her back, looking around for a bug that might scared her. But no. It's worse.

It's fucking Joey.

A leaf clings to his over-gelled hair as he tries to leap over the shru an action-movie hero. But the hem of his shorts gets caught by a branc he crashes, landing on his hands and knees. Undeterred, he rolls once t side and hops to his feet, then points a finger at us, smugly victorious i dirt- and green-stained T-shirt and washed-out khaki shorts. "Ah-ha!"

"Who is that?" Molly whispers. "A stalker or something?"

Straightening up, I put a hand on Molly's shoulder so she'll know sol safe. "Nothing like that. Just my dad's assistant." I'm going to murder rorite, father. It's gotta be justifiable homicide.

"What's he doing here? Why didn't he just ring the bell?"

"Because that would be too normal," I say, wishing I had the powe catapult Joey into the middle of the Pacific.

"I knew it!" he shouts in triumph.

"Knew what?" Why didn't I get an electric fence like Noah?

"She's a paid actress!"

"Who is?" Molly says.

"You!" Joey points his finger at her. "You damned brunette!"
What the fuck? How much coke did he snort off his latest hooker's "Come out, Charlene!" he shouts.

"How many times do I have to tell you, my new name is Charlie?" being a soft whine as a woman stumbles forward. Since she isn't totally stup doesn't try to jump the shrubs like Joey. "My legs are asleep," she says her waving at Molly with a pretty but vapid smile.

She's a typical Ted Lasker type—huge breasts that are about to spit hurt. of a tube-top dress that's a shade I've heard Dad call "vagina red," and bee-stung they look like an unfortunate allergic reaction. Her pelvis is put it wide enough, and her ass is unnaturally round and tight as she twists le right to show herself off. She's currently sporting platinum hair, but with scent hell knows if it's real or not? She blows kisses like a pageant queen. Journal of the should get her a tiara.

Time to end this nonsense. "What are you doing here?"

Joey attempts to look down at me and fails miserably. He's too shout— pull it off, although that's never stopped him from trying. "I've been following you ever since you told Ted you had a girlfriend because I k t've you were lying. I've been taking photographs and gathering evidence (duplicity!"

"Congratulations on finally buying a thesaurus. Why aren't you in its like with Dad?" Could Jeremiah get me off if I stuck his head into the pool h, and want to hold him down for a minute or two.

of the "My passport expired, and the lazy losers couldn't renew it in time in his were a cat, his hair would be bristling in orange outrage. How dare the recognize how important he is? "So I'm here to run interference, inclumaking sure you're really making a baby with this person for Ted."

she's Molly blinks, and I grind my teeth. God save me from my parents a my this overzealous assistant.

"How can you be a real couple? You don't even hold hands!" Joey shouts.

r to I give him a look. "What are we? Five?"

Molly gasps. "Are you accusing us of fake-dating?"

"Yes! I've seen third-rate actors who put on a better show than you brought Charlie, who is a superior candidate. Besides, Ted wants a hot And that isn't happening with Emmett or Griffin."

Did this motherfucker just call my precious nephews and nieces ug "He plans to make your child a star!" he adds, like I should drop to ass? knees in gratitude.

"What about me?" Charlie says, with a pout that's trying too hard t comes cute. "I thought he was going to make me a star."

id, she Joey blinks, momentarily distracted. "Your time will come, honey. turns back to us. "Anyway, it's time for you to go, fake baby mama." I makes a shooing motion at Molly.

Il out She stands and puts her hands on her hips. "No, Mr. Orange Hair. I lips sotime for you to go with your lady friend, because Nicholas and I are mijust certainly dating."

eft and His eyes drop to our unlinked hands again. That's it. I'm shoving h ho the under the water. Now.

But before I can make a move, Molly loops her arms around me an on her toes. She palms my cheek, angling my face toward her, then pre her mouth against mine. Her lips are soft and plump.

ort to All of a sudden Joey seems completely unimportant. Fiery heat zin through me. Her body is flush against me, her lush breasts crushed aga new my chest. We hold the kiss for a moment; she starts to pull back, but I of your an arm around her waist and dip my head, slipping my tongue between parted lips, dying for more.

Madrid Her sweetness floods my senses until I'm dizzy with need. She shy ? I only strokes my tongue with hers, and I swear it's the hottest thing a womar ever done to me.

." If he My erection is back, harder than before. Instead of retreating, she py not closer, tightening her arms on me. My heart thunders.

ding Yes!

"Hey, no one said it was going to be a threesome, Joey. I should ge and least two starring roles for this. I'm not into girls."

No.

Molly's tongue quits caressing mine. Fucking Joey. Never good fo anything. Why did he have to bring that woman?

"There is no threesome," Molly says, breaking contact. "I don't sha An inexplicable sense of satisfaction cascades through me. I know i! So I saying it to convince Joey, but the proud tilt of her chin and the firmne baby. her tone make it sound like she means every word.

I wrap my hand around her shoulder and run my thumb along the s warm skin before facing Joey. "I don't share either, and wouldn't let a woman touch what's Molly's. So if you're done making a nuisance of yourself, kindly get out of here. Before I shove you into the pool."

o be

" He

Нe

[t's ost

is face

ıd rises esses

gs

inst

wrap

an arm around her waist and dip my head, slipping my tongue between her parted lips, dying for more.

Her sweetness floods my senses until I'm dizzy with need. She shyly strokes my tongue with hers, and I swear it's the hottest thing a woman has ever done to me.

My erection is back, harder than before. Instead of retreating, she presses closer, tightening her arms on me. My heart thunders.

Yes!

"Hey, no one said it was going to be a threesome, Joey. I should get at least two starring roles for this. I'm not into girls."

No.

Molly's tongue quits caressing mine. Fucking Joey. Never good for anything. Why did he have to bring that woman?

"There is no threesome," Molly says, breaking contact. "I don't share."

An inexplicable sense of satisfaction cascades through me. I know she's saying it to convince Joey, but the proud tilt of her chin and the firmness of her tone make it sound like she means every word.

I wrap my hand around her shoulder and run my thumb along the smooth, warm skin before facing Joey. "I don't share either, and wouldn't let any woman touch what's Molly's. So if you're done making a nuisance of yourself, kindly get out of here. Before I shove you into the pool."

Chapter Seventeen

Nicholas

Most people don't like Mondays. But not me. It's a brand-new beginni chance to shake off the mental baggage from the week before.

But I can't forget the events from Saturday, no matter what.

I shower, then change into a black suit that my sister-in-law Lucie said is particularly well cut. She's the CEO of Peery Diamonds, and he is impeccable. Sticking with the theme, I also put on the cuff links she me for my birthday.

I take pride in my appearance, but I'm taking extra care today. Wo aren't the only ones who dress for the opposite sex.

As I pick out a suitable watch from my collection, my mind wande what happened on Saturday after Joey left with Charlie.

I was hoping that the kiss Molly initiated would make her more rel around me. But she only smiled and said, "Well. I think that convinced

She must be thinking she's living a romance novel. She seems to le fake-dating books. I didn't want to scare her off, so I nodded. "For nov he's going to be pretty persistent. When he's set his mind on something goes after it until Dad calls him off."

"Oh. I guess we should do a better job of faking it, then."

"Yeah, like holding hands like five-year-olds." I laughed, reached took hers, reveling at the softness of her palm against my callused skin

She laughed as well, but didn't withdraw her hand. It felt like a big toward my goal of turning our relationship real.

I helped her set up the loungers for some book photos she wanted t for her Instagram account. The storage shed by the pool has all sorts of including a couple of giant inflatable red orchids. We used one of then showcase some of what she called fun romps.

"You know what I was thinking?" she said, snapping away. "Since dad seems so skeptical, maybe it's better if I find my own place."

Fucking Dad. Fucking Joey. "You don't have to do anything becaumy dad or Joey."

"But if we aren't living together, we won't have to act so much. At feel better with my own space. I don't need much. Just something reas priced that isn't too far from work. The place I had before was perfect, gave it up to move in with Owen." She shakes her head.

Later that night, I texted my assistant.

Me: Sign rental leases with all the apartments in the area around t ng. A original Get Jacked Gym that a woman in her 20s would find "decent" enough to move into. Must be reasonably priced.

-Cody: Got it.

once —Me: And every time something new pops up, snap it up, too.

er taste

gave He didn't ask why. He knows that when I want something done, it' job to deliver without any questions.

men Given his efficiency, all the "decent" ones are likely taken by now. just let Molly stay with me until a suitable apartment turns up. After al place is big enough to host a marathon. Molly and I can be perfectly comfortable sharing this huge space.

axed What about Georgia?

l him." Damn it. Molly mentioned something about crashing with Georgia we left Dolce. Mom's going to be in Europe for...well, however long so, but wants to eat European food and drink European wine. Still, I should have going to be in European wine. Still, I should have going have to convince Molly to stay with me rather than my stepsister Georgia has a studio apartment. It can't possibly be big enough for two long term. Besides, it isn't that close to the gym. The commute would out and an hour each way during rush hour.

I go downstairs. The smell of fried eggs, toasting bread and bacon me from the kitchen. Molly doesn't have to cook—I made it clear I did bring her here to do chores like that—but she seems to want to. Fresh to take also permeates the air.

f stuff, "Good morning." She beams.

1 to Great morning. "Good morning."

"I didn't have much time, so I just fried some eggs, sunny side up.' your Molly's smile turns a little shy. "I hope that's okay."

"That's fine." Anything you make is fine. Actually, forget the eggs. ise of you for breakfast.

I picture the friendly warmth in her eyes dissipating and replaced but I'll Her mouth no longer curved so prettily as I gently pull her lower lip wonably teeth, then lick and taste her. I want to push her against the fridge and the impossibly steely length of my dick against her, make her feel what does to me just by existing. All she has to do is breathe and I'm hard.

I'm going too fast. It's an effort to pull my mind from the mental p She just broke up with Owen.

he I take the proffered mug of coffee, making sure our fingertips brusl loveliest shade of rose floods her cheeks, and I press a quick kiss to he forehead.

"What's that for?" she whispers.

s his

"In case Joey has his face pressed against one of the windows...?"
Her eyes are rounder than the plates she laid out on the counter. "R I laugh. "I doubt he's back. But consider it practice."

"Right. We have to look convincing in front of other people."

I'll "Right." I take a sip of the coffee, wishing it was her mouth on my l, my instead.

We share breakfast at the counter. She chatters about her agenda fc week, which includes apartment hunting.

"Don't try too hard," I say. "Mi casa es tu casa."

when "You're so sweet." She flushes. There's a hint of gratitude and also unwillingness to impose, as though depending on me would make here we a unbearable burden.

I want to understand why she feels that way. I've never shown any adults hesitation to indulge her. To be honest, her discomfort with my gesture be overwhy I'm unable to spoil her the way I want. But again, it's too soon. I ease her into changing the way she views me and our relationship.

greets And what better way to do that than to take her out on a date she caln't refuse? "By the way, there's a charity gala with a bachelorette auction coffee coming up."

"The one you mentioned at the shelter?"

"Yeah. I'd like you to come along as my date."

Her flush deepens, and she pushes her bacon around on the plate. "thought you already had someone in mind for that."

"No. I wouldn't—"

"But I guess it'd be weird if you went with a different woman wheneveryone is supposed to think we're together." She shakes her head. "I by heat. know why I'm having trouble with this. Pretending we're in love is a reith my fake dating."

There it is again. Her insistence that we're fake-dating. Every time t she says it, it feels like a rusty nail running along the inside of my stomach I never liked fake-dating books. Molly loves them and recommend orn set. all the time on her book account.

"I shouldn't do anything to look like I'm on the rebound. I mean, tl h. The be ridiculous because you're so not rebound material. But still—"

She's babbling again. It's cute to hear her unfiltered thoughts, but I they came with footnotes. That way I could plan how to make her see I way I want her to—as a man who can make her happy, no matter what Once she does that, I can push us onto a more solid foundation. No eally?"rebound relationships fizzle. Cody had a rebound relationship that turn an engagement just last month.

Why can't Molly and I have the same?

lips

r

or the ) an some es is need to ın't

"But I guess it'd be weird if you went with a different woman when everyone is supposed to think we're together." She shakes her head. "Don't know why I'm having trouble with this. Pretending we're in love is a must in fake dating."

There it is again. Her insistence that we're fake-dating. Every time she says it, it feels like a rusty nail running along the inside of my stomach.

I never liked fake-dating books. Molly loves them and recommends them all the time on her book account.

"I shouldn't do anything to look like I'm on the rebound. I mean, that'd be ridiculous because you're so not rebound material. But still—"

She's babbling again. It's cute to hear her unfiltered thoughts, but I wish they came with footnotes. That way I could plan how to make her see me the way I want her to—as a man who can make her happy, no matter what.

Once she does that, I can push us onto a more solid foundation. Not all rebound relationships fizzle. Cody had a rebound relationship that turned into an engagement just last month.

Why can't Molly and I have the same?

Chapter Eighteen

Molly

−Dad: Did you set up an appointment to take advantage of the pres gave you?

-Dad: By the way, what's going on with you and Owen? I thought took you out to celebrate your birthday. Why am I seeing a post about dating Dana Mincer?

My Monday was going so great until Dad started texting me. I glar phone pinging away on my desk at Get Jacked. Now that it's Monday, has finally seen Owen's post. I guess he missed the response Nicholas made...

-Dad: And do you know how embarrassing it is to post another guphoto and pretend he's your new boyfriend? Everyone can tell you maup!

...or not.

He isn't wrong about Nicholas and me not dating for real, but him me down makes my heart ache.

-Dad: Nothing to be done about it now, though. Just tell everyone broke up with that guy if people ask. Make it sound like you're the one did the dumping. That way you can salvage your pride.

-Dad: I'm doing this for you, Molly. I don't want you humiliated publicly. It's really important to maintain a certain image. You don't h finesse or the look to just shrug it off and not have it affect you.

It's like he's using a cheese grater on my nerves. In some ways he' probably given up on my ever being like Mom, but I know he's supren disappointed. I've seen the photos of us when she was still alive. My h lighter back then—almost dirty blond, and in the right light, my eyes le bluish like Mom's. I had long limbs and a slightly crooked smile, ident the one Mom wore in many of the pictures. But ultimately, I ended up well, me.

It's always felt like a punishment—because my behavior caused he die, I wasn't allowed to grow up into the beauty she was. Or have any traits that made her so popular and loved—extroverted, quick-witted at to be around.

ent I Intellectually, I understand it's a superstitious thing to believe. But gut whispers that what my head knows doesn't matter, like a chain smothe who can't quit even though she knows smoking is terrible for her.

him Dad isn't going to stop until I respond, so I type up something quic

-Me: Nicholas and I are dating, so there's no reason to pretend I due at myhim.

Dad —Dad: You are?

The incredulity is palpable. I can't decide if I should laugh or cry.

y's —Dad: Did you discuss expectations for your relationship? de it

I shake my head. Dad is big on "expectations" because "otherwise end up disappointed."

The only thing Nicholas seems to want is to take me to the charity putting and let me live in his home. He probably prefers I don't have dirty thou about him or daydream about how we could be just because he told me like how I'm special. We were pretty clear on the fact that we're fake-you

• who —Me: He doesn't expect anything.

-Dad: A man saying he doesn't expect anything is when you have harder. It means he's given up on you!

ave the

Dad's doing a great job of jacking up my blood pressure. Did he ta a life insurance policy on me so he could buy a new Lamborghini? nely —Me: He can't give up on me already. We've barely started dating! air was —Dad: Sounds to me like he's just playing with you until he finds poked something better.

tical to —Me: He isn't that kind of person.

like... –Dad: Everyone wants to grab a Big Mac from time to time. For a of pace after eating nothing but veal.

er to

of the Okay, that's it. He might as well have reached through the screen a nd fun slapped me. His words make me bleed because he isn't just flinging ra insults, hoping one of them sticks. He's amplifying my fears and insec my Things I've always wondered and worried about.

I can strive to be a better person. I can work to become better read, informed...kinder, even. But I can't become a carbon copy of Mom. I be the glamorous and perfect pinnacle of female beauty. And the thing know Dad isn't the only person who wants me to. Owen was the same my other exes, too.

In every single one of my failed relationships, I was the one who w good enough. I had to change the way I looked, the way I felt, the way my life, and if I didn't want to, then it was "Bye-bye, Molly. It's not m you."

-Me: You know what? I know where I fit in better than you, so you have to harp on it all the time. I have to go to a meeting. Please don't to you again unless it's life or death.

event This will get him to quit—he hates being disruptive when I have to ughts He might think I don't measure up in relationship and interpersonal students things he takes my career seriously enough. Probably because being an accoundating. is respectable, which means it doesn't embarrass him when he has to to about me to other people.

I turn to my laptop to wrap up my report. I want to spend my lunch to try searching for an apartment. Much as I want to devote time looking for job away from Jack, I also can't stay at Nicholas's place forever. He sa could live there as long as I want, but I don't want to be a total freeload ke out At twelve, a couple of knocks come from my door. "Yes?" "Hey, it's me. Arturo." The doorknob rattles. "I think your door is "Hold on." I get up, unlock the door and open it. He's standing in t corridor alone.

He gives me a strange look. "You lock your office?"

"Yeah. Security reasons." I'd rather not tell him I do it to make sur can't just visit me whenever he feels like. Arturo might share Elaine's change opinions, and I've had enough disappointment in humanity for one day office is tiny and lacks windows. Although I'm not one hundred percei certain Jack would do more than just stare at my breasts, I don't want to the chance. With music pounding in the workout area, nobody would be ndome even if I screamed bloody murder.

urities. Arturo glances around. "I'd go claustrophobic, bro." "Different strokes, bro."

more He clears throat. "Yeah, so... I'm not here to discuss your office or can't anything. Just wondering if you wanted to have lunch together. I didn' is, I anything special for your birthday, so my treat." He smiles.

"Oh, that's really sweet! But I brought a sandwich. So thanks, but the shrugs, massive traps bunching on both sides of his neck. "Oh.

"asn't "Maybe next time." I feel bad about turning him down. He might b I lived trying to make friends here, although I don't know why he didn't ask c ie, it's the other trainers. They'd be happy to hang out with him. Our trainers generally pretty nice. Nothing like Jack or Elaine.

"Yeah, sure. How about Thursday or Friday? I'm off on Tuesdays u don't Wednesdays."

ext me "Friday sounds great."

His smile widens, and a dimple appears. "Great! Friday, then."

After he's gone, I lock the door again and return to my desk to gral work. PB&J. Time to look for an apartment.

Iff, but My search is disappointing. My God, what is up with the housing in Intant Angeles? The only vacancies are in dangerous areas, where if you only alk mugged, you're considered lucky.

Maybe I need to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something. I search for a relabeled to be more plugged in or something.

id I I spend the last few minutes of my lunch break sending out more der. résumés. Somebody's bound to need an experienced accountant, even suspect I might not be serious about switching jobs. Get Jacked's pay I stuck." position is higher than average, and a lot of people thought I was lucky hired here. But if that's what's holding back many of these companies, should consider the possibility that there's a reason I'm trying to leave despite the excellent monetary compensation. Whatever extra I get at (e Jack Jacked is hazard pay for having to put up with the owner.

I toss the Saran wrap into the trash can, then pick up my phone who pings, praying it isn't Dad again. But it's Nicholas, and my frown turns at smile.

o take

-Nicholas: I'm going to be late today, so don't wait up. You want anything in particular for dinner?

-Me: If you're okay with a late dinner, I can wait and we can go or

-Nicholas: I was going to ask the chef to fix something for you. Sh comes by every day during the week.

t do

My shoulders droop. What's the point if he isn't going to be around sorry." anyway? I can just grab whatever. Maybe a taco or something. Okay."

-Nicholas: If you're not sure yet, you can text Cody later. He's my one of assistant, and he'll take care of everything.

Nicholas sends me his assistant's number.

and I type, That sounds great. Thanks, then start to hit send, but stop. T message comes off as a little cold. But I don't know what else to add. I being considerate, more so than any of my previous boyfriends, none c whom would've asked about a dinner they weren't joining. I could res

o my how a girlfriend in a situation like this might, but something holds me

I end up sending the text as is. Then at five, I drive to Nicholas's n Los mansion.

The place is so big and empty. It wasn't like this when Nicholas we me. I stand there for a minute, then cup my hands around my mouth are "Hello?"

It echoes back, "Hello, hello, hello..." in the vast hall.

I texted Cody in the afternoon that I'd like some beef and cheese quesadillas with salsa and guacamole. I find them in the fridge, plus ar if they of cubed tropical fruits and cheese and other munchies.

for my After heating my dinner, I pull up a stool, sit at the counter and eat to get silence is heavy, despite the hum of the appliances. The kitchen might they be a giant cave. Or the deepest, most protected section of an Egyptian pyramid, where you stick the pharaoh's coffin.

I couldn't feel more like an intruder. Get Dinner finished, I clean up and start to go upstairs. There's a huge, mounted TV in front of a low coffee table, a sizable sofa and a couple en it s into a armchairs.

I wish Nicholas were here so we could curl up on the soft seat and something together. But that's just going to remain a wish—I can't exp him to change his routine just because of a houseguest.

I trudge up the stairs, checking my phone. No emails or texts from anybody wanting an interview. Damn it. The job market's tight, but is supposed to be this tight?

Rob, the real estate agent I hired, hasn't texted with anything prom either. He only says the inventory is low unless I'm willing to up the re willing to pay. Apparently, an extra eight hundred bucks per month wi the trick.

I guess he hasn't heard of this thing called the need to eat. A roof o your head is nice, but so is having food in your belly.

Still, it's been less than forty-eight hours since I asked him to start looking. Something could pop up any time. And meanwhile, I'm not st Owen's place! He would've kicked me out for sure by end of the mont which is this Friday, so his precious Dana can move in to take my plac

Which makes me and Dana sound like interchangeable widgets. Is going to get himself a new and better girlfriend if his personal brand re an upgrade?

Maybe he's having some kind of midlife crisis a dozen years early. I open the door to my bedroom, then stop short, step back into the l and look around. No, wait. It is my room.

But I didn't make the bed this morning. And now it's impeccable, as with id say, the pillows arranged perfectly. It could be proudly featured on a luxury website. And on the table near the reading nook is a vase full of fresh I roses and lavender, which emit a wonderful, soothing fragrance.

In the en suite bathroom, everything's been wiped clean. A couple 1 array of lotion I left on the counter are lined up neatly along the shiny mirror bathrobe I used last night is gone, having been replaced by a fresh one hanger. The towels have been swapped out as well. The floor is spotles as well the shower stall sparkles.

I open the cabinet underneath the double vanity. The laundry hamp

'he He's ıt.

ιe

d

)f pond

back.

there, but empty. I go to the closet and find my clothes neatly laundere pressed and hanging. Inside the drawer, my underwear has been folded wall-put away. It smells faintly of the same laundry detergent that's on Nich clothes.

Our clothes smelling the same isn't a big deal, but seems inexplica watch intimate. I didn't feel this way when Owen and I were sharing the samplet detergent.

Maybe because we didn't share the same toiletries. Owen wanted a masculine scent. He orders his soap and shampoo specially from an on store in Rome, while I just use whatever's on sale at Target.

Then I realize a complete stranger has touched my underwear, and ising how I should feel about that. It wasn't like Nicholas's people were sniftent I'm them or anything... So I should be happy...right?

it

In any case, it's neat that chores I normally spend hours on every were completed while I was at work. On the other hand, this is above a beyond what I expected when Nicholas offered me a place to stay. I the was just getting a bed, not housekeeping, laundry service and a private Steady footsteps click softly on the hardwood floor on the other sic ruck at the door. Nicholas.

h, I open the door and stick my head out. He looks delicious. That's term way to describe his impact in a suit, striding like he's master of the unit Owen There's something singularly sexy about stubble shading a man's jaw equires long, productive day at work. His cool gray eyes warm as they zero in making me feel special. And I hold on to the fluttery sensation carefull it's a delicate dandelion puff.

hall "Evening! How was your day?" he asks with a smile.

"It was good," I say. It really wasn't, but I shouldn't unload all that with him. Why would he want to know about the awful texts from my dad control unsuccessful attempts to get an apartment and a new job? "How was younk "Pretty good. So. Everything's okay here?"

"More than okay. I didn't expect your people to clean my room or bottles laundry."

The "That's their job. Don't worry about it." His lips are pressed like he on a to add something, but is restraining himself.

"Right." Maybe Nicholas is waiting for me to offer, unlike Owen, made the demand as soon as I moved in. I try to feign nonchalance, like every day I crash with a guy who has staff taking care of everything.

d, much am I supposed to chip in?"

l and Nicholas's eyebrows rise. "Chip in?"

nolas's "Yeah, you know—for utilities and stuff."

"Utilities?" He looks like I just said roach kebab.

"Shared expenses?" I suddenly feel like I'm doing something wron e reaction is incredulous and vaguely insulted.

"I didn't offer you my place so that you could 'chip in.'" He scowl not Owen."

line "I know. I didn't think you were." Nobody with functioning eyes v confuse him with my ex.

debate "Good. So, do you have any plans for this weekend?"

I guess that's the end of the utilities discussion. "I'll probably go apartment hunting, but other than that..." I shrug. Normally, I'd say veek something along the lines of grocery shopping, doing my laundry and cleaning the house. But obviously I don't need to do any of those thing ought I that I'm complaining. It just feels oddly awkward to be this pampered shot. I'm not an vacation. "Are you doing anything special? Do you need me chef. I'm not on vacation. "Are you doing anything special? Do you need m le of of your hair?" After all, it's his place. He might be hosting some exclu party with his fancy billionaire friends.

he only "No. I don't need you out of my hair." He mutters what sounds like verse. want you in my hair like shampoo."

after a Except I couldn't have heard that right.

on me, He takes a step closer, and my heart starts pounding. I look up at his y, like mesmerized by his presence. The air in my lungs grows syrup-thick an to still.

He tucks my hair back, brushing his warm fingers over the shell of and sending little shivers through me. My heart pounds louder.

or my His lips brush my forehead lightly, like a butterfly alighting. The spours?" tingles, and warmth coils in my belly.

"Good night," he says softly.

do my "Good night." Despite my best attempt, I sound breathless and slig raspy.

e wants He gives me a little smile, and looks like he might do—or say—something else, but then vanishes into his room. I close the door and le who against it, a necessary action, since my knees seem to have suddenly le e it's their strength.

So how Maybe this is how our routine's going to be. He comes home a littl after I'm done with dinner and we chat a bit. We won't be in each othe way too much.

But that isn't what happens. He begins coming home after midnigh know because I stay in bed reading until at least eleven, when I can't k ig. His my eyes open anymore. He must be extremely busy at work.

Still, he always makes sure we have breakfast together, asking me s. "I'm my plans and how my week is going. The kiss he brushed on my foreh slowly migrates south until he's kissing my cheek before we leave for vould Part of me wonders if I should kiss him back on his cheek—or chin, si I'm so much shorter—but I can't seem to muster the courage. The only reason I kissed him at the pool was because Joey's accusation pissed n

Nicholas texts me at four to let me know he's going to be late. It's domestic. Like we are dating for real. Actually, it feels more than that. never texted me when he was going to be out late, except when he felt so. Not obligated to ask if I wanted to join him at a club or something.

when Stop being silly. There's no way Nicholas is feeling anything even remotely domestic. He's just being his usual considerate self. I should trying to associate domesticity—or anything relationship-esque—with Nicholas before I start acting like the offensive romance-reader stereot e, "I Owen says I am.

im, d starts

my ear

pot

htly

ean est all

e bit

after I'm done with dinner and we chat a bit. We won't be in each other's way too much.

But that isn't what happens. He begins coming home after midnight. I know because I stay in bed reading until at least eleven, when I can't keep my eyes open anymore. He must be extremely busy at work.

Still, he always makes sure we have breakfast together, asking me about my plans and how my week is going. The kiss he brushed on my forehead slowly migrates south until he's kissing my cheek before we leave for work. Part of me wonders if I should kiss him back on his cheek—or chin, since I'm so much shorter—but I can't seem to muster the courage. The only reason I kissed him at the pool was because Joey's accusation pissed me off.

Nicholas texts me at four to let me know he's going to be late. It's so... domestic. Like we are dating for real. Actually, it feels more than that. Owen never texted me when he was going to be out late, except when he felt obligated to ask if I wanted to join him at a club or something.

Stop being silly. There's no way Nicholas is feeling anything even remotely domestic. He's just being his usual considerate self. I should quit trying to associate domesticity—or anything relationship-esque—with Nicholas before I start acting like the offensive romance-reader stereotype Owen says I am.

Chapter Nineteen

Molly

Friday morning, I still don't have an apartment. I can't believe Rob car anything. I thought real estate agents had secret handshakes, back-alley hidden networks of contacts. He claims everything is getting taken off market as soon as it pops up, which, honestly, sounds pretty flimsy. I'r beginning to wonder if all those positive reviews for his service are falle's really just some lazy bum who's going to end up wasting my time

Maybe ask Dad for help?

No. No way. He might find me a place, but it'll be one he likes, no that suits me. And he'll send me a list of properties I should buy becau convinced I should buy rather than "waste my money paying somebod else's mortgage," as he likes to put it.

"Good morning, Molly!" Jack says to my chest as I walk into the g "Hi." My chest is doing great this morning, no thanks to you, and i doesn't want to be stared at so closely.

"In case you didn't know, your father bought some personal trainir sessions."

Oh shit. Did Dad tell him who they were for? "Ah, yeah, he said something about that."

"I gave him a special discount, being family and all." Jack beams a cleavage. I wouldn't be shocked if he starts discussing a bosom discou "Great. Thanks."

"But my offer to train you for free still stands!"

So you can put your hands all over my body? Ha! I don't think so. "Thank you. You'll be the first to know when I decide I need to start exercising! Anyway, gotta get going here. Those accounts aren't going reconcile themselves!"

"Hey, no reason to work so hard."

I wag a finger at him. "Oh no, there is. You're paying me to work l But I'm gonna work just as hard, considering your offer!"

I give him a little wave, slip into my tiny office and lock the door. Although Jack would love it if I let him be gross with my chest to his I content, I'm not going to waste my time that way. Besides, as long as I a salary here, I plan to do my job. If he needs a chest to flirt with, he ca himself a bust.

A little before noon, there are knocks at my door. "Yo, Molly. It's Arturo."

I get up to answer him. "Hi." Wonder what he wants. Most trainers n't find have any reason to visit accounting, unless there's a problem with their y deals, But there's no payday this week, so...

the Arturo is looking fresh and massive, as usual, and has gotten a new haircut. "You ready for lunch?"

"Lunch...?" Shoot. I totally forgot. I brought some lasagna that I comicrowave, but I can't possibly say that to Arturo's hopeful, smiling far "Yes, of course. Lemme just grab my purse." An oh shit sensation cont one in my belly. "So where are we going?"

se he's "You like Italian?"

y "I love Italian." I was about to have lasagna.

"Awesome. I know a place not too far from here."

ym. Arturo drives us to a fairly upscale bistro about fifteen minutes awatereally seen it a few times, but never eaten inside. The dark wood and ivory exare elegant, and some cheerful classical music I've heard before floats air like lovely little petals. Already I can smell bread, butter, garlic, oli and tomato sauce. The bar to our right is packed with the lunch crowd. huge TV is tuned to a muted sports channel. A waitress carrying a gigatray laden with plates crosses the packed dining area, quick and sure as the my ballerina.

A hostess in a black-and-white uniform eyes Arturo like he's six for inches of cheesecake, then sobers when he frowns at her. But he must to female attention. Just on a physical basis he beats Owen handily, an ex isn't too bad himself. Women often ran their eyes all over him when were out, which never failed to make him preen and laugh with good h

Arturo and I bypass the long line of people and get a secluded table window.

"Already scored a reservation," he explains.

; to nt.

nard. "Smart move, with all the people here. But what if I was in the most something else?"

He grins. "Nah. Everyone loves Italian."

Laughing, I pick up the faux-leather-bound menu, then purse my li draw surprise and slight dismay. A lot of items are kind of expensive for jus in buy friendly lunch out with a coworker. I'd expect this kind of splurge from I'd dated for several months—or maybe earlier in a relationship if he v trying to impress me.

"Anybody else coming to this belated birthday celebration?"

"Nope. Just the two of us."

r pay. A server comes over. Arturo orders chicken parmesan, and I get clapasta lightly tossed with basil olive oil. When the waiter's gone, I sip r water and look at Arturo over my glass. Is he trying to get something romantic going?

But if that's the case, wouldn't he have asked if I was in a relations first? I have to be overthinking the situation. It's possible he didn't know expensive the place was either. Or maybe this just isn't that much mon him.

"You okay?" Arturo asks.

"Huh? Yeah, why?"

"You were frowning."

ay. I've "Oh. You know, just...stuff at work."

tterior He nods. "Jack bothering you?"

in the I hesitate. The answer is a big fat yes, but how does Arturo know? ve oil Although he was in the breakroom while Jack kept trying to have a s a Could he?

A conversation with my breasts, he couldn't possibly have seen enough a ntic to get the full picture...

Or maybe he's some kind of secret agent for Jack. That would exploot, twonice restaurant and rather private lunch. He could be gathering informabe usedmy boss can use it against me and my boobs.

d my "Jack's...Jack," I say finally.

1 we Arturo's brows pinch together. "I don't know what that means."

"You will once you get to know him better." *I'm not saying anythi*by the could come back and bite me in the butt.

Arturo mulls that over while I munch on the garlic bread. It's excel with a crispy crust and soft, buttery inside. Fresh herbs add to the taste od for when the pasta comes, it's just as good, with fresh clams perfectly coot that they're flavorful and tender. The lack of tomato sauce enhances the overall dish, and I dig in, realizing I'm starving.

ps with "I saw you broke up with your boyfriend," Arturo says.

t a "Yeah." It comes out a little stiff.

n a guy "I wasn't stalking you or anything. It was on Instagram."

vas "No, of course not." Thanks, Owen, for wasting no time in sharing private lives with everyone on the Internet. I shrug. "It's practically puknowledge at this point."

Arturo regards me. "You don't seem too upset about it."

I blink, realizing that he's partly right. I'm not upset about losing C was already beginning to have some misgivings about our compatibilit anger and dismay came from the fact that what our relationship represents potential, never meant enough to him that he wanted to fight for it. I ship promise made was an empty platitude that led to nothing, and the lovir ow howpartnership that could've been in our future wasn't meant to be.

ley for Arturo looks like he's waiting for an explanation, but I don't want that much of myself to a guy I barely know. So I just say, "Things wer of fizzling out anyway. I'm not surprised it ended. The timing could've better, though. There's something about a birthday breakup that makes situation appear pathetic."

As I add the last part, I wonder if that's why Nicholas went along v my charade at Dolce. It might've been a type of birthday present—a w him to take care of me. Georgia told me he was the one who took me h and made sure I was all right the night I turned twenty-one. Nicholas h lready done things for me without my recognizing the gesture, and I feel a litt guilty. For someone like him, time is extra valuable because it's the on he can't buy more of. I'm a big believer in not taking more than I can a lain the back, but right now, the balance between us seems heavily skewed.

ation so "Cool that you aren't all upset about it, but you kinda seem distract Arturo says.

"Do I? Sorry." Embarrassment heats my face. "I don't mean to be was just thinking..." I trail off, since I don't want to tell him I was thir ng that about fake-dating my bestie's older brother. It's none of his business. I he saw the breakup post on Instagram, he might've seen Nicholas's collent, too. "Thinking that it's hard to find an apartment."

. And "You looking to move?"

ked so "I was living with Owen, so..." I shrug, hoping that explains my distraction. I'm feeling a little guilty about the fact that I haven't been good lunch companion when he brought me here to wish me belated bi "Totally awkward."

"Right? But it's okay—I'm crashing at a friend's."

"Couch surfing. Can't be that great." He shakes his head. I don't be our correct his assumption, since it isn't important.

blic "If you want," he says, "there's an empty condo. Lemme send you pics so you can see if you like it." He hands me his phone. "Gimme yo digits."

Owen. I If this is a ploy to get my number, it's an admirably smooth one. By My the same time, he is trying to help. And if he really wanted, he could gented, from one of the other trainers at the gym. So I dutifully enter my info values with the same time, he is trying to help. And if he really wanted, he could gented, from one of the other trainers at the gym. So I dutifully enter my info values wanted with the same time, he is trying to help. And if he really wanted, he could gented as the gym. So I dutifully enter my info values wanted as the gym.

"Cool." He grins and pokes his phone a few times. Mine pings and appear. I expected a modest place, but this one looks huge, with lots of to bare —spotless veined tiles and a vaulted ceiling with gold-edged fans and e sort shaped chandeliers. The kitchen looks modern, with stainless-steel apper been and lots of marble, and a balcony overlooks the city from on high.

the This can't possibly be the right place. "Seriously? This is the empty condo you're talking about?"

with He takes my hand and twists it around to see my phone screen. "Ye ay for Why?"

"It's too nice! I can't afford something like this."

as "You can't afford free?"

le "It's free?" Hold on. When something's too good to be true... "Ho e thing "I own it."

give "You're...looking for a housemate?"

"Nah, nothing like that. It's all paid for, just sitting empty 'cause I' ted," living in another place. I'm just offering. You know. It's not a terrible to crash."

rude. I "I see. Well, thanks, but my realtor's going to send me a list tomor iking It's not true, but his offer is a bit over-the-top, and I'm not comfortable? It's not true, but his offer is a bit over-the-top, and I'm not comfortable? I us, if accepting it. I might as well stay at Nicholas's place. "So how come you mment, work at the gym if you own such nice places?" I try to sound casually curious.

"Ah, my old man's upset with me right now. So he told me to go g that requires me to be on my feet. But it's no big deal. He'll get over it a very enough, and then I'll be able to get you something nicer."

irthday. "Great." I have no idea what else to say. It sounds like he gets mon from his father, and that makes me wonder if he's younger than I thougand what his father does. Regardless, it must be nice to be able to depe other toyour dad, I think wistfully. I feel like at some point way back in the pa was somebody who could laugh openly with me. I've seen photos of u some when there were still three in the family. The fact that he doesn't have same open expression anymore claws into me.

Arturo and I get back to the gym a little after one. I clear my throat ut at parks in the lot. "Thanks for the lunch, Arturo."

et it "My pleasure. We should do it again." He smiles.

with a I give him a neutral smile of my own. He wants more than just frie and I'm Nicholas's girlfriend, albeit a fake one. Even if I weren't in a photos relationship, I'm not sure about Arturo. He's certainly handsome, and gloss nice enough, but something about him is a little unsettling. I can't see I flower-dating him.

liances I start to go into the gym. As I walk across the free weight area to r the back office, Dana and her friends start jumping up and down and screaming. What are they so excited about? Did Dana get another sponsorship deal?

As the girls circle and surge around her like fish eager to be fed, sh raises her left hand, fingers spread. Something glints on her ring finger women shriek so loud my eardrums almost pop.

It's a diamond. A large one.

w?" Oh my God. Is she engaged?

u

Did Owen propose?

It's been barely a week since he dumped me. This can't be happeni m But wait. Maybe Dana dumped Owen for being not good enough for place personal brand and got herself a rich fiancé. Unlikely, but it would servishitty ex right.

row." I pull my phone out and head to my office. After locking the door, on the screen and bring up Owen's Instagram account.

A shot of a stunning ring on Dana's finger is the latest update. The Éternité—I can see a menu, and the sign in the background. Owen stag photo so it would be obvious where they are.

et a job According to him, the place has a long waiting list. He complained it incessantly while telling me how upset he was that he wouldn't be al take me there to celebrate our anniversary. According to him, the day l asked for my phone number was the one we should celebrate every year that's the day I met the love of my life," he'd say, and hold me like I and on the world to him.

st, Dad Either he lied about the waiting list or he's been planning to propos s— Dana for a while now—maybe even before he told me he loved me. He the might've called me "the love of his life," but I never was.

It brings a fresh wave of pain and fury. Why wasn't I good enough' as he

The love of my life. She deserves the best. This is just the beginning—of us.

ndship, oretend seems seems myself myself

each

'. The

Every word on Owen's post drives a nail into my heart. This was supposed to be my future, but instead I was thoughtlessly discarded by guy who professed his love for me only three months ago. Although I want him anymore, the feeling of inadequacy lingers, like the stench of cigarettes after somebody's smoked.

If Nicholas hadn't asked me to move in, I would've been stuck at (place, witnessing the spectacle as it unfolded. But that doesn't lessen n humiliation.

The worst of it is how public my embarrassment has become.

Congrats. Your fiancée is hot.

ing. or her ve my Love at first sight.

I tap

y're at sed the

It's so romantic how you just knew she was the one.

about Some of the people wishing them the best are Owen's and my muti friends. None of them questions the timing of the proposal or wonders ole to me. Actually, that isn't true. Stephanie does via private message, but h ıe mouth is bigger than the state of Texas. She's fishing for something to ar. meant about.

I start to text Georgia with shaky fingers, then realize it's too early Europe. She's probably asleep. Otherwise, she would've already texted se to She hate-stalks the people on her shit list, Owen included. Apparently, 9 time something bad happens to one of them, it reaffirms her belief that ? isn't too awful because karma is still alive and well.

I leave the gym at four, which is a first. I make it a habit to stay un because those are my hours. But nobody seems to notice. Then again, 1 people in the back office pack up by four on Fridays. Jack doesn't care because we don't sell memberships. We're just overhead.

I stop by the grocery store and pick up a few cases of cheap wine c Nicholas told me I should text Cody for anything I need so he can have staff restock it, but this isn't the kind of thing you can tell your fake boyfriend's assistant to handle.

the don't

Hi, I need some stuff to make myself feel better. Oh no, I'm fine. It' that my shitty ex proposed to another girl within a week of dumping me know how that is, right? No? Well, I guess it's never happened to you. Owen's Lucky you. Hope it stays that way.

ny

f

Back at the mansion, I place my coolers in front of the sofa and bri a tub of chocolate ice cream from the freezer. Then I click around on tl remote until I get a streaming service and start watching one of my fav K-dramas. It's that or eat my ice cream in silence. And I don't think I a silence right now, not when it will just amplify all the doubts and defic in my head. Hopefully, the TV will drown out the cruel thoughts.

I dig into the ice cream and wash it down with the wine coolers, pr the sugar, fat and alcohol will make me feel better, even as part of me they're not the solution I need.

But if I can't let go on a day like this, I don't know when I can.

friends. None of them questions the timing of the proposal or wonders about me. Actually, that isn't true. Stephanie does via private message, but her mouth is bigger than the state of Texas. She's fishing for something to gossip about.

I start to text Georgia with shaky fingers, then realize it's too early in Europe. She's probably asleep. Otherwise, she would've already texted me. She hate-stalks the people on her shit list, Owen included. Apparently, every time something bad happens to one of them, it reaffirms her belief that life isn't too awful because karma is still alive and well.

I leave the gym at four, which is a first. I make it a habit to stay until five because those are my hours. But nobody seems to notice. Then again, most people in the back office pack up by four on Fridays. Jack doesn't care because we don't sell memberships. We're just overhead.

I stop by the grocery store and pick up a few cases of cheap wine coolers. Nicholas told me I should text Cody for anything I need so he can have the staff restock it, but this isn't the kind of thing you can tell your fake boyfriend's assistant to handle.

Hi, I need some stuff to make myself feel better. Oh no, I'm fine. It's just that my shitty ex proposed to another girl within a week of dumping me. You know how that is, right? No? Well, I guess it's never happened to you. Haha. Lucky you. Hope it stays that way.

Back at the mansion, I place my coolers in front of the sofa and bring out a tub of chocolate ice cream from the freezer. Then I click around on the remote until I get a streaming service and start watching one of my favorite K-dramas. It's that or eat my ice cream in silence. And I don't think I can do silence right now, not when it will just amplify all the doubts and deficiencies in my head. Hopefully, the TV will drown out the cruel thoughts.

I dig into the ice cream and wash it down with the wine coolers, praying the sugar, fat and alcohol will make me feel better, even as part of me says they're not the solution I need.

But if I can't let go on a day like this, I don't know when I can.

Chapter Twenty

Nicholas

For the first time in a while, I leave work at six o'clock. I feel terrible a having neglected Molly recently, but my agenda for the week has been packed tight, none of it pleasant. There's something particularly depres and uncomfortable about having to let go of staff, but our newly acquir company had people whose duties not even the workers themselves co explain. The previous CEO apparently had a fetish for gift-employing related to him or his friends.

I exhale and roll the muscles in my neck and shoulders. Hopefully flowers cheered Molly up. I select each bouquet and have it in her roor every night so she can see it when she walks in.

I've finished all my tasks, including those allocated for Saturday, to devote the weekend to her. There's a romance book signing in Vegas tomorrow, and I want to take her there tonight and return late Sunday. surprise trip to an event that's going to have some of Molly's favorite authors, ones whose entire backlist she owns in paperback. She constangushes about them on her book account, too.

She's going to be so happy. I'll hand her my credit card and tell he buy everything she wants. And there won't be any ridiculous hundred-limit on her book money like before I was her boyfriend.

Her fake boyfriend.

Whatever. The key word is "boyfriend," not "fake." Besides, fakin the first step. Fake it till you make it, and all that.

Molly's car is parked in the driveway. It's a cheap sedan that's proseven or eight years old. I wish I could upgrade it to something nicer a safer. Maybe a Mercedes. That'd be modest enough that she wouldn't too uncomfortable accepting it, provided I work up to it gradually. I stibelieve she offered to "chip in" to help pay for some of the expenses.

Owen must've charged her. Since she didn't get to live at his place full thirty days this month, she should claw a prorated portion back for enrichment. Maybe I'll call my lawyer and see what options are availa

I park the Spectre in the garage and get out, happily anticipating M smile when she hears about the surprise getaway.

But the anticipation dies as soon as I step inside the house.

The TV's blaring, male voices shouting in a language I don't under Loud sobs accompany the noise, but they don't sound like they're comfrom the TV.

I stride into the living room. Molly's sitting on the sofa, legs crosse about style. Her face is buried in her hands, and a spoon is held loosely between fingers. A half-eaten carton of mostly melted ice cream sweats forlorn the table. At least ten wine cooler bottles sit empty, making a protective circle around the ice cream. I wince. If she wanted to drink, I have somuld better than wine coolers.

people I glance at the TV. Three men are arguing about something, but Mostill has her face buried and is making the saddest sound in her throat.

Is she one of those people who cries when they get drunk? Or is sh crying because something sad is happening on the foreign drama she's watching?

Georgia cries when she watches dramas, saying it's "cathartic" eve though ninety percent of her face is covered with tears and snot. I'll ne understand it. But my understanding isn't important here.

My sympathy is.

ntly I sit next to Molly and put a hand on her back.

"Hey. It's okay." It's the most neutral and empathetic thing I can the r to given my lack of information about the situation.

dollar She finally lifts her face and looks at me. Her eyes are swollen and and her face is blotchy. Tears stream down in rivulets.

Even if she's just crying over a TV show, seeing her like this sticks g it is knife in my belly. "What's wrong?"

She points at the TV. The spoon slips from between her fingers, bu bably doesn't seem to notice.

"The girl in the story... She lost her mom when she was just a chil feel words are slurred, and her breath smells like cheap alcohol and chocol ll can't Goddamn scriptwriters, going for the cheapest sympathy point. Of Molly's upset—she also lost her mother early on. It's something I can for the fix for her, and I hate feeling so helpless.

Molly says, "And her aunt took her in, but the aunt's family only w unjust her because they thought that her mom left her a huge life insurance pa ble. olly's Which, of course she did."

"What a bunch of assholes." I hope my words make her feel better. any luck the show's writers will get struck by lightning—or some ferti rstand. company's semi packed with horseshit.

"I know, right? And they always bullied her, and called her horrib ling things, and even hit her, and made her do all the housework!"

So they ripped off Cinderella. Figures. They better have her best fr ed voga een her older brother, who happens to be Prince Charming, suddenly appear to her from her shitty aunt. "That's terrible."

Molly raises a finger. "But she stays true to herself! She's always t e halfnething to do the right thing—to be a good person. The only thing she wants is accepted and loved. For. Who. She. Is." The finger pokes my thigh wit olly word. "But nobody does, except for the ghosts around her."

Ghosts? "You're crying over a horror show—?" Actually, never m That isn't the point. "But she's going to meet somebody amazing, righ treats her well?" Georgia said a lot of these dramas end happily.

Molly nods.

e

"And...who isn't a ghost?" 'n

She nods again and sniffs. ver

> There we go. "Okay! So they'll get married and live happily ever a Now she's going to smile and let out a soft, satisfied sigh...

Molly's face crumples, and a new wave of tears starts. "No!" she w nink of, "She does the right thing again and dies. All alone!"

Sons of bitches. Why the fuck does the drama have to end like that Maybe I should buy the studio and fire all the writers. If Molly wanted red, depressed, she could've just watched the news. The economic indicato alone can make you want to jump off a cliff. "I'm so sorry." s a

"It's like...there's no reward. The world doesn't appreciate you if a nice person. Good things just randomly happen!" She flings a hand o ıt she narrowly missing my nose. "To anyone! Trying to be good is such a w d." Her effort. If my mom's ghost is watching me, I doubt she's like, 'Yay, Mo love you. You're so good and sweet.' She's more like dying of course embarrassment. 'What's wrong with you that nobody likes you?'" I don't know anything about Molly's mother—she passed away so never ago. But I doubt that's the kind of thing she'd say. Now, my dad? Oh y vanted Of course, Molly's mom could've been like that, but I prefer not to ill of the dead. "I'm sure your mother wouldn't say that if she could se now. She'd more likely worry about you with all this crying."

With "You know what? You're right. It's more like something my dad w say. He's sooo disappointed in me." She lets out another heartbreaking Georgia once mentioned that Molly's dad is a dick. Back then I dick know exactly what she meant, but if that man is responsible for Molly thinking so poorly of herself, he isn't just a dick. He's a prime reason iend's humanity is so terrible.

rescue Wishing I could undo all the hurt from her past and feeling helples because I can't, I give her a gentle hug. "You're a wonderful person, N rying "Then how come nobody loves me? I try really hard to do the right to be and be, you know, worthy, but nobody loves me." I love you.

I catch the words before they spill out. I don't want to tell her when ind. drunk or high on sugar and misery. She might not even remember I sai t? Who just like before.

I want to tell her when we're both sober, so she knows I mean it an remember it. I want her to carry the knowledge that I love her above everything else, so none of the crap the world unloads on her can ever her like this again.

fter." "I have nothing," she says, then reaches for another wine cooler. SI struggles to open it, then gives up with a sigh, her shoulders so low the vails. almost touch her knees.

What happened? It can't be just a foreign soap opera making her lost control like this.

to be "What does she have that I don't?" Molly murmurs.

rs Who is she? "No idea. You have everything," I respond with full h No woman in the world is worthier than Molly.

you're "Then how come he proposed to her, but not me?"

ut, "Who?"

asted "Owen. He proposed to Dana."

olly, I Son of a bitch. What an asshole. How does Molly know this, anywashe still pining over him? Stalking him on social media like Emmett us with Amy?

long I want to kick Owen's balls. Kicking him in the ass wouldn't hurt ϵ reah. to satisfy me. "Molly, he's an idiot for not seeing how wonderful you a think You deserve the absolute best—everything you want."

e you "Owen said he loved me, like, three months ago. I guess he lied." Sighs. "I should've known. People don't love me."

vould My veins pulse with rage. I'm going to destroy that son of a bitch.

"And my dad said I'm nothing. Maybe I am nothing." She looks at ln't "Do you know that the only people who are nice to her are the ghosts?

"Yes," I say patiently. Her drunk talk would be cute, but right now just sad because she's suffering so much.

I swipe my thumbs over her tear-stained cheeks to dry them. I wish could wipe away her pain as easily.

It's late and she needs to sleep off the alcoh t thing Also, a restful night should improve her mood.

"Don't leave me." She tightens her hand on my shirt.

"I would never leave you."

a she's I turn off the TV and help her up. She sways a little, and I pull her d it, She feels really good, but I remind myself this is about soothing her pa I lead her up the stairs. Her feet are unsteady, but I hold her protect "Feels like I'm gonna fall," she murmurs. "Steps are so slippery."

The steps are carpeted. "I'm not letting you fall."

hurt "I know." Her whisper is low, but I hear it.

My pulse accelerates. The alcohol has removed her filter, and I lov knowing that she trusts me to take care of her and keep her safe.

I open the door to her room, help her inside and turn on the small nightstand lamp. She lands on the bed, but before I can step back, she lose out and grasps my belt.

I freeze. The move would normally be a prelude to sex, but the way now... And no matter how long I've wanted her, we can't do anything onesty. she's too drunk to give consent. "Molly..." I search for words to turn I down without making her feel even more rejected and unwanted. This delicate time.

"Don't go," she says, looking up at me with glazed eyes. In the sof golden light, she seems ethereal, like a forest nymph.

ay? Is "But—"

"Please. I just need somebody to hold me for a bit."
I close my eyes briefly. "Okay."

enough She lets go of my belt, but holds on to my suit jacket. I shrug out o then, before she can worry that I'm leaving her, lie next to her in the bear my dress shirt and slacks. She lays her head on my shoulder, then place hand over my heart and loops a leg around one of mine, as though she'

She hand over my heart and loops a leg around one of mine, as though she' scared I'll disappear. She feels so soft against me, smells so sweet. It's can do to lie absolutely still.

me. Do not do anything stupid, like give in to the urge to kiss her.

I stroke her back, hoping to lull her into slumber, while my blood r it's and fast in my veins. I stare at the ceiling. She shifts, shifts again, and third time. A vague sound comes out, like an annoyed kitten.

ı I "What's wrong?" I ask.

"My bra. Can't get comfortable." She then contorts her arms, but h sol. "Still can't get the hooks off." Then she turns to me. "Hey, can you do The underwire is digging into my chest."

A fireball seems to explode in my heart. I try to swallow, despite m parched mouth. Alcohol has made her not only uninhibited, but sadisticlose. when she looks at me with eyes that shine with trust, I go ahead and re under her shirt. My body grows hot and tight at the feel of her smooth tively. against my tingling fingertips. If only she weren't drunk...

If she were sober, she wouldn't have asked...

I unhook her bra and immediately pull my hand back so avoid tem

She sighs as she wriggles and drops the bra on the floor, then presses to against my side. Her breasts feel as soft as marshmallow, and my bloom to my cock despite all my honorable intentions.

She shifts, and her hair falls over my hand, which is currently strok reaches back. I clench my teeth and try to think of leading economic indicators what I suspect will happen with the labor market in the next two quartey she is

It's not enough. My blood flows south and a sharp prickling spread when over my body. My cock's impossibly swollen, but I move slightly to enter she won't feel it.

is a This isn't the moment.

е

Her breathing begins to grow slower and deeper. Suddenly, she wh t "My mom's ghost could be watching me right now."

I pat her comfortingly. "Yeah... She could."

"Do you think she's wondering why I'm not cool like her?"

"Half of you is her, Molly. You're more alike than you think."

"No. She was beautiful and smart and popular. She was everything f it, could never be. Not even my grandfather likes me, you know. He was ed in devastated when Mom died, and never got in touch with me or Dad." es her I put a finger underneath her chin and lift her head. Look into her er I put a finger underneath her chin and lift her head. Look into her a blurred eyes. She might not remember this—but I need to tell her.

all I "Molly, you don't have to be like your mom. You don't need your or anybody else's approval. You're perfect just the way you are. I'd gi everything I have if I could make you see yourself the way I see you."

uns hot She blinks a few times. "Nicholas?" Her breath fans over my lips, then a she's now half over me.

My mouth dries. "Yes?"

"You're the nicest fake boyfriend in the world. I wish you were wi uffs. my reach so I could hold you and know you were mine forever."

it? A sense of triumph fills me—she doesn't just see me as that nice be of her friend! But it's followed by a grim letdown—she also doesn't the can be hers. Even through her drunk rambling, it's obvious that people c. But done incalculable damage to her tender heart. I wish I'd met her earlier ach it wasn't so bruised and hurting, so I could've protected her—and mad skin believe I'd be hers forever.

But it's never too late. I'm going to have to prove to her that everyelse is wrong about her. She deserves respect, kindness and love.

ptation. "I am within reach, Molly. I'm right here, and you are holding me. "Yeah," she sighs, and her eyelids droop closed.

d flows She's worthy of a happy ending. With me.

ting her and ers.
Is all

'S

ispers, nsure

devastated when Mom died, and never got in touch with me or Dad."

I put a finger underneath her chin and lift her head. Look into her alcoholblurred eyes. She might not remember this—but I need to tell her.

"Molly, you don't have to be like your mom. You don't need your father or anybody else's approval. You're perfect just the way you are. I'd give up everything I have if I could make you see yourself the way I see you."

She blinks a few times. "Nicholas?" Her breath fans over my lips, and she's now half over me.

My mouth dries. "Yes?"

"You're the nicest fake boyfriend in the world. I wish you were within my reach so I could hold you and know you were mine forever."

A sense of triumph fills me—she doesn't just see me as that nice brother of her friend! But it's followed by a grim letdown—she also doesn't think I can be hers. Even through her drunk rambling, it's obvious that people have done incalculable damage to her tender heart. I wish I'd met her earlier, when it wasn't so bruised and hurting, so I could've protected her—and made her believe I'd be hers forever.

But it's never too late. I'm going to have to prove to her that everyone else is wrong about her. She deserves respect, kindness and love.

"I am within reach, Molly. I'm right here, and you are holding me."

"Yeah," she sighs, and her eyelids droop closed.

She's worthy of a happy ending. With me.

Chapter Twenty-One

Molly

If you gathered a bunch of five-year-olds and set them loose in a drum factory, the ruckus they'd make would be something like what's going my head. The last thing I remember is having a ton of ice cream and w coolers, then being unable to stop crying over the K-drama.

I squint. The room is dark from the blackout curtains. That's nice..

Wait. This is my room. On the second floor.

How did I get up here? I don't remember...

Something pulses underneath my palm. I shift my hand and realize not touching a cotton sheet. The fabric is different.

And the mattress underneath me is too hard. And lumpy.

And warm.

Oh shit.

I'm lying on someone. And not just anyone...

Nicholas.

The sleep haze vanishes instantly, and I freeze. Every vein in my h throbs, and I struggle to think through my hangover.

What happened last night?

I'm still in the clothes I wore to work, so...maybe nothing happene Hold on, where's my bra? Did I take it off in front of Nicholas? I concentrate, but...nothing. Did I take it off before he showed up? I hat wearing a bra when I'm trying to relax.

But why is Nicholas in my bed? He would never do anything to tak advantage of a drunk woman. He's too honorable for that. So... Did $I \perp$ myself on him?

I'm wearing my panties...and he's dressed...but that doesn't prove anything.

If you want to be sure, check and see if his pants are undone and h sans underwear.

No. Absolutely not. I'm not going to feel him up like a pervert. No I'm beginning to think I had a lot to do with the way we're entangled l bed.

What time is it? Maybe he's going to get up soon. I should keep m closed and pretend to be asleep until he leaves to avoid any awkwardne

No, stupid idea. We live together. There's no way to avoid seeing h

Maybe I can delay the inevitable and buy some time to gather myse it's impossible to think when my head hurts and my body's half on top hottest and most wonderful man I know.

My breasts are crushed against his thick bicep, and my traitorous n on in bead like he's licking them. The achy sensation that's started at the tipe boobs begins to pulse lazily through me until it ends between my legs. ine to squirm, find some way to ease the uncomfortable emptiness, except he'll know I'm awake. Heat throbs through me, and everywhere I'm connected to Nicholas starts to prickle.

I don't understand how I can be so turned on. I've never responded this to any guy. But with Nicholas, it's as though his mere presence is I'm aphrodisiac.

Suddenly he lays his hand on my back. Air whooshes out of my lui and I reflexively hold him tighter.

"Good morning." His voice is gravelly and rusty. I've never heard this, and it's super sexy and intimate to realize this is what he's like in morning.

"Hi," I squeak. ead

"How are you feeling?"

Hot and horny all over, thanks. How about you? "Hungover, but m better. Thank you." :d...

"I'm glad," he says softly. "Let me turn on the light." He reaches o with his free arm and flicks the switch, and the lamp by the bed emits a low glow that doesn't hurt much.

He looks so good in the dim light. A day's growth of beard covers strong jaw and his hair is slightly mussed from sleep. There's a hint of force vulnerability and openness to him in the early morning, and a nearly irresistible urge to kiss the tip of his chin sweeps through me.

"I didn't, um, do anything yesterday...did I?"

"Other than ask me to unhook your bra?"

e

e's

My cheeks flame and I bury my face in his shoulder, just to hide fr t when shame.

He laughs softly. "You didn't do anything inappropriate." iere in

I relax a fraction. He's in a good mood. I probably just got funny. y eyes says I'm hilarious when I get drunk.

"Let me..." He stretches, reaching for something on the nightstand ess— "Aspirin," he says, putting a couple of pills into my mouth. The pad of im. elf. But thumb brushes innocently over my lips, but unholy shivers slither dow of the back.

He then puts a bottle of water to my mouth, and I swallow. The ges ipples isn't grandiose in any way, but very thoughtful. I can't remember a tim s of my somebody took care of me like this.

"I should shower and change," I say with a shy smile. I want "Sure. I'll meet you in the kitchen afterward. Want some coffee?" then "Yes, please." Then I add, "You're the best."

"Only the best for my girl." He winks before gently slipping out from under me and leaving. l like

Somehow the air feels empty and off. A charge that's been crackling an quietly in the background vanishes. Suddenly bereft, I hug myself, the the bathroom. A hot shower is just what the doctor ordered. ngs,

I flip the light switch, then put a hand over my eyes as the satanical bright bulbs come on. Ugh. I'm never drinking like that again! What d it like solve, anyway? Owen and Dana are still looking forward to their disgu the happy future together, and I'm the only one suffering.

My vision gradually adjusts, and I slowly lower my hand...then soundlessly scream at my reflection. My eyes are so swollen, they look bread dough left out on the kitchen counter for too long. Mascara strea my cheeks. Is that a chocolate stain on my tunic? I sniff it. Yep. And m hair's sticking out in all directions like I've been run through a tumble

How could Nicholas not laugh seeing me like this? I would've nev suspected I looked such a mess from the way he interacted with me.

All right. First step is a shower. When I come out my eyes are still swollen, but they look slightly better. Or maybe that's just futile optim consider hiding in my room until I look more human, but no. Nicholas made coffee and is waiting.

He didn't laugh before, so he probably won't laugh now. Inhaling deeply, I go down to the kitchen. Nicholas is at the counte

ıuch

ver a very his

om tapping away on his phone. He's showered too—he smells like soap ar aftershave. Underneath the scent is him—something warm and mascul that never fails to bring my nerve endings to life. A gray T-shirt and bl Georgiashorts hug the thick muscles I clung to all night.

He places his phone on the counter. "How's your head? Aspirin kicin?"

"Yes. Coffee will be perfect to get rid of what little achiness is left."

n my pour two cups and hand him one. The oven clock says it's one twenty-can't believe he stayed in bed with me so long. He must've been awak sture while. "Thanks for taking care of me last night."

As he opens his mouth to say something, the doorbell rings. Anoth gaggle of women from Nikki and Ted?

He checks the intercom.

ıe

ŀr,

I brace for another tsunami of tall women pretty enough to be page queens. Instead, Nicholas murmurs something and the door shuts, plun us into silence.

He reappears carrying a huge bouquet of yellow and orange daisies cheery enough to make even the most morose person smile. There are n go to sunflowers in it as well.

"These came for you," he says, handing me the flowers.

lly "Me?" I take them, holding them close. Their lovely scent tickles n id it nose as confusion spirals through me. "From who?" Nobody knows I'n stingly staying with Nicholas. Well, except Georgia, but she never sends flow "From me." He retakes his stool at the counter.

"You?" I say stupidly. I feel stupid, since it's still an effort to think clike really need to finish my coffee. "For what?"

ks line "Does a man need a reason to give his girl flowers?"

Ah. He must be worried about another Joey ambush. The flowers a dryer. beautiful. The misery from yesterday slowly ebbs, and warmth fills my er "Thank you. I can't remember the last time I got flowers."

Nicholas cocks a disapproving eyebrow. "Owen didn't give you an "He has a pollen allergy."

ism. I He shakes his head and mutters something. Based on his tone, it's has flattering.

I pluck a note from the midst of the flowers. I open it, expecting a sbut thoughtful message, like I hope you're doing well or something sin But instead, there is a line of beautiful foreign calligraphy in the ce the card. Below is Nicholas's name. "What does it say?" I ask, showin ıd ine the note. He smiles. "I'll tell you later." ack "When?" "On the hundredth day we've been together." cking "That's a long time." "Only about three months." ." I Hmm. He might not even want to wait that long. Just look how qui five. I e for a things fell apart with Owen in spite of the number of times he said he l me. I decide not to take the timeline too seriously. "So it's a secret?" I er down at the paper. What did Nicholas write? I'm dying of curiosity. "No. You can use Google translate if you like. I just want to tell yo later." ant I didn't expect him to suggest that I try Google, but then, it makes ıging for him to know that's what I could do if I don't feel like waiting. He is looking at me with warmth in his eyes. It's so sweet, it makes ì, believe he holds something more than affection for me, too. So instead some pulling up Google on my phone, I smile at him playfully. "Then I'll wa Hope you're worth it, mister." ny n ers. . I re / heart. ıy?" nothing short nilar. nter of the card. Below is Nicholas's name. "What does it say?" I ask, showing him the note.

He smiles. "I'll tell you later."

"When?"

"On the hundredth day we've been together."

"That's a long time."

"Only about three months."

Hmm. He might not even want to wait that long. Just look how quickly things fell apart with Owen in spite of the number of times he said he loved me.

I decide not to take the timeline too seriously. "So it's a secret?" I look down at the paper. What did Nicholas write? I'm dying of curiosity.

"No. You can use Google translate if you like. I just want to tell you later."

I didn't expect him to suggest that I try Google, but then, it makes sense for him to know that's what I could do if I don't feel like waiting.

He is looking at me with warmth in his eyes. It's so sweet, it makes me believe he holds something more than affection for me, too. So instead of pulling up Google on my phone, I smile at him playfully. "Then I'll wait. Hope you're worth it, mister."

Chapter Twenty-Two

Nicholas

Molly's eyes shine as she tilts her face up and looks at me. A lovely ro colors her cheeks, and she is smiling like she's happy—as though last she didn't cry like her world was falling apart.

Then I'll wait. Hope you're worth it, mister.

She doesn't ask for explanations. Now that I know more of the dan done to her fragile heart, I understand how precious the trust she place is. It makes me feel like a giant of a man—and at the same time, it's humbling.

I'd rather die than do anything to hurt her.

"What do you want to do today?" It's too late to go to the Vegas even but we can do something else she'll enjoy.

"I was going to go apartment hunting, but my real estate agent has contacted me with anything."

I try to look innocent. "That's too bad, but like I said, you can stay long as you need." If things go the way I plan, he'll never find an apar for you. Cody should've signed a lease with every single place that fit criteria.

"Thanks."

She didn't say anything about really needing a place of her own, lil did before, much to my pleasure. Maybe she's getting used to the idea sharing a home—even thinking of this place as hers.

"Maybe I'll bake some cookies." She smiles over the rim of her mu promised I'd make some for you, and I want do something nice for bot us. My cookies are pretty awesome, you know."

Her good humor warms my heart. And I smile at her choice of phra—something nice for both of us. It sounds like she's looking for things that we'll both enjoy, like a real couple in a committed relationship.

She finishes her coffee.

"Do we have everything you need?" I ask, since her desire to bake spontaneous.

"Cody should've taken care of it."

She goes to the pantry. I amble in behind her, in case she needs sor help. She pulls out a few bags, then turns abruptly. "Oh! You scared m

"Just here to assist." I flex my biceps, half playful, half showing of

"You can bring those bags of white chocolate chips and the choppe macadamia nuts."

I reach around her and grab the ones she pointed out. My arm brusl against hers, and the hair on my forearm rises as a zing sizzles along m night Her swift intake of breath seems loud in the pantry, and the sound tugs dick, but she's already out and into the kitchen.

After placing the items on the counter, I pull out appliances for her nage don't cook, but I know where things are. The kitchen is sizeable and st s in me but it doesn't feel that way with her in it. She has a way of making the feel homey. And I love having her do things with me on a lazy Saturda Mainly, though, I'm relieved that the pain from yesterday is nowhe be found in her bright eyes.

Molly tosses everything into the machine. She's generous with but sugar and chocolate chips. A streak of flour cuts across one pink cheek sliver of cloud. In a simple shirt and shorts with her feet bare and her h pulled back into a high ponytail, she looks adorable as she moves arou here aswith ease and confidence.

tment I'd give up everything if I could have her happy and at home with her this forever.

I preheat the oven to her specifications, then bring out baking sheet grease them for her. She puts dollops of dough on them until there's bake she any left in the bowl, then puts them in the oven and sets the timer on hof our phone. She offers the wooden spoon with some dough on it. "Want sor

I eye the mixture skeptically. "Is it safe to eat raw dough?"

ıg. "I "Of course."

th of "Wouldn't it be better cooked?"

"Think of it like cookie sushi."

"Oh, that sounds authentic."

to do "Don't be scared." She scoops a bit with one finger and puts it in h mouth. "See? Yummy."

There's a bit of dough on the center of her mouth. Before she can v seems off, I dip my head, kissing her and licking the dough off. Her breath ca and she stills, her body taut. She tastes amazing, all beautiful fantasy a sweetness that is uniquely Molly. Heat rises until I feel like I'm one of cookies in the oven.

Part of me wants to be greedy and push her, but the tension vibratiinf. through her makes me pull back. I smile.

ed She flushes, pulls her lips in.

"You're right. It's delicious." I wink.

hes She giggles. "You didn't really get a taste of the dough." She raises by skin. spoon.

at my "I got something better."

Her cheeks grow rosier. Shyness and pleasure war on her face, but isn't retreating. My affection for her swells over her ability to shake of erile, sadness from last night and enjoy what life has to offer.

place Her phone vibrates on the counter.

y. "Is that the timer?" I ask.

"No. It's an alert from some of my friends on Instagram." She taps screen. A wistful sigh escapes her parted lips. "Look at these photos! ter, Everyone's having such a great time in Las Vegas."

t like a Vegas. "Yeah?"

She leans against the counter. "Yeah... There's a book signing. A l of my favorite authors are there."

"Why didn't you go?"

me like "Didn't have the money." She frowns. "It's sad because some of m favorite authors are coming, and it would've been amazing to stop by t ts and them and tell them how much I love their work. I'm sure they hear that hundreds of readers all the time, but I want to tell them myself. And the photos would've been great for my Bookstagram features." She sighs a "It would've been incredible to get autographed books, too. A couple of favorites said they'll have special editions of their latest releases in Ve "I see what you mean. Sorry you couldn't go."

"It doesn't matter. I'm having fun here with you instead." She smil standing next to the sunflowers I bought. Her expression is sunnier tha bright yellow blooms, and I can't tear my gaze from her.

It's disappointing that the trip to Vegas didn't work out, because w would've had fun there, too. But I appreciate her trying to look at thins

er

vipe it a half-full perspective. Life might throw some nasty punches, and she itches cry when they connect, but she's not the type to stay down.

nd a My girl is a fighter.

the The smell of fresh cookies starts to fill the kitchen. My place begin feel like a home and hearth rather than a really expensive piece of real I've never experienced hominess in all the years I've lived here, not ev when my brothers are over for one of our brunches.

The alarm on her phone goes off, and Molly puts on a mitten and to the cookies out. I reach for one.

s the "No, no!" She shoos me away. "You'll burn yourself. Give them so time to cool off."

I pull my hand back. "You mean I have to wait more?"

she "Yeah." She laughs. "Good things happen to those who exercise part the Didn't anybody tell you that?"

"Nope. My brothers told me I need to seize the day."

"You can seize all you want later."

That sounds suggestive, but before I can respond, the doorbell chin the Molly frowns and looks at me. "Did somebody just bypass the intercor "Yes." I stride to the foyer. Molly follows.

"Do you think it's Joey?"

"Better not be." I'll definitely dunk him in the pool. Maybe I shoul bunch get a couple of Uzis for home defense.

I open the door. Cody stands before us in a white I Heart Vegas Tand denim shorts. His black hair is limp without any styling products—overly fond of gel—and his clothes accentuate the lankiness of his franco meet pale face looks so young it's like somebody put a high school kid's heat from the body of a thirty-year-old. Next to him are seven neatly stacked care boxes.

"Hey, boss," he says cheerily. "Hello, Molly." He turns back to me everything you asked for." He starts to carry the boxes in. His moveme gas." measured and precise, and he doesn't appear to hurry. But he's so efficient that he moves more quickly than most people.

es, I help him bring the stuff inside. Molly makes as if to lift one, but I n the my head at her. "Leave them."

"I can help."

"I know, but you're supposed to let me carry the heavy things and gs from me while I flex my arms manfully."

might Cody makes a sound that sounds suspiciously like a snort.

"I already admire your body plenty," she says lightly.

"How can it be 'plenty' when you've never swooned?"

s to She laughs, then puts the back of her hand to her forehead and lets estate. long, soft sigh. "Oh my…" she says in a faux-Southern accent. "Is it he heah? Ah feel so dizzy…" She collapses bit by bit into a chair, then sque me through her fingers. "Satisfied?"

akes "Don't forget to say which of my body parts is making you swoon.

"All right. If Ah can mustah the energy while fanning mahself."

Once all the boxes are in the living room, I turn to Cody. "Thanks." "Thank you. I'll make good use for your jet for our honeymoon."

Cody isn't somebody I can force to work overtime without an outratience. bribe.

"And do I smell cookies?" He shoots me a wicked smile. "Can I ge one?"

I roll my eyes. "Not unless you want to die. Leave."

nes. "We could give him some. I made plenty," Molly says.

n?" "Just joking," Cody says. "I'm on a diet."

I wave him away, and he leaves with a soft chuckle.

"That's too bad about the diet."

d just I shake my head. Cody isn't dieting. He doesn't eat anything with I than a teaspoonful of sugar in any case. He was just messing with me l shirt he knows I like Molly. I wish Molly could accept how I feel about her –he's easily as Cody does.

ne. His "He can get a little silly. But he's a great assistant." I gesture at the ad on "Anyway, these're for you."

iboard "For me? What's the occasion?" She walks toward the boxes, her ϵ mine.

". "Got "Open one. You'll see." Vegas didn't work out the way I wanted, the ents are dying to see her reaction to my alternate plan.

She pulls the tape off one of the boxes, then gasps when she sees b inside. She pulls one out, flips the cover open and puts a hand over her

I shake mouth. "Oh my God! This is the special edition I was talking about! A autographed. And personalized!" She takes out another and checks it, picks up a third. "Are they all autographed?"

admire I nod. "I was actually going to take you to that event in Vegas, but ah, didn't exactly work out the way I had planned last night. So I sent ( to grab them for you."

She takes a step back, looking at the boxes. Then she turns and jun me with a cry of excitement, looping her limbs around my neck and water out a I hug her back, wrapping my arms around her and holding her tight ot in feels like sweet dreams and heaven. But the bright light in her eyes is taints at greatest reward.

"Happy belated birthday," I say, my heart pounding.

"But you already gave me a present."

"That was for Pre-Girlfriend Molly. These are for Girlfriend Molly She pulls back to look at me. Her lips tremble. Happiness, trepidati something else I can't put my finger on fleet over her beautiful face. I ageous such a tiny gesture, and she's already overwhelmed.

It's an inflection point in our relationship, one I need to take care we When people are too overcome, they start to retreat. Like a computer s down when it overheats.

"If you keep doing things like this, I might not want to stay fake." attempts a joke in a shaky voice.

Oh, baby, that's the plan. "You better get used to it, Molly. You're girlfriend now."

nore pecause
as boxes.
eyes on out I'm ooks nd it's then things, Cody

to grab them for you."

She takes a step back, looking at the boxes. Then she turns and jumps on me with a cry of excitement, looping her limbs around my neck and waist.

I hug her back, wrapping my arms around her and holding her tight. She feels like sweet dreams and heaven. But the bright light in her eyes is the greatest reward.

"Happy belated birthday," I say, my heart pounding.

"But you already gave me a present."

"That was for Pre-Girlfriend Molly. These are for Girlfriend Molly."

She pulls back to look at me. Her lips tremble. Happiness, trepidation and something else I can't put my finger on fleet over her beautiful face. I made such a tiny gesture, and she's already overwhelmed.

It's an inflection point in our relationship, one I need to take care with. When people are too overcome, they start to retreat. Like a computer shutting down when it overheats.

"If you keep doing things like this, I might not want to stay fake." She attempts a joke in a shaky voice.

Oh, baby, that's the plan. "You better get used to it, Molly. You're my girlfriend now."

Chapter Twenty-Three

Molly

Manifestation works, Georgia said. You focus on what you want and w it and it's yours.

I've given it a week, but it doesn't work. It's like the universe is punishing me for saying out loud what I wanted in my new apartment.

I do another search online early Saturday morning, hoping that the realtors and apartment management companies updated their listings. I all, aren't weekends the prime time to show vacant units?

But everything that pops up is out of my price range, too far from v in areas I wouldn't feel comfortable driving through, much less living haven't looked for a place to rent in a couple of years, but I don't reme my last search being this difficult.

I pick up my phone to whine to my bestie.

- -Me: Argh! It's so frustrating! I can't find a new apartment! It's lil city doesn't have anywhere for a young woman to live!
- -Georgia: Sorry to hear that. But it's not life or death. Just crash at Nicholas's place a little longer.
 - –Me: But I feel so wrong here.

Nicholas keeps doing things that confuse me. I keep feeling like I c be his real girlfriend. And I'm afraid I'm alone in this delusion. A little distance between us might clarify things, but it's impossible when we' living together.

-Georgia: Why? Does Nicholas walk around naked or something?

My face heats. If he did, I'd just turn into a puddle of hot need and There's only so much sensory overload my body can process...

-Me: No. He's a total gentleman. You know that.

Which is a problem. For me. Living with Nicholas makes me realized a closet pervert...probably. There's an awful, naughty side of me that he would be a little less gentlemanly. I wouldn't mind it if he pushed no against the wall like in that hot scene from Wrong Jersey Right Guy.

He wouldn't even have to be actively less gentlemanly. Like he couso bad at tying a towel around his hips that it slipped off every now an ish for again...

But no. He's annoyingly great at tying towels, and he's always cou and considerate. He even helped me find a few books that were missin the boxes from Owen's place. I don't remember taking them out, but I must've done so. Some of my favorites—ones with lots of highlighted passages—turned up in the library and the living room.

At the same time, he keeps sending me flowers at Get Jacked. The work or come with notes in a foreign language. Each day there's a new language in. I can tell because the writing is different. Then in the afternoon he'll sen the cutest cupcakes or truffles, also with mysterious messages. I keep t all to read on our one hundredth day together.

The little gestures make me feel cherished and important—because thinking of me, even when he's busy at work. If I didn't know better, I see this he likes me, but I just can't believe it.

He must be acting in case we ever run into someone one us of know Joey invades his home again. It's just that Nicholas is so convincing the keep forgetting he doesn't mean any of it.

-Georgia: You're right. He's always really proper. I've occasional would wondered what kind of woman could shake that composure.

re Yeah, you and me both. Maybe one of those hot actresses or model shake him up. I can totally picture it. They're glamorous enough to ma effortless magnetism and panache.

Speaking of which... I need to figure out what I'm going to wear to gala. I don't have anything sleek like what his other dates have worn to similar events. My closet consists of clothes I picked up from thrift sto die.

2

After

clearance racks. They're nice, but not good enough for the kind of functional Nicholas goes to. Well, there's what Dad bought for me, but those dress too small—and not very flattering because of that.

I don't want to embarrass Nicholas by underdressing. I need somet ze I'm spectacular, something that will wow. My gaze drops to my hands. At wishes my nails are nice. But that's not much of a consolation at the moment.

ne Definitely time to go emergency shopping. It's too bad Georgia's c the country. She loves shopping almost as much as chocolate and readiald be And she'd know the kind of high-end stuff I need.

Argh. I dig my fingers into my hair. I shouldn't have been procrast out of fear and uncertainty, but what do I know about high fashion or forteous clothes? I've glanced at Vogue, but the stuff the magazine features isn't g from anything I'm ever going to be able to wear and feel comfortable in. Be do I want to spend twenty-six thousand dollars I don't have on a dress looks like malformed cotton candy?

I could ask Cody for help, but that seems wrong. He's Nicholas's assistant, not mine. And even if he gave me some suggestions, being a afford the items is another matter.

I'm just putting my phone down when Georgia sends me a photo. I hem screencap of Owen's latest post.

he is'd say ws—or

Getting ready to take my girl to the charity gala tonight. They're going to auction off a date with my fiancée—which normally I wouldn't allow, lol, but it's all for a good cause.

Is he coming to the gala Nicholas and I are attending? Probably, I with a sinking feeling. How many charity galas are happening tonight? And he's going to bring Dana.

Dad's disapproving voice rings in my head. You had your chance t s could better, Molly.

tch his How long does it take to develop food poisoning? I could eat an iff in the next hour...

Wait. Would that give Nicholas enough time to find an alternate dathe gala? He won't want to show up solo.

res and

-Georgia: His smug-ass posts are pissing me off. "My fiancée" this sees are fiancée" that. :puke-emoji: I can't believe he got invited to the Pryce Foundation gala. I thought that family had better taste.

hing —Me: They probably just want his money.

Maybe this is why he felt the need to dump me so abruptly. He did out of want to take me as his plus-one and ruin his "personal brand" in front (ing. the rich and important people.

inating —Georgia: Ha, he wishes! They laugh at his kind of money. He isn' ancy or important enough to be invited. Nikki told me everyone wants to be their good side.

sides, —Me: What's so special about them? that

And what do I need to do to make sure I get on their good side? Or least their neutral side. I don't want to do anything to embarrass Nicho ble to jeopardize his relationship with them.

-Georgia: They're old money. Not like Hollywood, even though R Reed is some kind of cousin. And they married into other important an families. Like the Sterlings of the Sterling & Wilson fortune. They're somehow connected to the Lloyds too, I think.

I don't know anything about those people—other than Ryder Reed course, since he's a huge movie star—but I understand they're influent The kind of people Nicholas would like to be friendly with.

My anxiety about the evening shoots up high enough to go into ort decide being cooped up in my room solves nothing. I need to get a caffeine be and figure out what I'm going to do. The iffy eggs option is sounding a good about now. Maybe Joey or Cody can find Nicholas an emergency date.

When I get downstairs, Nicholas is making coffee. He and I both p by egg have a slower start on weekends.

Several sips of the fresh brew later, my brain is functioning better. with better brain function comes a better mood. I can probably splurge bit on the dress I need. Look at all the money I'm saving on rent and u I put bagel slices for us in the toaster. It can brown four at once.

s, "my Nicholas puts a black AmEx on the counter and slides it over to me what you need for tonight—dress, shoes, jewelry, purse. The works." I waves negligently. "Whatever you like."

I stare at the card while my accountant brain redoes the math to fac shoes, accessories and a purse into my budget. Is there anything okay i accessory collection? Do I need to get diamonds? Can anybody tell if cubic zirconia instead? "But you're already doing so much."

He frowns. "My dates don't spend their own money to go out with "They don't?" Does this mean I have to wear the kind of thing his t rich previous dates wore?

on "It isn't that much money, Molly."

That jerks me back to the conversation—and the list of things he as me to buy. "Jewelry isn't that much money?" I don't know what kind of his previous women splurged on, but he's got to be joking here.

Or they took advantage of him, which I have trouble believing. He las or sharp and capable. He probably looked the other way.

He shrugs. "Maybe they didn't buy jewelry with my money. Some them."

"That's what I thought." Nicholas is too perfect to be somebody's and rich "So what's the real budget?"

"The budget is: you buy whatever you want for the gala. And if yo haven't hit the credit limit, treat yourself to some books or whatever el feel like grabbing." He smiles.

, of I pick up the card and consider its cool surface. The centurion in th tial. middle gazes off into the distance. "Is there any limit on one of these?" "Not that I've found."

oit. But "So..."

n't

of all

"So I guess you can buy all the books and chocolate you want."

really He's joking... Right? Except his expression is dead serious. Like a fake informing you you're having a heart attack.

Maybe his calm steadiness hides how frivolous he is with money. (refer to other hand, he's really rich. So it honestly might not matter if he gets a new truck or offers to buy me whatever I want. Actually, considering t And relative levels of our wealth, his spending five or six figures like this is quite amy cheering myself up by picking up a pretty lipstick from Walmart.

tilities. And he's probably worried that I won't be able to afford something enough to match up to the rest of the gala's guests. The family hosting

2. "Get event might be more important to him than I thought.

But the thing that really decides me is—I'd rather choke on cat vor than look shabby next to Dana. She has the better body and face, but I to do what I can to close the gap. I don't want Nicholas to look at her a begin to wonder what the heck he's doing with me.

I get "Is there any particular store you want me to hit?" I have no idea w get something suitable. The kind of place you'd take your fake boyfrie me." black AmEx to, so you can shine like proper arm candy.

He looks at me blankly, then picks up his phone. He starts tapping screen. "Let's find you a consultant."

He keeps tapping and tapping, then mutters, "That cocksucker." Firsked he stops and smiles.

of stuff "Okay, so I couldn't find a personal shopper on this short notice, be of my sisters-in-law is going to go with you. Lucie is nice, so hopefully 's too you'll hit it off."

of  sucker. When I reach the exclusive boutique Nicholas told me about, I sud realize that his "sister-in-law Lucie" is actually Lucienne Peery of Peeru still Diamonds. It seems impossible, but the towering height, the gorgeous se you with cool blue eyes...

It's her.

Although I don't follow celebrity news closely, everyone has heard and seen her photos. She's infamous in some ways. The woman has gr more gossip sites than anybody I can think of.

Plus, a few months ago the Internet was crazy with the news that he father had been convicted of a bunch of financial crimes, and her ex-doctor boyfriend had stolen from her company. Her life is like a soap opera year't tear your eyes from. It was plastered all over the TVs in the gym, on the saw a few segments. Plus, Georgia followed it religiously, saying she a brand-knew Lucienne Peery was a good woman.

he "Nobody's as one-dimensional as the media makes it sound," Geor slike said.

If Dad were here, he'd fall to his knees. Lucienne is exactly the kin daughter he wishes I could be. Tall, fashionable, accomplished and bri with unshakable confidence.

A royal-purple dress and nude stilettos look incredible on her. Disc nit rubies and diamonds glitter on her ears and throat. A string of rubies ar want one slim ankle glints as she struts toward me like the world's hottest m on her finger is a stunning sapphire and diamond ring and a white gold wedding band with diamonds encrusted on it.

There to I feel grossly underdressed by comparison. I should've selected nd's something better than a pink cotton baby tee, denim skirt and black sar At least my toenails are pretty...

the "So you're Molly!" Lucienne says cheerfully.

I manage to smile. "Hello, Lucienne. So nice to meet you."

nally "Please, call me Lucie. Nicholas told me everything. So you're tog Her eyes sparkle.

ut one Does she know I'm just a fake girlfriend? "Seems that way."

"How exciting. Let's get you dressed for the gala. I'm so sad I'm g miss it. If I'd known Nicholas would be attending with his girlfriend, I would've never agreed to a dinner date with my husband." She might I want to have a date night with her husband tonight, but the flush in her cheeks betrays how much she loves him.

denly "I don't think hanging out at a gala is worth forgoing a romantic till with your husband." I'm not worth giving up a couple's night out.

"Yes, but Sebastian said it's a big deal that Nicholas is bringing a girlfriend. He doesn't really date."

We aren't really dating, either, but I keep that to myself. The first 1 of her fake dating is you don't let others know you're fake-dating.

She leads me into the store, her stilettos clacking quietly on the pal golden tiles. Fancy chandeliers glow over us. A few clerks nod in gree

Finally, she waves at a slim Asian woman in an ivory scoop-neck t and black pencil skirt. "Julie, can you please show us something suitab friend Molly here is going to the Pryce Foundation charity gala tonight want her to outshine everyone at the event."

The woman smiles. "Of course. This way. Would you like some refreshments?"

'gia "A mimosa for me. How about you?"

"Um... I'll have the same." It's probably safe to follow Lucie's lead of I expect to try on multiple dresses until I'm exhausted from taking on and off. But it doesn't work that way. Lucie and I sit on a loveseat values glossy catalogues spread out in front of us. Two racks with dresses stars our left, and I look at the photos, wondering if I'm supposed to select a reet After a couple of mimosas, a lot of things seem fantastic. ound:

Julie says, "Given her curves and coloring—it's probably best if w ιodel. to bold shades and simple cuts." f

"The fabric has to be right, though," Lucie murmurs. "Something s Maybe chiffon...?"

idals. "Of course."

> Julie picks out six photos. Lucie taps her chin with a well-manicure index finger then looks at me. "What do you think?"

I think I'm overwhelmed. I smile. "They all look great."

"But I think maybe these two would be the best." She points to a si ether." slinky blue dress and a red one with a fitted top and a side slit.

I don't have what it takes to pull off the blue one, but maybe the ot joing to will be okay. "Let's try the red."

"Fantastic choice." Lucie nods.

Julie leads me to the dressing room, where the red dress is already 10t hanging inside. I change into it. The dress has a built-in bra with surpri good support. The fabric on this dress isn't so thin that it shows panty so that's good, too. ne

I study myself in the mirror. The outfit's glamorous and fits well, t feel kind of awkward. Like a little girl dressing up with adult clothes. I never tried on a dress this beautiful, and I don't know if I can do it just

When I come out, Lucie nods approvingly. "That looks really good rule of you, Molly."

"You think?" e "Yes. It's perfect. I love it." ting.

Her smile is so genuine, my anxiety starts to ease. unic

She says, "But you need shoes—something that will add at least th ole? My inches to your height. And jewelry. This look won't be complete with t. I necklace."

"And chandelier earrings," Julie adds.

"Correct. Diamonds and platinum. I can arrange for those, of cours Lucie grins at me. "Aren't we awesome to pick out the best dress so fa Her good humor is contagious, and my mood lightens. "We are." Lucie's grin gets wider. "Julie, can you select proper lingerie to go things the dress and shoes? She's going to need a clutch as well. Something c with and timeless." nd to ıd.

1 few. "Of course." Julie turns to instruct her staff.

I take my seat next to Lucie. "Wow. That was...fast."

e stick "I don't believe in wasting time shopping. It should be as efficient possible. After all, shopping is the least important aspect of our prep."

"There's more?" I ask in shock. What else did Nicholas's previous spend money on?

"Uh-huh. A spa. Get a nice massage and pamper yourself. A facial help, too."

"Nicholas didn't mention any of that." He said "dress, shoes, jewel purse," although later he said the jewelry was a joke. Sort of.

uper- Lucie scoffs. "Just because a man forgets something, doesn't mean don't deserve it. He gave you a credit card, right?"

her I nod.

nit I

've

ice. l on e."

st?"

"Well, then. It's all good."

And she drags me to a spa. I mean, it's called a "spa," but it's more place to do everything you could possibly need to get ready for an ever isingly out. I probably shouldn't spend Nicholas's money like this, even thoug lines, said I could charge whatever I wanted.

But when Lucie told me what a facial can do—make me glow—I couldn't resist. I really want to be pretty for the event. I don't want pec think Owen did the right thing on my birthday. And I don't need peopl look at me and Nicholas and conclude that he totally could've done be

After a warm soak and massage, I come out of the treatment room a tea break. My skin feels softer, and I already feel more relaxed. I spo in her robe drinking herbal tea at a small, round table. She's chatting w black-haired woman in a robe, then notices me and waves.

"There you are. How was it?"

ree "Great." I smile, taking an empty seat.

out a "Let me introduce you. Ceinlys, this is Molly. Molly, Ceinlys."

The other woman extends her hand, lifting intense blue-green eyes regard me. "How do you do?" Her voice is soft and cultured. She's fre makeup, fancy clothes and jewelry, but her presence speaks of quiet confidence and glamor. If she were a perfume, she'd be one of those u expensive and feminine scents nobody can resist.

with I shake her hand. "Nice to meet you."

lassy "So you're Nicholas's girlfriend."

I flush. "You know him?"

"We socialize from time to time. Lucie mentioned that the two of y be making a public appearance together for the first time."

as "Ah, yeah." The spa staff comes over with a menu, and I ask for he ginger tea, which arrives promptly. I take a small, careful sip. It's sweed dates delicious. "That's why I'm here." I take another sip. "To get ready."

Ceinlys's eyebrows rise. "You're nervous."

should "A little, yeah." "Why?"

ry and Why? "Because he's just...perfect. I'm..." I take a third sip. "I'm j me." My face grows warm.

We Ceinlys smiles. She can probably tell I'm not the kind of woman w frequents places like this. I've never even been to a spa before. Or had "exfoliating and rejuvenating" soak.

I resist the urge to fidget. My sympathy for the animals at Furry Halike a triples. This must be how they feel when somebody walks in to adoptning desperate need to be deemed good enough to be accepted the way they "You remind me of myself," Ceinlys finally says. "From a long tin of course."

I stare at her, not believing my ears. How could I have anything in pple to common with this ultra-glamorous woman?

e to "Don't look so shocked, my dear. Not all of us are born into wealth tter. Some marry into it." She smiles. "If Nicholas loves you and wants you to take by his side, then that's all that matters. Provided, naturally, that you ad t Lucie him in return."

of course I adore him. But the problem is I'm not sure how he feel if it's going to last for more than a few weeks. Owen dumping me hurt Nicholas dumping me would be devastating.

Come on, girl. It's fake dating, fake dumping and fake devastating. Except an odd stutter in my heart says nothing feels fake with Nich to e of ltra-

"We socialize from time to time. Lucie mentioned that the two of you will be making a public appearance together for the first time."

"Ah, yeah." The spa staff comes over with a menu, and I ask for hot ginger tea, which arrives promptly. I take a small, careful sip. It's sweet and delicious. "That's why I'm here." I take another sip. "To get ready."

Ceinlys's eyebrows rise. "You're nervous."

"A little, yeah."

"Why?"

Why? "Because he's just...perfect. I'm..." I take a third sip. "I'm just me." My face grows warm.

Ceinlys smiles. She can probably tell I'm not the kind of woman who frequents places like this. I've never even been to a spa before. Or had an "exfoliating and rejuvenating" soak.

I resist the urge to fidget. My sympathy for the animals at Furry Haven triples. This must be how they feel when somebody walks in to adopt—the desperate need to be deemed good enough to be accepted the way they are.

"You remind me of myself," Ceinlys finally says. "From a long time ago, of course."

I stare at her, not believing my ears. How could I have anything in common with this ultra-glamorous woman?

"Don't look so shocked, my dear. Not all of us are born into wealth. Some marry into it." She smiles. "If Nicholas loves you and wants you to be by his side, then that's all that matters. Provided, naturally, that you adore him in return."

Of course I adore him. But the problem is I'm not sure how he feels—or if it's going to last for more than a few weeks. Owen dumping me hurt. Nicholas dumping me would be devastating.

Come on, girl. It's fake dating, fake dumping and fake devastating. Except an odd stutter in my heart says nothing feels fake with Nicholas.

Chapter Twenty-Four

Nicholas

The limo moves in a stately manner through the L.A. traffic. More acc the chauffeur is trying for stately, but the pace is more suited to a snail

Lucie texted and asked me to pick Molly up from a spa for the gala said Molly would be fully massaged, made up and ready for the evenir I'm inside the vehicle, checking my texts, all casual and cool. But my beating double time, and every cell in my body roils with restless energy

This is going to be our first night out together.

I spent over an hour debating which tux to wear. What cologne to I —or if I should bother with it at all. Which watch and cuff links to sele

I settled on Armani—because it's classic—and nothing for cologne because none of the scents seemed acceptable. A watch from Harry Wand cuff links from Sebastian Jewelry with emeralds in the center becashade reminds me of Molly's eyes.

Then I picked out a bouquet with lisianthus and sweet pea—Molly favorite flowers.

My phone buzzes with another text from Huxley.

-Huxley: I'd give a kidney to be going to the charity gala tonight v you.

-Me: Why? You don't like those things that much.

He goes to a select few high-society functions purely for networkir doesn't care that much about schmoozing with the city's rich and powersince he is one.

-Huxley: Yeah, but my grandmother wants to see me. To discuss the proper course for my life.

That's Huxley's grandma-speak for "see the light and join the fami firm, my dear, ideally sooner rather than later." His mother's side of th family takes their legal dynasty seriously.

- -Emmett: Guess you telling her, "I've already given my name to the What more do you want?" didn't go over well?
- -Huxley: You should've seen her face. She would've shot me if sh had a gun. I apologized before she could get up to grab one.
 - -Noah: I didn't know she owned a gun.
- urately, —Huxley: She has an impressive collection. A crack shot, too. If lift a western, she'd be the bad-ass gunslinger everyone cowered around.
- i. She —Noah: If you send a hefty check to the foundation, your accountaing. So thank you for another tax deduction. Then you can tell her you're pracheart is tax law, LOL.
- gy. —Huxley: Yeah, that'd go over well. Asshole. You're just laughing because your family doesn't try to tell you what to do.

out on

he

- Herding feral cats would be easier than trying to get Noah to do something he didn't want to. Hell, half the time, you can't even get hir inston, what he does want. Like finishing the novel he started back in... I can't use the remember when.
- 's —Emmett: I sent some money, too, since I can't go. Monique needs and Amy apparently has to work late. I don't know why, but I'm sure (does.
- Little Monique is their daughter. Amy works at GrantEm, a venture capital firm founded by Emmett and Grant. She used to report to Emm after marrying him, she switched bosses to avoid any appearance of favoritism. But anybody who knows how smart and hardworking she is recognizes she's legitimately earned every promotion and bonus.
 - —Grant: It has nothing to do with me. I told her she didn't have to, said she wanted to get the project done today. She probably doesn't tru Larry. He fucked up once before, and she had to come in and fix it.
 - -Emmett: Can we fire him?

-Grant: You'll have to take it up with her, since he started to reportly law her.

e

Grant isn't getting himself stuck between Emmett and Amy. He isr stupid.

ie firm.

—Sebastian: Don't be so sad about missing it. I can't go either. Got e'd date with Luce.

I can just hear Seb's laughter.

e were

-Emmett: Stop rubbing it in.

-Sebastian: I wasn't rubbing. Just pouring the salt, but not rubbing ticing Speaking of dates, she told me Nicholas's girl is a babe.

Not just a babe. A goddess. My goddess.

–Noah: So you finally went for it. Good for you.

-Me: She's divine.

n to do —Griffin: So what changed?

t even —Me: She's not with that guy anymore.

Who didn't deserve her in the first place. What an asshole. Not goome, bed—yeah, right. Bet his dick is too soft to do the job.

Grant Actually, no. I'm not going to think about her and her ex in bed. It' nauseating.

- e —Noah: I don't know why you let something like another guy get in ett, but way for so long. Boyfriends can be disposed of. Which you apparently because she's with you, not him.
- s —Me: She was also too young.
 - -Sebastian: How young?
 - -Griffin: Jail bait?

but she —Me: Eight years younger.

-Emmett: WTF? You serious?

- -Sebastian: I think I just peed my pants laughing.
- -Me: Shut up.

t to —Grant: You're sad, bro.

-Griffin: It's only eight years.

-Me: That's almost a decade.

1't —Sebastian: So? She's legal.

-Me: You don't understand. I met her at her high school graduation still had some baby fat, for God's sake! I was in my mid-twenties!

a hot And my attraction to her felt criminal.

-Sebastian: Again, so? Luce is nine years younger.

-Me: Congratulations, cradle robber.

-Noah: Gotta up your game, Nicholas. Need some tips?

—Me: The day I seek relationship advice from you is the day my dc it in. takes me off life support. How many croissants did you get from Bobb Sweet Things, slick?

For some reason, Bobbi has decided she doesn't like Noah and refulet him buy croissants from her bakery. It's been an ongoing battle for because he's become even more determined to get them.

-Noah: Three! Ha!

-Grant: Only because Aspen bought them for him.

-Noah: Traitor!

od in —Grant: Hey, she deserves the credit.

–Me: I knew it! Tell Aspen to quit buying them for him, because wBobbi finds out, she might quit selling them to her. Dough before bros

The limo pulls up in front of the spa Lucie mentioned.

ı your did, —Me: I'm about to pick my girl up now. You all behave.

–Noah: Make an impression she'll never forget! I have some sugge if you need help.

Shaking my head, I put the phone away as the chauffeur opens the Noah's "suggestions" are bound to get me into trouble.

I step out with the bouquet and shoot my cuffs. I walk into the lobt which is its own world of crystal, marble and soothing music. Althoug Lucie called it a spa, it also offers services like hair, facials and makeu get a woman ready for a fancy night out. I wouldn't have thought of something like this. I make a mental note to send something nice to Lu thank her. Molly deserves to be pampered in every way.

Just as I'm about to speak to the receptionist, Molly appears. I turn n. She stare, feeling like somebody's blowing millions of bubbles into my hea

She glows like the sun. The brilliant smile on her beautiful face magrin in return. A long scarlet dress with a sexy side slit that climbs to n thigh wraps around her curves like a dream, and her wide eyes shine lifinest emeralds. The stylist curled her hair, which now bounces around shoulders. A stunning set of diamonds hangs from her ears and neck—probably Lucie's selection.

octor I'm losing my heart to Molly...all over again.

i's "How do I look?" She spreads her arms, the gesture full of shy expectation.

You look so good I want to hold you and dance under the moon. The uses to want to kiss you and peel you out of that dress. Love you until you come him and over again, your body quivering under mine. "Perfect."

She presses her lips together for a moment, like she can't believe it smiles like she's trying to power the entire city.

I remember the bouquet. "Here. For you."

Her eyes widen in delight. "Thank you!"

She looks at me like I've given her the world. For another such expression, I would lay it at her feet.

hen "Can we swap out your jewelry?" I ask.

Her smile loses some wattage as she runs her fingers over the stone around her neck. "You don't like it?"

"Lucie has excellent taste, but I actually brought something for the evening."

I signal one of the receptionists, and she takes us to an airy resting estions with a huge lounger and an armchair. Golden tiles and satiny ivory wal enhance the feminine feel of the chamber, and a huge vanity with a spondirror sits against the wall to our left.

door. I have her sit in the lounger as I pull out boxes with the pastel-blue Sebastian Jewelry logo on the lids. These are the pieces I've commission, over the years.

h Molly looks at them curiously, and I smile. "They're one-of-a-kind p to for a one-of-a-kind girl."

The loveliest shade of rose colors her cheeks. I gently pull off the chandelier earrings, then replace them with drop earrings made with st of diamonds that end with single teardrop-shaped rubies. She tilts her l, then study them better, then smiles up at me. "They're gorgeous. Thank you "We're not done yet."

Ikes me My fingers brush against her as I undo the necklace clasp. The puls hid the side of her neck flutters under the delicate skin. I lay Lucie's diamonal the cushion next to her and pick up a diamonal and ruby necklace that I like a veil made with bursting stars. I wrap it around her throat. She look her reflection, then meets my eyes in the mirror. Holding them, I kiss to little bumps of bone on the back of her neck. Desire pours through me heated honey taste of her, and I can't help breathing a little harder. I nit tender skin with the edge of my teeth. The air fans over her neck, send shiver through her entire body. She shifts her legs.

She feels something for me, even if it's something as simple and base over lust.

I want to thread my fingers into her hair and kiss her hard. I wish we, then didn't have to go to the damn auction, but I said I'd take her, and I don to break a promise to her, no matter how small. Nothing she expects fr is inconsequential.

"You're perfect." I press a last kiss on her neck before tossing the diamonds into the jewelry boxes and offering her my arm. She lays her there. It feels right to have it in the crook of my elbow, to have her wal with me like she belongs by my side.

I plan to keep her there.

room llpaper otless

S

oned

l pieces

The loveliest shade of rose colors her cheeks. I gently pull off the chandelier earrings, then replace them with drop earrings made with strings of diamonds that end with single teardrop-shaped rubies. She tilts her head to study them better, then smiles up at me. "They're gorgeous. Thank you."

"We're not done yet."

My fingers brush against her as I undo the necklace clasp. The pulse on the side of her neck flutters under the delicate skin. I lay Lucie's diamonds on the cushion next to her and pick up a diamond and ruby necklace that looks like a veil made with bursting stars. I wrap it around her throat. She looks at her reflection, then meets my eyes in the mirror. Holding them, I kiss the little bumps of bone on the back of her neck. Desire pours through me at the heated honey taste of her, and I can't help breathing a little harder. I nip the tender skin with the edge of my teeth. The air fans over her neck, sending a shiver through her entire body. She shifts her legs.

She feels something for me, even if it's something as simple and basic as lust.

I want to thread my fingers into her hair and kiss her hard. I wish we didn't have to go to the damn auction, but I said I'd take her, and I don't want to break a promise to her, no matter how small. Nothing she expects from me is inconsequential.

"You're perfect." I press a last kiss on her neck before tossing the diamonds into the jewelry boxes and offering her my arm. She lays her hand there. It feels right to have it in the crook of my elbow, to have her walk out with me like she belongs by my side.

I plan to keep her there.

Chapter Twenty-Five

Nicholas

The Aylster Hotel's Grand Ballroom is a great venue for a charity auct The Pryce Family Foundation's head, Elizabeth Pryce-King, champior types of worthy causes, and the woman has an incredible talent for squ funds from the wealthy with the right words and a smile.

The theme of tonight's event is Better Local. Elizabeth has raised hundreds of millions of dollars to build schools in Lebanon and Egypt, bring critical care to parts of the world without sufficient medical infrastructure. But now she's focusing on improving Los Angeles. Ton bachelorette auction will be unique. Instead of one or two causes that t foundation chose, the bachelorettes can direct the proceeds from their winning bids to a charity of their choice. The new system has created r enthusiasm and excitement from the participants.

Thankfully, Molly won't be part of the auction. I checked. Furry H already has a bachelorette—Dana Mincer.

I just want to give Molly a chance to dress fancy, sip expensive champagne and have fun. She highlighted passages from some of her t about lavish social functions, so she must be particularly interested in t

She highlighted a lot of sex scenes, too. I've committed those to m as well. If she's interested, so am I.

The moment Molly and I enter the ballroom, many sets of male eyeswing toward her. They openly trace her curves.

One by one, I catch their eyes and hold contact until they look awa generally doesn't take long. I have a reputation for being steady and ev tempered. But that makes my confrontational body language that much scarier.

"Do you know these people?" Molly whispers. "Should we go say "I do, but we're going to ignore them."

A beat. "You aren't going to introduce me?"

"Why would I do that?" An introduction would result in their checker out at close range, and I might end up poking their lecherous eyebaright back into their brains.

A shadow fleets across her face. She drops her eyes, then looks aro distractedly. "Right. We're not, like...really dating. It'd be kinda awky Shit. She took it the wrong way. "That's not the reason. Those men wolves in tuxedos. Cavemen with clubs. Except that cavemen are hone They just grunt and beat each other up. But these guys fake it all the til They aren't good for you."

ion. She finally looks at me again, and the eye contact loosens the knot belly. "Aren't they your friends?"

eezing "Not when they're looking at you like they'd like to screw you right on the hotel floor."

She gasps and slaps my arm. "They are not!"

to I shake my head. "If only you could read men's minds..."

"The only one I want to read is yours."

ight's "Me? I'm an open book."

he She laughs. But before I can enjoy her good humor, a large guy in opens his arms to hug her. "Oh, hey! I didn't know you were going to here."

I narrow my eyes. He seems familiar.

aven She gazes up at him in amazement. "Arturo?"

The name jogs my memory. Arturo Morales. The youngest son of Esteban Morales, a popular movie star who owes his career to Dad. Es is a womanizer—just like Dad—and his sons seem to be competing to them. who can screw more women than their father.

emory Arturo moves closer. Before he can hug her, I draw Molly toward I wrap a possessive arm around her shoulders. No way you're touching I es Arturo probably breathes STDs. I'm not letting him put his filthy, dise hands on my Molly.

y. It She gives me a curious look, but remains flush by my side. The feet renher soft body pressed against me is soothing. But if I were a wolf, I'd baring my teeth at Arturo.

"What are you doing here?" she asks, looking him up and down.

hello?" I resist the urge to put a hand over her eyes. "You know this guy?" Esteban and his boys hang out with certain types, which Molly—thank —doesn't fit.

"Sure. He's the new personal trainer I told you about. You know, the who took me to lunch?"

This is the asshole? He got cookies out of her for it, too. She told nound took some to work to share with him, although I bet they weren't what vard." really wanted to eat. "What are you doing working at a gym? Don't yo money from your father?" My tone might be smooth, but my eyes are mocking.

me. Arturo's face twists with disgust. "Nah, bro. He cut me off for six months."

"Get your dick stuck in a goat's ass?" Arturo's older brother suppo had that happen. A few badly focused pictures went viral a couple of y ago, and Esteban wasn't amused. Noah, who brought it to all of our att at a brunch, wanted to know why people didn't buy phones with better cameras.

Molly gapes, while Arturo turns red. He gives me a why-you-gotta that-up? glare. "I totaled a brand-new Lambo."

"Too bad it didn't total your dick," I mutter.

a tux "It wasn't a big deal, bro. The cops didn't say anything." His eyes be Molly, gauging her reaction. He must not like what he's seeing. "Anyv was good seeing you, Molly. We'll catch up later."

"Yeah, sure." She waves.

He struts away like he owns the hotel. He probably doesn't feel particularly ashamed of his behavior—or his family's. Money and fam teban to put a thick coat of Teflon over you.

see I grab a couple of flutes from a server and hand one to Molly. "Just closely do you work with him?"

me and "Not very. I'm an accountant, and he's a trainer. I spend most of m ny girl. in my little office." She sips her champagne. "Did he do something to ased "Yes." He breathes near you.

"Oh. But you aren't, like, enemies or anything...?"

"No." If I considered him my enemy, he'd be dead...at least figura Hopefully he's at the tail end of the six months of punishment, so he'll his gig at the gym soon. "Let's introduce you to the hostess, by the way should be around. She likes to personally say hello to everyone who at

We wander around a bit and soon find Elizabeth Pryce-King talkin small group of businessmen. She's a pretty blonde with sleet-colored e and an angelic smile that never fails to put you at ease. When she speal he one you, it's as though you're the absolute center of her universe. It's a tric Mom can do when she puts her mind to it, but with Elizabeth there's n the she whimsy or over-the-top drama. She's in a modestly cut white dress that he manages to show off the lean lines of her body. She excels at navigating the line between classy and sexy.

Given the enormous charitable projects she's spearheaded, some be she's a saint walking among us, but I don't buy that. She runs her foun with an iron fist—a charitable iron fist, but an iron fist nonetheless. A who was merely nice wouldn't be able to manage it. Her family's foun is one of a few charities I don't mind giving money to because most of funds actually go toward helping the needy, rather than paying for overention and cushy salaries.

She excuses herself and turns to us. "Nicholas! So nice to see you. who is this lovely woman?" She turns to Molly. "I'm Elizabeth Pryce-bring- Nice to meet you."

"Molly Greene. A pleasure."

They shake hands.

are on "Oh yes, I heard about you from Aunt Ceinlys. She's around here vay, it somewhere. She'd probably like to say hello again."

Molly flushes. "She was very kind to me earlier."

"You didn't tell me you met her." I'm relieved that Molly had a go interaction with Ceinlys, who wields enormous influence. If she deems e tend boorish, social life in the upper crust can be difficult. I make a mental thank her for being nice to my Molly.

t how "You didn't ask." She gives me a sly grin.

Elizabeth smiles. "If she liked you, so will my uncle."

y time I'd be on the alert if I'd heard this a few years back. But Salazar Pr you?" has reformed himself, so he no longer tries to screw every female he so Dad could benefit from spending some time with him.

"Sorry to greet and run," Elizabeth says. "But I need to go say helltively. Ashley Aylster. She's here solo. So nice meeting you." She glides awa quit "She's really sweet," Molly says. "Thank—"

y. She "Nicholas! There he is!"

tends." I stiffen. Dad. I can't even pretend I didn't hear him and walk away g to a his hand is already slapping my shoulder.

yes I force a bland smile. "I didn't know this was your scene."

ks to "Are you kidding? Everything is my scene."

A redhead with boobs too big for her skinny frame clings to his arr has an average facial bone structure that any wannabe starlet could beat still her eyes are a stunning shade of blue. If it's their real color, I can see volg the Dad might find her interesting enough to hang out with, since it can't be brilliant conversation. She looks like she's eighteen. Hell, I hope she is eighteen. She gives Molly a stay-the-fuck-away-from-my-daddy look. dation Like Molly would want to be with someone like my dad.

woman I pull Molly closer, giving the redhead a don't-fuck-with-my-girlfr dation glare.

the "Where are my other sons?" Dad asks.

"They aren't coming. Didn't Joey tell you?" Joey stalks us on socia media and the news to find out what we're up to. That way, he can arra things like a helicopter ride for Dad to crash Grant's wedding—while l King. "Ride of the Valkyries."

"He fell down some stairs." Dad shakes his head, ruefully annoyed isn't sad Joey got hurt. He's sad that he's being inconvenienced.

"Who pushed him?" I ask.

"No one. He just tripped."

"So God pushed him."

yce

es.

"If He did, He did a pretty shoddy job. Joey only broke his foot and od sprained his wrist. He isn't as quick as he used to be, which is too bad. Syou finally zeroes in on Molly. "Who's this? Is this the same one from befuncte to The one from our phone call?"

How much should I say? Actually, is it even wise to introduce him Molly in person? He offered to put Aspen in a movie with lots of sex s Then he told Lucie he'd pay for a boob job—like she needs the plastic surgery! I don't want him saying something to upset Molly. Like offer pay for a nose job or something.

He squints as he studies her. "This one isn't the black-dress girl I so to with you last time. Her boobs weren't as perky. Unless she got a better y. Jesus.

Molly's mouth parts, and she blinks a couple of times.

"Don't be shy. I'm not weird. I make movies," Dad says. "I'm Ted y, since Lasker."

Ted Lasker is a synonym for "weird."

"Hi. I'm Molly. I'm...not weird, either." Her eyes are wide with w the-hell-do-I-do-now panic, while her mouth is desperately trying to m n. She a friendly smile.

it. But "What a lovely name."

"Thank you." Something beeps. She reaches into her clutch and fis be her her phone. "I need to take this." She can't hide her relief. "Excuse me. God must love me to pull her away from this mess. But His love is

Ugh. enough to save me as well.

"So, you makin' a baby with Bonnie?" Dad asks, leaning forward.

iend "Molly and I are not going to make a baby just to suit you."

He doesn't hear me. "Your mother wants one, too."

"The feeling will pass in a week or two." I'll buy her a new car. The should do the trick.

"No, it won't. She's hanging out with Rachel in Florence right now blaring Fuck. Griffin has triplets. They're impossibly cute, and I can only imagine the kind of grandbaby envy Mom's experiencing right now. N

. He should introduce Rachel to a barely legal boytoy who is hot and Instagrammable. That would distract her for sure. She can't stand bein alone, and loathes dating men her age. Griffin would thank me for it, to calls him to complain about her horrible life every time she's between boyfriends.

"You knock that Zoey up, the kid should come out lookin' pretty g
"Dad Says, like he's talking about cake. "She's hot in that wholesome w bre? Like I could cast her as a Midwest virgin-next-door everyone wants to I'm going to puke. Or punch Dad in the face. "Just stop—" to "You said you were going to cast me," the redhead interjects in an cenes. annoying nasal whine.

"Yeah, but not as a Midwest virgin. Nobody's going to buy that, ing to cupcake," he says. "You gotta stick to what you can pull off, know wh sayin'?"

aw "Then what?"

bra." He closes one eye and squints at her. "Hot strip-mall gas station attendant. Crack whore with a heart of gold. Like that."

"Really?" The woman starts hopping up and down, setting off seisl oscillations in her chest.

"Oh yeah. Straight to video and we'll sell a million copies, sweethed Dad has no idea what her name is. That kind of detail is what Joey hat
The saddest thing is the girl has no idea Dad doesn't mean any of it. He aintain does blockbuster movies that get shown in theaters all over the world.

Molly returns all too soon. Damn it. I was hoping she'd text and sa want to go home. Meet me in the lobby.

hes out "Everything okay?" Maybe things aren't okay—nothing serious, but maybe she couldn't find anything she wanted to munch on—so we cann't big "Yes." She smiles.

Dad brightens. "Glad you're back, Holly! I was just telling Nichola_"

"No," I say quickly, stepping between them.

Dad leans to the side. "I was just saying that—"

Owen and a blonde woman appear, disrupting my focus. Hands lin they're homing in on us like a pair of ICBMs. They both have the desp determined and hopeful look of someone who's just discovered a pot c at the end of a rainbow.

Iaybe I "Oh my gosh, Molly! I had no idea you were going to be here."
I might've thanked the man for interrupting my father if it weren't history with Molly.

Dad? He's speaking to her, but his eyes keep straying to my father.

Owen looks outright ridiculous. He's in an ill-fitting Armani tuxed ood," Probably grabbed whatever was left on sale because nobody would buy something that large across their shoulders—or he was deluded enough fuck." believe he could grow into the jacket.

But what's even more absurd is that he thinks Molly's going to be him after what he pulled on her birthday. In addition, he laid their entir relationship bare on social media and did his best to make her come ac pathetic and uncool. Dickhead.

at I'm Molly's mouth tightens. Finally, she looks at Owen like he's a fly o sushi. "Hello, Owen."

"You really cleaned up nice. Gotta say I'm surprised."

Son of a bitch. The light in Molly's eyes dims for a moment. I'm it to shove a few teeth down Owen's throat. But she lifts her chin. "Than That tux looks amazing on you. I can just feel your 'personal brand' ris we speak."

eart." I swallow a laugh and draw her tighter to me. That's my girl.

mic

is for. The bottle blonde thrusts a hand out at Molly to get her attention. I e only the woman Owen dumped Molly for? Her champagne-colored dress is tight, it looks like somebody poured molten gold over her. She's pretty y, I enough, but then, Los Angeles is full of "pretty enough" women who t they have what it takes to be the next Elizabeth Taylor.

Her eyes are hard and cold, and there's a hint of brittle desperation leave. betrays a deep sense of insecurity and need for attention. Owen is an ic threw away a diamond for a flake of quartzite.

"Hey, I'm Dana. You remember, right? We were friends in high sc the blonde says with a blinding smile.

"We were? The clearest memory I have of you from high school is calling me an ugly cow behind my back and laughing with your friend Molly says.

perately I like this blonde even less. Dad raises an eyebrow and sniffs.

ked, of gold She doesn't seem to register what Molly's saying. "Can you introd to your group?" She gestures around, but ends up pointing at Dad.

Oh, for God's sake. Do these two have no shame?

for his "You've got some balls interrupting my father when he was speaki me and my girlfriend." Dad hates being interrupted, and I want him to re for remember that Owen has committed the grave sin.

I also want to humiliate Owen and Dana for their horrible attempt to.

Molly. I haven't forgiven him for throwing her away like trash, even the it gave me the opening I needed to make my move. She didn't deserve have her heart trampled—much less publicly—on her birthday. She should've been made to feel like the most special person in the entire v civil to "Right. The mother of your child," Dad puts in.

"We'll see. But if I have kids, it'll be with Molly," I say with a thir ross as "I only want one woman."

Molly's eyes bounce back and forth between me and Dad like ping on her balls.

"Really sorry about your grandbaby-mama issues, but we were just shocked at running into an artistic genius such as yourself," Owen gust ching oblivious to the coming storm. "I've always admired you."

k you. The redhead glares at him like she'd love nothing more than to rip sing as hair off his scalp. The only reason she isn't giving in to the impulse is this is a classy kind of event, and Dad doesn't like it when the arm can makes a scene.

This is "Who the fuck do you think you are?" Dad says slowly, looking the so up and down.

Owen freezes, but manages to muster a syllable. "Huh?"

Dana doesn't bat an eye. But then, you have to be that shameless to demand an introduction to a Hollywood movie producer from your that boyfriend's ex, much less one you apparently mocked and bullied in hi liot. Heschool. "I'm Dana Mincer." She beams. "I've always admired your wo Apparently, she and Owen rehearsed the line.

hool!" Dad's expression is completely flat. "And?"

"I have about a million followers on Instagram. All the events I do you chosen with careful mindfulness to ensure I get maximum exposure. L tonight. People will see me and know I'm all about bettering our community."

Dad's left eyebrow is twitching—an ominous sign. I wonder if the uce us way to get some fresh popcorn?

"I think I'm ready to move on to bigger and better career opportuni Dana sticks her tits out.

In response, the redhead rubs hers against Dad's arm. It's like the I of the Bulges.

"No." Dad looks at Owen, then at her. "Nobody butts into my inne to use circle."

nough "We didn't—" Owen says.

to "Nobody contradicts me, either," Dad says.

That is true enough. He puts up with the attitude from me and my vorld. brothers because he knows we don't respect his fame or fortune. Plus v family. But from anyone else...?

1 smile. Owen might as well have plucked a lion's butt hair.

"Neither of you have star quality," Dad booms. His voice is so loughoon drawing attention. People around us turn to watch. It's always luridly fascinating to see somebody get reamed. "My God. You'd have to pay use you in a movie."

hes, "That can be arranged," Dana says hurriedly.

"But see, here's the problem. I don't want the humiliation of havin all the first flop of my long, illustrious career. If you're looking for bigger that opportunities..." His contemptuous gaze rakes Owen and Dana. "I hea dy Vegas whorehouses are hiring."

Gasps and titters rise from the crowd around us.

e duo The duo turn bright red. Molly's jaw drops, and she covers her mowith her hand. The redhead smiles smugly, apparently happy she mana hang on to Dad. Me? I'm impressed. Dad's always had a talent for invective, but th) better than I expected. I squeeze Molly's shoulder. Owen and Dana shoot her dirty looks, igh rk." this is somehow her fault. And for that little bit of contumely, I'm goin make them pay. are ike re's a ities." 3attle r we are d, it's me to g the r the

uth iged to hang on to Dad.

Me? I'm impressed. Dad's always had a talent for invective, but this is better than I expected.

I squeeze Molly's shoulder. Owen and Dana shoot her dirty looks, like this is somehow her fault. And for that little bit of contumely, I'm going to make them pay.

Chapter Twenty-Six

Molly

-Brenda: It's all set now. Thank you! You're an angel!

I smile at Brenda's text, then take a deep breath and pretend my pa aren't slick with sweat. I can't believe I agreed to auction myself off to But when Brenda reached out during my chat with Nicholas's dad and begged me...

Just the thought of Cooper, Sam, Cutie Penny and the rest of the ar whose perfect forever families are somewhere out there, and any resist drawing attention to myself crumbled.

Plus, I refuse to let Dana deprive the shelter of the funds it's been counting on. She was going to allocate her proceeds to the shelter, but changed her mind earlier this morning. When Brenda told me Dana is to direct the money toward a food bank, I knew exactly why she turned back on the animal shelter.

Owen.

The local food bank is his pet charity. He donates there regularly a constantly posts about it on his social media accounts. Says it boosts his likability.

It's a worthy cause, but it's wrong for him to yank the funding Furl Haven was promised by using his relationship with Dana.

I look up and see a man in his late thirties bid half a million for a d with a gorgeous brunette on the stage. Nobody outbids him, and she stodown from the stage with a huge smile and hugs the man.

I lean over and whisper to Nicholas, "That's the biggest amount so isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Wow." I start to lick my lips, then stop, remembering I'm wearing makeup. I fidget and have another champagne instead.

"What are you nervous about? Furry Haven's going to get the fund needs."

"Hopefully." I smile again. The thing is, I don't know who's going on me. Nobody here really knows me. And I'm not even that pretty conto the women who have already been on stage.

Maybe I should tell Brenda I can't do it. I can probably just give th shelter my savings and it'll be greater than what I can get from auction an evening.

"Are you okay?" Nicholas says.

"Yeah." Breathe, Molly, breathe. "I'm fine."

The emcee announces the next bachelorette's love of feeding the hand the crowd applauds to show its enthusiasm. But the cheers die abrunight. when Dana stands up.

Um... What's that about?

Dana looks around, then shrugs with the smile of a woman who kn limals she's desirable. But then, she's been the most popular girl all her life. I ance to might've cut her down a bit, but it wouldn't counteract a lifetime of minterest.

She gracefully mounts the stage as the emcee lists her accomplishn Oh...crap. I didn't give the organizers any information about myself.

going Is it too late to jot something down? Should I text Brenda and ask i l her provided my bio?

Dana sounds impressive. All those followers on Instagram. Her bra sponsorship deals. She poses well, too, just like she does at Get Jacked her makeup is perfect, bringing out her eyes and highlighting her cheel Her lips are pink and bee-stung, and the skintight golden dress shows a perfect body. For all I know, her friends could be here, taking photos for account.

But nobody makes an opening bid.

ate What's going on? I look around. The attendees didn't become sudcess. They didn't hold back earlier.

Dana's smile falters. The emcee leans into her mike. "All right, per far, let's get it going! What am I bid for this lovely young woman?"

Whispers ripple through the crowd. A few men look around. Nichc dad chats animatedly with his date, who smirks. He bid two hundred thousand for her and won half an hour ago.

nd

is ľy

Nicholas looks bored with the silence. When he notices me scannir ling it crowd, he smiles. "More champagne?"

"No, thanks." I can just see myself stumbling up the stairs to the state of the bid "Two thousand!" Owen calls out.

mpared It's easily the lowest bid of the evening. The others have generally out with at least ten thousand. But two thousand is pushing it for Ower still has that Ferrari to pay off.

ing off Dana turns as red as Owen's car. She starts to shake. It might've be better if he hadn't made his bid.

"We have two thousand." The emcee pauses. She isn't showing an sign of embarrassment, but her tight and lackluster tone betrays her ungry, discomfiture. "Do I hear three?"

Iptly The loudest sound in the hall is glasses clinking as the waiters remethem.

"Come on, people, let's hear it. Anyone...?"

ows Still nothing.

and

"Um. Going once... Going twice... Sold!" She says the last part w ale more relief than excitement.

Dana gets off the stage, her face scarlet and her eyes brimming wit nents. unshed tears. Owen stands up to hug her, but she pushes him away and off.

f she "So much for love," Nicholas mutters.

"I can't believe she didn't get more bids. What happened?" I whist "She probably pissed off the wrong people."

I. And I remember how annoyed Ted was with Owen and Dana. And he is kbones.them so loudly that everyone heard him. But that can't possibly be the off her people decided to sit this one out...can it?

or her "I still wish the winning bid was higher than two thousand dollars,"
"Not that I expected Owen to manage more than that, but it's terrible to food bank isn't going to get much."

lenly "Food bank? I thought she was doing it for the animal shelter." "No. Brenda said she changed her mind earlier today."

ople, "What a shitty thing to do." Nicholas brushes the spot between my eyebrows. "Stop worrying. I'll send the food bank a big check in your plas's Will a hundred thousand do?"

"You don't have to." The casual way he throws that kind of money around is stunning. It's flattering, of course, but also unsettling to hear ig the offer to do something that grandiose for me. I just...don't know how to with it.

age. "I insist. Besides, it'll make you feel better, right?" "Well...yes."

"Okay. Settled." He smiles and takes my hand. As he does, his fing 1. He run along the inside of my wrist, where my pulse leaps at the electric to "That's all that matters."

I search his face. See the sincerity in his eyes. My heart skitters. W looks at me and speaks like this, I feel like I'm the most important persovert the universe. It's such a special gift, elevating and humbling at the same I don't feel like I deserve it—

"...big round of applause for Molly Greene!"

ove I flinch. I didn't expect the emcee to be so exuberant when she ann my name. Nicholas's head whips toward the stage, then back at me. "Y getting auctioned?"

I nod. "Brenda asked me."

ith "When?"

"I don't know. An hour ago?"

h Realization dawns in his eyes. "Why didn't you tell me before agre I stalks fill in for Dana?"

"I don't know...I—"

"Is Molly Greene here?" The emcee's tone says, Please, please, please, please. She probably doesn't want to deal with another awkward moment.

I stand up and give a small wave. "Sorry." People's heads swing in sulted direction.

reason "There she is!" the emcee says. "Come on up!"

Everyone seems to be staring. My lungs constrict under the weight "I say. their gaze. The air feels thin.

hat the Do not pass out!

It would simply be too humiliating to faint. Besides, this isn't a ror novel scenario when a hot hero catches the fainting heroine! Not even historical romance novels do that cliché anymore.

I walk to the stage, trying to hide the way my legs are shaking. I'll name. happy if I get at least two thousand dollars for the shelter. I'd prefer to more, of course, but if Dana only got two...

Finally, I stand on the stage. The light's bright, and blood roars in I him ears. I try to smile—I think I manage it. The ballroom seems to grow i o deal then shrink abruptly. Is it me, or is everyone staring and whispering?

My gaze roams everywhere. I don't know exactly what I'm searchi But then I see Nicholas in the crowd.

He's looking at me with a small, concerned frown. My whole body gertips at the sight of him. He mouths something as he holds my gaze calmly.

Breathe. He gives me a slow nod. It means everything's going to be

His soundless reassurance wraps around me like a shield. My atten hen he focuses on his self-possessed and confident presence. Suddenly, the tig son in around my chest eases. The air trapped inside whooshes out. I inhale a le time, head starts to clear. The emcee is done with my intro. I'm pretty sure s made up something that sounded good to get the auction going, since I last-minute substitute.

ounced "Ten thousand," a familiar voice calls out before the emcee gets to You're the first bid.

Jack?

Oh, no. Praying it's just a guy who sounds like my boss, I scan the —and spot Jack in the back. I didn't see him earlier, but then, there are than enough people to fill the huge ballroom.

Really? He's going to try to get ten thousand dollars' worth of touchin My skin crawls. The champagne in my belly churns like an agitate ease. "Five hundred thousand," another voice calls out.

That's Elizabeth's uncle Salazar I met after Nicholas whisked me a from Ted. Salazar says something to Ceinlys, who's sitting next to him she slaps his shoulder with a smile. I let out a relieved breath.

"One million," Nicholas says flatly.

of Murmurs go up in the air.

I cover my cheeks and mouth with my hands. Unbelievable. My he ringing, and I stare at him, trying to process what's going on.

nance "Oh my goodness! One million dollars for dinner with the lovely N the emcee says breathlessly. This is the biggest bid so far.

"One point one," Jack shoots back.

be What? He can't possibly have that kind of money.

get The emcee starts to fan herself.

I begin to feel faint. Trembling starts in my hands and legs. Men simply...don't fight like this over me.

n size, "One point two." Arturo gives a loud, derisive snort directed at the bidders.

ing for. Didn't he say his father cut him off? Where is he going to get that I money?

stills "One point three," Salazar counters, unfazed by Arturo's attitude.

My time isn't worth that kind of money, even if it's for Furry Have e okay. somebody fill the air with hallucinogens or something?

tion Ceinlys waves at me, mouthing, It's all good.

shtness It...is?

nd my "Two million," Nicholas says, his eyes flashing with a hint of impa he My head spins. I must be more drunk than I thought.

'm a "Oh my! Two—million—dollars!" the emcee squeals.

So I didn't mishear. What is Nicholas doing? There are a lot of ask forincrements between one-point-three and two! My heart races so hard a my ribs feel bruised. A mixture of excitement and trepidation beat in n head. This doesn't feel like reality.

crowd "Two point five," Arturo shouts. "Time's valuable, ol' man! Let's more going!"

Nicholas shoots a contemptuous look in Arturo's direction. "Five."

k? The smile on Arturo's face falters.

g. The emcee scents blood in the water. She's shouting something, an d sea. can't make it out. My entire focus is on Nicholas and his coolly determ expression.

Keeping my gaze on him, I shake my head. Can he take back the fi 1, and bid?

"Five million bid, do I hear five-point-one? Now five-point-one. W give me five-point-one?"

NO!

ad is Please...?

Thankfully, nobody says five point one, despite the emcee's excite folly," encouragement.

"Going once... Going twice...! Sold! A dinner with the lovely and talented Molly Greene for five—million—dollars!"

Even as she smiles, what just happened doesn't sink in. I feel like I having an out-of-body experience. This sort of thing simply does not h to me. I'm never the center of something this lavish and incredible. I w others star in those movies.

other I manage to step down from the stage without stumbling. Nicholas up and hugs me. "Hey, hot date." His voice is teasing, like he knows I' kind of overwhelmed and need to reorient myself.

His arms stay wrapped around me as he helps me take my seat. I se his face. He doesn't look dazed. No, his eyes are absolutely clear. And en. Did glimmering with satisfaction.

"You didn't really bid five million, did you?" I ask faintly.

He gives a short laugh. "Of course I did."

"A dinner with me isn't worth that kind of money, Nicholas! I eat a atience. with you for free all the time!"

"Not the point. The point is, nobody else gets to eat with you."

He sounds possessive. But we're fake-dating. I feel weirdly guilty his spending so much money on me. "You should've bid on somebody nd fast, more..."

"More what?" ıy ıd I

'm

"You know... The kind of woman you're used to being seen with."

The good humor on his face fades. "You don't care if I go out with get it another woman?"

Hot acidic sensations stir in my belly, but I pretend otherwise. If th a novel, I might think he wants me to act possessive, but this is reality. "Well..."

"You don't care if I give another woman flowers, treat her to a gor ined meal, hold her hand? Dance with her on a beach under the stars?" he demands, his eyes intense. nal

Images of him and the mystery woman unfold like a movie in my r /ill you Instead of the woman, I'm focused on him. How he'd smile. How he'd an affectionate kiss on her cheek as he picked her up. How attentive he —oh God, do I know how he is. How he'd hold her under the night sk warm, silky sand underneath their feet, their bodies pressed together ar d swaying to the sound of waves...

Jealousy rakes its claws down my insides, from my heart all the wa my gut, leaving behind bloody, burning gashes. The intensity of pain k the breath out of me. It's such an unfamiliar emotion. Even when Owe dumped me for Dana, I was hurt and sad—felt inferior, even—but I die appen feel jealous. Not like this.

But with Nicholas, it's as though somebody stuck her hand into my ^ratch and ripped out my heart. Like somebody just stole something fundame and critical to my existence. gets m Cheers go up around us, and someone walking by pats Nicholas on back, congratulating him on his winning bid. Nicholas gives a curt that earch then curses under his breath. He takes my hand, tugging.

"Let's talk someplace quieter."

I nod and stand. This isn't the kind of conversation we can have surrounded by all these guests.

He holds me tightly, like he's afraid I'll vanish, and leads me out o dinner ballroom. He pulls me into a small prep room and sticks a chair underr the knob to prevent the door from being opened from the outside.

The room is dimly lit. There's one long table in the center and towabout stacked chairs in two corners.

who's I lick my lips, this time not caring if I smudge my makeup. My mo too dry, and my fingertips are tingling.

"Now. Can I have my answer?" he says.

I open my mouth, but can't articulate a response in a way that's how but not overly clingy or possessive.

Because I am totally both.

is were "Well?" he says.

I look at him. I can either lie and tell him I feel nothing at the thoughim with another woman or be honest and tell him I'm jealous. Neither geous like a good option. But given how sweet he's been, he deserves my how even if it makes me squirmy.

"I don't like it," I say. "I hate it. I feel jealous, which makes me an nind. person because I don't think I should—"

He puts a finger over my lips. "Stop there before you say anything don't mean. Just so you know, I'd never spend that kind of money on y you weren't worth it. You're worth everything, Molly. And what you f when you imagined me with another woman—I felt that when I though about you out on a date with another man."

The tingling that was in my fingers spreads to the rest of my body.

The tingling that was in my fingers spreads to the rest of my body.

Hearing him admit he feels the same way I do makes my heart thunder

I suddenly realize that he's standing really close, only a hairsbread away from me. Goosebumps spread over my skin, and my lips soften a his index finger.

rechest Heat flares in his gray eyes. Wrapping his arms around me and pul ntal me close, he slants his mouth over mine, sucking my lower lip, then ru his tongue over the tender flesh.

My jaw loosens, and I open up for a deeper kiss. I stroke his tonguenks, mine, then suck it. He tastes like the wine we shared earlier and sometl darkly addictive I've never had before.

He devours my mouth like he's been starved. Then he thrusts his to in, like he's fucking it. The sweet achiness spreads, pooling between n thighs. My clit throbs, and I squirm with emptiness.

f the I've never had a man kiss me with such raw need. He doesn't try to leath how much he wants me. What he'd like to do to me.

The blood in my vein boils, and I fist the lapels of his tux, clinging ers of press myself against the length of him. His huge erection pushes again belly. He rocks against me, wanting me to feel every steely inch. My C uth is The emptiness between my legs grows unbearable.

My senses spin out of control despite my best efforts. How is it post for Nicholas to make me this crazy with a kiss? It's like the romance n nest, I've been devouring. The unrealistic "drivel" that Owen and others wo mock for giving me unrealistic expectations.

With Nicholas, the freaky-hot sex I've read about seems not only possible, but assured. His warm large hands glide over my curves. I teght of little. I don't have the kind of lean, taut body that his exes had, and... r seems "You're so soft and pretty," he whispers, his voice raw. He cups m nesty, and squeezes.

I feel the tight, possessive pressure all the way to my clit and shude awful mouth runs over my shoulder and collarbone. He tugs at the zipper on side of my bodice until the strapless top slumps to my waist. Millions of you kisses land around my breasts. Every time his breath fans over the point you if tips, my toes curl.

ielt A moan—I think it's mine. It's too high-pitched and desperate.

nt "Nicholas. Please," I beg.

"Patience."

"Somebody might come." The door's secured, but...

"You want to stop?" he says, his eyes hot on mine.

th "No. I want you to hurry up!"

Laughing softly, he lays a kiss on my nipple, then pulls it into his r Oh my God. My back arches as pleasure streaks through me, then winc ling in my belly. His mouth sears my sensitive flesh, and every inch of my nning seems to come alive. He sucks hard, and the bliss pooling inside me is intense than some orgasms I've had. But instead of letting the sexual to e with pop, the pleasure tightens its grip on me until I feel like I'm going to d hing rock against him, desperate for a release—and scared at what sort of he I'll find myself at.

ongue His fingers slip under the side slit and stroke my thigh. My legs qu can only stay upright because I'm holding on to his shoulders, digging nails into his jacket.

He runs his index finger over my folds through the thin fabric of m panties. I cry out softly before remembering we're in a room by the ball. I where the charity auction is going on. The emcee should keep the crow occupied, but that doesn't mean the hotel staff or guests wandering aroutside won't hear us.

His thumb brushes over the other nipple as he sucks harder, this tinessible using his teeth. The tiny sting only sharpens my appetite, makes me movels desperate for him.

uld He pushes the fabric out of the way and probes my slickness with I fingers. I squeeze my eyes as lust burns through me, fight to breathe th tight anticipation.

nse a I know in my heart he's not going to let me down.

He sticks a finger inside, almost experimentally. I grip it, but it isn'y ass nearly enough. "Oh my God, Nicholas. Please. I need more." My face I've never begged like this before.

ler. His He places another finger... Ah...

the Then a third... Yes, please...

of hot "Ride my fingers, baby," he whispers, letting go of my nipple. "Ma ted yourself feel good."

He shifts his weight, and I'm pressed against a wall for better balar go crazy and rock against his hand, moving my hips. I can feel his gazemy face. He's studying me like I'm the most important discovery of th century. Then suddenly, as I plunge down, he curls his fingers, and the graze a spot that—

A bolt of sheer pleasure cuts through me. My spine stiffens, and I be my face in his shoulder as I shake with an orgasm that robs me of ever nouth. except ecstasy.

Is tight He holds me, keeping his fingers buried deep inside my spasming I skin When my breathing settles a bit, he pulls them out. I shudder at the more stimulating sensation, and heat rekindles. I squeeze my muscles, trying ension will myself to stop being so greedy.

His eyes on my flushed face, he slowly licks the juices off his hanc ie. I they're the sweetest chocolate syrup. My cheeks burn. It's hot how he eights everything about me—how honest and open he is about it.

iver. I "This isn't enough," he says.

chest.

iis

ıke

ice. I

e

My gaze drops to the huge bulge. I should do something about that my Suddenly, he moves, dragging my underwear down my legs and le drop to the floor. The silk of my dress brushes my heated butt, and I fe IJ llroom barer than if I were standing here naked.

He props me on the table. "Grip the edge," he orders. ıd

I obey without thinking. What is he planning? Delicious anticipatic und crackles through me. Whatever he's about to do is going to be oh-so go He drops to his knees in front of me, then throws my thighs over hi ne shoulders, spreading me. I can feel myself quivering down there, alread ore expectant. He seems to sense it too, because a deep groan tears from hi Pushing my knees apart farther, he buries his face between my legs rough breaths blow over my ultrasensitive clit, making me shiver. He runs his tongue over my slick flesh and laps me up like he's starved. Every stro 't his tongue is different somehow, but also more pleasurable.

It's as though he's learning my reaction to each stimulation and is hot. improving his technique as he goes on.

My grip on the edge of the table tightens as another orgasm swells. let one hand go and tunnel my fingers into his hair, holding his head tig against me. He grows more frenzied, pulling my clit into his mouth an sucking, while pushing his fingers back into me. I writhe against him a come, teeth clenched so I don't scream.

He felt me orgasm, but he doesn't let up. He becomes greedier. Mc e on controlling. He runs his hand down the curves of my thigh and calf, the shoves his tongue into me, fucking the opening shallowly. tips

The stimulation is different, but potent. Another climax breaks ove but he isn't finished. oury

He rubs two fingers against my mouth. I pull them in eagerly. ything

He fucks my mouth with his fingers. I imagine it's his cock in my and I'm going wild. My pussy's impossibly wet now, and I groan again oussy. fingers, wishing it was his cock gliding against my tongue right now.

He continues to devour me until I feel wrung out. Sweat mists over ; to skin. The air is replete with sex, and every cell in my body is loose and I like languid.

enjoys He rains kisses all over my body. "Don't ever doubt that I want you I don't think I can after this. The dress is bunched around my hips; completely debauched but at the same time so, so good.

— I raise my torso until I can face him. His lips are flushed and wet, a tting it burns in his gaze. He hasn't come yet.

el "I want to suck you off." My own words stun me. I've never been with my boyfriends before, but it feels right to tell Nicholas exactly when.

He curses under his breath. "You know what happens to good girls ood. they say things like that?"

I shoot him a mischievous smile. "Generally speaking, yeah. They suck their guy off."

I slide down from the table and push him in a half-circle until we'v switched positions. The tent over his crotch is huge. Grinning, I run my. Hot along it lightly, just giving him a tease.

His hips instantly jerk forward, bolstering my confidence. I try to poke of dress back up before I get down to business, but he stops me. "I want to your tits."

There's naked admiration in his gaze, and I adore how much he low what he sees.

Then I I reach for his belt. A few tugs, clicks of metal and the hiss of a zip ghtly later, I have his pants undone. I push them down along with his boxers d cock springs out. I expel a stunned breath.

He's huge. The hard thing I felt in the library—that I thought was I phone or something... This was it. I can't even close my hand all the ware around the impressive girth. And it'll take more than two hands to cover entire veined and pulsing length. The tip drips with clear liquid.

A tinge of trepidation skitters along my spine at his size. On the otl r me, hand, he made me feel so good, and I want him to feel just as good.

"Come here," he says as though he's sensed my uncertainty. Withce waiting for a response, he wraps my hair in his hand and pulls me up, to mouth, reclaims my mouth. He kisses me, not with the out-of-control desire of nst his dying for an orgasm, but with the tender care of a man who is kissing to only woman he loves.

Heat blossoms within me, and along with it, undeniable affection for this kind side is why I've been crushing on him all these years.

I kiss him back, then run my hand along his body, feeling the tautn u." his muscles. He's tight with lust, but holding back for me.

I feel I don't want him to.

I drop my hand lower until I can take his shaft. It throbs in my grip and lust separate being. He moans, and I feel the vibration from his chest again mine. I pump my hand slowly up and down, run my thumb over the sli so bold "I'm going to make you feel good." I glide down his big, strong bo nat I Then pull him into my mouth.

I barely take in more than the cockhead, and my mouth already fee when The saltiness from his precum coats my tongue, and I relax my jaw and pull him in deeper.

get to Air shudders out of him. He watches me intensely, the tendon in hi sticking out. The muscles in his jaw bunch and flex as I attempt to adjure him. His cock twitches in my mouth as I move my head carefully, giving hand time to figure out a way to take more each time and get used to his size

His whole body quivers. I run my hand over one thigh in a soothing oull my gesture, then bob my head. He's hitting the back of my throat each time o see don't even have half of him in my mouth.

I tighten my lips around him, hollowing my cheeks.

"Fuck!" he says, tightening his grip on my hair until my scalp feels slight sting.

His hips move. But he doesn't try to shove his cock down my throat. His careful, thrusting shallowly, no farther than I've been able to take so facup his balls, stroking them tenderly. I can't believe how good this feen me. How much it turns me on to feel him lose himself in the ecstasy I've giving him.

er the Now he's laboring for air. His chest rises and falls hard and fast. H tighten. The rhythm of his thrusts is faster and a bit rougher.

But I love it. I adore watching him barrel toward the peak.

"Molly." My name falls from his lips like a prayer.

I suck harder, run my tongue over his length with more enthusiasm then His cockhead presses against the back of throat. He makes an incol a man sound as an orgasm breaks over him and he empties himself in my mothe And I swallow every drop—another thing I've never done before.

When he's finally done, I let him go, then kiss his belly.

or him. He pulls me up and kisses me. "That was amazing. You are amazin I smile. "So are you."

ess in "Just to be clear, we're dating-dating."

I blink at him over the silly fluttering of my heart. He's just saying swept up in the moment. Men say all kinds of happy crap after sex.

like a He continues, "I figured I should clarify that before you get any we st ideas."

ck tip. "Why would I get weird ideas?"

'dy. "Because you keep expecting me to act like your shitty ex." I shake my head. "I don't think you're anything like him."

ls full. "Really? You thought that I should let other men bid on you and w l try to And that I should bid on other women. That's exactly what Owen wou done."

I go still and process what he just said. I never thought my expecta st to had anything to do with Owen—or any other guy—in my past, but mang me they are colored by my experience. I would totally expect Owen to do that. He wouldn't want to waste money on me when he could have din with me for free anytime.

e, but I "You're right," I say. "That wasn't fair."

"I want you, Molly. Just you. Only you. And I want you to want m same way. Exclusive. Unshared. The two of us together against the wo He runs his fingers through my hair gently, but his tone is anything but I struggle to understand what he's telling me, as my whole body is at. He's buzzing from the orgasms. I can't believe that Nicholas Lasker, my lor crush of eight years and model gentleman, has such raw proprietorial f ls to about me.

m It's clear that, to him, there's nothing I'm not worthy of. And the knowledge is so potent and delicious, I can't do anything but shiver wi is abs happiness and nod. Especially when I can feel he's hard again.

For whatever reason, he's really into my body, and I'm totally into I'm already dripping.

Maybe his lust is in charge, and I should be more cautious. But I do care. I've never felt this desired. And for once, I'm fine with living nerent dangerously.

"Just to be clear, we're dating-dating."

I blink at him over the silly fluttering of my heart. He's just saying things, swept up in the moment. Men say all kinds of happy crap after sex.

He continues, "I figured I should clarify that before you get any weird ideas."

"Why would I get weird ideas?"

"Because you keep expecting me to act like your shitty ex."

I shake my head. "I don't think you're anything like him."

"Really? You thought that I should let other men bid on you and win. And that I should bid on other women. That's exactly what Owen would've done."

I go still and process what he just said. I never thought my expectations had anything to do with Owen—or any other guy—in my past, but maybe they are colored by my experience. I would totally expect Owen to do exactly that. He wouldn't want to waste money on me when he could have dinner with me for free anytime.

"You're right," I say. "That wasn't fair."

"I want you, Molly. Just you. Only you. And I want you to want me in the same way. Exclusive. Unshared. The two of us together against the world." He runs his fingers through my hair gently, but his tone is anything but.

I struggle to understand what he's telling me, as my whole body is still buzzing from the orgasms. I can't believe that Nicholas Lasker, my longtime crush of eight years and model gentleman, has such raw proprietorial feelings about me.

It's clear that, to him, there's nothing I'm not worthy of. And the knowledge is so potent and delicious, I can't do anything but shiver with happiness and nod. Especially when I can feel he's hard again.

For whatever reason, he's really into my body, and I'm totally into his. I'm already dripping.

Maybe his lust is in charge, and I should be more cautious. But I don't care. I've never felt this desired. And for once, I'm fine with living dangerously.

Chapter Twenty-Seven

Nicholas

Since I've fulfilled my duties at the charity event, I send instructions to handle the payment for the auction and head out with Molly.

It's a good thing we got a limo, because the taste of her is still in m mouth, leaving me high and intoxicated. My dick's impossibly hard an tingling. I can't get the sensation of her tongue against it out of my min mouth was shockingly hot. When she tightened her lips around me, I a lost it and just drove into her mouth.

Except that would've hurt her.

I'm larger than average. And Molly is much smaller and softer. I wouldn't want to do anything that could cause her pain. I don't give a how shitty her exes were, or, given Owen's attempt to denigrate her be performance, how acclimated she is to subpar sex. She's going to expenothing but pleasure when she's with me.

The limo ride should take about an hour. She's properly covered, h dress smoothed out and zipped. The fabric lies properly over her lush h But in my head, all I see is her lying on the table, breasts out and nippl hard. The goosebumps over her flesh, and the slickness dripping betweest, plump thighs.

Her pussy gripped my fingers hard when she came. I wish we'd ha condom so it'd have been my dick she spasmed around. But sex wasn' something I'd planned on. I just lost it when she acted like I should've go out with some other asshole.

Like Jack Peterson.

He might be a sought-after personal trainer, but he's not my favorit person. He slept with my mom before she married Paul. That wouldn't generally be a problem if he hadn't been dating somebody else at the ti I'm a firm believer that "once a cheater, always a cheater." Then there's Arturo Morales. I trust that guy as much as I'd trust a starving cat with a piece of tuna. If even half the stories I heard about I true, he's almost as bad as Dad. And he's only twenty-seven.

Molly reaches over and holds my hand. I squeeze, feel her rest her against my shoulder. A small gesture, but intimate and satisfying. I wa to lean on me and let me be her shield against the world.

She places her free hand oh-so casually on my thigh. The touch but through my pants. Then she moves it up and down along my quad, graworking it closer to my dick.

Vixen.

Cody She tilts her head and smiles. Mischief and desire glitter in her eye kiss her. If she wants more sex, I will happily oblige.

Not in the limo, though. I want to take her in my bed, have her drip over it until her scent mingles with mine.

and. Her But that doesn't mean we can't play around a little right now. I pul lmost onto my lap and touch her, running my callused hands along her sides, kneading the sweet curve of her ass. It's round and soft and fills my ha right. When I strip her out of the dress, I'm going to kiss it.

She squirms, her breathing shallower. "Nicholas..."

damn "Settle down. We're only about half an hour away."

"Stop teasing..." She trails off when I slip my thumb under the siderience strings of her panties. Whoever picked these out should get an A for ta "Are you going to snap them off?" Her voice shakes with excitement.

er "Beg me."

ody. She makes doe eyes at me. "Oh please oh please oh please."

es I rip the strings, then pull the panties off. I make sure to stuff them en her my pocket—I'm not letting some asshole chauffer take them as a souv "Better?"

d a "I might want more." She dips her hand between my thighs.

t Blood instantly pools in my crotch. "I have no idea what you're tal let her about," I deadpan. "I'm an innocent man who—"

"You could stroke me."

That sounds more appealing than innocent. "Like this?" I run my fitte through her silky hair. "Or this?" I graze my knuckles along her collarl "A little lower." She pulls my arm down until my hand is at her brothen moves languidly, making her nipple bump and catch on the small my knuckles, making herself feel good. I wish we had better light so I see the flush I know is spreading over her cheeks.

nim are It's time for more.

I run my hands along her legs. Brush the pads of my thumbs over head knees. My fingertips stroke her inner thighs. Her muscles begin to quive the breathing grows uneven. She tenses with anticipation as I move up until I'm less than an inch from her hot core. She's so wet I can feel the moisture in the air around my fingers, but I hang on to my control.

dually "Stop teasing," she whispers. Her heated breaths tickle my ear.

Hot goosebumps break along my spine. "I'm not touching you ther we're in my bed."

s, and I She pulls back a little. "Don't tell me you're traditional about sex." "I'm very traditional about it." Just you and me, committed.

"What we did back in the hotel wasn't exactly out of the Miss Man handbook," she says, then kisses me.

I fuse my mouth with hers and enjoy the closeness and intimacy I'verally always dreamed of. I used to regard kissing as a pleasant enough preluent just sex, but with Molly it's more. Like our souls are calling to each other a void.

The limo pulls into my driveway. I pull the dress down and help he presentable before the chauffeur opens the door. I hand him a fistful of and take her into the mansion...

ste. ...where I immediately push her against the wall and reclaim her n She laughs, the sound breathless, then kisses me hard. I try to slip my l through the side slit of her dress, but she moves away.

"This isn't your bed," she teases, laughing.

into "Oh, that's how it is?"

e

king

enir. She bats her eyes innocently. "You said it, not me."

I reach for her, but she spins away with another laugh. I love this p side of her, but absolutely do not want to wait. I lunge forward, then pi up like a princess. Gasping, she loops her arms around my neck, then squirms.

"Wait, wait. Put me down!" She kicks, which only makes her lose ingers shoes.

bone. "Nope. Faster this way." I start toward my bedroom as blood roars east. head.

hills of "I can walk! I'm too heavy. You'll throw your back out."

could What kind of pussy does she think I am? "If I threw my back out c you, I wouldn't deserve you."

I kick the door to my room open, then flip the light switch and take inside. We fall on the bed together.

*7*er and Finally.

and up She stares up at me, hair fanned around her beautiful face, eyes wide excitement. I've fantasized for so long about her lying on my bed. But nothing could prepare me for the reality of her spread out like a feast be me.

'e until I grip the bustline of the dress and pull. The silk rips away, splitting half. She gasps in horror.

"Oh my God! The dress!"

"I'll buy you another one." I push the tattered fabric out of the way unwanted wrapping paper on Christmas.

She's stunning, all feminine curves and sweet softness. Her breasts generous and pert, and the round line of her belly shivers as I gaze at h de to admiration. I want to devour her, defile her and worship her, all at the across atime.

Molly starts to raise her arms to cover herself, but then changes her look and keeps them by her side, and her cheeks grow red. I smile tenderly bills kiss her, not holding back. I kiss her like I'm opening my soul to her, a my hands over her body like I'm ready to give her the world.

nouth. When I cup her breast and knead, she arches into my palm. Little whimpers fall from her plump lips, and I swear I could do this for hour end. When I pinch a nipple, she twists like an electric jolt is crackling through her, pressing her legs together. I spread her thighs and pull her until her pelvis is on my thighs and her clit presses against my crotch to the pants.

layful She rocks against me shamelessly, clutching my shoulders. She's ck her spreading her juices all over my tux pants, making a mess, and I love t of how much she wants me.

She moans against my mouth. I clench her ass, then slip my fingers her below, easing her open.

"Oh my God, Nicholas, just a little more," she begs, muscles as tau in my piano wire. "Please."

I curve my fingers and push them in, making sure to hit her most so spot. She tightens her hold on me and shudders, dripping over my hand arrying hold her as she trembles, enjoying her orgasm. She's adorable when sh climaxes. All tense and shivery and clingy. Like she can't bear to let me her I run my free hand along her supple back, then lay her supine on the Her pink flesh glistens, impossibly wet. Inviting.

I kiss her down there, holding her legs open and lapping her up. The with sweet scent of her is driving me crazy. It's even better than at the hotel because here I can see her better. Spread her wider.

efore "Nicholas, I can't," she pleads, even as she pants and her pelvis more the rhythm of my tongue.

g in "Yes, you can. And you will."

She squirms out of my grip and turns, getting on her knees and tryi crawl away.

"Oh no, you don't." I grab her ankle and pull her back to me. She half laughs.

are I rip my tie off and bind her wrists to the headboard. Her eyes go wer with with shock and excitement. She licks her lips.

same "If you really can't stand it, just say 'sunshine' and I'll stop."

Shock flares in her gaze. "Oh my God. Did you read one of my bor mind "Sunshine" is the safe word used in one of the sex scenes.

and "More than one, and I remember everything." She highlighted this ind run particular one with lots and lots of notations. Most of them, OMG. Hol Is this really possible? Only in fiction!

It's sad she thought multiple vaginal orgasms are something made rs on romance authors to show off the hero's prowess in bed. Fortunately, I' to show her different.

close, I flick my tongue over her nipples. She writhes against the teasing hrough motion, but can't break away from the tie. She wants more, but I with from her.

There's no sucking. Just lots of light stimulation to drive her crazy he sign my tongue and teeth.

Her nipples are overly sensitive. She struggles, striving for a firmed Anything to push herself over the edge. Her scent is growing stronger, sweat mists over her. She tastes like salt, sugar and need.

it as "Oh my God. Please."

I pull her nipple into my mouth, feel her muscles quiver in anticipa ensitivebut after rolling it between my tongue and the roof of my mouth, I let i 1. I and leave a long, hot trail of kisses down her soft belly...until...

I exhale over her dripping pussy. She jumps like my breath has a p ne go. form. She rocks her hips shamelessly, and I lick her once, and then aga ne bed. enjoying the sweet taste of her. She's so wet, it makes my blood boil. I isn't a scenario that involves penetration.

Throwing her legs over my shoulders, I lap her up, then cup her brown hands and lightly stroke them, paying particular attention to her tig nipples. Moans tear from her taut throat, then soft sobs, as though she'd over to pushed too far.

But she doesn't say "sunshine." And I want to reward my good gir. I use every trick I know to bring her to a peak with just my tongue.

ng to sound she makes is more animal than human. Heat burns through me, cock is so hard, it feels like it's about to burst.

But I rein myself in. She deserves another orgasm. And so finally, last, I give it to her.

She screams her pleasure. The cry is the best aphrodisiac. She shiv uncontrollably against my mouth, and even as she's coming down from high, she continues to sob a little, her face flushed.

oks?" "Good girl," I praise her.

"Are you always this relentless?" She can barely get the words out "No. Just with you. I've been fantasizing for years about debauchir y shit. you." I tenderly push the hair away from her cheeks, which are slick w thin film of sweat. "This, and lots of other things."

up by "If this was any indication," she says, "I want you to do all of them m here me." Her eyes shine with trust. "All you've done is make me feel good I'm at my limit now. I strip out of my clothes and shoes, eager to be close to her as possible. She stares at my cock, slightly apprehensive be sold it licking her lips. It reminds of the way she sucked me off at the hotel. A all I can do to maintain a slippery grip on my control.

with I roll a condom down my dick, then press it against her dripping fo kiss her again, wanting to taste her. She strokes my tongue with hers, s r touch.like it were my cock. I break the kiss and push in slowly, watching the and emotions play on her face.

"Tell me how you feel." I can tell if it's pleasurable for her from he reaction, but I want to hear it.

tion, Mouth slightly open and eyes wide, she says, "You're...really big.
t go
"And you're unbelievably tight." I push a little deeper, resisting the to just drive into her in one stroke. She's so tight it might hurt her, ever hysical is already dripping.

in, "I feel stretched...in a good way." She squirms, then moves her pe 3ut this encourage me.

Sweat beads on my skin, and I fist the sheets hard. I don't want to a easts in her and bruise her. Well, I do want to, but—ht "Sunshine," she says.

s being I freeze, even as my most basic instinct screams to keep going. "An okay?" I start to pull back, reaching for the knot at the headrest.

l. She wraps her legs around me. "I'm fine. Just want you to untie me The can hold you." She slips her wrists free then grips my shoulders. "You and my never hurt me, Nicholas."

Relieved, elated, I thread my fingers through her hair and kiss her l at long while I push the rest of the way in. She lets out a soft sigh and clings to

This was the angle that was best for her—I tilt my hips to hit just to right spot, and her back jerks off the bed. I start to go harder and faster her low, rough breathing as she struggles for air. Her pussy tightens, the spasms, gripping my dick. It's like a drug, but I yank myself back from edge. Not yet.

I let her come down a bit before driving her relentlessly toward and peak, higher than the one before. Then a moment to catch her breath be ith a pushing her up again.

She shakes uncontrollably, screams until her voice changes. She be to stop, then pleads with me to continue. I grant the wishes that suit me l." adore her for being so openly greedy for me and the pleasure I'm givin A fifth orgasm breaks over her, and she trembles, then goes limp.

ut "Baby?"

and it's Nothing. I look down at her closed eyes. Lax face. I might've thou she'd fallen asleep if it weren't for the shallow, rapid breathing.

lds. I I press a kiss on her mouth, run my hands along her sweet body un ucks it stirs.

She blinks, slight confusion clouding her not-yet-fully-focused eye "My Molly." I smile. "Ready now?"

She squirms, then lets out a gasp as she feels the hard length of my still inside her. "Yes," she whispers, then lays her hands on my cheeks tenderly and kisses me.

e urge That's all it takes. I pound into her hard and fast until she hits anotlen if she peak with a soft cry, and a monstrous orgasm barrels through me. She me between her thighs, her arms around my neck. Groaning, I hold her lvis to tightly, like she's the greatest treasure of my life. grab e you so I could nard, o me. he , hear ıen 1 the other efore gs me e. And ıg her. ght til she S. dick her cradles tightly, like she's the greatest treasure of my life.

Chapter Twenty-Eight

Molly

When I walk into Get Jacked on Monday, several trainers give me wei sideways glances. I surreptitiously check my clothes, but don't seem to spilled anything. Skirt's not tucked into my underwear by mistake. No on my teeth either, since I brushed my teeth after breakfast. Plus, I did them a toothy smile, so they wouldn't be able to see anything even if I something stuck between my teeth.

Well, whatever. Right now, I feel too good to be bothered by some looks. Spending the weekend in bed with Nicholas was ah-may-zing. Romance novel sex isn't just possible, but can be had for hours on end the right man.

On top of that, he said we aren't fake-dating! I feel like I just won tottery of life.

"What did you do? Jack's in a really bad mood," Petra says. Young toned and with perfect platinum hair, she's one of our most popular fer trainers. Every woman wants to look like her, and men want to train w simply to spend time in her presence.

I give her a look. "I literally just walked in."

"Come on, Molly. It's got something to do with you."

"Kinda hard to see how. All I've done is arrive."

Plus, the man's too oblivious to let anybody influence his emotionate If he were more observant, he wouldn't try to touch me all the time or my boobs like they hold the answers to the existential questions of the universe.

"Oh, there she is! Ms. L.A. Bachelorette," comes Jack's voice. I've heard him so sarcastic and rude before. He's more the I'm-playfully-gr type.

I swallow a sigh. Is he upset about losing out to Nicholas? "It was a good cause," I say with the fake smile I reserve just for him.

"Was it? You disappeared with the winner as soon as the auction en What could've been so urgent and important?" All he has to do is poin finger to complete the accusatory scene. Maybe I'll offer to introduce l Ted Lasker as soon as I find a new job. Jack can have a long, storied can asshole in movies.

"He and I had things to do," I say.

"Like?"

"What I do with my boyfriend is none of your business."

He shakes his head. "You know, a guy like him isn't going to stick rd around."

Is he volunteering to stick around? If so, my response is an instant thing thank you. "We can agree to disagree." I give him another insincere sn n't givethen take a wide berth around him to get to my office. After locking th had to be doubly secure, I start my computer.

I have to find a new job!

odd After putting out some fires over a few thousand dollars nobody ca to account for, I send out more résumés. Please, oh please.

with A couple of knocks come from the door. I swivel around warily. It not be Jack. "Yes?"

the "It's me," says Petra. "Flowers came for you."

I unlock the door. She thrusts a huge flower basket full of purple at white tropical orchids through it, and I end up hugging them. They're nale gorgeous and smell like heaven.

ith her "Somebody loves you." She leans forward. "Is it true Jack asked yo on your birthday, and you turned him down?"

"No. Who told you that?"

"James. He just came in."

"And where did he hear it?"

al state. "Tim." She purses her lips in disapproval. Apparently, Tim didn't stare at first.

"Do you guys actually train people between gossip sessions?"

She shrugs. "Of course. But what are we supposed to do when we are never training anybody or selling memberships?" She shoots me a sly look. "coss Jack likes you."

"What he likes are my boobs."

all for "Which are attached to you, so they're you."

"Not the same thing. Anyway, thanks for bringing the flowers. I gc nded. back to work."

t a She looks around my small workspace, gives a conspicuous shuddenim to leaves. I shut the door and lock it again, then bury my nose in the bloss areer as The silky petals tickle, and I smile.

I pluck the card. More writing in some new foreign language and Nicholas's signature at the end. I grin, then kiss his name. I don't gene like Mondays, but today's been amazing. I woke up in his bed, and we quick morning sex and a shower, followed by a lovely breakfast. I sigh appreciatively, then laugh when I realize that every day can start like the

I whip out my phone to share my happiness.

no

nd

ile, —Me: Thank you. The flowers are stunning and I love them. I want e door know that if every Monday starts like today, I could actually begin to l starting the workweek. You're the one who makes it special.

I hit send, then bite my lip, wondering if it was too soon or too clin Nicholas and I have great chemistry. And he seems to like me, and better him, too. But I know his dating history—I'd have to be uncaring and oblivious to be unaware when I've known him for eight years. He's a seem monogamist, but doesn't date the same woman for long.

Don't overthink it. I should just enjoy the moment. I can deal with of our relationship when Nicholas decides to move on.

My phone pings. Ooh, is it Nicholas? I pick it up with breathless ou out anticipation...but it's Dad. Nothing pops my buoyant mood like seeing on the screen.

-Dad: Is it true you were at a charity auction hosted by the Pryce F Foundation and got the highest bid out of all the women there?

tell her –Me: Yes. Why?

-Dad: I thought Renée was joking when she told me.

-Me: Well, she wasn't.

aren't

'I think Will this make him happy for me? Maybe even a little proud that I' the way I am?

-Dad: How can any man want to throw away money like that?

otta get

Slap, slap, slap. His words shatter my hope, claw at me with their cer and cruelty.

-Me: Well, somebody "threw away" $5M. Why do you think that i

-Dad: $5M? As in FIVE MILLION DOLLARS?

rally

-Me: As in exactly that. Since most people don't "throw away" that money for no reason, have you considered the possibility that maybe I the way I am? And maybe there are others who feel the same way? hat.

I stare at the text. I've never spoken to my dad so bluntly, and my i are shaky. But at the same time, it feels great to tell him what I think rayou to than demurring or just letting him bulldoze me to avoid an argument. ike −Dad: There has to be something else involved. Money laundering maybe.

gy.

I like His response leaves me speechless. He'd rather believe that a crimi using me for some nefarious reason than acknowledge that maybe I'm serial lovable as is.

The fact that he'd go this far to insist that I'm not worth anything c the enddeep, leaving a gash in my heart already battered from decades of abus But I can't make myself quit hoping he'll change one day, so of co keep opening his texts. I look at the flowers from Nicholas, but they ar enough to cheer me up now. All I want is a family that supports and lo each other. But it feels like an impossible dream.

amily

'm fine

Slap, slap, slap. His words shatter my hope, claw at me with their casual cruelty.

- -Me: Well, somebody "threw away" $5M. Why do you think that is?
- -Dad: $5M? As in FIVE MILLION DOLLARS?
- -Me: As in exactly that. Since most people don't "throw away" that much money for no reason, have you considered the possibility that maybe I'm fine the way I am? And maybe there are others who feel the same way?

I stare at the text. I've never spoken to my dad so bluntly, and my insides are shaky. But at the same time, it feels great to tell him what I think rather than demurring or just letting him bulldoze me to avoid an argument.

-Dad: There has to be something else involved. Money laundering, maybe.

His response leaves me speechless. He'd rather believe that a criminal is using me for some nefarious reason than acknowledge that maybe I'm lovable as is.

The fact that he'd go this far to insist that I'm not worth anything cuts deep, leaving a gash in my heart already battered from decades of abuse.

But I can't make myself quit hoping he'll change one day, so of course I keep opening his texts. I look at the flowers from Nicholas, but they aren't enough to cheer me up now. All I want is a family that supports and loves each other. But it feels like an impossible dream.

Chapter Twenty-Nine

Nicholas

It isn't until after eleven that I get a chance to take a quick breather. Co compressed all my meetings into the morning and early afternoon to endon't stay overtime.

During the last two weeks, I've cleared out my agenda as much as possible to make sure I get home early enough to have dinner with Mo every night. I'm not going to let her sit alone in the living room in drur tears, sobbing about dying alone, even if it's over some fictional characteristics.

Molly must've texted me when I was speaking with one of the invebecause I didn't notice her message until now. She's adorable when shexcited about something. I text back, Every day is special if you're wit my Molly.

She doesn't read it immediately, though. That asshole Jack is probakeeping her busy. I tap my chin. Is he being petty to her because he dicto win the auction? He always gave off a bad vibe when he was cheating his girlfriend with my mother. I should let Molly know she doesn't have put up with her shitty boss.

-Me: If Jack is being difficult, let me know, and I'll deal with it.

I hit send, then remember Arturo works at Get Jacked, too.

-Me: Arturo as well.

Now... Let's see what else is on my phone. I've ignored everything the auction to give Molly a hundred percent of my attention. Since my brothers have sent more than I could read in a day, I scroll to the recen

- –Noah: $5 million. I still can't wrap my mind around it.
- -Griffin: True love. You'll understand if it ever hits you.

It's so weird to see those words from Griffin. He's such a numbers thought he'd marry a column of statistics because he used to hate wom approaching him. He claimed they only wanted him for sex or his cont to Dad, both of which made him feel cheap. And when Griffin feels ch gets extra grumpy.

-Grant: The only thing he wants to spend five million bucks on is ody's croissants from Bobbi.

nsure I —Noah: Wrong! Her cupcakes are great, too.

-Huxley: I'm sure Bobbi's excited about that. Did you tell her you varied in bed, too?

lly –Noah: Hey, I got moves. Nobody's ever complained. -Grant: Why isn't Nicholas responding to our texts?

cter. —Emmett: LOL, yeah, what could possibly be keeping him occupie estors, —Huxley: Most likely, his dick broke.

e's

h me, I snort.

ably –Noah: Huh?

ln't get —Huxley: If I were her, I would've ridden him until his dick broke.

ng on —Noah: Meh, too vanilla. I'd expect something more exciting.

→ Grant: Well, she isn't going to have sex with him while riding a z through the savannah.

-Noah: WHAT!

–Emmett: He read the first page of your book.

-Noah: That was like from ten months ago! I deleted that!

-Griffin: Did you know zebras can't be tamed? Why did you make hero command zebras? Is he supposed to be some kind of zebra king?

-Sebastian: An alpha were-zebra!

g since I laugh. I love my brothers.

t ones. —Me: Sounds like a great romance novel hero, Seb. Just so you all my penis is fine, thank you very much. And no animals will ever be in bedroom.

- -Huxley: So you aren't dead.
- -Me: Not even close.
- guy. I —Griffin: If you're spending $5 million to have dinner with her, honen much are you spending on the ring?

 nection
- leap, he The idea of putting a ring on Molly's finger so everyone knows showing sends a pulse of warmth through me.
 - -Sebastian: Unless he asked Lucie, he hasn't made that decision.
 - –Me: I haven't ordered anything yet. Can't decide. Nothing looks § enough.

're as

- -Sebastian: Just give me $10 million, and I'll give you something
- -Me: Ha! Are you not meeting your revenue goals for the quarter?

A text pops up. Mom.

d?

- –Mom: Paul just told me you won a girl for five million dollars! G₁ you! So is this how we pay the surrogate?
 - -Me: You aren't paying anything. And she's not a surrogate.
- -Mom: I suppose doing it publicly might be crass. What will the bathink? Assuming anybody tells the baby.

Ugh. I can feel a headache coming on.ebra She sends a picture of Griffin's triplets.

-Mom: See how efficient this is? Three at once! I feel like we're ento at least that many for $5M.

she's lost of her mind. Forget Europe. She should tour insane asylt she can pick one she likes and stay there forever. Ideally, the facility w have Wi-Fi or cell reception.

- -Mom: If you want, I can wire you half the sum.
- -Me: I don't want your money. And forget about triplets.

know,

my Triplets with Molly would be amazing, but I'm not planning our fu based on what's going to make my mother happy. What matters is Mohappiness.

w —Mom: By the way, is the girl pretty? Smart?

I ignore her text.

e's Another group text arrives.

-Emmett: So are we going to meet this woman before you propose -Me: I emme think about it. Mom's texting me about babies. Ideal –Me: Lemme think about it. Mom's texting me about babies. Idealgood triplets.

-Griffin: Roughly one in ten thousand pregnancies result in triplets perfect. she should just give up. Also, sorry about the triplets thing. I can't con what my mother does with the baby photos.

Griffin's genuinely apologetic about the situation with our mothers knows his is egging mine on.

ood for

-Mom: Anyway, Georgia should be in Los Angeles by now to mee your girl and work out the details. I'd do it myself, but Paul and I have aby decided to spend more time in Venice. It's such a lovely city.

Thank you, Paul. My mom's current husband knows how to rein he I don't end up committing matricide.

So Georgia's back in town. I don't want her offering to share her h with Molly. Although I've made it clear we're dating for real, she migl ntitled be hung up on having a place of her own. Georgia's apartment is tinyrefused a trust fund I offered to set up for her because she said she war earn her own money, although she didn't refuse my paying her college ams so tuition. But Molly might not consider the size of Georgia's apartment a ron't issue.

Best to nip this in the bud. I send Georgia a text.

- -Me: Where are you? Text me back as soon as you hit LAX.
- -Georgia: Too late. I'm not in LAX. So does this mean I shouldn't you back? :sticking-tongue-out-emoji:

ıture

lly's Haha, very funny. Tears of mirth are streaming down my face.

-Me: Where are you?

—Georgia: Home, just got done unpacking. I landed at nine. Is it me you grouchy? Are you feeling buyer's remorse right now? Five millior lot of money!

Buyer's remorse? Is this the kind of conversation she's going to ha ? she hangs out with my Molly?

ly,

–Me: Don't say anything weird to screw things up between me ands, so Molly.

trol

-Georgia: Ha! I knew it. So you bid $5M on her, right?

-Me: Yes. And don't tell Mom if you haven't.

Mom's terrible with Google, and her assistant isn't any better. I do need her harassing and scaring Molly. I'm used to the way Mom get pu but Molly isn't.

et with –Georgia: I didn't and I won't. I'm not stupid. Nikki is amazing, bu can be single-minded.

-Me: Good.

er in so —Georgia: But I have to warn Molly! She has no idea what she's ge into.

ome

ht still Oh no, you don't. I'm not letting my stepsister ruin the best thing tl—she ever happened to me.

its to an

—Me: Stay out of it. If you offer to let her crash at your place or say might be having buyer's remorse over the auction, I'll run you over wi car.

-Georgia: Ooooh. At least I'll be run over by a car worth over half million dollars!

text I generally enjoy her sarcastic humor, but not right now.

-Me: You wish. I'm going to buy a rusty Pinto just for you. You a worth a Bentley!

```
e or are ı is a ve if n't ıshy, ut she etting hat's
7 that I th my a
```

ren't

worth a Bentley!

Chapter Thirty

Molly

After I send in my reports to Elaine, my phone pings and some texts fr Nicholas pop up on the screen.

–Nicholas: Every day is special if you're with me.

Aww. I smile. All the stress from the day melts away.

Then I read the other ones about Jack and Arturo.

The former is always difficult... Oh...wait. Does Nicholas suspect my boss could become vindictive after not winning me at the auction?

It's scary how accurate Nicholas is about Jack, but I haven't seen A since Saturday at the ballroom. And he doesn't come in until midmorn anyway, according to his timesheets. I doubt he's going to bother me. I be a bit intense, but he hasn't done anything to make me think he's a ceven if he and Nicholas don't seem to get along.

I have a new email alert—it's from a small grocery store chain in the region. I applied to their accounting division a couple of weeks ago. But when they didn't respond, I crossed them off my list. Guess they were taking their sweet time. But this is my first—potential—interview! However the excitement twirls inside me like little ballerinas.

Dear Molly,

My name is Lilian Hampton and I'm the Personnel Manager at LocalGro. We are impressed with your qualifications and would like to meet for an in-person interview if you're still interested in pursuing an exciting career at our company. When would be good for you?

The email is short and to the point. I also appreciate that Lilian doe just assume I'm available.

Dear Lilian,

om

Yes, I am still very interested in a position with your company. I' available any weekday between noon and two.

I can pretend I'm taking an extended lunch break when I interview I don't want Jack to know I'm planning to quit until I have a firm offer Given how poorly he reacted to what happened on Saturday, I don't th anything good will come of his knowing about my intention to leave.

that

I should send more résumés out. I have a feeling today's going to t lucky day. More companies might be interested in my skill set.

Arturo ing I pull up more listings from a bunch of job sites and submit my rés have the right college degree and experience. Why wouldn't a companme?

He can reep,

My phone pings. Maybe Lilian's getting back to me with possible -Georgia: Guess what? I'm back in town!

he ut

–Me: Hey! Welcome back!

just

-Georgia: We should do lunch! Are you available?-Me: Now? Sure! What are you in the mood for?

peful

-Georgia: Sushi! Please!

I laugh. I know just the place, and it's only a couple of blocks from gym.

-Me: How about Zen Asia at noon?

-Georgia: Done!

–Me: I'll head over at five till so we can get a table.

l

Zen Asia is always busy, and it's impossible to get a table if you ge even a minute after twelve. I check my work emails to make sure Elair hasn't dumped any last-minute items in my lap. She has a habit of doir right before lunch, which can be irritating. But at least she doesn't do i

Around eleven thirty, I sling my purse over my shoulder and head the back office against a tide of people wanting to squeeze a quick wor during their lunch break. Dana's on a treadmill, running steadily. If she upset about Saturday, you wouldn't know it. One of her friends is film from behind, so the viewer can only see her butt. Dana's Nike leggings tight, the fabric sticks to her glutes perfectly, molding even to her ass c note James and Tim observing carefully from one of the power racks.

I walk across the gym, basically invisible. But then, I'm not in a sk outfit, and I don't have a toned body like Dana's. My pink top and pur skirt are loose. My shoes are sensible mary janes in black.

"Hey."

I turn and see Arturo in his trainer's outfit. His mouth is smiling, b eves are tentatively searching mine. If I didn't know better, I'd say he' e my concerned about my reaction to him, except I have no plans to treat hir differently based on what happened on Saturday.

umé. I I give him a friendly smile, like always. "Hi." y want dates? "Wanna eat together?" He flashes a dimple.

The tension in his shoulders eases. "You heading out to lunch?" "Yep."

"Sorry. Not possible today."

The skin around his eyes tightens, although he maintains his smile. because of Nicholas?"

"No. I'm meeting my best friend. Girls only."

Besides, although I don't plan to change my behavior around Artur doesn't mean I'll spend more time than I have to with him. The fact the a famous movie star's son makes me wary. Like...why does he want to out with me when he could be with anybody? Petra for one would be to interested, and they spend more time together on the floor than we eve could.

Despite the interruption, I reach Zen Asia before noon and snag the table. The guy behind me groans in disappointment.

A plump, harried-looking Asian lady in a white-and-blue floral dre tennis shoes takes me to a small booth. She's the owner's wife, and she

m esn't ink

, since ı the et there always here.

out of "That's okay. And some iced lemon tea would be great."

'kout in "Okay. You eating alone?"

e's still "A friend is coming. Should be here soon."

ing her She nods with a small smile on her face. "Enjoy your lunch." Then are so turns around and bustles to the kitchen, saying something in Korean.

rack. I I thought she was Japanese for the longest time because she and he husband own a sushi restaurant. But she told me that she's actually Ko intight from a city called Busan.

orders for takeout. If you can't get a table here, that's the only option lunless you plan to take a long lunch break. Hopefully Georgia gets her ut his because the delicious aroma of rice, soy sauce and miso soup is making hungry. The tea is tasty, but it isn't filling.

n any When my glass is half-empty, Georgia arrives. "Hey, did you wait "No. Just a few minutes."

"I need some genuine California rolls. Missed them so much in Eu They can't do California rolls like we do."

"Probably not. Otherwise, they'd be called Tuscany rolls."

She laughs, pulling out an order sheet and marking the rolls she wawith a pencil. I do the same and hand our order sheets to the server.

"Is it Georgia produces a big bag. "For you."

"What is it?"

"A bottle of red and a white. I don't know the vintage or anything. to, that helped pick them out, so I know they're good."

at he's Georgia is a beer girl. I prefer cheap, fruity wine coolers, but they a hang probably aren't available in Europe. Too déclassé.

otally "How was Europe?"

"Oh, incredible." Georgia sighs. "I just feel so enlightened, you kn "Why? Did you have a religious experience?" I say with a grin. "Potential with a smoldering Spaniard? Or a Greek tycoon?"

She giggles. "No! But I did meet someone truly aspirational." Heress and grow dreamy, a look I've never seen on her face before.

e's "Who?"

"Rachel Griffin. She's Nicholas's half-brother's mom, and oh my the big she has the life I didn't know I wanted."

Forry, Two large platters of California rolls arrive with wasabi and soy sa and we dig in. I don't know what the chef does to them, but they shoul named cocaine rolls for how addictive they are.

After a couple of happily satisfying bites, Georgia sighs. "God, I lc California."

she "Not the rolls?"

"These too." She grins.

"Anyway, tell me about Rachel and this life you didn't know you rean, wanted." Whatever she's discovered is either really deep or really funr "Okay, so, number one, the woman's just gorgeous. I would've *ne*tting known she has a son in his mid-thirties. And she had the cutest date. I he's, like, twenty-six? Twenty-seven? He looked at her like she was the soon, goddess of his world."

g me "Is she his sugar mama?"

"Probably."

long?" "Well, there you go. That's why she's a goddess to him."

"Sure—but who cares? His tight ass would be worth it."

rope. I laugh. "So that's your life goal. Be gorgeous and date a hot guy w nice ass."

"Hey, it could be worse. And she's rich, too, which is important. H your own money like a boss is amazing, don't you think? But enough a moi, what about you and your hot guy?"

"Me?"

She leans closer. "Yes, you. You and Nicholas." Her eyes sparkle verifies Nikki conviction that there's something romantic and sexy going on between "Don't you feel weird calling your brother 'hot'?"

She scoffs. "I didn't meet him until I was eighteen, so I don't get the feeling, if that's what you're worried about. Come on. Tell your bestie everything."

ow?" "Well... He won a date with me," I say, all casual and cool.

erhaps "But before that, you guys told Nikki and Ted you were dating!" G says, her eyes sparkling. "I was listening!"

eyes "You were?"

"Yes! And it killed me to keep my mouth shut that it was you on the phone! She couldn't stop speculating about Nicholas's girlfriend and a God, me to help her figure out who it was."

"I was just helping Nicholas fake it because they were so insistent vanting grandbabies. So it's good you didn't say anything."

uce, wanting grandbabies. So it's good you didn't say anything."

d be "Oh my God, I know! She would've started calling you about mak babies with her son." Georgia's eyes narrow. "But there's gotta be more spent five million dollars. Nobody spends that kind of money at a charabachelorette auction."

"Apparently, they do it to launder money," I murmur darkly.

"Ah, shit." She knows what that means. "Your dad heard about it, "Oh, yes. And he wasted no time getting in touch."

"He's such a shitty human being. I can't believe you still talk to hin "Well. He is my dad." The only family I have left—and I'm the on think he has left. Maybe that's why I find it so hard to turn away from him. I while I resent his hurtful comments, a tiny voice inside wonders if he's —that his cruelty is really a desire for me to see the truth. Truth is suppose you free, though, not make you want to crawl into bed and never coout.

"Forget your dad. No man spends that kind of money on a girl he is interested in. Trust me. Nicholas is totally into you!" She puts a hand c vith a her mouth to contain her excitement. "I always knew there was someth about the way he looked at you."

aving "What about the way he looked at me?"

"You never noticed? When I first introduced you to him, he was st dumb. And he always has something to say. He looked at you like he'd discovered the eighth wonder of the world."

with Georgia and her exaggerations. I laugh. "He was distracted."

us. "Yeah, by you. His eyes were super-glued to your face."

I flush at her insistence, especially since she's misremembering what ick happened. "He was staring at the grass in my hair."

She shakes her head. "You are so, so sad."

"No, seriously! Remember Jordi? He put that in my hair." He was U.S. government class, and liked to put stuff in my hair for some reaso reorgia Thank God it wasn't bugs or gum that day.

"That totally wasn't why," Georgia says. "But okay, fine, I'll give some credit—I wasn't one hundred percent sure either, because he kep dating different women. But that was back then, and this is now. Why isked refusing to see what's so obvious?"

"Nicholas is bigger than life, so we're just attaching more meaning little situation than we should. I'm not going to delude myself simply b you think there's something more. I just want to enjoy what I have wit ing Nicholas while it lasts." "So you don't think it can go anywhere other than a lousy dinner d re. He "It's a five-million-dollar dinner, so probably not lousy," I correct ity primly. "But expectations are not good for me, even if we are living to right now." too?" Every time I dream of something more, things end badly, and I'm l disappointed and upset. And I just don't want to open myself up to ine pain by thinking of what could be. Whatever I have with Nicholas coul n." ly one devastate me like nothing I've ever experienced, and I'm not brave end And leave myself fully exposed.

3 right posed me

sn't ver ling

ruck

ıat

in my n.

you are you "Nicholas is bigger than life, so we're just attaching more meaning to this little situation than we should. I'm not going to delude myself simply because you think there's something more. I just want to enjoy what I have with Nicholas while it lasts."

"So you don't think it can go anywhere other than a lousy dinner date?" "It's a five-million-dollar dinner, so probably not lousy," I correct her primly. "But expectations are not good for me, even if we are living together right now."

Every time I dream of something more, things end badly, and I'm left disappointed and upset. And I just don't want to open myself up to inevitable pain by thinking of what could be. Whatever I have with Nicholas could devastate me like nothing I've ever experienced, and I'm not brave enough to leave myself fully exposed.

Chapter Thirty-One

Nicholas

"What time do we need to head to the shelter?" Molly asks over break! Saturday.

"The shelter?" My plan is to spend the day rolling around in bed w I wish she could get a three-day weekend, but apparently Jack won't gone.

Which is supremely dickish behavior. It isn't like he's running som financial empire that can't function without an accountant for a day. For glorified personal trainer, he sure is difficult.

I should make a list of things we can do over two days. Molly was unusually down on Monday, and her less-than-stellar mood continued Wednesday. I checked to see if she'd watched another girl-does-the-rig thing-only-to-die-alone-at-the-end kind of TV show, but she hadn't. Sl a few books, but she only reads romance. As far as I know, they all end "happily ever after." I even scanned them after she was finished to be and they just had a lot of creative sex scenes—most of which I intend to create—and happy endings.

When I asked her if anything was bothering her, she merely smiled said she was having issues at work. I texted Georgia in case she'd said something stupid, but she said nothing happened. They just had lunch caught up.

Asking for more details would violate our privacy. We have the rig have a girly conversation without you wanting to know everything, she me.

Sisters are brutal. My brothers would've been on my side. Noah in particular would've told me everything in detail.

"Yes, the shelter," Molly says with a laugh. "Furry Haven. We voluthere once a month? Remember?"

Oh, riiight. It's an effort not to sigh. I volunteered there to spend to with her. And now I've contributed five million dollars to their coffers which Brenda thanked me profusely. I was hoping to gracefully step by give my allergies a rest.

But Molly's looking at me with excitement shining in her eyes. An deny her nothing. "Of course I remember." I try for an airy wave. "We leave in half an hour if you want to be there by nine thirty. I'll drive."

"Great!" She beams.

I swear when she smiles like that, she can ask me for anything and give it to her.

fast on I look for my allergy meds in the bathroom cabinet. I get a special prescription because the OTC stuff doesn't work for me.

ith her. The ugly orange bottle is sitting there like some kind of petrified ive her tangerine. The same shade as Joey's hair, now that I think about it. I pi up, then curse.

If forgot to fill my prescription! Dr. Prescott can instruct the pharmater a even though it's Saturday, but there won't be time to grab the pills before hitting the shelter.

Let's see... If I take dog-walking duty and avoid going inside the s until I'll probably be okay. And I don't have to be inside anyway. It isn't like the anything on their computers. Brenda has never asked me to wash the ane read and I don't see her asking today.

I toss the empty bottle and head out. Molly's waiting, looking prett sure, pleased. I select the Flying Spur for the drive because it just feels like to re-perfect car for the day—luxurious, classy and responsive. This is the fi time we're going to the shelter together, and while spending the entire morning screwing would be better, I like how normal the shared activities. This might be why couples do volunteer work together. I should and got prescription refilled and continue, especially when she's so excited, hu along to the songs filling the car with a smile on her pink, kissable lips impossibly cute when she's like this.

texted After I pull into the lot by the shelter, I kiss her, stealing a taste. Yu flushes.

"What was that about?"

"What, a man can't kiss his pretty girlfriend?"

unteer Her flush deepens as her smile grows wider. She leans forward, he motion fast. Her mouth is aiming for my cheek, but I'm quicker. I tilt r me head so she ends up kissing me on the mouth. I try to pull her closer ar , for our mouths tighter, but she retreats hastily.

ack and "Later!" she says, bright laughter in her voice, then climbs out of the I follow her out. "If you don't mind, let's walk the dogs," I call out d I can back.

can "Okay! I'll ask Brenda!"

I'm pretty sure she won't mind. I watch her hips swinging as she w in, thinking about later, then lean on the car and check my email.

I'll Molly comes out, but without any dogs. "Brenda wants to see you, says.

"For what?"

"For what? To thank you for the donation!"

"Oh. She already said thanks, but you can tell her it was nothing. Nock it pleasure."

Molly skips over, loops her arm around mine and tugs. "Come on.

acy, to see you get credit for your good deed."

ore "No, honestly, that isn't necessary."

But she pulls at me, drawing me closer to the building. Before I cal helter, protest, I'm already past the threshold.

te I do Brenda puts down the cat she's been holding and bustles over, arm nimals, spread wide, then envelops me in a hug. The woman knows how to squ "Nicholas! Once again, thank you so much! You have no idea what the y and funding means for Furry Haven!"

"It was nothing. Glad I was able to help. If you want, I'll see about something more regular up, so the shelter doesn't have to worry about cash flow." I manage to swallow a sneeze.

ty "My goodness." Her green eyes go wide, and she folds her hands o get my chest. "That's a great idea! And so generous!"

mming Molly beams. My nose feels weird, but I can ignore that to see her . She's "Yeah, I can have my assistant Cody get in touch." I sneeze. The sl around my eyes begins to feel tingly.

m. She "Oh yes, he was very polite when we spoke on the phone. Such a n man."

"Uh-huh." I sneeze again.

"Are you okay?" Molly asks.

r "I'm—achoo!—fine." Another sneeze. Then another.

ny As Molly and Brenda watch, I let out six sneezes in a row, then sni id fuse and rub my eyes.

"Are you...allergic to something here?" Molly says, looking aroun ne car. uncertainly.

to her "I—" I sneeze.

"There's a CVS around the corner," Brenda says. "They should has something."

"No." I wave away her suggestion. "That won't work." I need to get out of here.

" she I step outside. It doesn't help much. My body's already full of dog cat dander that wants to torture me.

Molly follows me out. "Nicholas! Wait!"

I raise my hand and gesture reassuringly. It fails because I sneeze l' 4y enough to crack a rib. "Just give me some time. I'll be fine."

She puts a hand on my arm and peers into my face. "Are you allerg I want something in the shelter? If so, I'll ask Brenda and see if we can take it

When she looks at me with concern like this, I can't brush her off. "Won't work. I'm allergic to dogs and cats." I sneeze again, but thankf not as hard.

Her face goes lax with shock. "You're allergic to dogs and cats?"

s I nod, then clear my throat, feeling sheepish about admitting it.

ieeze. "But...you come to the shelter..."

"My doctor prescribes me something, but I ran out today."

"It must be serious to need a prescription."

setting "It's no big deal."

"Of course it is! Are you okay when you take the medicine?"

She's doing that concerned peering again, which never fails to make over herwant to tell her everything. If she could bottle it the CIA wouldn't have waterboard people. "Okay enough. It makes it bearable." I rub my itch happy. "You must really love animals." Her voice brims with sympathy.

wine "No," I correct her. "I mean, yes, I do love animals. But I wasn't hear. I was here for you. Volunteering here was the only way I could stime with you." I lay my past actions bare so she can understand how she is to me.

She looks at me like a bunny, mouth open and eyes glazed as she to process what I just said. Her reaction tightens a painful vise around my Why can't she just believe it's possible for me to feel something deep ffle her?

n

"You came here to spend time with me. Even though you're that ald to animals?"

I nod. Then I remember something else I should come clean about. since it's time for confessions, I'm just going to let you know I'm the I you couldn't find an apartment."

She blinks up at me.

"I had Cody snap up every apartment that met your criteria. I didn' you to leave."

and

ve

"That's a lot of apartments. And money."

"There's nothing I wouldn't do for a chance with you."

Her lashes flutter as she digests what I'm telling her. "I wasn't wor ard she says finally, in a small voice.

"You're wrong." I look her in the eye. "You're worth everything." gic to The confession hangs in the air. She blinks, and something shutters tout." eyes.

An invisible line forms between us, and she retreats behind it. She and unfolds her hands, dropping her gaze to the gray, cracked asphalt between us.

Somehow it's worse now that I've said what's in my heart, compar before when I just showed her a good time in bed. It sends a painful pa through my chest until I almost wish I hadn't said anything.

Still, I wait. The ball's in her court.

Time passes, unbearably slowly.

Finally, she takes a deep breath, her eyes glinting like precious stor. She comes over and hugs me. My tension vanishes. I put my arms arouse me her, holding her tightly, as she buries her face in my chest.

e to "Thank you. That's the nicest thing anybody's ever said to me." He y eyes. voice is muffled, but clear enough.

I hold her, grateful that she's erased the line she drew. It couldn't here for been easy, giving up her mental and emotional shelter, and respect and admiration for her courage swell in my heart.

special I kiss the crown of her head as I vow never to allow anything to hu ries to r chest.

for

"You came here to spend time with me. Even though you're that allergic to animals?"

I nod. Then I remember something else I should come clean about. "And since it's time for confessions, I'm just going to let you know I'm the reason you couldn't find an apartment."

She blinks up at me.

"I had Cody snap up every apartment that met your criteria. I didn't want you to leave."

"That's a lot of apartments. And money."

"There's nothing I wouldn't do for a chance with you."

Her lashes flutter as she digests what I'm telling her. "I wasn't worth it," she says finally, in a small voice.

"You're wrong." I look her in the eye. "You're worth everything."

The confession hangs in the air. She blinks, and something shutters in her eyes.

An invisible line forms between us, and she retreats behind it. She folds and unfolds her hands, dropping her gaze to the gray, cracked asphalt between us.

Somehow it's worse now that I've said what's in my heart, compared to before when I just showed her a good time in bed. It sends a painful pang through my chest until I almost wish I hadn't said anything.

Still, I wait. The ball's in her court.

Time passes, unbearably slowly.

Finally, she takes a deep breath, her eyes glinting like precious stones. She comes over and hugs me. My tension vanishes. I put my arms around her, holding her tightly, as she buries her face in my chest.

"Thank you. That's the nicest thing anybody's ever said to me." Her voice is muffled, but clear enough.

I hold her, grateful that she's erased the line she drew. It couldn't have been easy, giving up her mental and emotional shelter, and respect and admiration for her courage swell in my heart.

I kiss the crown of her head as I vow never to allow anything to hurt her.

Chapter Thirty-Two

Molly

Monday at the office, my hands pause on the keyboard as my mind wa back. I still can't believe I hugged Nicholas like that outside Furry Hav When he made himself vulnerable and told me why he came to the she even though he's allergic to dogs and cats, my first instinct was to pull because I didn't feel like I deserved the kind of care he was giving me.

But then pain flashed in his eyes, and I realized I was hurting him was my reaction, and I had to give him a hug.

And it worked! The smile he gave me took my breath away with its beauty. But I was still slightly panicked, as though I'd peeled off a pro layer.

Nicholas will never purposely cause me pain. I know that much. Be don't have to mean it to wound someone. Even with the best intentions sometimes it just happens.

Sighing, I save the work I've been doing and pull out my phone to break. Let's see...what's on Instagram? Lots of posts about upcoming Some talk about old favorites. I should do a monthly read update next Maybe I can make some cool visuals in Nicholas's library. I've already three posts there, but it's just too gorgeous not to use again.

I notice a tag notification and frown. Dana? She and I have no reascross paths, even on Instagram. She does fitness; I do books. Our hash couldn't be more different.

The post she tagged me on is a video showing Dana in Owen's townhouse. The master bathroom is the same—except for tons of make strewn all over the vanity. Wait, does she have three tubes of mascara? squint at the screen. Oh yes she does. Why the need for three? Even if used one per eye, she'd only need two.

She twists around, showing off a dress.

"I know I mostly talk about achieving fitness and a healthy lifestyle through better eating and physical activity. But today, I want to touch (different benefit of the lifestyle I'm promoting." Unlike most of her vic this one has subtitles scrolling across the bottom of the screen as she ta "My fiancé told me he's never been with anybody who can satisfy him do. I think that's one of the biggest reasons we hit it off so well—amaz sexual compatibility. It's so critical to your physical and emotional wellbeing. It's unfortunate we don't talk about the subject as much as should because we're embarrassed or sex is taboo."

Well, good for her and Owen. I guess it's important for him to find somebody who's content with the little pops he hands out during sex. I nders he got on his knees and begged me to take him back, I wouldn't. Not a zen. Nicholas and realizing how I've been getting cheated out of real orgas lter kind that shake you up like a powerful earthquake. About all I can do v Nicholas makes me come is clutch him until the shock waves pass and come back down from the exhilarating height. with Dana drones on. "Over the last three weeks, I've started a new diet exercise regimen, which I've shared with you already. And now that I' tective a few extra pounds and gained more flexibility and strength, our satisfa in the bedroom—and the living room, and the kitchen"—she gives a sa ut you wink—"has increased even more. And when I say more, I know it's no on my end. He says it's so much more satisfying to make love to a stro 3, body, one that has the stamina to go for those marathon sessions, than take a more neglected one that's carrying some extra baggage. And as every books. knows, a satisfied man is a man who won't stray." She gives a little sh "It's a bit of a challenge to maintain the lifestyle I've committed to week. y made can do it for my fiancé. He deserves the effort—and all my love.

Relationships are a two-way street. You have to get off your butt and c half before you can expect your partner to carry the weight too and ma relationship better. I can't wait to see how much our lives improve onc the three-month mark with my new routine." She blows a kiss to the ca "You gotta work for what's important! We're all on an individual jour self-improvement, so that we can be loved and accepted for who we ar

She doesn't mention my name, but I know this post is all about me else would she tag me? And those subtitles, with the italics!

Fuck her. Outrage starts to swell until my chest feels tight. She's bar blaming me for the relationship not working out, and hinting that I'm t

back

son to tags

eup) T

she

e and unmotivated to "improve" myself. The parting remark about being on a and accepted for who we are digs in like an ice pick.

deos, There are so many comments agreeing with her. Some even say a palks. who doesn't try is a valid reason for breaking up.

Since Dana made sure to tag me, Owen and our mutual friends and acquaintances are going to know the video is about me. Actually, some people who follow my account are going to notice, too. Public humilia we sears my gut until I feel like curling up into a fetal position.

I reach for the home-baked cookie I brought with me and take a bit stop. Dana's words about self-improvement—especially the part about Even if weight—boom in my head, full of judgment. And the fact that I might fter giving up on better sex.

ms, the I'm not too worried about getting better orgasms, because the sex i when already fantastic. But would it make it better for Nicholas...? He seems I can insatiable, but it's the beginning of the relationship. And he might get orgasms if I did something about my body.

and I touch my belly. It's soft. Squishy. And my thighs jiggle when I pove lost them.

Now my dad's voice joins Dana's. I'm pretty sure I'm never going have a body like Mom, but...

It's possible I'm not doing my part. Viewed objectively, my relation with Nicholas is pretty one-sided in my favor. He's letting me live with one a for free, and I don't even have to do any chores or chip in with expension He's much wealthier than I am, of course, but maybe I'm taking advantug. without meaning to. And maybe doing what Dana said could be my way, but I contributing. I'd hate to give the impression that I don't care about our relationship. I want Nicholas to know how special he is to me. I'd hate lo your him to think I take him for granted.

ke the I dump the rest of the cookie in the trash can and text Georgia.

e I hit

amera. –Me: Did you see what Dana posted? She tagged me.

ney of —Georgia: Gimme a sec.

e."

. Why A couple of moments later, I get another ping.

asically —Georgia: What a bitch! What the hell kind of passive-aggressive to lazyis that?

loved

I smile a little at my bestie's outrage, but it isn't enough to silence partner words echoing in my head.

–Me: But maybe she's right about needing to self-improve.

e of the

tion Two beats pass.

e, then —Georgia: Are you smoking something?

losing —Me: No! I'm talking about me and Nicholas.

be —Georgia: Does he have trouble getting hard or maintaining an erec

-Me: Seriously? You really want to know that about your brother?

s —Georgia: Stepbrother. And this is so I can tell you whether he's w keeping or not.

better

for

I sigh. Georgia.

oke –Me: No and no.

-Georgia: Okay. So why do you need to change anything? Men call to hard if they aren't attracted to the body they're seeing.

nship And they certainly won't go down on you all weekend if they find y h him unappealing. You threw your cookie away for nothing! says a baleful v es. my head.

On the other hand, I am in one of the best-equipped gyms in the stary of which I can use for free... And what Dana said keeps playing in my he an infinite loop.

I sigh again and head out of the office to the gym floor. Dana and I friends are on the elliptical machines, their taut bodies bobbing at a ste pace. One of them says something, and they all burst out laughing.

Bitterness, envy and insecurity wind through me. I'm never going like them. And I hate how Dana has picked on me again—even now the we're done with high school—and I loathe how she was able to skewe easily. But just because I'm older now doesn't mean the old self-doubt gone.

Jerking my eyes away, I go to the shop inside the gym and buy son bullshit exercise clothes and shoes. Employees get forty percent off, so it isn't expensive to grab them all.

I hand the items I picked out to Petra to scan at the cash register. "(Dana's choice. These are really stretchy and breathable," she says with a smile "Thanks."

A voice comes from behind me. "Those for you?"

Jack. What's he doing here? Isn't he supposed to be touching—er, spotting—his female clients? I paste on a smile. "Well, you know. Figit'd take advantage of the free membership."

"Good for you." He turns to Petra. "You know what? Comp those. treat."

No. Totally not necessary. He's going to want to get paid by a long ction? uninterrupted viewing of my boobs, and I'm not that desperate for free Petra looks at him. "I already scanned them and rang them up."

orth Jack goes around the counter and inputs a code into the system. "T His smarmy smile makes my skin crawl. But just because he's a cr doesn't mean I should be rude when he's done something nice, even if something I never asked for. "Thanks," I say tightly.

"You know what? I have some free time around four, so why don't get show you some basic stuff?"

"Oh no, it's fine. You've already done enough with the free clothes shoes."

ou "Ah, it won't be any trouble. And there's no sense spending time a roice in gym spinning your wheels. Results are what count!"

"I really can't afford personal training."

His laughter booms. "You're hilarious. I'd never charge you for ead in something like that. Besides, you know your father got you some persons sessions."

ner Oh crap. I totally forgot about that!

ady "I should check how many, but I don't mind throwing in a couple f to help you meet your fitness goals."

to look Petra cocks an eyebrow at Jack. I want to bang my head against the lat counter. I should've gone to another gym—a Curves or something that r me so accepts women.

s are "I'm not done with work until five," I say. "And I really don't wan mess up your schedule. I'm sure it's full with—" ne "It's fine. I'm free today, and I can wait until five." He smiles at m that breasts.

So he's going to exercise patience in order to grope me. Gross.

Good I return to my office. Now I wish I could find a reason not to exerc at the same time, giving up before starting feels like letting Jack and D ž. win. I'll just do some cardio. He can't really do much if I'm on a tread and trying to run, can he? I check my phone, praying I have somebody else who wants to inte me in case LocalGro doesn't work out. ured -Nicholas: What do you want for dinner? Go out? Eat in? Whateve My prefer. ١, stuff. I smile. He truly has a magical ability to make me happy. He could "Boo," and I'd still smile. here." –Me: I'm going to be a little late. So maybe we can go out at aroun eep it's 8. -Nicholas: What's going on? Jack making you work overtime? -Me: No. I need to exercise. tΙ s and t a onal reebies : only t to

y

I return to my office. Now I wish I could find a reason not to exercise, but at the same time, giving up before starting feels like letting Jack and Dana win. I'll just do some cardio. He can't really do much if I'm on a treadmill and trying to run, can he?

I check my phone, praying I have somebody else who wants to interview me in case LocalGro doesn't work out.

-Nicholas: What do you want for dinner? Go out? Eat in? Whatever you prefer.

I smile. He truly has a magical ability to make me happy. He could text, "Boo," and I'd still smile.

- −Me: I'm going to be a little late. So maybe we can go out at around 7 or 8.
 - -Nicholas: What's going on? Jack making you work overtime?
 - -Me: No. I need to exercise.

Chapter Thirty-Three

Nicholas

I need to exercise...?

I stare at my phone. Molly doesn't enjoy working out. She's never expressed any interest in the gym at the mansion, and Georgia mentior once that the free Get Jacked membership is wasted on Molly.

So what's up with this sudden desire to work out? I have five minu before the next meeting, so I call her.

"What's going on?" I say when she answers.

"Oh, hi. I didn't think you'd call. Um, it isn't a big deal." She lauglittle. "I just feel like I should. Something I just want to do. We're dati I just want to do my part and be, you know, better girlfriend material."

Better girlfriend material? Who filled her head with this garbage? don't need you to be 'better girlfriend material.' You're already a great girlfriend. Perfect."

"Thank you." The warmth in her voice overlays a sliver of skeptici running underneath. She either doesn't believe she's a great girlfriend thinks I'm just saying it. Neither of which is good. "Anyway, I'll be fin not going to hurt myself or anything. The gym's full of trainers."

And Jack Peterson. That cheating, opportunistic asshole. And Artu "You don't have any clothes to exercise in," I say, hoping to talk to person about this later this evening. If she wants to exercise for herself in full support. But if she's doing this for me—God forbid—or because somebody told her some weird shit, I'm going to ask her to stop. It's or going to be torturous, and she'll end up resenting and dreading it.

"I got some from the store here. Jack gave them to me for free."

Oh, he did, huh? Wrong move. I pay for things for my girl. "I'll se soon, sweetheart."

"See you soon." She hangs up.

I step outside the office. Cody stands from his desk, holding some and documents. Today his hair is gelled to the max, sticking up in angiblack spikes. Dark circles around his hazel eyes make him look like he into a bar fight last night, but they're from lack of sleep. I told him to I assistant, but he hasn't done it yet.

"Cancel all my meetings for the afternoon. I'm not available."

He places his notes neatly on the desk. "Reschedule or cancel the e acquisition?"

I almost forgot. This afternoon's meetings are about a cement manufacturer acquisition. The company's been struggling under poor management, and I plan to fix it and turn it profitable. "Reschedule."

I drive to the original Get Jacked Gym. I know it well—Mom train with Jack there before she decided to fall for his charms. Smarmy shit. has a pattern. He flatters his female clients and constantly touches then "spot" them and "prevent injuries." Once his clients become comfortal with his seemingly innocent touches, he escalates until he gets into the pants. What he didn't know was Mom wasn't his usual bimbo. She wa annoyed when she found out he was seeing somebody else long-term, ng, and also getting his rocks off on the side with an assortment of short-term I The dictionary has Mom's picture underneath "capricious," but there's thing she absolutely insists on—faithfulness from her partner.

Molly isn't the type to fall for that sort of thing, either. She's too he to betray me with Jack, no matter how charming he is. But that doesn't sm I'm okay with that piece of shit putting his hands on her.

or she I park my car and walk into the gym. A female trainer with a brigh ne. I'm comes over. "Hi! Can I help you?"

"I'm here to see Molly. If you'll just point me to her office..."

ro. She checks out my bespoke suit and hand-stitched leather shoes, the her in her head. Naked curiosity blooms on her face. "What's this about?" , I'm "I'm her boyfriend."

e Her eyes grow wide. "Oh! I had no idea. Well. You can walk throu there, and her office is the third door on your left. It says accounting. You can't miss it."

I nod my thanks and reach Molly's office. I knock and try to turn the you knob, but it doesn't budge.

"Who is it?" comes her voice.

"It's me."

notes Something clatters inside. A moment later there's a click and the dopens.

Molly sticks her head out, surprise written all over her face. "Nicht ire an It's almost like she was masturbating or watching porn in there. Who I their office door?

"Can I come in?" I ask.

entire "Yeah, sure." She pulls back and gestures for me to enter.

The office isn't anything special. It has no windows—which makes space feel smaller than it is—and is crammed with two metal filing cal a modestly sized desk with a faux-wood top and a wheeled chair that should've been replaced a decade ago. Jack apparently doesn't spend r money on the offices in the back, because the gym area has a lot of the modern machines that I have in my home gym. The bouquet I sent live the space a little. Otherwise, it's basically a jail cell.

ole She closes the door, then turns the knob until something clicks.

ir "Why are you locking the door?"

s quite "Safety reasons."

ed

He

n to and Instant alarm blares through me. "What happened?" There could'v flings. a stalker or some weirdo with anger management issues.

one "Nothing. It just makes me feel more secure."

Is she downplaying a threat to her safety to make me feel better? Bonest doesn't seem scared or anything. Maybe the gym just has annoying permean who don't knock. I had one too, until I fired him for barging into office conference rooms once too often. It almost cost us a lucrative buyout.

t smile "Sorry there's no place for you to sit."

"It's fine." I like having her stand with me, especially in the small She's close enough that I can smell the shampoo in her hair.

en tilts "What are you doing here?" she asks.

"Did you really mean that about the exercise?"

Her gaze drops to her phone briefly, a frown pinching her eyebrow more of an answer than anything she could say. "Yes. But seriously, I' fine. I'm not going to hurt myself lifting anything heavy, although Jacl offered to wait until after work to train me."

he Son of a bitch! "Tell him no."

"Uh. Now?" She blinks a couple of times.

"Yes. Now, Molly."

"I wasn't really going to let him train me," she says.

oor "Still. I want you to make your position clear."

She picks up her phone and texts. Then she shows me the screen. " olas?"

ocks —Me: Can't make it to the training session after all! Sorry!

"You're too nice," I mutter. But then, expecting her to flip the bird shitty boss is unrealistic. She's too sweet.

s the "Um, I'm planning to do mostly cardio, so..."

oinets, "You don't think you get enough cardio?" I place a hand at her was herd her toward her chair.

nuch "Um..." She sits down. "I don't know...?"

shiny, I put a hand on each of the armrests and lean over. She looks up at ans up her eyes growing wide. Does she have any idea how scrumptious she i When she looks at me like that, I want to drag her into a dark corner ar ravish her.

"I see. Well, that's entirely my fault," I say. "Let's go for twenty m of cardio at seventy percent max heart rate. We'll do it together."

e been Her gaze darts back and forth. "Here? There's no machine—"

"Oh, yes there is." I pull out my phone and set the timer for twenty minutes—I'm going to need two minutes to get us ready.

ople of the seat. I push her skirt up, then rip her thong.

es and She gasps.

"Don't worry. I'll buy you another." I shoulder between her legs, spreading her thighs.

office. "People could—"

I spread her flesh, then lick her.

Whatever protest welling in her throat dies. And I'm on her mercile There's no teasing or taking time. If she wants her cardio, I'm more the s. It's happy to give it to her.

Her breathing quickens instantly. Soon her muscles tighten, then shan orgasm thrums through her body. She arches her back and digs her into my hair, tugging as though to pull me away. But her pelvis is rock against my mouth, and I let out a satisfied hum as I push her harder.

She twists, moaning and begging in a hoarse whisper. I hold her hi tightly while I position her legs over my shoulders to spread her wider, her more helpless and vulnerable. She's dripping, coating my lips and with salty sweetness. I feel the racing pulsing in her pussy as I drive he Here." harder.

Her legs move restlessly. The need to debauch her in her office so everyone knows who she belongs to is pounding in my head, but I tam the desire. I don't want to scare her by revealing just how crazy I am for "Oh my God, please," she sobs. "I want you inside me."

My dick grows impossibly hard. But I ignore her pleas and place n over her heart, which beats hard and fast against my palm. I plunge my ist and tongue into her pussy, feel the tight trembling.

"I can't..." she whimpers, but she's rocking her slick flesh against face, desperately seeking another high.

me, I suck on her clit, loving her wild response. Her whole body slowly s? taut, ready for another climax—nd My phone alarm goes off, and I pull back from her.

"Wait, no," she says, reaching for me. Her face is flushed, and swe ninutes mists her skin. A tremor runs through her. She was so, so close when n phone went off.

"Can you brace yourself?" I ask.

-two She shakes her head weakly. "But maybe I can if there's a reward." gives me a playful grin.

e edge "There'll be a reward." I tuck a wayward strand of hair behind her Knocks. She flinches, pulling away, while I glare at the door.

"Molly?" It's Jack. Her hand flies to her mouth, and she stares at the door, her eyes going round with shock. "I just saw your text and wante tell you my schedule's flexible, and I can show you anything you need

I squint at the door, like I can see through the material. "She's busy shoot back.

essly. She bites back a laugh.

to her an "What the hell? Who are you?" he shouts.

"Her man."

"What the fuck? You can't be there!" He adds more protests, but I' fingers listening. I have something more important to do.

I push everything onto a corner of the desk and bend her over. Her is against the now-cleared surface. I push her skirt up to expose all of l gorgeous ass. I kiss it, then scrape the edge of my teeth along the curve, leave while running a finger along her still-quivering folds. She tenses, then tongue whimpers, squirming against my mouth. She's still on the edge, and th er even presence of Jack on the other side of the door isn't going to stop her froclimaxing. "Please, Nicholas."

"Molly!" Jack shouts, like that's going to make her give a damn.

p down "Go away, Jack! I'm busy!" Molly says.

or her. I press a quick kiss on the tip of her ear. "Good girl."

Ignoring Jack cursing from the other side of the door, I pull out my 1y handand quickly sheathe it with a condom. I drive into her, the motion raw powerful. The old desk squeaks in protest. She presses a fist against he mouth to muffle a cry as she spams around me.

my I can't get enough of her. I can't get enough of her losing herself ir pleasure I'm giving her.

I pound into her hard, savagely, over and over again so she comes another climax. The desk screeches as it gets bumped across the cheap linoleum floor. Her pussy grips me greedily, and sweat beads along my at and forehead. Heat pours through my veins. I drown in an orgasm as h vagina shudders around me.

To avoid crushing her, I brace my weight on my hands. I kiss the b her neck. She reaches back and caresses my cheek.

"That was amazing," she murmurs after a moment, in the quiet afte "And great cardio. Accelerated heart rate. Prolonged period." I pre-ear. another kiss on the delicate spot right below her ear. "You're already a girlfriend, and I can't get enough of you. You have no idea how hard in the me to resist the temptation to dissolve my company and spend my entited to eating your pussy and pounding into it."

." A flush creeps up her neck.

I take the hand that's been caressing my cheek and kiss her empty finger. "I don't know what suddenly motivated you to work out. If you to be healthier, I'm all for it. But just know that I've always wanted yo way you are." I kiss the finger again. One day, I'm going to put more t kiss on it.

'm not Molly shivers, then twists so she can look at me. "You knew the re before I told you." She's quiet but also in awe, like she can't believe I chest that keenly aware of her needs.

"Yes." I smile. "But if you're still determined to get in shape, we c harder session tonight when you get home." cock and r ı the apart in y spine er

ack of erglow.

SS

great t is for re life ring want u the han a ason was an do a

Chapter Thirty-Four

Nicholas

I roll my shoulders after the rescheduled meeting the next day. The company's not as bad as I feared, but it's going to need some painful adjustments.

My phone buzzes. I look at it, wondering if it's Molly. But nope, it group-texting.

-Sebastian: Luce's new assistant went overboard with the tart orde sent some to your offices, enough to feed yourselves and your people.

I raise my eyebrows. The new assistant must've screwed up the ord a factor of about a hundred for Sebastian to want to send them our way

- -Noah: Are these tarts the naughty Ted Lasker kind, or are they actiond?
- —Sebastian: Food, you idiot. Nicholas, I sent you some blueberry o since they're your favorite.
 - -Me: Thanks, but I can't eat blueberries anymore.
 - -Grant: What? Since when?
 - –Me: Since Molly is allergic.
 - -Griffin: Eating a blueberry won't turn you into one.
- -Me: I don't want anything that could make her uncomfortable neadon't know how severe her allergy is, and I'm not going to risk it.
 - –Noah: You're a better man than me. I'd miss them like crazy.
 - -Me: I do miss them, but Molly is more important.
 - –Huxley: And people say true love is dead.
 - -Me: It is dead to you since you only use it to sell things.
 - -Huxley: Not my fault people are so in love with love that they'll b things they don't need with money they don't have!

-Noah: I'll take everyone's tarts. I'm not allergic to anything, and have anyone to worry about.

I snort. Noah doesn't have an office to feed, but he can probably earthan an office, especially if it's carbs.

–Noah: Also, you gotta do something about that girl, Nicholas.

-Me: What girl?

He attaches a screencap of Dana Mincer's Instagram account.

-Noah: The beer-swilling ass-thong chick!

's Seb —Noah: In case you didn't know, she tagged your girl in this video. almost missed it, but you know me. I see everything.

-Emmett: The NSA should hire you.

r, so I —Noah: They can't afford me!

-Griffin: Even a donkey can set up a Google Alert.

der by Griffin's eye-roll comes through.

7.

—Me: When do you have the time to photograph cheetahs and write tual book?

–Noah: I multitask.

nes

I open the link he sent. As I watch the video, I understand why Mo developed a sudden desire to exercise. And something else as well.

I've had enough of those two.

-Griffin: That's fucking nasty.

ur me. I —Huxley: What a coward. If she has something to say, she should s Molly's face.

-Grant: You aren't going to let this go, are you?

-Me: No. I'll find some way to get them back, don't worry.

-Noah: Too late and no need! I already got the dirt on them.

-Me: What? When?

ouy —Noah: Call me the Internet Ninja! Let me send you what I found.

welcome. You may kiss my beautifully formed ass when next you see I don't —Me: Show me what you dug up. We'll see about the ass kissing la—Noah: Oh, it's good. Something nasty enough to completely fuck He'll never be able to get a date after this. Or laid, unless he pays. Assist more hookers will want him.

I have no clue what Noah found, but if he's this confident, it's goir good. Although Noah acts like he can't be bothered about most things, most of us, he has a vindictive streak. If he decides he hates you, he'll himself to making your life hell.

-Me: What about Dana? What do you have on her?

I Want her destroyed for what she's done to Molly. She's just as ba Owen.

–Noah: Depending on what she does, I'm going to have something

An email from Noah pops into my inbox. I click on it, then smile s This should set things in motion.

your −Me: Thanks, Noah.

-Noah: My pleasure, bro. Nobody messes with the Lasker ladies at away with it.

-Me: Agreed.

lly

And I'm going to make sure that Owen not only gets fired, but he I gets another writing gig again.

ay it to

You're

welcome. You may kiss my beautifully formed ass when next you see me.

- –Me: Show me what you dug up. We'll see about the ass kissing later.
- -Noah: Oh, it's good. Something nasty enough to completely fuck him. He'll never be able to get a date after this. Or laid, unless he pays. Assuming hookers will want him.

I have no clue what Noah found, but if he's this confident, it's going to be good. Although Noah acts like he can't be bothered about most things, like most of us, he has a vindictive streak. If he decides he hates you, he'll devote himself to making your life hell.

-Me: What about Dana? What do you have on her?

I want her destroyed for what she's done to Molly. She's just as bad as Owen.

–Noah: Depending on what she does, I'm going to have something ready.

An email from Noah pops into my inbox. I click on it, then smile slowly. This should set things in motion.

- -Me: Thanks, Noah.
- -Noah: My pleasure, bro. Nobody messes with the Lasker ladies and gets away with it.
 - -Me: Agreed.

And I'm going to make sure that Owen not only gets fired, but he never gets another writing gig again.

Chapter Thirty-Five

Molly

On Thursday, I leave Get Jacked at eleven and take an Uber to LocalG regional office, since my car refused to start this morning. I don't know what's wrong. Nicholas took a look, then instructed Cody to have it rej

"Take one of mine," he said, gesturing at rows of gleaming vehicle garage, including the brand-new truck he bought to help me move, but touched since.

"No, thank you." There was no way I'd take a car worth as much a house. If anything happened to it, I didn't think selling my kidneys wo enough to compensate him.

So Nicolas drove me to the gym and said he'd come pick me up at even though I said not to bother. He seems to think that that's what boyfriends do. But I can't pull him out of his busy schedule just to ask take me to a job interview.

My phone pings again with another text from Owen. What is up wi him? He's been calling and texting incessantly since yesterday. I block number—no reason not to, and I don't want him bugging me while I'n interview.

The grocery chain's SoCal office is in a stout building with the firs LocalGro to open in the state on the first floor. I sign in with security a head to the third floor. The HR person told me I'll be speaking with Sa Jefferson.

The interior is colorful, with lettuce-green carpeting and bright yell and orange walls. Framed photos of fresh produce and fish dot the sun corridor, and everyone seems to be busy.

Although Sabrina's the VP of accounting, her office isn't ostentation has the same green carpet as everywhere else and sports a poster of the pyramid on one wall. Her glass-top desk is functional, with a small me cabinet. The printer on the stand next to her desk is a plain inkjet unit, nothing fancy.

Sabrina lifts her eyes from her laptop and stands. She's a statuesqu woman with midnight skin and a welcoming smile, the kind that invite to tell her all your secrets.

"Welcome to LocalGro! I'm so happy to finally meet you in persor voice is warm and resonant.

"And you as well. Thanks for inviting me." I smile.

We sit down and settle into the interview. "Mind if I ask why you'l leaving Get Jacked Gym?" she asks. "I hear they pay very well."

ro's The bluntness of the question throws me for a second, but I like it t v doesn't try to play games and gets to the point. If this is how she mana paired. people, I'm going to love working for her. "They do, but I'm looking f is in his different challenges and more responsibilities so I can grow in my care hasn't feel like LocalGro is the place for it. It's a bigger organization with modepartments and a more complex financial structure."

s a She nods. "I see you've done your homework." She verifies some ould be items on my résumé and asks the standard interview questions like "W your biggest strengths and weaknesses?" and "What's the greatest chalfive, you've faced at Get Jacked and how did you resolve it?"

My biggest challenge is my boss's uncontrollable love for my break him to But, of course, I can't say that, so I discuss some of the issues I've had couple of trainers wanting to be paid in advance.

th "Finally, if you could be any animal in the world, what would you this why?" Sabrina asks.

at the "A dolphin. They're intelligent, sociable and loyal. They never lear of their pod members behind."

t "That's a nice answer. Do you have any questions for me?"

"When will I hear from you about your decision?" Please say, "Yo lbrina hired!" right now!

"In a week or two. There's one more candidate we're interviewing "Okay. Well, thanks again for seeing me." I stand, and we shake he on my way back to the gym, my shoulders sag with disappointment the company is interviewing other people for the position. But if I were ous. It I'd be doing the same thing. Hopefully, Sabrina picks me. If not... We food just keep on submitting résumés until I have a firm offer. Gotta play the to win the prize!

One of our trainers, James, notices me walking back inside. "Did y Uber?" he asks, doing a slow air curl. Apparently it's something called "isotension," which Petra told me is a fancy word for flexing. He always you flexes his arms when he speaks. It's like his vocal cords are attached to humerus.

1." Her "Yeah. My car wouldn't start this morning."

"You should've asked me. I could've driven you."

"Ob. there's Dut I didn't want to bother anyhods."

"Oh, thanks. But I didn't want to bother anybody."

re In addition to his incessant arm flexing, James loves to gossip abou everything he hears to anybody who'll listen. I don't want him spreadichat she word that I'm looking for a new job.

ges "I don't mind," he says.

for "Thanks." But no.

er. I I'm just walking into my office when my phone pings. Sabrina alr ore But it's Georgia.

of the —Georgia: OMG, Karma's a bitch! Did you see what happened?

hat are —Me: No. What was it?

llenge —Georgia: Owen's been canceled! He was fired yesterday. Or mayl day before. Anyway, that isn't important. What's cool is that he's been sts.

I stare at her text for a long moment. Owen always said he was sec be and his position because nobody else could do what he could. He also said could bring in more clicks than any other food critic—which was appa ve one true. He has the biggest online following at the restaurant review site v he works.

u're –Me: What happened?

-Georgia: Somebody found some of his old Tweets and emails, disparaging big women for eating at restaurants when they "should be ands. home, dieting." Lemme send you the screencap.

it that

e them, The Tweet Georgia forwards me is much worse than she made it so ll, I'll Owen didn't just stop at telling big women to stay home and eat lettuce the gamealso attached a picture of an enormous pig covered with mud and capti it, What certain women look like when they're eating chocolate.

Oh my God! How awful. What a jerk! It's so gross that I dated him did he really feel about me while we were together? Did he disparage I ys And why in the world did he say, "I love you," if he thinks this about V who aren't Dana-sized?

And Georgia said "Tweets." So there must be more. And emails to The Tweet Georgia sent is only four years old, so he can't blame y ignorance.

ng the defend him publicly, but made the post private when she got so many a comments on it. Her entire Instagram account is private now.

–Me: OMG. That explains why she wasn't at the gym.

-Georgia: I doubt that beer brewery's going to keep her on. She lite eady? blamed women for being humorless and taking themselves too serious she also said the only people who'd be bothered by what Owen said ar people who have inferiority complexes." Apparently, "if you're proud happy in the body you're in, you don't need anybody else's validation.

wow. She really dug it deep. On the other hand, that type of attitude her doesn't surprise me. I've never heard her say, "I'm sorry," to anybe And it isn't because she's never done anything wrong.

k. Hmm. I wonder if Owen was contacting me to get me to defend hir ure in delusional if he honestly believes I'll do anything of the sort.

rently —Georgia: Those two deserve each other. I'm so happy they're goir where be miserable together.

I smile a little. I'm a bit surprised I'm not feeling anything strong f them one way or the other, unlike before, when I'd just been dumped. particularly thrilled about him losing his job or Dana going through whee's going through. But at the same time, I don't have much sympathy They've been selfish and unkind. Not just with the social media posts, with people in general.

Dund. But I'm not going to spend a lot of time on this. Owen and Dana ar e. He my past. Nicholas is my present.

I wrap up the latest sales figures and projections and send them to latest to review. At five sharp I shut down my computer and head out so Nic

he at oned

! How won't have to wait.

to ne too? The instant I step out of the air-conditioned gym's thumping music vomen the heat and street noises of Los Angeles, a rough hand grabs me and y me to the side. My heart starts racing. Am I getting mugged?

o. "What the fuck, Molly? I've been trying to reach you for over two outhful "Owen? What are you doing here?"

My ex doesn't look so suave now. A baseball cap is low on his hea dark Aviator glasses cover his eyes. Facial hair too long to be stubble a short to be a beard covers his chin, and he smells faintly of vinegar.

angry There's a dark purplish and yellow stain on his blue T-shirt, which shock. The Owen I used to know would die rather than appear unkemp public.

erally "I know you're upset about how we ended, but you didn't have to sely. And your boyfriend on me. Jesus, Molly! You had him buy the place where e "fat work, dig up dirt about me and fire me? That's low. I never wished you and "What are you talking about?"

"Drop the innocent act!" He points a finger at me. "We both know. Actually, Dana knows too. And digging up old Tweets? If you're that le from with me, fine, come yell at me all you like. But you don't get to destro ody. I've built."

I yank my arm away from his grip. "I hate to shake you up, but I hat n. He's really been thinking about you. You think I'd be obsessed enough with have Nicholas buy the place you write for and fire you? Or dig up you Tweets? I don't care about you! I've moved on. I'm living my life. And life that no longer includes you."

"Just change his mind."

Owen is only hearing what he wants to hear. And he's going to bel or what he wants to believe.

I'm not "Owen, listen. I don't have that kind of influence over him."

"This is some kind of revenge for what I said, isn't it?" Owen slash y. arm up and down in frustration, like a guillotine. Maybe he's fantasizin but about putting me and Nicholas on a chopping block.

"What in particular are you talking about?" He's said a lot of thing te in past few weeks.

"About my personal brand! That's why you're destroying it! You'ı Elaine jealous because you don't have one of your own that's worth anything holas "Oh, for— I don't care about your brand! I wasn't with you for a b

"Of course you were! You must be a stupid bitch if you think I dor know." into "Molly, go to the car." 7anks I squeeze my eyes shut. Nicholas didn't need to see this humiliatin days!" with my ex. "Now, please." He pats my shoulder gently. I start toward his Spectre. He doesn't follow, so I guess he wants to d, and and too a word with Owen. Should I intervene? Stop things from escalating? Owen might prov Nicholas. He's angry enough to do anything. is a But if I butt in now, it might look like I don't trust Nicholas's judg et in which isn't true. He can handle himself. I have faith. sic ! I u ill." upset y what aven't ı you to r old d it's a ieve nes his ng s in the :e rand!"

"Of course you were! You must be a stupid bitch if you think I don't know."

"Molly, go to the car."

I squeeze my eyes shut. Nicholas didn't need to see this humiliating scene with my ex.

"Now, please." He pats my shoulder gently.

I start toward his Spectre. He doesn't follow, so I guess he wants to have a word with Owen.

Should I intervene? Stop things from escalating? Owen might provoke Nicholas. He's angry enough to do anything.

But if I butt in now, it might look like I don't trust Nicholas's judgment, which isn't true. He can handle himself. I have faith.

Chapter Thirty-Six

Nicholas

I check to make sure Molly's in the car before I turn my focus on Owe a guy so concerned with "his personal brand," he looks like shit. And I smells like some kind of salad dressing.

"I'm going to sue your ass for wrongful termination!" he shouts, ja a finger repeatedly in my face. He's trying hard to look tough to comp for his lack of height and muscle.

It doesn't work.

I step inside his personal space. "Feel free. Now, say what you just earlier. To my face."

"Or, like...what?" he blusters, sticking his chest out. It isn't an impressive pose. "You think I can't tell you to your face I'm going to syour ass?"

"You called my girlfriend a stupid bitch." My voice is terrible. "Sa to my face if you have the balls."

He licks his lips. Hesitation grips him for a fraction of a second, an realizes he looks weak. "Bitch! She's a stupid bitch!" He hops a little ε sticks his chest out further by arching his back. "So what?"

"Nobody disrespects my girl and gets away with it."

"Yeah? What you gonna do?"

He should just turn his cap backward and start waving his fists arou Except you can't project toughness when you're an overgrown man-ch from suburbia who's worried about making the mortgage and car payn Housing prices in Los Angeles are brutal, and Ferraris aren't cheap.

"You think you can kick my ass? Huh?" His shouting is as hollow loud as an empty can.

"I know I can. And I would have if you'd touched her."

"You already fired me!"

"I can feed you your teeth, then make sure you never get a gig. Or laid. Oh, and by the way, Molly is great in bed. It's just that your dick small she couldn't feel anything. Assuming you can get it up in the firs place. And don't ejaculate too soon."

"I don't—"

"Might want to see a doctor about that. I hear these days they can calmost anything. Even micro-penises."

Finally, it's too much for him. Owen takes a swing that looks like i coming in slow motion. Obviously, he's never been in a fight.

I don't try to dodge it. He connects, hitting my jaw, then shakes his n. For He tries to grin triumphantly through the pain, but it looks more like a grimace. I suppress a sigh.

"Wow. That hurts," I say flatly. Then I smash his nose and mouth.

bbing I don't do any special martial art like Griffin, but I can handle mysensate fight. It's the kind of thing you learn when you grow up with six broth Blood spurts from Owen's nose, and he reels back. "Oh fuck! My t "Told you I'd feed 'em to you," I say. "How do they taste?"

said He's sobbing and yelling at the same time. I ignore him and go to r Spectre. Molly runs out of the car and rushes toward me.

"Oh my God. Are you okay?" She starts to touch my face, then dro hand. She bites her lip. "It looks so bad."

Is she worried about that ridiculous tap to my jaw? I'm not even fe y that anymore.

She wrings her hands. "I'm so sorry I got you involved!"

I put an arm around her shoulders and escort her to the car, trying r ind be irked that she tried to solve the Owen problem on her own. That ass wasn't going to quit until somebody bigger and stronger put him in his "You got hurt because of me," she adds.

She worries about the most inconsequential things, but it's obvious and. never seen a real fight. I help her into the car, then get behind the whee lild "Does it hurt when you try to talk?"

nents. I start to tell her I'm not hurt, but the way she stares at me is so cut decide to tease her a little. "Mm-hmm. Throbs like hell." I purposely so and words and faux-wince as I take the car on the road. "Ooh..."

"I knew it!" She stares at my cheek. "What if it bruises? Maybe I s get some eggs and roll them over the spot? I heard that helps."

"Got something that works better."

get "What?" She looks at me earnestly.

's so "Sit on my face."

Three beats pass as her face slowly turns bright red. "Nicholas!"

"It cures every problem a man can have. Ask anyone." I try not to but my lips twitch.

"No, I'm not going to sit on your face! You'll suffocate and die."

"I'll die happy, you mean."

t's "You aren't taking this seriously—"

"I am. It's a time-honored remedy. The pussy poultice."

"Oh my God." She rolls her eyes, but there's a hint of amusement of face. "I can't—"

"Cures everything."

"Will you shut up? Obviously, your jaw is fine."

elf in a "Just so you know, Owen's hurts more. And his bony fiancée sittin ers. his face won't fix it," I say with a superior smile.

eeth!" "I am sooo proud of you," Molly says, batting her eyelashes. "But get serious? Is Owen going to try to sue? Make you look bad? I don't vanything to do with me to reflect badly on you and damage your reputation."

I stop the car for a red light. "Molly, listen. Nothing you do can mapps her look bad. Defending you against that asshole was my privilege, and yo aren't going to take it away from me. I won't let you."

eling it "But—"

I put a finger over her lips. She isn't going to give voice to the negation thoughts in her mind. That's giving them too much power. "I'm alread angry with myself that I let you get hurt all those years. There's nothin regret more than the unnecessary pain you've been carrying."

place. Her eyes glint with something that looks like unshed tears, and I ki "See? I'm not hurt. Not even a little."

"Okay," she says in a small voice. Her eyebrows pinch together, the low and her face scrunched.

I don't want to see her like this. I kiss her again. "You don't have t e that I disappointed. Even if I'm not really hurt, you can still sit on my face to lur the She bursts out laughing. The light changes, and I speed through the traffic.

hould We have a long night ahead.

```
laugh, on her g on can we want ation."
ıke me
u ative
y g I ss her. e tips
```

o be so onight."

Chapter Thirty-Seven

Molly

When we arrive home, Nicholas parks the car carelessly and hurries or open the door for me. Stepping out of the Spectre, I regard him with amusement. "You're acting like somebody who forgot a cake in the ov tease, even though I know why. He's been hard since we left the gym.

"I have something better than cake in mind." He loops his arms arc my waist and kisses me hard.

My response is immediate. I part my lips, letting him in. Our tongutango. There's no coppery tang, and I'm relieved he really isn't injured

Nicholas herds us inside in slow, wide circles, like we're dancing. Through the kiss and the pleasure stirring in my belly, I vaguely sense moving past the foyer, and the living room...until we reach the staircast

"Hold tight," he murmurs against my mouth.

I look up at him with trust and need, then wrap my arms around his neck. He puts his hands on my butt and pulls me closer. My thighs circ pelvis.

He carries me up the stairs, his legs moving in a powerful rhythm, mouth devouring mine. Lust starts to swell as anticipation builds. My l has a visceral memory of the brutal intensity of pleasure he can give, a crave it more than air.

He presses my back against the closed door to our bedroom, continkiss me. I thread my fingers into his thick hair as my breath grows shound rougher and my heart races. I try to rock against him, but our posit doesn't allow for much movement.

Frustration slices through the heated desire. I try again to ease the a between my legs, and am thwarted again. Nicholas is lost in our kiss, e though I can feel how hard he is now, how feverish his skin feels agair Maybe he wants me to make the move. He loves it when I demand—si or loudly—what I want from him.

I yank my mouth from his. He makes a displeased noise.

"Into the bedroom," I say breathlessly, then lick my tingling lips. I I can taste him on my mouth.

His eyes flare. "Open the door," he orders, his voice low, then clain mouth again.

I feel around behind me with my free hand until my fingers brush t knob, which I quickly turn.

The door opens silently, and we spill into the slightly darkened bec I lower my legs, standing on my feet. He plunders my mouth like he or and I do the same to him. It's liberating and sexy as hell to know this gorgeous man and the pleasure he can give belong to me.

ren," I Still kissing, we strip each other, our fingers hurried and clumsy.

Garments fall from him, revealing more of the stunning, taut body. Lead powerful muscles cover his tall and broad frame, exactly the kind of both that makes your knees weak with hunger.

I move toward the bed, then try to pull him on top of me as I fall back the mattress. He puts a hand in the center of my back to stop me.

I look up at him in confusion.

us "You're riding my face, remember?"

it to

se. My cheeks heat with excitement, followed by trepidation. I meant said in the car. I don't think I'm the type of girl who can do that without stronghurting her partner. "I don't know... I've never..."

":le his "That's precisely why you should."

The arousal from earlier cools a little as he sits against the headboa brings me down, so I'm straddling him, with his cock between my thig throbs against my slick core, and the proof that he wants me—and war nd I do this for me—soothes my anxiety somewhat.

"Do you trust me to make it good for you?" he asks, placing a kiss using to corner of my mouth.

rter I'm still not one hundred percent sure about this, but if there's one ion have, it's faith in him in bed. "Yes," I whisper.

"Good girl."

He kisses me again, his tongue stroking mine tenderly, like a rewareven strokes my back, his fingertips barely brushing my body. Delicious ist me. goosebumps break out everywhere he touches. I never realized my backlently could be so sensitive.

He drags his lips along my jaw, then drops kisses on my forehead, eyes and cheeks. He wraps his hand around my long hair, tilting my ch swear he can have better access to the fluttering pulse point on my vulnerable throat.

I whimper at the feel of his mouth on my neck. When he nips my s with the edge of his teeth, just enough to send a little shock but not ence he coolhurt, the whimper turns into a moan. And I feel the flesh between my l grow wetter and slicker. It's almost embarrassing how drenched I am. lroom. like somebody poured a large bottle of lube on my pussy.

wns it, I rock against his thick, hard length. I can feel the pulsing veins on huge cock, each ridge providing a little wave of pleasure with each glick breathing is harsh now, but he still doesn't try to thrust into me. He just me use him to make myself feel good, then brings his mouth down unt breaths tickle my nipple.

ody I bite my lip, waiting for him to pull it into his mouth and suck. Bu only uses his tongue, flicking it, teasing it, while his hands squeeze my ack on and help me move against his cock better...

No. Not better. He's controlling how fast and hard I can rock again He's giving me just enough freedom to stay on the edge, an orgasm shimmering just out of reach, but not letting it shatter me.

what I My toes curl, and I twist, trying to push my breast into his mouth. I switches to the other nipple—and sucks it, but the stimulation comes w slower gliding against his cock.

Oh my God. My head falls back as I struggle to breathe. He's going and kill me...

shs. It I tunnel my fingers into his hair. "Please," I beg.

its to He doesn't budge, but chuckles darkly.

He isn't going to let me climax until I agree to sit on his face. I'm son the worried about being too heavy, but I can probably manage by holding the headboard and putting my weight on my knees.

"Show me what you want," he says, his eyes glittering with fire.
"On your back." I move to the side, so he can slide down until his on a pillow.

Excitement sparks in his eyes, but I can't decide if my own feeling trepidation or eagerness. Maybe both as I place my knees on either side head and look down at him. Even though I'm on top, this position mak feel inexplicably vulnerable.

I hesitate. He runs a warm hand along my thigh, the gesture soothing in so intimate, and gazes at me with bright affection and admiration in his eye. "Come on, little goddess." His voice is soft with encouragement. He fingers stroke the sensitive skin on my inner thigh. "I can take it."

kin "Your body can, but your head isn't where your strongest muscles bugh to try for a tart and snappy tone but just sound breathless instead.

egs I grip the headboard and slowly lower myself. Satisfaction flashes eyes before he runs his tongue over me. A breath rushes out of me, ma me shudder. The muscles in my legs quiver as he licks me, just with th his tongue, teasing me and keeping me squirming.

de. His I make an impatient noise, but he doesn't give me more. I glance de teles realize I'm a bit too far up and inch down a little. But the pressure still il his enough.

He's not going to indulge me until I'm far down enough to suit hin I'm closer to the edge than before, but I can't get there. I drop dow more. His breaths fan my clit, and I whimper. He wraps his hands arou upper thighs and pulls me down, guiding me.

running the flat of his tongue over my slickness. I grip the headboard v my might, trying not to move too much. But when he's devouring me lean't get enough, his lips and tongue drive me crazy. He groans like he with dying to get more of me. Sweat mists over my bare skin, and my back as I hit the peak I've never reached before, while my pelvis rocks again face of its own volition.

I scream, shuddering, with Nicholas tonguing me slowly like a lazy satisfied cat. I sit back on my heels, perching my butt on his thick ches grins, wiping the glistening layer with his fingers and licking them clea "Told you nothing would break."

on to I laugh while struggling to draw in more air. "Did it cure your face injury?" I tease.

"Yup. One hundred percent."

still

head is "Mmm. But I think there's one more part of you that needs some T reach back and take his cock in my hand. It beats in my grip like a hear is A raw hunger infuses the amusement on his face. I pump my hand e of his times, hard enough to feel good.

tes me He grows bigger and harder against my palm. I smile. "Let me malfeel good."

ng and I start to slide down, but he puts a hand on my hip and stops me. "I yes. Turn around."

lis My face heats with another wave of need at what he's about to do. nine?"

are." I "Otherwise known as soixante-neuf." "I've, um, never done that, either."

in his Raw possessiveness flares in his dark, gray eyes. "Good. We'll making your first time memorable."

e tip of I turn and position myself for him. The angle is different, but I'm e make him feel amazing. I hold him and run my tongue over the head li own, lollipop, tasting salty male. He's incredibly large, and I can never get this size, how full he makes me feel. I pull him slowly into my mouth, relaxing my jaw. A low groan tears from him, then he places little kiss along my slit, kneading my ass.

n Pleasure builds again, cresting higher. I suck him deeper into my n and my using my tongue. His cock muffles my moan as he exerts more pressur against my clit.

hard, A sharp sting on my ass almost makes me jump. The pain vanishes vith all almost instantly, but I can tell he smacked me hard enough to redden n like he skin. The fact that he left his mark on my butt turns me on. It makes m naughty—his naughty girl.

arches I take him deeper into my mouth, then hollow my cheeks. As I monst his head, he too is licking and sucking. Pleasure streaks through me, and a builds, I bob with more frenzy and need, desperate to make him feel the kind of delicious ecstasy building within me.

An orgasm swells faster, like I'm more pliant and ready after what earlier. Then, just as it's about to crest, he spanks me once again and n body seems to detonate with pleasure. I suck him in almost to the back throat. His entire being shakes as he fights the urge to thrust deeper, le hurt me, and he empties himself, filling my mouth with his hot fluid.

I swallow every drop, then hold him for a moment as he strokes my LC." I and the backs of my thighs tenderly. All the stress and tension from the tr. are gone, and my muscles feel like pliant clay.

a few Nicholas might be right about sitting on his face being a cure-all. Nonly am I sexually satisfied, I feel emotionally happy and whole.

ke you And I pray we can continue to enjoy what we have for as long as possible.

```
Jh-uh.
"Sixtyke ager to ke a ised to es 10uth, æ ıy e feel ve my s it e same
I had ıy of my st he y ass e day lot
```

Chapter Thirty-Eight

Molly

Nicholas makes a reservation at the Skyview—a brand-new steakhouse opened on the top floor of the Aylster Hotel—for the dinner he won at auction.

I go shopping with Georgia for a new dress. He hints that I could d same thing I did to get ready for the auction, but I'm more comfortable Georgia and a more normal pre-date prep.

"Holy shit," my bestie says when I tell her where Nicholas is takin "How did he manage to get a reservation? Dad was depressed that he couldn't get one for the opening weekend. He wanted to take Nikki."

"No idea. You'll have to ask Nicholas."

She looks over a few dresses on a rack, then shakes her head. We ron to the next set.

"He's really going all out with you," she says.

"Yeah..."

"Maybe it's true love." She grins.

"It's too early." It took Owen almost eight months to tell me he low and not even three months after that before he decided he didn't. Think about my shitty ex when I'm considering my relationship with Nichola unfair, but life experience is life experience. It's one thing to believe ir —after all, romance is my favorite genre—but quite another to believe happen for me.

Right now, I prefer not to have any expectations. I don't want to be disappointed, especially when Nicholas has been so good to me. I wan be able to break up amicably and remain friendly.

A nasty, burning sensation stirs in my chest... Probably just heartb had Mexican for lunch, and the taco was too spicy.

She lowers her voice. "Tell me something, though. Is this a reboun you?"

"What do you mean?"

"Do you like being with Nicholas because he gives you that nice fe of being in a relationship?"

"That makes it sound like it didn't need to be him."

"Thank you. That's precisely my question." Georgia looks at me.

"I don't know if I would've moved in with another guy so easily. I him, you know? And I definitely wouldn't have agreed to a relationshi soon if it was somebody else." I'm generally cautious when it comes to dating. Until Owen, I'd never moved in with a boyfriend. I always trie honor their boundaries and limits, doing my best to avoid pressuring anybody. I wanted to give them as much time as they needed to build to wanting to be with me, even though I wanted to move to the next stage closer to the lifelong commitment and love I longed to have.

with "So it is Nicholas who's special," Georgia says.

"Yeah. You could say that." I've never been this excited shopping me. new dress to wear on a date.

And the anticipation only grows bigger as I do my hair and put on makeup. Is it the going-out part that's exciting me? I stop in the middle applying my lipstick and consider. No. It isn't just the fancy dinner out like this every time Nicholas and I are about to spend time together.

I wake up in the morning in his arms, and my heart tumbles and tw like a leaf in a gale. I could be curled up in any one of the cushy chairs fresh coffee and a book, and every time I notice him, my insides flutter

I know I'm falling for him, which is only natural. He's the kind of red me, you can't help but love. I just want to be sure he feels the same way. It sing seems like he does, but maybe it's just my being overwhelmed by the magnitude of his gestures. None of my exes could let me crash at their swanky mansion with full housekeeping, laundry and chef services. M it will less just buy a truck over the phone to help me move. Or bid five millidellars for a dinner—or anything—with me. They couldn't offer to len car that's worth half a million dollars because mine wasn't starting.

t us to But all that could be nothing to Nicholas. He is extremely wealthy, all, and he's probably used to spending whatever he wants on whatever urn. I whims dictate.

Nicholas is waiting downstairs, giving me plenty of space and time d for fuss over my appearance. He smiles when he sees me and produces a s nove

e that the o the bouquet of flowers from behind his back.

"Thank you." I flush. I don't think I'll ever get used to this kind of reling romantic gesture. Every time I get flowers from him, I'm reminded that thinking of me and that I matter to him.

The drive to the restaurant is lovely. A smooth jazz melody swirls magic. I enjoy learning what he likes, and it's even more fun when I re knew like the same thing he does, like jazz.

p so "Thank you for the note, by the way," I say with a smile. "So it has been a hundred days yet, has it?"

d to "Nope." He smiles, his eyes bright with mischief.

"You know it's driving me crazy, right?"

ip to "I thought you were going to be patient."

"I know, but I am curious. Especially since they seem to be differed languages each time."

"You'll find out what they say soon enough." He smiles. "But like for a you can get somebody to read it for you, instead of waiting for me to to on the hundredth day. Whatever makes you happy." He isn't saying it humor me. He means it.

e of "You're what makes me happy" is on the tip of my tongue, and I st. I feel the words. They seem…so vulnerable. Like saying them would strip mevery defense I have.

I don't want to leave myself that open. Nicholas would never hurt with purpose, but I've always thought that about the men I've dated. And ever time I let my guard down, they did end up hurting me. Even the most construction strike from Nicholas would hurt more than anybody else because he more than anybody else.

The steakhouse is gorgeous—I can see why there's a huge waiting get in. The place doesn't have the stereotypical dark wood and brass fe uch airy, with three floor-to-ceiling glass sides of the restaurant open to a stunning view of downtown Los Angeles. White and red dahlia blosso d me a set in centerpieces on tables covered with thick white cloths that reach way to the floor. Next to them, small tea candles cast a soft glow. On a after stage is a live performance featuring a jazz singer in a glittering red dre r his The air is replete with the scent of sizzling meat and freshly baked Wine flows freely. A crisply dressed maître d' checks our reservation, e to we're shown to an intimate table by the window.

mall Nicholas and I walk to it together, our hands linked. I only let go w we're seated.

small, "This is gorgeous. Thank you." I smile.

it he's "A gorgeous dinner for the most sought-after bachelorette."

I laugh. "Only because you were bidding so shamelessly. I still can like believe it." I remember what Dad texted, and my laughter dies.

alize I "What?"

"Nothing, really. I think people noticed me a little too much when the crazy-high bid."

"They should notice the lady who was the biggest prize of the nigh who won her." His possessive tone says, Mine, which sends hot shiver through me.

Our waiter appears. Witty and energetic, he recommends all steaks nt equally, but suggests we also try their South African lobsters drizzled herb and lemon butter. The sauteed mushrooms are "exceptional," the I said, mac and cheese "can't be beat" and their oysters on the half-shell are "ell you fresh and succulent."

We order seafood bisque, a platter of oysters, steak, lobster, loaded potatoes and the truffle mac and cheese. Nicholas asks if I want champ wallow or red wine. I feel like a red, so he selects a bottle of Bordeaux. It's all se of smooth and easy, like we've been with each other forever and eaten ou together millions of times.

me on While we wait for our food to arrive, I ask Nicholas exactly what h very because it's not something I'm really familiar with.

"Initially, I invested my money in the market, and then with my breans at GrantEm. They're really good at picking winners. And once I'd mac more than I knew what to do with, I started to buy mid-sized companie list to have growth potential but are somewhat mismanaged."

el. It's "Like...a corporate raider?"

He laughs. "No, not like that. I don't strip companies of their assets ms are sell them for a quick profit. The idea is to shake things up, improve the all the management and make the whole enterprise more profitable. Once that small happens, I'll sell my stake. But then I got interested in private equity, sess. started a PE fund on the side. I have a partner who helps with it, and I bread. get another manager, mainly to lighten my workload."

and "I thought you liked working." Georgia told me Nicholas spends a time in the office. Even blamed it for his short-lived relationships.

when "It's fulfilling. But now I have something I like more." He gives m gorgeous smile.

ι't

When he gazes into my eyes like this, I feel like we could be a fore kind of couple. The only question is...am I reading him correctly? I so wish I could see into his mind.

Our food starts to arrive. The bisque is exceptionally flavorful. The wasn't kidding about the oysters, either. They're mildly salty, with a cl aftertaste and a hint of lemon.

As Nicholas and I have the last of the oysters, I wonder if he know t—and they're considered an aphrodisiac. Not that he needs one. His problems assuming it really can be considered a problem—is that he can't stop. I absolutely relentless in bed. I actually looked around in the bathroom a cabinets to see if he's taking something special. But no. Just a bottle of multivitamins from Costco, and I'm sure his stamina in bed isn't comit truffle from that. Otherwise, Costco would be making a fortune.

extra Am I going to have another hot, sleepless night?

Our waiter clears the table to bring out our steaks, lobsters and side laked Nicholas's mouth glistens in the candlelight. He licks his lips, then rea agne for the wine. I take a quick sip of my red. The taste of dark berries, cur and smoky oak coats my tongue. It isn't overly dry, but not too sweet, the takes another slow swallow, and I can't tear my gaze from his mou way a bit of wine lingers on his lips, making them look so wet.

le does, It reminds me of how they looked after he went down on me. For s reason, he really enjoys the act, like he can't go a day without putting lothers between my legs and devouring me until I'm a mess. My face heats for reasons that have nothing to do with the wine flowing warmly in my vest that squirm.

"What?" he says.

"What what?"

"You're staring at me." His gaze drops to my mouth.

He knows. His playful smile eases something inside me. Suddenly, like teasing. And being more honest than I might otherwise. "Your mo makes me think of what you did to me last night."

might "I did a lot of things to you last night."

"You know what I mean. I can't talk about it in public. I don't wan ton of arrested." As I speak, I pull my foot out of my stiletto and slide it unde table toward him...then along his calf.

e a His eyes change as he registers the touch. "Is that so?"

"Yes."

ever "If you get arrested, I'll bail you out."

oo I run my toes past his knee then slip them between his legs, along l inner thigh. "The police might not let me out on bail."

waiter "Then I'll join you in your cell."

lean I grin, feeling breathless and naughty. I've never done this before. move, a little bit bolder, inching closer. So much heat radiates from hir s that "My God."

I flinch at my father's booming voice and immediately jerk my foo
 He's and slip it into my shoe. Nicholas swivels his head, glaring at Dad.

In a nice suit, Dad looks lean and fit. He flicks his eyes at me, then plain Nicholas, then at the food and wine on the table, then back at me. Judg burns in their blue depths.

"Who are you?" Nicholas demands, bristling with annoyance.

"I'm Kevin Greene, Molly's dad."

The sharp edge in Nicholas's demeanor eases a little, even though tight set of his mouth betrays some lingering irritation.

rants "And you are...Nicholas Lasker?" Dad adds, with anticipatory either. excitement at meeting somebody he deems important. He might think th, the Nicholas can buy some expensive homes from him. Dad is all about m big sales and rubbing elbows with the right kind of people whose very ome presence makes him feel significant.

nis face "Yes. Nice to meet you." Nicholas stands.

They shake hands amicably. Most wouldn't know Nicholas is displeins. I from the neutral mask on his face, but I note the slight tension in his buthe set of his shoulders. Dad is playing it cool. Maybe too cool. If he w taller, he'd be doing his best to look down on Nicholas.

But then, he's tried that with all of my boyfriends. Apparently, the that they're dating his daughter means they're somehow beneath him. I feel they owe him a great deal of respect.

"So you're the guy who won my daughter in an auction." His tone overly casual to hide the cautious skepticism—I can't believe you bid s much for her. There has to be some nefarious reason.

It to get Nicholas's expression darkens as though he's caught the hint of Dar the unspoken disbelief.

"And this looks like a very nice and massive dinner." Dad shoots n look. "You could feed a village."

I get the message loud and clear—quit eating, Molly! My mouth dr with humiliation, and I start to reach for my wine, my hand slightly sha nis Dad clears his throat.

the

Since I don't feel like water, I just drop my hand and slide my gaze view of the city below.

I "You can't afford your own entrées, is that it?" Nicholas says.

n— I jerk my chin up and stare at him.

Dad starts. "What?"

"It sounds like you want to take some of our food to your table for yourself and your dinner companion." Nicholas's tone is so charitable at conversational, it takes a second before the insult sinks in.

ment If Dad were a cat, all the hair on his back would be standing up. "F dare you talk to me like that?"

"I'm just wondering why you're here. You obviously aren't keen o merely saying hello, since you're lingering and eyeing our food." Nich picks up his fork and knife and cuts a small piece of the butter-laden lc on his plate. He holds it across the table. "Here you go, Molly."

Dad glares at the lobster skewered at the end of Nicholas's fork, th me. His blazing eyes challenge. You wouldn't dare.

aking Normally when he looks at me like that, I shrink a little inside, ash and sad that I'm a failure who can't measure up. But right now, rebelli churns in my heart. And I don't want to drink water instead of the delic wine or worry about being a size zero and forgoing a wonderful dinner leased Nicholas.

row, I lean forward and deliberately take the lobster into my mouth. My on my father, I chew thoroughly and swallow, then take a generous sip wine.

A vein in Dad's forehead visibly pulses. He's probably imagining And shoving his fingers down my throat and making me throw up what I ju Or he could be fantasizing about strangling me. I don't care at this point "Cood girl." Nicholas amiles is "Good girl." Nicholas smiles.

"It's delicious." I smile back at him. "Thank you."

Nicholas turns to my dad. "Was there anything else you wanted?"

Dad fists his hands. "No." Then he openly glares at me. "I can't be you already forgot what I told you. Every time you try to reach for son you don't deserve, you're going to fall harder." I'm so ashamed of you expression screams.

He spins around and stalks off to a table where Renée is waiting. S aky. looks at him curiously, but he shakes his head. I lift my wine glass in a greeting to her—she has no idea how my dad treats me—then turn to to the Nicholas. "Sorry about that." I force a smile as embarrassment and hur my face. I don't want to ruin this time with Nicholas over what Dad di Nicholas reaches over and holds my hand, like nothing matters to I except being with me. "It's okay. Shall we continue with our dinner?" "Yes." But no matter how hard I try, the light, teasing mood that m destroyed doesn't return.

and

Iow

n lolas obster

en at amed on cious with eyes of my st ate.

lieve nething , his He spins around and stalks off to a table where Renée is waiting. She looks at him curiously, but he shakes his head. I lift my wine glass in a silent greeting to her—she has no idea how my dad treats me—then turn to Nicholas. "Sorry about that." I force a smile as embarrassment and hurt burn my face. I don't want to ruin this time with Nicholas over what Dad did.

Nicholas reaches over and holds my hand, like nothing matters to him except being with me. "It's okay. Shall we continue with our dinner?"

"Yes." But no matter how hard I try, the light, teasing mood that my dad destroyed doesn't return.

Chapter Thirty-Nine

Nicholas

I stand in the kitchen, thinking. Molly's out shopping at a bookstore af late brunch. I wanted to ask her to hang out with me, but she probably some retail therapy after that ridiculous incident with Kevin Greene las night.

What an asshole. My father is a dick, but he doesn't criticize us pullike that. His problem is that he's too self-centered and oblivious to kn he's being insulting and obnoxious. In his world, everything out of his is golden and his every thought deserves to be immortalized.

But Molly's dad is an intentional asshole. He knows how his action words can damage her. And he enjoys hurting her for some reason.

She looked so pretty and playful as she teased me under the table. I eyes darkened, and a flush cast a rosy glow to her beautiful face, as the stroking me was turning her on, too. I was this close to saying, "Screw dinner," and getting a suite at the hotel instead.

But after Kevin, that lightheartedness never came back. Sex that ni was pleasurable, and I was extra attentive, but she didn't have her usua spark. Instead, she just clung to me like I was going to vanish.

Fucking asshole. I should've punched him. Couldn't, of course—h Molly's dad. But I still want to throw him off a bridge.

That's the least he deserves.

I stare out the window, tapping a little ditty on the counter with my fingers, and then text Georgia.

- -Me: What's the deal with Molly and her dad?
- -Georgia: Why, what happened?
- -Me: We ran into him last night.
- -Georgia: Ugh. SUCH a dickhead. I feel bad about calling my best friend's dad a dickhead, but I can't think of anything kinder. Is Molly

- -Me: Hopefully. She's out buying books.
- -Georgia: That should cheer her up. New books always make her h
- −Me: Is he always so mean to her?

This sets off a stream of texts.

- -Georgia: Yes. He belittles her in front of me, too.
- -Georgia: So embarrassing for him, and makes me furious for Mol
- -Georgia: I can only imagine how he treats her when they're alone ter our he's so controlling about her dating life!

needs —Georgia: He always talks crap about her boyfriends, but he also post down, like she doesn't deserve to be with them.

-Georgia: It's like, MAKE UP YOUR MIND, OLD MAN! Either blicly unworthy of her or she doesn't deserve to be loved by them.

ow —Georgia: He constantly fat-shames her, too. I'm surprised she doe mouth have an eating disorder.

is and Forget just punching him. I should've broken his jaw so he couldn' speak.

Her

e's

ough —Georgia: I honestly don't know how she puts up with it.

I do. It's easy for an outsider to say, "Cut your ties," or "Stand up f yourself," or "How can you let 'em talk to you like that?" But with par figures, it's so much harder. Molly's mom died when she was just a ch Her dad is the only one left in her life.

But apparently he's abused his authority and her trust and love for these years. It explains so much about her feeling that she won't ever be loved. The way she cried, and spoke of her mom as a ghost who's ashaher.

I wish I could fix it for her. The fact that I can't makes my blood be The door opens, and Molly walks in with a broad grin, carrying a tefull of books. It kills me to know that underneath her friendly, bright demeanor is a heart full of scars.

But I put on a smile to hide my inner turmoil. "Did you get everyth you want?"

okay? "Yup. And to make it even better, I spent Owen's money." "Owen's money?"

uappy. "You know, the gift card he gave me on my birthday." She laughs, sound is a bit hollow. "I think I'm going to read for a bit."

"Okay. I'll be in the pool if you need me." I have to burn off this dangerous, churning energy. Otherwise I might just do or say somethir shouldn't. I don't want her to think I pity her for what happened to her has too much pride to put up with that.

ly. "Have fun." She goes upstairs, probably to make use of the library . And espresso machine.

I change into bathing trunks and do laps until my lungs burn. But n uts her head is absolutely clear, and my heart is full of regret.

I shouldn't have thought she was too young for me and stayed awa they're so long. Then I would've been able to shield her from her abusive dad the shitty exes she's had. She wouldn't have to carry so much baggage sn't her past, and perhaps she'd see herself now the way I see her.

ľ

or

I swim for an hour, but it doesn't help much. Anger at myself, regr what I didn't do and fury at her father still beat dangerously in my ches out of the pool, stretch and grab a quick shower.

Even as I stand in my bathroom, freshly washed and in a clean T-sl shorts, I still feel like shit. And I need to see Molly. She clung to me la night like she was afraid of losing me, but I'm the one who's afraid of her. I do everything in my power to show her how wonderful and lovel is. But if she has trouble believing it... Then it may all be in vain.

ental All my life, people have called me smart. Capable. Hardworking. I always been able to do whatever I set my mind to. But I don't know he heal her heart and repair the damage that's been done to her.

him all I walk to the library and stick my head around the doorframe. Moll curled up in one of the armchairs under a throw blanket. Her flip-flops med ofthe floor underneath the espresso machine stand. A book lies facedown her stomach, her eyes are closed and she's breathing evenly.

oil. Either the book's boring as hell or she's tired from last night. Probate bag the latter—we didn't sleep much.

I press a gentle kiss on her forehead. Then on her pretty cheeks.

She makes a soft noise in her throat. "Mmm." Her eyes still closed cups my cheek. Her small hand is warm and reassuring—I'm here. I'm I turn my face so I can kiss the center of the palm. A heartbreaking beautiful smile slowly covers her face. I kiss her gently, just a brushing lips. Then I lick her mouth.

but the She parts her lips and lets me in. I position myself between her this deepen the kiss, tasting her. She's so warm and sweet, like heated hom There's a languidness, too, like she wants to savor every second.

I oblige. Our tongues continue to tangle leisurely, like that's the on . She thing in the world that matters. She runs her hands along my shoulders drags them down until they're resting over my chest. She always positi and its her right palm so it's over my heart, which beats only for her.

She sighs softly, the same sound she lets out every time her need for starts to fill her veins.

I push the blanket out of the way, then pull her shorts and underwe y for down. I dip my fingers between her legs and find her hot and slick. "W and all filthy things were you reading?" I whisper.

from "I didn't even get to the good part," she answers in a low, dreamy t "It's your kiss that did it."

et over I run my finger over her clit, and she whimpers, then bites her lip.

st. I get "No lip biting," I say, then push the wet fingers into her mouth. Sh them in and sucks them eagerly, like they're my cock. And I lower my hirt anduntil I bury it between her soft, sweet thighs and lap her up.

She moans, long and low. The sound is muffled against my fingers losing thrust them in and out of her mouth as I eat her out. She's so hot down ly she so addictive. I can't get my fill.

The muscles in her legs quiver, then tighten. She arches her back a comes against my mouth, sucking my fingers even harder in her climated with the wants me to let go, too. I reach for the little cabinet behind her and out a condom. Ever since she moved in, I've stashed boxes of rubbers by is every room in the house, just in case.

lie on Once I'm covered, I pull her down from the armchair and onto a th rug, then bury my face in the crook of her neck and glide into her seari depths. I whisper filthy words in French as I thrust into her.

She stills, then goes wild. I take her hips in my hands and angle her can get maximum pleasure out of each thrust.

"Oh my God!" she screams, but I continue to bang into her, showe, she her with more filthy phrases en français, just like that scene from The I yours. of You, which she's read at least twice since she moved in.

ly When she sobs out again, I spurt into her, kissing her like the world

g of ending, and this is the only moment we're allowed.

She shudders for a long time. When her breathing finally settles, she and threads gentle fingers through my hair. "What was that about?"

ey. "Mmm?"

"All the French stuff."

"Just a fantasy I thought you might like. I saw you reading it a few , then times." I don't mention that I examined her notes and highlights. I don her to start hiding the books with her favorite sex scenes. "I wanted yo experience it."

or me She's quiet for a moment. "Well, thank you. But it's just a silly boo There's a tinge of resigned sadness in her voice that I hate.

ar "A book that says a woman deserves to be loved and worshiped the she is." I kiss the spot on her chest, right where her heart beats. "Doesr sound so silly to me."

one. "It isn't realistic."

I raise my head and look into her eyes. "If realistic is being treated shit and feeling like you're going to die alone no matter what, Molly, f e pulls reality."

face She gasps. I've never spoken to her like this before, but this is too important to sugarcoat. She's too important.

, and I "Happily ever after, my Molly. We aren't settling for anything but there, happily ever after."

s she x, like pull in ick

ng

r so she ring Magic

d is ending, and this is the only moment we're allowed.

She shudders for a long time. When her breathing finally settles, she threads gentle fingers through my hair. "What was that about?"

"Mmm?"

"All the French stuff."

"Just a fantasy I thought you might like. I saw you reading it a few times." I don't mention that I examined her notes and highlights. I don't want her to start hiding the books with her favorite sex scenes. "I wanted you to experience it."

She's quiet for a moment. "Well, thank you. But it's just a silly book." There's a tinge of resigned sadness in her voice that I hate.

"A book that says a woman deserves to be loved and worshiped the way she is." I kiss the spot on her chest, right where her heart beats. "Doesn't sound so silly to me."

"It isn't realistic."

I raise my head and look into her eyes. "If realistic is being treated like shit and feeling like you're going to die alone no matter what, Molly, fuck reality."

She gasps. I've never spoken to her like this before, but this is too important to sugarcoat. She's too important.

"Happily ever after, my Molly. We aren't settling for anything but happily ever after."

Chapter Forty

Molly

Happily ever after.

Nicholas said we aren't settling for anything less, but I struggle to what that is. Maybe I'm weird, but I've never given really concrete the what the couples look like after I'm done with my books. I mean... Th authors say they're going to be happy. They're probably going to get n and have babies and stuff.

Since I have a little downtime this morning, I send a quick text to Georgia.

- –Me: Hey, what does HEA mean to you?
- -Georgia: The couple gets together. Why?
- -Me: That's it? The couple gets together, and...bam, HEA?
- -Georgia: I mean, if you want to dig deeper, maybe all the bad guy bald?

I snort. Owen and Dana going bald would be both comically and cosmetically just.

−Me: Never mind. Let me ask some other people, too.

I open my Instagram account and make a quick post about it, then I desk. I guess my personal happy ending would come with a new job. It callback from Sabrina yet, but I have two more interviews lined up. Thankfully, Jack's been busy with a new actress client who needs to go shape for an action flick, and he's currently out of town for some fitnesseminar in Vegas, so that gives me some time away from the boob talk Hopefully he drunk-marries the love of his life there and never comes That'd be another form of happy ending—for me.

In reality, though, he's scheduled to be back this weekend. I wonde have enough vacation days to not come in for the next two weeks. I ch HR record, but nope. Just barely enough for four days off.

I could take them all off and go on a trip with Nicholas. Wouldn't 1 nice?

I walk toward the breakroom. The free-weight area where Dana an gang used to hang out is bereft of their pink presence. Dana quit comir the gym since she made her account private. Her friends also started to their workout sessions. They're trying to distance themselves from Da they be found guilty by association.

Some friends. picture

It's sad and shocking how shallow some friendships can be. So ma ought to people are just worried about their "brand," like Owen. But then, a lot narried people can't even work out without taking photos to show the world th doing something good for themselves.

I step inside the breakroom and make coffee. I'm tired during the d it's hard to sleep at night when Nicholas is an insatiable fiend and wan play all sorts of sex scenes from my romance novels—but I can't comp too much. After all, he keeps me up in the most pleasurable ways. In addition, he doesn't try any scenarios from books that I don't feel comfortable with. Certain sex scenes are better left to fiction.

I add some sugar to my brew and turn around—and almost have a 's go attack when I see Jack standing right behind me.

"Jesus, you scared me," I say, placing a hand over my chest.

He laughs. "Sorry, didn't mean to." He puts a hand on my shoulder where it lingers.

I shrug a little bit, but he hangs on.

"I need to go back to my office. Excuse me."

"What's the matter? You can take a break," he says without letting tap my "You did that before with your boyfriend."

I should've expected this. "Well, my boyfriend isn't here, is he?" I 10 him a pointed look that says, You aren't my boyfriend. "Can you please et into go?"

"Why? I'm not hurting you, am I?" He rubs his hand against my sh SS "That isn't the point." I try to jerk away, but he merely tightens his er. home. "I said let go, Jack."

"What's the matter? Why do you have to be so unfriendly?" he say er if I my breasts.

eck my Ugh. "I said no." I shove him.

ny

He stumbles back—probably didn't expect me to push him away li that be that. His face turns red-purple, and thick veins stand up and pulse like around his forehead and temples. "Who the hell do you think you are?' d her yells to my face for once. "You can't just smile and be friendly and nic "I asked you to let go repeatedly. I don't owe you any 'friendliness my shoulder. And I certainly don't owe you a conversation with my br na, lest "What's wrong with looking at them when they're hanging out?"

"Hanging out?" I look down at my shirt, which has a neckline high the Great Wall of China. I purposely wear tops that hide everything be of him! "Nothing's hanging out."

of "Fine, sticking out! Same difference. And what's wrong with looki ley're You check me out, too."

"Oh my God, I so do not check you out! I look for you so I can avc lay— you."

Now tendons are standing out in his neck. "You're such a cold cun think you're special because somebody paid five million for you? Hav respect for yourself, Molly! Only whores are proud of how much mone make for a date."

Rage swells. Is this how he always saw me? Something snaps in meant I pour my coffee into the sink. "You know what? I quit!"

"What? You can't quit! I'm not done talking to you!"

"Really? What are you going to do? Force me to talk to you? You pay me enough, you sexist, handsy, leering jerk!"

I try to storm out of the breakroom, but he catches my wrist.

"Ow, let me go!"

"I said I'm not done!"

go. There's a loud throat clearing from the doorway. Jack and I turn. A rolls his weight on the balls of his feet, hands held loosely by his sides give Although Nicholas warned me about him, I'm relieved he's here.

e let He shoots Jack a steady look. "What's going on, bro?" And then to "Everything okay, Molly?"

noulder. Petra peeks out from behind Arturo's massive frame.

hold. "It's none of your business," my former boss says, but his voice no has its earlier force. He's not an idiot. He doesn't want to act like a bul

's to front of witnesses.

I yank my arm away. Reddish marks cover my wrist. Crap. I hope don't set into dark bruises. "Excuse me. I need to grab my things."

ke I walk past Jack stiffly. Arturo shifts out of the way, his eyes still o worms and Petra stares at me. I nod my thanks to both of them.

"he Trembling, I march to the office. I can't decide exactly what I'm fee?" right now. Fury, yes, but also a bit of adrenaline and the shaky realizate or I came pretty close to getting hurt. The wrist aches, and Jack is so muce easts!" bigger and stronger than me. I was helpless in his grip, and he could he done whatever he wanted. I'm doing the right thing by quitting, even voter than another job lined up.

I grab my purse, tossing my phone into it. The laptop was issued by Jacked, so I leave that on my desk. It only has work stuff anyway. My is backed up on my phone. I snatch the flowers Nicholas sent this morn My wrist throbs, but I keep my chin up.

I stride past the door that separates the workout area from the back I want to raise my aching wrist and say something disparaging about Jat! You show these people what a terrible human being they're giving their mo e some But if I do that, I'm not just hurting Jack. The other trainers, who really by they haven't done anything, might lose their jobs. Elaine, fine—she covers Jack. But I don't want collateral damage.

y chest. My car's still getting repaired, and Nicholas won't be coming by for another three hours. I start to text him to see if he can pick me up early stop. He's working, and I don't want to disrupt his day.

can't Huffing, I stand on the sidewalk in front of the gym and tap on Ubo Petra comes out.

"Hey. Need a ride?"

I turn to face her. "Don't you have your shift?"

"No clients for the next two hours. So no prob."

"Yeah, but you'll lose out on your hourly pay," I say. Trainers are the hour and get a cut of the fees their clients pay for their sessions.

She shrugs. "I'm better than Uber."

me, "I can't possibly impose. My friend's going to pick me up," I say, text Georgia before Petra gets too insistent.

longer —Me: Can you pick me up from the gym right now?

ly in —Georgia: Yeah. Are you okay?

-Me: Long story. I'll tell you when you get here.

they

I lower my phone, then look behind Petra at the gym. Jack's talking in Jack, the phone, his face scrunched in distaste and anger. He glances up and me a dirty look, but he doesn't approach, since I'm not alone.

"You might want to put something on that." Petra gestures at my w ion that "I will, thanks. Mind if I ask you to wait with me for my friend?" h "Yeah, that's fine." She shrugs. "So. You, uh, gonna sue or someth we "Why? Did Jack ask you to find out?" Petra has always been nice t vithout but that doesn't necessarily mean she'll side with me.

She snorts. "No. He's a dick. Do you know how many times he's to y Get put his hands on me? It's just he can't really get a good chance because résuméalways out on the floor with clients and the other trainers. But he's corning. looking for an angle, trying to 'innocently' brush against my butt."

My initial suspicion fades, replaced by shock and sympathy. "I had office. idea. I thought it was just me. Elaine made it sound like I was being to ack, to sensitive."

ney to. Petra laughs humorlessly. "That basic bitch? Jack's banging her on y side, that's why."

for "What? I thought she was married."

"You don't have to be single to screw a guy. And Elaine loves gett nailed by Jack. She thinks she's so discreet, but we all know."

but Except me. "So if he has Elaine, why did he do that to me?"

"'Cause you got a vagina, honey. He can't help himself. And you a the first employee to quit over his behavior. Actually, you lasted longe the others. The accounting girl before you quit within three, maybe for months, max. He tried so hard to personally train her, so he could touc without getting sued. 'Oh, I was just correcting her form so she doesn' herself.'" Petra rolls her eyes.

paid by "So why do you still work here?"

"Same reason anybody puts up with a shitty job—the money. He p better than anybody else, and I need to cover my rent and eat. And I also then student loans. Now that I think about it, he probably has to pay that we keep his employees, because who's going to stay without the extra?" S tosses her ponytail over her shoulder. "But you got yourself a rich boy I saw his car. A Spectre. It's supposed to be, like, $400k. And that isn' only one—I saw him come pick you up in a friggin' Bentley a couple of ago. Hell, I'm surprised you didn't quit sooner. I would if I had someb who took care of me and paid all my bills."

g on "I don't want to use him like that."

shoots "Oh, honey, it isn't a big deal if a man's loaded. Definitely let him you things and pamper you."

"But it sounds so one-sided. I don't have anything to give him in re "What are you talking about?" She laughs. "You have your body."

"How transactionally romantic."

o me, "Fine. I'll put it another way. You have yourself. One of a kind, an irreplaceable." She gives me a wry smile. "Trust me, it's working fine ried to him."

e I'm Easy for her to say. She has the body of a goddess. The type that existantly woman at the gym dreams of.

Whereas I'm just...me. Molly Greene. Basic. No frills. Ordinary.

I no Suddenly, she pauses. "Hey, is Mr. Spectre the guy who bid that cr o money on you at the auction?"

I nod.

"That explains why Jack was bitching everywhere. He couldn't be on anything."

"What do you mean?"

ing "Jack has this crazy, like, rivalry against all men. No matter how wonderful and successful somebody is, he always finds some area whe can beat them. Like... He has better abs. Or he has more money. Or he ren't more employees. Or he's banged more chicks. Like that."

r than "Okay."

"But your man has everything. He's young, handsome and rich. The her things Jack can't beat him on. And based on the way his suit fits him, I tinjure his body's phenomenal, too."

"Well, yeah. It is."

"There you go." Petra smirks.

ays Georgia's white Miata pulls into the lot. "That's my ride."

so have "You let me know if you need anything. Like if you forgot somethell to the gym and don't feel comfortable coming to get it. Or if you ever was the sculpt your body and want a personal trainer, text me. I'll make a specifiend. for you. Away from Jack." She winks.

t the I laugh. "I'll let you know. Thanks, Petra." After waving at her, I c of days into Georgia's car.

ody My best friend looks like she's about to keel over from curiosity. " is going on, girl?"

"I quit my job."

buy "What? Since when?" she says as she pulls the car into the thick L. traffic. "Did you get an offer? We need to celebrate properly!"

eturn." "No." I tell her everything that happened since I nearly ran smack i Jack in the breakroom.

"Ugh, that's disgusting!" Georgia says. "What a creep! You should kicked his ass! At least broken his hand! And fingers!"

for "I wish, but I was intent on getting away first."

She stops at a light and looks at my wrist, which has red marks on very "Holy shit, is that what he did to you?"

"Yeah."

d

She grabs her phone and snaps a few photos. "In case you want to police. I think at the very least you should sue."

"Yeah... Well, I'll think about it." I don't know what it takes to sur I really even want to. There's the cost, time and public attention that are to follow. If it's going to be end in a slap on the wrist for Jack or some monetary settlement with the demand that I never talk about the incide again, it wouldn't be worth it. He can't use the "I only touched her to cher form" defense with me, but he might have some other excuse ready else would he corner me in the breakroom like that? My boobs aren't the has nice. Besides, can I even afford the kind of lawyer who can beat him a game? It just feels so daunting.

The light changes, and Georgia resumes driving. "Did you tell Niclaree" she asks.

"I don't want to bother him when he's at work. I'll text him later so doesn't go try to pick me up, and tell him what happened when he comhome."

She shoots me a look like I'm out of my mind. "Don't wait. Tell hi now."

ing at "Why? What would that accomplish?"

nt to "He's your boyfriend."

ial trip "I know. I'm not going to hide it. I just don't want to interrupt his with something like this." The incident with Jack wasn't life or death.

limb even bleeding. And it isn't like Nicholas is a police officer who can go and arrest Jack.

What "Oh my God, you're in a relationship with him, Molly. If some guy grabbed me the way Jack did you, my boyfriend would be the first per call."

A. "But..." I shrug to hide my discomfiture. A tiny part of me says me should listen to Georgia, but another part—one that's terrified of being unlovable and bothersome—stops me.

You need to be less selfish. Consider that others have priorities that l've be more important than you. What happened to my mother when I ask to drop everything and buy me blueberries fleets through my mind. I d think telling Nicholas now would end up in something that tragic, but.

it. "Has Nicholas ever made you feel like you aren't important to him Georgia asks.

"No, of course not. I just don't want to be, you know, burdensome. call the already done so much."

My best friend sighs. "This is going to hurt him."

e, or if I shake my head. "It's only a few hours. It isn't as dire as you think te sure nt correct y. Why hat t his holas?"

ว he ies

m

lay I'm not over "Oh my God, you're in a relationship with him, Molly. If some guy grabbed me the way Jack did you, my boyfriend would be the first person I'd call."

"But..." I shrug to hide my discomfiture. A tiny part of me says maybe I should listen to Georgia, but another part—one that's terrified of being unlovable and bothersome—stops me.

You need to be less selfish. Consider that others have priorities that might be more important than you. What happened to my mother when I asked her to drop everything and buy me blueberries fleets through my mind. I don't think telling Nicholas now would end up in something that tragic, but...

"Has Nicholas ever made you feel like you aren't important to him?" Georgia asks.

"No, of course not. I just don't want to be, you know, burdensome. He's already done so much."

My best friend sighs. "This is going to hurt him."

I shake my head. "It's only a few hours. It isn't as dire as you think."

Chapter Forty-One

Nicholas

I wrap up the final meeting of the day. Cody types furiously on his lap finish the minutes.

"I'll have your agenda organized and emailed to you by five."

"Thanks."

I start to gather my things and check my watch. Four thirty. I'll nee leave earlier than usual if I want to pick Molly up on time.

The mechanic texted and said he left the car in the garage. The particular finally came in, so he was able to complete the repairs. Although Molly she'd handle the bill, I already paid it. I don't see why she should have when I have more than enough money.

I'm just about to head out when my phone pings.

- -Molly: You don't have to pick me up. I'm already home.
- –Me: Really? What happened?
- –Molly: I left early. I quit today.

Why did she quit all of a sudden? And why didn't she call me soor. How did she get home? An Uber?

Annoyance starts to bubble up as I get into my car. I tell myself the to be a good reason she didn't call earlier to go get her, but I can't thin one. Does she not see me as somebody she can call when something happens?

I make my way slowly through the congested traffic, and the annoy begins to change into anger. And underneath is maybe a tinge of grim sadness and anxiety.

Just what does it take to be the person she can depend on? My brot say I'm like a tree—solid, reliable and unshakable. But what's the poir having those qualities if Molly doesn't see them? She said I was like n mom. Does she think I'm going to abandon her in her time of need bec have some more pressing whim to attend to?

Frustration and resentment twine around me until my lungs burn. I shoving them all into a box in my head, trapping them so they don't sp and affect my mood or my interaction with Molly. She deserves a char speak without me making assumptions and getting upset.

She's thumbing through her phone in an armchair in the living roo jumps out of the seat when I walk in.

"Hey," I say, not giving her my usual greeting of "How was your d It's obvious her day didn't go as planned.

"How was your day?" she asks, like today is like any other day.

"The same as usual. Lots of meetings." Dismissing her question an demanding she tell me everything that happened at work right now isn going to help. I reach for her, then stop short when I see red marks all ed to her forearm. Four long, thick lines wrap around her, and I narrow my ϵ Are those fingers? Did someone dare lay their hands on her?

Murderous fury erupts. Blood roars in my head. My whole body sh y said with the need to clench my hands around the neck of whoever bruised to It's all I can do to rein myself back so I don't scare her. "What happen My voice rises despite my best intentions.

"Oh, it's nothing. Well, not nothing, but..."

My vision grows red. The blood in my veins run hot, cold, then sea "Who did this to you?"

She shoots me a wary look. Like I'm the feral one for reacting like when she's been abused by some asshole! "Can we sit down?"

If that'll make you answer me faster. I park my ass on the sofa. "Gi ier? the name."

ere has "Don't do anything rash."

"The name, Molly." k of

ts

She sighs. "It was Jack."

"Your boss?"

She nods. "Former boss." /ance

> "What did he do?" I need to know all the facts so I can decide how pain to deliver.

"Just the usual jerk-off behavior. Staring and touching if he can. I'v hers all avoiding him as much as possible—" it of Something clicks in my head. "Is that why you keep your office do cause I locked? To keep that piece of shit away from you?"

"Yes, but—"

ill out "Why didn't you say something?" Why didn't you let me help you? "I was trying to find a new job before I quit," she says defensively.

nce to My frustration reaches a fever pitch. And the grim sadness I felt ea slides deeper into my gut. "That doesn't answer my question."

m. She "I don't know what purpose it would've served to tell you beforehat The knife's lodged so far down, I'm not sure if I can pull it out. "D lay?" grab you when you told him you got a new job?"

"No. He grabbed me, so I quit."

"And you came home."

d "A coworker offered to give me a ride—"

't "Arturo?" The idea of that derelict being there for Molly when I was over makes my belly burn.

eyes. "No," she says. "Arturo actually helped. It was Petra."

"Okay. So Petra gave you a ride home." I guess that makes a certai akes amount of sense, given that she was right there at the—Molly. "Actually, I called Georgia. She came to get me."

ed?" My vision seems to go black for a moment. It's all I can do to get a sentence out. "You didn't think to call me?"

"I didn't want to bother you when you were busy at work. Georgia iring. freelances, so she could take a little break to pick me up."

I jump to my feet, unable to sit like a housebroken dog. Bitter wrat this, surges, sloshing through me like a wave of acid. "You're supposed to l me! I should've been the first person you thought to call!"

ive me "But Nicholas, I was thinking of you. I just—"

"You thought I'd put my work before you."

"That isn't what I thought!"

"Isn't it?" I put my hands on my hips. Something unfamiliar and act pools in the back of my throat. It's the taste of defeat. I clench my teetl don't want to give up, but I don't know how to break down the wall sherected. Bridge the distance she keeps placing between us.

much I focus on breathing for a moment. I can't give in to my temper and at her. This is too important.

ve been Finally, when I can control myself, I gentle my tone. "Molly. What to you?"

or

She looks at me like I just asked her to solve a multivariable equatiusing Roman numerals. Time stretches.

It shouldn't be this difficult. She just doesn't want to accept the mo obvious—and correct—answer.

I take a step back. She doesn't take a step forward.

rlier

Of course she isn't going to stop me from leaving—nor is she goin follow me to close the gap between us. I should've realized that whate thought we had was all in my head.

and." id he

"I see. Well, let me know when you decide." I steeple my fingers, to think clearly. "Cody will take care of everything, including the legal matter. And you can stay here as long as you need, since you don't hav anywhere else to go."

I force myself to turn from her and walk out before I throw away n asn't pride and beg her to take me.

If I go that far, I don't think I'll ever to able to forgive myself—or forcing me into a corner I never wanted to be in.

n

l

h oother

crid

h. I

e's

1 shout

t am I

She looks at me like I just asked her to solve a multivariable equation using Roman numerals. Time stretches.

It shouldn't be this difficult. She just doesn't want to accept the most obvious—and correct—answer.

I take a step back. She doesn't take a step forward.

Of course she isn't going to stop me from leaving—nor is she going to follow me to close the gap between us. I should've realized that whatever I thought we had was all in my head.

"I see. Well, let me know when you decide." I steeple my fingers, trying to think clearly. "Cody will take care of everything, including the legal matter. And you can stay here as long as you need, since you don't have anywhere else to go."

I force myself to turn from her and walk out before I throw away my pride and beg her to take me.

If I go that far, I don't think I'll ever to able to forgive myself—or her for forcing me into a corner I never wanted to be in.

Chapter Forty-Two

Nicholas

I drive aimlessly. My head is jumbled, and I can't organize my though Actually, forget thoughts. I don't even know what I'm feeling. I've nev been this hollow. It's like somebody has reached inside my body—my and ripped out everything that made me me.

Finally, I decide I need someplace to stay. It's just... I call Sebastia "Hey, can I crash at your Residence? The Aylster, not your home." I dwant to deal with my brothers' concern, not right now.

"Yeah, sure. I'll let the concierge know. But what's going on? What happened to your house?"

"Can't stay there." Seeing Molly hurts too much.

"Need a general contractor? I know a couple of good ones."

I let out a hollow laugh. "I don't think he can fix what's broken. The for the offer, though."

I hang up before he can probe, and head to the Aylster. The conciengreets me with an access card in the lobby. They know us well, and whallowed to use the Residence.

"If there's anything we can do to make your stay more enjoyable, j us know," the woman says with a hospitable smile as she hands me the

I nod and take the private elevator to the Residence unit. Despite it name, it's a sterile hotel with nothing but furniture, basic bedding, tow silence. I realize I didn't bring anything with me.

I should probably ask the concierge to get me some clothes—some fresh for tomorrow. But I can't bring myself to bother. I throw myself couch and place an arm over my eyes.

I should also check the email Cody sent, but I have no motivation. want dinner, either. Drinking is an option, but that would involve getting Too much effort.

Where did I go wrong with Molly? Did I push too hard, or somehow behave in ways that undermined her faith in me? Did I ever appear to be unreliable? Did I not present myself as a dependable man?

I never make promises I can't keep. So many of my previous dates girlfriends said in so many words that they counted on me. But the only woman I want to count on me refuses. My brothers call me solid, but a given woman might have a different perspective. I should think about that difference is, but I'm too tired and my head hurts and my heart is it ts.

* * *

ver

I lie on the couch for a while, and then suddenly the door opens. I s soul—didn't order room service. Wait a minute... If I had, they would've kn

I lower my arm and lift my head, then drop it back at the sight of π brothers pouring into the room.

on't "What are you doing here?" I say to the ceiling.

"How could we not come over?" Sebastian says.

"Especially when you aren't answering our texts or calls." Grant good dining chair, spins it around and straddles it.

"Didn't hear it ring," I mutter.

"Everything okay with you?" Emmett says.

nanks "Yeah, what happened?" Griffin says.

"Could be Molly," Huxley says.

rge Noah gives him a skeptical look. "I can't imagine Nicholas doing anything that would upset her."

My brothers take seats and look at me. They clearly aren't going ust let anywhere until I talk—undoubtedly to help me come up with a solution Don't they know that some problems simply can't be solved?

They need to go home. Return to their wives. I don't need the work els and yelling at me for keeping their husbands away. Actually, they're too nin yell. But whatever. I don't need their pity.

thing Fine. I sit up and tell my brothers what happened.

on the "Wow," Noah says slowly.

"It's like..." I sigh heavily. "She didn't even understand why I nee I don't to call me. Why I wanted to be the first person she thought of."

"Damn." Sebastian breathes out. "Yeah. I would've been pissed if said she'd rather wait than to call me, especially after something like the W He would've been furious at missing a chance to break Jack's face, too don't think Lucie's brother's face healed right after the beating from Sebastian.

and "Exactly." Griffin scowls, probably unable to imagine Sierra not cay him if she had a traumatic experience. "Doesn't she know you'd want there for her? You'd want to be there to keep her safe and beat the shit what the other guy."

"So what is this? A breakup?" Emmett asks.

Grant goes into the liquor cabinet and pulls out a bottle of whiskey and Huxley grab glasses.

"I don't know. I want her more than anything, but I can't pretend I scowl. I when she doesn't trust me to be there for her. I can't even make sense ocked. she's with me when she won't depend on me—not even a little. I don't what more I have to do to prove how much I love her."

"Did you tell her?" Huxley asks, as Grant offers me a glass he just poured. "Sit her down, look her in the eye and say, 'Molly, you're the one for me. I love you."

"Tell her you'd give up both your kidneys for her. Women love the of stuff," Noah says.

My brothers roll their eyes. I would too if I didn't feel like shit.

"Yeah, how's that working for you and Bobbi?" Griffin says.

"Unfortunately, Bobbi doesn't want my kidneys," Noah says.

"Doesn't seem to want any of your other body parts, either." Sebas takes a swallow of his liquor. "Especially the ones around the pelvic re "Yeah, yeah, yeah. Don't worry. I have a new plan."

I knock the whiskey back. The fire burning down my throat and in doesn't do anything to soothe the ragged pain. I wish I had Noah's boundlessly optimistic enthusiasm, but I'm too drained to muster much couldn't tell her. Every time I do something nice for her, she's happy. then she gets this look like she doesn't think it can last. Or that it isn't real. I don't think I could deal with it if she looked at me like that after her I loved her."

Grant nurses his drink. "Maybe she needs some distance to process ded her feelings."

"And let some asshole snatch her away?" When she and Owen bro Luce I wasted no time swooping in because I was tired of giving her "space' "time"—only to have some other guy ask her out. I thought I had a sol

o. I to show her how we could be together. I don't want to regress in our relationship, so we're back to what we were before, sending gift cards birthdays and saying polite hellos when we run into each other. Nor calling bring myself to beg her to come back. It isn't a matter of pride. I can't to be tolerate the idea of her being with me out of obligation or pity. That we out of eventually make me loathe myself and resent her, too.

"Nah. She won't let that happen." Grant ponders, swirling the amb liquid in his glass. "I'm sure you've treated her like a princess—and I c. Noah mean just giving her stuff. I know how you are, Nicholas. You probabl things to make her feel special, and whether she told you overtly or no 'm fine loved it. Right?"

of why I grunt morosely, since what I did wasn't enough.

"I don't know what her issues are, but she might need some time to things out and admit to herself how much you mean to her," Grant say "Giving her some space is good advice. Let her experience what lift only like without you in it anymore. I learned very fast I'd rather jump off a when Luce and I went through that rough patch." Sebastian shudders, it sort takes a large swallow of his drink.

"But you need to stay strong. Stay the course. She has to come to the conclusion she wants you, too. Otherwise, she'll end up feeling trapped Griffin says.

I stare at my grumpy brother. When did he become the love expertition "What?" he says. "I'm not stupid. No woman wants to feel manipurgion." or cornered. Besides, it isn't like you can serenade her to convince her singing voice is terrible."

my gut "I'm not that bad," I mutter, although...compared to Griffin, I sour a tone-deaf frog. For some reason, God gave him the voice of an angel 1. "I probably to make up for the fact that he also received the disposition o But honey badger with an achy tooth.

really I reach for the bottle of whiskey, but Huxley pours me another glas I told keeps the bottle to himself. Bastard.

"Thanks for coming over, but I need you to go home now. Say hell your wives and babies."

"Looks like you need a few other things, too," Noah says, glancing ke up, around. "Like a fresh change of clothes. You bring anything?"

'and "No, but I'll ask Cody," I say. "He'll have to cancel my meetings id plan tomorrow anyway."

```
"I'll stop by your place," Noah says. "You just take care of the othstuff."
on
           "Call if you need us. Twenty-four seven," Sebastian says.
n I
           I give my brothers a halfhearted grin. "I'm fine."
           Nobody believes the lie. Not even me.
bluc
er don't ly did t, she ) sort s. fe is bridge then he d,"
?
lated
. Your ıd like f a s and o to
```

"I'll stop by your place," Noah says. "You just take care of the other stuff."

"Call if you need us. Twenty-four seven," Sebastian says. I give my brothers a halfhearted grin. "I'm fine." Nobody believes the lie. Not even me.

Chapter Forty-Three

Molly

I stare at the floor numbly, feeling like I've just come through a tornad am sitting in the wreckage of my home.

Why was Nicholas so upset? I wanted to make things okay for himerase the pain in his eyes like he's always done for me, but I didn't kno how. I can't even figure out what I did wrong.

He was obviously angry that I didn't call, but... Why was that such problem? I was being considerate. I didn't want to bother him when he other things to do. It isn't like I was planning to hide what happened at gym with Jack.

Where did Nicholas go, anyway? He didn't ask me to move out. Or contrary, he told me to stay here, so maybe that means he's coming bar

I pick up my phone and start to text him. Hey, I know you're upset, I'm really sorry. Can we talk about this? I want to understand how I comake you feel better.

I stare at what I've typed up. If he wanted me to console him, he would've stayed. Also... He might become more agitated if he realizes have no clue why he's unhappy.

An engine roars outside before cutting off. I jump to my feet. Niche My heart races as relief rushes through me. He probably feels bette a drive and a little time away. We can have a calm discussion and worl things out. I'll start by apologizing, since I want him to know I never n to make him feel bad, and—

The door opens, and a stranger walks in. I yelp, clutching my phon weapon against the intruder. Am I getting mugged inside Nicholas's how Why didn't the household security go off?

"No need to look at me like I'm a serial killer," the man says. "I'm Nicholas's brother. I'm here to pick up some stuff for him."

"Oh, thank God." Now that he mentions it, there is a distinct family resemblance.

"Nicholas wanted Cody to handle it, but I figured I would so I coul you for myself." His cool eyes rake over me. He couldn't be more imp or assessing. It's disquieting after the warmth I experienced with Nicholasister-in-law. Noah's gaze brushes over the wrist Jack grabbed, and his eyebrows pinch in disapproval. Why does it feel like he's upset with m rather than Jack?

Anxiety winds tightly around my chest. What did Nicholas say to l "You don't look like a typical man-eater," he says finally.

o and His judgmental tone cuts, but also stirs my anger. Who does he thin to talk to me like this? Does he assume I'm with Nicholas to take adva of him? I open my mouth to give him a piece of my mind—

"I thought you might be, for hurting my kindest and most dependal brother."

Hearing him speak of Nicholas in pain snuffs out my anger. Conce had guilt tug at me. Noah must've seen Nicholas after he walked out. I nev the wanted to make Nicholas suffer. "Is he okay?"

"Why do you care?" He doesn't bother to look at me as he answers a the starts to climb the stairs.

ck...? I follow him. "Is he staying with you?"

and "No."

an "Do you know where he's staying?"

"Yes."

"Can you tell me where? Or give me more than a one-word responsible that I "No."

What a jerk. I take a deep breath. Yelling at him in frustration isn't olas? to get me any answers.

er after We reach the master bedroom. Noah obviously knows the layout o mansion.

neant "Is he okay?" I try again, hoping he'll at least give me a yes-or-no like he did earlier.

e as a His eyes slide in my direction, sharp as razor blades. "Again, why ome? care?"

"I just want to know if he's okay! I'm worried about him. I feel aw Noah. about the way he left."

Noah steps into the bedroom, then to the walk-in closet. If he has

y anything to say about my stuff hanging in there, he keeps it to himself pulls out a carry-on suitcase and lays it on a luggage rack. "Do you pit ld see him?"

ersonal I recoil. "No." olas's "You sure?"

"Of course I'm sure! I don't pity him. How could I?" Nicholas is to brilliant and wonderful. He's like the shining sun, and nobody pities th "Interesting response coming from a woman who thinks she's too a for him." He tosses a few suits and shirts into the suitcase.

"What? I never said that."

nk he is "Maybe not. But your behavior shows it."

ntage "You don't know anything about me and Nicholas."

"Don't I?" He finally turns and faces me. "He won't even eat his faces blueberry tarts because of your allergy."

I blink with surprise. "I didn't know..."

"Or maybe you didn't care to know. I've never seen Nicholas this in Not even his mother forgetting to attend his graduation, or the birthday he planned for her, bothered him like this. You act like you can't troub yourself to treat him with the same kind of care he gives to you. To yo an afterthought."

Every statement hits like a sledgehammer, filling me with shock ar dismay. I never meant any of that, much less make Nicholas think I ha feelings for him. "Look, is this about what happened this afternoon? I trying to be thoughtful and considerate of his priorities and schedule."

se?" His eyebrows jump a couple of inches. "He wants to be the first pe you reach out to, no matter what. That's his priority. You didn't put his going first."

"I did." Why is he being obtuse? Is it because he's decided he does f the me?

"If he was hurt and called Stella to sit with him and look after him, answer you be okay?"

Jealousy and a sense of inadequacy rake hot claws over my belly. 'do you Stella?"

"Nobody you know." The corners of his mouth turn downward theatrically. "You seem upset. But why? He's being so thoughtful and considerate. After all, you have your priorities."

He turns and opens a few drawers to find underwear and socks, du as he fistful into the suitcase and zips it up. "If you don't reciprocate his feelings, just stay away. Nicholas is a y guy. He deserves better." 00 e sun. good ivorite upset. ⁷ party le u, he's ıd d no was rson m n't like would 'Who's mps a fistful into the suitcase and zips it up.

"If you don't reciprocate his feelings, just stay away. Nicholas is a great guy. He deserves better."

Chapter Forty-Four

Molly

My eyes feel like they're full of grit and dust. I couldn't eat or sleep af Noah left. I feel like a complete villain. A ridiculous one at that. Obvic hurt Nicholas, and I need to apologize. I still don't know exactly how I supposed to promise I'm not going to do it again, though. He says not him means I didn't put him first. But it's precisely because I put him fi I didn't call.

People have their needs. Things they want to get done. Me asking I when I can manage on my own is an imposition. It's always been that through my life. Nothing upset Dad more than getting a call from scho telling him to come get me because I wasn't feeling well. And it was the same for a lot of my previous boyfriends. They said the most attractive about me was that I was independent. Not clingy. Unless I'm bleeding have a broken bone, I'm not going to demand someone's time and atte

Why doesn't Nicholas appreciate that?

Then I spent hours obsessing about who Stella is and whether Nich staying with her. I texted Georgia, but she said she didn't know anybounamed Stella in their social circle. Google, too, failed me. How can the so many Stellas?

I wanted to text Nicholas, to ask him where he is. If he's with this person. But everything I came up with seemed clingy and pathetic. So ended up sending just one: I'm worried about you. Can you call me what get a chance? We need to talk.

He doesn't answer, and he's never ignored my texts. He always repwithin an hour—at the most—and I've gotten used to him being response.

Since sleep is impossible, I get out of the bed and shower. I used to the housekeeping service, but now I kind of resent it—fresh sheets dor smell like Nicholas. Although the laundry detergent is the same, witho arms around me at night, things feel alien and cold.

I make myself some extra-strong coffee and sip it. Nicholas told m stay in his home as long as I wanted, but I should move out. It doesn't right to stay here when he's living elsewhere.

I bury my face in my free hand. Who am I kidding? My desire to n out has nothing to do with his being elsewhere. It's him with another v Stella. I don't think Noah dropped that particular name just for the hell He wants me to know Nicholas can have any woman he wants.

I pick up my phone. A text notification—and my mood deflates where it's from Cody. He probably wants to know when I can get out of Nicholas's hair.

ously, I

ter

-Cody: You have an appointment with Jeremiah Huxley at Huxley calling Webber at eleven today. If it's inconvenient for you, please let me kno irst that I'll reschedule.

for help He must've gotten confused. I have no idea who Jeremiah Huxley way all ol —Me: You sent the text to me, not Nicholas—or whoever you were to reach.

thing —Cody: No mistake. It's for you.

out or —Me: I don't know who Jeremiah Huxley is or why I should see hintion. —Cody: She's a lawyer. And she'll take care of you.

lolas is Trepidation presses an icy kiss on the base of my neck. I'm not sur ly Cody means by "take care of me." But it can't be anything good if Nic were be wants me to see an attorney.

Stella –Me: What is this about?
I –Cody: A possible lawsuit.

ien you –Me: What lawsuit?

-Cody: Nicholas didn't say. Jeremiah will tell you.

olies

nsive. An acidic knot tightens in my belly.

) like

ı't –Me: Where's Nicholas?

ut his —Cody: I'm not at liberty to say.

-Me: Is he okay?

e to feel Is everything okay? Do you think things are going to be fine?

10ve —Cody: I'm also not at liberty to say.

*y*oman. −Me: Is there anything you're at liberty to say?

of it. —Cody: Your car has been repaired. It's been delivered to the mans already, so you can drive it to Huxley & Webber. If that's inconvenien have a driver pick you up instead.

His texts couldn't be dryer. Or more impersonal. Noah's judgment attitude coms back to mind, and I tighten my grip on the phone. Does (feel the same way as Noah?

w and

&

–Me: Are you upset with me?

-Cody: No. That isn't part of my job.

is.

m?

Ugh. I exhale with frustration. He sounds like an accidental love cl trying between Skynet and ChatGPT.

-Cody: Do you have any instructions?

-Me: Can you let Nicholas know I'd like to speak to him?

-Cody: Yes. If that's all, have a good day.

e what I have another coffee. Nicholas doesn't text. Or call. Actually, I real holas hasn't even read my text. His phone might be dead. He didn't take his charger two days ago when he walked out.

Once he charges his phone, he'll respond.

* * *

I take my car, which now purrs like a happy cat, to Huxley & Web It's housed in a huge, swanky building with shiny chrome and glass. F the chandeliers to the sand-blasted logo on frosted glass walls to the gl elevators, everything screams courtroom success and victory.

The receptionist is in a crimson suit and smiles professionally when sees me. I give her my name, and her smile grows wider. "Jeremiah's v for you." She shows me to a meeting room with an amazing view of th

I sit at the long, rectangular table and tap on it in random rhythm. I a minute before the door opens and a tall, slim woman in spike heels w inside. She's in a teal silk jumpsuit and a jacket, and three strings of pe circle her throat.

"Jeremiah Huxley." She extends her well-manicured hand. "A plea I stand and shake her hand, stunned she is the Jeremiah.

"Please. Take a seat. Let's go over your case against Jack Peterson t, I can "My what?"

"Your case. Obviously you're going to sue." Her cool silver eyes g at my bruised wrist, which is now turning an awful shade of purple. "Je al Codvdoing?"

"Yes, but..."

"Good." She hits a button on the control in front of her. "Bebe, I ne camera to photograph evidence."

I give her a long look. I feel like I should bring it up, but delicately don't offend her. I've been so preoccupied with Nicholas that suing Jathe last thing on my mind right now. "You don't look like the type to c but...this sort of feels like ambulance chasing."

Jeremiah gives me a stunned look, then presses her lips together. B can't contain the laughter. It comes out in a short snort, then she throw head back and really lets go. "Oh dear... I haven't heard one that good ages." She dabs at her eyes. "Ambulance chasing." She fans her face. ' wait until I tell Catalina and Andreas. Nicholas, too." She tries to set h alize he into a semblance of sober attention, but fails as she laughs again. "I he Nicholas fell for an unusual girl, but this is hilarious. You must've shre his heart to ribbons. That poor child. It would've been funnier if you'd it to my son, but..." She sniffs.

I have no idea what to say or how to correct her. Nicholas hasn't fa for anybody as far as I can tell, unless she's referring to one of his exes Maybe it's Stella...? And I don't have the power to shred his heart.

ber. A cute, black-haired woman walks in with a huge camera. She lool rom my wrist and gives me instructions as she snaps multiple photos from eaming different angles.

"Do you have any other bruises or marks on you? On your torso or n she Thighs or...?" waiting

"No! Just my wrist," I tell her quickly, before Jeremiah can order n illd

ion

le city. strip down. I don't think I can say no if she issues a command.

t isn't "Okay." Bebe walks out as abruptly as she entered.

"So." Jeremiah steeples her hands. "Tell me what happened. How learls has Mr. Peterson been harassing you?"

"Before we talk about all that, shouldn't we discuss your fees? I do sure." think I can afford you."

"It's immaterial. Nicholas is footing the bill."

." "Why?"

"Male pride, I suppose?" She shrugs. "He could theoretically go ov lance Get Jacked Gym and punch Peterson out, but that would be inadvisable ack's be classified as assault, which is a criminal matter. Even if the DA dec not pursue it, Peterson could go after him in a civil suit. Nicholas is a r considerable assets, so it'd be a lawsuit worth pursuing. If Peterson we sed a client, I'd advise him to do so.

"Of course, Nicholas could taunt Peterson into throwing the first page 1, so I but that's unlikely. Peterson has a reputation for keeping his tail tucked between his legs when he deals with people of strength."

lo it, I nod. I've never seen Jack try anything with the male trainers. As matter of fact, he goes out of his way to get along with them.

"However, if you're uncomfortable, you don't have to pursue the n s her Nicholas arranged for this because he thought you might want some le in retribution against your former boss."

'Just He didn't find out about what Jack did until two days ago...when he reface walked out. Does this mean he's calmed down? Or... "Does he really me to sue?" I'm willing to do anything if it'll help him feel better.

edded "That wasn't my impression. He wants you to do what feels right to done If you want to let it go, you can."

"Then nothing will happen to Jack."

illen "Insofar as a lawsuit is concerned, correct."

Petra told me Jack is gross with all the female employees, and he to make it up by paying them well. I've read articles about how generous as an employer. They contributed to my decision to apply to the gym.

If I'd known what he was really like, I wouldn't have taken a job the Dad's voice in my head says I should just let it go, because what happer back? isn't important enough to make a fuss about, especially when it's going cost so much. But there's another voice, a more authentic one, that doe not one to want to shut up about it. Why should I be silent and let Jack get away were to should be silent and let Jack get away were to want to shut up about it.

his behavior? What's wrong with making a fuss over what actually happened? If Arturo and Petra hadn't interrupted, I might've ended up something a lot worse than a bruised wrist.

Besides, wouldn't this be a public service announcement? Nobody n't deserves to be treated the way I was at the gym.

"Do you think it'll become drawn out and ugly?" I ask.

"Possibly prolonged. Could be ugly, depending on what Jack deciduse as a defense. Most likely he'll say you came on to him first, or son other ridiculous excuse along those lines."

e. It'd "I never did that!"

ided to "Obviously. But it's my job to warn you and insulate you as much nan of possible from defamation of that nature. So. What would you like to do re my you want to think on it for a few days, that will be fine as well."

My hands shake with trepidation. I've never done anything like thi unch, before. Normally I'd pretend it wasn't that important—and tell myself not worth the trouble.

But I don't want to do that anymore. I clench my hands and look Jeremiah squarely in the eye. "I don't need to think. Let's do it."

natter. gal

a long ie want

o you.

ries to he is nere. ened g to esn't with his behavior? What's wrong with making a fuss over what actually happened? If Arturo and Petra hadn't interrupted, I might've ended up with something a lot worse than a bruised wrist.

Besides, wouldn't this be a public service announcement? Nobody deserves to be treated the way I was at the gym.

"Do you think it'll become drawn out and ugly?" I ask.

"Possibly prolonged. Could be ugly, depending on what Jack decides to use as a defense. Most likely he'll say you came on to him first, or some other ridiculous excuse along those lines."

"I never did that!"

"Obviously. But it's my job to warn you and insulate you as much as possible from defamation of that nature. So. What would you like to do? If you want to think on it for a few days, that will be fine as well."

My hands shake with trepidation. I've never done anything like this before. Normally I'd pretend it wasn't that important—and tell myself I'm not worth the trouble.

But I don't want to do that anymore. I clench my hands and look Jeremiah squarely in the eye. "I don't need to think. Let's do it."

Chapter Forty-Five

Molly

-Me: I saw Jeremiah. She's very nice. And I decided to go after Ja-Thank you. I wouldn't even have thought of taking legal action.

I wait six hours, but Nicholas doesn't respond.

Should I call? But will he answer if he doesn't even want to exchartexts?

Anxiety winds tighter until breathing is a struggle. I munch on a fe Saltines, then have more coffee. I thought the place seemed really big a empty when I ate dinner alone during the first week I lived here. But n feel like I'm being buried alive in a pharaoh's tomb.

So I send him another text.

-Me: I'm sorry about what happened.

I wince at how hollow that sounds. I'm still unsure exactly what I cwrong. And Nicholas is smart enough to realize that from the text.

The intercom beeps, and I rush over. I know it isn't Nicholas, but I hopeful that maybe it's flowers or something that hints at how he's doi what he's feeling.

Georgia is at the gate. I open it, and a few minutes later, she comes "Hey, I brought some chocolate." She comes in carrying three bags gourmet chocolates. She hugs me, then holds me at arm's length and g me a critical once-over. "You look awful. You hanging in there?"

"Yeah. Thanks."

"Sorry I couldn't come by yesterday. I had to wrap up a last-minute project for a longtime client."

"It's okay."

"Let's get something to drink with this. Nicholas has to have some liquor."

"We shouldn't."

"What?" She gives me a curious look. "Of course we should. That' it's here."

She goes to the cabinet and pulls out a bottle of whiskey.

"That looks expensive," I say, uncomfortable with raiding his hom stuff when he isn't around—and we aren't together anymore.

She grins. "I know. He doesn't do cheap liquor. This goes down sn Hangovers feel different when it's the good stuff. Trust me." She isn't to accept a refusal. We settle down in the living room with the chocola whiskey. "So he hasn't been back since he had his man-tantrum?"

"It wasn't a tantrum. He was just...unhappy with me." My texts to were sort of incoherent. Actually, now that I think back on it, I don't th some of them were comprehensible English. I take a tentative sip of th whiskey. A few drops, and the tip of my tongue tingles.

"I see." She looks at me like she has a lot to say, including "I told y W so," but she keeps it to herself. "Anyway, I asked Nikki about this 'Ste and I tense. ow I

"She said the only Stella she could think of was Stella Lloyd."

"Who's that?"

"Barron Sterling's girlfriend, apparently."

The name is vaguely familiar... Oh wait. I know. He's the megabillionaire who's in his seventies or something. The man's ancient.

But given his wealth, he probably has a hot young girlfriend. Some lid supermodel. Does Nicholas have feelings for her? Is it some kind of unrequited love? feel

"But she's old," Georgia says. ing—

"Some men like older women," I say glumly.

Georgia shakes her head. "Uh-uh. Like she-gets-the-senior-discour inside. Okay, maybe not that old. "So Nicholas wouldn't have any feeling s full of her?" ives

She almost spews the whiskey. She chokes, then gasps. "No!" She a piece of chocolate into her mouth. "Not the kind of feelings he has fc He's crazy about you."

My shoulders sag with a sad, reluctant laugh over how unrealistic a dramatic she's being. It's that or cry, and tears won't fix anything or so ck.

nge

е

decent the pain in my heart. "Then why did he get so angry with me?"

"Tell me what happened. Your texts, uh, kind of didn't make a lot sense." She makes a gimme motion with her fingers.

's why So I tell her everything, including my interaction with Noah, so she get the full picture.

When I'm done, she sighs. Then shakes her head and sighs again. ' I love you, but you really screwed up." e for I've never thought I was a particularly stupid person, but I feel stup nooth. now. "But how? How did I screw up?"

"Didn't you hear what I told you when I dropped you off? Or what going te and Nicholas said?"

"I didn't need him for the ride because I had you."

"Argh! No! He wanted to give you that ride. It's his job as your her boyfriend." iink

"But he could've been in a meeting he couldn't cancel."

"Pfft. Any meeting can be cancelled. And no business thing is more important than you." /ou

I have my doubts, But Georgia's giving me that stubborn look, so l lla.'" better just go along. "Okay...?"

She studies my face, then shakes her head. "You really don't get it. you?" She breathes in and out slowly. "Look, here's the deal. Your exe pretty shitty, okay? Not exactly shining examples of men in love. They also stupid as hell because they didn't realize you're a diamond of a gi listen. When you're in love with someone, you always want to let then —first—when something happens. Always. It could be something good could be something bad. But you always want to celebrate with them f it's good, or have them comfort you before anybody else if it's bad."

"Okay, well... If it's something good, fine. I mean, maybe. Depend But I just don't feel comfortable bothering him. What if he gets tired o ıt old." imposing? Or gets annoyed because he can't, like, do something he wa for do because of me? Or there's an accident on the way?"

She squints. "An accident on the way?"

"Yeah, on the way to get me. One that he wouldn't have been in if shoves or you! hadn't asked him for a ride."

Georgia shakes her head slowly. "Do you want to be the last one to if something happened to Nicholas? Let's say...he got hit by a car." and I wince inwardly. Just the idea sends cold shivers into my gut desp

oothe

e whiskey.

of "Which, by the way, has nothing to do with you! People get hit by the time. Or maybe he fell into a ditch because he wasn't paying attent Accidents happen. But let's just say something happens to him."

"Okay."

'Molly, "Everyone hears about it and helps him out. Like driving him to the hospital or buying him groceries or whatever. But he makes sure you do bid find out about it because he doesn't want to trouble you. He thinks you better things to do than care for him. Is that how you want your relation to be?"

"No..." I blink as a realization dawns on me. I've never thought it bother when people I cared about asked me for help. As a matter of fac appreciated that they reached out, so I could be there for them.

I cut Nicholas out by prioritizing everything but his need to be ther me. And ever since I moved in here, he's been nothing but patient, affectionate and caring...

"He doesn't want you to call him later, Molly. He wants to be you dial—always. Trust me, if he gets hit by a car, the first thing going through his mind is going to be you, and the last thing going through his mind is going to be you." She presses her hands against my cheeks and holds res were head. "Now do you get it?"

were "Yes." And I do.

Ē

Ι

rl. But "I think that's what Noah was trying to say, except he used a terrib 1 know example. Another woman." She shakes her head in disgust. "No wond 1 or it were too distracted to see the point!"

"So I really messed up, but Nicholas won't even talk to me now. O respond to my texts. It's like he wants to break up."

f me would've told you to grab your stuff and get out. I don't know where h staying, and I doubt Nikki does either. He has six brothers in the city, I mention his friends. And if all else fails, he can just stay at a hotel."

"But I don't want him to stay away. Should I go to his office?"

"I wouldn't. Not until you're sure about what you want."

"I am. I want to apologize."

"That won't be enough, Molly. If that's all he wanted, he wouldn't left." Georgia pats my shoulder, half sympathetic and half encouraging ite the "He's handed you ultimate control over your future." She gives me a significant look. "And his. So give it some serious thought before tryin cars all see him."

e lon't ı have nship was a t, I e for r first ough is ny

le er you

r

, he ie's not to have ζ.

significant look. "And his. So give it some serious thought before trying to see him."

Chapter Forty-Six

Molly

The next week passes in a blur. I have a few interviews with other comand text Nicholas every night to ask him how he's doing. But he doesn respond.

However, flowers, cupcakes and chocolates continue to arrive as use And short notes come with them, still in languages I don't understand.

The people taking care of his home continue to come and stock the with food I like. The huge mansion gets cleaned. It's like nothing's rea changed except for Nicholas's absence.

But it's that lack that leaves me bereft at night. I should've asked the housekeeping staff to leave the sheets in his bedroom alone, because not don't have anything that smells like him. The things in his closet have freshly laundered and smell of soap as well.

"Is there anything of his that you haven't cleaned yet?" I ask Carla Steely-haired and no-nonsense, she's the most senior member of the cr that handles Nicholas's household matters.

"No," she says. "Nicholas likes to keep his home tidy."

Of course. It'd be nice if his people were less efficient, but I try no too disappointed. It isn't her fault.

Her expression softens. "Would you like to try some new coffee? I stock the library with a sampler of specialty coffees."

Her kindness only depresses me further. She must've sensed somet wrong between me and Nicholas, but she's still doing her best to perk. Someone else might blame me for upsetting her boss.

And the library... It's still as beautiful as before, but it's the most proom in the mansion. I've been avoiding it since Nicholas walked out. said fuck reality—we weren't supposed to settle for anything less than happily ever after. I feel like I've ruined our happy ending.

Carla is waiting expectantly. "Thank you," I say. "But whatever Ni drinks is fine."

She gives me an odd look. "He doesn't."

"Doesn't what?"

"Doesn't drink coffee."

"What?" Everybody drinks coffee. And he always had it with me in morning.

"He prefers Earl Grey. The tea. He only has a coffeemaker in the k for when his brothers come over."

"What about the one in the library?"

ipanies "He bought it a few months ago, but I've never seen him use it."

My eyes prickle as I realize he must've bought it for me. Georgia c hang out with Nicholas much, and he said he doesn't have people over sual. romance novels—which he wouldn't normally read—occupy a huge so of the library and living room. The truck he bought to help me move of fridge Owen's place is sitting in the garage. I haven't seen him drive it again.

Nicholas has quietly done things that he knows are going to make I happy. The cost and effort are immaterial to him.

Cold shivers run through me, like a wintry wind. Sniffling, I take n ow I phone and crawl into the bed where we spent hours entwined. I bury m in the pillows, wishing I could smell something of him, but no. All that tickling my nose is fabric softener.

I start typing my daily text to Nicholas.

ew

–Me: How are you? I had another job interview. Now that I'm not Jacked anymore, more companies seem interested. Funny, isn't it? I the tobe should have a job offer in hand before quitting.

I wait. The text remains unopened for an interminable ten count, the finally opened. I pray for three dots to show...but they don't. I should thing given up by now, but I just can't believe he can shut me out so easily. The property is a should be up. how much it hurts.

He's done so much for me, catered to my needs so well. I've receivainful affection in far greater measure than I deserve. Maybe subconsciously that, which is why I kept pulling back. I was too afraid to settle in and the happiness. I was afraid that if I showed I wanted it, it would be sna away—that something bad would happen.

But nothing prepared me for the icy pain of his withholding himsel hurts this much just to have him retreat, how much will it hurt if he du me like my exes? Or looks at me with disappointed judgment like my or worse, disappears from my life entirely, like Mom because she was to give me what I asked for?

I bury myself deeper under the sheets. Shame flows over me at the realization I didn't even know that he didn't like coffee. I know almost itchen nothing about him—what he likes, what he wants. I was terrified of the possibility that when he realized what he wanted, he'd also realize that wasn't me.

He told you what he wanted over and over again. You just didn't li loesn't Nobody else is going to eat with you... The words he said after he'. The the dinner with me at the auction.

He defended me against Owen. Spared me any possible embarrassi ut of the auction and ensured that no one else would be able to have my con Gave a ridiculous amount of money to a cause that I care about. Came shelter to see me even when he was allergic to animals. Then said I dichave to do anything I didn't want to. He only wants me to do what mal happy.

ry face That, and open up to him. Tell him what I want.

t's But that means letting my shields down. Trusting that it's okay to a things—and that it won't necessarily end badly, like it did with Mom a blueberries.

I didn't want to do any of that because it was too scary. I didn't this at Get actions would hurt him enough to have him walk away. Intellectually I ought I understand that my being honest about what I want isn't necessarily se destined to end badly. It's just...something holds me back. And if I'm hundred percent frank, I did want to call Nicholas first—without feelingen is guilty or anxious—when Jack hurt me. I just didn't want to admit it be thought that would make me selfish and wrong.

And I turn over, then punch the pillow in frustration and fear. Nicholas going to be happy with a mere apology. He wants more.

He wants my acceptance. He wants me to embrace what he's offer I knew let him in, not just physically but emotionally as well.

seize Except that's...

tched My hands tremble. I clutch a pillow, clenching my fingers, hoping will stop quivering. But the tremor spreads all over.

f. If it If I continue on my current path, Nicholas and I are both going to t miserable. But I'm so afraid to change course. What if I end up hurting mps dad? even worse? But what if you don't...? trying Regardless, I can't live in his house, forcing him to stay elsewhere. decisions to make about myself—and him. I stay up all night thinking about them. The next morning, I text Ge Ĵ it -Me: Do you know where Nicholas is staying? Or can you find out Cody won't tell me, but he might tell you. -Georgia: I'll see what I can do. sten. d won A few minutes later, I have a response. ment at -Georgia: Cody won't tell me where he's staying, but he said Nich ipany. to the might be able to spare a bit of time after his lunch meeting at Nieve. -Me: Okay. Thanks, girl. ln't kes me I put my phone down and inhale deeply. I'm not sure exactly what going to say when I see him, but I can't let both of us down without a b isk for ınd the nk my can lfish or one ıg cause I isn't ing and

they

If I continue on my current path, Nicholas and I are both going to be miserable. But I'm so afraid to change course. What if I end up hurting us even worse?

But what if you don't...?

Regardless, I can't live in his house, forcing him to stay elsewhere. I have decisions to make about myself—and him.

I stay up all night thinking about them. The next morning, I text Georgia.

-Me: Do you know where Nicholas is staying? Or can you find out? Cody won't tell me, but he might tell you.

-Georgia: I'll see what I can do.

A few minutes later, I have a response.

-Georgia: Cody won't tell me where he's staying, but he said Nicholas might be able to spare a bit of time after his lunch meeting at Nieve.

-Me: Okay. Thanks, girl.

I put my phone down and inhale deeply. I'm not sure exactly what I'm going to say when I see him, but I can't let both of us down without a fight.

Chapter Forty-Seven

Nicholas

Today is the one hundredth day since Molly and I started dating. Spending a meeting with Tara isn't how I envisioned it would go. But at least conversation is pleasant.

A stunning Asian with flawless, milky skin and full red lips, the weas sharp as the crisp edge of her asymmetrically cut jet-black hair. She doesn't become emotional during negotiations. She's one of those rare who truly believes it's just business, nothing personal—which makes hideal business partner. Perhaps she believes that because she generally the best of everyone in deals. Her preferred outfit is a red dress with m stilettos, probably to hide the blood of whoever's across the negotiating Today is no exception.

"If they become much more of a pain, we should dump them," she over a mimosa. "They don't have enough cash to make the next bond payment. Time to show them they're nothing to us."

"Do you suggest we take them back if they show enough remorse? although my mind is on Molly. Some part of me wants her to be nothing without me so she'll be forced to come back. Except... That isn't her, her because she shines so bright and beautiful. I love her because of he warmth—like a campfire on a chilly night that draws me in.

"Remorse?" Tara laughs. "Let them default. We can grab the profit pieces for pennies. Sucks to be them, but sometimes you have to be cru command respect."

I nod. That's what I would've suggested, too—business is business let them see what they threw away in their arrogance. My train of thou derails for a second. Is that what I'm doing to Molly by staying away? I'm doing a shitty job. She has my house and my staff and is under my She has everything but me.

That might be the way she wants it, I think glumly.

"Something wrong? You look terribly unhappy." Tara signals our value for another mimosa.

"Just thinking about the acquisition."

"Uh-huh. You can't fool me. This acquisition isn't worth losing we over. And you're too experienced and calm to care that much about a c this small." She props her chin on her hand. "As a matter of fact, I've I seen you at the negotiating table without a dealbreaker. You're always to walk if you don't get what you want."

"I don't always get what I want." If I did, I wouldn't be living alon ding it Aylster.

our She sits back, frowns and gives me an uncharacteristic sideways lo "What's going on? Did Carla forget to restock your favorite tea?"

oman's "No, nothing like that."

"Wait..." Tara blinks. Finally, her smug I'm-on-the-top-of-the-woll people veneer cracks. "Does this have something to do with the cute brunette ner an won at Elizabeth's auction?" She straightens before I can answer. "Oh gets God, it does! Just look at your face!"

atching "Am I really that transparent?"

g table. "You are with this girl. I was wondering because it isn't like you to impulsive, although in a lot of ways you're just like your mother."

says "Are you calling me fickle?" Molly said the same thing about me a Mom.

"No. You both know what you want very clearly and go after it. It'
"I ask, that what Nikki wants changes all the time. What you want doesn't."

I sit and consider her words. I've never heard that explanation before love even from my own brothers. The waiter brings Tara her new mimosa. I swallow my whiskey.

"I should've known something was up when you ordered whiskey table your lunch," Tara says with an amused smile. "So. Who's more in love tel to your situation?"

Me. "I don't know."

"Relationships are like poker," she says in a low voice, like she's imparting a great secret. "Whoever loves more loses because they can' If so, remain cool-headed. And whoever says the L-word first? Toast."

care. I cock an eyebrow. "Speaking from experience?"

"Of course. Derek has no clue if I love him." She sounds like we're discussing bond market movements in London.

waiter "And he still proposed and married you?" I've met Tara's husband doesn't come across as the type to put up with that kind of uncertainty.

"Yes. Because he loves me." The smile on Tara's face is genuine. I eight affectionate. But it's impossible to tell if she reciprocates his feelings.

leal It's similar to the one Molly often wears around me, except her gre never eyes are always bright with unspoken secrets. Like she's holding back ready she's afraid will change everything between us.

"He told me so, too," Tara adds.

e at the "Do you love him?"

She laughs. "I'm not telling."

ok. "Fine. Are you happy? Or is that a secret, too?"

She laughs harder. "No. But if you're curious, I'm quite satisfied w life."

rld "How about Derek?"

5

you "He hasn't complained." She shrugs. "It's a good marriage."

my I'd know if she was lying. She's always certain of what she's wortl what she deserves. If she weren't pleased with her marriage, she would left Derek, no matter what he told her.

It's tempting to give in and go back to Molly. Even as my heart huncan point to Tara and her husband and console myself that if they're have enough, surely Molly and I could be too. But part of me hates settling the "satisfied" and "hasn't complained."

s just It's tempting to throw away my pride and go back to her. Being aw from Molly is even more painful than I imagined. It's like every hour vore, not her slices away another piece of my soul. I'm also anxious and dreadin possibility that she might never love me back—and find herself anothe boyfriend.

with But how long would the satisfaction last?

I want to be her number one. I want to monopolize her attention, af and thoughts, just like she's monopolized mine. I can't settle for less. I be able to bear it if she doesn't love me enough to say the L-word. I do want her to think like Tara—to look at our relationship as some kind o stakes poker game.

"I need to get going," Tara says, swallowing the last of her mimosa "Otherwise I'll miss my flight." She gathers her purse and stands. Wra an arm around me, she presses a quick kiss to my cheek and then pats the back. "Good luck with the brunette. And if she doesn't respect you enough to want you, dump her. I'll introduce you to some of my single friends. They're hot."

Even I laugh. Tara can be a good friend when she's in the mood. "Thank She wiggles her fingers in a little wave and walks off. I sign the bil head out for my afternoon meetings.

words I step into the lobby and start across the vast stretch of spotless manual under the glittering chandeliers. A hot prickling of the skin in the back neck makes me slow down and scan the area.

My eyes collide with Molly's. She stands with her arms crossed, he wan and dark circles under her eyes. Her hair's pulled into a topknot, revealing the scrumptious line of her neck and shoulders. The memory 7ith my how her breathing grew shallow when I rained kisses there rips through

She uncrosses her arms and starts toward me. She's in a pretty gree dress that brings out her eyes and flatters her lush curves, and her feet the same hot stilettos she wore to the auction. Given she chooses her claim more for comfort than looks, they're unusual choices. If I didn't know I'd think she dressed for me.

But why would she? A bitterness not even whiskey could burn off I rts, I in the back of my mouth. She couldn't have made it clearer where I rai appy her world.

for Tara's parting advice rings in my head, at war with my instinctive to run to Molly and hold her tight, swipe my thumbs over her pale cheray kiss her until she clings to me mindlessly.

without Then I recall the state of Tara's marriage. I'd rather die than have t ig the between me and Molly.

My legs feel like they're made of lead. I force myself to turn and d myself toward the exit.

"Nicholas," Molly croaks. She clears her throat. "Wait." Her voice fection firmer and steadier.

won't I stop instantly, like every cell in my body has been just dying for a reason to talk to her. "What are you doing here?"

f high- Say you're here for me.

Uncertainty skitters over her beautiful face. "I want to talk to you."

"Okay. Speak." I check my watch, to hide my reaction to her nearn pping disguise my disappointment that she's still unsure about me—about us me on have a couple of minutes before I need to leave for my next meeting."

```
ì
:s." l, then rble of my er face of h me.
'n are in lothes better, lingers ık in desire eks and hat rag is
£
iess. To
. "I
```

Chapter Forty-Eight

Molly

I had my thoughts organized. I wrote out what I was going to say on a of paper and reviewed it in the car on the way to the hotel. But when Nicholas looks bored and can barely glance at me, my courage crumble

He taps his watch, and the corners of his lips turn down. Am I both him? Is the gorgeous Asian woman who kissed him and left the one he interested in now? He laughed at something she said. She's more his ty than I could ever be.

The possibility that I could have been replaced slams into my head wrecking ball, and the notes I memorized vanish from my mind. All I think is that he was with another woman, and maybe I was never that s

Nicholas drops his wrist and straightens. He's going to walk away. "Who was she?" I blurt out.

He tilts his head, looking vaguely confused. "Who?"

"The woman who was having lunch with you." I cringe inwardly a jealous I sound. The plan was to talk to him about how I feel and expla myself to him, not sound like a girl accusing her boyfriend of cheating

"She's a business partner." His tone is cool and dismissive. It says no right to feel anything about what happened. "If that's all you have t

"Do all your business partners kiss you like that?" I feel sick to my stomach. I need to know what I am to him—if anything's changed sinc day he walked away—before I can decide exactly what I'm going to te next. There's no point in baring my soul if he doesn't care about me.

"Why not?" Bitterness crackles under his otherwise smooth tone. "available."

The last two words are a punch in the gut. It's actually an effort to upright. I feel an overwhelming, self-preservational urge to flee before says anything more to shred me. And normally that's exactly what I'd then...

Pain flashes in his eyes. And somehow I can't just leave. Why does look like he's the one who's getting his heart ripped out when he's say things designed to make me bleed? "Are you doing this on purpose? Is some kind of revenge because you're mad at me?"

He looks at me as though I just backhanded him. "Revenge? Don't absurd. If I wanted revenge, this is what I would've done to her, while making sure you were watching."

He cups my face with his large hands, holding me so I can't pull average piece. His mouth fuses with mine, and we kiss. My lips part at the heady feel him. His tongue invades my mouth, stroking me. I place my hands over es. shoulders and rise on my toes to fuse my lips better with his. And he prefing me like he's taking me with his mouth. Shivers run through me. Tears to my eyes as air shudders in my chest. This feels like a homecoming. believe we've been apart for over a week.

Suddenly, he pulls away, still cradling my face. He looks at me, his like a blazing eyes intense. "What's wrong? Why the tears?"

"It's just a little bit around my eyes." I dab at them, surprised he no special. But then he notices so much about me. The tears aren't even running d my cheeks, but he's acting like I'm sobbing in unbearable pain, and he loss as to how to make it better for me.

"I'm so sorry," I say shakily. "I don't know how to be the kind of t how girlfriend you need. You keep showing me I'm important to you, but I stop wondering what will happen if you change your mind about me us."

I have He regards me for a long moment. "Despite what you said before," o say nothing like my mother."

"Of course you are. You're both so interesting and beautiful."

He gives me a hard look. Except he seems more relieved than the disappointed. I don't understand why he's reacting this way, and suddell him I'm uncertain.

"I'm scared that when I think you love me is when our relationship I'm The words tumble out in a trembling torrent. "My relationships always just when I think they're going somewhere. And then, if you know how remain I love you, you might jerk back, like I just threw a snake at you or som he because that isn't what you want. I was so happy being with you, in yo do, but house, living together and sharing—I don't want to rock anything." I c barely hold his eyes. "I'm so afraid, Nicholas."

s he Hot elation blazes in the gray depths of his gaze, but I don't know ing part of my disorganized rambling could've put that look on his face.

"Say that again." When I blink up at him, unsure if I can repeat all he clarifies, "The part about 'you love me."

be I nod shakily. "Yes. I love you. I'm sorry; I didn't want to say it lil Or too soon. I just—"

"Too soon?" He laughs. "I waited eight years. I fell in love when I way. you. And that hasn't changed for even one day in all that time."

of I stare at him as my brain tries to process what he just said. Slowly r his meaning sinks in, my heart skips a beat. Exhilaration flows in my vein lunders feel like I could fly to the moon.

spring He wipes away the tears that now are running down my cheeks and I can't his forehead on mine. "I'm still here. I'll always be here. And before y bring her up again, Tara—my business partner—is married. Satisfactor so." He takes my hand, threading and linking our fingers. "Let's go ho

"What about your meetings?" I ask breathlessly as we dash across pticed. lobby like a couple of teens on their way to do something naughty.

own "They can wait. You're more important."

's at a

* * *

can't about All through the drive, his hand is linked to mine. I squeeze like I'll let go, although I manage to text Cody to let him know Nicholas might available for his meetings.

ľm

-Cody: Thanks for letting me know. I'll adjust his schedule accord

"What are you doing?" Nicholas asks.

"Telling Cody you might not come in for your meetings." I glance gorgeous profile of his face—and the huge tent below his belt. I wish I ends." touch him, show him how much I miss him.

He follows my gaze. I don't look away. I don't want to hide how n w much want him.

"I wish we could do something about that right now," I whisper.
"After we're home. I won't be able to drive if you touch me. Just b an the same car is making it difficult for me to concentrate on the road."

Nicholas violates more traffic rules than I can keep count of. I'm what shocked, since he's generally a safe driver. But I'm also too impatient as long as we make it home safely.

of it, The car finally screeches to a stop, and we hop out. I wrap my arm legs around him as he grabs me and devours my mouth like a man who te this. been denied sustenance for far too long. He tastes like love and the beat future I dared not dream of, and my heart swells with longing.

met The door crashes open behind me, and he carries me inside the coo Carla lets out a small yelp from the kitchen, and I pull back in surprise , as the her footsteps fade away as she leaves.

s, and I Nicholas rests his forehead on mine and whispers something. It tak a moment to realize in my dazed state that I can't process what he just 1 rests "What was that?" I whisper.

ou "That's what's on the first note I gave you," he explains with a smi told you I'd tell you what they meant on the hundredth day we'd been together. And today's the day."

He's been counting all this time, even when we were apart. His lov never wavered. Every time I think I can't love him more than I do, he something to prove that oh yes, I can.

"What does it mean?" I ask shakily.

the

"I love you." He holds my gaze in his, adoration in his eyes. "The said, 'I love you,' in a hundred different languages."

never Tears of joy and elation spring to my eyes. I can't believe he's been not be telling me every day already. I should've trusted the intent behind his gestures from the very beginning—to ensure I understood that I matter him. Then we wouldn't have had to go through this pain, separated fro ingly.

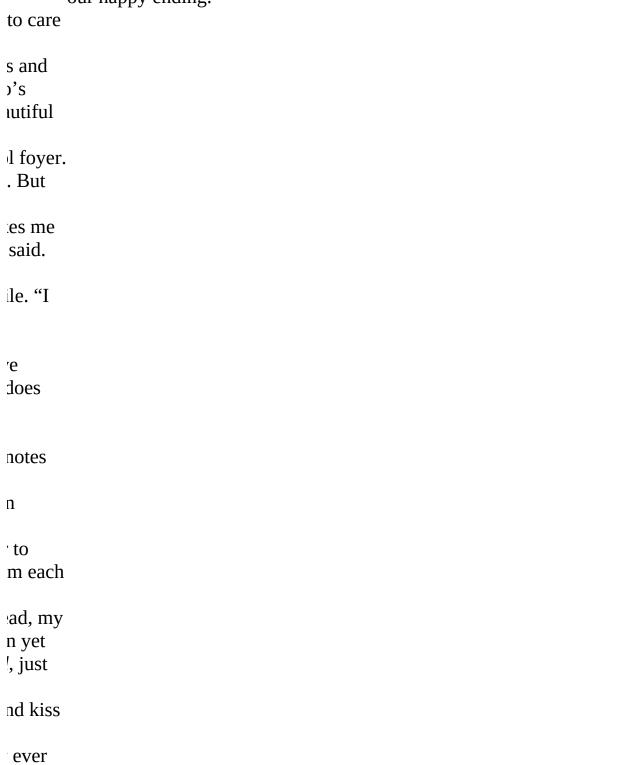

He brushes his lips against the corners of my teary eyes, my forehe cheeks, and between each pressing of lips, he whispers, "I love you," is at the another language. And I realize he has all the "I love you"s memorized for me.

Love and hope fill my fluttering heart. I cradle his gorgeous face a nuch I him.

He was right when he said fuck realistic. I was holding my happily after back then, and I'm lucky to be holding him now.

eing in "Make love to me," I say softly.

"Anything you want. It's yours." Then he carries me to our bedroo our happy ending.

"Anything you want. It's yours." Then he carries me to our bedroom for our happy ending.

Chapter Forty-Nine

Molly

I pace through the kitchen, then into the living room. I should probably down or check on the food like a good hostess, but I can't concentrate. is the last thing I'm feeling.

"Oh my God, I'm so nervous." I wipe my clammy hands on my drothen cringe and look down. No wet spots on my thighs. Yay.

"Relax. It's fine." Nicholas comes over and puts his hands on my shoulders, stopping me from pacing some more. "It's just a causal dinr with some people. No big deal."

He tries to kiss me, but I put a hand over his mouth. "No. You're g mess up my lipstick."

His eyes twinkling, he kisses the side of my neck.

I laugh breathlessly. "Stop distracting me."

"It's working, though. Now you aren't worrying yourself sick."

"I want your family to like me." I'm meeting Nicholas's brothers a sisters-in-law for the first time. Well, I've already met Lucie, who is absolutely charming in a slightly dominating way. You can't ignore the of her personality or sheer physical presence. She towers over many m make them shrink before her. The encounter with Noah was less than i but I decide I'm not going to count that. He was angry and disapprovir Hopefully he won't be today.

"It's just a lousy dinner. If they do anything to upset you, we'll kic out and enjoy all the roast beef. Yum yum. Mmm. Roast beef. Just the us." Nicholas runs his mouth along my neck.

I reach back and thread my fingers through his hair, appreciating hattempt to get me to stop thinking about all the things that can go wron Intellectually, I understand there's nothing wrong with the food—Carlacare of that—and that Nicholas's family is probably going to be polite, no other reason than because they like him. But I also want them to lik want to be able to fit in.

The door opens, and I pull back from Nicholas so I can say hello to first of his family to arrive. It's a tall, handsome man with a warm smil puts me at ease. He's holding a tiny girl, who looks like a little doll, in arm, and has the other one around a pretty blonde.

"Emmett! And you brought Monique!"

"Of course," he says to Nicholas, who takes the girl and kisses her. She giggles, then runs her little fingers along Nicholas's cheeks an "This is my brother, Emmett," Nicholas says. "And his wife, Amy. little angel is Monique."

sit this little angel is Monique."

Calm We shake hands. "We're so happy to finally meet you," Amy says. would've found a way to do this earlier if we'd just been able to find a time."

"Blame Grant," Emmett grouses. "He's the one giving you extra w The door opens again. "Somebody talking about me?"

"Speak of the devil..." Emmett mutters with a slow smile.

Nicholas's brothers are punctual and all arrive within a few minute oing to Although Nicholas's place is huge, they seem to fill it up with their lar than-life presence.

Despite my worries, Noah doesn't do anything to indicate he's still with me. But he also hasn't made a friendly overture like Nicholas's of brothers. He just gives me a vaguely perturbed look before turning away.

we move to the dining room, where the food is laid out. Four of the brothers are married, and two have babies. In addition to Emmett and a e force little girl, Griffin and Sierra have triplets—Ellen, Ben and Jon—and the en and simply adorable. The little ones are passed around to be fussed and added, smile as I watch the scene unfold. This just feels so…unreal. I've only family interactions like this in movies or on TV. I never knew they cou actually happen in real life—much less that I'd be part of it. The realiz k them poignant and gratifying.

two of "You need to tell your mom to stop showing the triplets to my mor Nicholas says, loudly bussing the triplets and making them squeal delightedly. He's obviously great with babies, and I swear, I'm ovulati the sight of him dealing with his nieces and nephews.

a took "Is that why Nikki wants you to give her a baby?" I ask.

, if for "Probably," Sierra says with a small laugh. "She sees it, she wants e me. I She's great for business."

Nicholas winces and holds up a hand to stop further talk. "Please. I the just..." He trails off.

le that I look at him. Nicholas is never at a loss for words.

one Sierra leans closer with a wicked grin. "I manage a sex toy compar "She doesn't just manage it. She's the CEO," Aspen says. She's a beautiful redhead who's married to Grant and has the casual grace of a dancer.

d nose. "Anyway, stop showing her baby pics," Nicholas says, recovering. And she'll leave us alone."

"Ooh, I have just the thing. Puppy pictures!" Lucie says. "But is sh "We going to get one and then change her mind about having a pet?"

good "Nah, she'll hire somebody to take care of them. That's what she d when she gets pets," Nicholas says. "And a puppy would be perfect. I ork." Mom going for that instead."

"Somebody pass me the bread," Noah announces. "I'm starving."

"You mean you haven't had anything in the last two hours." Huxle s. ad executive. A little intense, but he seems nice enough. At least, he's ger-kind to me so far.

"You're unnatural, which is why you don't need carbs. Probably be upset you feed on the blood of the innocent. I can't believe you aren't a lawy ther Huxley snorts. "Neither can my grandmother."

e Grant passes Noah the bread basket, and Noah gorges on two huge after slathering them with room-temperature butter.

Amy's "I have no idea where you store all that," Lucie says in awe.

ey're "Just burns off. Mad metabolism." He winks. "And lots of energy bred. I when it comes time to love the ladies." He points both index fingers do seen his lap. "The D needs its fuel."

"Do that in front of Bobbi," Griffin says. "I'd like to know how mu ation is supercharged D she's been getting."

Nicholas leans over and says, "Bobbi's a baker. Specializes in croin," and Noah has a thing for her."

"Really? I love croissants." I turn to Noah. "Not that I have a thing ng at Bobbi." I wait for his reaction. I'm not sure if he's trying to avoid me a decide if he should accept me or not.

"Better not. You have Nicholas." He gives me a quick wink, and I it. at him, relieved.

He thinks "the D" is what makes ladies happy, but what he doesn't really to realize is that it's more oral action that can make women swoon. I d know how much I loved it until I met Nicholas. But then, it's difficult adore the act when he licks you like he can't get enough—that he's go iy." crazy for the taste of you.

I serve myself some beef. "Lickolas, can you pass me the potato sa Everyone goes still. Slowly, heads swivel in my direction. The wiv looking amused while the brothers are just...speechless. The silence is "Then suffocating. Even Nicholas is staring at me oddly.

"What?" Is there some secondary meaning of potato salad I don't keep about?

"You called him Lickolas," Sierra says finally.

oes "Huh?" I let out a no-way laugh. "I did not."

can see "You did. We all heard you," Griffin says. He doesn't strike me as type to joke about something like this.

I turn to Nicholas, hoping he can rescue me. But he shrugs and nod y is an Oh no. I bury my undoubtedly flaming face in my hands. I was thii been about oral action earlier...

Your mom would've never made this kind of mistake, a voice that s ecause just like Dad thunders in my head. Now what will they think? You're su rer." embarrassment.

I shrink a little. I wanted so much to make a good impression, but I rolls all ruined. I bite my lip, my appetite gone.

"Well, don't keep us in suspense," Lucie says, her voice warm and titillated.

for "Yeah," says Amy. She grins. "Do tell us how you came up with thown at particular nickname."

I jerk my head up. What?

"I want to know exactly what he does to get a nickname—or should *lick*name—like that," Sierra says. "I've been looking for new product i sand I can literally see the whole packaging." She sweeps an arm in from her, painting a vista. "Nicholas...Lick-a-Lass!"

for "Get a couple of spoons and show us," Amy says, teasing sparks in or can't eyes.

Huxley frowns. "A couple of spoons...?"

smile "If you put two together," Sierra says, "they sort of have the right s and shape."

"You ladies think he's got something because you've never seen midn't it," Noah says. "Behold the true Lick-a-Lass action!" He raises two spinot to "Hey, that's my spoon!" Sebastian says, plucking one out of Noah'ing grasp.

The men start to get loud and rowdy. Undeterred, Noah slowly lick lad?" single spoon. "What do you think, Molly? Better than Nicholas?"

res are Nicholas scoffs. "You're an amateur!"

I laugh. "I'm not getting roped into judging something like this."

Noah turns to Sierra. "She's too overcome to say. I demand to be the model for Lick-a-Lass! Which, by the way, should have a different nare fit me better."

"Like...?" Sierra says.

"Hey, get your marketing team on it," Noah says. "Do I have to do the everything?"

"The only thing that rhymes with Noah is boa. I don't think that's ls. image you're going for here," says Emmett.

aking Griffin looks up at the ceiling. "There's protozoa..." "Ugh. No," Sierra says.

ounds "Lower sort of rhymes, if you say it with a Southern accent. Like *l*e uch an says Amy. "And slowah."

She and Lucie exchange a look, and Lucie nods. "Those could wor now... As Nicholas's family has fun with my slip of the tongue, the awful in my head recedes. It wasn't a big deal. I don't have to be perfect and proper to be included.

Nicholas squeezes my hand. "See? Told you they'd love you."

He did. And he's giving me more than just himself by loving me. I giving me a family I can belong to—people who'll always have my ba

My eyes prickle with happy tears. I don't know what I did to deser d I say but somewhere I must've done something right. "Marry me," I whispeldeas, Nicholas goes absolutely still.

"I know this isn't the most romantic place or moment, but I love you much." Now the whole table has gone quiet. "And I can't believe all the and acceptance here and... I just really, really want you to be mine." I his hand. "I'll get you a ring later," I add in a tremulous voice.

Everyone holds their breath. Nicholas kisses me hard. "I was yours the day I met you." Something warm slides along my finger. "I've bee carrying this for a while now."

ıe do I look down. A huge solitaire winks in the light. I cover my mouth, hug him as hard as I can. oons. "Welcome to the family!" someone shouts, and everyone starts cla S Life simply cannot get better than this. s his he ne to the owah," k." voice łe's ck. ve him, r. ou so ie love take since

n

I look down. A huge solitaire winks in the light. I cover my mouth, then hug him as hard as I can.

"Welcome to the family!" someone shouts, and everyone starts clapping. Life simply cannot get better than this.

Chapter Fifty

Molly

The heady aroma of flour, sugar, lemon zest and bubbling fruit fills the kitchen. According to Cody's text, Nicholas should be getting home so I feel like I'm on the top of the world. I have the most wonderful fi and I received three job offers and accepted one from LocalGro earlier week. The train of my life is finally on the right track.

My phone pings again, and I start to reach for it, pausing for a mon admire the ring Nicholas gave me last weekend. It's the most beautiful ever—a symbol of our commitment.

I blink and turn my attention to the phone. Dad.

Dread starts to unfurl. I hesitate, then pick up the phone.

-Dad: Is it really true you're engaged?

-Me: How did you know?

I never bothered to tell him. He's the last person I wanted to get in with.

-Dad: I saw the announcement. It isn't April Fool's Day, so I had t check.

-Me: I guess Nicholas sent one out.

Three seconds later, the phone rings.

"Hello?"

"So this isn't a prank?" Dad says. "He actually wants to marry you Does he have to sound so incredulous? Some old doubts stir, but the I had with Nicholas and his family fleets through my mind. The wlove and acceptance I felt...

Suddenly, my doubts dissipate. Dad's words don't hurt like they us anymore.

"Yes," I say. "Somebody out there decided I'm worthy after all."

"Huh. Well, that's surprising."

"I'm sure it is to you. By the way, you know how you're always sa don't measure up to Mom?"

"I wouldn't use those words. I just think that you could try a little l to—"

"Yeah, yeah, fine. I just want you to think about something. Whatever has prevented me from being like Mom comes one hundred from you. Might want to think about that. Oh, and you aren't invited to wedding."

ancé, "Not invited? You can't do that. I'm your father!"

this Does he honestly think I want him to walk me down the aisle and § away? When I know he doesn't really wish me the best? Or love me the nent to a father should love his child?

"No. You were my sperm donor. You've never been my father, not way it truly matters. I know what family really means now. Please don contact me again."

"Molly! What's gotten into you? Do you think you can talk to me l this just because you got yourself a rich boyfriend? Let me tell—"

I hang up and block his number, upset that he can't respect me and that I let him hold so much power over me for so long. Somehow, feeliguilty about Mom's death twisted into thinking I owed him something.

touch So many years wasted.

ž

on.

0

Well, no more. I'm done letting him damage me, especially when i the potential to hurt others who love me as well. I don't ever want to p myself or Nicholas through anything like the horrible time apart we ha when I looked at the comments people left on my Instagram post abou a happily ever after means, one of the answers really spoke to me.

Happily ever after is believing in your love for each other and worthrough the problems you'll face together. This is so you can stay toge matter what because you complete each other.

?" And that means I need to fully recognize—in fact, embrace—the ic ne greata life with Nicholas is what I want, and not let somebody like Dad shal varmth, belief.

The door opens, and I turn around. Nicholas walks in with a broad sed to "How was your day?"

"Fabulous!" Then I remember the unpleasant exchange with Dad.
Normally, I'd hold back, but I'm not hiding anymore. "Well, except fo thing. Dad called, and I told him he wasn't invited to our wedding. Yo ying I mind, do you?"

He pours himself a glass of red. He offers me some, but I shake my narder and take a seat next to him at the kitchen counter. "Not even a little. I of plan to invite mine, either."

"How come?" Ted doesn't seem that terrible.

percent "Because I want our wedding to be about our future, not his ego."

I don't know much about Ted, but if Nicholas feels this way, I trus he has good reason. "How about your mother?"

"She can come...now that she's given up on the whole baby thing."

give me "She has? Is she going to get a puppy instead?"

"No, but I told her I'd be getting something if she brought it up aga "Like what?"

t the "A vasectomy."

't I gasp. "Oh my God... Are you going to? For real?"

He laughs. "Of course not. But it should get her to stop asking. My ike kind of has a history with vasectomies."

"It does?" That sounds sort of dire. "Do I even want to know about sad "I'll tell you sometime. But listen, I don't want you to feel pressure ing Mom or anyone else. It's ridiculous. You have to tell me if she asks."

"I will. But you know what? It doesn't matter who gets invited to c wedding or if we get asked about baby plans, so long as we're happy."

t has Nicholas, then close my eyes and bury my face in that perfect spot betweet this shoulder and chest. "How was your day?"

d. And "Most excellent. So what are you baking?"

t what "It's a secret." I grin, biting my lip.

He frowns. "It's not cookies..."

king "Definitely not."

ther no "Cobbler?"

"Closer." I lay a hand on his cheek. "It'll be worth the wait. I prom lea that There's a buzzing from Nicholas's pocket, and he pulls out his phoke that frowns.

"Something urgent from work?"

grin. "No. A text from Noah." He turns the phone so we can both see.

–Noah: Check this out! Nicholas, show it to Molly, too!

r one

in."

u don't He attached a video. Nicholas clicks on it, and it shows the sidewal outside of Get Jacked Gym. A few female voices are screaming profan 7 head Suddenly, the door opens and Jack comes out. More cuss words.

"You fucker, I hope you get what's coming to you!" a woman yells "Creep!"

"Hey, watch it!" Jack shouts back, his face red.

"You watch this!"

A white object flies into his face and erupts into a spectacular exploration of yellow and clear liquid. I cover my mouth with my hand. "Did some just throw an egg at him?"

Nicholas squints, and his lips curve into a satisfied smile. "Looks l" "I'm calling 911!" Jack yells.

"Do it, asshole! I'll tell them how you grabbed my ass when I was working for you!"

"Pervert!"

family These must be the former employees who left in disgust after Jack' grotesque behavior. I never heard of this kind of incident happening at it?" gym, but maybe these women feel emboldened now that I filed a lawst against him.

"Guess they decided to confront him, since they realized there are who got the same treatment," Nicholas says. "It'll be impossible for hi get away with anything now. Not when there are probably dozens of oween women who can come out to discuss his sexual harassment. Hope he e his jail cell." His phone buzzes again.

-Grant: I wish I'd known. I would've shown up with a truckload o

I grin. Nicholas's family's support is as unconditional and automat the sun rising in the morning, and I'm so grateful for it. I turn to him. "ise." you think there's something we can do to help those women?"

ne and "You mean like help them sue?"

I nod. "They probably want justice—like me—but maybe they can afford lawyers good enough to go after Jack."

"I'll speak with Jeremiah and see," he says without hesitation. His generosity is always touching. It's just the way he is, but I don't think ever get used to just how magnanimous he can be.

"Thank you."

The oven timer dings. I get up and open the oven, a blast of heat hi ities. me in the face. I pull the pan out with one mittened hand and place it o kitchen counter, then pour carefully washed and dried blueberries on to the bubbling purplish goo.

"What is that?" Nicholas comes over, then looks at me in alarm. "/okay?"

"Perfectly fine. Don't worry."

osion "But...aren't you allergic to blueberries?"

ebody I shake my head. "I'm not allergic."

"What?" His eyebrows pinch in confusion.

ike it." "Blueberries used to be my favorite fruit, but..." I take a moment t my thoughts. I don't want him to pity me or feel bad. "When I was six really wanted some blueberries, so I begged Mom to get some for me. she died in a car accident on her way back from the store."

"Oh, no..." He runs a gentle hand along my back, soothing me.

I squeeze his arm to let him know I appreciate his sympathy. "Afte wasn't able to look at them without thinking of her and feeling guilty, somehow what happened was my fault. But I didn't want to tell people just made up an allergy."

others "I'm so sorry." He hugs me. "We don't have to have blueberries if m to bother you."

I smile at his understanding. "Thanks, but they don't anymore. I we njoys the store today, and I saw this lady and her daughter shopping together front of the blueberry section, and I was okay. And when I heard her journal laughing with her girl, I suddenly realized that Mom wouldn't hav f eggs! wanted me to wallow in guilt. She would've wanted me to be happy."

away the slight prickling in my eyes. "And I wouldn't have been able t ic as without your love and support, Nicholas. You've shown me it's okay t happy. As a matter of fact, I deserve to be."

He kisses me on the forehead. "You are the most amazing person I know."

't "And you're my miracle." I lean into him, reveling in the knowled he'll always lend me his strength. "I haven't had blueberries since I was Want to share some of this tart with me?"

I'll "Of course."

> He pulls out a plate and a couple of forks, and I put a large slice on beautiful porcelain.

tting n the op of

Then we sit at the counter, and I share the blueberry tart with the m miraculous love of my life, my heart full of certainty that our future is to be brighter than the stars.

\re you

Want more of the Lasker brothers? Start from the beginning: Baby for Bosshole.

The Lasker Brothers continues with Noah & Bobbi's story.

, I

o order Did you enjoy Finally Forever and want more? Join my VIP List at http://www.nadialee.net/vip for an exclusive epilogue. You'll also rece And other extras, sneak peeks, new book announcements, sales information more!

 $\ensuremath{^{r}}$ that, $\ensuremath{^{I}}\xspace$ Want to follow me and see what I'm up to next? Find me at:

like

, so I Website: nadialee.net

VIP Newsletter: nadialee.net/vip

they VIP Hangout (reader group): facebook.com/groups/nadialee

Facebook: facebook.com/nadialeewrites

ent to Instagram: instagram.com/nadialeewrites/

' in Tiktok: tiktok.com/@nadialeebooks oking

e

I blink

0 o be ge that is six.

"Of course."

He pulls out a plate and a couple of forks, and I put a large slice on the beautiful porcelain.

Then we sit at the counter, and I share the blueberry tart with the most miraculous love of my life, my heart full of certainty that our future is going to be brighter than the stars.

Want more of the Lasker brothers? Start from the beginning: Baby for the Bosshole.

The Lasker Brothers continues with Noah & Bobbi's story.

Did you enjoy Finally Forever and want more? Join my VIP List at http://www.nadialee.net/vip for an exclusive epilogue. You'll also receive other extras, sneak peeks, new book announcements, sales information and more!

Want to follow me and see what I'm up to next? Find me at:

Website: nadialee.net

VIP Newsletter: nadialee.net/vip

VIP Hangout (reader group): facebook.com/groups/nadialee

Facebook: facebook.com/nadialeewrites
Instagram: instagram.com/nadialeewrites/

Tiktok: tiktok.com/@nadialeebooks

Other Titles by Nadia Lee

Standalone Titles

Contractually Yours

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

The Ex I'd Love to Hate

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

My Grumpy Billionaire

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Baby for the Bosshole

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Beauty and the Assassin

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Oops I Married a Rock Star

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

The Billionaire and the Runaway Bride

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Flirting with the Rock Star Next Door US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Mister Fake Fiancé

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Marrying My Billionaire Hookup US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia Faking It with the Frenemy

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Marrying My Billionaire Boss

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Stealing the Bride

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

The Sins Trilogy

Book 1: Sins

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 2: Secrets

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 3: Mercy

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

The Billionaire's Claim Duet

Book 1: Obsession

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 2: Redemption

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Sweet Darlings Inc. Series

Book 1: That Man Next Door

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 2: That Sexy Stranger

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 3: That Wild Player

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Billionaires' Brides of Convenience Series

Book 1: A Hollywood Deal

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 2: A Hollywood Bride

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 3: An Improper Deal

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 4: An Improper Bride

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 5: An Improper Ever After

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 6: An Unlikely Deal

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 7: An Unlikely Bride

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 8: A Final Deal

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

The Pryce Family Series

Book 1: The Billionaire's Counterfeit Girlfriend

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 2: The Billionaire's Inconvenient Obsession

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 3: The Billionaire's Secret Wife

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 4: The Billionaire's Forgotten Fiancée

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 5: The Billionaire's Forbidden Desire

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 6: The Billionaire's Holiday Bride

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Seduced by the Billionaire Series

Book 1: The Billionaire's Revenge

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 2: The Billionaire's Pursuit

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 3: The Billionaire's Baby

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 3.5: The Millionaire's Crush

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 4: The Billionaire's Secret

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

Book 5: The Billionaire's Scandal

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

If you want to receive notices about my latest books, please join my List at www.nadialee.net/vip!

US :: UK :: Canada :: Australia

If you want to receive notices about my latest books, please join my VIP List at www.nadialee.net/vip!

About Nadia Lee

New York Times and USA Today bestselling author Nadia Lee writes semotional contemporary romance. Born with a love for excellent food, and adventure, she has lived in four different countries, kissed stingray bitten by a shark, ridden an elephant and petted tigers.

Currently, she shares a condo overlooking a small river and sakura in Japan with her husband and son. When she's not writing, she can be reading books by her favorite authors or planning another trip.

To learn more about Nadia and her projects, please visit www.nadialee.net. To receive news about Nadia's upcoming releases, and promotions, giveaways, exclusive epilogues, bonus scenes and mo her VIP List at www.nadialee.net/vip!!

About Nadia Lee

New York Times and USA Today bestselling author Nadia Lee writes sexy, emotional contemporary romance. Born with a love for excellent food, travel and adventure, she has lived in four different countries, kissed stingrays, been bitten by a shark, ridden an elephant and petted tigers.

Currently, she shares a condo overlooking a small river and sakura trees in Japan with her husband and son. When she's not writing, she can be found reading books by her favorite authors or planning another trip.

To learn more about Nadia and her projects, please visit www.nadialee.net. To receive news about Nadia's upcoming releases, sales and promotions, giveaways, exclusive epilogues, bonus scenes and more, join her VIP List at www.nadialee.net/vip!!

Finally Forever

Copyright © 2023 by Hyun J Kyung

Kindle Edition 20231002

This book is a work of fiction. The names, characters, places, and incic are products of the writer's imagination or have been used fictitiously not to be construed as real. Any resemblance to persons, living or dead actual events, locales or organizations is entirely coincidental.

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced, scanned, distributed in any manner whatsoever without the prior written permiss from the author except in the case of brief quotation embodied in critic articles and reviews.

www.nadialee.net

Finally Forever

Copyright © 2023 by Hyun J Kyung

Kindle Edition 20231002

This book is a work of fiction. The names, characters, places, and incidents are products of the writer's imagination or have been used fictitiously and are not to be construed as real. Any resemblance to persons, living or dead, actual events, locales or organizations is entirely coincidental.

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced, scanned, or distributed in any manner whatsoever without the prior written permission from the author except in the case of brief quotation embodied in critical articles and reviews.

www.nadialee.net